Section 6373-4. (Publication of notice of an application for registration.) Notice of all applications for registration as a licensed dealer in such securities shall be published in a daily newspaper of general circulation in the city where the applicant's principal place of business in the state is located, or in the city of Columbus, if the applicant has no such place of business in the state, and no such application shall be acted on by the "commissioner" until the expiration of one week from the date of such publication, but shall be acted upon within twenty days after proof of such application has been filed with him. If the "commissioner" be sat-

ified of the good repute in business of such applicant and named agents, he shall, upon the payment of an annual fee of fifty dollars, and an additional fee of five dollars for each agent named in the application, register the applicant as a licensed dealer in such securities, and issue to him a license, containing the name of the applicant and all such agents, renewable annually upon payment of such annual fee, unless revoked as herein provided. The expense of all publications provided for in this act shall be paid by the applicant for license. Pending a final disposition of such application the "commissioner" may grant temporary permission to such applicant to transact business as a dealer under this act. All such renewals shall be made as of the first day of January in each calendar year upon proper application therefor, filed not less than twenty nor more than sixty days next preceding such date. (104 v. 110; 103 v. 746, § 4.)

The fee for each agent is payable only when the license is issued, and not annually thereafter on renewals of the license. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1917, p. 1685.

Section 6373-5. (When license shall be taken out; fee. Revocation and amendment of license; fee.) Such license shall be taken out at the beginning of each calendar year, but it may be issued at any time for the remainder of such year, and in such case the annual fee shall be reduced four dollars for each expired month but in no case shall it be less than ten dollars. Upon the payment of a fee of five dollars for each specified agent not named in such license the same may at any time be amended or supplemented to include such agent. Upon the written request of such applicant, accompanied by a fee of two dollars, such license shall be revoked as to any agent or agents of such applicant, and an amended license shall thereupon be issued for such applicant and his remaining agents; and thereafter the applicant shall not be bound by the acts of the agent whose license has been revoked. Notice of such amendments shall also be published as aforesaid. (104 v. 110; 103 v. 746, § 5.)

Section 6373-6. (License may be revoked. Prosecution for criminality. Oath of witness.. Attachment for contempt.)

Such commission may at any time revoke any such license, or refuse to renew the same, upon ascertaining that the licensee:

- (a) Is of bad business repute;
- (b) Has violated any provisions of this act;
- (c) Has engaged, or is about to engage, under favor of such license, in illegitimate business or in fraudulent transactions; or

(d) Is insolvent;

No dealer whose license has been revoked shall be relicensed within six months from the date of such revocation.

The commissioner of securities shall at once lay before the prosecuting attorney of the proper county any evidence which shall come to his knowledge of criminality under this act. In the event of the neglect or refusal of such prosecuting attorney to institute and prosecute such violations, the commissioner of securities shall submit such evidence to the attorney general who is hereby authorized to proceed therein with all the rights, privileges and powers conferred by law upon prosecuting attorneys including the power to appear before grand juries and to interrogate witnesses before such grand juries.

The commissioner of securities for the purposes mentioned in this act shall have power to administer oaths, issue subpoenas, compel attendance of witnesses and the production of papers, books, accounts, documents and testimony. In case of the failure of any person to comply with any order of the commission or any subpoena lawfully issued, or upon the refusal of any witness to testify to any matter regarding which he may be lawfully interrogated, it shall be the duty of the common pleas judge of any county in this state on the application of the commissioner, to compel obedience by attachment proceedings for contempt, as in the case of disobedience of the requirements of a subpoena issued from such court or a refusal to testify therein. (110 v. 278; 109 v. 269; 104 v. 110; 103 v. 746, § 6.)

It is said that where facts warranting revocation of a license have been established, it is the duty of the commissioner to revoke it, and that he is not authorized to make an agreement with an offending dealer. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1915, p. 2074.

Section 6373-7. (Notice of revocation or refusal of license.) At least five days before revoking or refusing to grant or renew a license, the "commissioner" shall send by registered mail to the licensee or applicant, at the address named in the application, written notice of his intention so to do, specifying therein the reasons for such revocation or refusal. (107 v. 508; 104 v. 110; 103 v. 747, § 7.)

Section 6373-8. (Petition against commissioner in case of refusal or revocation; answer, judgment.) Any one whose license shall be refused or revoked, or to whom a renewal of license may be denied, may file, within thirty days thereafter, in the court of common pleas of Franklin county, a petition against the "commissioner", officially, as defendant, alleging therein, in brief detail, the plaintiff's qualifications to be licensed and praying for a reversal of the official action complained of. Upon service of summons upon said defendant, returnable within three days from its date, but otherwise made as in civil actions, he shall, within one week from such return day, file an answer, in which he shall allege by way of defense the ground previously assigned in his notice to such applicant or licensee, and such other grounds as shall, in the meantime, accrue or be discovered. All allegations of the answer shall be deemed to stand denied without further pleading and, upon application of either party, the cause shall be advanced and heard without delay. Merely technical irregularities in the procedure of such "commissioner" shall be disregarded and the burden shall rest upon the plaintiff to disprove the grounds assigned and specified in the official action complained of. The court's decision shall consult only the rights of the plaintiff and the protection of the public and the "commissioner" shall prosecute no proceedings to obtain a reversal, modification or vacation of a judgment rendered in favor of the plaintiff and in such event, shall forthwith issue the license applied for. A judgment sustaining the refusal of the "commissioner" to grant or renew a license shall not bar, after thirty days, a new application by plaintiff for a license, nor shall a judgment in favor of the plaintiff prevent such "commissioner" from thereafter revoking such license for any proper cause which may thereafter accrue or be discovered. (104 v. 110; 103 v. 746, § 8.)

Section 6373-9. (Information required to be filed before disposal of securities.) Before such licensee shall dispose of any of such securities, within this state, he shall file with such "commissioner," in such form as shall be determined by him, the following information concerning such securities: If issued by any company,

(a) The name, location of principal office of the issuer and the names of its officers and directors, or if a co-partnership, the partners;

(b) A statement of the issuer, showing, in general detail, the assets and liabilities, and capital stock of the issuer, as of a date as late as the close of its last fiscal year, and of its gross income, expenses and fixed charges, for one year last prior thereto, or for such time as the issuer has been in business, if less than one year;

(c) A pertinent description of such securities, and the purpose of said issue, and

(d) Unless the foregoing information be executed under the provisions of the following section, the approximate price at which the licensee purposes to dispose of such securities.

If the securities be of a taxing subdivision of any other state, territory, province or foreign government, and are not an obligation of the entire taxing subdivision and payable out of the proceeds of a general tax, there shall be filed the information required by paragraphs (c) and (d) of this section and, in addition thereto, a statement of the licensee, setting forth the nature of the obligation of such securities, how payment of the name is secured and that, to the best of his knowledge, there is no default in the payment of any part of the interest or principal of such securities and are no adjudications adversely affecting, or pending suits questioning the validity of the same. (104 v. 110; 103 v. 746, § 9.)

Section 6373-10. (Information need not be filed, when.)

The information required in the preceding section need not be filed:

(a) Unless required by the commissioner, if the same has been filed by any other licensee; or

(b) If actual current sales of the securities, at prices quoted, shall have been, from time to time, for not less than six months next preceding such disposal, published in the regular market reports of the news columns of a daily newspaper of general circulation in this state; or

(c) Where the securities disposed of are those of manufacturing or transportation companies, or of common carriers or other public utilities, issued and outstanding in the hands of bona fide purchasers for value, prior to March 1st, 1914, where such companies, were, on said date, and shall be, at the time of sale, actual going concerns, either directly or through lessees, and where there shall be at the time of sale, no default in payment of any part of the interest or principal of such securities; or

(d) Where the information required, other than the approximate selling price is contained in any standard manual of information, approved by such commissioner; or

(e) Where the disposal is made for a commission of less than one per centum of the par value thereof, by a licensee who is a member of a regularly organized and recognized

stock exchange and who has an established and lawfully conducted place of business in this state, regularly open for public patronage as such. (109 v. 269; 104 v. 115; 103 v. 747, § 10.)

Section 6373-11. (Filing of prospectus, circular and advertisement relating to sale.) Every dealer, before or at the time of circulating the same, shall furnish to the "commissioner" one copy of each prospectus, circular or other document of like nature and of each advertisement, circulated by him in connection with the sale of any securities concerning which information is required to be filed under the provisions of sections 6373-9 and 6373-10 of the General Code. (104 v. 115; 103 v. 747, § 11.)

Section 6373-12. (Contract of subscription or disposal; contents. Deposit of funds and securities.) No person or company shall, for the purpose of organizing or promoting any insurance company, or of assisting in the flotation of its stock after organization, dispose or offer to dispose, within this state, of any such stock, unless the contract of subscription or disposal shall be in writing, and contain a provision substantially in the following language:

"No sum shall be used for recommitment, promotion and organization expenses on account of any share of stock in this company in excess of per cent. of the amount actually paid upon separate subscriptions, or, in lieu thereof there may be inserted, '$..... per share from every fully paid subscription,' and the remainder of such payments shall be invested as authorized by the law governing such company and held by the organizers (or trustees as the case may be) and the directors and officers of such company after organization, as bailees for the subscriber, to be used only in the conduct of the business of such company after having been licensed and authorized therefor by proper authority."

The amount of such commission, promotion and organization expenses shall in no case exceed fifteen per cent. of the amount actually received upon the subscription.

Funds and securities held by such organizers, trustees, directors or officers, as bailees, shall be deposited with a bank or trust company of this state or invested as provided in sections ninety-five hundred and eighteen and ninety-five hundred and nineteen of the General Code until such company has been licensed as aforesaid. (104 v. 115; 103 v. 748, § 12.)

Incorporators of an insurance company other than life (see § 9513) may contract with agents to sell its stock on commission and, if the commissions and expenses do not exceed the statutory limit of 15 percent, the superintendent of insurance may issue a certificate. Rep. Atty. Gen. 1914, p. 147.

Section 6373-13. (Liability of one who counsels or advises the purchase without disclosing agency.) Whoever, with intent to secure financial gain to himself, advises and procures any person to purchase any security and receive for such advice or services any commission or reward from the owner or salesman thereof, without disclosing to the purchaser the fact of his agency or his interest in such sale shall be liable to such purchaser for the amount of his damage thereby, upon tender of such security to, and suit brought against, such adviser, within one year subsequent to such purchase. (104 v. 116; 103 v. 748, § 13.)

Section 6373-14. (Additional information and fee required of insured or underwriter before certificate issued. Securities to which section does not apply.) For the purpose of organizing or promoting any company, or assisting in the flotation of the securities of any company after organization, no issuer or underwriter of such securities and no person or company for or on behalf of such issuer or underwriter shall, within this state, dispose or attempt to dispose of any such security until such commissioner shall issue his certificate as provided in section 6373-16 of the General Code which shall not be done until, together with a filing fee of five dollars, there be filed with the commissioner the application of such issuer or underwriter for the certificate provided for in section 6373-16, General Code, and, in addition to the other information hereinbefore required by paragraphs (a), (b), (c) and (d) of section 6373-9 of the General Code, the following:

(a) A certified copy of the articles of incorporation or association of the issuer, its regulations and by-laws;

(b) Certified copies of all minutes of stockholders and directors relative to the issue of such securities;

(c) A sworn statement made by the president and secretary of the issuer, showing in detail the items of cash, property, services, patents, good will and any other consideration for which such securities have been or are to be issued in payment;

(d) Like certified copies of all contracts or agreements between the issuer and any underwriters of such securities, and, if disposed of by the issuer, all contracts and agreements relative to the sale and disposition thereof, and any such contracts or agreements made subsequent thereto shall be filed immediately upon the execution thereof;

(e) All contracts made between such underwriter and any salesman, agent or broker.

This section shall not apply where the issuance of the securities has been approved by the public service commission or like body of any state of the United States or any province of the Dominion of Canada, or where the sale is made by or on behalf of an underwriter who, in good faith and not for the purpose of avoiding the provisions of this act, purchases the securities so afterward sold by him and pays therefor, in cash or its equivalent, before attempting to sell the same, not less than ninety percentum of the price at which such securities are thereafter sold by him; nor where the securities are those of a common carrier or of a company organized under the laws of this state and engaged principally in the business of manufacturing, transportation, coal-mining or quarrying, and the whole or a part of the property upon which such securities are predicated is located within this state provided such company is an actual going concern, having been engaged in its principal business for a period of one year or more, and having no obligations which are past due and unpaid; nor of a real estate or building company all of whose property, upon which such securities are pre-predicated is located in this state; nor in the case of an issuer excepted under paragraph (f) of section 6373-2, General Code, nor in cases where the filing of information is dispensed with under the provisions of paragraphs (b), (c), (d), or (e) of section 6373-10, General Code.

The information required by paragraph (d) and (e) of this section shall be for the information of the commissioner only, and shall not be disclosed by him except when lawfully required in a judicial proceeding. (109 v. 270; 104 v. 116; 103 v. 750, § 14.)

The securities of a corporation engaged principally in manufacturing, etc., need not be certified under § 6373-16, but may be disposed of only through a licensed dealer. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1915, p. 2019.

A real estate or building company is not exempted under this section unless its securities are predicated upon property located in Ohio. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1918, p. 1009.

A municipal corporation or taxing district of another state is not a "company" under this section. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1920, p. 1157.

Section 6373-14a. (Contract by solicitor, dealer, agent, etc., before sale of securities.) In addition to the statements and information otherwise required to be filed with the commissioners prior to any sale of such securities by or through solicitors, dealers, agents or brokers, there shall be filed an irrevocable contract executed by each such solicitor, dealer, agent or broker authorized to offer or sell such securities by or in behalf of the issuer to the effect that the issuer will receive in cash not less than 85 percent of the proceeds of each sale of the securities without deduction for any additional commission, directly or indirectly, and without liability to pay any additional sum whatsoever as commission. (109 v. 271.)

Section 6373-15. (Licensed dealers only shall deal in real estate not located in Ohio. Transactions to which section does not apply.) No person or company, unless licensed in the manner and under the conditions applicable thereto hereinbefore provided for dealers, shall, within this state deal in real estate not located in Ohio of which he is not the actual and bona fide owner and unless the "commissioner" shall issue his certificate as provided in the following section, and prior to such issuance there shall, together with a filing fee of five dollars, be filed with the "commissioner" an application for such certificate, and a written statement of the applicant containing a pertinent description of the real estate the sale of all or a part of which is sought to be made, the nature and source of the title of the owner thereto, and the amount or value and the nature of the consideration paid or allowed by him therefor, it shall, within this state, be unlawful:

(a) For any corporation, association or co-partnership doing business under any name other than the name or names of such person or of all the members of such association or co-partnership to sell any real estate not located in Ohio;

(b) For any person or company engaged in the business of dealing in real estate to sell or offer for sale any such real estate, the title to which is or is represented to the purchaser to be in the name of a corporation or unincorporated company, or of a person doing business under a fictitious name.

This section shall apply where the title to such property is held in the name of a trustee for any corporation or for any such described person or company; but it shall not be deemed to prohibit the disposal by an owner of his own property, in good faith and not for the purpose of avoiding the provisions of this act, where the transaction is not one of repeated transactions of a similar nature, performed as a part of the business of dealing in real estate; nor shall it be deemed to prohibit a railroad company having an immigration bureau or department from advertising either directly or through its accredited representatives, the fact that there are along its route lands for colonization or sale; provided that such advertising be not of specific tracts of real estate, and not for the purpose of avoiding the provisions of this act. (104 v. 117; 103 v. 751, § 15.)

The blue sky law does not apply to an organization engaged in advertising the advantages and opportunities of other states or communities, but which does not sell, or offer to sell, real estate. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1915, p. 48.

A company proposing to engage in making contracts in Ohio to procure and validate title to United States Government lands located outside of Ohio must be licensed. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1919, p. 1322.

Section 6373-16. (Examination of issuer of securities. Deposit for expenses. Itemized statement by commissioner. When certificate shall be issued; fee; refusal to issue; revocation; review. Detailed financial statement to be filed by issuer; reports.) Said commissioner shall have power to make such examination of the issuer of the securities, or of the property named in the two next preceding sections, at any time, both before and after the issuance of the certificate hereinafter provided for, as he may deem advisable. When in the discretion of the commissioner all or any part of the expense of such examination should be paid by the applicant for such certificate, such applicant shall deposit with the commissioner such sum of money as the commissioner may order, out of which said sum the commissioner shall pay that portion of the expense of such examination as the commissioner determines said applicant should pay. The commissioner shall render to the applicant an itemized statement of the expenditure and a proper record thereof shall be kept. And if it shall appear that the law has been complied with and that the business of the applicant is not fraudulently conducted, and that the proposed disposal of such securities or other property is not on grossly unfair terms, and that the issuer or vendor is solvent, upon the payment of a fee of ten dollars, the commissioner shall issue his certificate to that effect, authorizing such disposal. But if it shall not affirmatively so appear he shall notify the applicant, in writing, and of his refusal to issue such certificate. Such certificate shall be issued or refused within a reasonable time after the filing of the application therefor, which shall be within not more than thirty days from and after the applicant or certificate holder whose certificate has been revoked has fully complied with all requirements of this act precedent thereto; provided, that the commissioner may at any time revoke any such certificate issued by him when he has reason to believe that the business of the holder thereof is being fraudulently conducted, or that such securities or other property are being disposed of upon grossly unfair terms, or, in the case of securities that the issuer thereof is insolvent. Such applicant shall have the same right of review of such finding as is given to a dealer by section 6373-8. The fee provided for in this section shall not be required of an applicant who is licensed as a dealer.

Each issuer to whom there has been issued a certificate of corporate compliance shall file with the commissioner of securities a detailed and complete financial statement in such form as the commissioner of securities may prescribe, dated as of June 30 of each year and such statement shall be filed with the commissioner not later than August 1 of each year. Each issuer shall further furnish to the commissioner of securities a complete and detailed report as he may from time to time demand. (110 v. 278; 106 v. 363; 104 v. 118; 103 v. 751, § 16.)

Before a certificate can be issued, it must affirmatively appear that the disposal is not on grossly unfair terms and that the issuer is solvent. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1915, p. 1942.

Section 6373-16a. (Penalty.) Whoever knowingly makes any false statement or submits information required by this act to be filed with the commissioner of securities or in any advertisement, prospectus, letters, circulars or other documents containing any offer to dispose of, or solicitation to purchase, or commendatory matter concerning said securities or real estate with any intent to aid in the disposal of the same, or for the purpose of aiding in the disposal of any securities or real estate knowingly makes any false statement or representation concerning any license or certificate issued under the provisions hereof, or whoever violates any conditions upon which any such securities as herein provided for in this act are authorized to be offered or sold as set forth in the order of the commissioner of securities when issuing his certificate, or whoever knowingly violates any of the provisions of this act, shall be fined not less than one hundred dollars nor more than five thousand dollars, or imprisoned in the penitentiary for not more than one year, or both. (110 v. 279, § 2.)

Section 6373-17. (Certificate must state that commissioner in no wise recommends securities.) Such certificate shall recite in bold type that the commissioner in no wise recommends such securities or other properties and no person or company shall advertise in connection with the sale of such securities the fact that such certificate has been issued. No issuer, dealer, broker, agent or other person shall, with intent to induce, aid or assist in the sale thereof, in any verbal, written, or printed form, make or publish any representation, statement or advertisement that any securities of any company are or have been in any manner approved or endorsed by the commissioner. (109 v. 271; 103 v. 752, § 17.)

Prior to the amendment of 109 v. 271 it was said that an advertisement that a company is "operating under Ohio's rigid blue sky law" or, that "the sale of this stock is regulated by * * * the blue sky law", did not violate this section, where it was not stated therein that a certificate had been issued. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1915, p. 1898.

Section 6373-18. (Liability of seller to purchaser. Limitation of action.) In addition to the liability now imposed by law, any person or company that, by written or printed circular, prospectus, statement or advertisement of any kind, shall offer for subscription or purchase any security, or receive the profits accruing from the disposal of securities so advertised, shall be liable to any person who, on the faith of such advertisement or document, acquires such security, for the loss or damage sustained by him by reason of any untrue statement contained therein, unless such person or company shall establish that he or it had no knowledge or notice of the publication of such advertisement prior to the transaction complained of, or had just and reasonable grounds to believe the statements thereof to be true. Wherever any corporation shall be so liable, the directors thereof shall also be, under like limitations, jointly and severally liable. Any such director, upon the payment of a judgment so obtained against him, shall be subrogated to the rights of the plaintiff against such corporation and shall have the right of contribution for the payment of such judgment, under like limitations, against any of his fellow directors. Lack of reasonable diligence to ascertain the fact of such publication the falsity of any statement therein contained, shall be deemed to be knowledge of such publication and of the falsity of any untrue statement thereof. Any action brought against such director, based upon the liability hereby imposed, shall be brought within two years after the acquisition of the security by any person so damaged or after payment of the judgment for which contribution is sought. (May 6, 1913, 103 v. 752, § 18.)

Section 6373-19. (Duties of superintendent of insurance.)

If the issuer of such securities be a company incorporated, organized or formed to make any insurance named in subdivisions I and II, division III, title IX of the General Code, the "commissioner," for all the purposes named in sections 14 and 16 of this act [G. C. §§ 6373-14, 6373-16], shall be the superintendent of insurance of this state. In addition to the powers given to, and the duties prescribed to be performed by, such "commissioner," under said sections, the superintendent of insurance shall have, over any such company disposing or attempting to dispose of any of its securities within this state, the powers of regulation, supervision and examination conferred on him by law, with reference to companies licensed to transact the business of insurance within this state. (May 6, 1913, 103 v. 752, § 19.)

The superintendent of insurance is the "commissioner" to whom application should be made for authority to sell and distribute trust certificates to be issued by a trust formed to acquire control of, and consolidate, several insurance companies. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1915, p. 171.

Section 6373-20. (Penalty for violations.)

Whoever knowingly makes any false statement of fact in any statement or matter of information required by this act to be filed with the "commissioner," or in any advertisement, prospectus, letter, circular or other document, containing an offer to dispose or solicitation to purchase, or commendatory matter concerning, such securities or real estate, with intent to aid in the disposal of the same, or whoever knowingly violates any of the provisions of sections 12, 14 or 15 of this act [G. C. §§ 6373-12, 6373-14, 6373-15], or for the purpose or aiding in the disposal of any security or real estate, knowingly makes any false statement or representation concerning any license or certificate issued under the provisions hereof, shall be fined not less than one hundred dollars nor more than five thousand dollars, or imprisoned in the penitentiary not more than one year or both; and whoever violates any of the other provisions of this act shall be fined not less than fifty dollars nor more than one thousand dollars, or imprisoned in the county jail or workhouse not more than sixty days, or both. (May 6, 1913, 103 v. 753, § 20.)

The venue of the offense of making a false statement, under this section, is in Franklin county. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1918, p. 699.

Section 6373-20a. (Penalty for illegal sale or disposition of securities.) Whoever, with intent to sell, or in any wise dispose of stocks, bonds, or securities, directly or indirectly, to the public for sale or distribution, or with the intent to increase the sales thereof, or to induce the public in any manner to enter into any obligation relating thereto, or to acquire title thereto, or an interest therein, causes, directly or indirectly to be made, published, disseminated, circulated or placed before the public, in this state, in a newspaper or other publication, or in the form of a book, notice, handbill, poster, bill, circular, pamphlet, or letter, or in any other way, an advertisement of any sort, of any stocks, bonds or securities, the issuance of which has not been authorized by the commissioner of securities or the issuance of which is not exempt by law from such authorization, shall be fined not less than fifty dollars, nor more than five thousand dollars, or imprisoned in the county jail not less than ten days or in the penitentiary nor more than two years, or both. Nothing in this section however, shall apply to the owners or publishers of newspapers who publish said advertising in good faith. (109 v. 271.)

Section 6373-20b. (Aiding in sale or disposal, unlawful; penalty.) Whoever with intent to aid in the disposal of any stocks, bonds or securities knowingly makes any verbal, written or printed statement or representation not authorized by the issuer, or any verbal, written or printed statement or representation at variance with or not reasonably predicated upon the statements and documents filed by the issuer in the office of the commissioner shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof, shall be fined not to exceed one thousand dollars or imprisoned in the county jail or workhouse not more than one year, or both. (109 v. 272.)

Section 6373-20c. (Sale when issuer known to be insolvent, unlawful; penalty.) Whoever, being an officer, director, trustee, solicitor, agent, dealer or broker of or for any issuer, knowing such issuer to be insolvent, shall make any sale of any securities of and for any such issuer, without disclosing the fact of such insolvency to the purchaser, shall be deemed guilty of embezzlement and upon conviction thereof shall be fined in a sum of not less than one thousand dollars ($1,000.00) nor more than ten thousand dollars ($10,000.00) or may be imprisoned in the penitentiary for not less than one year nor more than five years, or both. For the purpose of this section, an issuer shall be deemed insolvent whenever the aggregate of its property shall not, at a fair valuation, be sufficient in amount to pay its debts. (109 v. 272.)

Section 6373-21. (When accused presumed to have knowledge.) In any prosecution brought under this act, the accused shall be deemed to have had knowledge of any matter of fact where, in the exercise of reasonable diligence, he should, prior to the commission of the offense complained of, have secured such knowledge. Information and indictments under this act need not negative any of the exceptions enumerated in sections two, ten and fourteen hereof. [G. C. §§ 6373-2, 6373-10, 6373-14.] (May 6, 1913, 103 v. 753, § 21.)

Section 6373-22. (Act does not limit other liability imposed.) Nothing herein contained shall limit or diminish the liability of any person or company now imposed by law, or prevent the prosecution of any person or company violating any of the provisions of this act, for the violation of any other statute or of any other provision hereof. (May 6, 1913, 103 v. 753, § 22.)

Section 6373-23. (Contract obligations unimpaired.) Nothing herein contained shall be so construed as to impair the obligation of prior contracts. (May 6, 1913, 103 v. 753, § 23.)

See Rep. Atty. Gen. 1914, p. 759; Rep. Atty. Gen. 1913, p. 852.

PART XIV.

TRUSTS.

§ 6390.	Definition of terms.	§ 6399.	Evidence.
§ 6391.	Definition of trusts.	§ 6400.	Duty of attorney-general and prosecuting attorney.
§ 6392.	Owning trust certificate or entering into a combination prohibited.	§ 6400-1.	Parties defendant. Statute of limitations no bar to suits.
§ 6393.	Illegal contract.	§ 6401.	Witness not excused from testifying.
§ 6394.	Prohibition against foreign corporations.	§ 6402.	Cumulative provisions.
§ 6395.	Civil penalty.	§ 6402-1.	Penalty when violation relates to milk, cream or butter fat.
§ 6396.	Criminal penalty.
§ 6397.	Liability for damages.
§ 6398.	What indictment shall contain.

Section 6390. (Definition of terms.) The word "person" or "persons" as used in this chapter includes corporations, partnerships and associations existing under or authorized by any state or territory of the United States, or a foreign country. (April 19, 1898, 93 v. 146, § 12; R. S. Sec. 4427-12.)

Section 6391. (Definition of trusts.) A trust is a combination of capital, skill or acts by two or more persons, firms, partnerships, corporations or associations of persons, for any or all of the following purposes:

1. To create or carry out restrictions in trade or commerce.
2. To limit or reduce the production or increase, or reduce the price of merchandise or a commodity.
3. To prevent competition in manufacturing, making, transportation, sale or purchase of merchandise, produce or a commodity.
4. To fix at a standard or figure, whereby its price to the public or consumer is in any manner controlled or established, an article or commodity of merchandise, produce or commerce intended for sale, barter, use or consumption in this state.
5. To make, enter into, execute or carry out contracts, obligations or agreements of any kind or description, by which they bind or have bound themselves not to sell, dispose of or transport an article or commodity, or an article of trade, use, merchandise, commerce or consumption below a common standard figure or fixed value, or by which they agree in any manner to keep the price of such article, commodity or transportation at a fixed or graduated figure, or by which they shall in any manner establish or settle the price of an article, commodity or transportation between them or themselves and others, so as directly or indirectly to preclude a free and unrestricted competition among themselves, purchasers or consumers in the sale or transportation of such article or commodity, or by which they agree to pool, combine or directly or indirectly unite any interests which they have connected with the sale or transportation of such article or commodity, that its price might in any manner be affected. Such trust as is defined herein is unlawful, against public policy and void. (April 19, 1898, 93 v. 143, § 1; R. S. Sec. 4427-1.)

The original act included in §§ 6390 to 6402, popularly known as the Valentine Anti-trust Act, was adopted from the Texas Anti-trust Law.

State v. Bovee, 6 N. P. n. s. 337, 343; 17 L. D. 663.

Constitutionality. Original act (93 v. 143) held constitutional.

State v. Buckeye, etc., Co., 61 O. S. 520 (1899).

State v. Gage, 72 O. S. 210 (1905); reversing 1 C. C. n. s. 221; 14 C. D. 724.

Lemmon v. State, 77 O. S. 427, 432 (1908).

State v. Jacobs, 7 N. P. 261; 17 L. D. 515.

Salt Co. v. Salt Co., 12 L. D. 386.

Quo warranto was held to be a proper method of testing the constitutionality of the act.

State v. Pipe Line Co., 61 O. S. 520 (1899).

The policies of the state of Ohio, as declared by the Valentine Act, are much the same as the policies of the United States as declared by the Sherman Act. Telephone Co. v. Telephone Co., 202 Fed. 66, 70 (C. C. A. 1913).

Corporation, its officers and stockholders as a combination. A corporation and its own officers, stockholders and agents, without the participation of others, may be guilty of forming a trust and conspiracy in violation of this act, and all, including the corporation, may be counted in making up the two or more necessary parties.

State v. National Cash Register Co., 13 C. C. n. s. 73; 21 C. D. 637 (1910).

The combination does not lose its identity by the dissolution of the corporation and the formation of a new corporation by the same parties to continue the unlawful purpose.

State v. National, etc., Co., 13 C. C. n. s. 73; 21 C. D. 637 (1910).

"Trade and commerce." Combinations of insurance agents. A combination of insurance agents is not a violation of the anti-trust act.

State v. Boyee, 6 N. P. n. s. 337; 17 L. D. 663 (C. P. 1907).

Runk v. Cloud, 8 N. P. 436; 11 L. D. 444 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1901).

Foster v. Ankenbauer, 14 N. P. n. s. 637; 24 L. D. 70 (1913).

Contra, State v. Ross, 4 N. P. n. s. 377; 16 L. D. 704 (C. P. 1906).

See G. C. § 9563.

Combinations fixing prices, pooling interests, etc. An indictment charging that defendants were members of a combination formed to carry out restraint in trade and commerce, increasing the price and preventing competition in the sale of lumber, and knowingly acted in pursuance of such combination, binding themselves not to sell lumber for use in a certain locality below a common standard in prices, and agreeing to pool, combine and unite their interests in such lumber trade states a violation of this section and not of § 6392.

Arnsman v. State, 11 C. C. n. s. 113; 20 C. D. 445 (1908).

An organization of manufacturers which raises a fund with which it "leases down" competing factories, and allots the trade of such factories among its members, controls the output and prices of its members and binds them not to sell to specified customers except by consent of its members, is an unlawful combination.

Fisher v. Flickinger Wheel Co., 7 C. C. n. s. 533; 18 C. D. 501 (1906).

A contract between two mercantile houses engaged in the same line of business, by which each acquires an interest in the gross profits made by the other is not on its face illegal, as tending to create a monopoly and void as against public policy either under this act or at common law.

Fechteter v. Palm Bros. & Co., 133 Fed. 462; 14 O. F. D. 369 (C. C. A. 1904).

An association organized for the purpose of increasing the price and decreasing the production of a commodity in general use, such as candles, is contrary to public policy.

Emery v. Ohio Candle Co., 47 O. S. 320 (1890).

Labor union, the by-laws of which prohibited members from working at non-union shops, limiting amount of work to be performed in a certain time, etc., held an illegal association.

Kealey v. Faulkner, 7 N. P. n. s. 49; 18 L. D. 498 (C. P. 1907).

An agreement between two corporations publishing evening newspapers whereby, for a sum of money, one agrees to publish a morning newspaper only, is not in restraint of trade. Age Pbg. Co. v. Times Co., 4 Ohio App. 13; 21 C. C. n. s. 24; 25 C. D. 421 (1914).

Combination of employers and labor unions, to prevent the public from dealing with an employer who is a non-member of an association, by circulating statement that the non-member employer is unfair to union labor, held a violation of the Valentine Act. Gildehaus Co. v. Busse, 19 N. P. n. s. 263; 27 L. D. 13, 111 (1916).

Association of milk producers, requiring dealer to accept all milk offered at any time by a member of the association, and to refuse to buy from non-members, is illegal. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1918, p. 1672.

Contract of sale fixing resale prices. A contract of sale wherein the seller attempts to fix the price to be charged by the purchaser on resales of the goods is a violation of the Ohio anti-trust act. This is true even in the case of patented articles. McCall Co. v. O'Neil, 17 N. P. n. s. 17 (1914). See also Boston Store v. Graphophone Co., 246 U. S. 8 (1918); Dr. Miles Co. v. Park, 220 U. S. 373 (1911).

But under an agency contract, as where goods are consigned to a factor for sale, the principal may fix the sale price. Orebaugh v. New, 6 Ohio App. 404; 28 O. C. A. 161; 28 C. D. 32 (1917).

Agreements to maintain prices, etc.

See Graf v. Masters, etc., Assn., 1 N. P. n. s. 423; 11 L. D. 18 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1904).

Needles v. Bishop, etc., Co., 2 N. P. n. s. 77; 14 L. D. 445 (C. P. 1904).

State v. Standard Oil Co., 51 Bull 563 (Probate Ct. 1906).

Agreement to furnish employment if competitor discontinues business. An agreement to furnish employment to a competitor, if such competitor will discontinue business is not a violation of this act.

Kevil v. Standard Oil Co., 8 N. P. 311; 11 L. D. 114 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1901).

Monopoly at common law. Stock control of competing line, by railway.

State v. Railway Co., 12 C. C. n. s. 49; 21 C. D. 175 (1909); s. c., 12 C. C. n. s. 145.

Gould v. Railway, 10 N. P. n. s. 313 (1910).

Manufacturer fixing prices of resale by wholesale and retail dealers.

Freeman v. Miller, 9 N. P. n. s. 26 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1909).

An agreement between two telephone companies providing that neither will operate in the territory of the other, or connect with competitors of the other, was held to be against public policy. Telephone Co. v. Telephone Co., 12 N. P. n. s. 289 (1911). See § 614-52.

Cold storage of foods. The cold-storage act and the Valentine anti-trust law are distinct in purpose, employ different remedies and provide different penalties. They should not be so construed in pari materia as to employ the remedies of one for the prosecution of the other. The storage of food products by a cold storage company for six months does not ipso facto violate the Valentine law, without other proof of some combination or acts or unlawful agreement entered into by two or more. Packing Co. v. State, 106 O. S. 469 (1922); overruling, Packing Co. v. State, 100 O. S. 285. See Ohio v. Swift & Co., 270 Fed. 141.

Section 6392. (Owning trust certificate or entering into a combination prohibited.) It shall not be lawful for a person, partnership, association or corporation, or an agent thereof, to issue or own trust certificates, or for a person, partnership, association or corporation, or an agent, officer or employe thereof, or a director or stockholder of a corporation, to enter into a combination, contract or agreement with any person or persons, corporation or corporations, or a stockholder or director thereof, the purpose and effect of which is to place the management or control of such combination or combinations, or the manufactured product thereof, in the hands of a trustee or trustees with the intent to limit or fix the price or lessen the production and sale of an article of commerce, use or consumption, or to prevent, restrict or diminish the manufacture or output of such article. (April 19, 1898, 93 v. 145, § 10; R. S. Sec. 4427-10.)

Section construed.

Arnsman v. State, 11 C. C. n. s. 113, 118; 20 C. D. 445 (1908).

Control of several corporations by trustees, issuing trust certificates to stockholders.

See State v. Standard Oil Co., 49 O. S. 137 (1892).

Section 6393. (Illegal contract.) A contract or agreement in violation of any provision of this chapter is void and not enforceable either in law or equity. (April 19, 1898, 93 v. 145, § 8; R. S. Sec. 4427-8.)

A covenant in a lease of saloon property by a brewing company, lessor, prohibiting the sale on the premises of beer other than that of the manufacture of the lessor is not invalid under this section.

Diehl Brewing Co. v. Konst, 12 C. C. n. s. 577; 20 C. D. 782 (1905); aff'd, no rep., 79 O. S. 469.

Brewing Co. v. Demko, 9 C. C. n. s. 130; 19 C. D. 102 (1907).

Brewing Co. v. Kraval, 16 C. C. n. s. 292 (1908); aff'd, no rep., 82 O. S. 395.

Where a combination purchased all the machinery of one of its constituent members, stipulating that the vendor corporation should not compete with its members, and providing employment for the president of the vendor company; and it appeared that the machinery was purchased without a plan for its use and location and remained unused for eight months, the agreement was held to be void. Where possession was not taken of the machinery the contract was not an executed contract although the full purchase price was paid.

Fisher v. Flickinger Wheel Co., 7 C. C. n. s. 533; 18 C. D. 501 (1906).

See Standard Distilling Co. v. Block, 5 N. P. n. s. 386; 17 L. D. 601; reversed, without report, 78 O. S. 448.

A contract monopolistic in its character is illegal at common law.

Crawford v. Wick, 18 O. S. 190 (1868).

Central, etc., Co. v. Guthrie, 35 O. S. 666 (1880).

Emery v. Ohio Candle Co., 47 O. S. 320 (1890).

A contract between a long distance telephone company and a number of local telephone companies, binding the local companies not to permit a connection between their lines and the lines of any other long distance company was held illegal. Telephone Co. v. Telephone Co., 202 Fed. 66 (C. C. A. 1913). Contra. Telephone Co. v. Telephone Co., 13 C. C. n. s. 337, 22 C. D. 18; aff'd, no rep. by divided court, 86 O. S. 319; s. c., 7 N. P. n. s. 425.

Action by member of a combination to recover price of goods sold.

In an action to recover the purchase price of goods sold it is no defense that the plaintiff is a member of an unlawful trust or combination.

Corn, etc., Co. v. Roser, etc., Co., 10 N. P. n. s. 596; 22 L. D. 663 (1910).

Wilder Mfg. Co. v. Corn Products Co., 236 U. S. 165 (1915).

See Kinner v. Ry. Co., 69 O. S. 339, 344 (1903).

Agreement by vendor of business not to re-engage in business.

An agreement by which one sells his business, agreeing not to enter into a similar business, within certain time and territorial limits, is valid if the prohibited territory is not more extensive than necessary to enable the vendee to enjoy the fruits of the contract.

Kevil v. Standard Oil Co., 8 N. P. 311; 11 L. D. 114 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1901).

But an agreement by the seller that he will not directly or indirectly engage in the same business in the state or United States for a period of twenty-five years necessarily tends to create a monopoly and is void.

Luffkin Rule Co. v. Fringeli, 57 O. S. 596 (1898).

Such agreements are valid only when the restraint of trade is partial and reasonable and not oppressive.

Grasselli v. Lowden, 11 O. S. 349 (1860).

Lange v. Werk, 2 O. S. 528.

Carr v. Walker Brewing Co., 3 O. L. R. 618; 17 L. D. 222 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1906).

Pappas v. Zonars, 14 N. P. n. s. 199; 23 L. D. 173 (1912).

A seller who agreed "not to start in the express and moving business for a term of five years within two miles" was held not to violate his agreement by driving a van as employe. Schroeder v. Schultz, 16 C. C. n. s. 303 (1908).

Rescission of contract to form combination. Non-consenting stockholders of a corporation, which has entered a prohibited combination, are not in pari delicto, and may, after demand upon the corporate officers and their refusal to take steps to rescind, bring suit for a rescission. Nat'l. Salt Co. v. United Salt Co., 12 L. D. 386 (C. P. 1902).

Where the illegal acts are wholly unexecuted, a party to the contract may abandon the contract and recover back the money paid. Nat'l Salt Co. v. United Salt Co., 12 L. D. 386 (C. P. 1902).

Section 6394. (Foreign corporations must comply with anti-trust acts. Revocation of certificate.) A foreign corporation or foreign association exercising any of the powers, franchises or functions of a corporation in this state, violating any provision of this chapter shall not have the right, of and shall be prohibited from, doing any business in this state. The attorney general shall enforce this provision by proceedings in quo warranto in the supreme court, or the court of appeals of the county in which the defendant resides or does business, or by injunction or otherwise. The secretary of state shall revoke the certificate of such corporation or association theretofore authorized by him to do business in this state. (May 6, 1913, 103 v. 424; May 18, 1910, 101 v. 274; R. S. Sec. 4427-3; April 19, 1898, 93 v. 144, § 3.)

Section 6395. (Violation, penalty.) A person, firm, partnership, corporation or association violating any provision of this chapter shall forfeit and pay to the state, for the use of the general revenue fund thereof, the sum of fifty dollars for each day that such violation is committed or continued after due notice given by the attorney-general or a prosecuting attorney. Such sum may be recovered in the name of the state in any county where the offense is committed or where any of the offenders reside; and the attorney-general, or the prosecuting attorney of any county upon the order of the attorney-general, shall prosecute for the recovery thereof. When such action is prosecuted by the attorney-general he may begin the same in the court of common pleas of Franklin county or of any county in which the defendant resides or does business. (May 18, 1910, 101 v. 275; R. S. Sec. 4427-7; April 19, 1898, 93 v. 145, § 7.)

The probate court has concurrent jurisdiction with the court of common pleas of offenses under this section, which are misdemeanors under G. C. § 12372.

State v. Standard Oil Co., 51 Bull 563 (Prob. Ct. 1906).

Prosecutions may be brought by information as well as by indictment.

State v. Standard Oil Co., 51 Bull 563 (Prob. Ct. 1906).

One party to an unlawful combination is liable for the acts of other parties done under the agreement.

State v. Standard Oil Co., 51 Bull 563 (Prob. Ct. 1906).

Two or more corporations charged with conspiracy are properly joined in one information.

State v. Standard Oil Co., 51 Bull 563.

Section 6396. (Criminal penalty. Penalty when violation relates to bread, meat, vegetables, etc.) A violation of any or all of the provisions of this chapter is a conspiracy against trade, and a person engaged in such conspiracy or taking part therein, or aiding or advising in its commission, or, as principal, manager, director, agent, servant or employer, or in any other capacity, knowingly carrying out any of the stipulations, purposes, prices or rates, or furnishing any information to assist in carrying out such purposes, or orders thereunder, or in pursuance thereof, or in any manner violating a provision of this chapter, shall be fined not less than fifty dollars nor more than five thousand dollars or imprisoned not less than six months nor more than one year, or both. Provided, however, that when the violation of the provisions of this chapter consists of a combination to control the price or supply, or to prevent competition in the sale of bread, butter, eggs, flour, meat or vegetables or any one of said articles, the person or persons thus engaged shall upon conviction thereof be fined in any sum not less than five hundred dollars and be imprisoned in the penitentiary not less than one nor more than five years. Each day's violation of any of the provisions of this chapter shall constitute a separate offense. (April 27, 1913, 103 v. 254; R. S. Secs. 4427-4, 4427-10; April 19, 1898, 93 v. 144, 145, §§ 4, 10.)

Venue of criminal prosecution. The illegal combination must have been entered into in the county where the prosecution is brought, or some act must have been committed in such county in furtherance of the unlawful purpose.

Hughes v. State, 9 C. C. n. s. 369; 19 C. D. 237 (1907); aff'd 77 O. S. 640.

Compare, State v. Ice Delivery Co., 5 N. P. n. s. 89; 17 L. D. 515 (C. P. 1907).

State v. King Bridge Co., 7 C. C. n. s. 557; 18 C. D. 147 (1906).

Indictment. An indictment charging the defendants with being an unlawful combination from March 10, 1900, and continuing until March 9, 1903, and further charging violations during such period, is valid, although each day's violation constitutes a separate offense.

Hughes v. State, 9 C. C. n. s. 369; 19 C. D. 237 (1907); aff'd, no rep., 77 O. S. 640.

Arnsman v. State, 11 C. C. n. s. 113; 20 C. D. 445 (1908).

The exact date on which the combination was formed need not be alleged.
State v. Crystal Ice, etc., Co., 5 N. P. n. s. 149; 17 L. D. 640 (1906).

Imprisonment. Proper place of. See Lemmon v. State, 77 O. S. 427 (1908).

State v. Wirick, 81 O. S. 343 (1910).

In re Schooler, 7 N. P. n. s. 276; 19 L. D. 465 (C. P. 1908).

Improper sentence; remanding case for resentence.

Arnsmann v. State, 11 C. C. n. s. 113; 20 C. D. 445 (1908).

Corporations are subject to criminal penalties of this act.

State v. Ice Delivery Co., 6 N. P. n. s. 89; 17 L. D. 515 (C. P. 1910).

Construction of original section 4; "knowingly."

State v. Ice Delivery Co., 5 N. P. n. s. 89; 17 L. D. 515 (C. P. 1907).

Constitutionality. The imprisonment or penalty clause of this section is not in contravention of the constitutional requirement that all laws of a general nature shall have a uniform operation throughout the state.

State v. Hygeia Ice Co., 4 N. P. n. s. 361; 16 L. D. 735 (C. P. 1906); affirmed, except as to prison sentence; 77 O. S. 427.

Section 6397. (Liability for damages.) In addition to the civil and criminal penalties provided in this chapter, the person injured in his business or property by another person, or by a corporation, association or partnership, by reason of anything forbidden or declared to be unlawful in this chapter, may sue therefor in any court having jurisdiction thereof in the county where the defendant or his agent resides or is found, or where service may be obtained, without respect to the amount in controversy, and recover twofold the damages sustained by him and his costs of suit. When it appears to the court, before which a proceeding under this chapter is pending, that the ends of justice require other parties to be brought before such court, the court may cause them to be made parties defendant and summoned whether they reside in the county where such action is pending, or not. (April 19, 1898, 93 v. 146, § 11; R. S. Sec. 4427-11.)

Counterclaim in action for the price of goods sold by member of unlawful combination. Where the price of goods has been advanced as the result of an unlawful combination, and a member of the combination brings suit to recover payment for goods sold, the purchaser may set up, by way of counterclaim or set off, the damages allowed by § 6397. Guyton v. Eastern Co., 91 O. S. 106 (1914).

Pleading. A petition in a civil action may allege the wrongful acts in the language authorized by § 6398.

Goode v. Ohio, etc., Assn., 3 O. L. R. 600; 16 L. D. 586 (C. P. 1906).

Cross-examination of plaintiff by deposition. In an action to enjoin an illegal combination and for damages, the plaintiff, whose deposition is being taken before a notary, can not refuse to disclose the names of dealers from whom he procured goods after the combination had refused to sell to him, on the ground that it is a trade secret; but he may refuse on the ground that the question is irrelevant in such an examination.

Jones v. Goode, 7 C. C. n. s. 589; 18 C. D. 475 (1906); affirming 3 O. L. R. 401; 16 L. D. 404; affirmed, no report, 78 O. S. 421.

Removal to federal court. The action under this section is a civil action and may be removed to federal court.

Mahon v. Somers, 112 Fed. 174; 12 O. F. D. 433 (1901).

Section 6398. (What indictment shall contain.) In an indictment for an offense provided for in this chapter, it is sufficient to state the purpose or effects of the trust or combination, and that the accused is a member thereof, or acted with or in pursuance of it or aided or assisted in carrying out its purposes, without giving its name or description, or how, when and where it was created. (April 19, 1898, 93 v. 144, § 5; R. S. Sec. 4427-5.)

See notes §§ 6395 and 6396.

Arnsman v. State, 11 C. C. n. s. 113; 20 C. D. 445 (1908).

Hughes v. State, 9 C. C. n. s. 369; 19 C. D. 237 (1907); aff'd, no rep., 77 O. S. 640.

No overt act need be alleged. Mere membership in an unlawful combination constitutes an offense.

State v. Ice Delivery Co., 5 N. P. n. s. 89; 17 L. D. 515 (1907).

State v. Crystal Ice, etc., Co., 5 N. P. n. s. 149; 17 L. D. 640 (1906).

Section 6399. (Evidence.) In prosecutions under this chapter, it shall be sufficient to prove that a trust or combination as defined herein, exists, and that the defendant belonged to it, or acted for or in connection with it, without proving all the members belonging to it, or proving or producing an article of agreement, or a written instrument on which it may have been based; or that it was evidenced by a written instrument. The character of the trust or combination alleged may be established by proof of its general reputation as such. (April 19, 1898, 93 v. 145, § 6; R. S. Sec. 4427-6.)

Proof by general reputation unconstitutional. The last clause of this section providing that the character of a trust may be proved by general reputation is unconstitutional.

Hammond v. State, 78 O. S. 15 (1908).

Hughes v. State, 9 C. C. n. s. 369; 19 C. D. 237 (1907); aff'd, 77 O. S. 640.

Other evidence. Conversations, statements and conduct of alleged conspirators, not a part of the transactions charged in the indictment, but offered to establish the existence of the unlawful combination, are not admissible against a defendant not present nor concurring therein.

Hughes v. State, 9 C. C. n. s. 369; 19 C. D. 237 (1907); aff'd, 77 O. S. 640.

Evidence of prior acts can be considered only when it tends to show that a defendant is a member of the unlawful combination.
State v. Standard Oil Co., 51 Bull. 563 (Prob. Ct. 1906).

Charge to the jury. See Hughes v. State, 9 C. C. n. s. 369; 19 C. D. 237 (1907); 77 O. S. 640.

Section 6400. (Jurisdiction of courts. Quo warranto; injunction. Domestic corporations. Dissolution by court.)
The several courts of common pleas in the state are hereby invested with jurisdiction to restrain and enjoin violators of this chapter. For a violation of any provision of this chapter by a corporation or association mentioned herein, the attorney general, or the prosecuting attorney of the proper county, shall institute proper proceedings in a court of competent jurisdiction in any county in the state where such corporation or association exists, does business or has a domicile. When such suit is instituted by the attorney general in quo warranto, he may begin the same in the supreme court of the state, or the court of appeals of Franklin county. When such suit is instituted by the attorney general to restrain and enjoin a violation of any provision of this chapter, he may begin the same in the court of common pleas of Franklin county. Such proceedings to restrain and enjoin such violation, or violations, shall be by way of petition setting forth the case, and praying that such violation shall be enjoined or otherwise prohibited.

Upon the filing of such petition, and before final decree, the court may at any time make such temporary restraining order or prohibition as shall be deemed just in the premises. In any action or proceeding in quo warranto by the attorney general or a prosecuting attorney against a corporation the court in which such action or proceeding is pending may, ancillary to such action or proceeding, restrain or enjoin the corporation and its officers and agents from continuing or committing during the pendency of the action the alleged act or acts by reason of which the action is brought. When, in a proceeding quo warranto by the attorney general or any prosecuting attorney, any corporation incorporated under the laws of this state is, on final hearing, found guilty of violating any of the provisions of this act, the court may declare a forfeiture of all its rights, privileges and franchises to the state and may order the incorporation dissolved and appoint a trustee or trustees to wind up its affairs, as is provided in other cases in quo warranto. (May 6, 1913, 103 v. 425; May 18, 1910, 101 v. 275; April 19, 1898, 93 v. 114, § 2: R. S. Sec. 4427-2.)

The prosecuting attorney of a county may bring suit on behalf of the state for violations of the Valentine Act, and in such suit the state is the real party plaintiff. Such a suit asking for an injunction and receiver is a civil action. Ohio v. Swift & Co., 270 Fed. 141 (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1921); certiorari denied, 257 U. S. —.

Where majority stockholders in a corporation exchange their stock for stock in another corporation, no corporate action being taken, the fact that a violation of the anti-trust may result does not entitle a minority stockholder to an injunction against the exchange. Smith v. Peoples Co., 22 C. C. n. s. 229 (1909).

Quo warranto. Proper allegations of petition.

See State v. National, etc., Co., 13 C. C. n. s. 73; 21 C. D. 637 (1910).

The state may inquire as to all acts committed by any participant in the alleged unlawful combination from the time it is alleged to have been formed.

State v. National, etc., Co., 13 C. C. n. s. 74; 21 C. D. 637 (1910).

A quo warranto proceeding may be brought in the circuit court of any county where one or more of the defendant corporations is situated and process may issue to other counties.

It need not be brought in the county where the combination does business as a separate entity.

State v. King Bridge Co., 7 C. C. n. s. 557; 18 C. D. 147 (1906).

Where dissolution of an illegal association is decreed, the court may appoint a receiver to liquidate its affairs and distribute its funds.

Kealey v. Faulkner, 7 N. P. n. s. 49; 18 L. D. 498 (C. P. 1907).

Section 6400-1. (Parties defendant. Statute of limitation no bar to suit.) In any action or proceeding in quo warranto, injunction or otherwise brought by the attorney-general or a prosecuting attorney under this chapter, all persons parties to or participating in the trust or conspiracy against trade violative of the provisions of this chapter, may be made parties defendant and summoned, whether they reside in the county where such action is instituted or not. Proceedings in quo warranto and in injunction may be instituted simultaneously, or while one or another of them is pending, such suits being started in the proper court as provided in this chapter, and no suit in injunction shall be a bar to a suit in quo warranto, nor shall a suit in quo warranto be a bar to one instituted to restrain and enjoin. No statute of limitation shall prevent or be a bar to any suit, or proceeding, for any violation hereafter committed of any provision of this chapter. (May 18, 1910, 101 v. 275.)

Section 6401. (Witness not excused from testifying.) If a court of record or in vacation a judge thereof, in which is pending a civil, criminal or other action or proceeding brought or prosecuted by the attorney-general or a prosecuting attorney for the violation of any provision of this chapter, or an action or proceeding for a violation of a law, common or statute, against a conspiracy or combination in restraint of trade, so orders, no person shall be excused from attending, testifying or producing books, papers, schedules, contracts, agreements or other documents in obedience to the subpoena or order of such court or a commissioner, referee or master appointed by such court to take testimony, or a notary public or other person authorized by the laws of this state to take depositions, when the order made by such court or judge includes a witness whose deposition is being taken before such notary public or other officer, for the reason that the testimony or evidence required of him may tend to criminate him or subject him to a penalty; but no person shall be prosecuted or subjected to a penalty for or on account of a transaction, matter or thing concerning which he may so testify or produce evidence, documentary or otherwise, before such court, person or officer. (April 19, 1898, 93 v. 313, § 6a.)

The plaintiff, in a civil action under this act, being examined before a notary public under G. C. § 11497, can not refuse, on the ground that it is a trade secret, to disclose the names of dealers from whom he procured a supply of the goods which the combination had refused to furnish him, but such question is irrelevant to an examination under § 11497.

Jones v. Goode, 7 C. C. n. s. 589; 18 C. D. 475 (1906); aff'd, no rep., 78 O. S. 421; s. c., 3 O. L. R. 401.

Section 6402. (Cumulative provisions.) The provisions of this chapter shall be cumulative of each other and of all other laws in any manner affecting them. (April 19, 1898, 93 v. 145, § 9; R. S. Sec. 4427-9.)

Section 6402-1. (Penalty when violation relates to milk, cream or butter fat.) Whoever, being engaged in the business of buying milk, cream or butter fat, shall, for the purpose of creating a monopoly, or to restrain trade, or to prevent or limit competition, or to destroy the business of a competitor, discriminate between different sections, localities, communities or cities of this state, by purchasing such commodity at a higher price or rate in one locality than in another, after making due allowance for the difference, if any, in the actual cost of transportation from the locality of purchase to the locality of manufacture, shall be deemed guilty of unfair discrimination and, upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars, or by imprisonment not exceeding six months. (110 v. 39.)

PART XV.

MISCELLANEOUS STATUTORY PROVISIONS RELATING TO RAILWAYS AND CARRIERS.

- Railways on Public Highways.
- | | |
|---|---|
| § 6956-21. Cost and expense which shall be borne by company. Proceedings when company fails to improve or repair. | § 6956-31. Payment. |
| § 6956-22. Power to raise or lower road grade above or below railroad tracks. | § 6956-32. Height of crossing above grade. |
| § 6956-23. Change of location of main market roads. | § 6956-33. Appropriation of property. |
| § 6956-24. Hearing by director of highways. Notice. | § 6956-34. Repairs. |
| § 6956-25. County commissioners shall hold public hearing. Notice. Railroad shall submit plans, when. Publication. Common pleas court may determine method. | § 6956-35. Townships, villages. Bonds. Tax levy. |
| § 6956-26. Petition. | § 6956-36. Crossings of main market roads, etc. Time of payment. Definition of terms. |
| § 6956-27. Finding of court. Apportionment between railroads. Appeal. Refusal or neglect. | § 6956-37. Grade of main market roads. Powers of director of highways. Hearing, appeal, review. |
| § 6956-28. Apportionment of cost between county and railroad. Return against county. May agree as to apportionment. | § 6956-38. Notice. Copies of record. Obligations as payment. |
| § 6956-29. Notice of change of grade to abutting owners. | § 6956-39. Appeal from order of director or board of commissioners. |
| § 6956-30. Service of summons and publication. Damages. | § 7472. Obstructing roads by railroad agents. |
| | § 7473. Damages. |
| | § 7474. Moneys collected. |
| | § 7475. Company liable for fines against employees. |
| | § 7479. Grant of franchise to street or interurban railways; conditions. |
| | § 7480. Power to appropriate right of way, crossing or lands of railroad; proceedings. |

LIENS.

- | | |
|---|---|
| §§ 8343 to 8352. Railroad contracts and subcontracts. | §§ 8376 to 8380. On public works, including railroads, street railroads, etc. |
| §§ 8365 to 8375. Of carriers and warehousemen on goods. | |

RAILWAYS ON PUBLIC HIGHWAYS.

Section 6956. (Cost and expense which shall be borne by company. Proceedings when company fails to improve or repair.) Any person, firm or corporation operating a railway for the transportation of passengers, freight or express crossing any street or road, shall improve, maintain and repair that portion of the highway at such crossing and lying between the outside ends of the ties, and also that portion lying between the tracks in the case of two or more tracks, and the cost and expense of this improvement, maintenance and repair shall be borne by said individual, firm or corporation. Such improvement, maintenance or repair shall be made whenever in the opinion of the authorities having charge of such road the public necessity requires, and shall be made in accordance with plans and specifications approved by the county surveyor.

In case the said person, firm or corporation operating said railway, fails to improve, maintain or repair the same as required by the proper authorities, as provided in this section, then such authorities shall proceed to improve, maintain and repair the same, and the cost thereof shall be charged against said property and collected in the manner hereinafter provided. Whenever a road or street is improved where a street or interurban or other railroad or railway lies within the improved portion of the roadway, such railroad or railway grade shall in all respects be changed to meet the approval of the county surveyor unless otherwise provided for in the grant or franchise, by virtue of which such railway operates on or occupies said highway, and costs of such change of grade be paid by such company under the law or by the terms of its franchise or grant, shall be a lien upon the property of such company and the proper authorities may provide for the payment of the amount chargeable against said company under the law or by the terms of its franchise or grant, in installments as in the case of other property owners, and such installments shall bear interest as in other cases, and the board of county commissioners or other authorities may issue bonds in anticipation of the collection of said installments. (106 v. 611, § 137.)

Section 6956-22. (Power to raise or lower road grade above or below railroad tracks.) Any county may raise or lower, or cause to be raised or lowered the grade of any main market road or inter-county highway above or below the tracks of railroads, or railroads and parallel and adjacent interurban railroads within such county, and may require any railroad company operating a railroad in such county, and any interurban railroad company operating an interurban railroad parallel and adjacent to said railroad, to raise or lower the grade of its tracks, above or below any main market road or inter-county highway, and may construct ways or crossings for such road or highway above the tracks of any railroad or railroads and parallel and adjacent interurban railroad, or require the railroad company and any interurban railroad company operating an interurban railroad parallel and adjacent to said railroad to construct ways or crossings therefor that are to be passed under its tracks, may require such railroad company and any interurban railroad company operating an interurban railroad parallel and adjacent to said railroad to erect permanent piers, abutments or any other appropriate supports for any of the above works in main market roads and inter-county highways within the county, whenever in the opinion of the board of county commissioners, the raising or lowering of the grade of any such railroad or railroads and parallel and adjacent interurban railroad tracks or the raising or lowering or construction of such roads or highways or supports may be necessary; upon the terms and conditions hereinafter set forth in this act. (110 v. 231, § 1.)

Section 6956-23. (Change of location of main market roads.) When the board of county commissioners deems it necessary in the abolishment of such grade crossings, to change the location of any main market road or inter-county highway in such county, such board of commissioners may, with the approval of the director of highways and public works, relocate such road, or highway, or any part thereof, may vacate the whole or any portion of such road or highway, abandoned by such relocation, and cause the improvements above contemplated to be placed in such relocated road or highway. (110 v. 232, § 2.)

Section 6956-24. (Hearing by director of highways. Notice.) As a condition precedent to the exercise of jurisdiction under the terms of this act by a board of county commissioners, such commissioners shall transmit to the director of highways and public works a full written description of the grade crossing which it is proposed to abolish, showing its location, the reasons which tend to make necessary the elimination of the same, the names of the railroad or railroads or interurban railway or railways owning the tracks crossing said main market road or inter-county highway and the manner in which it is contemplated the improvement proposed should be accomplished. On receipt of such description the state highway director shall conduct a hearing as to the necessity and the expediency of the proposed improvement after thirty days' notice in writing of the time and place of the holding of such hearing has been given to the county commissioners and to the railroad or interurban railway company or companies concerned in such proposed elimination, such notice to be served by the sheriff upon the railroad or interurban railroad company, or companies, in the manner provided for by law for the service of summons in civil actions, and if, after such hearing, the state highway director is of the opinion that such improvement is reasonably necessary and expedient, he shall so certify in writing to said county commissioners, sending a copy of such certificate to all railroad or interurban railway companies involved. But if said director is not of such opinion he shall so state in his certificate, and thereupon no further proceedings shall be taken upon said application to said director. (110 v. 232, § 3.)

Section 6956-25. (County commissioners shall hold public hearing. Notice. Railroad shall submit plans, when. Publication. Common pleas court may determine method.) The board of county commissioners desiring to proceed under the provisions of this act shall, after receipt of the certificate of necessity and expediency from the director of highways and public works herein provided for, hold a public hearing as to the expediency of constructing such improvement, notice of which shall be given by publication in two English newspapers, published and of general circulation in such county, if such there be, otherwise in two newspapers of general circulation in such county, for two weeks before the date set for such hearing, and served upon the railroad or interurban railway company or companies in the manner provided by law for the service of summons in civil actions, not less than twenty days prior to the date of such hearing.

The board of county commissioners of such county after such public hearing and for the purpose of making or causing such an improvement to be made, may by resolution adopted by unanimous vote, require the railroad company, in co-operation with the county surveyor or any engineer designated by the board of county commissioners, to prepare and submit to such board of county commissioners within six months, unless longer time is mutually agreed upon in writing, plans and specifications for such improvements, specifying the number, character and location of all piers and supports which are to be permanently placed in any road or highway, specifying the grades to be established for the roads and the height, character and estimated cost of any viaduct or way above or below any railroad track and the change of grade required to be made of such tracks, including side tracks and switches. But in changing the grade of any railroad, no grade shall be required in excess of the grade adopted by the railroad company for its construction work on that division or part of the railroad on which the improvement is to be made, without the consent of the railroad company, nor shall the railroad company's tracks be required to be placed below high-water mark. Such resolution shall be published in the manner provided by law as to resolutions of a city council declaring the necessity of a contemplated public improvement, and shall be served by the sheriff upon the railroad or interurban railroad company or companies in the manner provided by law for the service of summons in civil actions; and if the proposed public improvement is to be made within a village or city, notice of the passage of the same shall be served upon the village or city by delivering to the clerk of the village or city council a true copy thereof.

If, at the expiration of six months from the passage of such resolution, the railroad company has refused or failed to co-operate in the preparation of such plans and specifications, or if the county surveyor or engineer designated by the county commissioners and the railroad company fail to agree upon the plans and specifications of such improvement, then either the railroad company or the county may submit the matter of determining the method by which the improvement shall be made to the court of common pleas of such county. Either the county or company after the expiration of six months from the passage of the resolution may apply to such court of common pleas by petition accompanied by the necessary plans prepared by the county or railroad company covering the grade crossing proposed to be abolished. Such plans must show the grades to be established for such roads or highways, the changes to be made in the location of roads or highways; the height, character and estimated cost of any viaduct or way above or below the railroad tracks, and the number, character and location of piers, abutments or supports to be permanently located in the roads or highways, and the change of grade to be made in any railroad tracks, including side tracks and switches. (110 v. 233, § 4.)

An attempt to reach an agreement with the railroad company as to location, plans and specifications, must be made by the commissioners before appealing to the court. Arbaugh v. Railroad, 104 O. S. 110 (1922).

Section 6956-26. (Petition.) Upon the filing of such pe-

tion, accompanied by plans, the railroad company or county opposed to the prayer thereof, or directly interested therein, shall have the right, within sixty days thereafter to file an answer to such petition and to present other plans for the abolition of such crossing or crossings. After the expiration of such period of sixty days the court shall proceed to a hearing upon the petition and any answers that have been filed, which hearing must be advanced upon the docket upon motion of either party. After examination of all plans presented to it and after hearing the evidence, the court shall make a finding as to whether such plans or any of them are reasonable and practicable. (110 v. 233, § 5.)

Section 6956-27. (Finding of court. Apportionment between railroads. Appeal. Refusal or neglect.) If the court finds that the plans presented by the petitioner or any of the parties answering thereto are reasonable and practicable, it shall order the changes to be made in accordance with the most reasonable and practicable plan presented to the court or as amended by its order entered by consent of the parties. The county shall be required to make such changes in the roads or highways as may be necessary, and the railroad company or companies be required to make the changes necessary in the tracks and roadbed, in order to comply with the rulings of the court. If more than one railroad company, or a railroad company and an interurban railway company, or railroad companies and interurban railway companies, own tracks on the crossing in question, the court shall apportion between or among them the fifty per cent. herein-after provided to be paid by the railroad companies, or the railroad and interurban railroad companies, and when making such apportionment the courts shall take into consideration the difference in costs of construction and benefits derived as between such railroad or railroads and interurban railroad company or companies. But if the court finds that none of the plans are reasonable or practicable, the improvement shall not be made upon such plans.

Either party feeling aggrieved by the decision and order of the court may appeal or prosecute error as in other cases, the hearing of which shall be advanced upon the docket upon motion of either party.

If the county or railroad company refuses or neglects to comply with the orders or findings made by the court under the provisions hereof, the court may enforce its orders or findings by either mandamus or mandatory injunction or for contempt of court, as the necessity of the case may require, upon the application of either party to such proceedings. (110 v. 234, § 6.)

Section 6956-28. (Apportionment of cost between county and railroad. Action against county. May agree as to apportionment.) The cost of constructing the improvement authorized, including the making of ways, crossings or viaducts, above or below the railroad tracks, and the raising or lowering of the grades of the railroad tracks and side tracks for such distance as may be required by such county and made necessary by such improvement, including the cost of moving or changing existing structures and other incidental expenses, together with the cost of land or property purchased or appropriated, and damages to owners of abutting property, or other property, shall be borne, unless otherwise agreed upon, fifty per cent by the county and fifty per cent by such railroad company or companies, including any interurban railroad company or companies, the crossing of whose tracks with said highway is invoked. The county shall have a right of action against any such railroad company for the recovery of the fifty per cent of such costs payable by it, with interest from the time they become due. Such county and railroad company may agree as to what part of the work shall be done by the railroad company, and also fix the amount to be allowed or credited to the company for doing the work. Such railroad company shall be entitled to deduct from its fifty per cent of the cost of the improvement the expense incurred by it in the change of its grade required by the county or made necessary by it under such specifications, but only in case the amount of the expense has been agreed upon in writing between the county and the railroad company. If the amount of work done by the company, or made necessary by reason of such change of grade on lowering or raising its tracks, exceeds fifty per cent of the cost of the improvement, then it shall have the right to recover the amount with interest in excess of fifty per cent of the expenses, in an action at law against the county.

In connection with any such improvement the board of county commissioners of any county, or the director of highways and public works, and the railroad company or companies, including any interurban railroad company or companies whose tracks are to be raised or lowered, or over or under whose tracks the proposed improvement is to pass, may agree as to the portions of such construction, the cost of which is to be shared, and upon the percentages of the cost to be borne by the county or state, and by the railroad company or companies, or interurban railroad company or companies, but if no such agreement is made the provisions of this section shall apply. (110 v. 235, § 7.)

Section 6956-29. (Notice of change of grade to abutting owners.) Before any work shall be done which may be required in the making of such proposed improvement, the board of county commissioners of such county shall, by resolution require notice of its intention to make such improvement in accordance with the plans and specifications, agreed upon or ordered to be given to the owner of each piece of property abutting on any road, the grade of which will be changed by the proposed improvement. (110 v. 236, § 8.)

Section 6956-30. (Service of summons and publication. Damages.) Notice of the passage of such resolution shall be served by the sheriff of the county upon the owner of each piece of such property which will be affected by any change of grade, in the manner provided by law for the service of summons in civil actions. If any of such owners are non-residents of the county, or if it appears from the return that they can not be found, the notice shall be published for at least two weeks in an English language newspaper published in said county. And such notice shall be completed at least twenty days before any work is done on said improvement; and the sheriff's return shall be prima facie evidence of the facts recited therein.

The filing of claims for damages, and the effect of failure to file such claims, found in General Code, section 3823, shall apply to the notice herein provided, and to all claims for damages by reason of such proposed improvement. But such claims shall be filed with the county auditor within the time, and rights thereunder shall pass to vendees, as in said section provided. After the expiration of the time provided for the filing of such claims, the board of county commissioners of such county, when claims have been filed within the time limited, shall determine by resolution whether such claims are to be judicially inquired into, as hereinafter provided, before commencing or after the completion of the proposed improvement. Thereupon, the county prosecutor shall make application for a jury, in the manner provided by law, to the common pleas, or probate court of the county, either before commencing or after the completion of the improvement, as the board of county commissioners determine, and all proceedings upon such application shall be governed by the laws relating to similar applications provided for in cases of city improvements so far as applicable. (110 v. 236, § 9.)

Section 6956-31. (Payment.) The board of county commissioners may, by resolution, prescribe the manner and time or times of payment by such railroad company or companies of the proportion of the cost of such improvement which the railroad company or companies shall be required to pay. (110 v. 236, § 10.)

Section 6956-32. (Height of crossing above grade.) Any way, crossing or viaduct so constructed over a railroad track or tracks be of such height as not to be of less than twenty-one feet in the clear from the top surface of the rails in the railroad track to the lowest point of projection of such overhead way, crossing or viaduct, unless such company consents to, or the court orders a less height. But in no event shall such court order a less height than sixteen feet and three inches. (110 v. 237, § 11.)

Section 6956-33. (Appropriation of property.) The land or property required to make alterations in the road, or other way or any right, title or interest in a road or other way, required for the erection of piers or supports necessitated by the proposed improvement, shall be purchased or appropriated by the county or company after the manner provided by law for the appropriation of private property for public use. The land or property required to make any alteration in the railroad or railroads necessitated by the proposed improvements, shall be purchased or appropriated by the railroad company or companies after the manner provided for the appropriation of private property by such corporation. But the county shall not appropriate land held or owned by a railroad company and necessary for the use of the company in maintaining and operating its road. (110 v. 237, § 12.)

Section 6956-34. (Repairs.) After the completion of the work, the crossings and approaches shall be kept in repair as follows: When the public way crosses a railroad, or railroads, or railroad or railroads and interurban railroad or interurban railroads, by an overhead bridge, the cost of maintenance must be borne by the county, or by the state, as may be provided by law. When the public way passes under a railroad or railroads, or railroad or railroads and interurban railroad or interurban railroads, the bridge and its abutments shall be kept and maintained by the railroad company or companies or the railroad company or companies and interurban railroad company or companies, as the case may be, in such proportions as shall be fixed by agreement between the parties, or, in the absence of such agreement, in such proportions as may be fixed by the common pleas court of the county in which the improvement is located, and the public way and its approaches shall be maintained and kept in repair by the county in which they are situated, or by the state of Ohio as may be provided by law. (110 v. 237, § 13.)

Section 6956-35. (Townships, villages. Bonds. Tax levy.)

The trustees of any township and the council of any village or city in which such proposed improvement is to be made may assume and agree to pay to the county on behalf of the village or city such portion of the costs of such improvement assumed by the county as the trustees or council deem reasonable.

For the purpose of raising the money to pay the proportion of the cost of such improvement payable by the county, the bonds of the county may be issued to the necessary amount, and for the proportion determined by the council or trustees to be assumed by the municipality or township, the bonds of such municipality or township may be issued to the necessary amount. They shall be of such denomination and payable at such place and times as the commissioners, trustees or council respectively determine, and bear interest not exceeding six per cent per annum, but shall not be sold for less than their par value.

After completion of the improvement, a tax may be levied by the county to pay the costs of maintaining and keeping in repair that part of the work required to be maintained and kept in repair by the county.

The bond issues and tax levies herein authorized shall be subject to the limitation prescribed by law for bond issues and tax levies for the purpose of paying the county's, township's and municipality's share of the cost of a road improvement carried forward by the state. (110 v. 237, § 14.)

Section 6956-36. (Crossings of main market roads, etc. Time of payment. Definition of terms.) In case the track or tracks of any street railway company or companies, or interurban railroad company or companies cross, in a main market road or inter-county highway, the right of way of any railroad company or companies at a point where, under the plans and specifications above provided for, it has been determined to construct such improvements, the county commissioners by resolution may require such street railway or interurban railroad company or companies, to bear a reasonable portion of the cost assumed by the county, in making the improvement, not exceeding twenty-five per cent. of the portion payable by the county; and it shall have a right of action against such street railway or interurban railroad company or companies, for that part of the cost which the resolution requires it or them to bear. Such part of the cost also shall be a lien upon all the property, real and personal, of such company or companies situated in such county from and after the date of the passage of such resolution.

The county commissioners may by resolution provide the mode and time or times of payment for the proportion of the cost of such improvement to be borne by such street railway or interurban railroad company or companies.

Such street railway or interurban railroad company or companies shall keep in repair at its or their own expense all its tracks affected by such improvement and shall bear a reasonable proportion of the cost of maintaining, renewing and repairing all construction work of whatever character, necessary to support such tracks.

The word "company" wherever used in this act is intended to include also the words "company or companies" and the words "railroad" or "interurban railroad" whenever used in this act are intended to include also the words "railroads" or "interurban railroads." (110 v. 238, § 15.)

Section 6956-37. (Grade of main market roads. Powers of director of highways. Hearing; appeal; record.) The director of highways and public works of the state of Ohio shall have the same power and authority to raise or lower or cause to be raised or lowered, the grade of any main market road or inter-county highway above or below railroad tracks within any county in the state herein conferred upon the county commissioners and may in like manner require any railroad company operating a railroad in any county to raise or lower the grade of its tracks and may construct ways or crossings above the tracks of any railroad or require the railroad company to construct ways or crossings that are to be passed under its tracks, but only after proper hearing as provided for in section 3 and section 17 [G. C. § 6956-38] hereof has been held by said director, and, in event of an appeal from the finding of said director as provided for in section 18 hereof [G. C. § 6956-39], after the question of the necessity and expediency of said proposed elimination of grade crossing has been fully decided by the public utilities commission of Ohio, or the supreme court of Ohio as therein provided.

He may after such initial hearing, provided for in section 3 or section 17 hereof [G. C. §§ 6956-24, 6956-38], or in case of appeal therefrom, after final decision by the public utilities commission, or the supreme court as provided for in section 18 of this act [G. C. § 6956-39], require such railroad company to erect permanent piers, abutments or any other appropriate support in main market roads and inter-county highways within any county whenever in the opinion of the state highway director the raising or lowering of the grade of any such railroad tracks or the raising, lowering or construction of such roads, crossings or supports may be necessary. The director of highways and public works shall have the same power and authority and obligation with respect to all of the above enumerated matters as hereinbefore conferred or enjoined upon counties and county commissioners and shall be authorized to proceed with respect to all of such improvements in the manner herein provided with respect to counties and county commissioners, so far as such provisions are applicable. (110 v. 238, § 16.)

Section 6956-38. (Notice. Copies of record. Obligations as payment.) When said director desires to proceed under this section he shall enter upon his appropriate public record an order to that effect, which shall describe the grade crossing to be eliminated, give its location, the reasons for such elimination, the manner in which it is proposed to be accomplished, and a description of the proposed improvement to be substituted therefor. In said order said director shall fix a time and place for a hearing to be conducted by him as to the necessity and expediency of said proposed improvement.

He shall thereupon cause at least thirty days' notice of such order and hearing to be served upon the board of county commissioners of the county wherein said crossing is located, and the railroad or interurban railway companies whose tracks occupy the same, by causing copies of said order to be served upon them either by some persons designated by him or by registered letter. And the return of such person or the registry receipt for such letter shall be prima facie evidence of the truth of the statements therein contained.

The director, shall, on the day so fixed or to which the hearing may be adjourned, proceed to hear and determine said matter and shall thereupon proceed as provided in section 3 hereof.

And in his further proceedings in and about such improvement said director shall evidence his conclusions and intentions by order duly entered upon his record, of which copies shall forthwith be furnished to the commissioners, railroad companies or others directly affected by said proposed improvement, and in the case of notice of intention to proceed with the work in accordance with the plans and specifications agreed upon or ordered, shall be served upon property owners as provided by section 9 hereof.

The director shall assume on behalf of the state all of the obligations both with respect to the payment of a portion of the cost of any such improvements and otherwise as is herein provided with respect to counties. Any proportion of the cost of any such improvements assumed by the director on behalf of the state shall be paid from the intercounty highway or main market road funds of the department of highways and public works. In the event the director proceeds under the provisions of this act he shall be authorized to enter into agreements with the county commissioners of the county or trustees of the township or both, within which such improvement is located and also with the council of any municipal corporation within which such improvement is located, providing for the payment to the state by such county or township or municipal corporation of such proportion of the total cost assumed by the state as may be agreed upon between the director and the county commissioners, township trustees or municipal council.

Such commissioner, trustee or council shall have the same power to issue bonds or levy taxes for the purpose of providing any share of the cost of any such improvement assumed by them as is herein given with respect to improvement initiated by counties. (110 v. 239, § 17.)

Section 6956-39. (Appeal from order of director or board of commissioners.) From the finding and order of the director of highways and public works that such improvement is reasonably necessary and expedient, the county commissioners or any railroad or interurban railway company may, upon the question of such necessity and expediency, take an appeal to the public utilities commission of Ohio. A party desiring to take such an appeal shall file with said director written notice of its intention so to do within thirty days after service upon it of said finding and order. Said director shall thereupon certify to such commission all original papers on file with him, together with a copy of all orders, made by him in said proceeding. Said appeal shall be docketed by said commission, and after reasonable notice to all interested parties said commission shall hear the same upon the evidence adduced before it, and shall thereupon determine and decide whether the making of said proposed improvement is necessary and expedient. An appeal from the order of said director or a board of county commissioners fixing the contribution of a street railway or inter-urban railroad company, under section 15 of this act [G. C. § 6956-36], to said public utilities commission may be taken and shall be heard and decided in the same manner. And any party to such proceedings on appeal, and being aggrieved by the decision of the commission thereon, may prosecute error to the supreme court as in other cases. (110 v. 240, § 18.)

Section 7472. (Obstructing roads by railroad agents.)

A person or corporation, or a conductor of a train of railroad cars, or other agent or servant of a railroad company, who obstructs, unnecessarily, a public road or highway authorized by any law of this state, by permitting a railroad car or locomotive to remain upon or across it for longer than five minutes, or permits timber, lumber, wood, or other obstructions to remain upon or across it to the hindrance or inconvenience of travelers, or a person passing along or upon such road or highway, shall forfeit and pay for each offense, not less than two dollars, nor more than twenty dollars. (R. S. Sec. 4748; 65 v. 14, § 31; S. & S. 669; S. & C. 1311.)

Diversion of highway during construction of railroad; duty to restore to former condition of usefulness; liability and remedies for breach of duty. See § 8773 and note.

An action to recover the penalty under this section may be maintained not only by the township trustees, but by any other person. The penalties when collected are to be applied under § 7474.

Higgins v. Grove, 40 O. S. 521.

In an action for obstruction of a highway by a railroad car it must be alleged in the petition that the obstruction was continued unnecessarily for more than five minutes. If the obstruction was caused by other agencies it need not be alleged to have been unnecessary.

Burton Twp. v. Tuttle, 30 O. S. 62.

Railroad Co. v. Mackey, 53 O. S. 370.

Section 7473. (Damages.) The company or person shall also be liable for all damages arising to a person from such obstruction, or injury to such road or highway, to be recovered by an action at the suit of the trustees of the township in which the offense is committed, or of any person suing therefor before a justice of the peace within the county where the offense is committed, or by indictment in the court of common pleas in the proper county. Each twenty-four hours the person or corporation, after being notified, permits such obstruction to remain, shall be an additional offense against the provisions of the next preceding section. (R. S. Sec. 4748; 65 v. 14, § 31; S. & S. 669; S. & C. 1311.)

See also note to § 8773.

Action by supervisor.

Hill v. Supervisor, 10 O. S. 621.

Bisher v. Richards, 9 O. S. 495.

A railroad company is not liable in a civil action for injuries sustained by its obstruction of a street, unless such obstruction is the proximate cause of the injuries.

Railroad Co. v. Staley, 41 O. S. 118.

Section 7474. (Moneys collected.) All penalties collected under section seventy-four hundred and seventy-two, shall be paid to the treasurer of the township in which the offense was committed, and be applied by the trustees to the improvement of roads and highways therein. (R. S. Sec. 4748; 65 v. 14, § 31; S. & S. 669; S. & C. 1311.)

Section 7475. (Company liable for fines against employes.) A railroad company or other corporation, the servant, agent or employe of which, in any manner, obstructs a public road or highway, shall pay all penalties which may be assessed against such servant, agent, or employe for so obstructing it. Such penalties may be enforced by execution issued against such corporation on the judgment rendered against such servant, agent, or employe. (R. S. Sec. 4749; 65 v. 14, § 32; S. & S. 669; S. & C. 1311.)

Section 7479. (Grant of franchise to street or interurban railways; conditions.) No franchise or grant to any street railway, interurban railway or other railway shall hereafter be granted by the state highway commissioner, by the board of county commissioners or by the council of any municipality, unless such franchise or grant shall provide, that such company, shall thereafter, when required by the proper authorities in charge of such road or street, make such changes in its grade and method of construction, as shall be necessary to conform to any improvement thereafter made of such street or road. The type of construction used by such company shall be approved in the first instance, by the state highway commissioner, if such road is under jurisdiction of the state; by the engineer of a municipality, if such improvement is within the bounds of such municipality; or, by the county highway superintendent in the case of other roads, and shall also be approved by the proper authorities having jurisdiction over such street or road. (106 v. 652, § 252.)

Section 7480. (Power to appropriate right of way, crossing or lands of railroad; proceedings.) The state highway commissioner, county commissioners or township trustees shall have power to appropriate a right of way or crossing over railroad tracks, and lands held by railway companies, whether operated by steam or electricity, and shall also have the right to appropriate the necessary property and right to construct said crossing above or below the grade of said railway. Such proceedings shall be had thereon as are provided for appropriation of property by municipal corporations. In case the grade of the road at such crossing shall be raised or lowered above or below the railroad tracks thereon, by agreement or order of the court, the cost of raising or lowering such grade shall be apportioned between the county commissioners or township trustees and the railroad company in the same proportion as in cases where a grade is raised or lowered on a crossing already established or existing. (106 v. 653, § 255.)

LIENS OF RAILROAD SUB-CONTRACTORS.

Section 8343. (Liens against a railroad company.) Any person, association of persons, or corporation contracting for the construction of a railroad, depot buildings, water-tanks, or any part thereof, shall be liable to and pay to each person performing labor or furnishing materials stipulated for in the contract with the owner of the road, under a contract express or implied with the original contractor, or with any sub-contractor, for the whole or any part of the work stipulated in the original contract with the owner of the railroad. (R. S. Sec. 3207; 80 v. 99; R. S. 1880; 71 v. 51, § 1.)

The provisions of §§ 8343 to 8352 inclusive, providing for liens of subcontractors, etc., were held unconstitutional by the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Shaw v. Railway Co., 8 O. L. R. 43; 173 Fed. 476 (1909).

See Stewart v. Gardner, 10 C. C. n. s. 408; 20 C. D. 218; aff'd, 78 O. S. 451.

Railway Co. v. Cronin, 1 W. L. B. 315 (1876); aff'd, 38 O. S. 122 (1882).

This section does not apply to street railroads.

Massillon Bridge Co. v. Cambria Iron Co., 59 O. S. 179 (1898).

It has been held that this section does not provide for an action at law or authorize the recovery of a money judgment.

Schneider v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 20 W. L. B. 457 (C. P.)

See Railway Co. v. Cronin, 38 O. S. 122 (1882).

§ 8350.

Where materials were delivered in another state for use in the construction of a railroad in Ohio, the seller is entitled to a lien.

Carnegie Bros. v. Lancaster, etc., Ry. Co., 1 N. P. 300; 3 L. D. 343 (C. P. 1894).

See Mack v. DeGraff, etc., Co., 57 O. S. 463 (1898).

Priority between mortgages and liens.

See Toledo, etc., R. R. Co. v. Hamilton, 134 U. S. 296, 301.

Feike v. Railroad Co., 12 C. C. 362; 5 C. D. 640 (1892); 14 C. C. 186; 7 C. D. 652 (1897).

Act is prospective in operation.

Feike v. Railroad Co., 12 C. C. 362; 5 C. D. 640 (1892).

Liens on railroads and bridges under general mechanics' lien law.

See Rutherford v. Cincinnati, etc., R. R. Co., 35 O. S. 559 (1880).

Smith Bridge Co. v. Bowman, 41 O. S. 37 (1884).

Industrial, etc., Co. v. Supply Co., 1 O. F. D. 483 (1897).

Bowman v. Springfield, etc., R. R. Co., 1 C. C. 64 (1885); 1 C. D. 39.

Cleveland, etc., Ry. Co. v. Trust Co., 86 Fed. 73 (1898).

Industrial, etc., Co. v. Electrical, etc., Co., 58 Fed. 732 (1893).

In re Amherst Quarries Co., 56 O. L. B. 93 (1910).

Section 8344. (What contracts for railroad work shall stipulate, etc.) A railroad company shall provide, in its contract with any person, association of persons, or corporation for the construction of its road, or any part thereof, that payments thereunder shall be made in the following order of priority: First, to the persons performing labor, furnishing materials, or boarding, on the order of any contractor or sub-contractor to persons employed by them, or either of them, in furnishing materials or labor for or in the construction of such railroad, without preference. Second, to any sub-contractor, any balance due under his contract after payment of his or their liabilities to persons performing labor or furnishing materials or boarding, under his or their contract. Third, to any contractor, or construction company, intervening between a sub-contractor and the railroad company, in the order of such intervention from such sub-contractor upward to the owner of the railroad, any balance due after payment by the company, of amounts found due in the order of priority above provided. (R. S. Sec. 3207; 80 v. 99; R. S. 1880; 71 v. 51, § 1.)

Section 8345. (What lien shall have precedence.) A person who performs labor or furnishes materials for or in construction of any railroad, depot buildings, water-tanks, or any part thereof, and a person who furnishes boarding on the order of any contractor or sub-contractor, to persons employed by them or either of them, in furnishing materials, or performing labor for or in construction of such railroad, depot buildings, water-tanks, or any part thereof, in addition to his rights under the next two preceding sections shall have a lien for its payment upon such railroad. Such lien shall have and maintain precedence over any lien taken, or to be taken, and subsist for one year from the date of filing the attested account hereafter provided for. If an action is brought to enforce the lien within that time, it shall continue in force until finally adjudicated. (R. S. Sec. 3208; 80 v. 99; R. S. 1880; 71 v. 51, § 1.)

"Materials" in this section comprehends and includes only such articles as are furnished for and to be used in construction of the railroad. Hay, grain, etc., furnished for the keep of teams of a contractor or subcontractor are not "materials." Section 8351 does not enlarge the meaning of the word "materials."

Penna. Co. v. Mehaffy, 75 O. S. 432 (1907).

Priority between mortgages on after acquired property and mechanics' lien. Reed v. Ginsburg, 64 O. S. 11 (1901).

Rousculp v. Railroad Co., 19 C. C. 436; 10 C. D. 621 (1899).

See note to § 8793.

Under this section the taking of a note does not waive or affect the right to a lien, nor is it necessary to refer to or describe the note in taking such lien.

Rousculp v. Ohio Southern R. R. Co., 19 C. C. 436; 10 C. D. 621 (1899).

Lien not lost by extension of time.

Carnegie v. Lancaster, etc., Ry. Co., 1 N. P. 300; 3 L. D. 343 (1894).

Lien for materials delivered out of state.

Carnegie v. Lancaster, etc., Ry. Co., 1 N. P. 300; 3 L. D. 343 (1894).

Mack v. DeGraff, 57 O. S. 463 (1898).

Electric light plant, when not part of railroad.

See Industrial, etc., Co. v. Electrical, etc., Co., 58 Fed. 732; 9 O. F. D. 483 (C. C. A. 1893).

Section 8346. (How lien perfected.) In order to perfect such a lien, a person performing labor, or furnishing materials, or boarding, as heretofore specified, within forty days from the date that he ceased performing labor, or furnishing materials, or boarding on or for the railroad, shall file with the recorder of the county where the labor was performed, or materials, or boarding furnished, an affidavit containing an itemized statement of the kind and amount of materials furnished, or labor performed, the time when the contractor or sub-contractor for whom, and the section and place where, on the line of the road the labor was performed, or materials furnished, and the amount due therefor, after crediting all payments and set-offs. In case of boarding furnished, such affidavit must have attached thereto an itemized account thereof, showing the name of the contractor or sub-contractor on whose order it was furnished, the several persons to whom furnished, the weekly rate of boarding, and the several amounts unpaid by each respectively. On filing the affidavit it shall be recorded in a separate book to be provided therefor, and then operate as a lien on the railroad, in the manner and subject only to the limitations herein provided. (R. S. Sec. 3208.)

Section 8347. (Proceeding after filing affidavit.) Within ten days after filing his affidavit with the recorder the claimant shall serve a notice in writing upon the secretary, or other officer or authorized representative of the railroad company, by delivering or leaving a copy thereof at his usual place of residence, or place of doing business. Such notice shall contain a statement of the facts of his filing such affidavit, the county wherein filed, the amount of his claim, whether for labor, materials or boarding furnished, and the contractor or subcontractor for whom rendered. But when the notice can not be served in the county where the affidavit is filed, it shall be served by the recorder upon the representative of the railroad aforesaid by depositing in the post-office a letter containing the notice directed to his place of residence, or place of doing business, if known to the recorder. Any person failing to file his affidavit, and serve such notice within the time herein prescribed, shall be held to have waived all claim under this and the next two preceding sections, against the railroad company. (R. S. Sec. 3208.)

The service of a notice under this section on a director of the company to be affected by it is sufficient.

Railway Co. v. McCoy, 42 O. S. 251 (1884).

Under this section a substantial compliance with the conditions of the statute providing for the service of written notice upon the owner of the road is essential to create any obligation.

Railway Co. v. Cronin, 38 O. S. 122 (1882).

Section 8348. (How action may be brought.) A person obtaining and holding a lien as provided for in the three preceding sections, in addition to his remedies, under this subdivision, may proceed by petition as in other cases of lien, against the owner of and all other persons interested, as lienholders or otherwise, in such a railroad, and obtain such judgment as justice and equity require. For the purposes of such suit any number of such lien-holders may join as parties plaintiffs, by separately stating and numbering their respective claims, but if several liens be obtained by several persons as aforesaid, on the same railroad, they shall have no priority among themselves; payment thereon shall be made pro rata. (R. S. Sec. 3209; 80 v. 99; R. S. 1880; 71 v. 51, § 1.)

See Schneider v. Cincinnati, etc., Ry. Co., 20 W. L. B. 457 (1888).

Section 8349. (Contractor to be notified of time of payment.) Each contractor or subcontractor shall have at least five days' notice, in writing, of the time when the lien for labor, boarding or materials furnished under a contract with him will be paid, which may be served upon him personally or upon his authorized agent or foreman, by the owner of the railroad, or any officer or agent thereof, stating therein the time of their payment. On request of such contractor or subcontractor he shall be permitted to examine such lien claims before they are paid at any time after the notice has been given. But if such notice can not be served in the county where the lien is filed, it may be given by publication in some newspaper of general circulation therein, for the period of two weeks. If he disputes any of the claims, the company or owner of the road shall withhold payment of those in dispute until they are adjusted. (R. S. Sec. 3210; 80 v. 99; R. S. 1880; 71 v. 51, § 2.)

Section 8350. (How disputed claims adjusted.) When the matter can not be adjusted between the parties interested, it may be submitted to the arbitration of three disinterested persons, one to be chosen by each of the parties, and one by the two thus chosen. Their decision, or that of any two of them, in the absence of fraud or collusion, shall be final and conclusive on the parties. If any claim be disputed and is not settled or submitted to arbitration, the claimant, in such case, shall be required to commence an action on his claim before the proper tribunal, within forty days after notice that it has been disputed, and prosecute it to final judgment without delay. The amount thus ascertained or adjudicated shall then be paid by the railroad owner. But after notice given as above provided, if no objection is filed against such claim within ten days after the expiration of the term for service of notice, then the contractor or subcontractor shall be held to have waived all objection to such claim, and, as against such contractor or subcontractor, it shall be taken to be correct. (R. S. Sec. 3210.)

The limitation of time applies to controversies arising between the contractor or subcontractor and the person furnishing materials or work, and not to right of action on the part of the latter against the owner of the road.

Railway Co. v. Cronin, 38 O. S. 122 (1882).

Section 8351. (To whom preceding sections apply.) The provisions of the next six preceding sections apply to and include any person who furnishes grain, hay, merchandise, tools or implements, or who repairs any tools or implements, on the order of any contractor or subcontractor, for their own use, or the use of persons employed by them or either of them while furnishing materials or labor for or in construction of such railroad. But the amount of such claim shall not exceed the wages of the person performing labor or furnishing materials, to whom furnished, or the amount found due such contractor, or subcontractor, under the provisions of this subdivision. In every such case the requirements, as to filing affidavits and giving notices must be strictly complied with; and the aggregate of all liens taken and perfected thereunder, shall not be in excess of the actual construction contract price of the railroad company. (R. S. Sec. 3211; 80 v. 99; R. S. 1880; 71 v. 51, § 3.)

While this section extends the provisions of § 8345 to persons furnishing hay, grain, etc., it does not enlarge the meaning of the word "materials" in § 8345.

Penna. Co. v. Mehaffy, 75 O. S. 432 (1907).

See Schneider v. Railway, 20 W. L. B. 457.

A contractor furnishing gravel and dirt is engaged in "construction" and one who furnished a steam shovel to a subcontractor of the contractor is entitled to a lien on funds due from the railroad to the contractor. Wise v. Connell, 10 Ohio App. 14.

Section 8352. (Interpretation of word "owner.") The word "owner" in the sections of this subdivision of this chapter, shall be held and considered as including any lessee, receiver, corporation, company, or persons owning, operating or managing any railroad with whom or in whose behalf such contracts are made. (R. S. Sec. 3211.)

LIENS OF CARRIERS.

Section 8365. (Notice to owner of receipt of freight.) All express companies, transportation companies, forwarding and commission merchants, common carriers, warehousemen, wharfingers, and railroad companies, doing business in this state, within thirty days after the receipt of any property in their warehouse, depot, station, store or other place of deposit or doing business, when such property is plainly marked with the owner's name and place of residence, or it be otherwise known, shall notify the owner that such property is held by them subject to charges, either by leaving notice at the usual residence or place of business of the owner, or by depositing it, postage prepaid, in the proper postoffice, duly addressed to such owner. (R. S. Sec. 3221; 72 v. 17, § 1.)

Liability of warehouseman on agreement to insure stored goods.

Storage Co. v. Cox, 74 O. S. 284 (1906).

Refusal of consignee to accept goods. Special contract between shipper and carrier for return. Loss on line of connecting carrier. Liability of carrier.

Railroad Co. v. Cappel, 80 O. S. 128 (1909).

Section 8366. (Register of freight.) All such persons, associations, or companies, shall keep a register, in which must be entered a list or inventory of all goods, wares, merchandise, baggage, or other property, with a pertinent description thereof by marks thereon, the size, weight, and the depot, warehouse, or other place where deposited, the time when received, and the amount of charges claimed thereon, which may be left in the possession of such person, association or company, by reason of the owner being unknown, or when such owner's residence is not known, or when such property has been refused, or the owner has neglected to receive it. (R. S. Sec. 3222; 72 v. 18, § 2.)

Section 8367. (When property may be sold.) When any such property has been conveyed to any point in this state, and remains unclaimed for six months at the place to which it is consigned, and the owner within that time fails to claim it, and pay the proper charges, if there be any against it, such person, association, or company, may sell such freight or other property, at public auction, offering each parcel separately. (R. S. Sec. 3223; 74 v. 17, § 3.)

Section 8368. (Notice of sale of property to be given.) Such property may be offered for sale either in the place where the office, station, depot, or warehouse in which it has been deposited for safe-keeping, is located, or at any other place where such person, association, or company may deem best to insure a prompt sale thereof. At least thirty days' notice of the time and place of sale, containing a descriptive list of the several articles to be sold, with names, numbers, and marks thereon, shall be given, by posting such notice at the office, station or depot of such person, association, or company in the county where the place to which the property was consigned is situated, or, if there be no such office, station, or depot, by posting such notice in three public places in such county. In addition to the posting at the place of consignment, such descriptive list must be posted at the place where the property is to be sold, and thirty days' notice of the time and place of the sale be published in a newspaper of general circulation in the county where the sale is to be. (R. S. Sec. 3224; 74 v. 18, § 4.)

Section 8369. (Disposition of proceeds of sale.) From the proceeds of such property, such person, association, or company, shall pay all the necessary costs and expenses of the sale, and all proper charges for freight and storage of the property sold, apportioning such expenses and charges, as near as may be, among the articles sold, to the amount received for each and hold any overplus, subject to the order of the owner thereof, at any time within one year after the sale, upon proof of ownership by affidavit of the claimant or his attorney. After the expiration of one year, all such sums unclaimed shall be paid into the state treasury, to be placed to the credit of the common schools. Any article remaining unsold may be again offered as above provided, until sold. (R. S. Sec. 3225; 74 v. 18, § 4.)

Section 8370. (Suit to subject freight to payment of costs.) Such person, association or company may bring suit in any court of competent jurisdiction for the amount of the freight, storage, and legal charges thereon, and subject such freight to the payment thereof, after ten days from the giving of the notice provided for in section eighty-three hundred and sixty-five, unless such cost and charges are paid, if the owner or consignee is known or can be found in the county. If such owner or consignee is unknown, a non-resident of the county, or his place of residence is unknown, then such notice shall be published for not less than ten days in a newspaper of general circulation in such county. In such case the suit may be brought after ten days from the first publication. The judgment obtained shall be a lien upon the freight, to satisfy which, with costs of suit, it shall be sold. (R. S. Sec. 3226; 74 v. 17, § 3.)

Section 8371. (Storage and the lien therefor.) Such person, association, or company, after the expiration of ten days from the receipt of goods at the place to which they are consigned, upon giving or depositing the notice provided in section eighty-three hundred and sixty-five, and the expiration of ten days, may charge a fair and reasonable cost for storage, which shall be a lien upon the goods so stored. Such person, association, or company also, after the expiration of such ten days, may deliver the goods to any warehouseman or storage merchant at the point of destination thereof, or in case there be no responsible warehouseman or storage merchant at such point willing to receive the goods, then at the most convenient point where storage can be effected, and receive from such warehouseman the freight and charges due such railroad or other company thereon, notifying the owner or consignee of such storage, when known, in the manner above provided, and the advances made. All reasonable charges for storage shall be a lien upon the goods so stored. (R. S. Sec. 3227; 74 v. 17, § 3.)

Lien for freight charges paid to other carriers.

Bennet, etc., Co. v. Robinson, 6 O. L. R. 355 (C. C. A. 1908).

Section 8372. (Copy of notice, sale bill, etc., to be kept.)

Such person, association, or company shall keep a copy of the notice, a copy of the sale bill, and the expenses thereof, proportional to each article sold, and also the oath of the claimant of the residue of the proceeds, and must furnish an inspection of it, and, if required, copies thereof, to any one, on payment of the proper charges therefor. (R. S. Sec. 3228; 72 v. 19, § 5.)

Section 8373. (Sale of perishable articles.) If perishable property be so conveyed as freight, and remain unclaimed until in danger of great depreciation, or it be refused, or the owner thereof cannot be found, then such person, association or company may sell it at private sale, or auction, without giving notice, for the best price it will bring, and apply the proceeds as aforesaid. (R. S. Sec. 3229; 72 v. 19, § 6.)

Live stock is perishable property.

Trustees v. Brighton Stock Yards Co., 27 O. S. 435 (1875).

Section 8374. (Within what time property may be claimed.) If the owner of any such property, at any time within five years, reclaims it, and produces satisfactory evidence to the auditor of state of his ownership thereof, the auditor shall draw his warrant in favor of such person upon the treasurer of state for the amount paid into the state treasury. (R. S. Sec. 3230; 72 v. 20, § 9.)

Section 8375. (Penalty for neglect to comply with provisions.) Any such person, association or company who refuses or neglects to perform any of the duties required by this chapter, with the intent to avoid its provisions, shall forfeit and pay a sum not less than one hundred dollars, nor more than five hundred dollars, at the discretion of the court, to be recovered for the use of common schools in the county in which the principal office of such person, association, or company is located, and also be liable to any person injured thereby in double the value of the property. (R. S. Sec. 3231; 72 v. 20, § 7.)

LIEN ON PUBLIC WORKS.

Section 8376. (Lien for labor or material furnished.)

Any person who has performed common or mechanical labor upon, or furnished supplies to any railroad, street railroad, or railroad operated wholly or in part by electric motor power, turnpike, plank road, canal or on any public structure being erected, or on any abutment, pier, culvert or foundation therefor, or for any side track, embankment, excavation, or any public work, protection, ballasting, delivering or placing ties, or track-laying, whether the labor is performed for, or the supplies or materials are furnished to any company, corporation, contractor, or subcontractor, construction company, or any individual, shall have a first and absolute lien on the whole of the property on which such work is done, or to which such supplies were contributed, and on any fund arising from a sale thereof or any part thereof under an order of any court. (95 v. 609, § 1; R. S. Sec. 3231-1; 86 v. 120.)

This section does not apply to highways owned or constructed by public authorities, but only to such as are owned or constructed by private corporations. In re Schilling, 251 Fed. 966 (D. C. Ohio 1918).

The provisions of this section relating to liens of subcontractors have been held unconstitutional.

Stewart v. Gardner, 10 C. C. n. s. 408; 20 C. D. 218 (1907); aff'd, 78 O. S. 451.

Shaw v. Railway, 8 O. L. R. 43; 173 Fed. 476 (C. C. A. 1909).

Section construed. New England, etc., Co. v. Railway Co., 75 Fed. 162 (1896).

Massillon Bridge Co. v. Cambria Iron Co., 59 O. S. 179 (1898).

Section 8377. (Determination of lien.) Such person shall hold the railroad, street railroad or railroad operated wholly or in part by electric motor power, canal, turnpike, plank road, or structure, to the creation or construction of which such labor or supplies were contributed, or so much thereof as in whole or part have been created by such labor or supplies, to the exclusion of any such railroads, canal, turnpike, plank road, public work or structure, as to operation, occupation or use, until the claim for such labor or supplies is properly adjusted and paid in full. (95 v. 609, § 1; R. S. Sec. 3231-1; 86 v. 120.)

Section 8378. (How lien obtained.) When it is deemed necessary for any construction company, contractor, subcontractor, mechanic, laborer, or person contributing supplies or material to secure a claim against a railroad, canal, turnpike, plank road, public work or public structure, either for work done or material furnished, they shall file a sworn itemized statement, within thirty days after the work was performed or materials furnished, of the amount of work done or material furnished, showing the balance due and claimed for labor or material furnished, with the recorder of the county or counties within which the work was done or materials furnished. If several liens be obtained by several persons on the same job, in the manner prescribed by this subdivision of this chapter, they shall have no priority among themselves, but payments thereon must be made pro rata. (86 v. 120, § 2; R. S. Sec. 3231-2.)

Section 8379. (Bond; when injunction may issue.) Any construction company, contractor, mechanic, laborer or person contributing supplies or material to any work named in section eighty-three hundred and seventy-six, at the time of filing the sworn statement of account as provided in the next preceding section, must file a good and sufficient bond of indemnity for an amount equal to the amount claimed, which bond shall be approved by the probate judge, and be so conditioned as to save and protect the defendant in any case arising under this subdivision of this chapter, and thereupon shall be entitled to a decree of the common pleas court, enjoining and prohibiting the operation, use or occupancy of the property created in whole or in part by the party or parties asking for such injunction; and the injunction shall not be dissolved until the court is satisfied that the claim has been adjusted and paid in full. (86 v. 121, § 3; R. S. Sec. 3231-3).

This section is unconstitutional.

Creech v. Railroad Co., 29 W. L. B. 112 (C. P. 1893).

But does not render the entire act invalid.

New England, etc., Co. v. Oakwood St. Ry. Co., 75 Fed. 162; 8 O. F. D. 682 (C. C. 1896).

Section 8380. (Engineer to make measurements, estimates, etc.) Any civil engineer employed as chief or assistant engineer in the surveying, platting, or cross-sectioning of any railroad, canal, turnpike, plank road or other public road, before the work is commenced, shall make an accurate measurement thereof, and prepare a profile of each section of one mile or less of work, showing quantities of each and every class of work to be done thereon. He also shall designate the nearest benchmark or point from which measurements are made, and drive stakes at top of slope, at foot of embankments, at sides and center of grade and around every burrow pit for each one hundred feet, showing in plain figures by feet and tenths of a foot the depths of cut or height of fill or embankment, together with a correct showing of the quantity of overhaul beyond a given number of feet, in cubic yards, for each section of a mile or less. Such chief or assistant engineer, on demand, when any work is finished, must furnish to any company, contractor, subcontractor or person a final statement of quantities in each class of work done or supplies or material furnished by parties interested. (86 v. 121, § 4; R. S. Sec. 3231-4.)

Where a construction contract requires written orders for all extra work, an engineer has no authority to bind the company by verbal orders therefor.

See Railroad v. Jolly, 71 O. S. 92 (1904).

Penalty for false measurements, see § 13181.

PART XVI.

GENERAL CORPORATION LAW.

Formation.

- § 8623. Purpose for which corporation may be formed.
- § 8624. Sanatoriums.
- § 8625. Who may incorporate; what articles of incorporation shall contain.
- § 8625-1. Soldiers or sailors may form corporation not for profit.
- § 8626. Acknowledgment of articles; where filed.
- § 8627. General powers.
- § 8628. Same or similar names.
- § 8629. Certified copy evidence of incorporation.
- § 8630. Subscription books.
- § 8631. Opening of books.
- § 8632. Payment of subscription.
- § 8633. Certificate when ten per cent is subscribed.
- § 8634. Incorporators' liability.
- § 8635. Notice of election of directors.
- § 8636. Conduct of election; voting.
- § 8637. Inspectors of the election.
- § 8638. Limit on votes of stockholders.
- § 8639. Provisions to which such corporations are subject.
- § 8640. Application for appointment of inspectors of election.
- § 8641. Appointment of inspectors.
- § 8642. List of stockholders for inspectors.
- § 8643. Stock ownership, how ascertained.
- § 8644. Conduct of election.
- § 8645. Compensation of inspectors.
- § 8646. Election of clubhouse corporation.
- § 8647. Elections.
- § 8648. Life of corporations to deal in real estate.
- § 8649. Procedure if all real estate not disposed of in twenty-four years.
- § 8650. Service of summons, sale and distribution.
- § 8651. Articles of incorporation not for profit.
- § 8652. Duties of officers when location is changed.
- § 8653. Members of corporation not for profit.
- § 8654. Members of a religious, secret or benevolent society.
- § 8655. Election.
- § 8656. Term and number of trustees.

- § 8657. Term and number of trustees in secret or benevolent order.
- § 8658. Term and number of trustees of a hospital.
- § 8659. Trustees of corporations organized prior to May 10th, 1902.

Directors and Trustees.

- § 8660. Controlling body of a corporation.
- § 8661. Qualifications of directors and trustees.
- § 8662. Vacancies.
- § 8663. Oath.
- § 8664. Organization.
- § 8665. Change in number of directors.
- § 8666. Liability of trustees.

Capital Stock.

- § 8667. Classes of stock.
- § 8668. Dividends on preferred stock.
- § 8669. Provisions in reference to preferred stock.
- § 8670. Liability of holder of preferred stock.
- § 8671. Rights of holders of preferred stock.
- § 8672. Certificate of stock.
- § 8673. Record of certificates of stock.
- § 8673-1. Transfer of title to certificates and shares.
- § 8673-2. Powers of infant, trustee, executor, etc., not enlarged.
- § 8673-3. Corporation not forbidden to treat registered holder as owner.
- § 8673-4. Title derived from certificate extinguishes title derived from a separate document.
- § 8673-5. Who may deliver a certificate.
- § 8673-6. Indorsement effectual in spite of fraud, duress, etc.
- § 8673-7. Rescission of transfer.
- § 8673-8. Rescission of transfer of certificate does not invalidate subsequent transfer by transferee in possession.
- § 8673-9. Delivery of unindorsed certificate imposes obligation to indorse.
- § 8673-10. Ineffectual attempt to transfer amounts to a promise to transfer.

- § 8673-11. Warranties on sale of certificate.
- § 8673-12. No warranty implied from accepting payment of a debt.
- § 8673-13. When attachment or levy upon shares valid.
- § 8673-14. Creditors' remedies to reach certificate.
- § 8673-15. No lien or restriction of transfer unless stated upon certificate.
- § 8673-16. Alteration of certificate does not divest title to shares.
- § 8673-17. Lost or destroyed certificate.
- § 8673-18. Rules for cases not provided for in act.
- § 8673-19. Interpretation.
- § 8673-20. Indorsement defined.
- § 8673-21. Owner defined.
- § 8673-22. Other definitions.
- § 8674. How payment of stock enforced.
- § 8675. Notice of sale.
- § 8676. Distribution of proceeds of sale.
- § 8677. Procedure when certificate of stock lost or destroyed.
- § 8678. Parties and notice.
- § 8679. Finding and order of the court.
- § 8680. Rights and liabilities under new certificate.
- § 8681. Proceedings may be had by administrators or executors.
- § 8682. Paid-up stock personal property.
- § 8683. May purchase stock in other companies.
- § 8684. Corporate property, how employed.

Stockholders.

- § 8685. Annual statement to stockholders.
- § 8686. Liability of stockholders.
- § 8687. Corporations created subsequent to November 23, 1903.
- § 8688. Limitation of action to enforce liability.
- § 8689. "Stockholder" defined.
- § 8690. Where complaint for enforcement of liability filed.
- § 8691. Procedure by court; receiver.
- § 8692. Enforcement of liability.
- § 8693. Notice to non-resident stockholders.
- § 8694. Court to ascertain and adjudge liabilities.
- § 8695. Actions by receivers.
- § 8696. Notice to creditors.
- § 8697. Distribution of assets.

Changes in Capital Stock.

- § 8698. Increase of capital stock.
- § 8699. Increase by preferred stock.
- § 8700. Reduction of capital stock.

Regulations and By-Laws.

- § 8701. Corporation may adopt regulations.
- § 8702. Trustees or directors may adopt by-laws.
- § 8703. How regulations adopted or changed.
- § 8704. What may be provided for by regulations.

Borrowing Money.

- § 8705. May borrow money on bond or mortgage.
- § 8706. When mortgage deemed to be duly recorded.
- § 8707. When lien effective.
- § 8708. Change of bonds authorized.
- § 8709. Obligations may be converted into stock.

Sale of Entire Property.

- § 8710. Sale of entire property and assets.
- § 8711. Submission of agreement.
- § 8712. Adoption of agreement.
- § 8713. Dissatisfied stockholder.
- § 8714. How award collected.
- § 8715. Procedure when stockholder refuses to submit question.
- § 8716. Notice.
- § 8717. Deposit of award.
- § 8718. Sale to a trust prohibited.

Amendments.

- § 8719. Power to amend.
- § 8720. Proceedings.
- § 8721. Copy to be filed with secretary of state.
- § 8722. When amendments take effect.
- § 8723. How notices waived.

Dividends.

- § 8724. Dividends to be paid from surplus profits only.
- § 8725. Unpaid interest not profits.
- § 8726. How profits ascertained.
- § 8727. What advertisements prohibited.
- § 8728. Liability for violation.

Common Stock without Par Value.

- § 8728-1. Corporations may issue shares of common stock without nominal value authorized; exceptions. Statements required in articles. Filing fee. Number of shares outstanding. What each certificate should show. Opening books of subscription; sale of shares; payment of dividends in stock or cash.

- § 8728-2. When corporation may begin business. Rights of creditors and others; limitation of actions. Payment of dividends. When preferred stock may be redeemed. Not subject to certain limitations on borrowing capacity.
- § 8728-3. How par value of shares shall be stated.
- § 8728-4. Increase or reduction of stock; fee. When and how amendment can be made.
- § 8728-5. Certificate of reorganization; statements required.
- § 8728-6. When affidavit as to debts and liabilities required; endorsement of commissioner.
- § 8728-7. Statement by president and treasurer before incurring debts; filing fee; rights of creditors.
- § 8728-8. Liability unaffected by reorganization.
- § 8728-9. Proceedings shall not work a dissolution or create new corporation.
- § 8728-10. Fees to be paid secretary of state.
- § 8728-11. Amount of fees payable.
- § 8728-12. Jurisdiction of commissioner not superseded; expenses paid by corporation under investigation.

Miscellaneous.

- § 8729. Affidavit as to campaign contributions.
- § 8730. Affidavit in annual reports to auditor and superintendent of insurance.
- § 8730-1. Corporations authorized to create and maintain instrumentalities for public welfare; cooperation of such.
- § 8731. By what laws corporations shall be governed.
- § 8732. What corporations may accept the provisions of this title.
- § 8733. Special charters not accepted or acted upon.
- § 8734. Duty of secretary of state; effect of charter.
- § 8735. Prima facie evidence of incorporation.
- § 8736. Corporations created prior to 1851.
- § 8737. When provisions do not apply.

Dissolution.

- § 8738. Dissolution by abandonment of objects.
- § 8739. Filing of certificate.
- § 8740. Dissolution by corporation whose business is closed.
- § 8741. Filing of certificate.
- § 8742. Trustees to settle affairs of corporation.
- § 8743. Powers and duties of such trustees.

FORMATION.

Section 8623. (Purpose for which corporation may be formed.) Except for carrying on professional business, a corporation may be formed for any purpose for which natural persons lawfully may associate themselves. (R. S. Sec. 3235 May 12, 1902, 95 v. 623; March 22, 1900, 94 v. 65; April 6, 1894, 91 v. 126; April 20, 1893, 90 v. 205; R. S. 1880.)

Section cited. Ehrman v. Insurance Co., 35 O. S. 342; Larwell v. Hanover, etc., Co., 0 40. S. 282; State v. Lemert, 10 N. P. n. s. 135; Bachtel v. Wilson, 204 U. S. 36.

Corporations classified: (1) For profit; (2) Not for profit. Corporations organized under Ohio laws are classed as (1) corporations for profit, which must have a capital stock, and (2) corporations not for profit, which may, but need not, have a capital stock. State v. Standard Life Assn., 38 O. S. 281, 288 (1882); Snyder v. Chamber of Commerce, 53 O. S. 1 (1895).

Corporations for profit are those formed for the prosecution of business enterprises with a view to realizing gains to be distributed as dividends among the shareholders in proportion to their contributions to the capital stock. Snyder v. Chamber of Commerce, 53 O. S. 1, 11 (1895).

A corporation which is necessarily for profit must be so organized, with a capital stock. State v. Home Co-op. Union, 63 O. S. 547 (1900).

The character of the corporate business and the method of conducting it determine whether a corporation is one for profit, and not whether it has a capital stock. Celina Tel. Co. v. Mutual Tel. Co., 102 O. S. 487, 495 (1921).

It has been said that a determining test between a corporation for profit and a corporation not for profit is whether the profits are to be distributed among the stockholders or members. A corporation not for profit may make profits, without being a corporation for profit, if the profits are to be used for the corporate purposes only, and if the stockholders or members have no right of participation therein. Articles of incorporation which provide that no profits shall be distributed to members may be filed on payment of the fee required of a corporation not for profit (§ 176). Rep. Atty. Gen. 1912, pp. 30, 41, 617. See also Taylor v. Hospital, 85 O. S. 90 (1911).

Where the real purpose of a corporation is the promotion of the pecuniary benefit of its members, it can not be organized as a corporation not for profit. Rep. Atty. Gen. 1911-1912, p. 127; Rep. Atty. Gen. 1913, p. 93.

If the real corporate purpose is to save money for the members, it is no less a corporation for profit than if its purpose were to make money for them. Rep. Atty. Gen. 1913, p. 93.

A corporation formed to make loans to its members without interest is for their pecuniary benefit, and can not be organized as a corporation not for profit. Rep. Atty. Gen. 1912, p. 39.

A corporation for profit may be organized to conduct an agricultural fair. State v. Long, 48 O. S. 509 (1891).

A mutual protective association organized under G. C. § 9427 is a corporation not for profit. State v. Standard Life Assn., 38 O. S. 281 (1882).

A corporation not for profit may be formed for the purpose of distributing electric current to its members. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1919, p. 233.

And for the purpose of furthering the political candidacy of an individual. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1918, p. 1480.

Corporate purpose as a privilege, or a charter obligation. The purpose for which a corporation is organized is a privilege which need not be exercised to the full extent. The statement in articles of incorporation that the corporation is formed for the purpose of producing and furnishing natural gas to certain named cities "and to other cities, villages and places in the counties aforesaid," does not make it a charter obligation of the corporation to furnish gas to all such cities. East Ohio Gas Co. v. Akron, 81 O. S. 33, 51 (1909).

But the charter purpose may determine the character of the corporation, although it does not avail itself of all its powers. A bank possessing the powers of a commercial bank, trust company, and savings bank is a commercial bank although it may not act as such. Rep. Atty. Gen. 1914, p. 85.

Professional business. A physician's defense company proposing to issue contracts whereby it agrees to defend physicians against civil actions for malpractice can not become incorporated or be authorized to do business in Ohio. State v. Laylin, 73 O. S. 90 (1905); Rep. Atty. Gen. 1906, p. 51; Rep. Atty. Gen. 1913, p. 68.

A corporation carrying on professional business in violation of this section can not complain of unfair competition in such business. Union Painless Dentists Co. v. Mullen, 6 O. L. R. 475; 19 L. D. 136 (Cin. Super. Ct. 1908).

A contract by a street railway corporation to perform medical services is not only ultra vires, but void. Such corporation can not be directly liable for malpractice. Youngstown, etc., Ry. Co. v. Kessler, 84 O. S. 74 (1911).

A public account is not engaged in professional business. Rep. Atty. Gen. 1909-1910, p. 84; Rep. Atty. Gen. 1910-1911, p. 237.

Engineering is not professional business. Rep. Atty. Gen. 1910-1911, p. 213.

But it is said that where the main purpose of a corporation requires that its business be transacted by agents, who are required to be qualified and licensed by public authority, such business must be deemed professional and within the prohibition of § 8623. Rep. Atty. Gen. 1911-1912, p. 73.

The making of contracts to furnish the contract holders with the services of physicians employed by the corporation is professional business and is prohibited by § 8623. Rep. Atty. Gen. 1912, p. 32.

But furnishing messenger, employment agency, and information service to physicians and others is not professional business. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1917, p. 262.

It is an agency and not professional business for a corporation to arrange a contract between an individual and a professional, for a compensation to be paid by the individual, leaving the selection of the professional to the individual and leaving the amount of compensation to mutual agreement between the individual and professional. Rep. Atty. Gen. 1911-1912, p. 73.

The making of contracts whereby a corporation, in consideration of periodical payments, agrees to furnish medical attendance in case of sickness, and to bury the remains after death, is probably professional business. 5 Opins. Attys. Gen. 975.

Single purpose rule. The use of the word "purpose" and not "purposes" implies a limitation. Except where specially authorized by statute, a corporation can be organized for one main purpose only. Several different purposes can not be united in one organization. State v. Taylor, 55 O. S. 61, 67 (1896). See 3 O. L. R. 187, 205.

Several purposes incident to the main purpose may be joined. A corporation organized for the main purpose of operating a street railway by electricity may also furnish electric light and power. State v. Taylor, 55 O. S. 61, 65 (1896).

Several means may be joined to carry out the main purpose. A corporation formed to furnish light may provide, in its articles of incorporation, for both gas and electricity for such purpose. Pickard v. Hughey, 58 O. S. 577 (1898).

A light, heat and power company may, in its articles, provide authority to purchase, or otherwise acquire, as well as to produce or manufacture its light, heat or power. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1916, p. 563.

A corporation may be originally organized to conduct several classes of business which one corporation, formed by consolidation of several corporations, is authorized to conduct. Rep. Atty. Gen. 1908, pp. 62, 55, 89; Rep. Atty. Gen. 1904, p. 78.

A corporation may be authorized to carry on both a wholesale and retail business, without violating the single purpose rule. Rep. Atty. Gen. 1908, p. 74.

The main purpose of a corporation fixes its class. A railroad company is not a hotel company because it operates eating houses in connection with its passenger traffic, nor is a railroad company a land company because it has acquired unnecessary land. A coal company is not a railroad company because it operates a railroad from its mines to a railroad.

State v. H. V. Ry. Co., 12 C. C. n. s. 49, 60-61; 21 C. D. 175 (1909).

Special statutory provisions enlarge the powers of certain classes of corporations, such as manufacturing and mining companies.

G. C. § 10136 et seq.

A manufacturing company may deal in articles manufactured by it, but not in manufactured articles generally.

Rep. Atty. Gen., 1910-1911, pp. 214, 266.

Opins. Atty. Gen. 1916, p. 1497.

A manufacturing company may, as an incident to its business, purchase and sell patent rights. But a corporation formed for the purpose of developing certain inventions may not include in its articles the purpose of manufacturing and selling the articles to which the patent processes are applicable.

Rep. Atty. Gen., 1911-1912, p. 72.

It is not a violation of the single purpose rule for a foreign corporation to be organized for the purpose of acquiring and holding the stock and bonds of an Ohio corporation, to assist in its reorganization. Toledo Co. v. Smith, 205 Fed. 643, 653 (D. C. 1913).

Foreign corporations are, by the express provisions of G. C. § 178, excepted from the single purpose rule. Rep. Atty. Gen. 1912, pp. 15, 44.

Illustrations of violation of single purpose rule. Articles of incorporation have been rejected by the secretary of state where it was attempted to join several unrelated purposes, as follows:

To transact (1) manufacturing, (2) merchandise, and (3) transportation business. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1916, p. 218.

To (1) audit accounts, (2) establish a collection agency, and (3) do a mercantile agency business.

Rep. Atty. Gen. 1909-1910, p. 84.

To (1) mine, manufacture, buy and sell metals, (2) as principal, agent, factor and broker and (3) to deal in foundry supplies.

Rep. Atty. Gen. 1909-1910, p. 121.

To conduct (1) grocery stores and (2) a general invention development business.

Rep. Atty. Gen., 1908, p. 82.

To sell all merchantable articles at wholesale or retail.

Rep. Atty. Gen., 1908, p. 64.

To (1) deal in minerals and timber, (2) mineral and timber lands, and (3) engage in general mining.

Rep. Atty. Gen., 1908, p. 77.

To (1) produce oil and gas, and (2) mine coal.

Rep. Atty. Gen., 1910-1911, pp. 227, 228.

To (1) negotiate and make loans on real estate, and (2) furnish abstracts of title.

Rep. Atty. Gen., 1910-1911, p. 230.

To do (1) a general engineering, and (2) analytical, consulting and manufacturing chemistry business.

Rep. Atty. Gen., 1910-1911, p. 213.

To (1) manufacture machinery, etc., and (2) develop and sell power.

Rep. Atty. Gen., 1908-1909, p. 73.

See Rep. Atty. Gen., 1910-1911, pp. 221, 268.

To (1) do a stock and bond business, and (2) act as a trustee of corporate mortgages.

Rep. Atty. Gen. 1910-1911, p. 251.

To do (1) a real estate, (2) insurance, and (3) securities business. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1917, p. 196.

To (1) deal in real property, (2) manage estates, and (3) act as agent and broker.

Rep. Atty. Gen., 1908-1909, p. 84; Rep. Atty. Gen. 1910-1911, p. 235.

The (1) production, smelting, etc., of minerals, (2) organizing companies to produce and smelt minerals and (3) dealing in bonds and securities of other corporations.

5 Opins. Attys. Gen., 839 (1903).

To (1) act as agent for insurance companies, (2) act as agent in employing attorneys at law, and (3) loan money to litigants.

5 Opins. Attys. Gen., 1903, p. 1022.

See Rep. Atty. Gen. 1910-1911, p. 265.

To produce and deal in lumber, building materials, and "other personal property and rights and interests of every kind and description," and "to carry on any other lawful business whatsoever which the corporation may deem proper or convenient to be carried on in connection with . . . any of the foregoing purposes, or calculated indirectly to promote the interest of the corporation or to enhance or preserve the value of its property."

Rep. Atty. Gen., 1909-1910, 146.

Purpose must be lawful. A corporation can not be formed for an unlawful purpose, nor can a foreign corporation be admitted to do an unlawful business in Ohio.

Paul v. Groene, 4 O. L. R. 632; 17 L. D. 738 (Cin. Super. Ct. 1907).

State v. Interstate Sgs. Investment Co., 64 O. S. 283, 318 (1901).

Private corporations cannot be legally organized to discharge governmental functions, but may be formed for the purpose of assisting officers of the law in a legitimate way. Rep. Atty. Gen. 1912, p. 78; G. C. §§ 10199, 10200.

The following purposes have been held or deemed to be unlawful:

Conducting a lottery.

Paul v. Groene, 4 O. L. R. 632; 17 L. D. 738 (1907).

State v. Interstate Sgs. Investment Co., 64 O. S. 283 (1901).

Receiving illegal rebates from railway companies.

Brundred v. Rice, 49 O. S. 640 (1892).

Purchasing franchises of corporations.

(Atty. Gen.); 24 W. L. B. 269 (1890); 4 Opins. Attys. Gen., 361.

Dealing generally in stocks of other corporations. (On the ground that under G. C. § 8683 a corporation may acquire stock in "kindred but not competing corporations" only.)

5 Opins. Attys. Gen., 924, 969 (1903); citing Bank v. Bank, 36 O. S. 354.

Rep. Atty. Gen., 1910-1911, p. 246.

Rep. Atty. Gen., 1911-1912, pp. 58, 61.

Association of unmarried persons, to establish a fund by assessment and pay stipulated sums to members upon marriage.

5 Opins. Attys. Gen., 118 (1900).

Marriage endowment association.

4 Opins. Attys. Gen., 43.

Manufacturing articles infringing patents.

See Clemshire v. Boone Co. Bank, 53 Ark. 512 (1890).

A combination in restraint of trade. Rep. Atty. Gen. 1912, p. 66.

Forming a military company of foreigners, presumably for an improper purpose.

Russian American Guards Charter, 3 Pa. Dist. 673 (1893); s. c., 13 Pa. Co. Ct. Rep. 148.

Assisting in war against the United States.

Chicora Co. v. Crews, 6 S. C. 243 (1874).

United States v. Insurance Co., 22 Wall. (U. S.); 99 (1874).

Importing Co. v. Locke, 50 Ala. 332 (1876).

Arranging marriages for compensation.

In re Mutual Aid Ass'n, 15 Phila. 625 (1881).

In re Helping Hand Ass'n., 15 Phila. 644 (1881).

Resisting temperance laws.

Detroit, etc., Bund v. Detroit, etc., Verein, 44 Mich. 313 (1880).

Manipulating stocks of other corporations and thereby creating a trust. People, ex rel., v. Gas Trust, 130 Ill. 268 (1889).

Resisting enactment of laws by lawful means has been regarded as a proper purpose. 4 Opins. Attys. Gen., 84 (1888). Contra. 2 Opins. Attys. Gen. 1070, 1086 (1882).

Banks, insurance companies, etc., can not organize under the general corporation law. Where the method of incorporation of a certain class of corporations is specially provided for by statute, such companies must organize under the special statute and not under the general corporation law. G. C. § 8737.

Insurance companies. State v. Pioneer Live Stock Co., 38 O. S. 347 (1882); Rep. Atty. Gen. 1912, p. 83.

Banks: G. C. § 710-41 et seq.; Rep. Atty. Gen. 1908-1909, p. 80; 4 Opins. Attys. Gen. 565.

In the articles of incorporation of an insurance agency company, the corporate purpose can not be expressed as a "business of general insurance underwriters." Rep. Atty. Gen. 1911-1912, p. 60.

Corporations formed to administer trusts. A corporation formed to carry out and perpetuate a trust is subordinate and subsidiary to the objects of the trust, as declared by the donor. State v. Toledo, 3 C. C. n. s. 468, 474; 13 C. D. 327 (1902); Toledo v. Saiders, 15 C. C. n. s. 468; 23 C. D. 613 (1910); aff'd, no rep., 83 O. S. 495; see § 10085 et seq.

Section 8624. (Sanatoriums.) Corporations for the erection, owning and conducting of sanatoriums for receiving and caring for patients, their medical, surgical and hygienic treatment, and the instruction of nurses in the treatment of diseases and of hygiene, are not forbidden by the next preceding section. (R. S. Sec. 3235; May 12, 1902, 95 v. 623; March 22, 1900, 94 v. 65; April 6, 1894, 91 v. 126; April 20, 1893, 90 v. 205; R. S. 1880.)

A sanatorium is a place where patients are received and cared for. An office is not a sanatorium. Rep. Atty. Gen. 1912, p. 20.

Articles of incorporation of a training school for nurses may include authority to issue certificates of completion of course. Rep. Atty. Gen. 1908, p. 64.

A corporation not for profit maintaining a charity hospital or other purely charitable institution is not liable for the negligence of its servants. Taylor v. Protestant, etc., Assn., 85 O. S. 90 (1911).

Except where it has failed to exercise proper care in the selection of such servants. Taylor v. Hospital, 104 O. S. 61 (1922).

That a hospital receives pay from a patient for lodging and care does not affect its character as a charitable institution. Taylor v.

Protestant, etc., Assn., 85 O. S. 90 (1911); O'Brien v. Hosp. Assn., 96 O. S. 1 (1917).

A public charitable hospital can not receive pay patients to such an extent as to exhaust its accommodations and render it unable to care for the usual number of charity patients. O'Brien v. Hosp. Assn., 96 O. S. 1 (1917).

Under the "single purpose" doctrine (see note to § 8623) a corporation can not be organized to conduct both a hotel and a sanatorium. Rep. Atty. Gen. 1910-1911, p. 260.

Evidence of charitable nature of corporation. A corporation not for profit may show by its charter, constitution and by-laws, or by oral evidence not inconsistent therewith, that it is organized solely for the purpose of administering a public charity, the foundation of which is derived from private donations. O'Brien v. Hosp. Assn., 96 O. S. 1 (1917).

Section 8625. (Who may incorporate. What articles of incorporation shall contain.) Any number of persons, not less than five, a majority of whom are citizens of this state, desiring to become incorporated, shall subscribe and acknowledge articles of incorporation, which must contain:

1. The name of the corporation, which, unless it is not for profit, may begin with the word "the" and shall end with the word "company", "corporation," "incorporated," or "inc.", except as otherwise provided by law.

2. The place where it is to be located, or its principal business transacted.

3. The purpose for which it is formed.

4. The amount of its capital stock, if it is to have capital stock, and the number of shares into which it is divided.

5. But, if the corporation is for a purpose which includes the construction of an improvement not to be located at a single place, the articles of incorporation must also set forth—

a. The kind of improvement intended to be constructed.

b. Its termini, and the counties in or through which it or its branches will pass. (110 v. 144; R. S. Secs. 3236, 3237; April 10, 1889, 86 v. 224; April 16, 1885, 82 v. 134; Rev. Stats. 1880.)

Charter, what constitutes. The charter of a corporation formed under general corporation laws consists of the articles of incorporation and the general laws of the state. Security Trust Co. v. Ford, 75 O. S. 322, 333 (1906); Wegener v. Wegener, 101 O. S. 22 (1920); Cronin v. Potter's Co-op. Co., 29 W. L. B. 52 (1892).

The charter of a corporation, for excise tax purposes, may be determined from the nature of its business, and not exclusively from its articles of incorporation. Railway Co. v. Poland, 10 N. P. n. s. 617 (C. P. 1910).

Unauthorized provisions in articles of incorporation. Articles of incorporation should contain only those provisions which are specified in the statute. Other provisions are void. Security Trust Co. v. Ford, 75 O. S. 322 (1906); People v. Chicago Gas Trust, 130 Ill. 268; Oregon, etc., Co. v. Oregonian Ry. Co., 130 U. S. 1, 25; State v. Anderson, 31 Ind. App. 34; O'Brien v. Cummings, 13 Mo. App. 197.

Such unauthorized provisions do not, however, invalidate the entire instrument. If it contains the provisions required by statute, it will be held valid, and the unauthorized provisions disregarded as surplusage. Toledo, etc., Ry. Co. v. Toledo Elec., etc., Co., 6 C. C. 362, 391; 3 C. D. 493, 507 (1892); aff'd, no rep., 50 O. S. 603. See Hanna v. International Petroleum Co., 23 O. S. 622 (1873).

Articles containing unauthorized provisions may be refused filing by the secretary of state. 3 Opins. Attys. Gen. 699.

The following are illustrations of unauthorized provisions:

Limitation of duration of corporation (not a real estate company).

3 Opins. Attys. Gen. 241.

Designation of first board of directors or trustees.

3 Opins. Attys. Gen. 241-699.

Reformation of articles because of mistake.

See Cronin v. Potter's Co-op. Co., 29 W. L. B. 52 (C. P. 1892).

Correction of defective articles.

See § 12210 et seq.

Amendment of articles. See § 8719.

Incorporators. Only natural persons may act. Associations, firms and corporations are disqualified.

Rep. Atty. Gen., 1908, p. 72.

2 Opins. Attys. Gen., 109.

Rep. Atty. Gen. 1910-1911, p. 210.

Infants are not competent to act.

State v. Burial Assn., 8 C. C. n. s. 233, 253; 18 C. D. 397 (1906).

Articles executed by less than five incorporators are void.

State, ex rel., v. Critchett, 37 Minn. 13.

People v. Montecito Water Co., 97 Cal. 276.

Articles which failed to show that a majority of the incorporators were residents of Ohio were refused filing by the secretary of state.

3 Opins. Attys. Gen., 530.

Incorporators need not subscribe for stock in the corporation or have any financial interest in it. Kardo Co. v. Adams, 231 Fed. 950, 964; 14 O. L. R. 226 (C. C. A. Ohio 1916); reversing, 13 O. L. R. 137.

Where, after articles have been filed and recorded, it is discovered that one of the incorporators was an infant, it is said that the articles can not be withdrawn and others substituted; but that an amendment of the articles should be filed.

Rep. Atty. Gen., 1910-1911, p. 263.

A secret intention, of illegal user, on the part of the incorporators, not expressed in the articles, does not vitiate the articles.

State v. Taylor, 25 O. S. 279 (1874).

Cronin v. Potter's Co-op. Co., 29 W. L. B. 52, 55 (C. P. 1892).

3 Opins. Attys. Gen., 1059, 1096.

(1). NAME OF CORPORATION.

See also note to § 8628.

Where the words "The" and "Company" are omitted from the name, the public is likely to be misled into the belief that it is dealing with individuals or an association of individuals.

Union Painless Dentists v. Mullen, 6 O. L. R. 475; 19 L. D. 136 (1908).

(2). LOCATION.

The statement in the articles is conclusive as to the location of the corporation, although much of its business is transacted elsewhere. The place so designated is the situs of the corporation for taxation purposes.

Pelton v. Transportation Co., 37 O. S. 450 (1882).

Mercantile Trust Co. v. Aetna Iron Works, 4 C. C. 579, 585; 2 C. D. 718, 722 (1890).

Sims v. Best, 1 C. C. n. s. 41; 15 C. D. 149 (1903); (foreign corporation).

Pomeroy Salt Co. v. Davis, 21 O. S. 555 (1871).

Booth v. Wonderly, 36 N. J. L. 250.

Union Steamboat Co. v. Buffalo, 82 N. Y. 351, §§ 10135, 8744, 9043.

The statute does not require the office building or street address to be stated. It is sufficient to specify the municipality or place. Within such municipality the corporation may, at pleasure, remove its principal office from one building to another, although its purpose is to avoid taxation.

Pelton v. Transportation Co., 37 O. S. 450 (1882).

Mercantile Trust Co. v. Aetna Iron Works, 4 C. C. 579, 585; 2 C. D. 718, 722 (1890).

An amendment of the articles is required for a change to another municipality or place. See § 8719.

State v. Coal Co., 4 N. P. 115; 6 L. D. 180 (1897).

An order of attachment may be issued by a justice of the peace against a corporation in any county in which it is a nonresident, or has no place of business, or no officer upon whom a summons may be served. See § 10253.

Champion Machine Co. v. Huston, 24 O. S. 503 (1874).

Ruling organization—location of: See §§ 8651, 8652.

(3). PURPOSE FOR WHICH ORGANIZED.

See also note to § 8623.

The purpose should be stated in general terms. It is improper to enumerate the incidental powers which are conferred upon the corporation by general law.

Rep. Atty. Gen., 1908-1909, pp. 84, 81, 94.

Wendel v. State, 62 Wis. 300.

People v. Chicago Gas Trust, 130 Ill. 268.

Rep. Atty. Gen., 1910-1911, p. 252.

Rep. Atty. Gen. 1911-1912, p. 64.

The purpose should be clearly stated. The business to be transacted must be specified. It is not a compliance with the law to state that the company is formed to do any business it may find profitable.

In re Crown Bank L. R., 44 Ch. Div. 634.

See State, ex rel., v. Central, etc., Assn., 29 O. S. 399 (1876).

Nor "for the mutual benefit of its members." Rep. Atty. Gen. 1912, p. 76.

The purpose clause should be complete and should not require a reference to the articles of another corporation. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1915, p. 1923.

The articles of a corporation not for profit should clearly show the absence of any pecuniary benefit to the members or stockholders. Rep. Atty. Gen. 1912, pp. 36, 30, 66. See also note to § 8623.

The articles of a manufacturing company should specify definitely the articles to be manufactured.

Rep. Atty. Gen., 1910-1911, pp. 229, 266.

Articles of incorporation have been refused filing and record in the office of the secretary of state because of indefinite statement of purpose. Illustrations:

Corporation formed to manufacture a certain article "and to engage in a general manufacturing and mercantile business."

Rep. Atty. Gen., 1908-1909, p. 54.

Corporation formed to manufacture brake shoes "and all other articles that may be manufactured from wood and sold at a profit."

Rep. Atty. Gen., 1908-1909, p. 54.

Contractors' association incorporated for the purpose of "promoting the business welfare of its stockholders and members."

Rep. Atty. Gen., 1911-1912, p. 70.

Articles of incorporation should be construed as an entirety, in determining the powers of a corporation, and the power should not be limited by reading single sentences or clauses and excluding all else. Eaton v. Society, 264 Ill. 88; 105 N. E. 746 (1914).

(4). CAPITAL STOCK.

No-par-value common stock. § 8728-1.

A corporation which is necessarily for profit can not be organized without a capital stock.

State v. Home Co-op. Union, 63 O. S. 547 (1900).

A clerical error in the statement of the number or amount of shares will not invalidate articles where the amount of the capital stock is correctly stated.

Hughes v. Antietam Mfg. Co., 34 Md. 316.

Articles which failed to specify the number of shares were rejected by the secretary of state.

3 Opins. Attys. Gen., 194.

Statements in articles as to preferred stock.

See §§ 8668, 8669 and notes.

The term "capital stock" is sometimes used to designate the common stock, exclusive of the preferred stock. Miller v. Baker Co., 11 O. L. R. 557 (U. S. D. C. 1912).

Capital stock and corporate property distinguished. In taxation and certain other statutes the term "capital stock" has been used as meaning the capital or property of the corporation.

Lee v. Sturges, 46 O. S. 160 (1889).

Bradley v. Bauder, 36 O. S. 34 (1880).

Jones v. Davis, 35 O. S. 476, 477 (1880).

Railway Co. v. Furnace Co., 49 O. S. 112 (1892).

But there is a distinction between the capital stock and the capital of a corporation. The amount of the capital stock remains fixed while the property or capital fluctuates in value and continually increases or diminishes in amount.

State v. Jones, 51 O. S. 510, 511 (1894).

Cleveland Trust Co. v. Lander, 62 O. S. 273 (1900).

The capital stock is not owned by the corporation, but by its shareholders. A corporation owes and not owns its stock. The capital stock is a liability of the corporation and not an asset.

Southern Gum Co. v. Laylin, 66 O. S. 578, 596 (1902).

Natl. Bank v. L. S. & M. S. R. Co., 21 O. S. 221, 230 (1871).

State v. Franklin Bank, 10 Ohio 91 (1840).

A share of stock is a right which entitles its owner to participate in the profits of the corporation, in its assets upon liquidation, and to vote at elections for directors.

See Jones v. Davis, 35 O. S. 477 (1880).

(5). TERMINI AND ROUTE OF IMPROVEMENT.

Where the corporate purpose includes the construction of an improvement not located at a single place the termini must be designated with reasonable certainty. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1919, p. 233; 5 Opins. Atty. Gen. 950 (1903).

The articles of incorporation of a telephone company must set forth the termini of the improvement and the counties in or through which it or its branches shall pass.

Rep. Atty. Gen., 1904-1905, p. 74.

An interurban railroad, in amending its articles so as to change its route or a terminum, must comply with §§ 8747 and 8748. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1915, p. 1282.

Where a gas company extends into more than one locality, its articles must set forth the route and termini. Rep. Atty. Gen. 1912, p. 1497.

Definiteness of description required. The statute only requires reasonable certainty and the description of the termini and course may be somewhat indefinite in the articles of incorporation, if defined by location. The location must be made with reasonable compliance with the description in the articles of incorporation. To require a greater degree of certainty in the articles of incorporation to ensure validity would necessarily defeat the object of the statute in many, if not most, cases. Reasonable latitude must be allowed, for it is by force of such description that a company may send its engineers upon the lands of others to locate the route definitely.

Callender v. Painesville, etc., R. R. Co., 11 O. S. 516.

Cleveland, etc., R. R. Co. v. Prentice, 13 O. S. 373, 379 (1862).

A description of the termini and course of a road "from a point on the Ohio and Pennsylvania State line in the County of Trumbull, in said state of Ohio, to a point on the Ohio River in same state in the County of Brown or Adams," was held too uncertain to support condemnation proceedings.

Atlantic, etc., R. R. Co. v. Sullivant, 5 O. S. 276 (1855).

Indefiniteness of descriptions in articles of incorporation may be cured by legislative recognition or by actual location, construction and operation.

Cayuga R. R. Co. v. Kyle, 5 Thomp. & C. (N. Y.) 659 (1875).

Articles of association of a road corporation describe the termini of the projected road with sufficient certainty when the description can be rendered certain, as where the road is made to start at a point definitely described to run specified courses and distances to an end, the whole length of road being given.

Miller v. Wild Cat Gravel Road Co., 52 Ind. 51 (1875).

Where the articles of incorporation of a railroad company are defective in not specifying with sufficient certainty the terminus of the road, but are properly filed in the office of the secretary of state, such filing is notice to the state of such defect, and if the state neglects for five years (G. C. § 12340) to take advantage by quo warranto or otherwise, the right is lost.

State v. Bailey, 19 Ind. 452.

Route. This section does not require the townships to be specified. Where townships are specified, it is mere surplusage. The railroad may be extended into other townships within the counties named in the articles.

Hayes v. Toledo Ry. & Ter. Co., 6 C. C. n. s. 281; 16 C. D. 395 (1903); aff'd, no rep., 70 O. S. 425.

Contiguous counties may be named in the alternative and the terminus may be an undesignated point in a township.

Callender v. Painesville R. R. Co., 11 O. S. 516 (1860).

Termini. Both terminal points may be located in one city.

State v. Union Ter. R. Co., 72 O. S. 455 (1905).

The terminus may be an undesignated point in a township.

Callender v. Painesville, etc., R. R. Co., 11 O. S. 516 (1860).

Articles of incorporation are not invalid because the terminus of the proposed improvement is designated as "in or near the town of Lima, Allen County, state of Ohio, at a point on the Cleveland and St. Louis Railroad." The words "in or near" are sufficiently definite, meaning substantially "in."

Warner v. Callender, 20 O. S. 190 (1870).

Central R. R. Co. v. Penn. R. R. Co., 31 N. J. Eq. 475 (1879).

A description "from" a city or other point includes any point in such city. See § 8745.

Colorado, etc., Ry. Co. v. Union Pac. Ry. Co., 41 Fed. 293.

Comm. v. Erie, etc., R. R. Co., 27 Pa. St. 339, 352.

Chicago, etc., Ry. Co. v. Chicago, etc., Ry. Co., 112 Ill. 589.

St. Louis, etc., Ry. Co. v. Hannibal, etc., Co., 125 Mo. 82; 28 S. W. Rep. 483.

Contra, Northeastern R. R. Co. v. Payne, 8 Rich. L. (s. c.), 177.

A description "to" a certain place is inclusive.

Rio Grande R. R. Co. v. Brownsville, 45 Tex. 88.

St. Louis, etc., Co. v. Hannibal, etc., Co., 125 Mo. 82; 28 S. W. Rep. 483.

See Hatry v. Painesville, etc., Ry. Co., 1 C. C. 426, 433; 1 C. D. 238, 242 (1886).

A description "at" a certain town is inclusive.

Mohawk Bridge Co. v. Utica, etc., R. R. Co., 6 Paige Ch. (N. Y.) 554.

Mason v. Brooklyn, etc., Co., 35 Barb. (N. Y.) 373.

A description "between" certain points is inclusive.

Morris, etc. R. R. Co. v. Central, etc., R. R. Co., 31 N. J. L. 205.

Section 8625-1. (Soldiers or sailors may form corporation not for profit. Corporation with or without capital stock; fee.) Any five or more honorably discharged soldier or sailors who have served in any war in which the United States has participated, may organize a corporation not for profit, under the general corporation laws of the state of Ohio, for the purpose of perpetuating American ideals, of encouraging, promoting and unifying the interests of, and work among the veterans of the Army and Navy of the United States and its Allies, and providing means and facilities for such purpose or purposes, by acquiring by purchase, lease or otherwise, real estate for a club house, and educational and recreational grounds, buildings and equipment, and owning, improving, holding, operating and disposing of the same for the accommodation, convenience, pleasure and entertainment of said veterans, and providing funds for the acquisition and operation of said buildings, grounds and equipment, and for the carrying on of said work, or for any one or more of the above purposes.

Such corporation may be organized with or without capital stock and the fee to be charged by the secretary of state upon the filing of such articles of incorporation shall be two dollars if such corporation shall have no capital stock and twenty-five dollars if such corporation shall have capital stock, irrespective of the amount thereof. (109 v. 139.)

Section 8626. (Acknowledgment of articles; where filed.)

Articles of incorporation shall be acknowledged before an officer authorized to take the acknowledgment of deeds, the form of which shall be prescribed by the secretary of state. The official character of the officer before whom articles of incorporation are acknowledged, shall be certified by the clerk of the common pleas court of the county wherein the acknowledgment is taken. Articles of incorporation shall be filed in the office of the secretary of state, who shall record them, and shall also record certificates relating to that corporation, thereafter filed in his office. (R. S. Secs. 3236, 3238; March 31, 1902, 95 v. 76; April 27, 1896, 92 v. 320; April 10, 1889, 86 v. 224; April 16, 1885, 82 v. 134; Rev. Stats. 1880.)

Execution and acknowledgment. Articles should be signed and acknowledged in this state, under the rule that the acceptance of a charter and organization of the corporation must occur in the state creating it.

3 Opins. Attys. Gen., 560.

See Myers v. Manhattan Bank, 20 Ohio 283 (1851).

Smith v. Silver, etc., Co., 64 Md. 85.

Freeman v. Machias, etc., Co., 38 Me. 343.

Heath v. Silverthorn, etc., Co., 39 Wis. 146.

A total absence of acknowledgment will render the articles void.

Doyle v. Mizner, 42 Mich. 332.

Articles signed in blank, and subject to future agreement, may be disaffirmed by the incorporators.

Dutchess R. R. Co. v. Mabbett, 58 N. Y. 397.

Richmond R. R. Co. v. Reed, 83 Ind. 9.

A material alteration, after acknowledgment, will invalidate the articles.

2 Opins. Attys. Gen., 243.

An acknowledgment made before a probate judge must be authenticated by the certificate of the clerk of the court of common pleas.

Rep. Atty. Gen., 1910-1911, p. 216.

The officer's certificate of acknowledgment should contain the names of the incorporators as subscribed to the articles. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1919, p. 18.

Officers authorized to take acknowledgments in Ohio. A notary public within the county of his residence and of each county for which he is appointed, §§ 126, 8510; a judge or clerk of a court of record, a county auditor, county surveyor, mayor, a justice of the peace, § 8510; a police judge, § 4585; a probate judge, § 1582.

Acknowledgments under former law. State, ex rel., v. Lee, 21 O. S. 662 (1871).

Spinning v. Home Ass'n., 26 O. S. 483 (1875).

Warner v. Callender, 20 O. S. 190 (1870).

Lucas v. Building Ass'n., 22 O. S. 339 (1872).

Griffin v. Clinton, etc., R. R. Co., 1 W. L. M. 31 (1859).

Clarke v. Thomas, 34 O. S. 46, 59 (1877).

Hagerman v. Building Ass'n., 25 O. S. 186, 200 (1874).

Filing.

Duty of secretary of state. If the instrument is in proper form and shows compliance with the law, it is the duty of the secretary of state to file and record the same. In case of wrongful refusal, mandamus will lie to compel its filing and recording.

State v. Taylor, 55 O. S. 61 (1896).

But it is also the duty of the secretary of state to refuse to file an instrument which is defective in form, or which contains a statement of an illegal or unauthorized corporate purpose.

State v. Laylin, 73 O. S. 90 (1905).

Or in which the corporate purpose is not clearly stated.

Rep. Atty. Gen., 1908-1909, p. 54.

4 Opins. Attys. Gen., 470.

Or in which the "single purpose" rule is violated.

State v. Taylor, 55 O. S. 61 (1896).

Or in which the law is not complied with in other respects.

Security Trust Co. v. Ford, 75 O. S. 335 (1906).

Or where the corporate name violates § 8628.

The secretary of state has discretion to determine whether a name is misleading.

Rep. Atty. Gen., 1911-1912, p. 127.

Time of filing. The act of filing and not the endorsement of the instrument by the secretary of state determines the time of filing. The endorsement is merely the evidence of filing.

State v. Foulkes, 94 Ind. 493.

See King v. Penn., 43 O. S. 57 (1885).

Haines v. Lindsey, 4 Ohio 88 (1829).

Withdrawal of articles. Where, after articles have been filed and recorded, it is discovered that one of the incorporators was a minor, it is said that the articles can not be withdrawn and other articles substituted; but that an amendment to the articles should be filed.

Rep. Atty. Gen. 1910-1911, p. 263.

"Other certificates relating to the corporation." Section 8626 authorizes the filing, not only of the certificates expressly provided for by statute, but also of miscellaneous certificates and affidavits for the purpose of record. The following have been approved by the attorney general:

A certificate by incorporators of abandonment of the purpose of forming a corporation. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1915, p. 137.

A certified transcript, from the record of a county recorder, of incorporation proceedings under former laws. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1915, p. 2073.

An affidavit showing the existence and amount of the capital stock of a corporation reorganized under statutes relating to railroad companies, where no certificate had been filed as required. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1916, p. 261.

The fee is 20 cents per 100 words; minimum $5 under § 176, par. 12. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1916, p. 261.

Approval of board of state charities required before incorporation of certain charitable associations. Proposed articles of incorporation of associations for the care of dependent, neglected or delinquent children, or the placing of such children in private homes, must be submitted to the board of state charities and a certificate from such board obtained, before filing with the secretary of state. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1915, p. 2436; G. C. § 1352-2.

Section 8627. (General powers.) Upon filing articles of incorporation, the persons who subscribed them, their associates, successors, and assigns, by the name and style provided therein, shall be a body corporate, with succession, power to sue and be sued, contract and be contracted with; also, unless specially limited, to acquire and hold all property, real or personal, necessary to effect the object for which it is created, and at pleasure convey it in conformity with its regulations and the laws of this state. Such corporation also may make, use, and at will alter a common seal, and do all other acts needful to accomplish the purposes of its organization. (R. S. Sec. 3239; May 1, 1852, 50 v. 274, § 3; S. & C. 273.)

- I. Power to create corporations, p. 931.
- II. Corporate franchise, p. 932.
- III. When corporate existence begins, p. 932.
- IV. Corporation as a legal entity, p. 933.
 - A. Corporate entity as instrument for fraud or illegal purpose, p. 933.
 - B. Corporations formed or controlled by failing debtors, p. 934.
 - C. Separate entity as a protection to stockholders, p. 934.
 - D. Stockholders bound by judgment against corporation, p. 935.
 - E. When corporation bound by action of all its stockholders, p. 935.
- V. De facto corporations, p. 935.
 - A. De facto existence, p. 936.
 - B. Contracts, p. 936.
 - C. Power to appropriate property, p. 936.
 - D. Personal liability of stockholders, p. 936.
 - E. Estoppel to deny corporate existence, p. 937.
- VI. "Associates" defined, p. 937.
- VII. Corporation as a "person".
 - A. In general, p. 937.
 - B. In criminal statutes, p. 938.
- VIII. Promoters.
 - A. Fiduciary relation, p. 938.
 - B. Sales to corporation, p. 938.
 - C. Compensation for services, p. 939.
 - D. Liability, p. 939.
 - E. Liability to purchasers of stock, p. 939.

- F. Limitation of action, p. 939.
- G. Contracts with third persons, p. 939.
- IX. Transactions before incorporation.
 - A. With third persons, p. 939.
 - B. Agreements between individuals to form a corporation, p. 939.
- X. Incorporation of partnerships, p. 940.
- XI. Ultra vires acts, p. 940.
 - A. Unauthorized act when incident or part of authorized transaction, p. 941.
 - B. When void, p. 941.
 - C. Effect on corporate existence and valid powers, p. 941.
 - D. Contracts performed by one party, p. 941.
 - E. Guaranty of ultra vires contract, p. 941.
 - F. Corporate acts presumed valid, p. 942.
 - G. Notice of corporate powers, p. 942.
 - H. Who may object to ultra vires acts, p. 942.
 - (a) The state, p. 942.
 - (b) Stockholder, p. 942.
 - (c) Stranger to the transaction, p. 942.
 - (d) Party who has received benefits, p. 943.
 - (e) Estoppel, p. 943.
 - I. Personal liability for ultra vires acts.
 - (a) Directors and officers, p. 943.
 - (b) Stockholders, p. 944.
 - (c) Overissue of bonds, p. 944.
- XII. Corporate powers.
 - A. General rule, p. 944.
 - B. Implied powers, p. 945.
 - C. Powers outside of Ohio, p. 945.
 - D. Burden of proof as to corporate powers, p. 945.
 - E. Statutes conferring corporate powers, rules of construction, p. 945.
 - F. Mode of exercise, p. 946.
 - G. By whom exercised.
 - (a) Directors, p. 946.
 - (b) Stockholders, p. 946.
 - (c) Who may question, p. 946.
- XIII. To sue and be sued, p. 946.
 - A. In general, p. 946.
 - B. Criminal liability, p. 947.
 - C. Civil liability, p. 947.
 - D. Federal corporations, p. 948.
- XIV. To contract and be contracted with.
 - A. In general, p. 948.
 - B. Contract for term of years binding future directors, p. 948.
 - C. Presumption as to validity of corporate contracts, p. 949.
 - D. Right to contract as a constitutional right, p. 949.
 - E. Form, p. 949.
 - F. Contracts for usurious interest, p. 949.
- XV. To acquire, hold and convey property.
 - A. Constitutional property rights, p. 950.
 - B. Property in general, p. 950.
 - C. Acquisition of property by devise or bequest, p. 950.
 - D. Choses and rights in action, p. 951.
 - E. In exchange for stock, p. 951.

- F. Property not necessary for corporate business, p. 951.
- G. Subject to police regulations, p. 951.
- H. Corporate property as a trust fund, p. 951.
- I. Real Property, p. 951.
- J. Purchase for unauthorized purpose, p. 951.
- K. Miscellaneous, p. 952.
- L. Commercial paper, p. 952.
- M. Sale and conveyance of corporate property, p. 952.
- N. Entire property, p. 952.
- O. Corporate franchise, p. 952.
- P. Property necessary in performance of public duty, p. 952.
- Q. Authority of corporate officers to convey, p. 953.
- R. Form and execution of corporate deeds and instruments, p. 953.
- S. Corporate seal, p. 953.
- T. Stockholder or officer as witness or notary, p. 953.
- U. Proof of execution, p. 954.

XVI. Corporate seal.

- A. Necessity and effect, p. 954.
- B. Form, p. 954.

XVII. Power to acquire its own stock.

- A. In general, p. 955.
- B. Executory agreement, p. 955.
- C. Executed transaction, p. 955.
- D. To secure debt due to corporation, p. 956.
- E. Stock fraudulently issued, p. 956.
- F. Rescission of exchange of stock for property, p. 956.
- G. Stock issued under agreement to repurchase, p. 956.
- H. On retirement of officer, p. 956.
- I. What constitutes a purchase by a corporation of its own stock, p. 957.
- J. Agreement of corporation to sell stock for stockholder. Liability for breach, p. 957.

XVIII. To acquire and hold stock of other corporations, p. 957.

XIX. To execute and indorse commercial paper, p. 957.

- A. Accommodation paper, p. 957.
- B. Corporate note payable to officer, p. 958.
- C. Form, p. 958.

XX. Miscellaneous powers.

- A. To act as trustee, p. 958.
- B. To enter into partnership, p. 958.
- C. To become surety or guarantor, p. 959.
- D. To carry on professional business, p. 959.
- E. To borrow money, issue bonds, etc., p. 959.

I. POWER TO CREATE CORPORATIONS.

See Constitution of Ohio, Article XIII.

A corporation can be created only by the state acting through the instrumentality of the legislature.

Myers v. Manhattan Bank, 20 Ohio 283 (1851).

Ashley v. Ryan, 49 O. S. 504 (1892); aff'd, 153 U. S. 436; 8 O. F. D. 215.

The power of creating a corporation can not be exercised outside of the territorial limits of the state.

Myers v. Manhattan Bank, 20 Ohio 283, 295 (1851).

Before the adoption of the constitution of 1851 when the legislature had power to grant special charters, a statute which recognized the existence of a corporation in effect created the corporation.

Trustees v. Zanesville, etc., Co., 9 Ohio 203.

The state may impose such terms and conditions as it pleases upon the creation of a corporation. It may fix the filing fee of articles of incorporation and articles of consolidation.

Ashley v. Ryan, 49 O. S. 504 (1892); aff'd, 153 U. S. 436; 8 O. F. D. 215.

II. CORPORATE FRANCHISE.

"No persons can make themselves a body corporate and politic without legislature authority. Corporate capacity is a franchise." California v. Pacific R. Co., 127 U. S. 1, 41 (1888).

"A domestic corporation is given life and continued existence by the state and this life and existence with their accompanying powers constitute the franchise." Burket J. in Southern Gum Co. v. Laylin, 66 O. S. 578, 595 (1902).

"There is a wide difference between a franchise which is incident to and inheres in the right of a corporation to exist as a corporation and the grant of a right to occupy a public street and construct therein a public utility. The creation of the former, an artificial person, must be done by the state itself. But this is not true of the latter." Johnson J. in Billings v. Railway, 92 O. S. 478, 490 (1915).

III. WHEN CORPORATE EXISTENCE BEGINS.

The filing of articles of incorporation does not create a corporation with authority to exercise all its corporate powers. Such articles merely authorize the incorporators to form the corporation. No corporation exists for the transaction of the business for which the corporation is organized until the requisite stock has been subscribed, the first instalment paid thereon and directors elected.

State v. Insurance Co., 49 O. S. 440 (1892).

Cemetery Assn. v. Traction Co., 93 O. S. 161 (1915).

Queen City Telephone Co. v. Cincinnati, 73 O. S. 64, 77 (1905).

But the existence of the corporate body begins upon the filing of the articles.

Ashtabula, etc., R. R. Co. v. Smith, 15 O. S. 328, 334 (1864).

State v. Robinson, 12 W. L. B. 269.

Milford, etc., Co. v. Brush, 10 Ohio 111, 113, 114 (1840).

See Hanna v. International Petroleum Co., 23 O. S. 622, 625 (1873).

Benninger v. Gall, 1 C. S. C. R. 331 (1871).

Its powers are divided into two classes (1) those exercisable before the election of directors, and (2) those exercisable thereafter. Before the election of directors the incorporators may receive subscriptions to the capital stock, and the stockholders may elect directors and adopt regulations; but the business for which the corporation is organized can not be transacted until after the directors are elected.

Ashtabula, etc., R. Co. v. Smith, 15 O. S. 328, 334 (1864).

Powers v. Railway Co., 33 O. S. 429, 432 (1878).

Milford, etc., Co. v. Brush, 10 Ohio 111, 113, 114 (1840).

Where articles have been filed and corporate business transacted, the corporation may have a de facto existence for the purpose of suing and being sued. Kardo Co. v. Adams, 231 Fed. 950; 14 O. L. R. 223 (C. C. A. Ohio 1916); reversing, 222 Fed. 967; 13 O. L. R. 137.

IV. CORPORATION AS A LEGAL ENTITY.

In contemplation of law a corporation is a legal entity, an ideal person, separate from the persons composing it. But this fiction is limited to the purposes for which it was adopted—convenience in transacting business, in suing and being sued in its corporate name, and the continuance of its rights and liabilities unaffected by change in its members.

Bank v. Trebein, 59 O. S. 316, 326 (1898).

Brown v. Hitchcock, 36 O. S. 667, 678 (1881).

Reed v. Loan Co., 68 O. S. 280 (1903).

A. Corporate entity as instrument for fraud or illegal purpose.

The fiction of corporate entity can not be abused. Fraud or illegal purposes can not be accomplished by means of the fiction of legal entity. In such cases the fiction is disregarded by the courts and the acts of the real parties dealt with.

Bank v. Trebein, 59 O. S. 316 (1898).

State v. Standard Oil Co., 49 O. S. 137 (1892).

Brundred v. Rice, 49 O. S. 640 (1892).

Sayler v. Simpson, 12 L. D. 148 (Cin. Super. Ct. 1888).

Sportsman Shot Co. v. American, etc., Co., 30 W. L. B. 87 (Cin. Super. Ct. 1893).

Cincinnati Volksblatt Co. v. Hoffmeister, 62 O. S. 189, 200 (1900).

In re Rieger, Kapner & Altmann, 8 O. L. R. 498 (D. C. Ohio 1907).

Where funds of a third person have been converted to the use of an insolvent corporation, by its treasurer, the separate entity of the corporation does not relieve the treasurer from criminal liability. Brown v. State, 3 Ohio App. 52; 21 C. C. n. s. 545 (1914); affirming, 15 N. P. n. s. 65; motion to certify record overruled.

Directors and officers can not shield themselves behind the separate entity where they are the actual and efficient actors in committing a fraud or an offense. Kelly v. United States, 258 Fed. 392 (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1919); certiorari denied, 249 U. S. 616.

Under a contract by all stockholders, for a sale of a part of their stock, providing that the purchasers "are in no way to assume or pay the whole or any part of any unearned interest heretofore due", which had been paid by money contributed by such stockholders, future corporate earnings can not be used to repay such contributions to the stockholders. The corporate form can not be used as an instrument to defeat their agreement. H. V. Ry. Co. v. Toledo Co., 99 O. S. 35 (1918).

An injunction restraining a corporation from maintaining a nuisance, is binding upon a new corporation, of the same name and having the same officers, to which all the assets and business of the former corporation were transferred. Farmers Co. v. Ruh, 7 Ohio App. 430; 29 O. C. A. 165 (1917).

The plant and assets of the B. Company were controlled and operated by the A. Company, although separate corporate organizations were maintained. The A. Company, in assuming control, agreed to indemnify stockholders of the B. Company against all liability for debts of the B. Company. An employe of the B. Company was injured during such operation by the A. Company, and brought an action against the B. Company. Liability insurance effected by the A. Company was in force, and attorneys were employed by the insurance company to defend the suit. Held, the A. Company was bound by the judgment. Boxboard Co. v. Hinton, 100 O. S. 505 (1919).

B. Corporations formed or controlled by failing debtors. Where the members of a partnership form a corporation, to which the entire partnership assets are transferred in exchange for its capital stock, each partner receiving shares of stock in proportion to his interest in the partnership, the partnership assets being the only consideration for the stock, the corporation is liable for the debts of the partnership.

Andres v. Morgan, 62 O. S. 236 (1900).

Bruce Co. v. Eustis Co., 8 Ohio App. 341, 30 O. C. A. 177 (1917); motion to certify record overruled, 15 O. L. R. 485. See also note to § 8710.

See Paul v. Caldwell Co., 7 C. C. n. s. 272, 276; 17 C. D. 768 (1905).

For recourse on stockholders where partnership debts exceeded the assets exchanged for stock see

Sayler v. Simpson, 12 L. D. 148 (Cin. Super. Ct. 1888).

Ford v. Lamson, 17 C. C. 539; 9 C. D. 374 (1899).

Gates v. Tippecanoe Stone Co., 57 O. S. 60 (1897).

Where a failing debtor forms a corporation, to which he transfers his assets and business in exchange for its stock, and assigns such shares of stock as security for a part of his indebtedness, and continues as manager of the business, such conveyance is a fraud on other creditors and may be set aside and the assets administered as an assignment for creditors.

Bank v. Trebein, 59 O. S. 316 (1898).

A mercantile partnership acquired 99 percent of the issued stock of a manufacturing corporation, and the partners, as directors and officers, managed the corporate business, the partnership taking and selling all its output. On bankruptcy of the partnership, the corporation was held to be merely an agency of the partnership, and the corporate property to be assets of the bankrupt estate, the respective rights of the partnership and corporate creditors being determined in the bankruptcy proceedings.

In re Rieger, Kapner & Altmark, 8 O. L. R. 498 (U. S. D. C. 1907).

C. Separate entity as a protection to stockholders. The separate entity is a protection to stockholders, whose stock has been paid up, against personal liability for debts of the corporation. Robinson v. Willard, 16 C. C. n. s. 464 (1907); aff'd, no rep. 78 O. S. 441; Carr v. Inglehart, 3 O. S. 457, 458 (1854); Ireland v. Palestine Co., 19 O. S. 369, 372 (1869).

Ownership, by one corporation, of all the stock in another corporation, will not make it liable for the debts of the latter, in the absence of unusual circumstances. Pittsburg Co. v. Duncan, 232 Fed. 584 (C. C. A. Ohio 1916).

Where the same persons own a controlling interest in two corporations in which the other stockholders are not identical, and their business is separately conducted, one of such corporations is not liable for the debts of the other corporation. Pittsburg Co. v. Duncan, 232 Fed. 584 (C. C. A. Ohio 1916).

There is, however, a distinction between mere stock ownership, and actual control of the business and property. Where one corporation actively controls the property and business of another corporation, it may be liable for the debts of such other corporation. See Boxboard Co. v. Hinton, 100 O. S. 505; Westinghouse Co. v. Allis Chalmers Co., 176 Fed. 362.

In general, the acquisition, by one person, of all the stock of a corporation, does not change the powers or liabilities of the corporation as such. 6 O. L. R. 304.

But a corporation may be bound by a contract of sale made by a person who owns all of its stock although the contract is made in his own name. Insurance Co. v. Brown, 16 C. C. n. s. 518 (1905). See Norris v. Dains, 52 O. S. 215 (1894); Camp v. Gress, 250 U. S. 308 (1919).

D. Stockholders bound by judgment against corporation. In actions by or against a corporation its stockholders are represented by the corporation. A judgment against the corporation in favor of a creditor can not be impeached by a subscriber to stock in the corporation, where the judgment was not obtained by fraud or collusion.

Scofield v. Excelsior Oil Co., 6 C. C. n. s. 176; 17 C. D. 318 (1905).

Henry v. Railroad Co., 17 Ohio 187, 191.

Griffin v. Rowley, 3 Ohio App. 481, 23 C. C. n. s. 209.

Non resident stockholders are represented by the corporation in a proceeding to enforce the double liability of stockholders and are bound by the finding and decree, although not served with process.

Irvine v. Putnam, 167 Fed. 174 (1909).

Francis v. Hazlett, 192 Mass. 137, 142 (1906).

Childs v. Cleaves, 95 Me. 498; 50 Atl. 714 (1901).

A stockholder may appeal from a judgment against the corporation where there is reason to believe that the officers in neglecting to appeal are actuated by an adverse interest.

Henry v. Jeanes, 47 O. S. 116 (1890).

But a stockholder not a party can not prosecute error.

Dunbar v. Casket Co., 19 C. C. 585; 10 C. D. 684 (1900).

Where managing officers wilfully and fraudulently refuse to set up a valid defense to an action brought against the corporation, a stockholder may be permitted to intervene, upon proper allegations showing the defense and the failure of the managing officers to set it up. Buckeye Co. v. Young, 18 C. C. n. s. 429 (1910).

E. When corporation bound by action of all its stockholders. It has been held that a person who owns all the stock of a corporation may bind the corporation by a contract of sale, although made in his own name. Insurance Co. v. Brown, 16 C. C. n. s. 518 (1905). See Norris v. Dains, 52 O. S. 215; Camp v. Gress, 250 U. S. 308.

Unanimous consent of stockholders to an informal distribution of profits, other than prorata, acted on so as to materially change the position of the parties, was held to preclude the corporation from setting up the informality and inequality of the division. Kramer v. Foundry Co., 23 N. P. n. s. 81 (1918).

Whether a corporation is estopped by the action of all its stockholders has been variously decided.

Held not estopped.

Columbus, etc., Ry. v. Burke, 19 W. L. B. 27 (C. P. 1887).

Contra.

Central Trust Co. v. Columbus, etc., Ry., 87 Fed. 815 (1893).

V. DE FACTO CORPORATIONS.

Where an attempt is made to organize under a law authorizing incorporation, and the body acts as a corporation, a corporation de facto exists, although there are defects or irregularities in the proceedings. Its capacity can be questioned only by the state.

Society Perun v. Cleveland, 43 O. S. 481 (1885).

Shawnee, etc., Bank v. Miller, 1 C. C. n. s. 569; 14 C. D. 199 (1902).

Gaff v. Flesher, 33 O. S. 107, 113 (1877).

See Griffin v. Clinton, etc., R. Co., 3 O. F. D. 441.

State v. Toledo, etc., Assn., 8 C. C. n. s. 233; 18 C. D. 397 (1906).
In general there must be a law authorizing the formation of corporations to exercise such powers as the corporation de facto claims.

Gaff v. Fleisher, 33 O. S. 107, 113, 114, 453 (1877).

Raccoon River Nav. Co. v. Eagle, 29 O. S. 238 (1876).

Society Perun v. Cleveland, 43 O. S. 481, 498, 499 (1885).

Where incorporation was had under a statute subsequently declared unconstitutional:

State v. Extension, etc., Co., 21 C. C. 662, 665; 12 C. D. 319 (1901).

Beck v. Rocky River, etc. District, 14 L. D. 312 (1904).

or where a judgment of ouster was rendered in a quo warranto proceeding:

Society Perun v. Cleveland, 43 O. S. 481 (1885).

Rowland v. Meader Furn. Co., 38 O. S. 271 (1882).

the private transactions prior to such adjudication were those of a corporation de facto.

Where articles of incorporation have been filed, and corporate business transacted, the corporation may have a de facto existence, for the purpose of suing or being sued, although the statutory requirements as to the subscription for stock and election of directors have not been properly complied with. Kardo Co. v. Adams, 231 Fed. 950; 14 O. L. R. 223 (C. C. A. Ohio 1916); reversing, 222 Fed. 967; 13 O. L. R. 137.

A. De facto existence is not based upon the doctrine of estoppel. A de facto corporation is a reality. It has an actual and substantial existence.

Society Perun v. Cleveland, 43 O. S. 481 (1885).

De facto existence may be proved by evidence of attempted incorporation, followed by bona fide user.

Society Perun v. Cleveland, 43 O. S. 481 (1885).

A de jure corporation does not, by an ultra vires act, lose its de jure existence and become a corporation de facto.

Dayton, etc., Ry. v. P. C. C. & St. L. Ry., 6 C. C. n. s. 537; 15 C. D. 705 (1902); aff'd, no rep., 67 O. S. 523.

B. Contracts of de facto corporations made through authorized agents are binding.

Beck v. Rocky River, etc., District, 14 L. D. 312 (1904); s. c., 9 C. C. n. s. 551; 19 C. D. 717; 76 O. S. 587.

C. Power to appropriate property. A de facto corporation can not exercise the right of eminent domain.

Cemetery Assn. v. Traction Co., 93 O. S. 161 (1915).

Powers v. Hazleton, etc., Ry. Co., 33 O. S. 429 (1878).

Telephone Co. v. Cincinnati, 73 O. S. 64 (1905).

Atlantic, etc., Co. v. Sullivant, 5 O. S. 276 (1855).

D. Personal liability of stockholders. Stockholders in a corporation de facto are liable only as stockholders; not as partners.

Rowland v. Meader Furn. Co., 38 O. S. 271 (1882).

Irregular or defective incorporation does not render the stockholders personally liable, where the statute has been substantially complied with.

Second Nat'l. Bank v. Hall, 35 O. S. 158, 166 (1878).

Bartholomew v. Bentley, 1 O. S. 37 (1852).

Failure to file a certificate of subscription under § 8633 does not render the stockholders or directors personally liable, where the requisite percentage of stock was subscribed and the required payments made. Garwood v. Oil Co., 11 Ohio App. 96 (1919).

E. Estoppel to deny corporate existence. All parties to a transaction in which a de facto corporation has acted as a corporation, are estopped to deny its legal existence. No party to the transaction can escape responsibility by showing that the corporation was not duly incorporated. This rule applies to the corporation itself;

Callender v. Painesville, etc., R. Co., 11 O. S. 516 (1860).
 its stockholders and subscribers to its stock;
 Gaff v. Flesher, 33 O. S. 107, 113 (1877).
 Clark v. Thomas, 34 O. S. 46, 59 (1877).
 Callender v. Painesville, etc., R. Co., 11 O. S. 516 (1860).
 Trumbull Co., etc., Co. v. Horner, 17 Ohio 407 (1848).
 Vorhees v. Receivers, 19 Ohio 463 (1850).
 Benninger v. Gall, 1 C. S. C. R. 331 (1871).
 Ryan v. Miami Valley Ry., 10 Am. L. R. 263 (1881).
 Compare Raccoon River Nav. Co. v. Eagle, 29 O. S. 238, 240 (1876).

its officers:

Second Nat'l. Bank v. Lovell, 2 C. S. C. R. 397 (1873).
 and to debtors of the corporation.
 Peckham Iron Co. v. Harper, 41 O. S. 100, 106 (1884).
 Newburg Petroleum Co. v. Weare, 27 O. S. 343 (1875).
 Hagerman v. Ohio, etc., Assn., 25 O. S. 186, 200 (1874).
 Lucas v. Greenville, etc., Assn., 22 O. S. 339 (1872).
 Receivers v. Renick, 15 Ohio 322 (1846).
 Durrell v. Belding, 9 C. C. 74; 4 C. D. 263 (1894).
 Elektron Mfg. Co. v. Jones Bros. El. Co., 8 C. C. 311; 4 C. D. 555 (1894).

Creditors who have extended credit to a de facto corporation, as a corporate body, are estopped from denying its corporate existence so as to hold the stockholders liable as partners;

Second Nat'l. Bank v. Hall, 35 O. S. 158, 166 (1878).
 Beebe v. Thomas, 2 W. L. B. 107 (Cin. Super. Ct. 1877).
 Second Nat'l Bank v. Lovell, 2 C. S. C. R. 397 (1873).
 Benninger v. Gall, 1 C. S. C. R. 331 (1871).
 See Rowland v. Meader Furniture Co., 38 O. S. 269 (1882). or to invalidate a mortgage executed by the de facto corporation.
 Lattimer v. Mosaic Glass Co., 13 C. C. 163; 7 C. D. 430 (1896).
 Hatry v. P. & Y. Ry. Co., 1 C. C. 426; 1 C. D. 238 (1886).
 Continental Trust Co. v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., 82 Fed. 642 (1897).

But the proof, in bankruptcy, of a claim against the estate of a bankrupt corporation, and the receipt of a dividend thereon, does not estop the creditor from subsequently bringing an action to hold the stockholders as partners.

Ridenour v. Mayo, 29 O. S. 138, 143 (1876).

Pleading and proof of corporate existence.

See notes to § 8629. In appropriation proceedings, see note to § 11046.

VI. "ASSOCIATES" DEFINED.

Associates are such persons, other than those specifically mentioned, as might thereafter become members of the association.

State v. Sibley, 25 Minn. 387, 399.

See also Lechmere Bank v. Boynton, 65 Mass. (11 Cush.) 369, 382.

VII. CORPORATION AS A "PERSON."

A. In general. A corporation is a "person" under G. C. § 3989 which prohibits a municipality from granting an exclusive gas franchise to any person or persons.

Cincinnati Gas Co. v. Avondale, 43 O. S. 257 (1885).

And under G. C. § 12940 which prohibits persons conducting hotels, amusement places, etc., from excluding citizens because of color or race. Johnson v. Humphrey Pop Corn Co., 4 C. C. n. s. 49; 14 C. D. 135 (1902); aff'd, no rep., 70 O. S. 478.

And under the 14th amendment of the federal constitution forbidding the deprivation of property without due process of law.

Covington, etc., Co. v. Sandford, 164 U. S. 578 (1896).

Foreign corporation as a person or citizen, see note to § 194.

B. In criminal statutes. The word "person" in a criminal statute has been generally held not to apply to a corporation.

State v. Cincinnati Fertilizer Co., 24 O. S. 611 (1874).

Brewing Co. v. State, 2 C. C. n. s. 537; 15 C. D. 601 (1904); aff'd in part, 71 O. S. 476.

See Burke v. State, 34 O. S. 79 (1877).

except when expressly included, as in the anti-trust act.

State v. Hygeia Ice Co., 4 N. P. n. s. 361, 363; 16 L. D. 735 (1906); affirmed, except as to sentence only; 77 O. S. 427.

Since the adoption of the General Code in 1910 the word "whoever" includes "all persons, natural and artificial." G. C. § 12371.

VIII. PROMOTERS.

A. Fiduciary relation. Promoters occupy a fiduciary relation toward the corporation.

Shawnee, etc., Bank v. Miller, 1 C. C. n. s. 569; 14 C. D. 199 (1902).

Second N. B. v. Greenville, etc., Co., 3 C. C. n. s. 372; 13 C. D. 274 (1899); 11 O. L. R. 81 (Article by A. A. Thomas).

B. Sales to corporation. Promoters must truly disclose all facts relating to property which they sell to the corporation. A promoter who conceals his interest in such property, or who misrepresents its value, is liable to the corporation. He can not make a secret profit in such a transaction.

Second N. B. v. Greenville, etc., Co., 3 C. C. n. s. 372; 13 C. D. 274 (1899).

Shawnee, etc., Bank v. Miller, 1 C. C. n. s. 569; 14 C. D. 199 (1902).

Yeiser v. U. S. Board & Paper Co., 107 Fed. 340; 12 O. F. D. 678 (C. C. A. 1901).

Bank v. Raridon, 4 Ohio App. 468; 24 C. C. n. s. 161 (1915); affirming, 17 N. P. n. s. 27.

The corporation may rescind a contract for the purchase of property, negotiated for the corporation by the promoter, who received secret commissions from the seller of such property. The corporation may return the property to the seller and recover the purchase price paid, less depreciation and net earnings on the property. Shipbuilding Co. v. Steamship Co., 215 Fed. 296, 304; 12 O. L. R. 455 (C. C. A. Ohio 1914).

The corporation may sue for and obtain cancellation of certificates of its stock, issued to promoters in exchange for options at excessive valuation, secretly, without the knowledge of other stockholders who had paid cash for their stock, the promoters being also directors of the corporation and acting for it in issuing the stock. Where such stock has been sold by the promoters, the corporation may recover judgment against each promoter, for the value of the stock so sold by him. Bertram Coal Mining Co. v. Bigger, 22 N. P. n. s. 369 (1919); aff'd by court of appeals.

Mechanic's lien on property sold to corporation.

See Burnap v. Sylvania Butter Co., 12 C. C. 639; 5 C. D. 582 (1896).
West v. Klotz, 37 O. S. 420 (1881).

C. Compensation for services. Where a corporation avails itself of the services and contracts of promoters, before organization, and ratifies the same, it becomes liable therefor. But the services may be shown to have been gratuitously rendered.

Third Ward Bldg. Assn. v. Lotze, 11 W. L. B. 285 (Dist. Ct.).
Ritchie v. McMullen, 79 Fed. 523 (C. C. A. Ohio 1897).

D. Liability. Where a corporation is formed merely as an instrumentality for the accomplishment of an illegal purpose, the promoters may be personally liable. Incorporation is no defense.

Brundred v. Rice, 49 O. S. 640 (1892).
Bank v. Trebein, 59 O. S. 316 (1898).
Andres v. Morgan, 62 O. S. 236 (1900).

E. Liability to purchasers of stock. Several joint promoters may be liable to purchasers of stock who were induced to purchase by the fraud of one of the promoters. Champney v. Braun, 23 C. C. n. s. 533 (1912); reversed on other grounds, 91 O. S. 386.

Circulars as evidence. See Russell v. Weiler, 7 C. C. n. s. 596 (1905).

F. Limitation of action. An action against a promoter for fraud in misrepresenting the value of property sold by him to the corporation is barred in four years from the date of consummation of the sale. Bank v. Raridon, 4 Ohio App. 161; 24 C. C. n. s. 161 (1916); affirming, 17 N. P. n. s. 27.

G. Contracts with third persons. See below, Transactions before incorporation.

IX. TRANSACTIONS BEFORE INCORPORATION.

A. With third persons. Until a corporation has been organized and directors elected, no one is authorized to bind the corporation. Contracts made by promoters with third persons are not binding on the corporation.

Dayton, etc., Co. v. Coy, 13 O. S. 84 (1861).

Mosier v. Parry, 60 O. S. 388, 401, 402 (1899).

After organization such contracts may be adopted and ratified by the directors either expressly or impliedly, by accepting the benefits of the transaction.

City Bldg. Assn. v. Zahner, 6 W. L. B. 389; 10 Am. L. Rec. 181 (Dist. Ct.).

Third Ward Bldg. Assn. v. Lotze, 11 W. L. B. 285 (Dist. Ct.).

But if there is a failure to incorporate, or if the corporation does not adopt or ratify such contract, the corporation is not bound, and the promoters may be personally liable.

Mosier v. Parry, 60 O. S. 388 (1899).

Magill v. Rendigs, 12 L. D. 558 (Cin. Super. Ct. 1902).

Validity of charitable bequest to corporation not yet incorporated.

See Trustees v. Zanesville, etc., Co., 9 Ohio 203 (1839).

B. Agreements between individuals to form a corporation. An agreement between individuals for the formation of a corporation and providing for its future control is valid as between the parties.

Doan v. Rogan, 79 O. S. 372, 386 (1909).

Provisions in such an agreement are deemed waived by inconsistent provisions inserted by the parties in the charter.

Cronin v. Potters Co-op. Co., 29 W. L. B. 52, 56 (Com. Pleas 1892).

An agreement by a promoter to employ, or procure a future corporation to employ, a person is not invalid as an agreement to secure a corporate office.

Magill v. Rendigs, 12 L. D. 558 (Cin. Super. Ct. 1902).

Doan v. Rogan, 79 O. S. 372, 386 (1909).

See Mosier v. Parry, 60 O. S. 388 (1899).

Mullen v. Gaffery, 8 Am. L. R. 101 (Dist. Ct. 1879).

Where the owner of a secret process or formula sold an interest therein to another person, and the formula was deposited in escrow, to be delivered to the secretary of a corporation which the parties agreed to organize for the manufacture of goods by such process, it was held that upon repudiation of the contract by the seller, the purchaser was not entitled to equitable relief and a receiver to obtain possession of the formula, the corporation not having been organized. Eckerman v. Hensch, 16 C. C. n. s. 361 (1905).

Where persons interested in a proposed corporation hold meetings and effect a preliminary organization, wholly in the interest of such corporation the preliminary organization does not continue as a separate and distinct organization after the corporation is organized.

Mulhauser v. Cleveland Hospital, etc., 21 C. C. 88; 11 C. D. 391 (1900); aff'd, no rep., 66 O. S. 688.

X. INCORPORATION OF PARTNERSHIPS.

The entire plant and assets of a partnership may be purchased by a corporation formed to engage in a like business. As a part of such a transaction it may acquire valid title to property not indispensable for its business, such as a claim for damages to partnership property caused by negligence of other persons.

Gas & Fuel Co. v. Dairy Co., 60 O. S. 96 (1899).

Where partnership assets, including good will, are sold through a receiver, and the purchaser transfers the same to a corporation, the corporation may adopt the name previously used by the partnership.

Snyder Mfg. Co. v. Snyder, 54 O. S. 86 (1896).

Liability of corporation for the partnership debts.

See Andres v. Morgan, 62 O. S. 236 (1900).

Right of partnership creditors in property transferred to the corporation.

See Bank v. Trebein, 59 O. S. 316 (1898).

Liability of partners on stock issued to them for the partnership property at an overvaluation.

See Gates v. Tippecanoe Stone Co., 57 O. S. 60 (1897).

Saylor v. Simpson, 12 L. D. 148 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1888).

Ford v. Lamson, 17 C. C. 539; 9 C. D. 374 (1899).

XI. ULTRA VIRES ACTS.

An act of a corporation is ultra vires when it is beyond the chartered powers of the corporation.

Railroad Co. v. Furnace Co., 37 O. S. 321, 327 (1881).

In determining whether the act is ultra vires regard must be had to its effect and the real object in view.

Bank v. Flour Co., 41 O. S. 552, 558 (1885).

In applying the doctrine of ultra vires, in a particular case, regard must be had not only to the unauthorized agreement or transaction, but also to the relation which the litigating parties sustain to it.

Ehrman v. Ins. Co., 35 O. S. 324, 337 (1880).

Gas & Fuel Co. v. Dairy Co., 60 O. S. 96, 106 (1899).

A conveyance to a corporation to secure two debts, one valid and the other ultra vires, will be upheld to the extent of the valid debt.

Morris v. Way, 16 Ohio 469 (1847).

See also Dayton, etc., Ry. v. P. C. C. & St. L. Ry., 6 C. C. n. s. 537; 15 C. D. 705 (1902); aff'd, no rep., 67 O. S. 523.

A. Unauthorized act when incident or part of authorized transaction. Acts which would otherwise be ultra vires may be valid when merely incidental to, or forming part of an entire transaction that, in its general scope, is within the corporate powers. Where a corporation purchases the assets and business of a partnership, for its corporate purposes, it may acquire a valid title to its outstanding claims, including a claim for damages caused by negligence, although it would have no general power to purchase claims of that nature.

Gas & Fuel Co. v. Dairy Co., 60 O. S. 96 (1899).

B. When void. Where there is an absolute or total want of power in a corporation to deal in respect to a certain subject, acts done in its corporate name, in regard to such subject, may, as corporate acts, be void for all purposes and as against all persons.

Ehrman v. Insurance Co., 35 O. S. 324, 337 (1880).

But where the corporation deals with a subject within the scope of its powers, but for a purpose or in a mode not authorized, the act is not necessarily void.

Ehrman v. Insurance Co., 35 O. S. 324, 337 (1880).

White's Bank v. Toledo, etc., Co., 12 O. S. 601, 610 (1861).

Pickaway Co. Bank v. Prather, 12 O. S. 497, 511 (1861).

C. Effect on corporate existence and valid powers. Ultra vires acts do not per se dissolve a corporation or deprive it of its valid powers, in the absence of a proceeding by the state for that purpose.

Finnell v. Burt, 2 Handy 202 (1856).

Benninger v. Gall, 1 C. S. C. R. 331, 336 (1871).

Webb v. Moler, 8 Ohio 552 (1838).

Nor does a corporation, by an ultra vires act, lose its de jure existence and become a corporation de facto.

Dayton, etc., Ry. v. P. C. C. & St. L. Ry., 6 C. C. n. s. 537; 15 C. D. 705 (1902); aff'd, no rep., 67 O. S. 523.

D. Contracts performed by one party. Where a contract has been executed and fully performed on the part of the corporation or of the other party, neither may object that the contract or performance is ultra vires.

Larwell v. Hanover, etc., Society, 40 O. S. 274, 285 (1883).

Hays v. Galion, etc., Co., 29 O. S. 330, 340 (1876).

Armstrong v. Karshner, 47 O. S. 276, 296 (1890).

Dayton, etc., Ry. v. P. C. C. & St. L. Ry., 6 C. C. n. s. 537, 546; 15 C. D. 705 (1902); aff'd, no rep., 67 O. S. 523.

Siders v. Gem City Concrete Co., 13 C. C. n. s. 481 (1910).

Newburg Petroleum Co. v. Weare, 27 O. S. 343 (1875).

Railway Co. v. Iron Co., 46 O. S. 44 (1888).

Compare Simpson v. Building, etc., Assn., 38 O. S. 349 (1882).

When the contract has been fully performed by the other party, and the corporation has received the benefits, it can not raise the question of ultra vires either as a defense or as a basis for action.

Lewis v. Bank, 274 Fed. 587 (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1921).

E. Guaranty of ultra vires contract. A written guaranty of the performance of a contract is valid, although the contract itself may be void as ultra vires.

Zerkle v. Price, 5 N. P. 480; 7 L. D. 465 (C. P.)

F. Corporate acts presumed valid. It is presumed that a corporation has acted within its powers, and its contract or note will be presumed to be valid until the contrary is shown.

Straus v. Eagle Insurance Co., 5 O. S. 59, 62 (1855).

G. Notice of corporate powers. Persons dealing with a corporation are charged with notice of the limits of its corporate powers.

James v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 2 Dis. 261, 272 (1858).

Treadwell v. Commissioners, 11 O. S. 183, 192 (1860).

Zabriskie v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 64 U. S. (23 How.) 381, 398 (1860).

Holmes v. Hayes, 32 W. L. B. 346-348 (Sup. Ct. no rep., 52 O. S. 617 (1894)).

H. Who may object to ultra vires acts. (a) The state may object to ultra vires acts, by quo warranto.

State v. Standard Oil Co., 49 O. S. 137 (1892).

State v. Ohio, etc., Co., 6 C. C. 412; 3 C. D. 516 (1892).

Miller v. Ratterman, 47 O. S. 141, 165 (1890).

State v. Loan Ass'n, 35 O. S. 258 (1879).

(b) A stockholder may, by injunction, restrain threatened acts which are not within the express or implied powers of the corporation.

Zabriskie v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 64 U. S. (23 How.) 381 (1860).

Port Clinton, etc., Co. v. Cleveland, etc., Co., 13 O. S. 544, 561 (1862).

Kuhn v. Woolson Spice Co. 13 C. C. 547; 7 C. D. 294 (1897).

C. H. & D. Ry. v. Duckworth, 2 C. C. 518; 1 C. D. 618 (1887); affirmed, 21 W. L. B. 36.

A stockholder may in federal court enjoin the corporation from a threatened diversion of funds by illegal payment of an unconstitutional tax.

Pollock v. Farmers' Loan & Trust Co., 157 U. S. 429 (1895).

Under equity rule No. 27, in such a case the petition must allege that the suit is not a collusive one for the purpose of conferring jurisdiction on the federal court, and also that unsuccessful efforts have been made to induce the corporation to bring the suit, or the reasons for not making such efforts. Wathen v. Jackson Oil Co., 235 U. S. 635 (1915).

A stockholder can not enjoin the payment of the federal income tax, as the income tax act provides a remedy at law, to-wit: the recovery of taxes paid under protest.

Straus v. Realty Co., 200 Fed. 327 (1912).

A member of a religious corporation may, by injunction, prevent a breach of trust by the corporation or a majority of its members.

Wiswell v. First Congregational Church, 14 O. S. 31 (1862).

But a stockholder must assert his rights promptly upon notice of the ultra vires act. If he delay until the act has been performed and benefits received thereunder, he will be held to have assented to the act.

Hill v. Cincinnati Hotel Co., 25 W. L. B. 425 (Cin. Super. Ct. 1891).

Sanderson v. Aetna Iron & Nail Co., 34 O. S. 442 (1878).

Goodin v. Cincinnati, etc., Co., 18 O. S. 169 (1869).

Chapman v. Mad River, etc., R. Co., 6 O. S. 119 (1856).

Baldwin v. Hillsborough R. R., 10 W. L. J. 337 (C. P.).

Zabriskie v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 64 U. S. (23 How.) 381 (1860).

(c) A stranger to the transaction can not question its validity. The maker of a note, payable to a corporation and endorsed to an other corporation, can not, in an action brought by such endorsee, question the powers of the corporations to make the transfer.

Ehrman v. Insurance Co., 35 O. S. 324, 337 (1880).

Gas & Fuel Co. v. Dairy Co., 60 O. S. 96, 107 (1899).

Bank v. McIntire, 40 O. S. 528, 537 (1884).

White's Bank v. Toledo, etc., Co., 12 O. S. 601, 610 (1861).

Pickaway Co. Bank v. Prather, 12 O. S. 497, 511 (1861).

Bank v. Water Works Co., 22 C. C. n. s. 529 (1915).

Gould v. Union, etc., Co., 8 W. L. B. 281 (Cin. Super. Ct.).

(d) Party who has received benefits. Where a contract has been executed and fully performed on the part of one party and the other party has received the benefits, such party can not avoid liability on the ground of ultra vires. This rule applies to the corporation.

Hays v. Galion, etc., Co. 29 O. S. 330, 340 (1876).

Hill v. Cincinnati Hotel Co., 25 W. L. B. 425 (Cin. Super. Ct. 1891).

Norwalk Sgs. Bk. v. Norwalk, etc., Co., 14 C. C. 1; 7 C. D. 275 (1897); aff'd, no rep., 60 O. S. 603.

See Herrick v. Wardwell, 58 O. S. 294, 308 (1898).

And to the other party.

Newburg Petroleum Co. v. Weare, 27 O. S. 343 (1875).

Hamilton, etc., Co. v. C. H. & D. Ry., 29 O. S. 341 (1876).

Allen v. 1 N. B., 23 O. S. 97, 104 (1872).

Victoria Bldg. Assn. v. Arbeiter Bund, 6 W. L. B. 823; 10 Am. L. R. 485.

Constable Bros. Co. v. Faulhaber, 15 L. D. 700 (C. P. 1904).

The party receiving the benefits is estopped from denying the power of the corporation to make the contract.

Newburg Petroleum Co. v. Weare, 27 O. S. 343 (1875).

Tone v. Columbus, 39 O. S. 281, 308-310.

Dayton, etc., Ry. v. P. C. C. & St. L. Ry., 6 C. C. n. s. 537, 546; 15 C. D. 705 (1902); aff'd, no rep., 67 O. S. 523.

(e) Estoppel. The doctrine that a party who has received benefits under a contract is estopped from denying the power of the corporation to make the contract does not in all cases apply to creditors. As between creditors whose claims are founded on authorized transactions and creditors relying on an ultra vires contract, the former would prevail.

Miller v. Ratterman, 47 O. S. 141, 165 (1890).

Compare Central Trust Co. v. Columbus, etc., Ry., 87 Fed. 815 (1898).

A national bank is not estopped, by its purchase and temporary operation of a street railway, from pleading its want of power to operate. Gress v. Fort Loramie, 100 O. S. 35 (1919); reversing, 21 N. P. n. s. 81.

A corporation, which has made an ultra vires guaranty of the performance of a contract by another party, is not estopped from denying its power to give the guaranty, although the party to whom the guaranty was given has performed his part of the contract.

Humboldt Min. Co. v. American, etc., Co., 62 Fed. 256; 9 O. F. D. 153 (C. C. A. 1894).

I. Personal liability for ultra vires acts.

(a) Directors and officers. Where the officers of a corporation transcend the corporate authority they are, under some circumstances, personally liable; but the extent of this doctrine is not clearly defined.

Medill v. Collier, 16 O. S. 599, 610 (1866).

See Manufacturers', etc., Ass'n. v. Lynchburg Drug Mills, 8 C. C. 112; 4 C. D. 352 (1893).

Where such a liability exists it is not a bar to an action by a creditor on stock subscriptions made by such officers.

Dickason v. Grafton Sav. Bank, 6 C. C. n. s. 329, 335; 17 C. D. 357 (1905); aff'd, no rep., 76 O. S. 612.

See note to § 8674. Irregular or incomplete incorporation.

Officers and others actively managing the business of corporations have been held personally liable in the following cases: For debts incurred in carrying on a banking business in the corporate name without complying with a statutory condition precedent, where the statute prohibited the carrying on of such business until the condition precedent had been complied with;

Medill v. Collier, 16 O. S. 599 (1866).

For debts incurred in the name of a corporation incorporated under a former statute authorizing savings societies, where the trustees made no attempt to organize or conduct it as a savings society, but instead carried on a general banking business:

Ridenour v. Mayo, 40 O. S. 9 (1884).

On unauthorized bank notes:

Kearny v. Buttles, 1 O. S. 362 (1853).

Lawler v. Burt, 7 O. S. 340 (1857).

For debts incurred in the corporate name, where the amount of stock required by law as a condition precedent to the election of directors and to the transaction of business had not been subscribed.

Trust Co. v. Floyd, 47 O. S. 525 (1890).

(b) Stockholders are not liable unless they engage in or authorize the prohibited acts.

Medill v. Collier, 16 O. S. 599 (1866).

Bank v. Hall, 35 O. S. 158, 166 (1878).

Paul v. Groene, 4 O. L. R. 632 (Cin. Super. Ct. 1907).

Morrison v. Stevens, 4 O. L. R. 671 (Cin. Super. Ct. 1907).

Kearny v. Buttles, 1 O. S. 362 (1853).

Rainhard v. Hovey, 13 Ohio 300 (1844).

(c) Overissue of bonds. Where a corporation, having power to issue bonds, issues bonds in excess of the amount allowed by law, the stockholders and directors causing the issue are not liable on the bonds.

Raymond v. Spring Grove, etc., Ry., 21 W. L. B. 103.

XII. CORPORATE POWERS.

A. General rule. A corporation has such powers, and such only (1) as are expressly conferred by the statutes under which it is incorporated, or (2) as are necessary for the purpose of carrying into effect the powers specifically conferred.

Straus v. Eagle Ins. Co., 5 O. S. 59 (1855).

Gas & Fuel Co. v. Dairy Co., 60 O. S. 96 (1899).

Franklin Bank v. Commercial Bank, 36 O. S. 350, 355 (1881).

State v. Eagle Insurance Co., 50 O. S. 252, 267 (1893).

Railway Co. v. Iron Co., 46 O. S. 44, 49 (1888).

Railroad Co. v. Hinsdale, 45 O. S. 556, 572 (1888).

Lessee of Overmyer v. Williams, 15 Ohio 26, 31 (1846).

State v. Granville, etc., Soc., 11 Ohio 1, 12 (1841).

Lessee of Kemper v. Cincinnati, etc., Co., 11 Ohio 392 (1842).

State v. Washington, etc., Co., 11 Ohio 96 (1841).

Bonham v. Taylor, 10 Ohio 108, 109 (1840).

Bank v. Swayne, 8 Ohio 257, 286 (1838).

B. Implied powers. The implied powers of a corporation are not limited to those which are indispensable for carrying into effect the powers expressly conferred, but comprise all that are necessary in the sense of appropriate, convenient and suitable, including the right of reasonable choice of means to be employed.

Gas & Fuel Co. v. Dairy Co., 60 O. S. 96 (1899).

State v. Railway Co., 68 O. S. 9, 40 (1903).

Railroad Co. v. Furnace Co., 37 O. S. 321 (1881).

Power granted to a corporation to engage in a certain business carries with it the authority to act precisely as an individual would act, in carrying on such business.

Larwell v. Hanover Sgs. Fund Soc., 40 O. S. 274, 282 (1883).

C. Powers outside of Ohio. Foreign corporations in Ohio. Statutes conferring corporate powers apply only to domestic corporations. A foreign corporation has only the powers conferred by its charter, although it transacts business in a state where domestic corporations possess other powers.

Ewing v. Bank, 43 O. S. 31 (1885).

Humphreys v. State, 70 O. S. 67, 83 (1904).

Kit Carter Cattle Co. v. McGillin, 21 C. C. 210; 11 C. D. 413 (1900).

A foreign corporation has no greater powers in Ohio than domestic corporations of a like character.

G. C. § 5508.

See State v. Aetna Life Ins. Co., 69 O. S. 327 (1903).

Mannington v. H. V. Ry. Co., 8 O. L. R. 451, 484; 183 Fed. 133;

16 O. F. D. 552 (C. C. Ohio 1910).

G. C. § 178.

A bank authorized to make loans at a limited rate of interest can not make loans in another state at a higher rate, although the higher rate is valid in such state.

Ewing v. Bank, 43 O. S. 31 (1885).

D. Burden of proof as to corporate powers. Where a corporation asserts that it is clothed with a given power and the right to exercise it, the burden is on it to show where such power and right are derived.

State v. Vanderbilt, 37 O. S. 591 (1882).

Mannington v. H. V. Ry. Co., 8 O. L. R. 451, 472; 183 Fed. 133;

16 O. F. D. 552 (C. C. 1910).

E. Statutes conferring corporate powers. Rules of construction. Special charters granted prior to the constitution of 1851 were strictly construed against the corporations and liberally in favor of the public.

National Bank v. Insurance Co., 41 O. S. 1, 12 (1884).

See Zanesville v. Gaslight Co., 47 O. S. 1, 30-31 (1889).

The rule of strict construction is still applied to statutes which grant special privileges or immunities. Such statutes are held to carry only those privileges and exemptions which are granted expressly and without ambiguity.

State v. Eagle Insurance Co., 50 O. S. 252, 267 (1893).

State v. Vanderbilt, 37 O. S. 590, 641 (1882).

Debolt v. Ohio, etc., Trust Co., 1 O. S. 563, 573 (1853).

Matheny v. Golden, 5 O. S. 361, 417 (1856).

State v. Railway, 12 C. C. n. s. 145, 147 (1909).

But the rule of strict construction is not now invariably applied to incorporation statutes in general. Such statutes are under some circumstances interpreted under the same rules which apply to other statutes.

National Bank v. Insurance Co., 41 O. S. 1, 12 (1884).

James v. C. H. & D. Ry. Co., 2 Dis. 261, 269, 270 (1858).

Gas & Fuel Co. v. Dairy Co., 60 O. S. 96, 104 (1899).

Larwell v. Hanover, etc., Soc., 40 O. S. 274, 285 (1883).

Gaff v. Flesher, 33 O. S. 107, 114 (1877).

Contra, Humboldt Mining Co. v. American, etc., Co., 62 Fed. 356 (C. C. A. Ohio 1894).

State v. Railway, 12 C. C. n. s. 145, 147 (1909).

An act of incorporation, like any other statute, should be construed in such a manner as will best answer the intention of the legislature; and all its parts should, if possible, be made subservient to, and in harmony with, the leading purposes and objects intended to be accomplished.

Straus v. Eagle Insurance Co., 5 O. S. 59 (1855).

White's Bank v. Toledo Ins. Co., 12 O. S. 601, 605 (1861).

Shoemaker v. Goshen Twp., 14 O. S. 569, 575 (1863).

Articles of incorporation should be construed as an entirety, in determining the powers of a corporation, and the powers should not be limited by reading single sentences or clauses and excluding all else. Eaton v. Society, 264 Ill. 88; 105 N. E. 746 (1914).

F. Mode of exercise. The mode or manner of exercising corporate powers rests in the sound discretion of the corporate authorities.

Railroad Co. v. Furnace Co., 37 O. S. 321 (1881).

Gas & Fuel Co. v. Dairy Co., 60 O. S. 96 (1899).

Central Trust Co. v. Columbus, etc., Ry. Co., 87 Fed. 815 (1898).

G. By whom exercised.

(a) Directors. Corporate powers and business are exercised and conducted by the directors or trustees;

See § 8660.

Bradford Belting Co. v. Gibson, 68 O. S. 442 (1903).

except in certain cases where, by special statutory provisions, action by the stockholders is required.

See §§ 8710 to 8718, 8698, 8700, 8720.

(b) Stockholders. Where all or a majority of the stockholders of a corporation do an act designed to affect its property and business, and which, through their control of the corporate agencies, does affect the property and business of the company in the same manner as if done by a resolution of its directors, which act is ultra vires and illegal, and was done individually to conceal the real purpose, the act should be regarded as that of the corporation.

State v. Standard Oil Co., 49 O. S. 137 (1892).

(c) Who may question. A person against whom a corporation may claim the right to exercise a power may call the power into question and require the corporation to show its existence.

Zanesville v. Gas-Light Co., 47 O. S. 1 (1889).

Gas-Light Co. v. Zanesville, 47 O. S. 35, 47 (1889).

See Bank v. Telegraph Co., 79 O. S. 89 (1908).

See above, ultra vires acts—who may object to.

XIII. TO SUE AND BE SUED.

Pleading and proof of corporate existence.

See note to § 8629.

A. In general. A corporation may sue, or be sued by, its own stockholders.

Norton v. Norton, 43 O. S. 509 (1885).

Lamson v. Farmers' Bank, 1 O. S. 206, 211 (1853).

A de facto corporation may sue, and its corporate existence can not be collaterally attacked. Kardo Co. v. Adams, 231 Fed. 950; 14 O. L. R. 223 (C. C. A. Ohio 1916).

A corporation may sue for slander upon it in the way of its business or trade.

Brayton v. Cleveland Special Police Co., 63 O. S. 83, 85 (1900).

But it has been held that a corporation can not recover for a libel, where the only damage shown is hindrance in obtaining subscriptions to its stock, although its objects may be defeated thereby. Farmers Co. v. Lawrence Co., 22 C. C. n. s. 273 (1908).

An insolvent corporation may be required to give security for costs.

G. C. § 11614.

Pleadings of a corporation should be verified by an officer.

Mfg. Co. v. Hedges, 76 O. S. 91 (1907).

In an action against a corporation by an administrator the general manager is not disqualified by G. C. § 11495 from testifying to facts occurring before the death of the decedent.

Cockley Milling Co. v. Bunn, 75 O. S. 270 (1906).

Although involuntary bankruptcy proceedings have been brought against a corporation, it may maintain an action on a claim due it, until adjudication and the appointment of a trustee. Superior Co. v. Amdur Co., 19 C. C. n. s. 510 (1912).

Disqualification of a judge holding stock in a corporation litigant. See Ashland Bank v. Houseman, 5 Ohio App. 165 (1915).

B. Criminal liability. A corporation may be indicted and prosecuted for creating a nuisance; Strawboard Co. v. State, 70 O. S. 140 (1904).

See State v. Cincinnati Fertilizer Co., 24 O. S. 611 (1874).

and for a violation of the anti-trust act.

State v. General Fire Extinguisher Co., 9 N. P. n. s. 438; 20 L. D. 240 (1910).

The word "person" in a criminal statute has been held not to apply to a corporation.

State v. Cincinnati Fertilizer Co., 24 O. S. 611 (1874).

Leo Ebert Brewing Co. v. State, 2 C. C. n. s. 537; 15 C. D. 601 (1904); aff'd, in part, 71 O. S. 476.

But since the adoption of the general code in 1910 the word "whoever" in the penal code includes "all persons, natural and artificial."

G. C. § 12371.

C. Civil liability. A corporation is liable, as an individual would be for the acts of its agents within the course of their employment;

Bank v. Blakesley, 42 O. S. 645, 652 (1885).

although the act is wilful or malicious.

Nelson Business College Co. v. Lloyd, 60 O. S. 448 (1899).

It may be liable for punitive damages.

Western Union Tel. Co. v. Smith, 64 O. S. 106, 117 (1901).

Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Slusser, 19 O. S. 157 (1869).

Atlantic, etc., Co. v. Dunn, 19 O. S. 162 (1869).

See Cleveland Ry. Co. v. Wiesenberger, 15 Ohio App. 437 (1922).

A corporation may be liable for libel:

Union, etc., Ins. Co. v. Mutual, etc., Ins. Co., 2 W. L. B. 269 (1877) slander; Gas Co. v. Black, 95 O. S. 42 (1916).

deceit;

First N. B. v. Kehnast, 22 L. D. 15 (C. P. 1910).

malicious prosecution;

Canton Assn. v. Slayman, 99 O. S. 28 (1919).

Adams Co. v. Robertson, 16 C. C. n. s. 278 (1908); aff'd, no rep. 82 O. S. 400.

false imprisonment:

Farmers Bank v. Frazier, 13 Ohio App. 245; 32 O. C. A. 7 (1920).
Nichols v. L. S. & M. S. Ry., 1 Cleve. L. R. 268 (1878).

assault and battery;

Nelson Business College Co. v. Lloyd, 60 O. S. 448 (1899).
Passenger R. R. Co. v. Young, 21 O. S. 518 (1871).
See Little Miami R. R. Co. v. Wetmore, 19 O. S. 110 (1869).
Contra, Orr v. Bank of U. S., 1 Ohio 36 (1822).

and negligence.

Railway Co. v. Bank, 56 O. S. 351, 383 (1897).
Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Keary, 3 O. S. 201 (1854).

A corporation not for profit maintaining a charity hospital or other purely charitable institution is not liable for negligence of its servants.

Taylor v. Protestant, etc., Ass'n., 85 O. S. 90 (1911).
Conner v. Sisters of Poor, 7 N. P. 514 (1900).

Johnson v. Lawrence Hospital, 12 L. D. 795 (1902).

Unless it has failed to exercise proper care in the selection of such servants. Taylor v. Hospital, 104 O. S. 61 (1922).

A street railway company can not be held directly liable for malpractice of medicine.

Youngstown, etc., Co. v. Kessler, 84 O. S. 74 (1911).

It has been held that an action of trespass quare clausum fregit would not lie against a corporation.

Foote v. Cincinnati, 9 Ohio 31 (1839).

Ward v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., 10 W. L. J. 365 (1853).

D. Federal corporations. A national bank may be sued in a state court.

Hade v. McVay 31 O. S. 231 (1877).

See Zinn v. Baxter, 65 O. S. 341 (1901).

But a soldiers' home incorporated by congress for the purpose of performing a governmental function only, can not be sued in a state court in a tort action.

Overholser v. National Home, etc., 68 O. S. 236 (1903).

XIV. TO CONTRACT AND BE CONTRACTED WITH.

A. In general. The right to enter into contracts is general and is denied only when prohibited by statute or some consideration of public policy recognized by the courts.

Stafford v. Produce Exch. Bkg. Co., 61 O. S. 160, 169 (1899).

"Unless expressly restrained by its charter, every corporation has the incidental power to make any contract, and evidence it by any instrument that may be necessary and proper to accomplish the objects for which it is created."

Straus v. Eagle Insurance Co., 5 O. S. 59, 62 (1855).

But the power to contract has reference to and is limited by the nature of the corporate business.

Hays v. Galion, etc., Co., 29 O. S. 330, 338 (1876).

A bank may furnish a surety bond for the protection of its depositors. Rep. Atty. Gen. 1912, p. 707.

B. Contract for term of years binding future directors. A corporation may make a contract for a term of years extending beyond the term of the directors by whom it is made.

Railroad Co. v. Furnace Co., 37 O. S. 321 (1881).

C. Presumption as to validity of corporate contracts. The presumption is in favor of the validity of a corporate contract. A note made or received by a corporation is, prima facie, within its corporate powers and therefore valid; but it may be shown to have been made or taken for an unauthorized purpose.

Straus v. Eagle Insurance Co., 5 O. S. 59, 62 (1855).

Stone v. Traction Co., 4 N. P. n. s. 104, 107; 16 L. D. 645 (1906).

D. Right to contract as a constitutional right. The right to acquire property includes the right to make contracts with reference to property which can not be alienated by the legislature. The provisions of Sec. 1, bill of rights of the constitution which guarantee the liberty of acquiring property by contract apply to private corporations as well as to individuals.

Stewart v. Gardner, 10 C. C. n. s. 408; 20 C. D. 218 (1907); aff'd, no rep., 78 O. S. 451.

Shaw v. Cleveland, etc., Ry., 173 Fed. 746, 751 (C. C. A. 1909).

E. Form. A contract reading "I" or "we" promise, etc., but signed in the corporate name by one or more of its officers, is the contract of the corporation and not of the officers individually.

Aungst v. Creque, 72 O. S. 551 (1905).

Baldwin v. Egan, 11 C. C. n. s. 584 (1908).

See below Form and execution of corporate deeds and instruments.

F. Contracts for usurious interest. A stipulation for interest, to be received or paid by a corporation, at a rate higher than permitted by the usury laws does not render the loan or debt void. The principal may be recovered together with interest at the lawful rate.

National Bank v. Insurance Co., 41 O. S. 1 (1884).

Larwell v. Hanover, etc., Soc., 40 O. S. 274 (1883).

Ewing v. Toledo Sav. Bank, 43 O. S. 31 (1883).

State v. Urbana, etc., Co., 14 Ohio 6 (1846).

First N. B. v. Garlinghouse, 22 O. S. 492 (1872).

Lawful interest on loan to corporation evidenced by long term obligation. See § 8705.

Under former statutes and certain special charters which expressly prohibited corporations from charging more than a certain rate of interest, it was held that a contract for a higher rate was wholly void and that neither principal nor interest could be recovered.

Bank v. Swayne, 8 Ohio 257 (1838).

Miami Exporting Co. v. Clark, 13 Ohio 1 (1853).

Preble Co. v. Russell, 1 O. S. 313 (1853).

Bank of Wooster v. Stevens, 1 O. S. 233 (1853).

Russell v. Failor, 1 O. S. 327, 329 (1853).

Union Bank v. Bell, 14 O. S. 200, 209 (1863).

Kilbreth v. Bates, 38 O. S. 187 (1882).

See Laskey v. Board of Education, 35 O. S. 519 (1880).

Southern Bank v. Gassoway, 1 Dis. 207 (1856).

Kilbreth v. Wright, 1 W. L. B. 1; 4 Am. L. R. 449 (1876).

Creed v. Commercial, etc., Bank, 11 Ohio 489 (1842).

Spaulding v. Bank, 12 Ohio 544 (1841).

Dunkle v. Renick, 6 O. S. 527 (1856).

McLean v. LaFayette, 3 McLean (U. S.) 587; 2 O. F. D. 412.

National banks may charge interest at the same rate as individuals.

La Dow v. Bank, 51 O. S. 234 (1894).

Decisions under former statutes.

Shunk v. National Bank, 22 O. S. 508 (1872).

Bank v. Slemmons, 34 O. S. 142 (1877).

Hade v. McVay, 31 O. S. 231 (1877).

Allen v. First N. B., 23 O. S. 97 (1872).

First N. B. v. Garlinghouse, 22 O. S. 492 (1872).

Illegal contracts. For contracts in violation of anti-trust act see § 6393 and note.

A corporation can not enforce payment of a mortgage loan made by it where the mortgagor, as a part of the transaction, agreed to purchase the debentures of the corporation, which debentures were in the nature of a lottery.

Heintz v. Sawyer, 5 C. C. n. s. 249; 17 C. D. 10 (1904); aff'd, no rep., 72 O. S. 678.

A contract by a street railway company to perform medical services is in violation of the laws of medicine and surgery and void.

Youngstown, etc., Ry. Co. v. Kessler, 84 O. S. 74 (1911).

For other void contracts see ultra vires above.

Contracts between corporations having same directors. See note to § 8660.

Contracts between a corporation and its directors. See note to § 8660.

XV. TO ACQUIRE, HOLD AND CONVEY PROPERTY.

A. Constitutional property rights. The inalienable right to acquire, hold and dispose of property, and to make contracts relating thereto, appertains to corporations as well as to individuals.

Stewart v. Gardner, 10 C. C. n. s. 408; 20 C. D. 218 (1907); aff'd, no rep., 78 O. S. 451.

Shaw v. Cleveland, etc., Ry., 173 Fed. 746, 751; 8 O. L. R. 43, 49 (C. C. A. 1909).

Wheeling, etc., Co. v. Gilmore, 8 C. C. 658; 4 C. D. 369 (1894).

The property of a corporation is "private property" within the meaning of Sec. 19, Art. 1 of the constitution which provides that "private property shall ever be held inviolate."

Ohio, ex rel., v. Neff, 52 O. S. 375, 404 (1895).

A corporation is a "person" within the 14th amendment of the federal constitution forbidding the deprivation of property without due process of law.

Covington, etc., Co. v. Sandford, 164 U. S. 578 (1896).

B. Property in general. A corporation may, within the limits of its charter, acquire and deal with property as freely as an individual might do.

Lee v. Sturges, 46 O. S. 153, 161 (1889).

Wheeling, etc., Co. v. Gilmore, 8 C. C. 658; 4 C. D. 369 (1894).

A corporation not for profit, formed for social purposes, may acquire and hold real estate for a club house. Rep. Atty. Gen. 1914, p. 1125.

A corporation may acquire and hold land in another state, for its corporate purposes. The language of G. C. 8627—"in conformity with * * * the laws of this state" does not limit its power to the state of Ohio. Eaton v. Society, 264 Ill. 88; 105 N. E. 746 (1914).

C. Acquisition of property by devise or bequest. A foreign corporation may acquire property by devise or bequest, in the absence of a prohibitory statute.

American Bible Soc. v. Marshall, 15 O. S. 537 (1864).

But such devise or bequest is, in general, liable to the collateral inheritance tax.

Humphreys v. State, 70 O. S. 67 (1904).

The supreme court of Illinois has held that a women's home missionary society, incorporated under the laws of Ohio, not for profit, was empowered by § 8627 to accept a devise of land in Illinois for the purpose of establishing a home for orphans. Eaton v. Society, 264 Ill. 88; 105 N. E. 746 (1914).

D. Choses and rights in action. Where a corporation purchases all the assets of another corporation or of a partnership, the choses in action of the seller pass to the purchasing corporation and it may sue thereon. Gas & Fuel Co. v. Dairy Co., 60 O. S. 96 (1899; claim for property damage caused by negligence); Crown Co. v. Levy Co., 16 N. P. n. s. 561; aff'd, 24 C. C. n. s. 556 (1914; injunction against vendor of good will of business); Steamship Co. v. Shipbuilding Co., 215 Fed. 296; 12 O. L. R. 455 (1914; rescission of contract of vendor corporation because of fraud of its promoter).

E. In exchange for stock. See notes to §§ 8630, 8674.

F. Property not necessary for corporate business may be acquired by a corporation as a part of an entire transaction, whereby it acquired other property for its corporate purposes.

Gas & Fuel Co. v. Dairy Co., 60 O. S. 96 (1899).

G. Subject to police regulations. A corporation holds its property subject to all valid police regulations.

Millcreek, etc., Co. v. St. Bernard, 8 N. P. 288; 11 L. D. 454 (1901).

H. Corporate property as a trust fund. A corporation holds its property as trustee for the benefit of its creditors and stockholders.

Niles v. Olszak, 87 O. S. 229 (1912).

Rouse v. Bank, 46 O. S. 493, 503 (1899).

Bank v. Mfg. Co., 67 O. S. 306, 314 (1902).

See note to § 8684.

I. Real property. Office building, etc., companies, see § 10210.

Real estate companies, see §§ 8648-8650.

A corporation may acquire and hold such real property as may be necessary in the transaction of its business.

Lessee of Overmyer v. Williams, 15 Ohio 26 (1846).

Walsh v. Barton, 24 O. S. 28, 42 (1873).

See Baldwin v. Egan, 11 C. C. n. s. 584 (1908); aff'd, no rep., 84 O. S. 460.

It may receive a conveyance of land as security for, or in payment of, a debt.

Morris v. Way, 16 Ohio 469 (1847).

J. Purchase for unauthorized purpose. Where a corporation purchases unnecessary land, or acquires land for unauthorized purposes, the rules governing other ultra vires contracts apply. The corporation may resell such land and the title of its vendee becomes indefeasible, both the corporation and its vendor being estopped from questioning the transaction.

Walsh v. Barton, 24 O. S. 28, 42 (1873).

While the corporation holds such land its proprietary rights can not be questioned by persons with whom it has made contracts relating to the land and who have received benefits thereunder. The corporation may collect rent, and may recover damages for breach of contract.

Hamilton, etc., Co. v. C. H. & D. R. Co., 29 O. S. 341 (1876).
 Rector v. Hartford Deposit Co., 190 Ill. 380; 60 N. E. Rep. 528.

K. Miscellaneous. A corporation having purchased land at a judicial sale and acquiesced in the confirmation of the sale can not, in error proceedings, set up its want of power to purchase.

Bank of U. S. v. White, Wright 574 (1834).

A turnpike company can not acquire the fee in land occupied by it, under an easement sufficient for its purposes, for the purpose of preventing a railroad company from building a bridge over the road.

Wooster Turnpike Co. v. C. P. & V. R. Co., 15 C. C. 268; 8 C. D. 269 (1897).

L. Commercial paper. A corporation may acquire commercial paper in the course of its corporate business.

Straus v. Eagle Ins. Co., 5 O. S. 59, 62 (1855).

Durrell v. Belding, 9 C. C. 74; 4 C. D. 264 (1894).

Cuyahoga, etc., Co. v. Lewis, 1 Cleve. L. Rec. 15 (Dist. Ct.).

A note received by a corporation is presumed to have been acquired in the usual course of business.

Straus v. Eagle Ins. Co., 5 O. S. 59, 62 (1855).

A corporation authorized to purchase commercial paper has no power to purchase a note for the sole purpose of assisting a third person in collecting the same by acquiring a lien on stock of the corporation owned by the maker of the note.

White's Bank v. Toledo Ins. Co., 12 O. S. 601 (1861).

An insurance company has no power to purchase a promissory note on credit for the purpose of setting off such note against a claim against the company.

Straus v. Eagle Ins. Co., 5 O. S. 59 (1855).

M. Sale and conveyance of corporate property. The power of disposition is a necessary incident to the power of acquiring and holding property and a corporation has, in general, the same capacity to sell and convey its property that an individual has.

Reynolds v. Commissioners, 5 Ohio 204 (1831).

Nearing v. Toledo, etc., Co., 9 C. C. 596; 6 C. D. 664 (1893).

Wiswell v. First Congregational Church, 14 O. S. 31, 43 (1862).

At a time when individuals were permitted by law to prefer certain creditors, it was held that an insolvent corporation had no such power, the corporate property being a trust fund for creditors and stockholders.

Rouse v. Bank, 46 O. S. 493 (1889).

Corporate property may be levied on by creditors and sold at judicial sale.

Coe v. Knox County Bank, 10 O. S. 412 (1859).

Coe v. Peacock, 14 O. S. 187 (1863).

N. Entire property. Sales of the entire property of corporations are regulated by statute.

See §§ 8710 to 8718.

O. Corporate franchise. A corporation has no power to sell or convey its franchise to be a corporation:

Coe v. Columbus, etc., Co., 10 O. S. 372 (1859).

Atkinson v. Marietta, etc., Co., 15 O. S. 21 (1864).

Railroad Co. v. Furnace Co., 37 O. S. 321, 330 (1881).

except when specially authorized by statute.

State v. Sherman, 22 O. S. 411, 428 (1872).

P. Property necessary in performance of public duty. A railroad company or other corporation which owes duties to the public can not alienate property or franchises which are essential to the performance of such duties.

Railroad Co. v. Furnace Co., 37 O. S. 321, 330 (1881).

Coe v. Columbus, etc., Co., 10 O. S. 372 (1859).

Q. Authority of corporate officers to convey. Authority to make a sale or conveyance of corporate property is vested in the board of directors.

§ 8660 and note.

But instruments of conveyance are usually executed by one or more executive officers. A deed executed in the name of the corporation, by its president, under the corporate seal, is presumed to have been authorized by the directors, and is prima facie valid.

R. R. Co. v. Harter, 26 O. S. 426 (1875).

Bank v. Flour Co., 41 O. S. 552, 557 (1885).

Sheehan v. Davis, 17 O. S. 571, 581 (1867).

Bosche v. Toledo, etc., Co., 14 C. C. 289, 295; 7 C. D. 377 (1897).

The officer who executes a deed on behalf of a corporation and affixes its corporate seal is the proper person to acknowledge the deed.

Sheehan v. Davis, 17 O. S. 571 (1867).

R. Form and execution of corporate deeds and instruments. The word "successors" is not necessary, in a deed to a corporation, in order to convey a fee simple.

Railway v. Bosworth, 46 O. S. 81, 84 (1888).

A conveyance by a corporation should be in the name of the corporation. A conveyance in the name of an individual, although describing him as an officer of the corporation, is not the act of the corporation, and does not transfer the title;

Norris v. Dains, 52 O. S. 215 (1894).

Hatch v. Barr, 1 Ohio 390 (1824).

although good as an equitable conveyance as against the corporation.

Bundy v. Iron Co., 38 O. S. 300 (1882).

Where the corporate name was not signed, but in the body of the deed the corporation was named as grantor, and the duly authorized officer affixed the corporate seal and subscribed his own name to the instrument, it was held properly executed.

Sheehan v. Davis, 17 O. S. 571 (1867).

Hays v. Galion, etc., Co., 29 O. S. 330, 334 (1876).

A contract signed in the corporate name, followed by the signatures and titles of its officers, is the contract of the corporation alone, although the word "we" is used in the body of the instrument and the word "by" does not precede the signatures of the officers.

Aungst v. Creque, 72 O. S. 551 (1905).

S. Corporate seal. Necessity of. The omission of the corporate seal does not invalidate a corporate deed which is otherwise properly executed. The use of the corporate seal by a corporation is not compulsory.

East End Building & Loan Co. v. Hughey, 16 C. C. 19; 8 C. D. 724 (1898).

Poyser v. Standard Paving Brick Co., 46 W. L. B. 84 (Sup. Ct. 1901).

In re Farmer's Supply Co., 170 Fed. 502 (D. C. 1909).

See below Corporate seal.

T. Stockholder or officer as witness or notary. A stockholder of a corporation may act as notary public and take the acknowledgment of a person executing a deed to it.

Reed v. Loan Co., 68 O. S. 280 (1903).

A stockholder may act as witness to such a deed.

Reed v. Loan Co., 68 O. S. 280 (1903).

Johnson v. Turner, 7 Ohio (pt. 2); 216 (1836).

The secretary and treasurer of a corporation may, as notary, take the acknowledgment of a person executing a mortgage to it.

Horton v. Columbian, etc., Soc., 6 W. L. B. 141.

U. Proof of execution. A corporate deed, if objected to, can not be given in evidence without proof of its execution. The signature of the president does not prove itself, nor is it proven by the corporate seal.

Walsh v. Barton, 24 O. S. 28, 41 (1873).

See 9 W. L. B. 253, paper by S. H. Wilder.

XVI. CORPORATE SEAL.

A. Necessity and effect. At common law the signature of a corporation was its corporate seal.

Tiffin v. Shawhan, 43 O. S. 178, 185 (1885).

See Railway Co. v. Lynde, 55 O. S. 23, 49 (1896).

Cincinnati v. Cameron, 33 O. S. 364 (1878).

Under present statutes a corporate deed or mortgage, when otherwise properly executed, is not rendered invalid by the omission to affix the corporate seal.

Poyser v. Standard Paving Brick Co., 46 W. L. B. 84 (Sup. Ct. 1901).

East End, etc., Co. v. Hughey, 16 C. C. 19; 8 C. D. 724 (1898).

In re Farmers' Supply Co., 170 Fed. 502 (D. C. 1909).

But the affixing of the corporate seal to an instrument affords a presumption that the instrument has been authorized by the board of directors and, when otherwise properly executed, renders the instrument prima facie valid.

Sheehan v. Davis, 17 O. S. 571 (1867).

Perin v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 17 W. L. B. 261; s. c., 18 W. L. B. 382 (Super. Ct. Cin.).

R. R. Co. v. Harter, 26 O. S. 426 (1875).

Bank v. Flour Co., 41 O. S. 552, 557 (1885).

Stetson v. Durrell, 3 W. L. B. 154.

See 38 W. L. B. 204 (paper by Clement Bates).

9 W. L. B. 19 (paper by F. M. Coppock).

Negotiable bonds of a corporation do not become "sealed instruments" and nonnegotiable by the affixing of the corporate seal thereto.

Railway Co. v. Lynde, 55 O. S. 23 (1896).

G. C. § 8111.

Certain instruments are required by special statutes to be executed under the corporate seal; including the deed of a railway company (§ 8761); certificate of amendment of articles of incorporation (§ 8721); statement of a foreign corporation (§ 179), and some certificates of railroad companies (§§ 9028, 8748, 9033, 9081), and turnpike companies (§§ 9260, 9262).

B. Form. The seal may be an impression upon the paper on which the instrument is written, or upon wax, wafer or other adhesive substance.

G. C. § 32.

Where a corporation had no seal, an instrument signed in the corporate name by the president, with his private seal, in scrawl, attached, was held valid against the corporation.

Western Female Seminary v. Blair, 1 Dis. 370 (Cin. Super. Ct. 1857).

XVII. POWER TO ACQUIRE ITS OWN STOCK.

A. In general. It has been stated as a general principle, subject to some exceptions, that an Ohio corporation can not purchase or deal in its own stock. This principle was held to rest upon a lack of power in the corporation and not upon any statutory prohibition.

Coppin v. Greenles, 38 O. S. 275, 279 (1882).

Morgan v. Lewis, 46 O. S. 1, 6 (1888).

State v. Oberlin, etc., Ass'n., 35 O. S. 258, 263 (1879).

C. & P. R. Co. v. Kelley, 5 O. S. 180, 193.

Stunt v. Newark, etc., Co., 22 C. C. 120; 12 C. D. 175 (1901); aff'd, no rep., 67 O. S. 555.

Merchants N. B. v. Overman Carriage Co., 17 C. C. 253; 9 C. D. 738 (1898).

Shaw v. Ohio Edison Inst. Co., 19 W. L. B. 292 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1888).

Lewis v. Reed, 5 W. L. B. 79 (1880).

Hubbard v. Riley, 3 W. L. B. 434 (1878).

De La Croix v. Eid Concrete Steel Co., 8 N. P. n. s. 489 (1909).

See Holcomb v. Gibson, 39 W. L. B. 380 (58 O. S. 710).

Some doubt has been expressed as to whether the foregoing statement should be recognized as a general rule since the abrogation of the double liability of stockholders in 1903.

Siders v. Gem City Concrete Co., 13 C. C. n. s. 481, 486; 23 C. D. 552 (1910); aff'd, no rep., weight of evidence being involved, 87 O. S. 519.

Mannington v. Hocking Valley Ry. Co., 8 O. L. R. 451, 465 (U. S. C. C. 1910).

State B. & T. Co. v. Mitchell Co., 14 N. P. n. s. 49 (1913).

Contra, De La Croix v. Eid Concrete Steel Co., 8 N. P. n. s. 489, 507 (1909).

It is not doubted, however, that where the purchase by a corporation of its own stock results in injury to creditors, or is not made in good faith, it may be set aside.

Siders v. Gem City Concrete Co., 13 C. C. n. s. 481, 488, 489; 23 C. D. 552 (1910); aff'd, no rep., 87 O. S. 519.

B. An executory agreement for the purchase by a corporation of its own stock can not be enforced either by action for specific performance or for damages.

Coppin v. Greenles, 38 O. S. 275 (1882).

An agreement whereby subscribers to stock bind themselves to first offer their shares to the corporation, before selling to others, is, as between the corporation and the state, unauthorized. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1920, p. 184.

C. An executed transaction comes within the general rules governing other ultra vires contracts which have been executed. Where a corporation gave its note for the purchase price of its own stock, and thereafter sold the stock, it can not defend against the note on the ground that it had no power to purchase the stock.

Siders v. Gem City Concrete Co., 13 C. C. n. s. 481; 23 C. D. 552 (1910); aff'd, no rep., 87 O. S. 519.

See Morgan v. Lewis, 46 O. S. 1, 7, 8 (1888).

Railway Co. v. Iron Co., 46 O. S. 44 (1888).

Hubbard v. Riley, 3 W. L. B. 434 (1878).

State B. & T. Co. v. Mitchell Co., 14 N. P. n. s. 49 (1913).

Where a corporation purchased stock from a dissatisfied stockholder with the assent of all other stockholders, at a time when the corporation was free from debt and the purchase was fully executed in good faith, being made to avoid dissensions among the directors and stockholders, the transaction was upheld.

State B. & T. Co. v. Mitchell Co., 14 N. P. n. s. 49 (1913).

Where a corporation purchased shares of its stock, giving its notes and mortgage in payment, it is estopped from setting up ultra vires as a defense against the same, where an undeserved benefit would thereby be conferred upon the holder of the bulk of its stock, and where no rights of creditors are involved. Strauss v. Imperial Motor Co., 28 O. C. A. 574 (1918).

D. To secure debt due to corporation. A corporation may buy or take its own stock in order to avoid loss on a preexisting debt due to it.

Taylor v. Miami Exporting Co., 6 Ohio 176 (1833).

Coppin v. Greenles, 38 O. S. 275, 278 (1882).

Morgan v. Lewis, 46 O. S. 1, 6 (1889).

State v. Building Assn, 35 O. S. 258, 263 (1879).

State v. Franklin Bank, 10 Ohio, 91, 97 (1840).

And it may obtain and enforce a lien on the stock to secure its claim.

Stafford v. Produce Exchange Banking Co., 61 O. S. 160 (1899).

Railway Co. v. Burke, 19 W. L. B. 27 (C. P. 1887).

Bellevue Bank v. Higbee, 4 C. C. 222; 2 C. D. 512 (1889); affirmed, 28 W. L. B. 336.

E. Stock fraudulently issued. A corporation may, in order to avoid loss, expend money to regain stock which has been fraudulently issued by its officers.

Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Duckworth, 2 C. C. 518; 1 C. D. 618 (1887); affirmed, 21 W. L. B. 36.

F. Rescission of exchange of stock for property. Where a corporation issued stock in exchange for property, but, other stockholders being dissatisfied, the transaction was rescinded by agreement and in good faith, the return of such stock to the corporation is not void.

Morgan v. Lewis, 46 O. S. 1 (1888).

Sanderson v. Aetna, etc., Co., 34 O. S. 442 (1878).

Biggio v. Sandheger, 8 N. P. 13; 10 L. D. 319 (1900).

State B. & T. Co. v. Mitchell Co., 14 N. P. n. s. 49 (1913).

For power of corporation to compromise with and release subscribers to stock see notes to §§ 8630 and 8674.

G. Stock issued under agreement to repurchase. Where stock was issued under an agreement by the corporation to repurchase the same, such agreement to repurchase may be enforced if the rights of creditors are not impaired.

Zerkle v. Price, 5 N. P. 480; 7 L. D. 465.

Shoemaker v. Goshen Township, 14 O. S. 569, 583 (1863).

Weeden v. Lake Erie, etc., Co., 14 Ohio 563 (1846).

Fleitman v. Stone Cotton Mills, 186 Fed. 466 (C. C. A. 1911).

Compare Stunt v. Newark, etc., Co., 22 C. C. 120; 12 C. D. 175 (1901); aff'd, no rep., 67 O. S. 555.

H. On retirement of officer. The retirement of the owner of stock from his corporate office does not authorize the corporation to purchase his stock.

Merchants N. B. v. Overman Carriage Co., 17 C. C. 253, 255; 9 C. D. 738 (1898).

See Siders v. Gem City Concrete Co., 13 C. C. n. s. 481, 489 (1910).

State B. & T. Co. v. Mitchell Co., 14 N. P. n. s. 49 (1913).

I. What constitutes a purchase by a corporation of its own stock. The redemption of preferred stock issued by a railroad company under G. C. §§ 8817 and 8805 is not a reduction of its capital stock by a purchase of its shares.

Mannington v. Hocking Valley Ry. Co., 183 Fed. 133; 8 O. L. R. 451; 16 O. F. D. 552 (U. S. C. C. 1910); s. c., 9 N. P. n. s. 641; 20 L. D. 468 (C. P.).

The purchase of stock by a director, as trustee for the corporation, authorized by a resolution of the directors and paid for by notes of the corporation, is a purchase by the corporation.

Merchants N. B. v. Overman Carriage Co., 17 C. C. 253; 9 C. D. 738 (1898).

Status of stock in itself acquired by a corporation. Stock which has been transferred to the corporation by which it was issued becomes treasury stock and is held subject to control and disposition by the directors.

See Taylor v. Miami Exporting Co., 6 Ohio 176, 220 (1833).

Allen v. De Lärgerberger, 20 W. L. B. 368.

It can not be voted while held by the corporation.

Allen v. De Lärgerberger, 20 W. L. B. 368.

Ryan v. Miami Valley R. Co., 10 Am. L. R. 263, 267 (1881).

J. Agreement of corporation to sell stock for stockholder. Liability for breach. Where a bank stockholder, who is indebted to the bank, is about to sell his stock through a broker to raise funds to pay the debt, and the bank agrees to sell the stock for him for the same price at which he has authorized the broker to sell, the bank is liable to him for such price, where it fails to sell the stock or to notify him of its failure. Brown v. Ginn, 21 C. C. n. s. 85 (1907); aff'd, no rep. 80 O. S. 718.

XVIII. TO ACQUIRE AND HOLD STOCK OF OTHER CORPORATIONS.

See § 8683 and note.

XIX. TO EXECUTE AND INDORSE COMMERCIAL PAPER.

A corporation may become a party to commercial paper in the course of its corporate business. A note or bill of exchange made or received by a corporation is prima facie valid.

Straus v. Eagle Ins. Co., 5 O. S. 59, 62 (1855).

Larwell v. Hanover Sgs. Fund Soc., 40 O. S. 274, 282 (1883).

Andres v. Morgan, 62 O. S. 236, 248 (1900).

Hays v. Galion, etc., Co., 29 O. S. 330 (1876).

White's Bank v. Toledo Ins. Co., 12 O. S. 601 (1861).

A bona fide holder of the note of a corporation is protected to the same extent as the bona fide holder of a note made by an individual.

Holmes v. Hayes, 32 W. L. B. 346, 349 (52 O. S. 617; Sup. Ct. 1894).

A. Accommodation paper. A corporation has no power to become an accommodation maker or endorser of commercial paper. Such an instrument can not be enforced against the corporation by a holder having notice of its character.

Bank v. Oil Co., 101 O. S. 217 (1920).

Benedict v. Market N. B., 4 N. P. 231; 6 L. D. 320; s. c., 19 C. C. 408; 10 C. D. 505.

In re Continental Iron Co., 2 O. L. R. 563 (1904).

See Vos v. Building Ass'n, 9 W. L. B. 194 (Super. Ct. Cin.).

Where it did not appear that a corporation was insolvent and that it had ceased to prosecute the objects for which it was created at a time when its funds were used to pay notes, executed by its president and endorsed by the corporation, held by a bank to cover a loss by the failure of a former corporation, the funds so used are not so impressed with a trust as to be recoverable by the trustees in bankruptcy of the corporation.

Haines v. Bank, 203 Fed. 225 (C. C. A. 1913).

B. Corporate note payable to officer. It has been held that a note signed in the corporate name by an officer of the corporation and made payable to himself is presumptively unauthorized and that subsequent purchasers take with notice.

In re Hartwell Furniture Co., 7 O. L. R. 555 (1909).

In re Continental Iron Co., 2 O. L. R. 563 (1904).

Arnkens v. Rouse, 26 W. L. B. 221 (C. P. 1891).

Compare in re Troy, etc., Co., 136 Fed. 420 (1905); aff'd, 142 Fed. 1038.

Railway Co. v. Bank, 56 O. S. 351 (1897). (Stock certificates required by statute to be signed by president and secretary.)

See G. C. § 8147.

C. Form. A note reading "we promise to pay . . ." and signed "The A. B. Co., C. D., Secy. & Treas.; E. F., Pres.," is on its face the note of the corporation alone and not the note of the officers personally.

Aungst v. Creque, 72 O. S. 551 (1905).

For note held properly executed although corporate name not signed.

See Hays v. Galion, etc., Co., 29 O. S. 330, 334 (1876).

See note to § 8660. Officers and agents. Liability.

XX. MISCELLANEOUS POWERS.

A. To act as trustee. A corporation may hold property in trust for purposes within its corporate powers.

State v. Toledo, 3 C. C. n. s. 468; 13 C. D. 327 (1902); s. c., 5 C.

C. n. s. 277; 16 C. D. 628.

Chapin v. School District, 1 Warden's W. L. B. 227.

Vidal v. Girard, 43 U. S. (2 How.) 128 (187-188).

Perin v. Carey, 65 U. S. (24 How.) 465.

But it can not act as administrator or assignee for creditors unless expressly authorized by statute.

Schumacher v. McCalip, 69 O. S. 500 (1904).

Powers of trust companies, see § 710-150 et seq.

B. To enter into partnership. A corporation has no power to enter into partnership with an individual or another corporation.

Guerinck v. Alcott, 66 O. S. 94, 104 (1902).

Merchants N. B. v. Wehrmann, 69 O. S. 160, 173, 174 (1903); reversed on other grounds, 202 U. S. 295; 4 O. L. R. 344.

Merchants N. B. v. Standard Wagon Co., 6 N. P. 264; 9 L. D. 380; affirmed, 7 N. P. 539; 10 L. D. 81; affirmed, no rep., 65 O. S. 559.

See State v. Standard Oil Co., 49 O. S. 137, 185 (1892).

But a corporation may enter into a joint adventure, the purposes of which are within its corporate purposes.

Guerinck v. Alcott, 66 O. S. 94, 105 (1902).

Pomeroy Salt Co. v. Davis, 21 O. S. 555, 573 (1871).

Mestier v. Chevalier Pavement Co., 108 La. An. 562; 32 So. Rep. 520.

And may become a member of a voluntary association.

Miller, etc., Co. v. Laidlaw, etc., Co., 4 N. P. n. s. 554; 17 L. D. 499 (1905).

See Webster v. Taplin, Rice & Co., 9 C. C. n. s. 587; 19 C. D. 543 (1904); aff'd, no rep., 76 O. S. 590.

A contract between corporations to hire guards for their properties, at joint expense, to be paid ratably by each is not a partnership contract. Coal Co. v. Osborne, 17 C. C. n. s. 599 (1910).

C. To become surety or guarantor. A corporation has, in general, no power to become surety on a bond, or to guarantee the contract or debt of another. Pollitz v. Commission, 96 O. S. 49 (1917).

A corporation has no power to become an accommodation maker or endorser of commercial paper. Such an instrument can not be enforced against the corporation by a holder having notice of its character.

Benedict v. Market N. B., 4 N. P. 231; 6 L. D. 320; s. c., 19 C. C. 408; 10 C. D. 505.

In re Continental Iron Co., 2 O. L. R. 563 (1904).

But a corporation, engaged in the sale of building materials which becomes surety or guarantor of the performance of a building contract, by the contractor, to whom the corporation sells materials, may be held liable as such guarantor, where the party to whom the guaranty was given has fully performed his part of the contract. Western Strawboard Co. v. Variety Iron Works Co., 17 C. C. n. s. 205 (1910); aff'd, no rep. 87 O. S. 478; Builders Supply Co. v. Investment Co., 14 N. P. n. s. 383 (1913); Glenville v. Prout, 6 N. P. 152; 8 L. D. 99. Contra. Humbolt Min. Co. v. American, etc., Co., 62 Fed. 356; 9 O. E. D. 153 (C. C. A. 1894).

See Ultra Vires Acts, supra.

A railroad company which owns stock in another company (as authorized by § 8683) and for its protection has acquired bonds of such other company, may, in order to sell such bonds at an adequate price, guarantee their payment. But it has no power to enter into a joint contract with other guarantors to guarantee an entire bond issue of which it owns only a portion. Pollitz v. Commission, 96 O. S. 49 (1917). See § 614-57a.

A corporation may give security for the debt of a third person, where it is indebted to such third person, and the real object and effect of the transaction is to secure the debt owing by the corporation.

Bank v. Flour Co., 41 O. S. 552 (1885).

A corporation selling bonds, not its own property, has no power to guarantee their payment. But, in making the sale, it may agree to repurchase the bonds on demand at the same price.

Bank v. Schaeffer, 16 C. C. 457; 9 C. D. 182 (1898).

For guaranty by railroad company of bonds of coal company see note to § 8806.

D. To carry on professional business. A corporation can not carry on professional business.

§ 8623: State v. Laylin, 73 O. S. 90 (Law).

Union Painless Dentists Co. v. Mullen, 6 O. L. R. 475; 19 L. D. 136 (Dentistry).

Youngstown, etc., Ry. v. Kessler, 84 O. S. 74 (Medicine).

E. To borrow money, issue bonds, etc. See §§ 8705 to 8709 and notes.

Section 8628. (Same or similar names.) The secretary of state shall not file or record any articles of incorporation wherein the corporate name is likely to mislead the public as to the nature or purpose of the business its charter authorizes, nor if such name is that of an existing corporation, or so similar thereto as to be likely to mislead the public, unless the written consent of the existing corporation, signed by its president and secretary, be filed with such articles. (R. S. Sec. 3238; March 31, 1902, 95 v. 76; April 27, 1896, 92 v. 320; R. S. 1880.)

Requirement as to name of corporation for profit, see § 8625.

Change of name, § 8719.

The secretary of state has discretion to determine whether a name is misleading.

Rep. Atty. Gen. 1911-1912, p. 127.

Opins. Atty. Gen. 1918, p. 536.

Whether the words "Police" or "Special Police" in the name of a corporation organized under G. C. § 10199 are misleading, is a question within the discretion of the secretary of state. Rep. Atty. Gen. 1912, p. 55.

The words "existing corporation" in this section include a foreign corporation authorized to do business in Ohio. A new corporation can not adopt the name of such foreign corporation without its consent. Rep. Atty. Gen. 1912, pp. 14, 22.

But it is said that this section does not apply to a foreign corporation seeking authority to do business in Ohio under § 178 et seq., and that the secretary of state has no authority to refuse a certificate on the ground that the name of such foreign corporation is similar to that of an existing Ohio corporation. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1915, p. 2216.

A corporation whose articles of incorporation have been cancelled for non-payment of franchise taxes under § 5509 is deemed to continue in existence during the two-year period allowed for reinstatement by § 5511, and articles of a new corporation bearing a name similar to that of the delinquent corporation can not be filed during such two year period. Rep. Atty. Gen. 1912, p. 48.

Corporations organized to manufacture near beer may use the words "Products" and "Brewing" as a parts of their names. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1919, p. 228.

Filing of articles not conclusive. The action of the secretary of state in receiving and filing articles of incorporation is not conclusive against another corporation having a similar name. The older corporation may enforce its rights by injunction.

Cincinnati Vici Shoe Co. v. Cincinnati Shoe Co., 7 N. P. 135; 9 L. D. 579 (1899).

Backus Oil Co. v. Backus, etc., Co., 5 W. L. B. 546 (1880).

Incorporation no defense where name infringes. The use by a corporation of a name which infringes the trade name of an individual, or of another corporation, may be enjoined. The fact of being incorporated by such name is no defense.

Thayer, etc., Co. v. Thayer Co., 6 N. P. 300; 9 L. D. 288.

Backus Oil Co. v. Backus, etc., Co., 5 W. L. B. 546 (1880).

R. W. Rogers Co. v. Wm. Rogers Mfg. Co., 70 Fed. 1017 (1895).

Bissell etc., Works v. Bissel, etc., Co., 121 Fed. 357 (1902).

Chickering v. Chickering, 120 Fed. 69 (1903).

Higgins v. Higgins Soap Co., 144 N. Y. 462.

Bear Lithia Springs Co. v. Great Bear Spring Co., 71 N. J. Eq. 595; 71 Atl. 383.

Corporation not for profit. A corporation not for profit may, by injunction, protect its name against infringement.

People v. Rose, 225 Ill. 496; 80 N. E. 293.

Salvation Army in U. S. v. American Salvation Army, 120 N. Y. Suppl. 471; 135 App. Div. 268.

B. P. O. E. v. Improved B. P. O. E. (Tenn. 1909); 118 S. W. 389.

B. P. O. E. v. Improved B. P. O. E., 111 N. Y. Suppl. 1067.

Name misleading as to nature of business. "The Trustee company" may be adopted by a real estate company proposing to sell certificates entitling the holders to undivided interests in land held by the company as agent or trustee for all of the investors.

Rep. Atty. Gen. 1910-1911, p. 218.

A foreign corporation, having in its name the words "bank" or "trust company", but not intending to do such business in Ohio, should be refused authority to do business in the state, as its name would be misleading to the public. Rep. Atty. Gen. 1912, p. 706.

New banks. The name of a proposed bank should be approved by the superintendent of banks and not by the secretary of state. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1919, p. 1485; 11 Dept. Rep. 272; G. C. § 710-44.

Two corporations of same name having common agent. Where two corporations had the same name, occupied the same office, and were represented by the same agent, a creditor of one of them purchased goods from the agent under the belief that he was dealing with his debtor. When sued by the other corporation for the price of the goods, he was held entitled to set off his claim. Coal Co. v. Coal Co., 17 C. C. n. s. 491 (1911); aff'd, no rep. 88 O. S. 621.

Right to adopt name of individual or former partnership. A corporation can not adopt or use the name of an individual so as to infringe the name of another corporation.

Thayer, etc., Co. v. Thayer, etc., Co., 6 N. P. 300; 9 L. D. 288.

L. Martin Co. v. L. Martin & Wickes Co., 75 N. J. Eq. 39; 71 Atl. 409.

Where partnership assets, including good will, are sold through a receiver, and the purchaser transfers the same to a corporation, the corporation may adopt the name previously used by the partnership.

Snyder Mfg. Co. v. Snyder, 54 O. S. 86 (1896).

A corporation may adopt and use the name of an individual connected with it, provided it is not so used as to mislead the public into a belief that its products are those of another corporation having a similar name.

Herring, etc., Co. v. Hall Co., 208 U. S. 554.

See Pflueger Co. v. Enterprise Mfg. Co., 85 O. S. 450.

Star Dist. Co. v. Mihalovitch, 23 L. D. 342 (C. P. 1911).

And may, by injunction, protect such name against infringement.

French Bros. Dairy Co. v. Giacin, 12 C. C. n. s. 134 (1909); affirming 8 N. P. n. s. 549.

Use of word "Edisonia" in name of corporation giving moving picture exhibitions, and authorized to use "Edison" kinetoscopes therein, held not calculated to mislead the public to believe that the manufacturer of the machines was interested in the exhibitions or the corporation.

Edison v. Mills-Edisonia, 74 N. J. Eq. 521; 70 Atl. Rep. 191.

A corporation which so adopts the name of another company, composed mainly of the same individuals, as reasonably to induce the belief that they are one and the same company, will be bound by contracts made by a common agent of the two, with parties acting in such belief, although made in the name of the other company and in its behalf.

Adams v. Brown, 16 O. S. 75 (1865).

Names held to be infringements. "National Liberty League" infringes the name "National Liberty Legion."

People v. Rose, 225 Ill. 496; 80 N. E. 293.

"Grand Lodge Knights of Pythias" is infringed by the name "Grand Lodge Knights of Pythias of North America, South America, Europe, Asia," etc.

Creswill v. Grand Lodge K. P., 133 Ga. 837; 67 S. E. 188.

"The George A. Thayer Co." is an imitation of "The George A. Thayer Carpet Cleaning and Rug Manufacturing Co."

Thayer, etc., Co. v. Thayer Co., 6 N. P. 300; 9 L. D. 288 (1899).

"The Kansas City Real Estate Exchange" is an imitation of "The Kansas City Real Estate and Stock Exchange Co."

State v. McGrath, 92 Mo. 355.

"The Holmes, Booth & Atwood Mfg. Co." is an imitation of "Holmes, Booth & Hayden."

Holmes, etc., v. Holmes, etc., Co., 37 Conn. 278.

"United States Commercial Agency & Collecting Co." is an infringement of "United States Mercantile Reporting Co."

In re U. S. Mercantile Co., 4 N. Y. Supp. 916.

Names held not to be infringements. "Corning Glass Works" held not so similar to "Corning Cut Glass Company" as to confuse the public where the companies produce different kinds of glass and cater to different customers.

Corning Glass Works v. Corning Cut Glass Co., 197 N. Y. 173; 90 N. E. 449.

"John Cashatt Company" is not so similar to the "Cashatt Cigar Company" as to mislead the public.

Rep. Atty. Gen. 1908, p. 79.

"Bank of Michigan" does not necessarily infringe the name "Michigan Savings Bank."

Michigan Savings Bank v. Dime Sav. Bank, 162 Mich. 297; 127 N. W. 364.

Acquiring new name by usage or reputation. See Rep. Atty. Gen. 1904-1905, p. 110.

Misnomer. A devise or conveyance is not defeated by a misnomer provided the corporation intended can be sufficiently ascertained from the terms used.

Chapin v. School District, 1 Gaz. 227.

A stock subscription can not be avoided because of a mistake in the corporate name, where there is no doubt as to the corporation intended.

Milford, etc., Turnpike Co. v. Brush, 10 Ohio 111, 114 (1840).

Commissioners v. Perry, 5 Ohio 56 (1831).

Royce v. Tyler, 2 C. C. 175, 183; 1 C. D. 428 (1887).

See Biggio v. Sandheger, 8 N. P. 13; 10 L. D. 316 (1900).

In a suit against a corporation, the name of which is composed of several words, a slight mistake in the name such as the omission of one word, will be disregarded by the court unless pleaded in abatement.

State v. Telephone Co., 36 O. S. 296 (1880).

See Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Fredenbur, 3 C. C. 23; 2 C. D. 15 (1887).

Boehmke v. Traction Co., 88 O. S. 156 (1913).

Section 8629. (Certified copy evidence of incorporation.)

A copy of articles of incorporation so filed, and duly certified by the secretary of state, shall be prima facie evidence of the existence of the corporation therein named. (R. S. Sec. 3238; March 31, 1902, 95 v. 76; April 27, 1896, 92 v. 320; R. S. 1880.)

Certified copy.

When not sufficient evidence of corporate existence. The filing of articles of incorporation does not create a corporation for profit. The articles are merely authority to the incorporators to do so. The corporate existence does not commence until the requisite stock has been subscribed and the first installment paid thereon and the directors chosen.

State v. Insurance Co., 49 O. S. 440 (1892).

See note to § 8627.

In appropriation proceedings by a corporation, it must prove not only the filing of articles of incorporation, but also complete organization, by the subscription and payment of the required percentage on its capital stock and the due and regular election of directors.

Cemetery Assn. v. Traction Co., 93 O. S. 161 (1915).

Telephone Co. v. Cincinnati, 73 O. S. 64 (1905).

Effect and admissibility. The certificate of the secretary of state can only be as to the correctness of the copy; not that the articles are valid.

Doyle v. Mizner, 42 Mich. 332.

Where the certified copy shows that the articles are prima facie invalid, the instrument can not be used as evidence.

Baptist Church v. R. R. Co., 4 Mackey, 43 (D. C.).

McCallon v. Hybernian Soc., 70 Cal. 163.

Harris v. McGregor, 29 Cal. 127.

But unauthorized provisions contained in the articles do not render a certified copy inadmissible, where it contains all the provisions required by statute.

Toledo, etc., Ry. v. Toledo, etc., Ry., 6 C. C. 362, 391; 3 C. D. 493, 507 (1892).

See note to § 8625.

Imperfect articles can not be aided, varied or contradicted by evidence aliunde.

Atty. Gen. v. Lorman, 59 Mich. 157.

Hallett v. Harrower, 33 Barb. (N. Y.) 537.

People v. Selfridge, 52 Cal. 331.

Where a condition precedent to the right of incorporation is prescribed by law, a certified copy of articles is inadmissible in the absence of evidence as to performance of such condition precedent.

Raccoon River Nav. Co. v. Eagle, 29 O. S. 238 (1876).

ALLEGATION AND PROOF OF CORPORATE EXISTENCE.

In an action by a corporation, either foreign or domestic, its petition need not aver that it is a corporation. Such an averment, if made, is mere surplusage, and a general denial to the petition will not require proof of such averment.

Brady v. National Supply Co., 64 O. S. 267 (1901); affirming 19 C. C. 687; 10 C. D. 27.

Kardo Co. v. Adams, 231 Fed. 950; 14 O. L. R. 223 (C. C. A. Ohio 1916); reversing, 222 Fed. 967; 13 O. L. R. 137.

Elektron Mfg. Co. v. Jones Bros. Co., 8 C. C. 311; 4 C. D. 555 (1894).
 Minzey v. Marcy Mfg. Co., 6 C. C. n. s. 593; 15 C. D. 593 (1903).
 Illinois, etc., Co. v. Whitman, 13 N. P. n. s. 362; 23 L. D. 12 (1911).

See Spence v. Insurance Co., 40 O. S. 517 (1884).

To raise the issue of nul tiel corporation the defendant must specially plead that the plaintiff is not a corporation, in which event the plaintiff must prove its corporate existence.

Brady v. National Supply Co., 64 O. S. 267 (1901); affirming 19 C. C. 687; 10 C. D. 27.

Smith v. Weed Sewing Machine Co., 26 O. S. 562 (1875).

Lewis v. Bank, 12 Ohio 146 (1843).

Where a corporation is defendant in an action involving its charter, powers or franchises, the same must be specially pleaded in the petition. If a foreign corporation, the name of the state of organization and the substantial terms of its charter, etc., should be set forth.

Brady v. National Supply Co., 64 O. S. 267 (1901).

Devoss v. Gray, 22 O. S. 159 (1871).

See State v. Granville, etc., Soc., 11 Ohio 9 (1841).

Streit v. Hoster Brewing Co., 12 L. D. 619 (C. P. 1902).

As a general rule, corporate existence can be attacked only by the state in a direct proceeding. A private party, suing or defending in his own interest, usually can not question the sufficiency of incorporation proceedings. Kardo Co. v. Adams, 231 Fed. 950; 14 O. L. R. 223 (C. C. A. Ohio 1916); Railway Co. v. Cleveland, 19 N. P. n. s. 574, 590 (1916).

There are some exceptions to this rule, notably in appropriation proceedings by corporations (Cemetery Assn. v. Traction Co., 93 O. S. 161) and where a corporation attempts to interfere with the property rights of others under a franchise or special privilege. Railway Co. v. Cleveland, 19 N. P. n. s. 574 (1916).

In appropriation proceedings by a corporation, it must prove its complete organization, including the due and regular election of directors. A general denial places the burden of proof of such organization on the plaintiff.

Cemetery Assn. v. Traction Co., 93 O. S. 161 (1915).

Telephone Co. v. Cincinnati, 73 O. S. 64 (1905).

See note to § 11046.

In criminal cases. In an indictment for burglary or larceny it is not necessary to aver or prove that the injured party was incorporated.

Murphy v. State, 36 O. S. 628 (1881).

Burke v. State, 34 O. S. 79 (1877).

Hamilton v. State, 34 O. S. 82 (1877).

See also Calkins v. State, 18 O. S. 366 (1868).

In an action by a building and loan association to recover special rates of interest, the association must prove that it is a corporation which possesses the right to such interest. Loan Co. v. Philen, 18 C. C. n. s. 419 (1910).

How proved. The existence of a corporation for profit may be proved by a certified copy of the articles, the certificate of subscription, and the corporate minutes showing the election and qualification of directors and officers.

Toledo, etc., Co. v. Toledo, etc., Co., 26 W. L. B. 172 (Probate Ct. 1891); s. c., 6 C. C. 362, 391; 3 C. D. 493 (1892); affirmed, 50 O. S. 603.

Realty Company v. Railway, 18 C. C. n. s. 86 (1910).

See Memphis, etc., Packet Co. v. Fogarty, 9 C. C. 418; 6 C. D. 375 (1895).

The existence of a foreign corporation may be proved by its certificate of compliance with the foreign corporation law. § 190-1.

Evidence of charitable nature of corporation. A corporation not for profit may show by its charter, constitution and by-laws, or by oral evidence not inconsistent therewith, that it is organized solely for the purpose of administering a public charity, the foundation of which is derived from private donations: O'Brien v. Hosp. Assn., 96 O. S. 1 (1917).

Section 8630. (Subscription books.) The persons named in the articles of incorporation of a corporation for profit, or a majority of them, shall order books to be opened for subscriptions to the capital stock of the corporation at such time or times and place or places as they deem expedient. (R. S. Sec. 3242; April 6, 1891, 88 v. 280; March 5, 1883, 80 v. 42; R. S. 1880; May 1, 1852, 50 v. 274, § 9; S. & C. 276.)

Payment of subscriptions. See § 8632 and note.

Enforcement of subscriptions and defenses. See § 8674 and note.

Subscriptions to increased stock. See note to § 8698.

Subscriptions to no-par-value stock. See § 8728-1.

I. Subscriptions before incorporation, p. 966.

II. Subscriptions after incorporation.

A. Received by whom, p. 967.

B. Should be in writing, p. 967.

C. Form, p. 967.

D. A contract creating a several, not joint, liability, p. 968.

E. Withdrawal and release of subscriptions, p. 968.

F. Compromise and release of subscriptions, p. 968.

G. Subscriptions obtained by fraud, p. 968.

H. Remedies of subscriber.

(a) Action to rescind, p. 969.

(b) Defense to action on subscription, p. 970.

(c) Action for damages against officers and agents, p. 970.

(d) Measure of damages, p. 970.

I. Construction of subscriptions, p. 970.

J. Stipulation for interest to subscribers, p. 971.

K. Assignment of subscriptions.

(a) By subscriber, p. 971.

(b) By corporation, p. 971.

L. Abandonment of subscriptions, p. 971.

III. Conditional subscriptions.

A. Conditions precedent, p. 971.

B. Acceptance, p. 971.

C. Performance, p. 972.

D. Waiver, p. 972.

E. Illegal conditions, p. 972.

F. Conditions subsequent, p. 973.

G. Conditions construed.

- (a) Precedent or subsequent, p. 973.
- (b) Certain amount to be subscribed, p. 973.
- (c) Road to "pass through" or be "built" in a certain locality, p. 973.
- (d) Limiting amount and time of calls, p. 973.
- (e) Agreement by corporation to repurchase stock, p. 973.
- (f) Rules of construction of conditions, p. 973.
- (g) Evidence as to conditions, p. 974.

IV. Disposition of stock by corporation after election of directors.

- A. In general, p. 974.
- B. Sales below par, p. 974.
- C. Common stock given as a bonus with preferred stock, p. 975.
- D. Exchange of stock for property, p. 975.
- E. Property fraudulently overvalued, liability of stockholders,
 - (a) To the corporation, p. 976.
 - (b) To creditors, p. 976.
- F. Transferee of stock fraudulently issued, p. 976.
- G. President signing "full paid" certificate, p. 977.
- H. Sales to directors and officers, p. 977.
- I. Libel hindering the obtaining of subscriptions, p. 977.
- J. Stock purchased to procure employment, p. 978.
- K. Sales to employees payable out of dividends, p. 978.

The opening of subscription books, though one, is not the exclusive mode in which subscriptions to stock may be made. A subscription is not invalid because made on a separate sheet of paper.

Ashtabula etc., R. Co. v. Smith, 15 O. S. 328, 337 (1864).

Incorporators need not become subscribers for stock. Kardo Co. v. Adams, 231 Fed. 950, 964; 14 O. L. R. 223 (C. C. A. Ohio 1916).

Agreement by incorporators to pay commissioners to agents for obtaining subscriptions. In the opinion of the attorney general, incorporators are authorized to make an agreement to pay commissions to agents for obtaining subscriptions to stock. Rep. Atty. Gen. 1914, p. 147.

I. SUBSCRIPTIONS BEFORE INCORPORATION.

A mutual agreement between individuals to become stockholders in a corporation thereafter to be organized is valid.

Doan v. Rogan, 79 O. S. 372, 386 (1909).

But such an agreement differs from a mere subscription to stock made before incorporation. A subscription before incorporation is a continuing offer only and not a present contract. Prior to incorporation no person is authorized to accept the subscription. Such a subscription may be withdrawn by the person making it, providing he acts before the corporation is organized and his subscription accepted.

Mill Co. v. Felt, 87 Me. 234.

Hudson, etc., Co. v. Tower, 161 Mass. 10.

Auburn Bolt Works v. Schultz, 143 Pa. St. 256.

See Wallace v. Townsend, 43 O. S. 537 (1885).

It is held in many states that where such a subscription is not withdrawn, but permitted to stand until the corporation is organized and the subscription accepted, the contract becomes complete and enforceable.

Nebraska Chicory Co. v. Lednicky, 79 Neb. 587; 113 N. W. 245.

McNaught v. Fisher, 96 Fed. 168 (1899).

Athol Music Hall Co. v. Carey, 116 Mass. 471.

Planters', etc., Co. v. Webb, 144 Ala. 666.

Cook on Corporations, § 72.

Thompson on Corporations, §§ 521, 522.

In Ohio, however, it has been held that subsequent incorporation and acceptance of the subscription do not render a prior subscription enforceable.

Dayton, etc., Co. v. Coy, 13 O. S. 84, 91 (1864).

See Milford, etc., Co. v. Brush, 10 Ohio 111, 113, 114 (1840).

Where the stock subscription book shows that the subscriptions were made after incorporation, evidence is not admissible to prove that in fact the subscriptions were made before incorporation.

Royce & Pulling v. Tyler, 2 C. C. 175; 1 C. D. 428 (1887).

Where a subscription to stock, made before organization, is silent as to the state in which the proposed corporation will be organized, the subscriber is entitled to a voice in its determination. Ginter v. Blain, 2 Ohio App. 482; 21 C. C. n. s. 366 (1913).

II. SUBSCRIPTIONS AFTER INCORPORATION.

A. Received by whom. After the filing of articles of incorporation the incorporators are authorized to receive subscriptions.

Sims v. Street Railroad Co., 37 O. S. 556, 565 (1882).

Subscriptions received by the incorporators after books have been opened are not void for want of mutuality but are binding.

Milford, etc., Co. v. Brush, 10 Ohio 113, 114 (1840).

Ashtabula, etc., R. R. Co. v. Smith, 15 O. S. 334, 336 (1864).

The right to dispose of stock which remains unsubscribed after the directors are elected and qualified is vested in the board of directors.

Sims v. Street Railroad Co., 37 O. S. 565 (1882).

See James v. C. H. & D. R. Co., 2 Dis. 261, 275 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1858.)

B. Should be in writing. A subscription for stock should be in writing. A verbal agreement to take shares is not enforceable in the absence of facts constituting an estoppel.

Fanning v. Insurance Co., 37 O. S. 339 (1881).

Hanes v. Dayton, etc., Co., 40 O. S. 98 (1883).

Persons who have not subscribed for stock but who accept certificates of stock, issued to them directly by the corporation without full payment, may be liable. An agreement to pay the par value is implied from their acceptance of the certificate.

Handley v. Stutz, 139 U. S. 417, 427 (1891).

Gates v. Tippecanoe Stone Co., 57 O. S. 60 (1897).

In re Flood-Pratt Dairy Co., 7 O. L. R. 603; 16 O. F. D. 396 (1909).

First N. B. v. Patton Co., 13 C. C. n. s. 289 (1910).

See also note to § 8674.

Where stock is exchanged for property or services at an overvaluation, the persons receiving the stock may be treated as original subscribers to such stock, credited with the actual value of the property or services and sued as debtors for the unpaid balance.

Gates v. Tippecanoe Stone Co., 57 O. S. 60 (1897).

Kiskadden v. Steinle, 203 Fed. 375 (C. C. A. 1913).

C. Form. The form of a subscription to stock is not prescribed by statute. It need not contain a statement of the times of payment, as payment is provided for by statute. (§ 8632).

Chamberlain v. R. R. Co., 15 O. S. 225, 249 (1864).

Ashtabula, etc., R. Co. v. Smith, 15 O. S. 328, 336 (1864).

A subscription need not be made in the subscription book provided by the incorporators. It may be made on a separate sheet of paper.

Ashtabula, etc., R. Co. v. Smith, 15 O. S. 328, 336 (1864).

See Ohio, etc., College v. Love, 16 O. S. 20 (1864).

D. Is a contract creating a several, not joint, liability. A subscription received by incorporators is a contract.

Gaff v. Flesher, 33 O. S. 107, 112 (1877).

An ordinary subscription is a several, and not a joint, contract.

Smith v. Johnson, 57 O. S. 486, 490 (1898).

See Burnap v. Sylvania Butter Co., 7 N. P. 217 (1894); reversed on other grounds, 12 C. C. 639; 5 C. D. 582.

E. Withdrawal and release of subscriptions. A subscription received by the incorporators or directors is a contract which can not be rescinded without the consent of both parties. The subscriber can not relieve himself from liability by attempting to withdraw or cancel his subscription.

Gaff v. Flesher, 33 O. S. 107, 112, 113 (1877).

The corporation can not release the subscriber to the prejudice of any intervening creditor.

Gaff v. Flesher, 33 O. S. 107, 113 (1877).

Royce & Pulling v. Tyler, 2 C. C. 175; 1 C. D. 428 (1887).

North Fairmount, etc., Co. v. Ashbrook, 12 L. D. 10 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1901).

Niles v. Olszak, 87 O. S. 229 (1912).

Directors have no power to release a subscriber except with the unanimous consent of the other subscribers.

Royce & Pulling v. Tyler, 2 C. C. 175, 187; 1 C. D. 428 (1887).

A subscriber may be released by the unanimous consent of the other subscribers before debts are incurred. Such consent need not be express. Where a subscriber stated in open meeting that he would withdraw his subscription for five shares, but agreed to take one share, and all other subscribers had knowledge of his withdrawal and made no objection, he was held not liable to subsequent creditors. Ginn v. Sanitarium Co., 16 C. C. n. s. 90 (1909).

Withdrawal of unaccepted offer to subscribe or of conditional subscription.

See Wallace v. Townsend, 43 O. S. 537 (1885).

Armstrong v. Karshner, 47 O. S. 276, 297 (1890).

See below Conditional Subscriptions.

F. Compromise and release of subscription. Where there is a bona fide controversy as to the liability of the subscriber, or where the subscriber is insolvent, the directors may, for a valuable consideration, compromise with and release the subscriber.

Warner v. Callender, 20 O. S. 190, 198 (1870).

State v. Building Assn., 35 O. S. 258, 263 (1879).

Wangerein v. Aspell, 47 O. S. 250 (1890).

Biggio v. Sandheger, 8 N. P. 13, 15 (1900).

See also Morgan v. Lewis, 46 O. S. 1 (1888).

Sanderson v. Aetna Iron & Nail Co., 34 O. S. 442 (1878).

The agreement of compromise must be fully executed.

Frost v. Johnson, 8 Ohio 393 (1838).

G. Subscription obtained by fraud. A person is entitled to relief where he has subscribed to stock relying on material and fraudulent representations, made by authorized agents of the corporation, as to the past or present status of the corporate enterprise.

False statements as to the future intention, purpose or expectation of the corporation do not, as a rule, entitle a subscriber to relief.

Armstrong v. Karshner, 47 O. S. 276, 294 (1890).

Freeman v. Muth, 3 W. L. B. 914 (Dist. Ct. 1878).

Donnell v. Sugar Co., 16 N. P. n. s. 331 (1914); aff'd by Ct. of App.

Fraudulent representations as to the amount of stock already subscribed (Nugent v. Cincinnati, etc., Ry. Co., 2 Dis. 302), and that the soliciting agent had seen the railway plans providing for bridges and culverts over the subscriber's farm (Freeman v. Muth, 3 W. L. B. 914), were held to entitle the subscriber to relief.

But a false representation that all of the stock had been subscribed was held not to entitle the subscriber to rescind his subscription, where at the time ninety percent of the stock had been subscribed and the remaining ten percent was disposed of before active business was begun. National Co. v. Roberts, 221 Fed. 922 (C. C. A. Ohio 1915).

A false representation, made by officers at a stockholders meeting, that the company had not lost money and its business was on a sure footing, was held to entitle persons, who subscribed on the faith thereof, to relief. National Co. v. Roberts, 221 Fed. 922 (C. C. A. Ohio 1915).

A representation that the stock offered for sale was treasury stock; whereas in fact it belonged to the seller personally, was held not to render the seller liable. Hill v. Roper, 22 C. C. n. s. 455 (1915).

A statement that a certain rate of dividend would pay the interest on a note given for a subscription does not constitute fraud, for its accuracy would have appeared from a mathematical calculation. Bank v. McDonald, 2 Ohio App. 497; 21 C. C. n. s. 245 (1913).

Where a subscription was made on the faith of a prior subscription by another person, a fraudulent cancellation or alteration of such prior subscription will not affect the validity of the subsequent subscription.

Jewett v. Railway, 34 O. S. 601 (1878).

Delay by the subscriber to take action within a reasonable time after discovery of the fraud will defeat his right to relief where the rights of creditors intervene.

Gill v. Printing Co., 16 C. C. n. s. 568 (1907); aff'd, no rep. 80 O. S. 742; 81 O. S. 515.

Mansfield v. Woods, Jenks & Co., 29 W. L. B. 111 (C. P.)

Ryan v. Miami, etc., Ry. Co., 10 A. L. R. 263 (C. P. 1881).

See Painesville N. B. v. King Varnish Co., 8 C. C. 563; 4 C. D. 511 (1894); reversed in part, 56 O. S. 744.

H. Remedies of subscriber. (a) Action to rescind. A subscriber whose subscription was obtained by fraud may bring an action to set aside the subscription and to recover back the payments made by him thereon.

Nugent v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 2 Dis. 302 (1858).

See Bank v. Greenville, etc., Co., 3 C. C. n. s. 372; 13 C. D. 274 (1899).

After insolvency of the corporation, while a defrauded subscriber can not rescind, to the prejudice of the creditors, yet as against other stockholders he may be treated as a creditor. And the liability of the other stockholders must be exhausted before his liability is resorted to. Gill v. Printing Co., 16 C. C. n. s. 568 (1907); aff'd, no rep. 80 O. S. 742; 81 O. S. 515.

Laches may also bar relief where no rights of creditors intervene. Where a purchaser of oil stock waited six months until after a well was drilled, having had opportunity of discovering the fraud, he was held not entitled to rescind. Hamilton v. Carr, 17 C. C. n. s. 395 (1911).

Where a bonus of common stock was offered to purchasers of preferred, but one purchaser was induced to accept preferred stock without a bonus, by a false representation that the preferred had been contracted for by a prior subscriber, who insisted on retaining the common stock, he was held entitled to a rescission. National Co. v. Roberts, 221 Fed. 922 (C. C. A. Ohio 1915).

(b) Defense to action on subscription. Fraud in obtaining a subscription is a defense to an action brought thereon against the subscriber except where rights of creditors have intervened.

Jewett v. Railway, 34 O. S. 601, 609 (1878).

Armstrong v. Karshner, 47 O. S. 276, 294 (1890).

Freeman v. Muth, 3 W. L. B. 914 (Dist. Ct. 1878).

James v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 2 Dis. 261, 266 (1858).

Gill v. Printing Co., 16 C. C. n. s. 568 (1907); aff'd, no rep. 80 O. S. 742; 81 O. S. 515.

Even after bankruptcy of the corporation, fraud is a defense where no corporate debts were contracted after the subscription was made. Yoder v. Hoyt, 18 C. C. n. s. 433 (1910).

(c) Action for damages against officers or agents. The subscriber may bring an action for damages against the officers or agents of the corporation by whom the fraud was perpetrated. An officer or agent who makes material and false representations is personally liable where he had knowledge of their falsity, or where the representations were made under such circumstances that knowledge of their falsity must necessarily be imputed to him.

See Mason v. Moore, 73 O. S. 275, 291, 293 (1906).

Cable v. Bowlus, 21 C. C. 53; 11 C. D. 526 (1900); aff'd, 69 O. S. 563.

Schenck v. Knott, 13 C. C. n. s. 41 (1910).

Russell v. Weiler, 7 C. C. n. s. 596; 18 C. D. 175 (1905).

See G. C. § 6373-18.

But an agent is not personally liable, unless it is shown that he acted in bad faith, or that his belief as to the truth of the representations was not justified by the facts. Johns v. Hopper, 26 C. C. n. s. 452 (1916).

Several joint promoters may be personally liable for the misrepresentations of one of their number. Champney v. Braun, 23 C. C. n. s. 533 (1912); reversed on other grounds, 91 O. S. 386.

(d) Measure of damages. The measure of damages is the difference between the price paid for the stock and its actual value at the time of the sale.

Schenck v. Knott, 13 C. C. n. s. 41, 46 (1910).

See Degraw v. Lampert, 17 C. C. n. s. 401, 403 (1911).

The purchaser can not recover damages for mental suffering, disappointment or disgrace; nor in general can he recover punitive damages.

Cable v. Bowlus, 21 C. C. 53; 11 C. D. 526 (1900); aff'd, 69 O. S. 563.

I. Construction of subscriptions. A subscription must be construed with reference to the statutes in force at the time it was made. Such statutes enter into and form a part of the subscription.

Armstrong v. Karshner, 47 O. S. 276, 299 (1890).

Jewett v. Railway, 34 O. S. 601, 607 (1878).

Mansfield, etc., R. Co. v. Stout, 26 O. S. 241, 254 (1875).
Compton v. Railway Co., 45 O. S. 592, 620 (1888).

J. Stipulation for interest to subscribers. Where interest is stipulated to be paid to subscribers on the amounts paid in on their subscriptions, such interest is not payable except out of the profits of the corporation.

Ryan v. Miami Valley Ry. Co., 10 A. L. R. 263, 265 (C. P. 1881).
Wood v. Pearce, 2 Dis. 411 (1858).
Painesville, etc., R. Co. v. King, 17 O. S. 534 (1867).
See § 8724.

K. Assignment of subscriptions.

(a) By subscriber. A subscription to stock upon which installments have been paid may be assigned by the subscriber.

Railroad Co. v. Fink, 41 O. S. 321 (1884).

But an assignee is not liable for an unpaid balance on the subscription unless he accepted the assignment. The corporate books showing the transfer are, alone, not sufficient evidence of the acceptance so as to render him liable.

Tripp v. Appleman, 35 Fed. 19; 6 O. F. D. 71 (C. C. Ohio 1888).

(b) By corporation. A corporation may assign subscriptions to its capital stock after calls have been made thereon.

Dungan v. Safford, 41 O. S. 15 (1884).

The trustee of a bankrupt corporation may, under proper order, sell and assign claims for unpaid subscriptions and the assignee may bring suit thereon, although it may be doubtful whether he is entitled to recover more than he paid for the same. Yoder v. Tubman, 19 C. n. s. 225 (1911).

L. Abandonment of subscriptions. An attempted withdrawal of his subscription, or a transfer by a subscriber to a fictitious person may perhaps be treated by the corporation as an abandonment of the subscription.

Royce v. Tyler, 2 C. C. 175, 185; 1 C. D. 428 (1887).

Muskingum, etc., Co. v. Ward, 13 Ohio 120 (1844).

But if the corporation subsequently does any act which amounts to an admission of the existence of the contract it can not thereafter elect to treat it as abandoned.

Railroad Co. v. Fink, 41 O. S. 321, 330 (1884).

III. CONDITIONAL SUBSCRIPTIONS.

A corporation may receive and accept conditional subscriptions to its stock at any time after its actual incorporation.

Armstrong v. Karshner, 47 O. S. 276, 295 (1890).

Ashtabula, etc., R. Co. v. Smith, 15 O. S. 328, 336 (1864).

Conditions in subscriptions may be precedent or subsequent.

Chamberlain v. Painesville, etc., Ry., 15 O. S. 247 (1864).

A. Conditions precedent. A subscription on a condition precedent should be accepted by the corporation and the condition must be performed by the corporation before the subscription can become absolute.

Chamberlain v. Painesville, etc., Ry., 15 O. S. 247 (1864).

Armstrong v. Karshner, 47 O. S. 276, 296 (1890).

B. Acceptance. Before acceptance by the corporation a subscription on a condition precedent may be revoked or withdrawn by the subscriber.

Wallace v. Townsend, 4 O. S. 537 (1885).

After acceptance by the corporation the subscriber can not, in general, withdraw or revoke the subscription, unless performance of the condition is unreasonably delayed. He is, as a rule, bound to await such performance.

Armstrong v. Karshner, 47 O. S. 276, 296 (1890).

When neither withdrawn by the subscriber nor expressly accepted by the corporation a subscription on a condition precedent is a continuing offer to subscribe, on the specified condition, which, on performance of the condition, becomes an absolute and unconditional subscription.

Armstrong v. Karshner, 47 O. S. 276, 296 (1890).

Mansfield, etc., Co. v. Stout, 26 O. S. 241 (1875).

Acceptance and performance are usually matters to be acted upon by the directors.

Ashtabula, etc., R. Co. v. Smith, 15 O. S. 328, 336 (1864).

C. Performance. A subscriber does not become a stockholder or liable on his subscription until the conditions precedent have been performed.

Railroad Co. v. Hinsdale, 45 O. S. 556, 570 (1888).

But on performance of the conditions the subscription becomes absolute and unconditional.

Ashtabula, etc., R. Co. v. Smith, 15 O. S. 328, 336 (1864).

Mansfield, etc., Co. v. Brown, 26 O. S. 223 (1875).

Performance of the conditions may be made by the corporation itself or by a consolidated company into which the original corporation was merged under statutes in force when the subscription was made which authorize the consolidated company to acquire debts due on subscriptions.

Mansfield, etc., Co. v. Brown, 26 O. S. 223 (1875).

Mansfield, etc., Co. v. Stout, 26 O. S. 241 (1875).

But conditional subscriptions can not be sold and transferred without statutory authority and an assignee under an unauthorized transfer can not recover although having performed the conditions.

Railroad Co. v. Hinsdale, 45 O. S. 556 (1888).

Where the corporation refuses to perform the condition the subscriber may recover back moneys paid by him on the subscription.

Weeden v. Lake Erie, etc., Co., 14 Ohio 563 (1846).

D. Waiver. The giving, by a subscriber, of a note in payment is prima facie a waiver of conditions precedent.

Chamberlain v. Painesville, etc., R. Co., 15 O. S. 225 (1864).

Four Mile, etc., Co. v. Bailey, 18 O. S. 208 (1868).

So also, payment of the first installment, voting the stock at an election of directors and acting as an officer of the company.

Dayton, etc., R. Co. v. Hatch, 1 Dis. 84 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1855).

E. Illegal conditions. A condition or stipulation in a subscription which attempts to secure to the subscriber advantages and privileges not common to other subscribers, and without their knowledge or consent, is contrary to public policy. The subscription is valid, and the condition or stipulation is no defense against its enforcement.

Jewett v. Railway, 34 O. S. 601, 609 (1878).

Stunt v. Newark, etc., Co., 22 C. C. 120; 12 C. D. 175 (1901);
aff'd, no rep., 67 O. S. 555.

Rianhard v. Hovey, 13 Ohio 300 (1844).

Henry v. Vermillion, etc., Co., 17 Ohio 187 (1848).

Noble v. Callender, 20 O. S. 199 (1870).

Compare Weeden v. Lake Erie, etc., Co., 14 Ohio 563 (1846).

Shoemaker v. Goshen Twp., 14 O. S. 569, 583 (1863).

F. Conditions subsequent. A subscription on a condition subsequent is not, strictly speaking, a conditional subscription.

Shoemaker v. Goshen Twp., 14 O. S. 569, 583 (1863).

It combines an absolute and unconditional subscription with an agreement by the corporation to perform one or more acts. For a breach of the agreement by the corporation the remedy is an action for damages.

Chamberlain v. Painesville, etc., R. Co., 15 O. S. 225 (1864).

Stunt v. Newark, etc., Co., 22 C. C. 120, 123; 12 C. D. 175 (1901);
aff'd, no rep., 67 O. S. 555.

Shoemaker v. Goshen Township, 14 O. S. 569 (1863).

Zerkle v. Price, 5 N. P. 480.

G. Conditions construed.

(a) Precedent or subsequent. Where a subscription to the stock of a railroad company was given on condition that the road be "permanently located" on a given route and that a "freight house and depot be built" at a point named, it was held that the permanent location of the road on the specified route was a condition precedent, while the erection of the buildings was a condition subsequent.

Chamberlain v. Painesville, etc., R. Co., 15 O. S. 225 (1864).

(b) Certain amount to be subscribed. A subscription not to be binding until subscriptions to a specified amount have been made becomes absolute and unconditional as soon as subscriptions in the required amount are obtained.

Emmitt v. Springfield, etc., R. Co., 31 O. S. 23 (1876).

(c) Road to "pass through" or be "built" in a certain locality. Where the condition is that the road shall "pass through" or be "built" in a certain locality, the permanent location of the road, without its actual construction, is a compliance with such condition.

Ashtabula, etc., R. Co. v. Smith, 15 O. S. 328 (1864).

Mansfield, etc., R. Co. v. Stout, 26 O. S. 241, 254 (1875).

Warner v. Callender, 20 O. S. 190 (1870).

See Elder v. Bellaire, etc., Ry. Co., 1 C. C. 256; 1 C. D. 140 (1885).

(d) Limiting amount and time of calls. A condition "that not more than ten percent shall be required at any one call, nor shall calls be made more frequently than once in sixty days" operates as a waiver of the statutory right of the directors to make calls in their discretion, and is not included in a general call for ten percent per month.

Mansfield, etc., R. Co. v. Pettis, 26 O. S. 259 (1875).

(e) Agreement by corporation to repurchase stock. Where stock is issued by a corporation under an agreement giving the stockholder the right to return the stock and receive back the purchase money, the agreement is a condition subsequent which may be enforced if the rights of creditors are not impaired.

Zerkle v. Price, 5 N. P. 480; 7 L. D. 465.

Shoemaker v. Goshen Township, 14 O. S. 569, 583 (1863).

Fleitman v. Stone Cotton Mills, 186 Fed. 466 (C. C. A. 1911).

See Weeden v. Lake Erie, etc., Co., 14 Ohio 563 (1846).

Hubbard v. Riley, 3 W. L. B. 434 (Dist. Ct. 1878).

(f) Rules of construction of conditions. Where a subscription contract admits of two interpretations the one which facilitates the enterprise is preferred.

Ashtabula, etc., Co. v. Smith, 15 O. S. 328, 335 (1864).

And the interpretation which makes all the parts of the instrument consistent is preferred to one which makes them contradictory.

Leshner v. Karshner, 47 O. S. 302, 305 (1890).

(g) Evidence as to conditions. Parol evidence is not admissible to annex conditions to a written subscription, in the absence of fraud or mistake.

Freeman v. Muth, 3 W. L. B. 914 (Dist. Ct. 1878).

Parol evidence is admissible to prove delivery to and acceptance of a conditional subscription by a corporation.

Mansfield, etc., R. Co. v. Brown, 26 O. S. 223, 234 (1875).

IV. DISPOSITION OF STOCK BY CORPORATION AFTER ELECTION OF DIRECTORS.

A. In general. The directors have power to dispose of the stock which remains unsubscribed after their election.

Sims v. Street Railroad Co., 37 O. S. 565 (1882).

The board may dispose of it by subscription, or may sell it outright without subscriptions;

See Peter v. Union Mfg. Co., 56 O. S. 181, 197 (1897).

exchange it for property or services;

Gates v. Tippecanoe Stone Co., 57 O. S. 75 (1897).

Orton v. Edson, etc., Co., 5 C. C. n. s. 540; 17 C. D. 107 (1905);
aff'd, no rep., 75 O. S. 580.

or use it in payment of corporate debts.

Dayton, etc., R. Co. v. Hatch, 1 Dis. 84, 96 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1855).

Sims v. Street Railroad Co., 37 O. S. 566 (1882).

Where surplus profits have arisen from the corporate business a stock dividend may be declared.

See note to § 8724.

Sales of stock and other corporate securities are regulated by statute popularly known as the "blue sky" law. G. C. §§ 6373-1 to 6373-22.

B. Sales below par. A corporation can not, in general, sell its stock for less than par. Purchasers from the corporation who pay less than par for stock may be held liable to creditors for the difference between the amount paid and the par value of the stock, although the stock was issued as full paid and nonassessable.

Security Trust Co. v. Ford, 75 O. S. 322 (1906).

Vandeusen v. Ransom, 23 C. C. n. s. 194 (1912).

Handley v. Stutz, 139 U. S. 417 (1891).

In re Flood-Pratt Dairy Co., 7 O. L. R. 603; 16 O. F. D. 396
(Referee in Bkry. 1909).

Sturges v. Stetson, 1 Bis. (U. S.) 246 (C. C. Ohio 1858).

Fosdick v. Sturges, 1 Bis. (U. S.) 255 (C. C. Ohio 1858).

Under some circumstances of financial embarrassment a corporation which is a going concern may, in order to raise money to continue its business, make sales for less than par. Even in such cases the purchasers may be liable to subsequent creditors who have no knowledge of the terms of such purchase.

See Peter v. Union Mfg. Co., 56 O. S. 181, 203 (1897).

Rickerson, etc., Co. v. Farrell, etc., Co., 75 Fed. 554 (C. C. A. 1896).

Although the federal circuit court of appeals for the sixth circuit has held that purchasers are not liable to creditors where stock is necessarily sold by a corporation below par, at its market value, because of impairment of its capital. Thoms v. Goodman, 254 Fed. 39; 17 O. L. R. 31 (1918).

Where the sales were made in good faith the purchasers are not liable to the corporation, or as against other stockholders.

Peter v. Union Mfg. Co., 56 O. S. 181 (1897).

Kinsey v. Mt. Auburn Cable Co., 6 C. C. n. s. 305; 17 C. D. 633 (1905); aff'd, no rep., 75 O. S. 602.

See Security Trust Co. v. Ford, 75 O. S. 322, 335 (1906).

Nor are they liable to creditors whose claims were incurred prior to the purchase.

See Peter v. Union Mfg. Co., 56 O. S. 181, 203 (1897).

Handley v. Stutz, 139 U. S. 417 (1891).

Nor to subsequent creditors who have knowledge of the terms of the purchase.

See Kinsey v. Mt. Auburn Cable Co., 6 C. C. n. s. 305, 314; 17 C. D. 633 (1905); aff'd, no rep., 75 O. S. 602.

Rickerson, etc., Co. v. Farrell, etc., Co., 75 Fed. 554 (C. C. A. 1896).

Sales for less than par can be made, in general, only by corporations engaged in conducting business and under circumstances of financial embarrassment. They can not be made at the time of organization of a new corporation.

Kinsey v. Mt. Auburn, etc., Co., 6 C. C. n. s. 305, 319-320; 17 C. D. 633 (1905); aff'd, no rep., 75 O. S. 602.

Transferees of stock which has not been fully paid are not liable unless they knew that it has not been paid. A transferee may rely on the representation of the corporation that it has been fully paid. The statement "full paid" on stock certificates is such a representation.

Roebblings Sons Co. v. Shawnee, etc., Co., 4 N. P. n. s. 113, 121-122; 17 L. D. 8 (1906); aff'd, no rep., 78 O. S. 408.

C. Common stock given as a bonus with preferred stock. Persons who receive par value common stock, as a bonus with preferred stock, may be liable to subsequent creditors, and stockholders who do not receive such bonus may be entitled to a remedy, but stockholders who receive the bonus can not complain, in the absence of fraud, although they receive proportionately less bonus stock than other stockholders. In such a case there can be no recovery as between themselves. Hof-fard v. Shoe Co., 95 O. S. 376 (1917); affirming, 27 C. C. n. s. 513. See also Williamson v. Collins, 243 Fed. 835 (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1917).

Where a bonus of common stock was offered to subscribers for preferred stock, but one subscriber was induced to accept preferred stock, without the bonus, by a false representation that the preferred had been contracted for by a prior subscriber who insisted on retaining the common stock, the subscriber was held not entitled to a rescission of his subscription. National Co. v. Roberts, 221 Fed. 922 (C. C. A. 1915).

When stock was issued for a secret process and two shares of such stock were given with each share subscribed and paid for in cash, it was held that the subscribers who received such "bonus stock" were not liable merely because the secret process had "no market value" and its utility had not been demonstrated. Oldham v. Munitions Co., 23 N. P. n. s. 77 (1920).

A subscription for preferred stock, with which the subscriber is to receive a bonus of common stock, is not illegal, so as to release the subscriber from his obligation to pay for the preferred. Yoder v. Tubman, 19 C. C. n. s. 225 (1911).

No-par-value common stock may be given as a bonus. § 8728-1.

D. Exchange of stock for property. The directors, acting in good faith, may exchange stock for property or services.

Gates v. Tippecanoe Stone Co., 57 O. S. 60, 74, 75 (1897).

Orton v. Edson, etc., Co., 5 C. C. n. s. 540; 17 C. D. 107 (1905); aff'd no rep., 75 O. S. 580.

Leman v. McLennan, 7 C. C. n. s. 205; 18 C. D. 137 (1905); aff'd, no rep., 75 O. S. 643.

Sims v. Street Railroad Co., 37 O. S. 556 (1882).

Kunz v. National Valve Co., 9 C. C. n. s. 593; 19 C. D. 519 (1907).

Dayton, etc., R. Co. v. Hatch, 1 Dis. 84, 96 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1855).

See Sanderson v. Iron & Nail Co., 34 O. S. 442, 449 (1878).

Goodin v. Evans, 18 O. S. 150 (1868).

The property should be of a character which may be purchased by the corporation in the prosecution of its business.

Dayton, etc., R. Co. v. Hatch, 1 Dis. 84, 96 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1855).

It should be taken at a fair and adequate valuation, and the directors must have no personal interest in the transaction. Directors can not, acting for the corporation, exchange its stock for their own property.

Gates v. Tippecanoe Stone Co., 57 O. S. 60 (1897).

As to whether the valuation placed upon the property by the directors in good faith is conclusive, the authorities in other states are conflicting. In many states it is held that the director's valuation is conclusive in the absence of fraud. This "good faith" rule has been approved by one circuit court in Ohio.

Kunz v. National Valve Co., 9 C. C. n. s. 607; 19 C. D. 519 (1907).

E. Property fraudulently overvalued. Liability of stockholders.

(a) To the corporation. Where directors have issued stock as fully paid up in exchange for property the corporation can not thereafter treat the stock as only partially paid up and assess the stockholder with the difference between the actual value of the property and the par value of the stock. If the transaction was fraudulent the remedy of the corporation is to rescind the agreement, tender back the property and recover the stock or its market value.

Orton v. Edson, etc., Co., 5 C. C. n. s. 540; 17 C. D. 107 (1905); aff'd, no rep., 75 O. S. 580.

Leman v. McLennan, 7 C. C. n. s. 205, 208; 18 C. D. 137 (1905); aff'd, no rep., 75 O. S. 643.

See Peter v. Union Mfg. Co., 56 O. S. 181, 202 (1897).

Old Dominion, etc., Co. v. Lewisohn, 210 U. S. 206; s. c., 136 Fed. 915.

(b) To creditors. Where the property was fraudulently overvalued corporate creditors may recover the difference between the actual value of the property and the par value of the stock. The transaction is regarded as a subscription for the amount of stock issued, the actual value of the property is credited thereon, and the balance deemed a debt due from the stockholder.

Gates v. Tippecanoe Stone Co., 57 O. S. 60 (1897).

Kiskaden v. Steinle, 203 Fed. 375 (C. C. A. 1913).

If the property has no value (as where an insolvent partnership is converted into a corporation which takes the partnership assets in payment of subscriptions, and also assumes all the partnership debts), nothing is credited and the stockholders are liable to creditors for the full amount of their subscriptions.

Ford v. Lamson, 17 C. C. 539; 9 C. D. 374 (1899).

Sayler v. Simpson, 12 L. D. 148 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1888).

Preston v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 36 Fed. 54 (U. S. C. C. 1888).

F. Transferee of stock fraudulently issued. A purchaser of such stock from the original stockholder is not liable unless he knew of its fraudulent character. He is entitled to rely on the representation of the corporation that it has been fully paid.

Roeblings Sons Co. v. Shawnee, etc., Co., 4 N. P. n. s. 113; 17 L. D. 8 (C. P. 1906); aff'd, no rep., 78 O. S. 408.

G. President signing "full paid" certificate. The president of a corporation who signed stock certificates, which certify that the stock is "full paid and nonassessable," is not liable to a person who purchased such stock in the open market, for less than par without inquiry as to the assets of the corporation, although the president knew that such stock was issued for property at an overvaluation.

Nutt v. Wheeler, 10 C. C. n. s. 217; 20 C. D. 86 (1907).

H. Sales to directors and officers. A director or officer may purchase unissued or treasury stock from the corporation, when the sale is authorized by a quorum of disinterested directors and where no action has been taken to withhold the stock from sale to other stockholders or the public.

Sims v. Street Railroad Co., 37 O. S. 556 (1882).

Taylor v. Miami Exporting Co., 6 Ohio 176, 223 (1833).

Sales below par to directors have been sustained as against other stockholders, where the directors made diligent efforts to sell the stock at the same price to the public, and to the other stockholders, before purchasing themselves, and where the corporation was pressed for money to continue business.

Peter v. Union Mfg. Co., 56 O. S. 181 (1897).

Stock of a railroad company purchased below par by a director is void. G. C. § 8798.

A purchase made in order to vote at an election for directors and obtain control of the corporation is valid, when full value is paid for the stock.

Hall v. Hall, 11 C. C. n. s. 335; 20 C. D. 826 (1908); aff'd, no rep., 79 O. S. 456.

Taylor v. Miami Exporting Co., 6 Ohio 176, 223 (1833).

Directors will not be enjoined from selling treasury stock at public sale to the highest bidder although with the intention of selling to persons friendly to their management.

Loomis v. Dexter, 20 W. L. B. 5 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1888).

But sales to directors can not be made on more favorable terms than to other stockholders.

Kinsey v. Mt. Auburn Cable Co., 6 C. C. n. s. 305; 17 C. D. 633 (1905); aff'd, no rep., 75 O. S. 602.

Nor without any valuable consideration.

Straman v. North Baltimore, etc., Co., 8 C. C. 89; 4 C. D. 339 (1893).

Stock issued by directors to themselves, in consideration only of their promissory notes, in order to maintain control of the corporation, may be cancelled at the suit of other stockholders. Dreher v. Supply Co., 23 C. C. n. s. 54 (1907).

A sale to one director at par on a cash payment of 2% and the balance in ten annual instalments, no efforts being made to sell to others, but cash offers having been rejected, the stock being worth more than par, and there being no need for additional capital, was set aside as a fraud on the corporation and other stockholders. Callahan v. Steel Co., 20 C. C. n. s. 78 (1912).

Where stock subscribed for by directors was paid for by secret profits made by the directors on a fraudulent sale of property to the corporation, the stock may be cancelled in a suit by the corporation.

Yeiser v. U. S. Board & Paper Co., 107 Fed. 340 (C. C. A. (1901)).

I. Libel hindering the obtaining of subscriptions. It has been held that a corporation can not recover for libel where the only damage shown is hindrance to the obtaining of subscriptions for its stock. Farmers Co. v. Lawrence Co., 22 C. C. n. s. 273 (1908).

J. Stock purchased to procure employment. Where stock in an existing manufacturing corporation is purchased only in consideration of an agreement by the corporation to employ the purchaser, which agreement is broken by the corporation, the purchaser may rescind the stock purchase agreement, and recover the amount paid. Buschmeyer v. Machinery Co., 7 Ohio App. 202; 27 O. C. A. 337 (1916); motion to certify record overruled.

K. Sales to employes payable out of dividends. Where stock is sold to employes payable out of dividends, the directors are not obligated to declare dividends, otherwise than in their discretion. Smitt v. Aultman Co., 25 C. C. n. s. 561; 28 C. D. 46 (1916); aff'd, no rep. 95 O. S. 415.

Where an employe is induced by officers of a corporation in whom he has confidence to buy stock, a fiduciary relation may exist, but the corporation is not liable to the employe for losses due to changed business conditions or honest mistakes of judgment. Smitt v. Aultman Co., 25 C. C. n. s. 561; 28 C. D. 46 (1916); aff'd, no rep. 95 O. S. 415.

Section 8631. (Opening of books.) Such persons shall give at least thirty days' notice of the times and places of opening such books of subscription, by publication in a newspaper published or generally circulated in the county or counties where they are to be opened. Such notice however, may be waived in writing by all the incorporators, but the waiver shall be entered or copied in the corporate records. (R. S. Sec. 3242; April 6, 1891, 88 v. 280; March 5, 1883, 80 v. 42; R. S. 1880; May 1, 1852, 50 v. 274, § 9; S. & C. 276.)

The notice need not be published for thirty consecutive days. One notice, published at least thirty days before the day set, is sufficient. Muskingum, etc., Co. v. Ward, 13 Ohio 120 (1844).

Craig v. Fox, 16 Ohio 563, 566 (1847).

Newport News v. Potter, 122 Fed. 321, 332 (C. C. A. 1903).

Newman v. Lynchburg Co., 236 U. S. 692 (1915).

The newspaper in which the notice is inserted, should be published in the English language.

Cincinnati v. Purcell, 26 O. S. 49 (1875).

Proof of waiver of notice. Waiver of notice of publication may be proved by the corporate record in which the same was entered, the authenticity and genuineness of the record having been proved.

Toledo, etc., Ry. Co. v. Toledo, etc., Ry. Co., 6 C. C. 362, 392; 3 C. D. 493 (1892).

Section 8632. (Payment of subscription.) At the time of making a subscription to the capital stock of a corporation, ten per cent on each share subscribed for, shall be payable. The residue shall be paid in such installments at the times and places, and to such persons, as the directors require. (R. S. Sec. 3243; May 1, 1852, 50 v. 274, § 6; R. S. 1880; S. & C. 276.)

Subscriptions generally. See note to § 8630.

Subscriptions to increased stock. See note to § 8698.

Subscriptions to no-par-value common stock. See § 8728-1.

Enforcement of subscriptions and defenses. See note to § 8674.

Purpose of section. This section is designed to fix the time of payment of the first installment and to provide the mode for determining the time at which the residue should become payable.

Chamberlain v. R. R. Co. 15 O. S. 225, 249 (1864).

First installment of ten percent.

Payable to incorporators. The incorporators are authorized to receive payment of the first installment on subscriptions received by them.

Sims v. Street Railroad Co., 37 O. S. 556, 565 (1882).

The incorporators may, by order, designate one of their number to receive payment.

Cincinnati v. Queen City Tel. Co., 2 N. P. n. s. 349, 364; 15 L. D. 43 (1904); aff'd, 73 O. S. 64.

Payable in money. The incorporators have no authority to receive anything but money in payment of the first installment.

Dayton, etc., R. Co. v. Hatch, 1 Dis. 84, 96 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1855).

Payment by check is regarded as payment in money where sufficient funds are on deposit to meet the check.

Cincinnati v. Queen City Telephone Co., 2 N. P. n. s. 349, 357, 364; 15 L. D. 43 (1904); aff'd, 73 O. S. 64.

Payment by note is not authorized.

Kilbreath v. Gaylord, 3 W. L. B. 525 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1878); aff'd, 34 O. S. 305.

See Latham v. Union, etc., Ins. Co., 1 W. L. B. 127 (Dist. Ct. 1876).

Effect of nonpayment. Failure to pay the first installment does not release a subscriber from liability.

Henry v. Vermillion, etc., R. Co., 17 Ohio 187 (1848).

Latham v. Union, etc., Ins. Co., 1 W. L. B. 127 (Dist. Ct. 1876).

See Chamberlain v. R. R. Co., 15 O. S. 225, 249 (1864).

Ashtabula, etc., R. Co. v. Smith, 15 O. S. 328, 336 (1864).

But a subscriber in default for payment may be excluded from voting at elections for directors. § 8636.

Telephone Co. v. Cincinnati, 73 O. S. 64, 77 (1905).

And a railroad company is not in existence so as to be able to appropriate property, until the requirements of § 8632 have been complied with. Cemetery Assn. v. Traction Co., 93 O. S. 161 (1915).

Conditional subscriptions. The first installment on a conditional subscription is due at the time when the subscription becomes unconditional and absolute.

Ashtabula, etc., R. Co. v. Smith, 15 O. S. 328, 336 (1864).

Subsequent installments. After the first installment of ten percent has been paid nothing is due on a subscription until a call has been made by the directors.

Thomas v. Kalbfus, 97 O. S. 232 (1918).

Mansfield, etc., Co. v. Hall, 26 O. S. 310 (1875).

Railroad Co. v. Fink, 41 O. S. 321, 329 (1884).

Gibson v. Columbia, etc., Co., 18 O. S. 396 (1868).

Mansfield, etc., Co. v. Pettis, 26 O. S. 259 (1875).

Although demand notes have been given by subscribers in payment of their subscriptions they are not due until a call has been made.

Kilbreath v. Gaylord, 34 O. S. 305 (1877); affirming 3 W. L. B. 525.

Calls.

May be made when. Calls may be made by the directors when ten percent of the capital stock has been subscribed. It is not necessary that the entire capital stock should have been subscribed.

Jewett v. Railway, 34 O. S. 601 (1878).

Clarke v. Thomas, 34 O. S. 46 (1877).

As soon as conditional subscriptions become absolute they become subject to general calls previously made.

Mansfield, etc., Co. v. Stout, 26 O. S. 241 (1875).

A general call made by a constituent company continues for the benefit of the consolidated company, if an officer authorized to receive payment is continued at the place designated in the call.

Mansfield, etc., Co. v. Stout, 26 O. S. 241 (1875).

Calls after insolvency. Where a corporation has become insolvent and suit is brought by the receiver or a creditor, the subscriptions will either be regarded as due without a call being made, or the court will make the call.

Thomas v. Kalbfus, 97 O. S. 232 (1918).

Turnbull v. Pomeroy Salt Co., 24 W. L. B. 133.

Henry v. Vermillion R. Co., 17 Ohio 187, 191.

See Roebblings Sons Co. v. Shawnee, etc., Co., 4 N. P. n. s. 113; 17 L. D. 8 (1906); aff'd, no rep., 78 O. S. 408.

A court of bankruptcy may make the call.

In re Flood-Pratt Dairy Co., 7 O. L. R. 603; 16 O. F. D. 396.

Notice of calls. Whether notice of a call must be given has not been decided in Ohio except in Proprietors v. Wade, 7 W. L. J. 95 (Commercial Court of Cincinnati, 1849), in which five calls were involved and payment of the first four had been demanded before suit. It was held that demand for the fifth call was not necessary except perhaps as affecting costs.

In other states under statutes somewhat similar to §§ 8632 and 8674 the authorities are conflicting.

Cook on Corporations, §§ 117, 118.

The safer practice is to give notice.

Before stock can be forfeited for nonpayment of calls notice must be published.

See § 8675.

A notice to pay to the treasurer of a corporation implies that payment is to be made at his office, and is a sufficient designation of the place of payment.

Muskingum, etc., Co. v. Ward, 13 Ohio 120 (1844).

Waiver by corporation of right to make calls. A subscription made on condition that "not more than ten percent shall be required at any one call, nor shall calls be made more frequently than once in sixty days," was held to operate as a waiver of the statutory right of the directors to make calls in their discretion, and a general call requiring more frequent payments was held to not apply to such subscription.

Mansfield, etc., Co. v. Pettis, 26 O. S. 259 (1875).

Amount of payment.

Interest. A corporation is entitled to interest on installments from the time for payment fixed in the call.

Railroad Co. v. Fink, 41 O. S. 321, 327 (1884).

Natl. Bank v. Greenville, etc., Co., 3 C. C. n. s. 372, 381; 13 C. D. 274 (1899).

Less than the amount of the subscription. Subscribers who pay less than the full amount of their subscriptions may be held liable to creditors for the difference between the amount paid and the full amount, although stock is issued therefor as full paid and nonassessable.

Trust Co. v. Ford, 75 O. S. 322 (1906).

See note to § 8630. Sales below par.

Stock is not full paid until its par value has been paid in money or its equivalent. The obligation imposed by a subscription is to pay at the par value.

Gates v. Tippecanoe Stone Co., 57 O. S. 60, 76 (1897).

Wood v. Pearce, 2 Dis. 411 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1858).

Where less than par is paid by a subscriber, the difference being credited to a Board of Trade as commission on the subscription, and assigned by the Board of Trade to the purchaser, the subscriber is liable to creditors for the difference. Vandeusen v. Ransom, 23 C. C. n. s. 194 (1912).

Medium of payment.

Money. Subscriptions to the stock of corporations are prima facie payable in money.

Gates v. Tippecanoe Stone Co., 57 O. S. 60, 74 (1897).

Property. Directors, acting in good faith, have power to receive property in payment of subscriptions.

Sims v. Street Railroad Co., 37 O. S. 556 (1882).

Gates v. Tippecanoe Stone Co., 57 O. S. 60, 74, 75 (1897).

Orton v. Edson, etc., Co., 5 C. C. n. s. 540; 17 C. D. 107 (1905);
aff'd, no rep., 75 O. S. 580.

Kunz v. National Valve Co., 9 C. C. n. s. 593; 19 C. D. 519 (1907).

Goodin v. Evans, 18 O. S. 150 (1868).

For liability of subscriber where property is fraudulently overvalued see note to § 8630. Exchange of stock for property.

By dividends. A subscriber is entitled to credit for dividends, both in cash and in stock, declared after his subscription was made.

Railroad Co. v. Fink, 41 O. S. 321 (1884).

See Stewart v. Herron, 77 O. S. 130 (1907).

White v. Cooper Co., 7 C. C. n. s. 114; 17 C. D. 703 (1903); aff'd, no rep., 72 O. S. 615, 691.

Rhodes v. Equitable Life Insurance Co., 3 C. C. 501; 2 C. D. 188 (1888); aff'd, 27 W. L. B. 160.

By note. A subscriber to stock of an insurance company who, as authorized by a statute, gave his note and mortgage in payment of his subscription, was held to stand in the position of a borrower from the company, and not in the position of a subscriber.

Union, etc., Ins. Co. v. Curtis, 35 O. S. 343 (1880).

Latham v. Union, etc., Ins. Co., 1 W. L. B. 127 (Dist. Ct. 1876).

Andes Ins. Co. v. Waters, 1 W. L. B. 172 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1876).

A subscriber for national bank stock, who gave his note for the amount of his subscription, can not defend against the note on the theory that it was an ultra vires loan by the bank secured by its own stock as collateral. Bank v. McDonald, 2 Ohio App. 497; 21 C. C. n. s. 245 (1913).

Nor can such a subscriber for national bank stock defend on the ground that he was induced to execute the note on the assurance of the president that it was for the accommodation of the bank and that he would not be called on to pay. Robinson v. Bank, 9 Ohio App. 124 (1917).

Where a note given for a subscription is not shown to have been given or accepted in payment, it is no defense to an action on the subscription.

Kilbreath v. Gaylord, 3 W. L. B. 525 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1878); aff'd, 34 O. S. 305.

Set off of debt due subscriber. A subscriber may set off a bona fide debt due him from the corporation, both as against the corporation and as against its assignee for creditors.

Niles v. Olszak, 87 O. S. 229 (1912).

Dungan v. Safford, 41 O. S. 15 (1884).

Sims v. Street Railroad, 37 O. S. 556, 558 (1882).

Compare Handley v. Stutz, 139 U. S. 417 (1891).

Bank v. Varnish Co., 8 C. C. 563; 4 C. D. 511 (1894); reversed in part, 56 O. S. 744.

Union, etc., Co. v. Jones, 35 O. S. 351 (1880).

Where an officer of a corporation, who owed the corporation $750.00 on a subscription and who had a claim of $500.00 for salary, executed the note of the corporation and transferred it in payment of an individual debt, after insolvency of the corporation, it was held that the note in the hands of such creditor should be cancelled and the amount set off against the indebtedness of the officer to the corporation.

In re Empress, etc., Co., 1 N. P. n. s. 20 (C. P. 1903).

Section 8633. (Certificate when ten per cent is subscribed.) When ten per cent of the capital stock is subscribed, the subscribers to the articles of incorporation, or a majority of them at once shall so certify in writing to the secretary of state. (R. S. Sec. 3244; April 2, 1906, 98 v. 294; April 22, 1904, 97 v. 170; May 18, 1894, 91 v. 304; April 15, 1880, 77 v. 266; May 1, 1852, 50 v. 274, § 9; R. S. 1880; S. & C. 276.)

Certificate of subscription to no-par-value common stock. See § 8728-2.

By signing a "certificate of subscription" incorporators certify, in effect, not only that ten percent of the capital stock had been subscribed but that an installment of ten percent has been paid on each share subscribed for.

Hessler v. Cleveland, etc., Co., 61 O. S. 621 (1899).

An insurance company organized under § 9510 et seq. is not required to file a certificate of subscription. Rep. Atty. Gen. 1914, p. 229.

Where no certificate of subscription appears on the records of the secretary of state, but the incorporators claim to have filed one, a copy of such certificate, authenticated by the affidavit of the secretary of the corporation may be filed. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1916, p. 1009.

Failure to file a certificate of subscription does not render the incorporators or directors personally liable to a creditor who dealt with the company as a corporation, where the required percentage of stock was properly subscribed for and the required payments made. Garwood v. Oil Co., 11 Ohio App. 96 (1919).

Conditional subscriptions should not be included as a part of the ten percent.

Fairview R. Co. v. Spillman, 23 Ore. 587; 32 Pac. 688.

Except subscriptions conditioned upon the securing of subscriptions to a specified amount, where the condition has been performed.

Emmitt v. Springfield, etc., R. Co., 31 O. S. 23 (1876).

Subscription of ten percent a condition precedent to corporate organization and the transaction of business. Until ten percent of the capital stock has been subscribed, directors can not be elected, nor can corporate business be transacted, nor are subscribers liable on their subscriptions beyond the first installment.

Trust Co. v. Floyd, 47 O. S. 525, 542 (1890).

Telephone Co. v. Cincinnati, 73 O. S. 64, 77 (1905).

See Jewett v. Valley Railway Co., 34 O. S. 601 (1878).

See note to 8674. Suits to collect subscriptions. Conditions precedent.

But subscribers may waive the right to have ten percent subscribed.

Emmitt v. Springfield, etc., Co., 31 O. S. 23 (1876).

And as against creditors subscribers are estopped from setting up such defense.

Dickason v. Grafton Sav. Bank, 6 C. C. n. s. 329; 17 C. D. 357 (1905); aff'd, no rep., 76 O. S. 612.

Certificate of subscription to increased stock. Where capital stock is increased under § 8698 a certificate of subscription to the increased stock need not be filed.

Rep. Atty. Gen. 1911-1912, p. 66.

Opins. Atty. Gen. 1916, p. 289.

Section 8634. (Incorporators' liability.) The incorporators shall be liable to any person affected thereby, in the amount of any deficiency in the actual payment of ten per cent on the stock subscribed for at the time of so certifying to the secretary of state. (R. S. Sec. 3244; April 2, 1906, 98 v. 294; April 22, 1904, 97 v. 170; May 18, 1894, 91 v. 304; April 15, 1880, 77 v. 266; May 1, 1852, 50 v. 274, § 9; R. S. 1880; S. & C. 276.)

The liability of incorporators is a security for corporate creditors, and it is not necessary, to entitle a creditor to its benefit, that he should have knowledge of the making of the certificate, or of its contents.

Hessler v. Cleveland, etc., Co., 61 O. S. 621 (1899).

Before the adoption of the General Code, incorporators, under Rev. Stats. §§ 3244 and 3243 (now G. C. §§ 8634 and 8632), were liable for any deficiency in the actual payment of ten percent of the entire authorized capital stock, and not merely for one-tenth of that amount.

Hessler v. Cleveland, etc., Co., 61 O. S. 621 (1899).

Ames v. McGaughey, 88 O. S. 297 (1913).

Under the changed language of these sections, however, incorporators are liable only for the deficiency in the payment of ten percent on the stock subscribed for.

Incorporators of a foreign corporation, who have falsely certified that a certain amount has been paid in, may be liable in damages for deceit; but it was held that the mere signing of the certificate without knowing whether the statements were true or false did not necessarily constitute a fraudulent statement, recklessly made, where there was evidence tending to show that the incorporators believed the statement to be true.

Schenck v. Knott, 13 C. C. n. s. 41 (1910).

Suit to enforce the liability of incorporators should be prosecuted for the benefit of all the creditors, and may be joined with an action to collect unpaid stock subscriptions.

Hessler v. Cleveland, etc., Co., 61 O. S. 621 (1899).

Attorneys' fees may be allowed to plaintiff's counsel out of the fund realized.

Hessler v. Cleveland, etc., Co., 61 O. S. 621 (1899).

Section 8635. (Notice of election of directors.) As soon as such certificate is made, the signers thereto, shall give notice to the stockholders, as provided in section eighty-six hundred and thirty-one, to meet at such time and place as the notice designates, for the purpose of choosing not less than five nor more than thirty directors, to continue in office until the time fixed for the annual election, and until their successors are elected and qualified. But if all subscribers to stock are present in person or by proxy, such notice may be waived by them in writing. (R. S. Sec. 3244; April 2, 1906, 98 v. 294; April 22, 1904, 97 v. 170; May 18, 1894, 91 v. 304; April 15, 1880, 77 v. 266; May 1, 1852, 50 v. 274, § 9; R. S. 1880; S. & C. 276.)

Annual elections, terms of offices, etc., see § 8647.

Directors generally, see §§ 8660 to 8666 and notes.

The organization meeting should be held in Ohio.

Myers v. Manhattan Bank, 20 Ohio 283 (1851).

Duke v. Taylor, 37 Fla. 64 (1896).

Smith v. Silver, etc., Co., 64 Md. 85 (1885).

Hodgson v. Duluth, etc., R. Co., 46 Minn. 454 (1891).

Harding v. American Glucose Co., 182 Ill. 551 (1899).

Conditions precedent to election of directors.

Subscription of ten percent of capital stock. Directors can not be elected until ten percent of the authorized capital stock has been subscribed, and an instalment of ten percent paid on each share subscribed for.

Cemetery Assn. v. Traction Co., 93 O. S. 161 (1915).

Trust Co. v. Floyd, 41 O. S. 525 (1890).

Telephone Co. v. Cincinnati, 73 O. S. 64, 77 (1905).

Powers v. Hazelton, etc., Ry. Co., 33 O. S. 429 (1878).

Directors are personally liable for acting as such and incurring debts before ten percent has been subscribed.

Trust Co. v. Floyd, 41 O. S. 525 (1890).

Notice or waiver of notice of stockholders' organization meeting. Where no notice of a meeting was given, and notice was not waived in writing, the directors elected thereat may be ousted by a proceeding in quo warranto (§§ 12303 and 12318). But persons elected at such a meeting may become de facto directors.

First, etc., Soc. v. First, etc., Soc., 25 O. S. 128, 133 (1874).

And the validity of their acts can not be questioned collaterally.

Chamberlain v. Painesville etc., R. Co., 15 O. S. 225, 250 (1864).

That notice was neither given nor waived is no defense to an action by creditors on stock subscriptions.

Dickason v. Grafton Sav. Bank, 6 C. C. n. s. 329, 332; 17 C. D. 357 (1905); aff'd, no rep., 76 O. S. 612.

Organization presumed to have been regular. In general it is presumed that the steps requisite to a valid organization have been taken.

Ashtabula, etc., R. Co. v. Smith, 15 O. S. 328, 334 (1864).

Except in appropriation proceedings. A corporation seeking to condemn property must prove its incorporation according to law including the due and legal election of directors.

Cemetery Assn. v. Traction Co., 93 O. S. 161 (1915).

Telephone Co. v. Cincinnati, 73 O. S. 64, 77 (1905).

Powers v. Hazelton, etc., Ry. Co., 33 O. S. 429 (1878).

Method of proof, see note to § 8629.

Section 8636. (Conduct of election; voting.) At the time and place appointed, directors shall be chosen by ballot, by the stockholders who attend, either in person or by lawful proxies. At such and all other elections of directors, each stockholder shall have the right to vote in person or by proxy the number of shares owned by him for as many persons as there are directors to be elected, or to cumulate his shares and give one candidate as many votes as the number of directors multiplied by the number of his shares of stock equals, or to distribute them on the same principal among as many candidates as he thinks fit. Such directors shall not be elected in any other manner. A majority of the number of shares shall be necessary for a choice, but no person shall vote on a share on which an installment is due and unpaid. (R. S. Sec. 3245; April 23, 1898, 93 v. 230; May 1, 1852, 50 v. 274, § 9; S. & C. 276.)

Annual elections. See § 8647 and note.

"A majority of the number of shares shall be necessary for a choice" means a majority of the stock represented at the meeting. It does not require a majority of the entire authorized capital stock, nor a majority of the issued stock.

Lutterby v. Herancourt Brewing Co., 12 L. D. 67 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1901).

This provision applies only when the shares are voted without cumulating.

Schwartz v. State, 61 O. S. 497, 505 (1899).

Lutterby v. Herancourt Brewing Co., 12 L. D. 67 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1901).

CUMULATIVE VOTING.

Cumulative voting being authorized by this section, one receiving a majority of the votes so cast is elected a director, though he does not receive the votes of the holders of a majority of the shares.

Schwartz v. State, 61 O. S. 497 (1899).

See Hall v. Hall, 11 C. C. n. s. 335; 20 C. D. 826 (1908); aff'd, no rep., 79 O. S. 456.

In general. For each director to be elected a stockholder is entitled to one vote for each share of stock registered in his name. Where there are five directors, a person owning one share is entitled to five votes, all of which may be cast for one candidate. Or one vote may be cast for each of five candidates, or the votes may be divided among the candidates in any other manner desired.

If 500 shares are represented at a stockholders' meeting at which five directors are to be elected, a minority which controls 85 shares is enabled, under the cumulative system, to elect one director. The 85 shares are entitled to 425 votes. The balance of 415 shares is entitled to 2075 votes. If the 425 minority votes are cast solidly for one candidate, it is impossible for the majority to defeat him.

The minority can not obtain control of the board of directors if the majority act together and cumulate their votes. But if the majority scatter their votes, a strong minority may obtain a majority of the board.

Schwartz v. State, 61 O. S. 497 (1899).

State v. Du Brul, 100 O. S. 272 (1919).

The cumulative privilege may be exercised on the first ballot and on successive ballots, as long as directors remain to be elected. State v. Du Brul, 100 O. S. 272 (1919).

Not obligatory. This section authorizes two methods of voting, either by or without cumulating shares.

Schwartz v. State, 61 O. S. 497, 505 (1899).

State v. Du Brul, 100 O. S. 272 (1919).

Unauthorized prior to 1898. Prior to the amendment of this section in 1898 (93 v. 230) cumulative voting was unauthorized.

State v. Stockley, 45 O. S. 304 (1887).

Schwartz v. State, 61 O. S. 505 (1899).

State v. Holloway, 1 C. C. 157; 1 C. D. 90 (1885).

State v. Fosdick, 1 C. C. 265; 1 C. D. 145 (1885).

Corporations organized prior to 1898. Stockholders in corporations organized prior to the amendment of 1898 (93 v. 230) may cumulate their votes. The legislature, under its right to alter, amend or repeal general corporation laws, may authorize cumulative voting.

Looker v. Maynard, 179 U. S. 46 (1900).

Cross v. West Va., etc., Co., 35 W. Va. 174 (1891).

Gregg v. Granby, etc., Co., 164 Mo. 616 (1901).

Section 8637. (Inspectors of the election.) At such first election the subscribers of the articles of incorporation present, shall be inspectors of election, certify what persons are elected directors, and appoint the time and place for holding their first meeting. (R. S. Sec. 3245; April 23, 1898, 93 v. 230; May 1, 1852, 50 v. 274, § 9; S. & C. 276.)

Subsequent elections. At elections subsequent to the first election, the right to choose the inspectors is vested in the stockholders and not in the directors.

State v. Merchant, 37 O. S. 251 (1881).

Appointment of inspectors by common pleas court on application of holders of one-tenth of the stock.

§§ 8640 to 8645.

Powers and duties of inspectors of election. The duties of inspectors are, in general, ministerial and not judicial. An inspector may be a candidate for election.

Commonwealth v. Woelper, 3 S. & R. (Pa.) 29 (1817).

Ex parte Willcocks, 7 Cow. (N. Y.) 402 (1827).

When inspectors have once received a vote they can not afterwards reject it on the ground that it is illegal.

Hartt v. Harvey, 32 Barb. (N. Y.) 55 (1860).

People v. White, 11 Abb. Pr. (N. Y.) 168, 179 (1860).

Where the time for keeping the polls open has not been specified, the inspectors may exercise a reasonable discretion as to closing the polls.

In re Chenango, etc., Co., 19 Wend. (N. Y.) 635 (1839).

In re Mohawk, etc., R. Co., 19 Wend. (N. Y.) 135 (1838).

People v. Albany, etc., R. Co., 55 Barb. (N. Y.) 344 (1869); aff'd, 57 N. Y. 161.

Certificate of election. A certificate of election is prima facie evidence of the facts stated therein; but where it contains a statement not only of the result, but also of the facts upon which the decision was based, if the facts show the decision to be erroneous it may be set aside by the court.

Hartt v. Harvey, 32 Barb. (N. Y.) 55 (1860).

An election is valid although the inspectors fail to certify the result or certify it erroneously.

People v. Peck, 11 Wend. (N. Y.) 604 (1834).

Hartt v. Harvey, 32 Barb. (N. Y.) 55, 61 (1860).

State v. Smith, 15 Ore. 98, 115 (1887).

A certificate is valid though made long after the election.

People v. Peck, 11 Wend. (N. Y.) 604 (1834).

Section 8638. (Limit on votes of stockholders.) A corporation may provide in the articles of incorporation that each stockholder, irrespective of the amount of stock he owns shall be entitled to one vote, and no more, at an election of directors or upon any subject submitted at a stockholders' meeting. When such provision is made the corporation shall be governed thereby. (R. S. Sec. 3245a (1); March 19, 1884, 81 v. 54, 55.)

This section permits corporations to adopt the common law rule that each shareholder is entitled to but one vote irrespective of the number of shares which he holds.

State v. Stockley, 45 O. S. 304, 306 (1887).

Section 8639. (Provisions to which such corporations are subject.) Corporations whose articles of incorporation contain the limitation provided for in the next preceding section, also shall be subject to the following:

1. No person shall hold or own stock therein in excess of one thousand dollars face value.

2. Annually, within thirty days after the thirty-first day of December, the directors shall make and file with the recorder of the county in which the corporation is doing business, a statement of its financial condition upon such thirty-first day of December, plainly setting forth its assets and liabilities in detail, the amount of its paid up capital stock, the names of its stockholders, and the number of shares owned by each. Such statement shall be signed and duly sworn to before any officer authorized to administer oaths in this state, by a majority of the directors, including the treasurer. If the directors fail to make the statements above required, or make a false statement, they personally shall be liable for all claims and demands against such corporation.

3. By-laws for the government of the corporation, and for the distribution of its net earnings among its workmen, patrons and shareholders, consistent with the constitution and laws of the state, may be made by the stockholders. (R. S. Sec. 3245b (1); March 19, 1884, 81 v. 54, 55.)

Statements filed with the county recorder are not required to be recorded. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1921, p. 119.

No fee for filing statements with the recorder has been provided for. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1921, p. 119.

The restrictions placed by this section upon the voting power of stockholders are intended to protect the minority and to place the workmen in a co-operative organization of employer and employee on a plane with persons owning a great number of shares. In England, under a similar provision, it was held possible for a person to exceed the limit placed by the law, and to increase his voting power by placing his stock in the hands of third persons to hold and vote according to his directions.

In re Stranton I. & S. Co., L. R. 16 Eq. Cas. 559 (1873).

Pender v. Lushington, L. R. 6 Ch. Div. 70 (1877).

Moffat v. Farquhar, L. R. 7 Ch. Div. 591 (1877).

In other jurisdictions such evasions have not been sanctioned.

Mack v. Bardelben Co., 90 Ala. 396; 9 L. R. A. 650 (1889).

Campbell v. Poultney, 6 G. & J. (Md.) 94 (1834).

Webb v. Ridgley, 38 Md. 364 (1873).

Where a corporation for many years acquiesced in a subscription to stock, made by a person in the name of his children, permitting them to vote and to exercise acts of ownership, the corporation was held to be estopped from claiming that the transaction was a fraudulent use of names to secure a greater number of votes that he would be entitled to, if the stock had stood in his name.

Creed v. Lancaster Bank, 1 O. S. 1 (1852).

Section 8640. (Application for appointment of inspectors of election.) Within fifteen days next before a meeting held for the election of directors or trustees, or for the determination of any question, by the stockholders of a corporation, or by the subscribers to its stock, or by its creditors and stockholders for its reorganization, any person or persons entitled to vote thereat and owning at least one-tenth interest in its stock may apply to the common pleas court of the county wherein such meeting is to be held, or, if the court be not in session, to a judge thereof, or, in case of the absence or disability of such judge, then to the probate court, for the appointment of inspectors for such meeting. No such application shall be acted upon until notice thereof has been served upon the corporation at its general office. The court or judge may require such additional notice by newspaper publication, or otherwise, as is deemed proper. (R. S. Sec. 3245a (2); March 18, 1887, 84 v. 115.)

In one case, the common pleas court refused to appoint inspectors under this section where it believed that, by such action, contractual rights would be disturbed, without proper adjudication. Craig v. Bessie Co., 19 N. P. n. s. 545 (1917).

This section does not require 15 days' notice to be given of every special stockholders meeting for the election of directors. Toledo Co. v. Smith, 205 Fed. 643, 660 (D. C. 1913).

Section 8641. (Appointment of inspectors.) Upon the hearing of such application, if deemed proper, the court or judge shall appoint three competent disinterested persons inspectors for such meeting, and for good cause may thereafter vacate the appointment of one or more and appoint another or others instead. In case an inspector fails to attend such meeting, or to act thereat, the stockholders may fill the vacancy so caused. (R. S. Sec. 3245b (2); March 18, 1887, 84 v. 115, 116.)

Section 8642. (List of stockholders for inspectors.) Before every such meeting, the officer or the agent of the corporation having charge of the transfer of its stock, under oath must make out a list of its stockholders, showing the number and classes of shares held by each, as shown by its books, on the date fixed for closing the stock transfers before its meetings; or if no time be fixed therefor, then on the tenth day prior to the date of such meeting. Such list shall be delivered to the inspectors of the meeting, and be prima facie evidence of the ownership of its stock. (R. S. Sec. 3245c; March 18, 1887, 84 v. 115, 116.)

Section 8643. (Stock ownership, how ascertained.) In case of the absence of such list the inspectors shall ascertain the ownership of stock by the corporation books, stock certificates or other proof. (R. S. Sec. 3245c; March 18, 1887, 84 v. 115, 116.)

Section 8644. (Conduct of election.) The inspectors so appointed, or if none be appointed, then those selected by the meeting, shall receive and count the votes cast at such meeting, or at any adjournment thereof, either upon an election or for the decision of any question to be decided by vote, and determine the result. Their certificate shall be prima facie evidence thereof. (R. S. Sec. 3245d; March 18, 1887, 84 v. 115, 116.)

Section 8645. (Compensation of inspectors.) The court or judge making the appointment of inspectors may fix their compensation, and require the applicants for their appointment to secure its payment; but the corporation shall be liable therefor if the meeting by vote so determines. (R. S. Sec. 3245e; March 18, 1887, 84 v. 115, 116.)

Section 8646. (Election of club-house corporation.) A corporation, the principal object of which is the owning and operating of a club-house for the use of its stockholders, which is not kept open and operated for their use during the winter season, shall hold its annual election of directors on the third Monday in July of each year. Such election shall be held at its club-house. (R. S. Sec. 3246; April 16, 1900, 94 v. 375; May 1, 1852, 50 v. 274, § 64; R. S. 1880.)

Section 8647. (Elections.) Except club-house companies, unless the regulations of a corporation otherwise provide, an annual election for trustees or directors shall be held on the first Monday in January of each year. When for any cause, trustees or directors are not elected at the annual meeting, or other meeting called for that purpose, they may be chosen at a members' or stockholders' meeting, if all the members or stockholders are present in person or by proxies, or at a meeting called by the trustees or directors, or any two members or stockholders, notice of which has been given, in writing, to each stockholder, or by publication for ten days in some newspaper printed in the county where the corporation is situated, or has its principal office. Trustees and directors in all cases shall continue in office until their successors are elected and qualified. (R. S. Sec. 3246; April 16, 1900, 94 v. 375; May 1, 1852, 50 v. 274, § 64; R. S. 1880.)

Cumulative voting. See note to § 8636.

Votes necessary to choice. See § 8636 and note.

Tellers or inspectors of election. See §§ 8637 and 8640 to 8645 inclusive.

Directors generally. See § 8660 to 8665 and notes.

- I. Terms "annual meeting" and "annual election", p. 991.
- II. Term of office of directors. Resignation, Removal, Vacancies.
 - A. Term, p. 991.
 - B. Resignation, p. 992.
 - C. Removal, p. 992.
 - D. Vacancies, p. 992.
- III. Right of stockholders to have annual election, p. 993.
- IV. Remedy to compel officers to call meeting, p. 993.
- V. Time for annual election.
 - A. First Monday in January, p. 993.
 - B. Other date provided in regulations, p. 993.

- VI. Place of annual meeting, p. 994.
- VII. Notice of meetings.
 - A. In general, p. 994.
 - B. Failure to give notice, p. 994.
 - C. Notice of special meeting under § 8647, p. 994.
- VIII. Adjournment of meeting, p. 994.
- IX. Quorum, p. 995.
- X. Who may vote stock.
 - A. Registered holders, p. 995.
 - B. Stockholders in default for installment on stock, p. 995.
 - C. Treasury stock, p. 995.
 - D. Corporation holding stock, p. 995.
 - E. Preferred stockholders, p. 995.
 - F. Proxies, p. 995.
 - G. Sale of voting rights, p. 996.
 - H. Voting trusts. Stock pooling agreements, p. 996.
 - I. Agreements to elect certain persons directors or officers, p. 997.
- XI. Elections.
 - A. Conduct of election. Successive ballots, where no election on first ballot, p. 997.
 - B. Election of part of board, p. 997.
 - C. Right to fair election, p. 997.
 - D. Unfair elections, p. 997.
 - E. Repeating, p. 998.
 - F. Injunction against voting of stock, p. 998.
 - G. Injunction against election, p. 998.
 - H. Validity of election. How determined.
 - (a) Quo warranto, p. 998.
 - (b) Injunction against illegal directors, p. 998.
 - (c) Collateral attack, p. 999.
 - (d) Corporate record or minute book as evidence, p. 999.

I. "ANNUAL MEETING" AND "ANNUAL ELECTION."

The terms "annual meeting" and "annual election" are used interchangeably in this section. In general the term "annual meeting" includes the "annual election."

State v. Burial Assn., 8 C. C. n. s. 233, 250; 18 C. D. 397 (1906); (Dismissed by Supreme Court for want of jurisdiction; 4 O. L. R. 708).

II. TERM OF OFFICE OF DIRECTORS. RESIGNATION. REMOVAL. VACANCIES.

A. Term. The term of directors chosen at the first election continues until the time fixed for the annual election. § 8635.

The term of directors elected at an annual meeting is one year.

Lutterby v. Herancourt Brewing Co., 12 L. D. 67 (Super. Ct. Cin 1901).

Toledo Co. v. Smith, 205 Fed. 643, 647 (D. C. 1913).

State v. Clough, 18 C. C. n. s. 509 (1912); aff'd, no rep. 88 O. S. 590.

See §§ 9646 and 9515 for terms of office of directors of building and loan associations and certain insurance companies.

Where no election is held at the time fixed for the annual meeting, or if an attempted election is held invalid, the directors previously elected hold over and continue in office until their successors are legally elected and qualified.

State v. Bonnell, 35 O. S. 10, 17 (1878).

State v. Smalley, 7 C. C. 400; 4 C. D. 653 (1893).

See Bartholomew v. Bentley, 1 O. S. 37, 42 (1852).

And the hold-over board may elect new executive officers, under G. C. § 8664. State v. Clough, 18 C. C. n. s. 509 (1912); aff'd, no rep. 88 O. S. 590.

The term of office of a director can not be shortened by a decrease in the number of the directors made after his election.

Lutterby v. Herancourt Brewing Co., 12 L. D. 67 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1901).

Nor can his term be shortened by an amendment to the corporate regulations, advancing the date of the annual election, to go into immediate effect.

Toledo Co. v. Smith, 205 Fed. 643. (D. C. 1913).

But the office of trustee of a church is not one coupled with such an interest that the members can not terminate the tenure of office.

Munsel v. Boyd, 10 C. C. n. s. 121, 127; 20 C. D. 182 (1907).

B. Resignation. A director may resign at any time, although under the statute his term of office is for one year. Such resignation may be either oral or in writing.

Briggs v. Spaulding, 141 U. S. 132, 154 (1891).

Where a corporation is insolvent and has transacted no business for a number of years, directors elected before business was discontinued are presumed to have abandoned or resigned their offices, notwithstanding the provision that they shall continue in office until their successors are elected.

Bartholomew v. Bentley, 1 O. S. 37 (1852).

C. Removal. An officer can not be removed during his term of office unless the right of removal is reserved in the regulations, or unless the removal is for cause, such as embezzlement, breach of trust, etc.

State v. Bryce, 7 Ohio, pt. 2, p. 83 (1836).

Lutterby v. Herancourt Brewing Co., 12 L. D. 67 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1901).

State v. Railway Co., 6 C. C. 412; 3 C. D. 516 (1892); s. c., 49 O. S. 668.

17 W. L. B. 130 (article by W. E. Talcott).

Compare Munsel v. Boyd, 10 C. C. n. s. 121, 127; 20 C. D. 182 (1907).

Regulations can not be adopted authorizing the removal, at stockholders' meetings, of officers or employes chosen or appointed by the directors nor to arbitrarily remove directors. Directors are entitled to hold office for the term for which they are elected, unless removed for cause upon notice and hearing.

Toledo Co. v. Smith, 205 Fed. 643 (D. C. 1913).

Where an officer disposes of his stock in the corporation he becomes disqualified.

G. C. § 8661.

But where he continues to act, he is recognized as a de facto officer, and his acts as to third persons held valid.

Campbell Ptg. Press Co. v. Bellman Bros. Co., 11 C. C. 360; 5 C. D. 389 (1896).

D. Vacancies caused by resignation, death, etc., may be filled by the remaining directors for the unexpired term unless the by-laws otherwise provide.

G. C. § 8662.

III. RIGHT OF STOCKHOLDERS TO HAVE ANNUAL ELECTION.

The right of stockholders to elect directors is not affected by the sale of the corporate property by a receiver under order of court.
State v. Merchant, 37 O. S. 251 (1881).
See Lutterby v. Herancourt Brewing Co., 12 L. D. 67, 75 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1901).

Neither the incorporators nor the first trustees of a corporation not for profit are authorized to adopt a by-law or regulation providing that the trustees shall hold office during life and, in case of vacancy, to fill the same by appointment. The members or stockholders are the elective and controlling body.
State v. Standard Life Assn., 38 O. S. 281 (1882).
See Wiswell v. First, etc., Church, 14 O. S. 31 (1862).

IV. REMEDY TO COMPEL OFFICERS TO CALL MEETING.

Injunction is the proper form of remedy to compel corporate officers to call a stockholders' meeting.
State v. Unida, etc., Co., 13 C. C. n. s. 100; 22 C. D. 54 (1910).
See Cincinnati, etc., Co. v. Hoffmeister, 62 O. S. 189 (1900).
Mandamus is not a proper remedy.
State v. Unida, etc., Co., 13 C. C. n. s. 100; 22 C. D. 54 (1910).
Fraternal Mystic Circle v. State, 61 O. S. 628 (1899).

V. TIME FOR ANNUAL ELECTION.

A. First Monday in January. The provisions of this section fixing the time for annual elections is directory merely and not imperative.
State v. Lakamp, 4 C. C. 257; 2 C. D. 533 (1889).
This section applies to corporations not for profit as well as to corporations for profit.
State v. Standard Life Assn., 38 O. S. 281, 289 (1882).

B. Other date provided in regulations. Where the corporate regulations provide for an "annual meeting" at a time other than the first Monday in January, the time for the "annual election" is thereby changed, and the election should be held at such annual meeting.
State v. Burial Assn., 8 C. C. n. s. 233, 250; 18 C. D. 397 (1906);
(Dis. by Sup. Ct. for want of jurisdiction, 4 O. L. R. 708).
Regulations which have not been properly adopted are not effective to change the time of election from the first Monday in January.
State v. Burial Assn., 8 C. C. n. s. 233, 249; 18 C. D. 397 (1906).
The term of office of a director can not be shortened by an amendment to the regulations, to go into immediate effect, advancing the date of the annual election.

Toledo T. L. & P. Co. v. Smith, 58 Bull 201 (U. S. D. C. 1913).

Where no election was held on the date fixed by corporate regulations, which provided that in such case the directors should fix the time for a special election, the fact that the president fixed the time and sent out notices, which action was ratified by the directors, does not invalidate the special election.

Lutterby v. Herancourt Brewing Co., 12 L. D. 67 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1901).

VI. PLACE OF ANNUAL MEETING.

The place of holding the annual meeting may be fixed in the regulations. State ex rel. v. Shaw, 103 O. S. 660 (1921); State v. Kreutzer, 100 O. S. 246 (1919).

VII. NOTICE OF MEETINGS.

A. In general. Where a meeting is stated and general, as where the time and place are provided for in the regulations, notice to the stockholders need not be given, unless the regulations provide for notice. State v. Kreutzer, 100 O. S. 246 (1919); State v. Clough, 18 C. C. n. s. 342 (1912); aff'd, no rep. 88 O. S. 590; State v. Bonnell, 35 O. S. 10, 15 (1878); Wiswell v. First, etc., Church, 14 O. S. 31 (1862).

An adjourned meeting is merely a continuation of the original meeting, and where the original meeting was properly commenced any business proper to be transacted thereat may be done at an adjourned meeting without further notice to the stockholders.

State v. Bonnell, 35 O. S. 10, 16 (1878).

Wiswell v. First, etc., Church, 14 O. S. 31 (1862).

See State v. Smalley, 7 C. C. 400; 4 C. D. 653 (1893).

Notice need be given only to stockholders of record. § 8673-3; Railway Co. v. Bank, 68 O. S. 582 (1903); In re Mfg. & Sales Co., 246 Fed. 1005; 16 O. L. R. 163 (D. C. Ohio 1917).

When a regularly convened annual meeting has been adjourned by action of a majority of the shares represented thereat to a future date subject to call, stockholders may not under § 8647 legally call another meeting during the interim between the annual meeting and the adjourned session. State ex rel. v. Shaw, 103 O. S. 660 (1921).

B. Failure to give notice. Where notice is required to be given, persons elected trustees or directors at a meeting of which no notice was given may become directors de facto.

First, etc., Soc. v. First, etc., Soc., 25 O. S. 128, 133 (1874).

And the validity of their election can not be questioned collaterally.

Chamberlain v. Painesville, etc., R. Co., 15 O. S. 225, 250 (1864).

Stockholders may be estopped from setting up irregularities in calling or giving notice of meetings.

Lutterby v. Herancourt Brewing Co., 12 L. D. 67 (Sup. Ct. Cin. 1901).

State v. Lakamp, 4 C. C. 257; 2 C. D. 533 (1889).

C. Notice of special meeting under § 8647. "Publication for ten days" means that the publication must continue for ten days. If the newspaper is a daily paper, the notice must be inserted daily for ten days. If the newspaper is a weekly paper, the notice must be inserted in each issue during the ten-day period. State v. Shaw, 103 O. S. 660, 665 (1921).

The ten days notice of special meetings required by § 8647 applies only to notice by publication, and does not apply where the corporate regulations provide for notice by mail. A provision in the corporate regulations for five days' notice by mail is valid. Toledo Co. v. Smith, 205 Fed. 643, 660 (D. C. 1913).

VIII. ADJOURNMENT OF MEETING.

An adjourned meeting is a continuation of the original meeting. State v. Bonnell, 35 O. S. 16 (1878).

The stockholders, by majority vote, may adjourn the meeting. State v. Shaw, 103 O. S. 660 (1921).

The directors have no power to postpone a meeting. State v. Kreutzer, 100 O. S. 246 (1919).

IX. QUORUM.

The stockholders may adopt a regulation providing for the number of stockholders constituting a quorum. § 8704; State v. Shaw, 103 O. S. 660 (1921).

Where there is no regulation on the subject, the stockholders present in person or by proxy may elect officers and transact business although a majority of the stock is not represented.

Lutterby v. Herancourt Brewing Co., 12 L. D. 67, 72, 73 (Super Ct. Cin. 1901).

X. WHO MAY VOTE STOCK.

A. Registered holders. In general only the person in whose name stock is registered on the books of the corporation is entitled to vote, although he is only a trustee. Officers in charge of the election can not take notice of the right of third persons in the stock.

Hafer v. N. Y., etc., R. Co., 14 W. L. B. 68, 72 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1885).

Franklin v. Commercial Bank, 36 O. S. 350, 355 (1881).

See §§ 8642, 8643, 8673-3.

Closing of transfer books prior to election. See § 8642.

B. Stockholders in default for installment on stock. No person may vote on any stock on which an installment is due and unpaid.

See § 8636.

Telephone Co. v. Cincinnati, 73 O. S. 64, 77 (1905).

But persons elected by such votes are de facto directors and their acts can not be attacked collaterally;

Raymond v. Spring Grove, etc., Ry. Co., 21 W. L. B. 103 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1889).

except by a defendant in an appropriation proceeding.

Cemetery Assn. v. Traction Co., 93 O. S. 161 (1915).

Telephone Co. v. Cincinnati, 73 O. S. 64, 77 (1905); affirming, 2 N. P. n. s. 349.

C. Treasury stock can not be voted while held by the corporation.

Allen v. De Lagerberger, 20 W. L. B. 368 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1888).

Ryan v. Miami Valley R. Co., 10 Am. L. R. 263, 267 (C. P. 1881).

But where the directors pledge treasury stock to secure a corporate loan, they may give pledgee the right to vote thereon.

Allen v. De Lagerberger, 20 W. L. B. 368 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1888).

D. Corporation holding stock. A corporation, empowered to own stock, has an incidental right to vote it. Toledo Co. v. Smith, 205 Fed. 643, 653 (D. C. 1913).

A corporation holding stock may, by power of attorney, authorize an agent to vote the same. Toledo Co. v. Smith, 205 Fed. 643, 653 (D. C. 1913).

E. Preferred stockholders have equal voting right with common stockholders unless such voting rights are restricted by the terms of the issue of the preferred stock. State v. Urschel, 104 O. S. 172 (1922).

Preferred stock may, by the terms of its issue, be given exclusive voting rights. Krell v. Piano Co., 23 N. P. n. s. 193 (1920); aff'd, 14 Ohio App. 74; motion to certify record overruled, 19 O. L. R. 125; Opins. Atty. Gen. 1919, p. 138.

F. Proxies. Stockholders may vote by proxy. One person may act as proxy for a number of stockholders.

Railway Co. v. State, 49 O. S. 668 (1892); affirming 6 C. C. 413; 3 C. D. 518.

See § 8636.

A written proxy may be revoked at any time by the stockholder although by its terms "irrevocable."

Griffith v. Jewett, 15 W. L. B. 419 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1886).

But where an "irrevocable" proxy was given as a condition to loans being made to the corporation and additional capital raised, the stockholder who gave the proxy and his assigns may not be entitled to revoke it. Craig v. Furnace Co., 19 N. P. n. s. 545 (1917).

The holder of a proxy, in general, has discretionary power to vote as he deems best.

Burch v. Coan, 17 L. D. 717 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1907).

But a proxy given by an executor is not valid unless it contains express instructions for whom the votes shall be cast, leaving no discretion to the holder of the proxy. State v. Voight, 2 Ohio App. 145; 17 C. C. n. s. 448 (1913).

A proxy which merely directs the holder to vote for certain specified men, as directors, does not authorize its holder to vote on any other question—even on a motion to adjourn the meeting. State v. McIntosh, 23 C. C. n. s. 305 (1912).

An infant can not give a valid proxy. State v. Voight, 2 Ohio App. 145; 17 C. C. n. s. 448 (1913).

An officer or director of the corporation may act as proxy. Rep. Atty. Gen. 1912, p. 681.

A regulation of a corporation, requiring proxies to be deposited with the secretary at least one day before the time set for the annual meeting, is valid. Rep. Atty. Gen. 1913, p. 798.

Where the secretary of a mutual insurance company obtains proxies from policyholders, he is not obliged to vote the same for the old directors, nor can the board control him in voting the proxies, unless the proxies were obtained under representations to that effect.

Burch v. Coan, 17 L. D. 717 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1907).

G. Sale of voting rights. A sale by a stockholder of the right to vote his stock is illegal.

Hafer v. N. Y., etc., R. Co., 14 W. L. B. 68 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1885).

H. Voting trusts. Stock pooling agreements. Where stockholders place their certificates of stock in the possession of a depository, with instructions to vote as directed by a committee of the stockholders appointed by themselves; or where the certificates are deposited with trustees who are empowered to vote the stock, the validity of the agreement depends upon its purpose. If the purpose is a lawful one, the agreement is valid.

Railway Co. v. State, 49 O. S. 668 (1892); affirming 6 C. C. 415; 3 C. D. 518.

Toledo Company v. Smith, 205 Fed. 643, 653 (D. C. 1913).

Griffith v. Jewett, 15 W. L. B. 419 (Super Ct. Cin. 1886).

Article by William P. Rogers, 7 O. L. R. 561 (1910).

But if the purpose is unlawful, as for instance tending to create a monopoly, the agreement is invalid.

State v. Standard Oil Co., 49 O. S. 137 (1892).

But even a valid voting trust agreement may be revoked at any time by any one of the stockholders notwithstanding it is in terms "irrevocable."

Griffith v. Jewett, 15 W. L. B. 419 (Super Ct. Cin. 1886).

Where stockholders entered into a pooling agreement, but for years ignored its existence, it was held that one of such stockholders who purchased stock in violation thereof and refused to pool it, could not compel the other parties to perform. Metzler v. Laundry Co., 24 C. C. n. s. 74 (1904).

Common law joint stock company, or voluntary association, as a means of maintaining stock control.

See article by William P. Rogers, 7 O. L. R. 561 (1910).

Cook on Corporations, § 622h.

I. Agreements to elect certain persons directors or officers. An agreement between individuals to form a corporation, providing for its future management and control, and specifying the future directors and officers and their compensation, is not void or illegal, where the parties to the contract subscribe for and own all the stock of the corporation.

Doan v. Rogan, 79 O. S. 372, 386 (1909).

See Mullen v. Gaffey, 8 Am. L. R. 101 (Dist. Ct. 1879).

State v. Ry. Co., 6 C. C. 415; aff'd in 49 O. S. 668.

And where in an agreement between individuals it is provided that one of the parties shall be employed for a specified time at a stipulated salary by the other parties, or by a corporation to be thereafter organized by them, on breach of such agreement an action for damages may be maintained against the individuals in default.

Doan v. Rogan, 79 O. S. 372 (1909).

Magill v. Rendigs, 12 L. D. 558 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1902).

See Mosier v. Parry, 60 O. S. 388 (1899).

But where there are other stockholders who are not parties to the agreement, or where the corporation is not a private business corporation but is one in which the public has an interest (such as an educational corporation), an agreement by a director or by one or more stockholders owning a majority of the stock to elect another person to a salaried corporate office is void as against public policy.

Jones v. Scudder, 2 C. S. C. R. 178 (1872).

West v. Camden, 135 U. S. 507 (1890).

Subscription to stock on condition that subscriber be employed by corporation. Remedy for breach of condition.

See Stunt v. Newark, etc., Co., 22 C. C. 120; 12 C. D. 175 (1901); aff'd, 67 O. S. 555.

XI. ELECTIONS.

A. Conduct of election. Successive ballots, where no election on first ballot. In the case of a tie on the first ballot, stockholders have a right to ask for successive voting until it is demonstrated that further balloting is futile. The chairman has no right to deny a call for successive voting. Where in such a case one faction does not exercise its privilege, while the other faction continues to vote and, by cumulative ballots, elects other directors, the former faction can not question the validity of the election. State v. Du Brul, 100 O. S. 272 (1919).

B. Election of part of board. Where a corporation has five directors, the election of four persons entitles them to be inducted into office in the place of the former board of five. State v. Du Brul, 100 O. S. 272 (1919).

C. Right to fair election. A stockholder has a right to a fair and lawful election of directors, without regard to pecuniary injury.

Hafer v. N. Y., etc., R. Co., 14 W. L. B. 68, 71 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1885).

D. Unfair elections. Where a corporation was enjoined from holding an election on the day specified in the notice of the annual meeting, in consequence of which no meeting was held until several hours after the hour specified, when a small number of stockholders, without the knowledge of the others, met and adjourned until the next day, at which time an election was held by a minority, without notice to others who might readily have been notified, the election was held to be unfair and invalid.

State v. Bonnell, 35 O. S. 10 (1878).

Where a part of the stockholders assembled, but adjourned by agreement, and by a misunderstanding as to the time of the adjournment a minority met and elected directors, and subsequently the majority met and elected other directors, it was held that neither election was valid.

State v. Smalley, 7 C. C. 400; 4 C. D. 653 (1893).

Fraud by a managing officer of an insurance company in bringing about, through a misuse of proxies, an election of directors friendly to his interests, renders such election unfair.

Burch v. Coan, 4 O. L. R. 731; 17 L. D. 563 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1907).

E. Repeating. To vote more than once at a corporate election is not a penal offense.

Lane v. State, 39 O. S. 312 (1883).

F. Injunction against voting of stock. Where stock of a railroad company is illegally held by another railroad company, the voting of such stock may be enjoined by the suit of another stockholder.

Mannington v. H. V. Ry. Co., 9 N. P. n. s. 641, 687; 20 L. D. 468 (C. P. 1910); removed to U. S. Ct., see 183 Fed. 133; 8 O. L. R. 451; 16 O. F. D. 552.

Gould v. Railway, 10 N. P. n. s. 313 (C. P. 1910).

Likewise where stock is held by a trustee under an illegal agreement, in the interest of another corporation, the voting rights thereon having been sold.

Hafer v. N. Y., etc., R. Co., 14 W. L. B. 68 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1885).

See Allen v. De Lagerberger, 20 W. L. B. 368 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1888).

In a suit to enjoin a stockholder from voting stock, such stockholder is a necessary party. General Co. v. Railway, 250 Fed. 160 (1918).

G. Injunction against election. Where there is a dispute as to whether a vacancy exists in the board of directors, it being claimed that one director has never been a stockholder, the holding of a special election to choose his successor will not be enjoined. His remedy is quo warranto after the election.

Hooe v. Hall, 9 C. C. 654; 4 C. D. 547 (1893).

H. Validity of election. How determined.

(a) Quo warranto. In general the proper proceeding to test the validity of an election of directors is a proceeding in quo warranto. §§ 12303, 12318, 12319.

Hullman v. Honcamp, 5 O. S. 237 (1855).

Presbyterian Soc. v. Smithers, 12 O. S. 248 (1861).

See State v. Bonnell, 35 O. S. 10 (1878).

Where an election is held invalid the court may, in its discretion, order a new election.

§ 12319.

Henderson v. Hogan, 1 W. L. B. 227 (Dist. Ct. 1876).

(b) Injunction against illegal directors. Where the sole object of a suit is to test the legality of an election, it must be by proceedings in quo warranto, and a suit for injunction or other suit in equity will not lie.

Hullman v. Honcamp, 5 O. S. 237 (1855).

Hooe v. Hall, 9 C. C. 654; 4 C. D. 547 (1893).

Messenger v. Wardens, 6 W. L. B. 397 (C. P. 1881).

A restraining order may be granted, during the pendency of a quo warranto proceeding, to restrain a taking possession of the office by other than legal means.

Hooe v. Hall, 9 C. C. 654; 4 C. D. 547 (1893).

But the validity of an election may be determined in an injunction suit, or other suit in equity, where other and proper equitable relief is sought in the suit; as where the plaintiffs are members of a corporation not for profit and are wrongfully excluded from the use and enjoyment of the corporate property or privileges by persons claiming to be directors, but whose election was void or illegal.

Munsel v. Boyd, 10 C. C. n. s. 121; 20 C. D. 182 (1907).

Bartholomew v. Lutheran Cong., 35 O. S. 567 (1880).

See Presbyterian Soc. v. Smithers, 12 O. S. 248.

Messinger v. Wardens, 6 W. L. B. 397 (C. P. 1881).

Or where the suit seeks to set aside a fraudulent contract made by directors whose election was brought about by fraud.

Burch v. Coan, 4 O. L. R. 731; 17 L. D. 563, 717 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1907).

Or where the right of directors to represent the corporation arises incidentally in the course of an action.

Lutterby v. Herancourt Brewing Co., 12 L. D. 67 (Super Ct. Cin. 1901).

In such case the court may enjoin the persons illegally elected from interfering with the lawful directors in possession and control of the corporate property.

Bartholomew v. Lutheran Cong., 35 O. S. 567 (1880).

Munsel v. Boyd, 10 C. C. n. s. 121; 20 C. D. 182 (1907).

Although it may not render a judgment of ouster against the illegal directors.

Burch v. Coan, 4 O. L. R. 731; 17 L. D. 563 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1907).

In federal courts it has been held that the remedy in equity may be invoked where the interests affected by the litigation would suffer by the delays incident necessary to a quo warranto proceeding.

Toledo Co. v. Smith, 205 Fed. 643, 662 (D. C. 1913).

(c) Collateral attack. The title of de jure directors can not be questioned in a collateral proceeding. The acts of de facto directors are, as to third persons, valid, although they may have been elected by illegal votes.

Presbyterian Soc., etc., v. Smithers, 12 O. S. 248 (1861).

Chamberlain v. Painesville, etc., Co., 15 O. S. 225, 250 (1864).

Ehrman v. Ins. Co., 35 O. S. 324, 339.

Harrison v. Ellis, 15 L. D. 501 (C. P. 1905).

Raymond v. Spring Grove, etc., Ry. Co., 21 W. L. B. 103 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1889).

In a collateral proceeding the court may, however, determine who are the de facto directors.

Presbyterian Soc. v. Smithers, 12 O. S. 248, 251 (1861).

(d) Corporate record or minute book as evidence. The records of a corporation are the best evidence of its officers, but it is competent to prove the existence of such officers by other evidence.

State v. Buchanan, Wright 233 (1833).

See Stillwater Turnpike Co. v. Coover, 25 O. S. 558 (1874).

Toledo, etc., Co. v. Toledo, etc., Co., 12 C. C. 367; 5 C. D. 643 (1893).

Section 8648. (Life of corporations to deal in real estate; renewal of such charters.) A corporation formed to buy or sell real estate, shall expire by limitation in twenty-five years from the date on which its articles of incorporation were issued by the secretary of state unless before twenty-four years from the date on which such articles were issued the corporation shall file with the secretary of state a certificate that a meeting of its stockholders called for the purpose of considering a renewal of the charter three-fourths of all the votes cast at the meeting were in favor of a renewal of the charter in which case the corporation may continue with the same powers and subject to the same obligations as when originally created for an additional period of twenty-five years and the secretary of state shall issue a certificate of renewal of its articles of incorporation for such period. Ten days' notice of the time and place of holding such meeting and the object thereof shall be given by registered letter containing a written or printed notice addressed to each of the persons in whose names the stock of the corporation stands on its books and also by like notice published in some newspaper in the city or village where the corporation has its principal office or place of business. When all the stockholders are present at such meeting in person or by proxy, notice may be waived in writing. For each share of stock on which all the installments called for by the board of directors are paid the holder thereof shall be entitled to one vote and the voting shall be by ballot cast in person or by proxy. (109 v. 197; R. S. Sec. 3235; May 12, 1902, 95 v. 623; March 22, 1900, 94 v. 65; April 6, 1894, 91 v. 126; April 20, 1893, 90 v. 205; R. S. 1880.)

For powers of building companies to acquire and hold real estate for office, hotel, factory, etc., buildings see § 10210.

A corporation formed for the purpose of dealing in real estate is necessarily for profit and can not be organized without a capital stock.

State v. Home Co-op. Union, 63 O. S. 547 (1900).

A foreign corporation organized to deal in real estate may be admitted to do business in Ohio, but the application for admission should expressly limit its life in Ohio to twenty-five years.

5 Opins. Attys. Gen. 1002.

Although not expressly required by statute, it is proper that the articles of an Ohio corporation formed to deal in real estate should expressly limit its life to twenty-five years. The omission of such a limitation from the articles, however, does not invalidate the articles nor authorize the secretary of state to refuse to file the same.

Rep. Atty. Gen. 1911-1912, pp. 71, 61.

A real estate company may not, by amendment to its articles, acquire the powers of a building company under § 10210.

Rep. Atty. Gen. 1908-1909, p. 78.

At the expiration of twenty-five years (or, if extended, fifty years)

a real estate corporation is ipso facto dissolved and should be wound up under § 8742 et seq.

People v. Anderson, etc., Road Co., 76 Cal. 190.

La Grange, etc., R. Co. v. Rainey, 7 Colw. (Tenn.) 420, 432 (1870).

Scanlan v. Crawshaw, 5 Mo. App. 337 (1878).

See Myers v. Lucas, 16 C. C. 545; 8 C. D. 431 (1898); reversed on other grounds, 63 O. S. 101.

A corporation not for profit, organized for social and gymnastic purposes, which owns a building where societies meet for such purposes, and a part of which is rented, does not, because of such ownership, become a real estate corporation. Its life is not limited to twenty-five years. Becker v. Germannia Co., 22 C. C. n. s. 395 (1908).

There is no limit to the amount of land which a real estate company may hold.

Market St. Ry. Co. v. Hellman, 109 Cal. 571.

Leases for more than twenty-five years under former law.

See Beckett Paper Co. v. Hamilton, etc., Co., 18 C. C. 200; 10 C. D. 57.

Section 8649. (Procedure if real estate not disposed of in twenty-four or forty-nine years.) If within twenty-four years from the date of its articles, or forty-nine years from such date if its articles are extended, the real estate of such corporation is not wholly disposed of, its directors shall at once bring an action against it, and the owners of liens upon such real estate, in the common pleas court of the county wherein such realty is situated, by filing a petition praying for its sale as therein described. Should the board not begin such action within sixty days after such twenty-four years, or forty-nine years if the articles are extended, expire the prosecuting attorney of the county in which the realty is situated, on the expiration of the sixty days at once shall begin and prosecute it. (109 v. 198; R. S. Sec. 3235; May 12, 1902, 95 v. 623; March 22, 1900, 94 v. 65; April 6, 1894, 91 v. 126; April 20, 1893, 90 v. 205; R. S. 1880.)

Section 8650. (Service of summons, sale and distribution.) Service of summons upon the defendants, appraisal and sale of such real estate, and distribution of the proceeds of the sale shall be made as provided in actions of foreclosure of mortgages and marshalling liens. The court may allow the plaintiff, in case he be the prosecuting attorney, a just attorney fee, to be taxed with the costs of the action. (R. S. Sec. 3235; May 12, 1902, 95 v. 623; March 22, 1900, 94 v. 65; April 6, 1894, 91 v. 126; April 20, 1893, 90 v. 205; R. S. 1880.)

Section 8651. (Articles of incorporation not for profit.) An association of five or more persons, resident of this state, who are associated not for profit, but as the principal or ruling organization over subordinate organizations, associated, not for profit, and having a definite location or place of business in the state, may be incorporated, having its location or principal place of business therein, without naming in its articles of incorporation a permanent place where it is to be located, or its principal business transacted; but it must name therein the place where it is to be located, or its principal business transacted at the time of incorporation, with the name and places of residence of its then principal officers. (R. S. Sec. 3236; April 10, 1889, 86 v. 224; April 16, 1885, 82 v. 134; R. S. 1880.)

Articles of incorporation under this section must state the names and residences of the principal officers.
Rep. Atty. Gen. (1908-1909), 57.

Section 8652. (Duties of officers when location is changed.) When such association changes its location, or the place where its principal business is transacted, its principal officer, under its seal, if it has one, countersigned by the officer acting as secretary of such association, shall certify the place then selected as its location, or where its principal business is to be transacted, with the name of its principal officers, and their places of residence, to the secretary of state of Ohio, which certificate he shall record for public use in the records of his office. (R. S. Sec. 3236; April 10, 1889, 86 v. 224; April 16, 1885, 82 v. 134; R. S. 1880.)

Section 8653. (Members of corporation not for profit.) The subscribers to articles of incorporation for a purpose other than profit, shall have them copied into a book they provide, which shall be the property of the corporation. Any person who has the qualifications which the corporate body prescribes, may become a member thereof by signing his name to such copy. (R. S. Sec. 3241; March 16, 1887, 84 v. 85; May 15, 1886, 83 v. 168; R. S. 1880.)

Whether compliance with this section is indispensable to legal organization of the corporation quaere.

State v. Burial Assn., 8 C. C. n. s. 233, 248, 249; 18 C. D. 397 (1906);

(Dismissed by Sup. Ct. for want of jurisdiction, 4 O. L. R. 708).
This section applies to religious societies.

3 Opins. Attys. Gen. 333.

Contract of membership, what constitutes.

See notes to §§ 9468 and 9427.

Corporations not for profit, such as hospitals, country clubs, etc., which regularly employ five or more workmen, are "employers" within the meaning of the workmen's compensation law. Rep. Atty. Gen. 1914, p. 292.

Articles of incorporation. The articles of incorporation of a social club should not include in the purpose clause the terms "for mutual protection and relief," as such terms are used in the statutes to describe certain insurance business.

Rep. Atty. Gen. 1911-1912, p. 65.

Property rights of members. A member of a corporation not for profit has no severable right in its property but merely the enjoyment and use of it while he remains a member. On his withdrawal or expulsion he is not entitled to a proportionate share of the property.

Hershiser v. Williams, 24 W. L. B. 314; 4 L. D. 17 (1890); affirmed, 6 C. C. 147; 3 C. D. 389 (1892); 53 O. S. 663.

Gasely v. Separatists Soc. of Zoar, 13 O. S. 144 (1862).

Wiswell v. First Cong. Church, 14 O. S. 31 (1863).

Secession. Members who secede from a corporation not for profit forfeit all right to its property. But the members may, by agreement, separate into two bodies and divide the property.

Wiswell v. First Cong. Church, 14 O. S. 31 (1863).

M. E. Church v. Wood, 5 Ohio 283 (1831).

Ex parte Shoup, 16 W. L. B. 71 (C. P.).

Rike v. Floyd, 6 C. C. 80 (1891); aff'd, no rep., 53 O. S. 653.

Sale of real estate. The trustees of a religious society have no power to dispose of its real estate without the consent of its members and without authority of court under § 10051.

South Kenton, etc., Assn. v. Espy, 17 C. C. 524; 9 C. D. 695 (1899).

Liability of members. Members of a corporation not for profit are not individually liable for its debts.

See § 8666.

Myers v. Jenkins, 63 O. S. 101 (1900).

EXPULSION OF MEMBERS.

Power of corporation to expel. A corporation not for profit has inherent power to expel a member for conduct detrimental to its welfare.

State v. Aurora Relief Soc., 2 W. L. B. 125 (Dist. Ct. 1877).

Hershiser v. Williams, 24 W. L. B. 314; 4 L. D. 17 (1890); affirmed, 6 C. C. 147; 3 C. D. 389; 53 O. S. 663.

State v. Society, 8 Am. L. R. 627; 5 W. L. B. 124.

Blumenthal v. Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce, 9 W. L. B. 76 (Dist. Ct.); affirming 7 W. L. B. 327.

When organized with a capital stock a corporation not for profit may expel a member who is a stockholder.

Cheney v. Ketcham, 5 N. P. 139, 140; 7 L. D. 183.

A corporation for profit, however, can not legally provide, in its regulations, for the expulsion or suspension of its stockholders. Paxson v. Cleveland, etc., Co., 17 C. C. n. s. 55 (1909); Rep. Atty. Gen. 1911-1912, p. 88.

Grounds. Causes specified in regulations or constitution. The members of a corporation are bound by the provisions of its regulations or constitution, and may be expelled or suspended for any cause specified therein.

Blumenthal v. Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce, 7 W. L. B. 327; affirmed, 9 W. L. B. 76 (Dist. Ct.).

State v. Verein, 3 W. L. B. 295 (Dist. Ct. 1878).

Hershiser v. Williams, 24 W. L. B. 314; 4 L. D. 17 (1890); affirmed, 6 C. C. 147; 3 C. D. 389; 53 O. S. 663.

Pete v. Woodmen of the World, 5 C. C. n. s. 446; 16 C. D. 653 (1904); aff'd, no rep., 74 O. S. 445.

Causes not specified. In the absence of a provision in the regulations a member may be expelled (1) for an indictable offense which renders him unfit for association, or (2) for an offense against his duty as a member of the corporation.

State v. Aurora Relief Soc., 2 W. L. B. 125 (Dist. Ct. 1877).

State v. Society, 8 Am. L. R. 627; 5 W. L. B. 124 (Dist. Ct.).

Hershiser v. Williams, 24 W. L. B. 314; 4 L. D. 17 (1890); affirmed, 6 C. C. 147; 3 C. D. 389; 53 O. S. 663.

Blumenthal v. Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce, 9 W. L. B. 76; affirming 7 W. L. B. 327.

Immoral or vicious conduct is a valid ground for the expulsion of a member of a social, fraternal or religious society.

State v. Aurora Relief Soc., 2 W. L. B. 125 (Dist. Ct. 1877).

"Unmercantile conduct," consisting of making sales by false weight, is a valid ground for the expulsion of a member of a chamber of commerce.

Blumenthal v. Chamber of Commerce, 9 W. L. B. 76 (Dist. Ct.); affirming 7 W. L. B. 327.

See § 10144.

Unmasonic conduct.

Hershiser v. Williams, 24 W. L. B. 314; 4 L. D. 17 (1890); affirmed, 6 C. C. 147; 3 C. D. 389; 53 O. S. 663.

Expulsion of members of fraternal benefit societies, see note to § 9468.

Trial. A member can not be expelled without a trial, even where the regulations contain no provisions on the subject. Reasonable notice of the trial must be given him and an opportunity afforded for him to present his defense.

State v. Bryce, 7 Ohio (pt. 2) 82 (1836).

Munsel v. Boyd, 10 C. C. n. s. 121; 20 C. D. 182 (1907).

Schwartz v. Catholic Union, 9 C. C. n. s. 337; 19 C. D. 471 (1907).

Cheney v. Ketcham, 5 N. P. 139; 7 L. D. 183.

Stein v. Sherlock, 6 W. L. B. 203 (Dist. Ct. 1881).

The provisions of the regulations, if any, relating to proceedings for expulsion must be followed.

State v. Bryce, 7 Ohio (pt. 2) 82 (1836).

Foxhever v. Order of Red Cross, 2 C. C. n. s. 394; 14 C. D. 56 (1901); aff'd, no rep., 68 O. S. 717.

But such provisions may be waived by the member on trial.

State v. Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce, 4 N. P. 244; 6 L. D. 363.

Blumenthal v. Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce, 9 W. L. B. 76 (Dist. Ct.).

Where the regulations or constitution provide for a committee or board to hear and determine charges, the trial should be held before such special tribunal.

Stein v. Sherlock, 6 W. L. B. 203 (Dist. Ct. 1881).

Blumenthal v. Chamber of Commerce, 9 W. L. B. 76; affirming 7 W. L. B. 327.

Where the regulations do not provide for such a tribunal the trial must be held before the members of the corporation.

Cheney v. Ketcham, 5 N. P. 139; 7 L. D. 183.

The person by whom charges have been filed against the accused member can not act as judge or vote.

Cheney v. Ketcham, 5 N. P. 139; 7 L. D. 183.

The strictness of judicial proceedings is not required either in the wording of the charges against the accused member, or in the notice given him, or in the admission of evidence.

Blumenthal v. Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce, 9 W. L. B. 76 (Dist. Ct.); affirming 7 W. L. B. 327.
 State v. Aurora Relief Society, 2 W. L. B. 125 (Dist. Ct. 1877).

Remedies for wrongful expulsion. A member unlawfully expelled may bring an action for damages against the corporation.

State v. Slavovska Lipa, 28 O. S. 665 (1876).

Fraternal Mystic Circle v. State, 61 O. S. 628 (1899); reversing 9 C. C. 364; 6 C. D. 385.

An injunction against wrongful exclusion may be granted where the remedy at law is inadequate.

Cheney v. Ketcham, 5 N. P. 139; 7 L. D. 183.

State v. Zesch, 5 N. P. 274; 7 L. D. 298.

Mandamus is not a proper remedy.

Fraternal Mystic Circle v. State, 61 O. S. 628 (1899); reversing 9 C. C. 364; 6 C. D. 385.

A member of a chamber of commerce who is suspended until he submits to a public reprimand is not confronted by an irreparable injury with no adequate remedy at law.

Bishop v. Cincinnati, etc., Exchange, 5 N. P. 365.

Remedies within corporation must be exhausted before suit. A member against whom charges are preferred must submit to trial by the corporation. An injunction will not be granted against a threatened expulsion. The court will presume that a fair trial will be had within the corporation.

Hershiser v. Williams, 6 C. C. 147; 3 C. D. 389 (1892); aff'd, no rep., 53 O. S. 663.

Where a member has been wrongfully expelled he can not maintain an action until he has exhausted all the remedies within the corporation. If appellate tribunals exist in the corporation, he must carry his appeal to the highest tribunal.

Hershiser v. Williams, 6 C. C. 147; 3 C. D. 389 (1892); aff'd, no rep., 53 O. S. 663.

State v. Knights of Golden Rule, 10 W. L. B. 2 (Dist. Ct. 1883).

Catholic Union v. Herron, 4 O. L. R. 686; 17 L. D. 789 (1907).

Myers v. Jenkins, 63 O. S. 101 (1900).

Supreme Court Foresters v. Herlinger, 6 C. C. n. s. 28; 17 C. D. 151 (1905).

Klein v. Amazon Lodge, 16 C. C. n. s. 606 (1907).

But where the expulsion is void, as in the case of expulsion without a trial, the member may sue without resorting to the appellate tribunals.

Cheney v. Ketcham, 5 N. P. 139; 7 L. D. 183.

See dissenting opinion, Catholic Union v. Herron, 4 O. L. R. 686; 17 L. D. 789 (1907).

And where the corporation has no appellate tribunal, a member claiming sick benefits may bring suit. St. John Soc. v. Zoulek, 20 C. C. n. s. 146 (1912).

While a member must first exhaust his remedies within the corporation, he can not be denied the right to sue in court. A corporate regulation prohibiting resort to the courts is invalid. Myers v. Jenkins, 63 O. S. 101 (1900); Railway v. Stankard, 56 O. S. 224 (1897).

Pleading. The better practice is for the plaintiff to set out in his petition the existence of tribunals within the corporation and to aver that he has exhausted all such remedies. But the existence of appellate tribunals within the corporation, and failure to resort thereto, may be alleged in the answer.

Myers v. Jenkins, 63 O. S. 101, 116 (1900).

See Webster v. Taplin Rice & Co., 9 C. C. n. s. 587; 19 C. D. 543 (1904); aff'd, 76 O. S. 590.

Judicial relief granted when. Judicial relief will not be granted unless civil or property rights are involved.

Hershiser v. Williams, 24 W. L. B. 314; 4 L. D. 17 (1890); affirmed, 6 C. C. 147; 3 C. D. 389; 53 O. S. 663.

When such a right exists, relief will be granted where the expulsion has been brought about by fraud.

Kent v. Odd Fellows, etc., Assn., 14 W. L. B. 237 (C. P. 1885).

Or where a member has been expelled without a trial.

Cheney v. Ketcham, 5 N. P. 139; 7 L. D. 183 (C. P.).

A court will not, as a rule, sit as a reviewing court upon the judgment of a corporate tribunal. An expulsion will not be set aside for irregularity in the proceedings, providing the cause is one for which the corporation may expel, and the accused member had notice of the trial and opportunity to defend.

State v. Aurora Relief Society, 2 W. L. B. 125 (Dist. Ct. 1887).

Hershiser v. Williams, 24 W. L. B. 314; 4 L. D. 17 (1890); affirmed, 6 C. C. 147; 3 C. D. 389; 53 O. S. 663.

State v. Verein, 3 W. L. B. 295 (Dist. Ct. 1878).

State v. Cincinnati, etc., Exchange, 4 N. P. 244; 6 L. D. 263.

Bishop v. Cincinnati, etc., Exchange, 5 N. P. 365.

The admission of hearsay evidence does not invalidate a conviction.

Blumenthal v. Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce, 9 W. L. B. 76 (Dist. Ct.); affirming, 7 W. L. B. 327.

Even where a member was expelled without notice or opportunity to defend, he was refused reinstatement where it clearly appeared that he had forfeited his right to membership and, if reinstated, would at once be expelled by formal proceedings.

State v. Society, 8 Am. L. R. 627; 5 W. L. B. 124.

See State v. Verein, 3 W. L. B. 295 (Dist. Ct. 1878).

Acquiescence in expulsion. A member of a fraternal benefit society, although wrongfully expelled, will be held to have acquiesced in the action taken, where he did not appeal therefrom, apply for reinstatement, and did not thereafter pay or tender dues, attend meetings or otherwise act as a member. After his death there can be no recovery on his benefit certificate or policy.

Foxhever v. Order of Red Cross, 2 C. C. n. s. 394; 14 C. D. 56 (1901); aff'd, no rep., 68 O. S. 717.

Dimmer v. Catholic Knights, 22 C. C. 366; 12 C. D. 413 (1901).

Herron v. Catholic Union, 2 O. L. R. 352; 15 L. D. 703 (1904); s. c., 4 O. L. R. 686; 17 L. D. 789.

Suspension of members. A member of a beneficial association is bound by a provision in its regulations to the effect that failure to pay dues and assessments, when due, shall ipso facto suspend the delinquent from membership.

Pete v. Woodmen of the World, 5 C. C. n. s. 446; 16 C. D. 653 (1904); aff'd, no rep., 74 O. S. 445.

But where the regulations do not provide that non-payment of dues shall ipso facto suspend the delinquent, his membership continues until he is suspended by formal proceedings. Schwartz v. Union, 21 C. C. n. s. 165 (1907).

Section 8654. (Members of a religious, secret or benevolent society.) When the incorporators of such a corporation now or hereafter formed, are or become members of a church, religious, secret or benevolent society, and have signed or sign articles to incorporate either thereof, any person who is or becomes a member of such church, religious, secret or benevolent society, in good standing, thereby shall be a member of such corporation, with the right to vote at all of its meetings for the election of officers or for any other purpose. (R. S. Sec. 3241; March 16, 1887, 84 v. 85; May 15, 1886, 83 v. 168; R. S. 1880.)

Where membership in a specified church is one of the qualifications of membership in a benefit society, a member of the society, on withdrawal from the church, becomes liable to expulsion.

State v. Society, 8 Am. L. R. 627; 5 W. L. B. 124 (Dist. Ct.).

Power of majority. A majority of the members of a religious corporation have a right to control the use and occupation of land purchased by it. They do not lose such right of control by any supposed error of doctrine.

Keyser v. Stansifer, 6 Ohio 363 (1834).

Brundage v. Deardorf, 92 Fed. 214 (C. C. A. 1899).

Voting rights. Where in a special charter of a religious corporation the right to vote was granted to "each member," a further provision giving to pew owners the privileges of membership was held not to restrict the right of voting to them.

Wiswell v. First Cong. Church, 14 O. S. 31 (1863).

Membership in mutual protective association. After a mutual protective association has been formed under § 9427 et seq., its members are those mutually engaged in promoting the purposes of the organization and who, by virtue of their relation to the corporation, are entitled to protection.

State v. Standard Life Assn., 38 O. S. 281 (1882).

Section 8655. (Election.) Except as otherwise provided, a majority of the subscribers to articles of incorporation not for profit, may elect not less than five trustees for such corporation, to hold their offices until the next annual meeting, or until their successors are elected and qualified. (R. S. Sec. 3240; May 10, 1902, 95 v. 547; April 6, 1888, 85 v. 166; March 26, 1883, 80 v. 79; April 20, 1881, 78 v. 200; R. S. 1880.)

Qualifications of trustees. See § 8661.

Powers and duties of trustees. See § 8660.

Liability of trustees. See § 8666.

Neither the incorporators nor the trustees first elected are authorized to adopt a by-law or regulation providing that they shall hold office during life, and in case of vacancy to fill the same by appointment.

State v. Standard Life Assn., 38 O. S. 281 (1882).

The provisions of § 8647 relating to the time of annual meetings apply to corporations not for profit.

State v. Standard Life Assn., 38 O. S. 281 (1882).

Validity of election; procedure to determine.

See note to § 8647.

Articles of incorporation of a religious society which recited the election of the incorporators as trustees, prior to filing the articles, were refused filing by the secretary of state.

3 Opins. Attys. Gen. 699.

Section 8656. (Term and number of trustees.) Religious corporations, and institutions incorporated for the purpose of promoting education, science or art, may prescribe the time trustees thereof may hold their offices, except that the term of none shall exceed in number of years the number of its trustees. (R. S. Sec. 3240; May 10, 1902, 95 v. 547; April 6, 1888, 85 v. 166; March 26, 1883, 80 v. 79; April 20, 1881, 78 v. 200, R. S. 1880.)

Powers of trustees of religious corporations. See note to § 10013.

The tenure of office of a trustee of a religious corporation may be terminated by the members, at a meeting properly called and held, before the expiration of the term for which he was elected.

Munsel v. Boyd, 10 C. C. n. s. 121; 20 C. D. 182 (1907).

See note to § 8647.

Section 8657. (Term and number of trustees in secret or benevolent order.) Lodges, societies, or bodies of a secret or benevolent order, incorporated under the laws of this state, may elect such number of trustees not less than three as the laws or regulations governing such lodge, society, or body, provides, and their election shall be at the time therein specified. (R. S. Sec. 3240; May 10, 1902, 95 v. 547; April 6, 1888, 85 v. 166; March 26, 1883, 80 v. 79; April 20, 1881, 78 v. 200; R. S. 1880.)

The trustees of a fraternal beneficial association, elected for the first year, have no right to adopt regulations, but they have a right to adopt by-laws relating to the conduct of its business.

Chevaliers v. Shearer, 6 C. C. n. s. 587; 17 C. D. 509 (1905).

Section 8658. (Term and number of trustees of a hospital.) Members of any corporation heretofore or hereafter organized for the purpose of owning and conducting a hospital for sick and disabled persons, may provide for the election of a board of not less than five nor more than fifteen trustees, to serve during life, and that in case of vacancy in such board by death, resignation or otherwise, the remaining members thereof shall fill the vacancy. (R. S. Sec. 3240; May 10, 1902, 95 v. 547; April 6, 1888, 85 v. 166; March 26, 1883, 80 v. 79; April 20, 1881, 78 v. 200; R. S. 1880.)

Section 8659. (Trustees of corporations organized prior to May 10th, 1902.) If such corporation was organized prior to May 10th, 1902, regulations providing that its trustees are to hold office during life may be adopted at an annual meeting, or a special meeting of the association, duly and regularly called. But notice of such proposed change shall be published for three successive weeks in some newspaper published and of general circulation at the place where such hospital is located. (R. S. Sec. 3240; May 10, 1902, 95 v. 547; April 6, 1888, 85 v. 166; March 26, 1883, 80 v. 79; April 20, 1881, 78 v. 200; R. S. 1880.)

DIRECTORS AND TRUSTEES.

Section 8660. (Controlling body of a corporation.) The corporate powers, business and property of corporations formed under this title shall be exercised, conducted, and controlled by the board of directors; or, if there is no capital stock, by the board of trustees. (R. S. Sec. 3248; R. S. 1880.)

First election of directors. § 8636 and note.

Annual elections. § 8647 and note.

Term of office, resignation, removal, etc., see note to § 8647.

Qualifications of directors. §§ 8661, 8663.

I. Meetings.

- A. Directors must act as a board, p. 1012.
- B. Notice of meetings, p. 1012.
- C. Quorum, p. 1012.
- D. Proceedings and minutes, p. 1013.

II. De facto directors or officers, p. 1013.

III. Duties of directors.

- A. Are largely supervisory, p. 1014.
- B. To keep books, p. 1014.
- C. To supervise issue of certificates of stock, p. 1014.
- D. To advance personal funds to corporation, p. 1014.
- E. When director charged with knowledge of contents of corporate records and books, p. 1014.
- F. Where corporation insolvent, p. 1015.
- G. Delegation of duties to executive committee, p. 1015.
- H. Delegation of powers by directors in general, p. 1015.
- I. Trust relation of directors to stockholders, p. 1016.

IV. Powers of directors.

- A. Controlling body of corporation, p. 1016.
- B. Control of directors by stockholders, p. 1016.
- C. Control of directors by court on application of stockholders, p. 1017.
- D. Contracts limiting powers of directors, p. 1017.
- E. Power to dispose of unissued stock, p. 1018.
- F. To sell property, p. 1018.
- G. To bring or defend suits, p. 1018.
- H. To authorize bankruptcy proceedings, p. 1018.

- I. To make assignment for creditors, p. 1018.
- J. To release subscriptions to stock, p. 1018.
- V. Corporate contracts.
 - A. Power to make is vested in directors, p. 1018.
 - B. Authority of agents to contract, p. 1018.
 - C. Authority of agent to contract, how conferred, p. 1019.
 - D. Refusal to perform contracts, p. 1020.
 - E. Stockholder not authorized to act for corporation, p. 1020.
 - F. Receiver, p. 1020.
 - G. Contract should be in name of corporation, p. 1020.
- VI. Presumptions and burden of proof as to authority of officers and agents.
 - A. Authority conferred by statute, p. 1021.
 - B. Authority conferred by regulations, p. 1021.
 - C. Deeds and instruments under corporate seal, p. 1021.
 - D. Promissory notes, p. 1021.
 - E. Chattel mortgage, p. 1021.
 - F. Verbal statements, admissions, p. 1022.
 - G. Notice to corporation, p. 1022.
- VII. Duty of person dealing with agent to inquire as to action of directors, p. 1022.
- VIII. Fraudulent acts of agents or officers. Liability of corporation, p. 1022.
- IX. Notice to corporation.
 - A. Knowledge of executive officer or agent, p. 1023.
 - B. Knowledge of director, p. 1023.
- X. Contracts between directors and corporation.
 - A. In general, p. 1024.
 - B. Liability to corporation for profits, p. 1024.
 - C. Directors fixing their own salaries as executive officers, p. 1025.
 - D. Purchases of stock by directors, p. 1025.
- XI. When directors may act for two corporations, p. 1026.
- XII. Contract by director with third person, with reference to his official action, p. 1026.
- XIII. Corporate contract with a board of education or other public body, where public official is a stockholder or director, p. 1027.
- XIV. When stockholder may sue on behalf of corporation.
 - A. In general, p. 1027.
 - B. Suits against officers of corporation. Rescission of fraudulent contracts, etc., p. 1028.
 - C. Interference with directors' management, p. 1028.
 - D. Injunction or receiver, p. 1028.
 - E. Pleading and practice. Demand on directors to bring suit, p. 1029.
 - F. Plaintiffs, p. 1030.
 - G. Defendants, p. 1030.
 - H. Venue, p. 1030.
 - I. Judgment, p. 1031.
 - J. Attorney fees, p. 1031.

K. Defenses.

- (a) Acquiescence of stockholders in acts complained of, p. 1031.
- (b) Statute of limitations, p. 1031.
- (c) Laches of stockholder, p. 1031.
- (d) Offer to sell stock, p. 1031.
- (e) Estoppel, p. 1032.
- (f) Motive of stockholder. Suit not brought in good faith, p. 1032.
- (g) That stockholder's interest is small, p. 1032.
- (h) That some defendants have been directors longer than others, p. 1032.
- (i) Settlement, p. 1033.

L. Right of a stockholder to defend action against corporation, p. 1033.

M. Right of stockholder to appeal from, or prosecute error proceeding to, judgment against corporation, p. 1033.

XV. Right of creditors to sue, p. 1033.

XVI. Liability of officers and agents.

A. To the corporation.

- (a) Secret profits from contracts with corporation, p. 1033.
- (b) Negligence, p. 1033.
- (c) Corporate property wrongfully converted by director, p. 1034.
- (d) Accounting for corporate property, p. 1034.

B. Liability to stockholders.

- (a) In general, p. 1034.
- (b) Shares of assets on winding up, p. 1035.
- (c) Conspiracy to depreciate price of stock, p. 1035.
- (d) Dividends, p. 1035.
- (e) Refusal to transfer stock, p. 1035.
- (f) Declaring dividends otherwise than out of surplus profits, p. 1035.
- (g) Refusal to permit inspection of corporate books, p. 1036.

C. Liability to subscribers or purchasers of stock.

- (a) Fraud in inducing subscription, p. 1036.
- (b) Bank directors attesting false statements of condition, p. 1037.
- (c) President signing "full paid" stock certificate, p. 1037.
- (d) Verbal promise of dividends to subscriber, p. 1037.

D. Liability to creditors.

- (a) Acting before ten percent of capital is subscribed, p. 1037.
- (b) Acting without authority, p. 1037.
- (c) Conducting unauthorized business, p. 1037.
- (d) On notes improperly signed, p. 1038.
- (e) On stock exchanged for property at an overvaluation, p. 1038.
- (f) Declaring dividends otherwise than out of surplus profits, p. 1038.
- (g) On guaranty of corporate debts, p. 1038.

E. Criminal liability, p. 1038.

I. MEETINGS.

A. Directors must act as a board. Individual directors, as such, have no authority to represent a corporation. To bind the corporation the directors must act together as a board.

State v. People's; etc., Assn., 42 O. S. 579 (1885).

Belting Co. v. Gibson, 68 O. S. 442, 449 (1903).

State v. Railway, 6 C. C. 412; 3 C. D. 516 (1892); s. c., 49 O. S. 668.

Schot, etc., Co. v. Security, etc., Ins. Co., 7 N. P. n. s. 548; 19 L. D. 249 (C. P. 1908); aff'd, 11 C. C. n. s. 401; 20 C. D. 656.

Tyson v. Miller-Tyson Co., 15 C. C. n. s. 177, 182, 433; 23 C. D. 418, 424 (1912).

Young, etc., Co. v. Taylor, etc., Church, 5 N. P. 378; 7 L. D. 449 (C. P. 1898).

See Ohio v. Treasurer, etc., 22 O. S. 144 (1871).

McCortle v. Bates, 29 O. S. 419, 422 (1876).

The board can not exclude minority directors from the privileges and duties of office.

State v. Railway, 6 C. C. 412; 3 C. D. 516 (1892); s. c., 49 O. S. 668.

B. Notice of meeting. Where regular meetings of the board are provided for in the by-laws, no notice thereof need be given unless notice is required by the regulations or by-laws.

Mitchell v. Bookwalter Wheel Co., 4 N. P. n. s. 609, 619 (1905); aff'd, no rep., 75 O. S. 639.

State v. Bonnell, 35 O. S. 10, 15 (1878).

State v. Clough, 18 C. C. n. s. 509 (1912); aff'd, no rep., 88 O. S. 590.

Toledo Co. v. Smith, 205 Fed. 643, 660 (D. C. 1913).

But where the directors had held no meetings for several years, and the attendance of one director was procured by fraud, and his presence was necessary to make a quorum, the meeting was held to be illegal, although held at a time specified in the by-laws. Remelin v. Bumiller, 16 N. P. n. s. 22 (1914).

Notice of special meetings should be given to all directors. But transactions at a special meeting, at which a quorum was present, may be ratified by the absent members who were not notified.

Bank v. Flour Co., 41 O. S. 552, 559 (1885).

Where a meeting is adjourned no further notice of the adjourned meeting is necessary.

Mitchell v. Bookwalter Wheel Co., 4 N. P. n. s. 609, 619 (1905); aff'd, no rep., 75 O. S. 639.

C. Quorum. A majority of the directors constitutes a quorum for the transaction of business. § 8664.

Dickason v. Grafton, etc., Co., 6 C. C. n. s. 329, 333; 17 C. D. 357 (1905); aff'd, no rep., 76 O. S. 612.

Where a quorum has assembled a majority of those present may act and bind the corporation, although a minority of the board.

Kalb v. American N. B., 21 C. C. 1, 7, 8; 11 C. D. 437 (1900); aff'd, 65 O. S. 566.

Remelin v. Bumiller, 16 N. P. n. s. 22, 30 (1914).

A director can not vote by proxy, nor in counting a quorum can he be regarded as present by proxy.

Ohio, etc., Bank v. Iron Co., 30 W. L. B. 382 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1893).

A director who is personally interested in an action taken at a meeting is disqualified and can not be counted in estimating a quorum.

Remelin v. Bumiller, 16 N. P. n. s. 22 (1914). See Rolling Stock Co. v. Railroad, 34 O. S. 450, 465 (1878).

The authorities are conflicting as to whether a director who is present, but does not vote, may be counted as a part of quorum. See Remelin v. Bumiller, 16 N. P. n. s. 22, 32 (1914).

Where the attendance of a director was obtained by fraud, and he remained to protest against proposed action, it was held that he could not be counted. Remelin v. Bumiller, 16 N. P. n. s. 22, 32 (1914). It is presumed, in the absence of evidence, that a quorum was present.

Young, etc., Co. v. Taylor, etc., Church, 5 N. P. 378, 380; 7 L. D. 449, 452 (C. P. 1898).

Where less than a quorum is present, the acts of the directors present are voidable; but may be ratified by the board either expressly or by acquiescence and delay in taking steps to avoid the same.

U. S., etc., Co. v. Atlantic, etc., Co., 34 O. S. 450 (1878).

But an approval of the minutes of such a meeting, at a subsequent meeting, is not a ratification. It is merely an approval of the form of statement or correctness of the proceedings.

Ohio, etc., Bank v. Iron Co., 30 W. L. B. 382 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1893).

D. Proceedings and minutes. A director can not vote by proxy. Ohio, etc., Bank v. Iron Co., 30 W. L. B. 382 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1893). An approval of the minutes of a previous meeting is an approval of the form of statement or correctness of the previous proceedings, but not a ratification of the action of the board.

Ohio, etc.; Bank v. Iron Co., 30 W. L. B. 382 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1893). Where an action of the board is not entered in the minutes it may be proved by parol evidence.

First N. B. v. Mansfield Sav. Bank, 10 C. C. 233, 237; 6 C. D. 454 (1895).

Dixon v. Subdistrict, etc., 3 C. C. 517; 2 C. D. 298 (1888).

C. H. & D. R. Co. v. Harter, 26 O. S. 426 (1875).

Fritsch Mfg. Co. v. Elmont, etc., Co., 11 C. C. n. s. 356; 21 C. D. 47 (1908).

Railroad v. Railroad, 233 U. S. 601 (1914).

In construing the proceedings of directors the court will examine the entire record to ascertain the intention.

Lockwood v. Wildman, 13 Ohio 430 (1844).

Where the record is ambiguous, the proceedings will be construed so as to be consistent with all other proceedings pertaining to the same subject matter.

East Cleveland R. Co. v. Everett, 19 C. C. 205; 10 C. D. 493.

A purchaser of oil company stock, who was present at a directors meeting at which the organization record was read, can not after a lapse of six months, during which a well was drilled, rescind his purchase of stock on the ground of fraud, when the record disclosed the true facts as to the alleged fraud. Hamilton v. Carr, 18 C. C. n. s. 395 (1911).

Record as evidence.

See Stillwater Turnpike Co. v. Coover, 25 O. S. 558 (1874).

Toledo, etc., Co. v. Toledo, etc., Co., 12 C. C. 367; 5 C. D. 643 (1893).

II. DE FACTO DIRECTORS OR OFFICERS.

A person who acts as a director or officer, after a supposed election or appointment, but which in fact is illegal, may bind the corporation. He may be ousted by proceedings in quo warranto. But so long as no proceeding is instituted nor objection made his acts as to third persons are binding on the corporation.

- Clarke v. Thomas, 34 O. S. 46, 58 (1877).
Campbell Pty. Press Co. v. Bellman Bros. Co., 11 C. C. 360; 5 C. D. 389 (1896).
Lattimer v. Mosaic Glass Co., 13 C. C. 163; 7 C. D. 430 (1896).
Ehrman v. Union, etc., Ins. Co., 35 O. S. 324, 339 (1880); (affirming 2 W. L. B. 3).
First Pres. Soc. v. First Pres. Soc., 25 O. S. 128, 133 (1874).
See State v. Burial Assn., 8 C. C. n. s. 233; 18 C. D. 397 (1906).
His acts can not be collaterally attacked by creditors or debtors of the corporation.
Ehrman v. Union, etc., Ins. Co., 35 O. S. 324 (1880).
Lattimer v. Mosaic Glass Co., 13 C. C. 163; 7 C. D. 430 (1896).
Raymond v. Spring Grove, etc., Co., 21 W. L. B. 103 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1889).
Nor by stockholders.
Chamberlain v. Painesville, etc., R. Co., 15 O. S. 225, 250.
Nor by other persons claiming to be the lawful directors.
Presbyterian Soc. v. Smithers, 12 O. S. 248 (1861).
A de facto board of directors may make an assignment for creditors.
Harrison v. Ellis, 15 L. D. 501 (C. P. 1905).

III. DUTIES OF DIRECTORS.

A. Are largely supervisory. The duties of directors are, to a considerable extent, supervisory. Directors are not required to devote themselves to details of the corporate business which may be left to the executive officers and to subordinate employees.

Mason v. Moore, 73 O. S. 275, 296 (1906).

Cincinnati v. Cameron, 33 O. S. 336, 364 (1878).

Glass v. Courtright, 14 N. P. n. s. 273; 23 L. D. 253 (C. P. 1913).

B. To keep books. It is the duty of directors to see that proper books and accounts are kept.

Freon v. Carriage Co., 42 O. S. 30, 40 (1884).

C. To supervise issue of certificates of stock. Directors are charged with the duty of observing care in supervising the issue of certificates of stock.

Railway Co. v. Bank, 56 O. S. 351 (1897).

D. To advance personal funds to corporation. A director is not required to finance the corporation out of his own resources, to enable it to take advantage of a favorable option, in the absence of a contract on his part to do so. Koblitz v. Brick Co., 20 C. C. n. s. 67 (1912).

E. When director charged with knowledge of contents of corporate records and books. In general directors are not held, as a matter of law, to know all its affairs or what its books would show.

Mason v. Moore, 73 O. S. 275, 296 (1906).

Pugh v. City, etc., Co., 1 N. P. n. s. 253, 257, 14 L. D. 50, 53 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1901); aff'd, 68 O. S. 730.

Murray v. Bank, 234 Fed. 481, 490 (C. C. A. Ohio 1916).

A director is not conclusively presumed to know what the dividend rate had been, in a suit for damages based on fraudulent representations relating to dividends, by which the plaintiff was induced to purchase stock in the corporation. DeGraw v. Lampert, 17 C. C. n. s. 401 (1911).

But where a director is dealing in corporate property on his own account, he is chargeable with notice of the action of the board as to such property, whether he was present or not at the meeting which took such action.

Greenville Gas Co. v. Reis, 54 O. S. 549 (1896).

A director, who continued as such for a year prior to the adjudication of insolvency of the corporation, is presumed to have acquired knowledge of the insolvency before the adjudication and where he subsequently attempted to rescind his stock subscription on the ground of fraud, he was held guilty of laches. Gill v. Printing Co., 16 C. C. n. s. 568 (1907); aff'd, no rep. 80 O. S. 742.

A purchaser of oil stock who was present at a directors meeting at which the organization record was read from the minute book, can not after a lapse of six months, during which a well was drilled, rescind his purchase of stock on the ground of fraud, when the record discloses the true facts as to the alleged fraud. Hamilton v. Carr, 17 C. C. n. s. 395 (1911).

F. Where corporation insolvent. Where a corporation becomes insolvent it is the duty of the directors to take steps to preserve the corporate property and see that it is applied to the payment of creditors' claims.

Cheney v. Maumee Cycle Co., 20 C. C. 19; 10 C. D. 717 (1900); aff'd, 64 O. S. 205.

G. Delegation of duties to executive committee. The supervision and control of transactions in the usual course of business may be delegated to an executive committee of the board.

Lutterby v. Herancourt Brewing Co., 12 L. D. 67, 74 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1901).

See Bank v. Iron Co., 30 W. L. B. 382 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1893).

Whether powers involving discretion may be delegated to a committee composed of directors has not been decided in Ohio.

In other jurisdictions the authorities are conflicting but it is said that, by weight of authority, such powers may be so delegated and that the acts and contracts authorized by such committee are binding.

Cook on Corporations, § 715.

Thompson on Corporations, § 1207 (2d ed.).

Lutterby v. Herancourt Brewing Co., 12 L. D. 67, 74 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1901).

An executive committee should transact its business at a meeting of which all members should have reasonable notice.

Hayes v. Canada, etc., Co., 181 Fed. 289 (C. C. A. 1910).

Executive committee of bank directors, see § 710-62.

H. Delegation of powers by directors in general. The powers of directors can not be delegated except to a committee of directors. A corporation can not enter into partnership for the reason that the powers of directors would thereby be delegated to third persons.

Miller, etc., Co. v. Laidlaw, etc., Co., 4 N. P. n. s. 554; 17 L. D. 499 (C. P. 1905).

Care required of directors. Negligence. The general management and supervision of the business of a corporation are committed to the directors. They are authorized to appoint executive officers and agents and may properly entrust the custody of the corporate property and books to such officers. This does not absolve the directors from the duty of reasonable supervision and the exercise of that degree of care which is exercised by ordinarily careful and prudent men acting under similar circumstances. But they are not insurers of the fidelity of the officers and agents. Where directors act with ordinary care, they are not liable for losses caused by dishonest or wrongful acts of such officers or agents.

Directors are not, as a rule, required to devote themselves to the details of the business.

Directors of a corporation are not held, as a matter of law, to know all its affairs, or what its books and papers would show, and such knowledge can not be imputed to them for the purpose of charging them with liability.

Mason v. Moore, 73 O. S. 275, 296 (1906).

See Kalb v. American N. B., 21 C. C. 1; 11 C. D. 437; aff'd, 65 O. S. 566.

Glass v. Courtwright, 14 N. P. n. s. 273; 23 L. D. 253 (C. P. 1913).

Directors are not liable for errors or mistakes occurring while they are acting in good faith and in accordance with their best judgment as reasonably prudent men.

Baldwin v. Egan, 5 O. L. R. 476 (1907); aff'd, 11 C. C. n. s. 584.

See below Liability of officers and agents.

I. Trust relation of directors to stockholders. Directors occupy a fiduciary relation to the stockholders and are accountable to them on principles governing that relationship. Thomas v. Matthews, 94 O. S. 32 (1916). See also, 12 O. L. R. 619. Article by W. P. Rogers.

See also note to § 8684.

Officers do not occupy a fiduciary relation toward a purchaser of their individual stock.

Cook v. Henderson, 8 Am. L. R. 429 (Dist. Ct. 1879).

IV. POWERS OF DIRECTORS.

A. Controlling body of corporation. Section 8660 constitutes the directors acting as a board the controlling body of a corporation.

Bradford Belting Co. v. Gibson, 68 O. S. 442 (1903).

Sims v. Street Railroad Co., 37 O. S. 556 (1882).

Goodin v. Evans, 18 O. S. 150 (1868).

The corporate powers which are exercised by the directors are those which pertain to the ordinary transactions of the corporation. Directors can not make fundamental changes in the composition or business of the corporation.

Mannington v. H. V. Ry. Co., 9 N. P. n. s. 641, 684; 20 L. D. 468 (1910); removed to U. S. Ct., 8 O. L. R. 451; 16 O. F. D. 552.

Chicago City Railway Co. v. Allerton, 18 Wall. (U. S.) 233 (1874).

B. Control of directors by stockholders. The stockholders can not control the board of directors in its management of corporate affairs (except as to acts which by statute require ratification by stockholders. See §§ 8709, 8710 to 8718, 8699, 8720). Majority stockholders at a meeting can not take charge of the corporate business, or withdraw it from the control of the directors.

Dayton, etc., R. Co. v. Hatch, 1 Dis. 84, 91 (Cin. Super. Ct. 1855).

See Sims v. Street Railroad Co., 37 O. S. 556 (1882).

Donner v. Dayton, etc., R. Co., 1 C. S. C. R. 130, 140-141 (1871).

Stewart v. Little Miami, etc., Co., 14 Ohio 353, 357 (1846).

Oldham v. Munitions Co., 23 N. P. n. s. 77.

Ownership of the majority of the stock is not legal control of the corporation. Toledo Co. v. Smith, 205 Fed. 643, 673 (D. C. 1913).

Where the directors have declared a dividend out of surplus profits, the stockholders have no power to rescind such action.

Mitchell v. Bookwalter Wheel Co., 4 N. P. n. s. 609; 17 L. D. 483 (C. P. 1905); aff'd, no rep., 75 O. S. 639.

A cognovit note executed by the president of a corporation without authority from the directors, is not rendered valid by the fact that the president was the owner of a majority of the stock.

Smead Foundry Co. v. Chesbrough, 18 C. C. 783, 787; 6 C. D. 670 (1895).

But stockholders may at a special meeting under § 8665 increase the number of directors.

See Gold Bluff, etc., Corp. v. Whitlock, 75 Conn. 669 (1903).

In re Griffing Iron Co., 63 N. J. L. 168, 357 (1898).

Under some circumstances a corporation may be bound by the action of all of its stockholders. See note to § 8627.

C. Control of directors by court on application of stockholders. A court of equity will not interfere with the board of directors in its management and control of corporate affairs, on the application of stockholders, while the board is acting within the scope of its authority, and in the absence of fraud or breach of trust.

Sims v. Street Railroad Co., 37 O. S. 556 (1882).

Coss v. Mansfield Lodge, 4 C. C. n. s. 11; 14 C. D. 36 (1902).

Koblitz v. W. R. U., 21 C. C. 144; 11 C. D. 515 (1901).

De Lacroix v. Eid, etc., Co., 8 N. P. n. s. 489; 19 L. D. 767 (1909).

A stockholder can not sue to enforce an active duty within the powers of directors.

Port Clinton, etc., R. Co. v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 13 O. S. 544, 561 (1862).

But a breach of trust may be prevented by injunction or a receivership.

Port Clinton, etc., R. Co. v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 13 O. S. 544, 561 (1862).

C. H. & D. R. Co. v. Duckworth, 2 C. C. 518; 1 C. D. 618 (1887).

See infra When stockholder may sue on behalf of corporation.

A court of equity will not interfere, at the suit of a stockholder who is acting for a competitor, to prevent directors from cutting prices or from exercising their discretion with respect thereto.

Kuhn v. Woolson Spice Co., 13 C. C. 547; 7 C. D. 289 (1897).

D. Contracts limiting powers of directors. A contract, made by a director of a corporation, that limits or restricts him in the free exercise of his judgment or discretion, or that places him under direct and powerful inducements to disregard his duties to the corporation, its creditors and other stockholders, in the management of its corporate affairs, is against public policy and void. Thomas v. Matthews, 94 O. S. 32 (1916).

A provision in a consolidation agreement which prohibits the consolidated company from issuing bonds, or making leases which entail fixed charges, without the consent of a majority in interest of holders of preferred stock, is not in conflict with § 8660.

Burke v. Cleveland, etc., Ry. Co., 22 W. L. B. 11 (C. P. 1889).

A contract for a term of years, extending beyond the term of office of the directors by whom it is made, is valid and binding upon future directors.

Railroad Co. v. Furnace Co., 37 O. S. 321 (1881).

Compare Port Clinton, etc., R. Co. v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 13 O. S. 544, 560 (1862).

The powers of directors can not be delegated, except to a committee composed of directors. A corporation can not enter into partnership for the reason that the powers of the directors would thereby be delegated to third persons.

Miller, etc., Co. v. Laidlaw-Gordon Co., 4 N. P. n. s. 554; 17 L. D. 499 (C. P. 1907).

See note to § 8627. Power to enter into partnership.

E. Power to dispose of unissued stock. The directors have power to dispose of the stock which remains unsubscribed after their election. Sims v. Street Railroad Co., 37 O. S. 565 (1882).

See note to § 8630. Disposition of stock by corporation after election of directors.

F. To sell property. Directors have the right to sell corporate property.

Donner v. Dayton, etc., R. Co., 1 C. S. C. R. 130, 140 (1871).

But a sale of the entire property of a corporation must be ratified by the stockholders.

See §§ 8710 to 8718.

The trustees of a religious society organized under §§ 8653 and 8654 have no power to dispose of its real estate without the consent of its members and without authority of the court.

South Kenton, etc., Assn. v. Espy, 17 C. C. 524; 9 C. D. 695 (1899).

G. To bring or defend suits. The power to bring or dispose of suits is vested in the board of directors.

Wadsworth v. Davis, 13 O. S. 123, 130 (1862).

For authority of president to bring suit see

Kalb v. American N. B., 21 C. C. 1; 11 C. D. 437 (1900); aff'd, no rep., 65 O. S. 566.

The employment and discharge of attorneys is vested in the directors. Toledo Co. v. Smith, 205 Fed. 643, 661 (D. C. (1913)).

H. To authorize bankruptcy proceedings. Directors may authorize the filing of a voluntary petition in bankruptcy. In re Mfg. & Sales Co., 246 Fed. 1005; 16 O. L. R. 163 (D. C. Ohio 1917); In re De Camp Co., 272 Fed. 558 (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1921).

I. To make assignment for creditors. The directors of an insolvent corporation may make an assignment for creditors.

Commercial N. B. v. Cincinnati N. B., 3 C. C. 513, 517; 2 C. D. 295 (1889).

(De facto directors) Harrison v. Ellis, 15 L. D. 501 (C. P. 1905).

See Keystone Bank v. Union Oil Co., 2 C. C. n. s. 420; 15 C. D. 464. (Foreign corporation. Assignment authorized by stockholders.)

A fraudulent assignment for creditors made by directors, against the interest of stockholders, may be vacated in a stockholders' suit.

Home & Sav. Assn. v. Jones, 64 O. S. 147 (1901).

Collins v. Williamson, 229 Fed. 59 (C. C. A. Ohio 1915); s. c., 243 Fed. 835.

An assignment may also be vacated at the instance of stockholders upon their giving a bond to pay all the corporate debts.

Harrison v. Ellis, 15 L. D. 501 (C. P. 1905).

J. To release subscriptions to stock.

See notes to §§ 8630, 8674.

V. CORPORATE CONTRACTS.

A. Power to make is vested in directors. The power of making contracts on behalf of a corporation rests in the board of directors.

Bradford Belting Co. v. Gibson, 68 O. S. 442 (1903).

B. Authority of agents to contract. Corporate contracts are usually negotiated and executed by executive officers or agents, but the authority of such an officer or agent should in some manner be traced to the board of directors.

Bradford Belting Co. v. Gibson, 68 O. S. 442 (1903).
 Minor v. Board of Control, 20 C. C. 4; 11 C. D. 16 (1899).
 Tyson v. Miller-Tyson Co., 15 C. C. n. s. 177, 182; 23 C. D. 418, 424 (1912).

See note to § 8664. Executive officers. Powers.

In the absence of express authority, and of such a course of dealing with the world as clearly implies authority to do a controverted act, a corporation can be bound only by its board of directors.

Bradford Belting Co. v. Gibson, 68 O. S. 442 (1903).

A salesman for a corporation engaged in the sale of building materials has no authority to execute a release of a mechanics lien for materials sold by him. Scallan v. Lammers, 14 Ohio App. 130 (1921).

Whether the attorney of record of a corporation may bind the corporation by signing an injunction bond without special authority was discussed but not decided in Grossner v. State, 17 C. C. n. s. 72 (1909); aff'd, no rep. 85 O. S. 312, 318.

C. Authority of agent to contract. How conferred. Authority may be conferred upon an executive officer or agent by the directors expressly in the by-laws or by motion or resolution.

Dickason v. Grafton, etc., Co., 6 C. C. n. s. 329, 332, 333; 17 C. D. 357 (1905); aff'd, 76 O. S. 612.

Kalb v. American N. B., 21 C. C. 1, 7; 11 C. D. 437 (1900); aff'd, 65 O. S. 566.

When express authority to issue negotiable paper is relied on, it must be clearly proved.

Bank v. Machine Co., 9 N. P. n. s. 449 (1910).

A corporation may be bound by the acts of an agent upon whom it has conferred apparent authority. An agent of a warehouse company, authorized to receive goods for storage, may bind the corporation by an agreement to effect insurance thereon.

Storage Co. v. Cbx, 74 O. S. 284 (1906).

Authority may be given informally by consent or acquiescence of the board. Unauthorized acts may be ratified by the directors.

Baldwin v. Hillsborough, etc., R. Co., 10 W. L. J. 337 (C. P. 1853).

Smead Foundry Co. v. Chesbrough, 18 C. C. 783; 6 C. D. 670 (1895).

E. Cleveland R. Co. v. Everett, 19 C. C. 205; 10 C. D. 493 (1900).

Western N. B. v. Armstrong, 152 U. S. 346; 7 O. F. D. 499 (1894).

Armstrong v. Chemical N. B., 83 Fed. 556 (1897).

Sun, etc., Assn. v. Moore, 183 U. S. 642 (1902).

Ratification may be express, by resolution, or implied from acquiescence and failure to object after knowledge of the acts.

U. S., etc., Co. v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 34 O. S. 450 (1878).

Marriott v. Columbus, etc., Co., 16 L. D. 135 (C. P. 1905); aff'd, 10 C. C. n. s. 573, 575.

Jackson v. Nelsonville Co., 6 Ohio App. 171; 27 C. C. n. s. 81 (1916).

But knowledge by two directors only is not the knowledge of the board so as to effect a ratification of an unauthorized contract.

East Cleveland R. Co. v. Everett, 19 C. C. 205; 10 C. D. 493 (1900).

A general resolution of the board commending the officers and their official conduct is not a ratification of unlawful acts of which the board had no knowledge.

Columbus, etc., Co. v. McManigal, 6 N. P. n. s. 193 (C. P. 1907).

Where a petition for a street improvement was signed by the secretary and general manager without authority, it was held that a subsequent ratification by the directors did not render the petition valid, although it would estop the corporation.

Minor v. Board of Control, 20 C. C. 4; 11 C. D. 16 (1899).

Where a corporation, for several years, received and retained benefits of a contract entered into on its behalf by its president, making no attempt to repudiate the contract and by further corporate action expressly recognized its existence its ratification was held to be established.

Coney Island Co. v. McIntyre-Paxton Co., 200 Fed. 901 (C. C. A. 1912).

Where the by-laws authorize the president to make contracts, he may bind the corporation by a ratification of a contract, entered into by the secretary, without authority. Grabler Co. v. Leahy, 18 C. C. n. s. 17 (1910); aff'd, no rep. 85 O. S. 442.

D. Refusal to perform contracts. The power of refusing to perform contracts is vested in the board of directors.

Bradford Belting Co. v. Gibson, 68 O. S. 442 (1903).

E. Stockholder not authorized to act for corporation. A stockholder as such has no authority to bind the corporation.

Hogg v. Zanesville Mfg. Co., Wright 139 (1832).

Loomis v. Eagle Bank, 1 Dis. 285, 288 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1857); aff'd, 10 O. S. 327.

State v. Liberty Township, 22 O. S. 144 (1871).

Read v. Loan Co., 68 O. S. 280 (1903).

Trevitt v. Converse, 31 O. S. 60 (1876).

Although he may own a majority of the stock.

Smead Foundry Co. v. Chesbrough, 18 C. C. 783, 787; 6 C. D. 670 (1895).

But under some circumstances the acts of all the stockholders will be regarded as corporate acts. A person who owns all the stock of a corporation may bind the corporation by a contract of sale, although made in his own name. Insurance Co. v. Brown, 16 C. C. n. s. 518 (1905). See Norris v. Dains, 52 O. S. 15 (1894).

Under a contract by all stockholders, for a sale of a part of their stock, providing that the purchasers "are in no way to assume or pay the whole or any part of any unearned interest heretofore due", which had been paid by money contributed by such stockholders, future corporate earnings cannot be used to repay such contributions to the stockholders. The corporate form can not be used as an instrument to defeat their agreement. H. V. Ry. Co. v. Toledo Co., 99 O. S. 35 (1918). See also note to § 8627. Corporation as a legal entity.

F. A receiver is not the agent of a corporation. A contract by the receiver of a railroad for coal for its use for a certain time is not binding on the railway company after his discharge.

Consolidated, etc., Co. v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 10 W. L. B. 42 (Dist. Ct. 1883).

G. Contract should be in name of corporation. The contract or conveyance of a corporation should be in the corporate name.

Norris v. Dains, 52 O. S. 215 (1894).

Although a contract in the name of an individual officer may be enforced by or against the corporation.

Commissioners v. Perry, 5 Ohio 56, 64 (1831).

State v. Mfg. Co., 22 C. C. n. s. 100 (1908).

A note signed by "H. H. F., Cashier" and by other individuals, upon a loan to a bank, the name of the bank not appearing on the note, was, upon insolvency of the bank, allowed as a claim against the assets, upon proof of minutes of a directors meeting authorizing the loan, and parol evidence in explanation of the signature of the cashier. In re Metropolitan Bank, 1 Ohio App. 409, 17 C. C. n. s. 324; 34 C. D. 381 (1913).

VI. PRESUMPTIONS AND BURDEN OF PROOF AS TO AUTHORITY OF OFFICERS AND AGENTS.

A. Authority conferred by statute. Where duties are conferred on certain officers by statute, their acts in the performance of such duties are binding on the corporation. Stock certificates, required by statute to be signed by the president and secretary, are valid in the hands of innocent purchasers although fraudulently issued.

Railway Co. v. Bank, 56 O. S. 351, 378, 388.

B. Authority conferred by regulations. See § 8704.

Bradford Belting Co. v. Gibson, 68 O. S. 442, 449.

Dickason v. Grafton, etc., Co., 6 C. C. n. s. 329, 333; 17 C. D. 357; aff'd, 76 O. S. 612.

C. Deeds and instruments under corporate seal. A deed executed in the name of a corporation by its president, under the corporate seal, is presumed to have been authorized by the directors and is prima facie valid. The mere fact that such authority is not found on the directors' minutes will not rebut the presumption.

R. R. Co. v. Harter, 26 O. S. 426 (1875).

Bank v. Flour Co., 41 O. S. 552, 557 (1885).

Sheehan v. Davis, 17 O. S. 571, 581 (1867).

Bosche v. Toledo, etc., Co., 14 C. C. 289, 295; 7 C. D. 377.

See notes to §§ 8627 and 8664.

But, when objected to, such an instrument can not be admitted in evidence without proof of its execution. The signature of the president does not prove itself, nor is it proved by the corporate seal.

Walsh v. Barton, 24 O. S. 28, 41 (1873).

D. Promissory notes. The promissory note of a corporation signed in its name by its president has been held to be prima facie valid and binding on the corporation.

Dexter Sav. Bank v. Friend, 90 Fed. 703 (C. C. Ohio 1898).

See Andres v. Morgan, 62 O. S. 236 (1900).

Security, etc., Ins. Co. v. Schott, 11 C. C. n. s. 401; aff'd, 83 O. S. 507.

But not a note payable to the president himself. There is no presumption that such a note is authorized.

In re Hartwell Furniture Co., 7 O. L. R. 555 (Ref. in Bkry. 1909).

In re Continental Iron Co., 2 O. L. R. 563 (Ref. in Bkry. 1904).

Arnkens v. Rouse, 26 W. L. B. 221 (C. P. 1891).

Compare In re Troy, etc., Co., 136 Fed. 420; aff'd, 142 Fed. 1038.

A cognovit note signed by the president is not binding on the corporation in the absence of proof of authority from the directors.

Smead Foundry Co. v. Chesbrough, 18 C. C. 783; 6 C. D. 670 (1895).

In re Metropolitan Bank, 1 Ohio App. 409; 17 C. C. n. s. 324 (1913).

But where directors, with knowledge that cognovit notes have been executed, acquiesce therein, a cognovit judgment will not be vacated. Jackson v. Nelsonville Co., 6 Ohio App. 171; 27 C. C. n. s. 81 (1916).

E. Chattel mortgage. It has been held that a chattel mortgage executed by the president and secretary of a corporation, in its name and under its corporate seal, is presumptively authorized and valid.

Bosche v. Toledo, etc., Co., 14 C. C. 289; 7 C. D. 374 (1897).

Fritsch Mfg. Co. v. Elmont, etc., Co., 11 C. C. n. s. 356; 21 C. D. 47 (1908).

F. Verbal statements. Admissions. A statement, by the secretary of a corporation, that the corporation would not perform a contract, and that he was authorized by the directors and stockholders to so state, does not bind the corporation without further evidence showing his authority. Such a statement is not prima facie evidence that the directors had decided not to perform the contract.

Bradford Belting Co. v. Gibson, 68 O. S. 442 (1903).

A stipulation in an express contract of a corporation can not be proved merely by admissions of the president made after the transaction.

National Starch Co. v. Gruner, 13 C. C. n. s. 355 (1910).

Declarations of an officer or agent are not admissible unless made while transacting business of the corporation.

Worthington v. Cleveland City Ry., 9 C. C. n. s. 433; 19 C. D. 321 (1904); aff'd, 75 O. S. 626.

A corporation is not bound by an admission made by an officer after the transaction, unless the circumstances are such as to constitute an estoppel.

Marmet Co. v. Cincinnati, 12 C. C. n. s. 225, 227 (1909).

Cincinnati, etc., Co. v. Cincinnati, 19 C. C. 607 (1899).

Loomis v. Eagle Bank, 1 Dis. 285, 288 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1857); aff'd, 10 O. S. 327.

Sloss, etc., Co. v. Smith, 11 C. C. 213; 5 C. D. 79 (1895); reversed on other grounds, 57 O. S. 518.

Admissions of individual directors are not admissible in evidence to prove a contract alleged to have been made by the board.

Dixon v. Subdistrict, etc., 3 C. C. 517; 2 C. D. 298 (1888).

Admissions of stockholders who are not officers are not admissible in evidence to charge the corporation.

Hogg v. Zanesville Mfg. Co., Wright 139 (1832).

G. Notice to corporation. Where a notice is given by mail to a corporation, it is not necessary to prove that the notice actually reached an officer authorized to contract on the subject. Hand, etc., Line v. Canada S. S. Lines, 281 Fed. 779 (C. C. A. Ohio 1922).

VII. DUTY OF PERSON DEALING WITH AGENT TO INQUIRE AS TO ACTION OF DIRECTORS.

It has been held that a person dealing with executive officers need not inquire whether the directors have met and passed a resolution authorizing the transaction, where the transaction is within the corporate powers.

Bosche v. Toledo, etc., Co., 14 C. C. 289; 7 C. D. 374 (1897).

Fritsch Mfg. Co. v. Elmont, etc., Co., 11 C. C. n. s. 356; 21 C. D. 47 (1908).

Toledo Co. v. Smith, 205 Fed. 643, 659 (D. C. 1913).

Compare Bradford Belting Co. v. Gibson, 68 O. S. 442 (1903).

VIII. FRAUDULENT ACTS OF AGENTS OR OFFICERS. LIABILITY OF CORPORATION.

Acts which are within the scope of the authority of an agent or officer are binding on the corporation as to innocent third persons, although a fraud upon the corporation.

Railway Co. v. Bank, 56 O. S. 351 (1897).

Citizens Sav. Bank v. Blakesley, 42 O. S. 645 (1885).

Orme v. Baker, 74 O. S. 337, 349, 354 (1906).

IX. NOTICE TO CORPORATION.

A. Knowledge of executive officer or agent. A corporation is charged with notice of facts which are within the knowledge of its officer or agent while such officer is engaged in corporate business which he is authorized to transact. Bank v. Burns, 88 O. S. 434 (1913).

Paul v. Caldwell Furnace Co., 7 C. C. n. s. 272; 17 C. D. 768 (1905).

Trustees v. Deposit Co., 76 O. S. 253, 265 (1907).

Burgoyne v. Clarkson, 2 W. L. J. 325 (C. P. 1845).

Holmes v. Hayes, 32 W. L. B. 346; 52 O. S. 617.

Although the agent is a special agent.

Mass, etc., Ins. Co. v. Eshelman, 30 O. S. 647 (1876).

And although the officer is acting fraudulently.

Orme v. Baker, 74 O. S. 337, 348, 354 (1906).

The knowledge of the agent becomes at once the knowledge of the corporation without any actual or constructive communication from the agent to the corporation. Bank v. Burns, 88 O. S. 434 (1913).

A corporation is chargeable with the knowledge of its president and vice-president as to defects in property purchased, as well as with knowledge of defects discovered by its superintendent. Marmet v. Peoples Co., 226 Fed. 646 (C. C. A. 1915).

A corporation is chargeable with the composite knowledge which comes to it through the channels of its several agents. It is not necessary that one agent should know all the facts.

Neal v. Union Stock Yards Co., 1 C. C. n. s. 13; 15 C. D. 299 (1903).

Where an officer sells property to the corporation, acting both for himself and the corporation, and the transaction is ratified by the corporation, his knowledge of equities affecting the title is chargeable to the corporation. Bank v. Burns, 88 O. S. 434 (1913). Contra. Alt v. Weber, 20 W. L. B. 467 (Super Ct. Cin. 1888).

The transaction must be within the authority of the officer or agent.

Railway Co. v. McCoy, 42 O. S. 251, 252 (1884).

Ashtabula, etc., Co. v. Stephenson, 12 C. D. 631.

Knowledge of the insolvency of a bank by its cashier and vice president is imputable to the bank so as to entitle a depositor to recover a deposit, although the insolvency was caused by the fraudulent acts of such officers and although the deposit was made after such officers had absconded.

Orme v. Baker, 74 O. S. 337 (1906).

Where a corporation takes over the business of another corporation, retaining the same officers, knowledge by the president, who is authorized to employ men, of a contract of employment of the old corporation is knowledge of the new corporation.

Paul v. Caldwell Furnace Co., 7 C. C. n. s. 272; 17 C. D. 768 (1905).

B. Knowledge of director. Knowledge of one director is imputed to the corporation only while he is acting official in the business of the corporation, unless he is acting under some special authority other than that of a director.

Railway Co. v. McCoy, 42 O. S. 251, 252 (1884).

Loomis v. Eagle Bank, 1 Dis. 285 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1857); s. c., 10 O. S. 327.

The knowledge of two directors is not the knowledge of the board so as to work a ratification of an unauthorized contract.

East Cleveland R. Co. v. Everett, 19 C. C. 205; 10 C. D. 493 (1900).

If the position of the director is adverse to that of the corporation the knowledge of such director can not be imputed to the corporation.

Where a bank discounted a note for one of its directors, who was also a member of its discount committee, the bank is not charged with knowledge of such director that there was a defense to the note.

Loomis v. Eagle Bank, 1 Dis. 285 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1857); s. c., 10 O. S. 327.

Antioch College v. Carroll, 25 W. L. B. 289, 294 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1890).

Saylor v. Simpson, 12 L. D. 148, 151 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1888).

But see Bank v. Burns, 88 O. S. 434 (1913).

X. CONTRACTS BETWEEN DIRECTORS AND CORPORATION.

A. In general. A contract between a corporation and its directors is not void, but merely voidable at the option of the corporation within a reasonable time.

Browne v. U. S. Board & Paper Co., 20 C. C. 351 (1900); s. c., 6 N. P. 254; 1 C. C. n. s. 345; 15 C. D. 347 (1903); 7 C. C. n. s. 15; 18 C. D. 44 (1905); aff'd, 75 O. S. 604 (1906); s. c., 4 O. L. R. 539; 17 L. D. 261 (1906).

U. S., etc., Co. v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 34 O. S. 450, 461 (1878).

Larwell v. Burke, 19 C. C. 449; 10 C. D. 579 (1900).

Where such a contract is fair and beneficial to the corporation it will not be set aside at the suit of minority stockholders.

Sims v. Street Railroad Co., 37 O. S. 556, 566 (1882).

Roth v. St. Clair, etc., Co., 13 L. D. 154 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1902).

But the relation of the directors to the corporation being a fiduciary one, entire good faith and fair dealing are required on the part of the directors.

Yeiser v. U. S. Board, etc., Co., 7 C. C. n. s. 15, 16; 18 C. D. 44; aff'd, 75 O. S. 604.

And a contract in fraud of the corporation may be set aside at the suit of a minority stockholder.

Burch v. Coan, 4 O. L. R. 731; 17 L. D. 563 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1907).

An illegal purchase of stock in other corporations, made by a corporation from its directors who owned all its capital stock, was held invalid as to creditors.

Railway Co. v. Burke, 19 W. L. B. 27 (C. P. 1887).

A contract by a manufacturing company giving the disposal of its product to a sales agency, in which some of the directors are interested, and thereby permitting them to make profits to which the corporation is entitled, may be rescinded and cancelled by the corporation.

U. S., etc., Co. v. Browne, 1 C. C. n. s. 345; 15 C. D. 347 (1903); s. c., 7 C. C. n. s. 15; 18 C. D. 44 (1905); aff'd, 75 O. S. 604.

A chattel mortgage to directors, securing a loan, authorized at a directors' meeting at which there was no quorum, excluding the mortgagees, may be ratified by the stockholders. McLean v. Bradley, 282 Fed. 1011 (D. C. Ohio 1922).

Where corporate property was bid in at a foreclosure sale by a director for less than its value, the sale was set aside by the court on the application of a bondholder, upon the giving of security that upon a resale the bondholder would bid at least a certain larger amount.

Secor v. Maumee, etc., Co., 1 N. P. 100; 1 L. D. 80 (1894).

B. Liability to corporation for profits. Secret profits made by directors in transactions with the corporation may be recovered by the corporation.

Yeiser v. U. S. Board & Paper Co., 107 Fed. 340 (C. C. A. Ohio 1901).

U. S. Board & Paper Co. v. Yeiser, 4 O. L. R. 539; 17 L. D. 261 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1906).

Where directors sell their own property to the corporation at a fraudulent overvaluation, they are liable in damages to the corporation. Shawnee, etc., Co. v. Miller, 1 C. C. n. s. 569; 14 C. D. 199 (1902). See Railway Co. v. Burke, 19 W. L. B. 27 (C. P. 1887).

C. Directors fixing their own salaries as executive officers. Where the corporate regulations authorize the directors to fix the compensation of the president, treasurer and other executive officers, action of directors in voting on their own salaries as such officers is not void, in the absence of a showing of fraud or unfair dealing toward the stockholders. Kirn v. Plumbing Co., 12 Ohio App. 55; 31 O. C. A. 47 (1919); motion to certify record overruled, 17 O. L. R. 392.

D. Purchases of stock by directors. A director may purchase unissued or treasury stock when the sale is authorized by a quorum of disinterested directors and where no action has been taken to withhold the stock from sale to other stockholders or the public.

Sims v. Street Railroad Co., 37 O. S. 556 (1882).

Taylor v. Miami Exporting Co., 6 Ohio 176, 223 (1833).

Metzler v. Laundry Co., 24 C. C. n. s. 74 (1904).

Purchases below par by directors have been sustained as against other stockholders, where the corporation was pressed for money to continue business, and the stock had been previously offered at the same price to the other stockholders.

Peter v. Union Mfg. Co., 56 O. S. 181 (1897).

But a sale at par to a director, for a cash payment of two percent and a promise to pay the balance in ten annual instalments, was set aside as fraudulent, where no effort was made to sell the stock to others, cash offers having been made and refused, and twenty percent dividends were being declared. Callahan v. Steel Crane Co., 20 C. C. n. s. 78 (1912).

Under § 8798 stock of a railroad company purchased below par by a director is void.

A purchase made in order to vote at an election for directors is valid, when full value is paid for the stock.

Hall v. Hall, 11 C. C. n. s. 335; 20 C. D. 826 (1908).

Taylor v. Miami Exporting Co., 6 Ohio 176, 223 (1833).

See Loomis v. Dexter, 20 W. L. B. 5 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1888).

But sales to directors can not be made on more favorable terms than to other stockholders,

Kinsey v. Mt. Auburn Cable Co., 6 C. C. n. s. 305; 17 C. D. 33 (1905); aff'd, 75 O. S. 602.

nor without valuable consideration.

Straman v. No. Baltimore, etc., Co., 8 C. C. 89; 4 C. D. 339 (1893).

Where stock subscribed for by directors was paid for with secret profits made by the directors out of a fraudulent sale of property to the corporation, the stock was cancelled at the suit of the corporation.

Yeiser v. U. S. Board & Paper Co., 107 Fed. 340 (C. C. A. Ohio (1901)).

Where directors exchanged stock for their own property at an overvaluation they were held liable for the difference between the par value of the stock and the actual value of the property.

Gates v. Tippecanoe Stone Co., 57 O. S. 60 (1897).

A sale to a director, not authorized by a quorum of disinterested directors, may be enjoined by a non-consenting director. Remelin v. Bumiller, 16 N. P. n. s. 22 (1914).

XI. WHEN DIRECTORS MAY ACT FOR TWO CORPORATIONS.

A contract made between two corporations through their respective boards of directors is not voidable at the election of one of the corporations merely because a minority of its directors were also directors of the other company, in the absence of fraud or a breach of trust.

U. S., etc., Co. v. Atlantic, etc., Co., 34 O. S. 450 (1878).

Henry v. Pittsburg, etc., Ry. Co., 2 N. P. 118, 154 (1895).

Where one corporation owns a majority of the stock of another corporation, its representatives constituting a majority of the board of directors, who attempt to expend large sums for equipment, chiefly for the benefit of the stockholding corporation, resulting in injunction suits and controversies with the minority stockholders, the corporation may be dissolved under § 11938. In re Mansfield Co., 3 Ohio App. 253; 21 C. C. n. s. 95 (1914).

When two corporations have a majority of their directors in common, transactions between such corporations are subject to scrutiny and are sustained only when fair and made in good faith. Truman v. Supply Co., 11 Ohio App. 220; 30 O. C. A. 425 (1919).

Where one corporation sold property to another corporation for its full value, the directors of the selling company being also directors of the purchasing company, the sale being ratified by the stockholders of the vendor, and the directors thereafter incurred personal financial risks and realized large profits, it was held that stockholders in the selling corporation could not, years afterward, recover a share of the profits.

Larwill v. Burke, 19 C. C. 449; 10 C. D. 579 (1900).

That officers and directors of a burial association, not for profit, were also officers and directors of an undertaking company was held not to be a ground for the forfeiture of the charter of the burial association where it was not subsidiary to or controlled by the undertaking company.

State v. Burial Assn., 8 C. C. n. s. 233; 18 C. D. 397 (1906).

See G. C. § 666.

Unfair contracts. Where a railroad company purchased a majority of the stock of another corporation, elected a friendly board of directors, purchased property of such other corporation for less than its value, and constructed a railroad thereon, it was held that, although stockholders and creditors of such other company could not, after the road had been completed, reclaim the property or enjoin its use, they could, by action, compel the railroad company to account for its actual value.

Goodin v. Cincinnati, etc., Co., 18 O. S. 169, 182 (1868).

See Mannington v. H. V. Railway Co., 9 N. P. n. s. 641, 680; 20 L. D. 468; (removed to U. S. Ct., 8 O. L. R. 451; 16 O. F. D. 552).

Where directors appoint a partnership, of which they are members, as selling agent of the product of the corporation on a commission, the burden of proof to show that the contract is fair and reasonable rests on the directors, in a suit by minority stockholders. Ross v. Quinnessee Co., 227 Fed. 337 (C. C. A. Ohio 1915).

XII. CONTRACT BY DIRECTOR WITH THIRD PERSON, WITH REFERENCE TO HIS OFFICIAL ACTION.

A contract made by a director of a corporation with reference to his official action as such, based on a consideration personal to himself, is against public policy and void. Thomas v. Matthews, 94 O. S. 32 (1916).

XIII. CORPORATE CONTRACT WITH A BOARD OF EDUCATION OR OTHER PUBLIC BODY, WHERE PUBLIC OFFICIAL IS A STOCKHOLDER OR DIRECTOR.

A corporation having a stockholder or director who is a member of a board of education can not legally make contracts with such board of education. The same rule applies to contracts with certain other public corporations. Rep. Atty. Gen. 1914, p. 848 (sinking fund trustees; trustees of a municipal library); Rep. Atty. Gen. 1914, p. 1201 (board of education); Rep. Atty. Gen. 1912, p. 1598 (member of civil service commission).

But the president of a board of education, who is also a director and stockholder of a material company which sells materials to a contractor, to whom a contract is let by the board of education, is not criminally liable. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1915, p. 267.

XIV. WHEN STOCKHOLDER MAY SUE ON BEHALF OF CORPORATION.

See also Liability of officers and agents, below.

A. In general. Suits to remedy wrongs against the corporate property or rights should, in the first instance, be brought by the corporation itself.

Zinn v. Baxter, 65 O. S. 341, 364 (1901).

Hamilton v. Hamilton Coal Co., 12 C. D. 637 (1894).

But where the corporation fails or refuses to sue, one or more stockholders may bring suit.

Zinn v. Baxter, 65 O. S. 341, 364 (1901).

Taylor v. Miami Exporting Co., 5 Ohio 162 (1831).

Zabriskie v. Railroad Co., 64 U. S. (23 How.) 381 (1860).

The suit must be for the common benefit of all the stockholders. One stockholder can not sue the directors for his share of the common damages suffered by all stockholders in consequence of the misconduct of directors.

Zinn v. Baxter, 65 O. S. 341, 365 (1901).

Where suit is brought by the corporation itself upon demand of a stockholder, such stockholder can not bring a representative suit while the corporation's suit is pending. In case of bad faith in prosecuting the suit, the stockholder may intervene therein by cross petition. Wasmer v. Massillon Co., 7 Ohio App. 488; 29 O. C. A. 230 (1916); motion to certify record overruled, 14 O. L. R. 209.

A suit by one stockholder for accounting of corporation funds and a receiver may not be maintained on the ground that the corporation was organized and doing business illegally. Ellis v. Savings Co., 104 O. S. 599 (1922).

Distinction between stockholders representative suits on behalf of corporation, and stockholders suits to protect individual property rights.

See Mannington v. H. V. Railway Co., 9 N. P. n. s. 641, 657-659; 20 L. D. 468 (C. P. 1910); (removed to U. S. Ct., 8 O. L. R. 451; 16 O. F. D. 552).

A suit against corporate officers may be in equity if an accounting is demanded.

Meisse v. Loren, 5 N. P. 307; 8 L. D. 448 (1898).

Nonconsenting stockholders may sue to rescind a contract made by the corporation in violation of the anti-trust act.

National Salt Co. v. United Salt Co., 12 L. D. 386 (C. P. 1902).

Members of a religious corporation can not bring a suit in its name to enjoin a proposed consolidation, without first calling on the trustees to act. First Church v. Young, 21 N. P. n. s. 569 (1919)."

B. Suits against officers of corporation. Rescission of fraudulent contracts, etc. Stockholders' suits are usually based on misconduct on the part of directors. A stockholder may sue to compel officers to account for corporate property;

Taylor v. Miami Exporting Co., 5 Ohio 162 (1831).
to recover losses occasioned by negligence or mismanagement of the directors;

Zinn v. Baxter, 65 O. S. 341 (1901).

to rescind fraudulent contracts or conveyances made by agents or officers;
Goodin v. Cincinnati, etc., Co., 18 O. S. 169, 183 (1868).

Shaw v. Edison Inst. Co., 19 W. L. B. 292 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1888).

Dye v. Hermes, 32 W. L. B. 120 (1894).

Heintzman v. Tenacity, etc., Co., 4 O. L. R. 552; 17 L. D. 554 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1906).

to enjoin the performance of acts not authorized by a valid quorum of directors;

Remelin v. Bumiller, 16 N. P. n. s. 22 (1914).

or to vacate a fraudulent assignment for creditors.

Home & Sgs. Assn. v. Jones, 64 O. S. 147 (1901).

C. Interference with directors' management. A court of equity will not, on the application of a stockholder, interfere with the board of directors in its management and control of the corporate affairs when acting within the scope of its authority and in the absence of fraud or breach of trust.

Sims v. Street Railroad Co., 37 O. S. 556 (1882).

Coss v. Mansfield Lodge, 4 C. C. n. s. 11; 14 C. D. 36 (1902).

Koblitz v. Western Reserve University, 21 C. C. 144; 11 C. D. 515 (1901).

De Lacroix v. Eid, etc., Co., 8 N. P. n. s. 489; 19 L. D. 767 (C. P. 1909).

Cronin v. Potters, etc., Co., 29 W. L. B. 52 (C. P. 1892).

A stockholder can not sue to enforce an active duty within the powers of directors.

Port Clinton R. R. Co. v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 13 O. S. 544, 561 (1862).

Straman v. North Baltimore, etc., Co., 8 C. C. 89, 101; 4 C. D. 339 (1893).

But fraudulent acts or a breach of trust on the part of directors may be prevented by injunction or a receivership.

Port Clinton, etc., R. Co. v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 13 O. S. 544, 560, 561 (1862).

C. H. & D. R. Co. v. Duckworth, 2 C. C. 518; 1 C. D. 618 (1887).

A stockholder can not maintain a bill in equity in federal court against a foreign corporation for an accounting, where the accounting relates to the internal affairs and management of the corporation.

Eberhard v. Insurance Co., 210 Fed. 520 (D. C. 1914).

Where the directors management is in the interest of another corporation, which owns a majority of the stock, minority stockholders may petition for a dissolution of the corporation under G. C. § 11938.

In re Mansfield Co., 3 Ohio App. 253; 21 C. C. n. s. 95 (1914).

Where managing officers wilfully and fraudulently refuse to set up a valid defense to an action brought against the corporation, a stockholder may be permitted to intervene, upon proper allegations showing the defense and the failure of the managing officers to set it up. Buckeye Co. v. Young, 18 C. C. n. s. 429 (1910).

D. Injunction or receiver. Threatened fraudulent acts or a breach of trust on the part of directors may be enjoined.

Port Clinton, etc., R. Co. v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 13 O. S. 544, 560-561 (1862).

C. H. & D. R. Co. v. Duckworth, 2 C. C. 518; 1 C. D. 618 (1887).

See note to § 8627: Who may object to ultra vires acts.

An injunction will not be granted because of past illegal acts where there is no threatened repetition of such acts.

No. Fairmount, etc., Co. v. Rehn, 6 N. P. 185; 8 L. D. 594 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1899).

Injunction, and not dissolution under § 11938, is the proper remedy where profits are diverted from stockholders through excessive salaries. Oppenheimer v. Ptg. Co., 24 N. P. n. s. 483 (1923).

A receiver will not be appointed where injunction will afford full relief and protection. The appointment of a receiver under such circumstances would be an abuse of discretion.

C. H. & D. R. Co. v. Duckworth, 2 C. C. 518; 1 C. D. 618 (1887).

Benson v. Columbia Life Ins. Co., 7 N. P. n. s. 113; 19 L. D. 17 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1908).

Behrens v. Equality Bldg. Assn., 2 N. P. 259; 3 L. D. 275 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1895).

No. Fairmount, etc., Co. v. Rehn, 6 N. P. 185, 191; 8 L. D. 594 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1899).

Schone v. Consolidated Bldg. & Sav. Co., 4 N. P. 216; 6 L. D. 246 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1897).

A receiver will not be appointed merely because of differences of opinion in conducting the corporate business.

Straman v. No. Baltimore Water Wks. Co., 8 C. C. 89, 100; 4 C. D. 339 (1893).

Nor because of past or present irregularities or mismanagement in the absence of actual fraud.

Benson v. Columbia Life Ins. Co., 7 N. P. n. s. 113; 19 L. D. 17 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1908).

No. Fairmount, etc., Co. v. Rehn, 6 N. P. 185; 8 L. D. 594 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1899).

But a receiver will be appointed where it clearly appears that the corporate property will be fraudulently disposed of, unless taken charge of by an officer of the court;

C. H. & D. R. Co. v. Duckworth, 2 C. C. 518; 1 C. D. 618 (1887).

where both the corporation and the directors are insolvent and a fraudulent disposition of assets is threatened;

Upson v. Rocky River, etc., Co., 2 Cleve. L. R. 355 (C. P. 1879).

where the directors have made a fraudulent sale of the entire corporate property for their personal profit;

Heintzman v. Tenacity, etc., Co., 4 O. L. R. 552; 17 L. D. 554 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1906).

See Hamilton v. Hamilton Coal Co., 12 C. D. 637 (1894).

and where the corporation has no legal directors or officers to care for the property.

National Salt Co. v. United Salt Co., 8 N. P. 325; 11 L. D. 348 (C. P. 1901).

See note to § 11894.

The appointment of a receiver in a stockholders' action can not be collaterally attacked.

Egbert v. Third Ward Bldg. Assn., 8 N. P. 507; 9 L. D. 646 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1899).

E. Pleading and practice. Demand on directors to bring suit. A stockholder should, in his petition, allege a demand on the directors (or assignee or receiver where one has been appointed) and their refusal to bring suit; or an excuse for not making such demand.

Ellis v. Savings Co., 104 O. S. 599 (1922).

Carpenter v. Williamson, 24 C. C. n. s. 499 (1905).

Egbert v. Third Ward Bldg. Assn., 8 N. P. 507; 9 L. D. 646 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1899).

Reeder v. Wade, 2 C. S. C. R. 19 (1870).

It is an excuse for not making such demand that the corporation is in control of the wrongdoers.

Koblitz v. Brookside Co., 20 C. C. n. s. 67 (1912).

Bates Pldg., etc., p. 1360.

Heintzman v. Tenacity, etc., Co., 4 O. L. R. 552; 17 L. D. 554 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1906).

Divine v. Auto M. C. Co., 9 N. P. n. s. 204 (C. P. 1909).

That there is no director or officer to whom the stockholder could apply is an excuse for not making a demand.

Kuhn v. Woolson Spice Co., 8 N. P. 686; 10 L. D. 292 (C. P. 1897).

See Dye v. Hermes, 32 W. L. B. 120 (C. P. 1894).

Under equity rule 27, a bill filed in federal court by a minority stockholder, to set aside a contract, sets out a sufficient reason for not applying to the new directors or stockholders where it alleges that the directors by whose votes the contract was authorized are in control of the corporation by stock ownership and are beneficiaries of the contract. Ross v. Quinnesec Co., 227 Fed. 337 (C. C. A. Ohio 1915). See also, Forbes v. Wilson, 243 Fed. 264 (D. C. Ohio 1917).

F. Plaintiffs. One who has transferred his stock can not sue in the state courts, unless perhaps after dissolution of the corporation. Zinn v. Baxter, 65 O. S. 341 (1901).

Dissette v. Lawrence Pbg. Co., 9 C. C. n. s. 118; 19 C. D. 168 (1906).

In federal courts under equity rule 94 of the U. S. Supreme Court a transferee of stock can not sue on transactions which took place before he acquired his stock.

See Mannington v. H. V. Ry. Co., 9 N. P. n. s. 641, 662; 20 L. D. 468 (1910); (removed to U. S. Ct., 183 Fed. 133; 8 O. L. R. 451; 16 O. F. D. 552).

An equitable owner—as one whose stock has not been transferred on the corporate records—may sue.

Larwill v. Burke, 19 C. C. 449; 10 C. D. 579 (1900).

Where the corporation is insolvent and in the hands of a receiver who refuses to sue, a creditor and stockholder may join as plaintiffs.

Miesse v. Loren, 5 N. P. 307; 8 L. D. 448 (1898).

G. Defendants. The corporation is a necessary party defendant.

Zinn v. Baxter, 65 O. S. 341, 364 (1901).

Taylor v. Miami Exporting Co., 5 Ohio 162 (1831).

But in federal courts it is not necessary to join the corporation in all cases where the court is able to do justice to the parties before it, without injury to others not made parties. Toledo Co. v. Smith, 205 Fed. 643, 662 (D. C. 1913); M'CLean v. Bradley, 282 Fed. 1011 (D. C. Ohio 1922).

Creditors and other stockholders may become defendants on their application, where they allege an interest in the subject matter of the suit.

Miesse v. Loren, 5 N. P. 307; 8 L. D. 448 (1898).

In an action to enjoin the corporation from acquiring stock in other corporations, such other corporations are not proper parties.

Westfall v. Lake Shore, etc., Ry., 13 N. P. n. s. 217; 22 L. D. 75 (C. P. 1910).

H. Venue. An action by a stockholder in a railroad company to enjoin the unlawful acquisition of stock in other corporations must be brought in a county in which jurisdiction over the railroad company may be acquired.

Westfall v. Lake Shore, etc., Ry., 13 N. P. n. s. 217; 22 L. D. 75 (C. P. 1910).

I. Judgment. When the judgment is for the recovery of money, it must be in favor of the corporation for the full amount of damages sustained by all stockholders combined, and when collected must be paid to the corporation.

Zinn v. Baxter, 65 O. S. 341, 364 (1901).

J. Attorney fees. Where a stockholder's suit realizes a fund for the corporation, the court may order his attorney fees paid from such fund. Truman v. Supply Co., 11 Ohio App. 220; 30 O. C. A. 425 (1919).

K. Defenses.

(a) Acquiescence of stockholders in acts complained of. Where directors of a corporation added a new feature to its business, acting in good faith, and the stockholders were aware of the facts and acquiesced therein, the directors are not liable to the corporation, or stockholders, for losses sustained thereby.

Bond v. Poe, 12 C. C. 281; 4 C. D. 10 (1893).

See De La Croix v. Eid Concrete Steel Co., 8 N. P. n. s. 489, 495; 19 L. D. 767 (C. P. 1909).

Larwill v. Burke, 19 C. C. 513; 10 C. D. 605 (1900).

See note to § 8627: Who may object to ultra vires acts.

A stockholder is not barred by acquiescence unless he had knowledge of the wrongful acts. A stockholder is not charged with knowledge of the acts of directors or details of management, although he might have ascertained such facts from the corporate books.

Heintzman v. Tenacity, etc., Co., 4 O. L. R. 552; 17 L. D. 554 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1906).

Stockholders who have no knowledge of a contract made in violation of the anti-trust act are not in pari delicto and may sue to rescind the same.

National Salt Co. v. United Salt Co., 12 L. D. 386 (C. P. 1902).

(b) Statute of limitations. A stockholders' representative suit against the directors for loss by mismanagement is governed by the ten year statute. (G. C. § 11227.)

Glass v. Courtright, 14 N. P. n. s. 273; 23 L. D. 253 (C. P. 1913).

(c) Laches of stockholder. A delay of ten years was held to bar a stockholder from attacking a foreclosure sale of corporate property under a judgment by confession, where the facts could have been ascertained at the time of the sale, or shortly thereafter.

Foster v. Mansfield, etc., R. Co., 36 Fed. 627 (U. S. C. C. Ohio 1888).

See also McLean v. Bradley, 282 Fed. 1011 (D. C. Ohio 1922).

A delay of six weeks in bringing suit to set aside a fraudulent sale of the entire corporate property, was held not to be a defense, where the stockholders' knowledge of the transaction was incomplete.

Heintzman v. Tenacity, etc., Co., 4 O. L. R. 552; 17 L. D. 554 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1906).

(d) Offer to sell stock. That the complaining stockholder offered to sell his stock to any one who would take it is no defense.

Heintzman v. Tenacity, etc., Co., 4 O. L. R. 552; 17 L. D. 554 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1906).

(e) Estoppel. A stockholder may be barred by estoppel from maintaining a suit to rescind an unauthorized transaction, where, after having knowledge of the transaction, he took no action until a time when it was impossible to restore the status quo. Smith v. Gowen, 18 C. C. n. s. 99 (1911).

A decree in a foreclosure suit by the trustee of a corporate mortgage securing a bond issue does not estop the trustee, who was also a bondholder, from suing as a stockholder of the mortgagor corporation.

Henry v. Pgh., etc., Ry. Co., 2 N. P. 118, 142; 5 L. D. 41 (C. P. 1895).

(f) Motive of stockholder. Suit not brought in good faith. If the plaintiff has a legal right which he seeks to protect in the suit, the motive which induced him to bring the action can not be inquired into.

Traction Co. v. Parish, 67 O. S. 181, 189 (1902).

Isom v. Low Fare Ry. Co., 10 C. C. n. s. 89, 102; 19 C. D. 583 (1907); aff'd, no rep., 77 O. S. 638.

Raynolds v. Cleveland, 2 C. C. n. s. 139; 14 C. D. 215 (1902); aff'd, no rep., 76 O. S. 619.

Cincinnati Volksblatt Co. v. Hoffmeister, 62 O. S. 189, 198 (1900).

Nicholson v. Franklin Brewing Co., 82 O. S. 94, 110 (1910).

These cases were not stockholders' suits on behalf of corporations, but the principle is stated as a general one in Traction Co. v. Parish (page 189).

In many other jurisdictions the rule is established that a stockholders' representative suit must be brought in good faith.

See Manning v. H. V. Ry. Co., 9 N. P. n. s. 641, 659-660; 20 L. D. 468 (1910).

Dissette v. Lawrence Pbg. Co., 9 C. C. n. s. 118, 120; 19 C. D. 168 (1906).

Relief has been denied where it appeared that the complaining stockholder was acting for competitors or other persons, who have agreed to pay the costs and to indemnify him against risk.

Kuhn v. Woolson Spice Co., 13 C. C. 547; 7 C. D. 289 (1897).

Buning v. Cincinnati St. Ry. Co., 1 C. C. 323, 325; 1 C. D. 178 (1886).

Gallagher v. Johnson, 31 W. L. B. 24 (C. P. 1894).

Compare Raynolds v. Cleveland, 2 C. C. n. s. 139; 14 C. D. 215 (1902); aff'd, no rep., 76 O. S. 619.

That a stockholder has interests, other than his stock, which will be benefited by the relief sought has been held not to be a defense to his suit.

Henry v. Pgh., etc., Co., 2 N. P. 118; 5 L. D. 41 (C. P. 1895).

Sommers v. Cincinnati, 8 Am. L. Rec. 612, 624 (C. P. 1880).

Compare Stewart v. Little Miami R. Co., 14 Ohio 353, 358 (1846).

(g) That stockholder's interest is small. That the plaintiff owns but one or two shares is no defense where his right have been violated. Heintzman v. Tenacity, etc., Co., 4 O. L. R. 552; 17 L. D. 554 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1906).

See C. H. & D. R. Co. v. Duckworth, 2 C. C. 518, 523; 1 C. D. 618 (1887).

Acquiescence of a majority of the stockholders is no defense, where the plaintiff did not consent.

See Goodin v. Cincinnati, etc., Co., 18 O. S. 169, 183 (1868).

(h) That some defendants have been directors longer than others. In a suit against directors for losses occasioned by their negligence, it is not a ground of demurrer that some of the defendants have been directors longer than others. The court can fix their liability according to the circumstances.

Meisse v. Loren, 5 N. P. 307, 309; 8 L. D. 448 (C. P. 1898).

But where some of the directors were elected directors after the wrongful acts were committed, the liability may in equity be apportioned by the court according to the loss of assets resulting from their acts. Such variant liability, however, does not amount to separate causes of action.

Glass v. Courtright, 14 N. P. n. s. 273; 23 L. D. 253 (C. P. 1913).

New directors of a national bank constituting a minority of the board are not liable for mismanagement of former directors, where they relied on reports of the bank examiners and comptroller of currency although an examination would have disclosed insolvency.

Glass v. Courtright, 14 N. P. n. s. 273; 23 L. D. 253 (C. P. 1913).

(i) Settlement. It is no defense to a stockholders' suit brought to vacate a fraudulent assignment for creditors, that the directors and the assignee have made a settlement, where the complaining stockholders do not assent thereto.

Home & Sgs. Assn. v. Jones, 64 O. S. 147 (1901).

(j) Right of a stockholder to defend action against corporation. A stockholder may be granted leave to intervene in a suit brought against the corporation, upon a showing that there is a valid defense which the managing officers wrongfully and fraudulently refuse to make. Buckeye Co. v. Caldwell, 18 C. C. n. s. 429 (1910).

M. Right of stockholder to appeal from or prosecute error proceeding to judgment against corporation. A stockholder may appeal from a judgment against the corporation when there is reason to believe that the officers in neglecting to appeal are actuated by an adverse interest.

Henry v. Jeanes, 47 O. S. 116 (1890).

But a stockholder, not a party to the suit, can not prosecute error.

Dunbar v. American Casket Co., 19 C. C. 585; 10 C. D. 684 (1900).

XV. RIGHT OF CREDITORS TO SUE.

Where directors have committed a breach of trust, and have misapplied corporate property, creditors may sue.

Columbus, etc., R. Co. v. Burke, 19 W. L. B. 27 (C. P. 1887).

See Meisse v. Loren, 4 N. P. 100; 6 L. D. 258 (C. P. 1897).

Cheney v. Maumee Cycle Co., 20 C. C. 19; 10 C. D. 717 (1900); aff'd, 64 O. S. 205.

XVI. LIABILITY OF OFFICERS AND AGENTS.

A. To the corporation.

(a) Secret profits from contracts with corporation. Where directors fraudulently sell their own property to the corporation for a sum greatly exceeding its actual value, they are liable in damages to the corporation.

Shawnee, etc., Co. v. Miller, 1 C. C. n. s. 569; 14 C. D. 199 (1902).

Secret profits made by directors in transactions with the corporation may be recovered by the corporation.

Yeiser v. U. S., etc., Co., 107 Fed. 340 (C. C. A. Ohio 1901).

U. S., etc., Co. v. Yeiser, 4 O. L. R. 539; 17 L. D. 261 (Super. Ct. Cin 1906).

Beck v. Fishel, 16 C. C. n. s. 130 (1909).

(b) Negligence. An officer or agent is liable to the corporation where corporate property is lost or wasted through his negligence.

Meisse v. Loren, 5 N. P. 307; 8 L. D. 448 (1898); s. c., 4 N. P. 100; 6 L. D. 258 (1897).

Glass v. Courtright, 14 N. P. n. s. 273; 23 L. D. 253 (1913).

See 12 O. L. R. 619. Article by W. P. Rogers.

Directors, executive officers and agents are bound to exercise that degree of care in the affairs of the corporation which ordinarily careful and prudent men would exercise acting under similar circumstances.

Mason v. Moore, 73 O. S. 275 (1906).

Kalb v. American N. B., 21 C. C. 1; 11 C. D. 437 (1900); aff'd, 65 O. S. 566.

Baldwin v. Egan, 5 O. L. R. 476 (1907); aff'd, 11 C. C. n. s. 584.

See supra, care required of directors.

A bank cashier is liable for negligence in the matter of locking the doors of the vault in which the funds are kept.

Kalb v. American N. B., 21 C. C. 1; 11 C. D. 437 (1900); aff'd, 65 O. S. 566.

Directors are not liable for irregularities of action, where neither the corporation nor the stockholders have been injured.

Larwill v. Burke, 19 C. C. 513; 10 C. D. 605 (1900).

Acquiescence of stockholders in mismanagement as a bar to recovery against directors therefor.

See Bond v. Poe, 12 C. C. 281; 4 C. D. 10 (1893).

De LaCroix v. Eid Concrete Steel Co., 8 N. P. n. s. 489, 495; 19 L. D. 767 (C. P. 1909).

(c) Corporate property wrongfully converted by director. A director may be compelled to surrender to the corporation property belonging to the corporation which he has converted to his own use. Where a director has disposed of such property to persons having notice of the transaction, the corporation may recover from such persons the property or its value.

Greenville Gas Co. v. Reis, 54 O. S. 549 (1896).

Goodin v. Cincinnati, etc., Co., 18 O. S. 169 (1868).

Columbus, etc., Ry. Co. v. Burke, 19 W. L. B. 27 (C. P. 1887).

(d) Accounting for corporate property. Directors may be required to account for corporate funds and property in their possession or control. Taylor v. Miami Exporting Co., 5 Ohio 162 (1831).

B. Liability to stockholders.

(a) In general the liability of directors for negligence, breach of trust, etc., is to the corporation only, and individual stockholders can not sue.

Zinn v. Baxter, 65 O. S. 341, 364 (1901).

Nor can a pledgee of stock sue.

Barnes v. Swift, 26 W. L. B. 110 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1891).

But where the corporation refuses to sue, a stockholder may bring suit on behalf of all stockholders, making the corporation a party defendant.

Zinn v. Baxter, 65 O. S. 341, 364 (1901).

Stockholders of an insolvent national bank, in the hands of a receiver appointed by the comptroller of the currency, may bring suit in a state court in their own names against its directors for damages both under U. S. R. S. § 5239 and at common law.

Glass v. Courtright, 14 N. P. n. s. 273; 23 L. D. 253 (C. P. 1913).

A stockholders' representative suit against directors for mismanagement is governed by the ten years statute of limitations (G. C. § 11227).

Glass v. Courtright, 14 N. P. n. s. 273; 23 L. D. 253 (C. P. 1913).

Where directors became sureties for a corporate debt, and one director paid the debt and brought suit for contribution, it is no defense to his co-sureties that the plaintiff took possession of the corporate property and converted it to his own use, or wasted it, or that he is indebted to the corporation. Steele v. Gonyer, 24 L. D. 327 (1913); aff'd, 18 C. C. n. s. 470.

Where the president and general manager of a corporation induced the stockholders to transfer their stock for 200 percent of its par value, stating in open meeting that he expected to make "a good thing for himself" over and above what the other stockholders received, and it subsequently appeared that he received 1,450 percent for his stock and agreement on his part not to re-engage in business, it was held that his disclosure was not complete enough to protect him in an action for accounting. Beck v. Fishel, 16 C. C. n. s. 130 (1909).

A director of a national bank, who wilfully fails to attend meetings of the board, and otherwise to inform himself of the condition of the bank and to supervise its affairs, is guilty of a breach of his common-law obligation and is liable for losses resulting from gross mismanagement by the executive officers which a proper attention to his duty would have avoided. Bowerman v. Hamner, 250 U. S. 504 (1919).

(b) Share of assets on winding up. Where a corporation has ceased business, its debts have been paid, and the directors personally undertake to divide the assets among the stockholders, a stockholder, after demand, may maintain an action for his share against the directors.

Larwill v. Burke, 19 C. C. 513; 10 C. D. 605 (1900).

And where one stockholder acquires nearly all of the stock and converts the corporate property to his own use, and where the corporation has not been dissolved, but has no directors or officers, the other stockholders need not sue the corporation but may sue such stockholder individually for an accounting.

Dye v. Hermes, 32 W. L. B. 120 (C. P. 1894).

See Beck v. Fishel, 16 C. C. n. s. 130 (1909).

In such case the statute of limitations begins to run against the stockholder from the time of the demand and refusal.

Larwill v. Burke, 19 C. C. 513; 10 C. D. 605 (1900).

(c) Conspiracy to depreciate price of stock. Where a stockholder has pledged his stock as collateral to secure his indebtedness to directors, and the directors enter into a conspiracy to depreciate the price of such stock, using their powers as directors, for the purpose of buying it in for less than its value, the directors are directly liable to such stockholder, the wrong being against the stockholder individually, as well as against the corporation.

Ritchie v. McMullen, 79 Fed. 522 (C. C. A. Ohio 1897).

(d) Dividends when declared by the directors become a debt of the corporation. Officers are not personally liable to stockholders therefor.

Snodgrass v. Morrison, etc., Co., 4 O. L. R. 622; 17 L. D. 497 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1907).

(e) Refusal to transfer stock. An officer is not liable to a transferee of stock for refusing to transfer the same on the corporate books.

Snodgrass v. Morrison, 4 O. L. R. 622; 17 L. D. 497 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1907).

(f) Declaring dividends otherwise than out of surplus profits. See § 8728 and note.

Dividends illegally paid by directors may, in an action by stockholders for mismanagement, be deducted from the stockholders' losses and may be adjudicated in the action.

Glass v. Courtright, 14 N. P. n. s. 273; 23 L. D. 253 (C. P. 1913).

(g) Refusal to permit inspection of corporate books. A petition by a stockholder to enforce his right to inspect the corporate books does not state a cause of action against the president individually, where the only allegation involving him is that he is president. He is entitled to be dismissed from the case, on demurrer.

Pearce v. Atkins, 13 N. P. n. s. 580 (1913).

C. Liability to subscribers or purchasers of stock.

(a) Fraud in inducing subscription. The liability of officers and agents of a corporation to subscribers, and purchasers of stock is controlled by the rules of law governing actions for deceit. Where an officer is applied to for information by one intending to purchase stock (Cable v. Bowlus, 21 C. C. 53; 11 C. D. 526; aff'd, 69 O. S. 563), or where an agent or officer is engaged in making sales or soliciting subscriptions, and makes material and false representations regarding the past or present status of the corporate enterprise, which are relied on by the purchasers or subscribers, to their injury, such officer or agent is personally liable if he had knowledge of the falsity of the representations, or if the same were made under such circumstances that knowledge of their falsity must necessarily be imputed to him.

Mason v. Moore, 73 O. S. 275, 291-293 (1906).

Cable v. Bowlus, 21 C. C. 53; 11 C. D. 526 (1900); aff'd, 69 O. S. 563.

See Schenck v. Knott, 13 C. C. n. s. 41 (1910).

Russell v. Weiler, 7 C. C. n. s. 596; 18 C. D. 176 (1905).

Merchants N. B. v. Thoms, 28 W. L. B. 164; s. c., 31 W. L. B. 137.

Where the alleged false representations related to the dividend rate, it has been held that knowledge of the dividend rate is not conclusively imputed to the defendant director. Degraw v. Lampert, 17 C. C. n. s. 401 (1911).

Where the purchaser did not rely upon the representations but made independent investigations, he can not recover. Donnell v. Sugar Co., 16 N. P. n. s. 331 (1914).

By statute directors are made personally liable to persons who purchase stock relying on untrue statements in a prospectus, etc., issued by the corporation unless they had just and reasonable grounds for believing them to be true, etc.

See G. C. § 6373-18.

Measure of damages. The measure of damages is the difference between the price paid for the stock and its actual value at the time of the sale.

Schenck v. Knott, 13 C. C. n. s. 41, 46 (1910).

See Degraw v. Lampert, 17 C. C. n. s. 401, 403 (1911).

The purchaser can not recover damages for mental suffering, disappointment or disgrace; nor in general can he recover punitive damages.

Cable v. Bowlus, 21 C. C. 53; 11 C. D. 526 (1900); aff'd, 69 O. S. 563.

No fiduciary relation toward purchasers of individual stock. Directors do not occupy a fiduciary relation toward persons to whom they sell their individual stock.

Cook v. Henderson, 8 Am. L. R. 429 (Dist. Ct. 1879).

See Hetteshimer v. Swisher, 7 O. L. R. 629 (C. P. 1909).

Where oil stock was purchased under the false representation that it was treasury stock, whereas it belonged to individuals, but the purchaser having had opportunity of learning the facts waited for six months until after a well had been drilled, he was held not entitled to rescind. Hamilton v. Carr, 17 C. C. n. s. 395 (1911).

And it has been held that an action for damages can not be maintained where the only false representation was that the stock sold was treasury stock, whereas in fact it belonged to the defendant. Hill v. Roper, 22 C. C. n. s. 455 (1905).

(b) Bank directors attesting false statements of condition. Where bank directors attest a report of its condition, made and published as required by statute, the statements of which were false, and a person relying on such statement purchases stock of such bank, the liability of the directors to the purchaser at common law is controlled by the law governing actions for deceit.

Mason v. Moore, 73 O. S. 275, 291 (1906).

Barnes v. Pogue, 29 W. L. B. 382 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1893).

See Barnes v. Swift, 3 N. P. 291; 3 L. D. 688 (1894).

Under the national banking act a director is not liable to third persons for mere negligence in attesting such a report. He is liable only for a knowing violation of the act.

Mason v. Moore, 73 O. S. 275, 290 (1906).

Yates v. Jones N. B., 206 U. S. 158, 178 (1906).

(c) President signing "full paid" stock certificate. A president is not liable in an action for deceit based on his having signed a stock certificate containing the statement "full paid and nonassessable" to a person who bought such stock in the open market for less than par, although the president knew that such stock had been exchanged for property at an overvaluation.

Nutt v. Wheeler, 10 C. C. n. s. 217; 20 C. D. 86 (1907).

(d) Verbal promise of dividends to subscriber. A verbal promise, by the president of the corporation, that if a person would subscribe and pay for $500.00 of stock he should, within one year, receive 15 percent on the amount invested, is valid. Such an agreement is not within the Statute of Frauds.

Moorehouse v. Crangle, 36 O. S. 130 (1880).

D. Liability to creditors.

(a) Acting before ten percent of capital is subscribed. Persons who act as directors before ten percent of the capital stock is subscribed, and incur obligations, are personally liable therefor.

Trust Co. v. Floyd, 47 O. S. 525 (1890).

(b) Acting without authority. A person who assumes to make a contract for a corporation, but without authority, is personally liable to the persons who contract with him, in ignorance of his want of authority.

Trust Co. v. Floyd, 47 O. S. 525 (1890).

An officer who executes notes, without authority to issue commercial paper for any purpose, is liable to a bona fide purchaser of the notes in damages for falsely representing his authority. But if authorized to issue paper for the corporate business, the notes are binding on the corporation when held by a bona fide purchaser, and the officer is liable only to the corporation and not to the purchaser.

Dexter Sav. Bank v. Friend, 90 Fed. 703 (U. S. C. C. Ohio 1898).

(c) Conducting unauthorized business. The officers are, under some circumstances, personally liable when they transcend the corporate authority and engage in ultra vires business. The limits of this doctrine are not clearly defined.

See note to § 8627, Ultra vires acts. Personal liability.

Medill v. Collier, 16 O. S. 599, 610.

Mfgs., etc., Assn. v. Lynchburg Drug Mills, 8 C. C. 112; 4 C. D. 350 (1893).

Ridenour v. Mayo, 40 O. S. 9 (1883).

(d) On notes improperly signed. A note reading "We promise to pay" and signed "The A. B. Co., C. D., Secy. and Treas., E. F., Pres.," is on its face the note of the corporation alone and the officers who signed it are not personally liable.

Aungst v. Creque, 72 O. S. 551 (1905).

See Snyder v. Bank, 22 C. C. 624 (1897); aff'd, 60 O. S. 605.

But a note signed "A. B., President," or "A. B., Agent K. & O. C. Co.," is the note of the officer personally and he is liable thereon.

Robinson v. Kanawha Valley Bank, 44 O. S. 441 (1886).

Bank v. Cook, 38 O. S. 442 (1882).

Eells v. Shea, 20 C. C. 527; 11 C. D. 304 (1900); aff'd, 66 O. S. 682.

Parol evidence is not admissible, in such a case, to show that the intention of the parties was not to bind the officer but the corporation.

Robinson v. Kanawha Valley Bank, 44 O. S. 441 (1886).

Collins v. Buckeye State Ins. Co., 17 O. S. 215 (1867).

Eells v. Shea, 20 C. C. 527; 11 C. D. 304 (1900); aff'd, 66 O. S. 682.

See Barnhisel v. Commercial N. B., 14 C. C. 124; 7 C. D. 533 (1897).

A note reading "we, as directors of The A. B. Company promise to pay, etc.," and signed by the makers individually is the note of the individuals and they are personally liable.

Titus v. Kyle, 10 O. S. 444 (1859).

McKisson v. Thomas, 18 C. C. n. s. 443 (1911).

A note reading "we or either of us promise to pay" signed "The Oberlin Gas & Electric Co., J. C. H., President; A. E. H., Treasurer" is the note of the individuals as well as of the corporation. Banking Co. v. Gas Co., 19 C. C. n. s. 151 (1911).

And a note reading "I promise to pay" signed "H. H. W. for The C. Company" is the note of H. H. W. personally. Wylie v. Kingsley Co., 24 C. C. n. s. 143 (1902).

But where the intention, indicated on the face of the note, is to charge only the corporation, the officers are not liable although the note is signed "A. B., President."

Second N. B. v. Wilcox, 2 C. C. 325; 1 C. D. 511 (1887).

Hays v. Galion, etc., Co., 29 O. S. 330, 334 (1876).

Sheehan v. Davis, 17 O. S. 571.

(e) On stock exchanged for property at an overvaluation.

Gates v. Tippecanoe Stone Co., 57 O. S. 60 (1897).

See note to § 8630. Sales to directors and officers.

(f) Declaring dividends otherwise than out of surplus profits.

See § 8728.

(g) On guaranty of corporate debts. A director, who has guaranteed the performance of a corporate contract, can not defend on the ground that no notice of default was given him until after insolvency of the corporation. He is charged with notice of its condition. Bowler v. Garland, 24 C. C. n. s. 391 (1901).

E. Criminal liability. An officer of a corporation may be criminally liable, although the act was committed by an agent under his instructions, and in conducting the corporate business.

(Violation of pure food law.)

Meyer v. State, 54 O. S. 242 (1896); affirming, 9 C. C. 714; 6 C. D. 712.

The treasurer of an insolvent corporation, who converts funds of another person to the use of the corporation, may be criminally liable. Brown v. State, 3 Ohio App. 52; 21 C. C. n. s. 545 (1914); affirming, 15 N. P. n. s. 65 (1913); motion to certify record overruled.

Where corporate officers or agents are the actual and efficient actors in committing a fraud or an offense, they can not shield themselves behind the corporation. A count in an indictment charging violation of federal revenue laws by defendants, "while engaged as officers, agents and employes" of a corporation, was sustained. Kelly v. U. S., 258 Fed. 392, 401 (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1919).

Although a corporation may not be imprisoned, its agent who commits the act may be. Meyer v. O'Dwyer, 15 N. P. n. s. 129, 146 (1913).

Section 8661. (Qualifications of directors and trustees.)

A majority of such directors must be citizens of this state. All directors and executive officers shall be holders of stock of the company for which they are chosen, in an amount to be fixed by the by-laws, and trustees of corporations must be members thereof. (R. S. Sec. 3248; R. S. 1880.)

Holders of stock. A person not a stockholder may be voted for and elected and may, after election, qualify himself by acquiring stock.

Greenough v. Alabama, etc., R. Co., 64 Fed. 22 (C. C. 1894).

A person is not ineligible because his stock is subject to an option to sell. Until the option is exercised he is a stockholder.

Kuhn v. Woolson Spice Co., 13 C. C. 547; 7 C. D. 289 (1897).

A director is presumed to be a stockholder.

Gates v. Tippecanoe Stone Co., 9 C. C. 99, 103; 6 C. D. 23 (1894); aff'd, 57 O. S. 60.

Holder of "qualifying shares." It has been held that a person is not properly qualified where a share of stock is transferred to him merely for the purpose of qualifying him as a director, where he has no real interest in the stock.

Cemetery Assn. v. Traction Co., 93 O. S. 161 (1915).

State v. McIntosh, 23 C. C. n. s. 305 (1912).

Bartholomew v. Bentley, 1 O. S. 37 (1852).

But a director may obtain his stock by a gift, or hold it upon a trust, where there is no secret agreement that the stock is held merely as a qualifying share to be surrendered on demand. Kardo Co. v. Adams, 231 Fed. 950; 14 O. L. R. 223 (C. C. A. Ohio 1916); reversing, 229 Fed. 967; 13 O. L. R. 137.

Where a corporation issued a certificate of stock to a director to qualify him, he agreeing to retransfer the same on ceasing to be a director, a third person who purchased such certificate from the director, without notice, is entitled to the stock, as against the corporation.

Dueber Co. v. Dougherty, 62 O. S. 589 (1900).

A person to whom stock was transferred by relatives to enable him to be elected secretary and treasurer is a trustee of the stock for such relatives. Such trust may be established by parol.

Bonnell v. Brown, 11 C. C. n. s. 58; 20 C. D. 712 (1908).

Director ceasing to be a stockholder. Where a director parts with all his stock he ceases to be a director de jure.

Commercial N. B. v. Colwell, 132 N. Y. 250 (1892).

Bartholomew v. Bentley, 1 O. S. 37 (1852).

Henderson v. Hogan, 1 W. L. B. 227 (Dist. Ct. 1876).

See State v. Bryce, 7 Ohio (pt. 2) 82 (1836).

The vacancy may be filled immediately.

See § 8662.

Hooe v. Hall, 9 C. C. 654; 4 C. D. 547 (1893).

But where he continues to act as a director, his acts are those of a de facto officer and valid as to third persons.

Campbell Printing Press Co. v. Bellman Bros. Co., 11 C. C. 360; 5 C. D. 389 (1896).

Ehrman v. Insurance Co., 35 O. S. 324, 339 (1880).

See also note to § 8660.

Removal of directors from state. Where the directors change their residence to another state, remove the plant of the corporation to such state and there continue business as an Ohio corporation, they are de facto officers and may bind the corporation.

Lattimer v. Mosaic Glass Co., 13 C. C. 163; 7 C. D. 430 (1896).

See State v. Bryce, 7 Ohio (pt. 2) 82 (1836).

Executive officers. The executive officers are the president, secretary and treasurer (§ 8664) and such other officers as may be provided for in the regulations. (§ 8704.)

The treasurer must be a stockholder. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1915, p. 1974.

Interlocking directors. The Clayton Act enacted by Congress in 1914 provides that "no person at the same time shall be a director in any two or more corporations, any one of which has capital, surplus, and undivided profits aggregating more than $1,000,000 engaged in whole or in part in (interstate) commerce * * * if such corporations are or shall have been theretofore, by virtue of their business and location of operation, competitors, so that the elimination of competition by agreement between them would constitute a violation of * * * the anti-trust laws."

Interlocking directors of certain banks are also prohibited. 38 U. S. Stats. L. 732, c. 323, § 8.

Decisions under former statutes. In the absence of a statute requiring it, a director need not be a stockholder.

State v. McDaniel, 22 O. S. 354 (1872).

Where the special charter of a bank provided that no person should be a director who was a director of any other bank, or the partner of any director of any other bank, it was held that such provision applied to directors of banks in other states as well as in Ohio.

State v. Buchanan, Wright 233 (1833).

Section 8662. (Vacancies.) When the office of director or trustee becomes vacant, the board may fill it for the unexpired term unless the by-laws otherwise provide. (R. S. Sec. 3248; R. S. 1880.)

Where a director ceases to own stock, his successor may be chosen immediately.

Hoe v. Hall, 9 C. C. 654; 4 C. D. 547 (1893).

Bartholomew v. Bentley, 1 O. S. 37, 43 (1852).

Henderson v. Hogan, 1 W. L. B. 227 (Dist. Ct. 1876).

Where no officers were elected for sixteen years, the corporation being insolvent, it was held that vacancies could not then be filled by the remaining directors as all directors were presumed to have resigned.

Bartholomew v. Bentley, 1 O. S. 37 (1852).

Where a majority of directors resign, or cease to be stockholders, the remaining minority have no power to fill vacancies.

Moses v. Tompkins, 84 Ala. 613 (1887).

Section 8663. (Oath.) Before entering upon his duties as such, each trustee and director must take an oath faithfully to discharge them. (R. S. Sec. 3247; March 15, 1909, 100 v. 12; R. S. 1880.)

An officer of a corporation who acts as such without being sworn is a de facto officer and his acts are binding as to third persons.
Simpson v. Garland, 76 Me. 203 (1884).

Section 8664. (Organization.) As soon thereafter as is convenient, the board of trustees or directors chosen at any election, shall select one of their number to be president thereof, and unless the regulations of the body otherwise provide for the election of such officers, also appoint a secretary and treasurer of the corporation. A majority of the directors of a corporation for profit and such a number of the trustees as the regulations of a corporation not for profit may provide, shall form a board. (R. S. Sec. 3247; March 15, 1909, 100 v. 12; R. S. 1880.)

I. Organization, p. 1042.

II. Executive officers, p. 1042.

A. Qualifications, p. 1042.

B. Election and term, p. 1042.

C. Removal, p. 1042.

D. Powers.

(a) Derived from statute, p. 1043.

(b) Conferred by regulations, p. 1043.

(c) Conferred by directors, p. 1043.

E. Not disqualified to testify by G. C. § 11495, p. 1043.

F. Compensation of directors and officers, p. 1043.

(a) Directors, p. 1043.

(b) Executive officers, p. 1043.

G. Directors and officers are not preferred creditors.

(a) Under statute giving preferences to "operatives", p. 1044.

(b) No right to appropriate corporate funds to payment of claim, p. 1044.

(c) Estoppel to set up unrecorded mortgage, p. 1044.

H. Liability, p. 1044.

I. Agreements to procure corporate office, p. 1044.

J. Insurable interest of corporation in life of director or officer, p. 1045.

K. President.

(a) Chosen by directors, not by stockholders, p. 1046.

(b) Qualifications, p. 1046.

(c) Powers, p. 1046.

(d) Presumption, as to, p. 1046.

(e) Authority to sign notes, p. 1047.

(f) Authority to execute chattel mortgage, p. 1047.

(g) Authority to bring or defend suits, p. 1047.

(h) Authority to appropriate corporate property to payment of debt due him from corporation, p. 1047.

- (i) Authority to sell bonds of corporation, p. 1047.
- (j) Authority to surrender franchise of corporation, p. 1047.
- (k) Liability, p. 1048.
- L. Vice-president, p. 1048.
- M. Secretary, p. 1048.
- N. Treasurer, p. 1048.
- O. General manager, p. 1049.
- P. Comptroller, p. 1049.
- Q. Cashier of bank, p. 1050.

I. ORGANIZATION.

This section authorizes a regulation fixing the number of trustees of a corporation not for profit. Rep. Atty. Gen. 1915, p. 89.

Majority of the directors. See note to § 8660. Quorum.

Where, of five directors elected, only three qualified and assumed to act, their acts are binding.

Dickason v. Grafton, etc., 6 C. C. n. s. 329, 333; 17 C. D. 357 (1905); aff'd, no rep., 76 O. S. 612.

The majority contemplated by this section is a majority of the whole number of directors, although there may be vacancies. Rep. Atty. Gen. 1914, p. 31, citing Ry. Co. v. Buffalo, 180 N. Y. 192, 197.

II. EXECUTIVE OFFICERS.

A director is an officer.

§ 8704.

Railway Co. v. McCoy, 42 O. S. 253 (1884).

But not an executive officer.

See § 8661.

State v. Peoples, etc., Assn., 42 O. S. 583 (1884).

A. Qualifications. All executive officers must be stockholders. § 8661.

See Bonnell v. Brown, 11 C. C. n. s. 58.

See note to § 8660. De facto directors or officers.

The president must be a director. See § 8664.

A corporation can not be the secretary or recording officer.

Burch v. Trust Co., 12 N. P. n. s. 86, 91 (1911).

But see § 710-158 for power of a trust company to act as registrar or transfer agent of stock.

Where the president ceases to be a director, and such vacancy in the board is filled, the office of president becomes vacant, and a new president may be chosen. Toledo Co. v. Smith, 205 Fed. 643, 660 (D. C. 1913).

B. Election and term. See also § 8704.

Where no directors are elected at the annual meeting of stockholders, the hold-over board of directors may, under this section, elect new executive officers. If, however, a new board of directors is subsequently elected by the stockholders (see G. C. 8647) the new board may elect executive officers under this section. State v. Clough, 18 C. C. n. s. 509 (1912); aff'd, no rep. 88 O. S. 590.

This section contemplates an annual election of officers.. State v. Clough, 18 C. C. n. s. 509 (1912); aff'd, no rep. 88 O. S. 590.

C. Removal. Regulations can not be adopted providing for the removal at stockholders' meetings, of officers or employes chosen or appointed by the directors. Toledo Co. v. Smith, 205 Fed. 643 (D. C. 1913).

See also note to § 8647.

D. Powers. (a) Derived from statute. The president and secretary are authorized and required by statute to execute stock certificates. (§ 8672.) A certificate of stock issued to the president or secretary personally is valid in the hands of a bona fide holder, although issued fraudulently.

Railway Co. v. Bank, 56 O. S. 351 (1897).

An officer should verify pleadings of a corporation.

Mfg. Co. v. Hedges, 76 O. S. 91 (1907).

(b) Conferred by regulations. The duties of officers may be provided for by the stockholders in the corporate regulations, except duties which are provided for by statute.

§ 8704.

Bradford Belting Co. v. Gibson, 68 O. S. 442, 449 (1903).

(c) Conferred by directors. All authority of executive officers, except that conferred by statute or corporate regulations, must be derived from the board of directors. The active business of a corporation is managed and controlled by the board of directors. While corporate contracts are usually negotiated and executed by executive officers, the authority to do so must, in some manner, be traced to the board of directors.

Belting Co. v. Gibson, 68 O. S. 442 (1903).

Minor v. Board of Control, 20 C. C. 4; 11 C. D. 16 (1899).

Tyson v. Miller-Tyson Co., 15 C. C. n. s. 177, 182; 23 C. D. 418, 424 (1912).

Executive officers are agents merely.

Smead Foundry Co. v. Chesbrough, 18 C. C. 783; 6 C. D. 670 (1895).

For further powers of executive officers see note to § 8660, Corporate contracts, and see below, President and various other officers.

E. Not disqualified to testify by G. C. § 11495. In an action against a corporation by an administrator, the general manager is not disqualified by G. C. § 11495 from testifying to facts occurring before the death of the decedent.

Cockley Milling Co. v. Bunn, 75 O. S. 270 (1906).

F. Compensation of directors and officers.

The stockholders have a right to fix the compensation of the corporate officers by provisions in the regulations.

§ 8704.

(a) Directors. In general, directors are entitled to reasonable compensation for their time, and reimbursement for expense incurred in attending meetings of the board.

State v. Peoples, etc., Assn., 42 O. S. 579, 583 (1885).

Where directors have accepted compensation for a period of service, they have no power, in subsequent terms, to vote themselves back pay for the same period.

State v. Peoples, etc., Assn., 42 O. S. 579 (1885).

(b) Executive officers. Where directors elect one of their number as secretary, he is entitled to reasonable compensation for his services as secretary although no agreement was made in advance regarding compensation, where the circumstances show that it was the intention of all parties that he should be paid.

Dalton v. Brush, etc., Co., 13 C. C. 505; 7 C. D. 141 (1897).

But where there was no expectation of payment, the officer can not recover compensation.

McMullen v. Ritchie, 64 Fed. 253; 8 O. F. D. 314 (U. S. C. C. Ohio 1894).

See State v. Peoples, etc., Assn., 42 O. S. 579 (1885).

Where the corporate regulations authorize the directors to fix the compensation of the president, treasurer and other executive officers, the action of directors in voting on their own salaries as such officers is not void, in the absence of a showing of fraud or unfair dealing toward the stockholders. Kirn v. Plumbing Co., 12 Ohio App. 55; 31 O. C. A. 47 (1919); motion to certify record overruled, 17 O. L. R. 392.

G. Directors and officers are not preferred creditors.

(a) Under statute giving preferences to "operatives." The secretary of a corporation is not an "operative" under G. C. § 11138 and not entitled to priority payment from the estate of an insolvent corporation, although he at times performed manual labor.

Green v. Weller, 6 C. C. 351; 3 C. D. 488 (1892).

In In re Armleder, etc., Co., 20 C. C. 699 (1900) it was held that a person who performed manual labor was entitled to priority payment although he was a director.

Contra, Williams v. Southard, 40 W. L. B. 287 (C. P. 1898).

(b) No right to appropriate corporate funds to payment of claim. A director or officer of a corporation has no right to appropriate corporate property or funds, in his possession for other purposes, in payment of a debt due him from the corporation.

Greenville Gas Co. v. Reis, 54 O. S. 549 (1896).

Dunbar v. Harrison, 18 O. S. 24, 38 (1868).

Where an officer, who owed the corporation $750.00 on a subscription to stock and had a claim of $500.00 for salary, executed the note of the corporation for $500.00 and transferred it in payment of an individual indebtedness, upon insolvency of the corporation it was held that the note in the hands of such creditor should be cancelled and the amount set off against the indebtedness of the officer.

In re Empress, etc., Co., 1 N. P. n. s. 20 (C. P. 1903).

(c) Estoppel to set up unrecorded mortgage. An officer of a corporation who holds a mortgage from the corporation which he has withheld from record, is estopped from setting up such mortgage as against subsequent mortgages which have been recorded and of which he had knowledge.

Jacobs v. Jacobs, 7 L. D. 486.

H. Liability. See note to § 8660.

I. Agreements to procure corporate office. An agreement between individuals to form a corporation, providing for its future management and control and specifying the future directors and officers and their compensation, is not void or illegal where the parties to the contract become the owners of all the capital stock of the corporation.

Doan v. Rogan, 79 O. S. 372, 386 (1909).

See Mullen v. Gaffery, 8 Am. L. R. 101 (Dist. Ct. 1879).

And where, in an agreement between individuals, it is provided that one of the parties shall be employed at a specified salary for a specified time by the other parties, or by a corporation to be thereafter formed by them, on breach of such agreement an action for damages may be maintained against the individual in default.

Doan v. Rogan, 79 O. S. 372 (1909).^{*}

Magil v. Rendigs, 12 L. D. 558 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1902).

See Mosier v. Parry, 60 O. S. 388 (1899).

But where there are other stockholders who are not parties to the contract, an agreement, by a director or by one or more stockholders owning a majority of the stock, to elect another person to a salaried corporate office is void as against public policy.

Jones v. Scudder, 2 C. S. C. R. 178 (1872).

West v. Camden, 135 U. S. 507 (1890).

Where a subscription to stock was made on condition that the subscriber be employed by the corporation at a certain salary, a breach by the corporation of the employment condition was held not to constitute a defense against the subscription, but to be an independent stipulation or condition subsequent for breach of which the remedy would be an action for damages.

Stunt v. Newark, etc., Co., 22 C. C. 120; 12 C. D. 175 (1901); aff'd, 67 O. S. 555.

But where stock in an existing corporation is purchased only in consideration of an agreement by the corporation to employ the purchaser, the latter, on a breach of the employment agreement by the corporation, may rescind the stock purchase contract and recover the amount paid by him thereon. Buschmeyer v. Machinery Co., 7 Ohio App. 202; 27 O. C. A. 337 (1916); motion to certify record overruled.

Where money was loaned to a corporation on a note due in two years, on condition that the son of the lender be employed by the corporation for the same time, without discharge except for specified causes, the sale by the corporation of its business, necessitating the retirement of the son, is equivalent to his discharge and renders the note due as of the date of retirement.

Benton v. Standard Carbonic Co., 6 O. L. R. 568; 19 L. D. 551; C. P. (1908).

J. Insurable interest of corporation in life of director or officer.

Where a person owns a large portion of the stock of a corporation, and his skill and experience are largely relied on to make the corporate business a success, and when, in borrowing money of banks, and in dealing with creditors, and in inducing other persons to buy stock in the corporation, he represents that he has insured his life for the benefit of the corporation, such facts disclose an insurable interest in the corporation; and the insured and his legal representatives are estopped from claiming that such policies are not based upon an insurable interest, or that the amounts due thereon do not belong to the corporation.

Keckley v. Coshocton Glass Co., 86 O. S. 213 (1912); affirming, 13 C. n. s. 229, 240; 21 C. D. 665, 676.

Where an officer made application for insurance specifying the corporation as beneficiary, and the premiums were paid by the corporation, it is entitled to the proceeds of the policy as against the executor of the insured, although the insured, before his death, had retired as such officer or director.

Insurance Co. v. Coshocton Glass Co., 13 C. C. n. s. 229; 21 C. D. 665 (1910); affirmed, Keckley v. Coshocton Glass Co., 86 O. S. 213.

And where a policy in which the widow was named as beneficiary was assigned to a corporation in which the insured was an officer, and all premiums were paid by the corporation, it is entitled to the proceeds of the policy as against the widow.

Coshocton Glass Co. v. Insurance Co., 13 C. C. n. s. 240; 21 C. D. 676 (1910); affirmed, Keckley v. Coshocton Glass Co., 86 O. S. 213.

In Schott, etc., Co. v. Insurance Co., 11 C. C. n. s. 401; 20 C. D. 656 (affirming 7 N. P. n. s. 548; 19 L. D. 249; and affirmed no report, 83 O. S. 507), it was said that a corporation has no insurable interest in the life of an officer or director who is not indebted to it, and that a note given for premiums on a policy on the life of a director or officer is without consideration. The note involved in that case, however, was given by the secretary and general manager without authority from the directors.

K. President.

(a) Chosen by directors, not by stockholders. Under a Colorado statute providing that the directors shall elect one of their number to be president, it was held that an election of a president by the stockholders was a nullity.

Walsenberg Water Co. v. Moore, 5 Colo. App. 144; 38 Pac. 60.

(b) Qualifications. The president must be a stockholder (§ 8661) and a director. (§ 8664.)

(c) Powers. The powers of the president, in the making of contracts, as those of other executive officers, must be traced to the board of directors.

See Executive officers supra; and note to § 8660. Corporate contracts.

The president of a mutual life insurance company has no authority to levy a call or assessment, where the laws of the company provided two different methods of restoring a deficiency in its mortuary fund. The power of levying the call or assessment is vested in the directors. Beckel v. Insurance Co., 15 N. P. n. s. 266 (C. P. 1913).

The president of a corporation, who also owns all of its stock, may bind the corporation by a contract of sale, although made in his own name. Insurance Co. v. Brown, 16 C. C. n. s. 518 (1905).

Where the president is authorized to make contracts, he may bind the corporation by ratification of a contract made by the secretary, without authority. Grabler Mfg. Co. v. Leahy, 18 C. C. n. s. 17 (1910); aff'd, no rep. 85 O. S. 442.

(d) Presumption as to. Written contracts are usually signed by the president, and it is held that a written instrument or contract executed in proper form under the corporate seal by the president is presumed to have been authorized by the directors, and that the burden of proof rests on the party denying such authority.

Bank v. Flour Co., 41 O. S. 552, 557 (1885).

C. H. & D. R. Co. v. Harter, 26 O. S. 426 (1875).

Dexter Sav. Bank v. Friend, 90 Fed. 703 (1898).

The presumption is not rebutted by the mere fact that authority to execute the instrument is not found on the minutes of the directors.

C. H. & D. R. Co. v. Harter, 26 O. S. 426 (1875).

The presumption does not apply to unusual instruments or contracts. There is no presumption that the president is authorized to convey the entire property of a corporation.

De Lavergne, etc., Co. v. German Sgs. Int., 175 U. S. 40 (1889).
Nor to make an assignment for creditors.

Commercial N. B. v. Cincinnati N. B., 3 C. C. 513, 517; 2 C. D. 295 (1889).

(e) To sign notes. The promissory note of a corporation, signed in its name by the president, is prima facie valid and binding on the corporation.

Dexter Sav. Bank v. Friend, 90 Fed. 703 (U. S. C. C. Ohio 1898).

See Andres v. Morgan, 62 O. S. 236, 248 (1900).

But a cognovit note signed by the president is not binding on the corporation in the absence of proof of authority from the directors.

Smead Foundry Co. v. Cheesbrough, 18 C. C. 783; 6 C. D. 670 (1895).

See Jackson v. Nelsonville Co., 6 Ohio App. 171; 27 C. C. n. s. 81 (1916) for ratification of cognovit notes.

A note signed by the president and payable to himself is not binding unless authority from the directors is shown.

In re Hartwell Furniture Co., 7 O. L. R. 555 (Referee in Bkry. 1909).

In re Continental Iron Co., 2 O. L. R. 563 (Referee in Bkry. 1904).

Arnkens v. Rouse, 26 W. L. B. 221 (C. P. 1891).

In re Empress Josephine, etc., Co., 1 N. P. n. s. 20 (C. P. 1903).

Compare In re Troy, etc., Co., 136 Fed. 420; aff'd, 142 Fed. 1038.

Where the president is authorized to sign notes, a note signed by him is valid in the hands of a bona fide holder although executed for an unauthorized purpose.

Dexter Sav. Bank v. Friend, 90 Fed. 703 (U. S. C. C. Ohio 1898).

(f) To execute chattel mortgage. Where the president and secretary were authorized to execute notes and mortgages, a chattel mortgage executed by them to secure a preexisting debt was held valid as against other creditors, although executed without the knowledge of other directors.

Bosche v. Toledo, etc., Co., 14 C. C. 289; 7 C. D. 374 (1897).

(g) To bring or defend suits. The president of an insolvent corporation may bring or defend suits to protect the property of the corporation, without specific authority from the directors.

Kalb v. American N. B., 21 C. C. 1; 11 C. D. 437 (1900); aff'd, no rep., 65 O. S. 566.

(h) To appropriate corporate property in payment of debt due him from corporation. The president of a corporation can not, without consent of the directors, appropriate a bond of the corporation, entrusted to him for sale, in payment of a debt due him from the corporation.

Greenville Gas Co. v. Reis, 54 O. S. 549 (1896).

(i) To sell bonds of corporation. The president of a corporation has no implied authority to sell its mortgage bonds, nor to employ another person to sell them; although the president was authorized to act as general manager in the conduct of its ordinary business.

East Cleveland R. Co. v. Everett, 19 C. C. 205; 10 C. D. 493 (1900).

But where bonds complete in form and negotiable by delivery, are placed in the custody of the president, he thereby becomes clothed with apparent authority of disposition, and a bona fide purchaser acquires a valid title although the president negotiates them wrongfully and for his own benefit.

Railway Co. v. Lynde, 55 O. S. 23 (1896); aff'd, 172 U. S. 493.

Railway Co. v. Bank, 56 O. S. 351 (1897).

(j) To surrender franchise of corporation. It has been held that the president had no power, without special authority, to surrender or dispose of franchises granted by special charter under a former constitution.

Sebastian v. Covington, etc., Co., 21 O. S. 451 (1871).

To sign consent for street railway. The president of a corporation has no authority to execute a consent to a street railway.

Rapp v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 12 W. L. B. 119 (C. P.).

(k) Liability. Signing stock certificate representing stock to be "full paid." The president of a corporation who signed a stock certificate containing the statement "full paid and nonassessable" was held not liable to a person who purchased such stock in the open market, for less than par without inquiry as to the assets of the corporation, although the president knew that such stock had been issued for property at an overvaluation.

Nutt v. Wheeler, 10 C. C. n. s. 217; 20 C. D. 86 (1907).

See note to § 8660. Officers and agents. Liability.

L. Vice-president. Where no authority is given to the vice-president in the regulations or by-laws, and where he was not accustomed to sign notes, the corporation is not liable on notes signed by him.

Morris v. Griffith, 34 W. L. B. 191 (U. S. C. C. Ohio 1895).

The vice-president of a bank has no implied power to borrow money.

Western N. B. v. Armstrong, 152 U. S. 346; 7 O. F. D. 499 (1894).

M. Secretary.

A secretary has no implied authority to bind the corporation by a representation that the corporation will not perform a contract theretofore made by it.

Belting Co. v. Gibson, 68 O. S. 442 (1903).

Nor to take out insurance on the lives of directors.

Security, etc., Ins. Co. v. Schott, etc., Co., 11 C. C. n. s. 401 (1908); aff'd, no rep., 83 O. S. 507.

The secretary is authorized and required to sign stock certificates.

See § 8672.

Railway Co. v. Bank, 56 O. S. 351 (1897).

Bank v. Safe & Lock Co., 66 O. S. 367 (1902).

See further as to powers executive officers supra, and note to § 8660, corporate contracts.

A contract entered into by the secretary, without authority, may be ratified by the president when the latter is authorized by the by-laws to make contracts. Grabler Mfg. Co. v. Leahy, 18 C. C. n. s. 17 (1910); aff'd, no rep. 85 O. S. 442.

The secretary of a corporation who is in possession of its books, and is acting as general manager, may be punished for contempt of court for refusal to comply with an order of court directing him to submit the books to the inspection of the adverse party, although he is acting under the order of the directors, who are nonresidents.

Arbuckle v. Woolson Spice Co., 21 C. C. 356; 11 C. D. 727 (1901).

Where the duties of a secretary were to receive and deposit money, and to endorse checks for deposit only, with no authority to sign checks or pay out or withdraw money, a surety on his bond, conditioned to make good any loss occasioned by his dishonesty in connection with such duties, is not liable for the act of the secretary in inducing the corporation to make a loan on fictitious security to a fictitious person, whose name was forged to the check of the corporation by the secretary.

Trustees v. Deposit Co., 76 O. S. 253 (1907).

N. Treasurer.

Where a treasurer deposits corporate funds in a reputable bank, to his credit as treasurer or trustee, and not mingled with his personal funds, he is not liable if they are lost by a failure of the bank.

Odd Fellows, etc., Assn. v. Ferson, 3 C. C. 84; 2 C. D. 48 (1888).

It is the duty of the treasurer of a corporation to account for all moneys coming into his possession as treasurer, and the corporation may enforce such duty by action.

Muhlhauser v. Cleveland Hospital, 21 C. C. 88 (1900).

A surety on the bond of a treasurer, conditioned that he shall perform his duties according to the regulations, charter, etc., is responsible for all moneys coming into the possession of such treasurer and not accounted for.

Portage, etc., Co. v. Wetmore, 17 Ohio 330 (1848).

It is no defense to the surety on a treasurer's bond that the funds were derived from an ultra vires business.

Juegling v. Arbeiter Bund, 4 W. L. B. 463; 8 Am. L. R. 94 (Dist. Ct. 1879)

See supra secretary.

Term of bond.

See Fancher v. Kaneen, 5 N. P. n. s. 614 (C. P. 1907).

Where a receiver has instituted a contempt proceeding against the treasurer of a corporation for refusing to turn over the corporate funds, and the treasurer answers that there are no funds in his possession, the proceeding will be dismissed. Such an issue can not be tried in a summary proceeding.

State v. Christy, 4 O. L. R. 64; 3 O. L. R. 430; 16 L. D. 277 (C. P. 1905).

When suit may be brought against defaulting treasurer. Suit may be brought against the treasurer of a corporation as soon as he has made default. The corporation need not wait until his successor has been appointed.

Marlborough Assn. v. Peters, 179 Mass. 61; 60 N. E. 396 (1901).

O. General manager. The authority of a general manager is usually limited to transactions within the usual course of business. He has no implied authority to sign a petition for a street improvement, making the corporate property liable for an assessment. Minor v. Board of Control, 20 C. C. 4; 11 C. D. 16.

The manager of a brewing company was held not to have implied authority to order a bowling alley installed in connection with a saloon, in view of G. C. § 13396 prohibiting bowling alleys in such connection. Brewing Co. v. Brunswick, etc., Co., 18 C. C. n. s. 255 (1909).

But the authority of a manager is sometimes deemed to be wider in scope than that of a mere agent. A provision in a life insurance policy limiting the authority of "agents" of the company was held not to apply to its "manager". Life Asso. Soc. v. Statler, 17 C. C. n. s. 59; 34 C. D. 391 (1911); aff'd, no rep., 88 O. S. 549.

P. Comptroller. An officer of a street railway company, having the title of comptroller, promised a materialman, who was furnishing materials to a contractor engaged on work for the company, that the company would pay for the materials. The comptroller supervised the auditing and treasury departments of the company. The auditing department settled accounts against the company and the treasury paid them. The comptroller raised the funds to pay accounts and at times acted as vice president and at other times as treasurer.

Whether the comptroller had authority to bind the company by promising payment to the contractor was held to be a question for the jury. The promise was not unauthorized, as a matter of law. Traction Co. v. Cole, 258 Fed. 169, 179 (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1919).

Q. Cashier of bank. A cashier can not bind his bank by an agreement, made contemporaneously with a loan by the bank on a note signed by sureties, that he would procure bonds as collateral, and exhaust the bonds before resorting to the liability of the sureties.

Martin v. First N. B., 11 C. C. n. s. 93; 20 C. D. 398 (1907).

Nor by an agreement to defend a suit for another bank and indemnify it against loss therefrom.

First N. B. v. Mansfield Sav. Bank, 10 C. C. 233; 6 C. D. 452 (1895).

Knowledge by a cashier, of matters within his authority, is imputable to the bank.

Orme v. Baker, 74 O. S. 337 (1906).

Rangan v. Donovan, 10 O. L. R. 354; 189 Fed. 138 (U. S. D. C. 1911).

The cashier of a bank which is a creditor of a decedent's estate may be appointed administrator under G. C. § 10617 although the cashier individually is not a creditor.

McCallip v. Sharp, 13 L. D. 650 (C. P. 1903).

A cashier, authorized to sell commercial paper, has authority to guarantee that the paper is collectible.

Sturges v. Bank, 11 O. S. 153 (1860).

Where a transaction with a bank properly pertains to the business of the bank, neither the abuse or disregard of his authority by its managing officer or agent, nor his fraud or bad faith, is a defense to the bank in an action against it by an innocent party, growing out of such transaction.

Bank v. Blakesley, 42 O. S. 645 (1885).

A cashier of a bank, who is also treasurer of a building association, can not bind the bank by entering on the books of the bank a fictitious credit to the building association, on the faith of which a dividend is paid.

Webb v. Stasel, 4 N. P. n. s. 587; 17 L. D. 317 (1906); s. c., 80 O. S. 122.

Section 8665. (Change in number of directors.) By a vote of a majority of its stock, at a regular meeting of an incorporated company, it may increase the number of its directors to not more than thirty. In like manner, at any time, their number can be reduced to not less than five. At a special meeting of stockholders, also, called and of which notice was given as provided for the election of directors, by vote of a majority of its stock, the increase in the number of directors may be made. Those elected shall hold their offices until the next annual election for directors, and until their successors are elected and qualified. (R. S. Sec. 3267; April 2, 1906, 98 v. 295; May 15, 1886, 83 v. 163; R. S. 1880.)

This section does not expressly apply to trustees of a corporation not for profit. But by § 8664 the number of such trustees may be fixed by the regulations. Rep. Atty. Gen. 1913, p. 89.

Decrease. A director elected at an annual meeting holds office for one year. His tenure of office can not be shortened by a decrease in the number of directors made after his election.

Lutterby v. Herancourt Brewing Co., 12 L. D. 67 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1901).

But the office of trustee of a church is not one coupled with such an interest that the members can not terminate its tenure of office.

Munsel v. Boyd, 10 C. C. n. s. 121, 127; 20 C. D. 182 (1907).

Where the number of directors is decreased, by unanimous vote of all stockholders present, at a meeting, notice of which has been waived by all stockholders, no one can complain of the action except possibly a director who does not assent and who refuses to resign. In re Mfg. & Sales Co., 246 Fed. 1005; 16 O. L. R. 163 (D. C. Ohio 1917).

Increase. Stockholders may effect a change in the policy of management by increasing the number of directors at a special meeting.

Toledo Co. v. Smith, 205 Fed. 643, 660 (D. C. 1913).

Gold Bluff, etc., Corp. v. Whitlock, 75 Conn. 669 (1903).

In re Griffing Iron Co., 63 N. J. L. 168, 357 (1898).

See Mower v. Staples, 32 Minn. 284 (1884).

Section 8666. (Liability of trustees.) The trustees of a corporation created for a purpose other than profit, shall be personally liable for all debts of the corporation by them contracted. (R. S. Sec. 3261; April 17, 1854, 52 v. 44, § 78; S. & C. 310.)

Corporations not for profit, see note to § 8623.

Trustees of corporation having capital stock. The trustees of a chamber of commerce, not for profit, are liable for its debts contracted by them, notwithstanding a provision in its articles of incorporation for a capital stock and a declaration that it is intended to promote the prosperity of the city in which it is located.

Snyder v. Chamber of Commerce, 53 O. S. 1 (1895).

Nature of liability. The liability of trustees under § 8666 is secondary and collateral to the principal obligation of the corporation, and can be resorted to only in case of the insolvency of the corporation, or where payment can not be enforced against it by ordinary process.

Walbrecht v. Pucketat, 9 W. L. B. 335 (Dist. Ct. 1883).

After obtaining a judgment against the corporation, the creditor can not sue the trustees on his original claim. His remedy is in the nature of a creditor's bill, on the judgment, alleging the inability of the corporation to discharge the debt.

Horstman v. Rix, 4 W. L. G. 131 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1859).

Where an action brought against the trustees was decided in their favor, on the ground that no judgment had been obtained against the corporation, and thereafter a judgment was obtained against the corporation, and another action brought against the trustees, the first judgment in favor of the trustees is not a bar to the second action against them. In such case the justice, before whom the first action was tried, may testify as to the ground on which he decided the same.

Mahaffey v. Rogers, 10 C. C. 24; 6 C. D. 88 (1894); aff'd, no rep., 37 W. L. B. 292.

For what debts trustees are liable. Where an indebtedness was incurred on behalf of the corporation, and the creditor refused to accept the note of the corporation, but accepted the personal note of the trustees therefor, which was renewed by the note of the corporation, the trustees were held liable.

Mahaffey v. Rogers, 10 C. C. 24; 6 C. D. 88 (1894); aff'd, without report, 37 W. L. B. 292.

The trustees of an incorporated fraternal benefit society are not liable for its debts, although incurred for expenses. This section does not apply to fraternal benefit societies. Paper Co. v. Chevaliers, 18 C. C. n. s. 257 (1909).

The claim of a member of a mutual insurance corporation organized under § 9593, for a loss under his certificate of membership and insurance, is not a debt for which the trustees are liable, although they might be liable on claims for rent, supplies, salaries, etc.

Mfgs. Fire Assn. v. Lynchburg Drug Mills, 8 C. C. 112; 4 C. D. 350 (1893).

See Kelly v. Bender, 22 C. C. 144; 12 C. D. 181 (1901).

Strobridge v. Winchell, 7 Am. L. R. 743; 4 W. L. B. 408 (1879).

Nor does the fact that the certificate of insurance is ultra vires render the trustees liable if the certificate was issued in good faith.

Mfgs. Fire Assn. v. Lynchburg Drug Mills, 8 C. C. 112; 4 C. D. 350 (1893).

The liability of trustees applies to debts incurred during their term of office. Brewing Co. v. Reverman, 21 N. P. n. s. 193 (1917); aff'd by Court of Appeals; motion to certified record overruled, 15 O. L. R. 485.

A judgment and execution against the corporation is not a bar to an action against trustees based on their liability under this section. Brewing Co. v. Reverman, 21 N. P. n. s. 193 (1917); aff'd by Court of Appeals; motion to certify record overruled, 15 O. L. R. 485.

Actions. An action to subject the liability of trustees under § 8666 is governed as to procedure by G. C. § 8690. Paper Co. v. Chevaliers, 18 C. C. n. s. 195 (1907).

CAPITAL STOCK.

Section 8667. (Classes of stock.) If a corporation be organized for profit, it must have a capital stock, which may consist of common and preferred, or common only; but at no time shall the amount of preferred stock at par value exceed two-thirds of the actual capital paid in in cash or property. (R. S. Sec. 3235a; May 12, 1902, 95 v. 623.)

A corporation which is necessarily for profit can not be organized without a capital stock.

State v. Home Co-op. Union, 63 O. S. 547 (1900).

The stock of a corporation is not its property, and is not owned by it, but by the several stockholders. It owes the stock and does not own it. The stock is a liability of the corporation and not an asset.

Southern Gum Co. v. Laylin, 66 O. S. 578, 596 (1902).

Nat'l Bank v. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co., 21 O. S. 221, 230 (1871).

State v. Franklin Bank, 10 Ohio 91 (1840).

Statement of capital stock in articles of incorporation, see § 8625.

In an action for damages for breach of a written contract entitling the plaintiff to a certain compensation if his efforts resulted in a certain profit upon the "capital stock of the company", it was held that it could be shown by parol evidence that the words "capital stock" in the contract referred to common stock only, exclusive of preferred stock. Miller v. Baker Co., 208 Fed. 190; 11 O. L. R. 557 (D. C. 1912).

Does the limit of this section apply to authorized preferred stock, or only to the issue of preferred stock? One view is that § 8625 places no limit on the amount of authorized preferred stock and that this section limits only the amount of preferred stock that may be issued and outstanding after incorporation. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1921, p. 1102; 15 Dep. Rep. 260.

Another view is that the limit applies to authorized preferred stock and that the par value of all the preferred stock may not exceed twice the par value of all the common stock. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1916, p. 1716.

This section does not apply to corporations organized under the no-par-value stock law. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1922, p. 260; 16 Dept. Rep. 35.

Under the no-par-value stock law, the number of shares of preferred stock may, at no time, exceed two-thirds of the total number of shares, common and preferred, outstanding. G. C. § 8728-1.

A foreign corporation entering the state need not adjust its capital stock to conform to this section. This section does not apply to foreign corporations. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1919, p. 590.

Section 8668. (Dividends on preferred stock.) When the capital stock is to be both common and preferred, it may be provided in the articles of incorporation that the holders of the preferred stock shall be entitled to yearly dividends of not more than eight per cent, payable quarterly, half yearly, or yearly out of the surplus profits of the company each year in preference to all other stockholders. Such dividends also may be made cumulative. (R. S. Sec. 3235a; May 12, 1902, 95 v. 623.)

Dividends on preferred stock may be paid out of surplus profits only.

G. C. § 8724.

Miller v. Ratterman, 47 O. S. 141, 158 (1890).

Painesville, etc., Ry. Co. v. King, 17 O. S. 534 (1867).

Mente v. Groff, 10 N. P. n. s. 148 (1910).

Cumulative or noncumulative. Before the enactment of this section it was held that dividends on preferred stock were cumulative, in the absence of a provision making them noncumulative.

Dayton, etc., R. Co. v. Shoemaker, 3 C. C. 473, 479; 2 C. D. 270, 273 (1888); affirming 18 W. L. B. 43.

Additional dividends. Where the articles of incorporation and stock certificates are silent as to dividends on preferred stock, the authorities are in conflict as to whether the preferred stockholders are entitled to participate in dividends declared after the stipulated dividend has been declared on the preferred and an equal dividend declared on the common. By some authorities the preferred stock does not participate in the additional dividends. Shimon v. National Screw & Tack Co., 18 N. P. n. s. 569; 26 L. D. 315 (1916).

According to older authorities, the preferred stock does participate.

Ryan v. Miami Valley R. Co., 10 Am. L. R. 263, 266 (C. P. 1881).

Fidelity Trust Co. v. Railroad, 215 Pa. St. 610 (1906).

A provision, in articles of incorporation, permitting preferred stockholders to participate in extra dividends after common stockholders have received dividends equal to the first dividend on preferred stock, is not in violation of § 8668. The limitation of this section is not violated so long as the difference between the dividend paid on preferred and that paid on other stock does not exceed eight percent.

Rep. Atty. Gen. 1911-1912, pp. 95, 115.

Rep. Atty. Gen. 1907. p. 113.

Waiver of dividends. An agreement between all the stockholders of a corporation, whereby the preferred stockholders remitted all accumulated dividends, in consideration that the common stockholders pay an assessment of a certain amount, is valid and enforceable. Dever v. Engineering Co., 5 Ohio App. 77; 24 C. C. n. s. 454 (1915); motion to certify record overruled, 13 O. L. R. 515.

Flexible divided rate when preferred stock issued in parts. The following provision in articles has been approved. (Opins. Atty. Gen. 1922, p. 918.)

"All the preferred stock herein authorized as and when issued is of equal priority and validity, and on a parity, except as to rate of dividend and redemption price, and possesses the following rights, powers, and privileges, and is subject to the limitations and restrictions as follows."

"Dividends. The holders of the preferred stock of the company shall be entitled to receive dividends out of the surplus profits of the company at the per centum per annum, and no more, which shall be fixed by the directors at the time of issue of any part of said preferred stock. The rate so fixed shall apply to such partial issue only and may be changed by the directors with reference to subsequent partial issues at the time of each issuance thereof. The dividend rate so fixed shall not be less than five percent nor more than eight percent per annum."

"Redemption. The preferred stock shall be subject to redemption in whole or in part, at the option of the board of directors, by giving _____ days' notice _____, upon payment of all accrued and unpaid dividends, and an amount, not less than par, for each share as shall have been fixed by the board of directors at the time of issue of each part of said preferred stock. The amount so fixed shall apply to such partial issue only, and may be changed by the directors with reference to subsequent partial issues at the time of issuance thereof."

Guaranty of dividends. Mortgage to secure. A guaranty of dividends on preferred stock is not a guaranty for payment in any event, but only in the event that dividends are earned.

Miller v. Ratterman, 47 O. S. 141 (1890).

A mortgage to secure dividends on preferred stock is subject to the condition that such dividends must be earned, although such condition may be apparently inconsistent with the mortgage.

Miller v. Ratterman, 47 O. S. 141 (1890).

Warren v. King, 108 U. S. 389, 398 (1883).

The verbal promise by the president of a corporation that a subscriber should receive certain dividends, is not a promise to answer for the debt, default or miscarriage of another; dividends not being a debt.

Moorehouse v. Crangle, 36 O. S. 130 (1880).

Section 8669. (Powers of corporation relative to common and preferred stock.) A corporation issuing both common and preferred stock may create designations, preferences, and voting powers, or restrictions or qualifications thereof, in the certificate of incorporation, and if desired, preferred stock may be made subject to redemption at not less than par, at a fixed time and price, to be expressed in the stock certificates thereof.

Preferred stock may also be redeemed in whole or part by purchase thereof by the corporation or by exchanging the same for common stock, or be converted into common stock, upon such terms as from time to time may be proposed by the board of directors and accepted by the holders thereof. Preferred stock redeemed may be cancelled by the board of directors, and if so cancelled shall not be re-issued. A certificate of such cancellation shall be filed with the secretary of state, as a certificate of reduction. Thereupon the authorized capital stock of such corporation shall be reduced by the amount stated in said certificate. (107 v. 411; R. S. Sec. 3235a; 95 v. 623.)

In crease of capital by preferred stock. § 8698.

Preferred stock of railroad companies. §§ 8805, 8817.

It has been said that, in Ohio, preferred stock is substantially a liability, with rights inferior to general debts. Miller v. Baker Co., 208 Fed. 190; 11 O. L. R. 557, 559 (D. C. 1912).

Articles may provide for preferred stock without "designations, preferences, and voting powers, or restrictions and qualifications thereof". In such a case, the preferred has, by § 8671, preference in assets over common stock, but in other respects it is not distinguishable from common stock. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1915, p. 1856.

Voting rights and restrictions. Preferred stock has equal voting rights with any other stock, unless such rights are restricted in the resolution by which the preferred stock was authorized. An agreement, understanding or belief to the contrary not expressed in such resolution is ineffective. State v. Urschel, 104 O. S. 172 (1922).

Preferred stock may be given exclusive voting rights. Krell v. Piano Co., 14 Ohio App. 74 (1921); affirming 23 N. P. n. s. 193; motion to certify record overruled, 19 O. L. R. 125; Opins. Atty. Gen. 1919, p. 138.

The right to vote preferred stock may be entirely withheld.

Miller v. Ratterman, 47 O. S. 141 (1890).

Or, restricted to certain circumstances and conditions, as, when dividends are in default.

See Ryan v. Miami, etc., Co., 10 Am. L. R. 263 (C. P. 1881).

Preferred stockholders may be given the exclusive right to vote for directors while the corporation is in arrears in payment of preferred dividends, or in payments into a sinking fund for the redemption of preferred stock. Krell v. Piano Co., 14 Ohio App. 74 (1921); affirming 23 N. P. n. s. 193; motion to certify record overruled, 19 O. L. R. 125; Opins. Atty. Gen. 1919, p. 138; 17 O. L. R. 208.

Where, by the terms of the issue, preferred stockholders are given the right to choose six of the eleven directors of the corporation, a denial of such right by non-resident stockholders affects property rights in Ohio, and service by publication may be made on such non-resident stockholders. Shinkle v. Dalton Co., 19 N. P. n. s. 104 (1916).

Change of unissued common stock into preferred or unissued preferred into common stock. After organization, by amendment to the articles of incorporation, unissued common stock may be changed into preferred stock, or unissued preferred stock may be changed into common stock. § 8719.

Before the amendment of § 8719 (107 v. 414) this could be accomplished only by unanimous consent of the stockholders. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1915, pp. 8, 127, 363, 1284.

Redemption. To redeem means to purchase back; to repurchase.

Miller v. Ratterman, 47 O. S. 141, 156 (1890).

Mannington v. Hocking Valley Ry. Co., 183 Fed. 133, 145; 8 O. L. R. 451, 466; 16 O. F. D. 552 (U. S. D. C. 1910).

After redemption, preferred stock can not be reissued, and no franchise (Willis) tax may be assessed thereon. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1918, p. 907.

The redemption of preferred stock, authorized by statute, is not a reduction of the corporation's capital stock by a purchase of its own shares.

Mannington v. Hocking Valley Ry. Co., 183 Fed. 133; 8 O. L. R. 451; 16 O. F. D. 552 (U. S. C. C. 1910); s. c., 9 N. P. n. s. 641; 20 L. D. 468.

The right to redeem preferred stock of a railroad company under § 8817 may be exercised by the directors.

Mannington v. Hocking Valley Ry. Co., 183 Fed. 133, 142, 146; 8 O. L. R. 451, 462, 467; 16 O. F. D. 552; (U. S. C. C. 1910); s. c., 9 N. P. n. s. 641; 20 L. D. 468 (C. P.).

The redemption of preferred stock will not be enjoined where plaintiff has no interest in the stock, although it is part of a conspiracy to oppress the plaintiff.

Gould v. C. & O. Ry., 10 N. P. n. s. 129 (1910).

For flexible redemption price when preferred stock issued in parts from time to time, see note to § 8668.

Issues of stock construed. Preferred stock or debt. Held to be preferred stock.

Miller v. Ratterman, 47 O. S. 141 (1890); reversing 22 W. L. B. 99.

Ryan v. Miami, etc., Co., 10 A. L. R. 263 (C. P. 1881).

Hamlin v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., 78 Fed. 664 (C. C. A. 1897).

Held to be a debt.

Burt v. Rattle, 31 O. S. 116 (1876).

College endowment stock, issued by corporation not for profit.

See Ohio College, etc., v. Rosenthal, 45 O. S. 183 (1887).

Bryant v. Ohio College, etc., 1 C. S. C. R. 307 (1871).

See also note to § 9927.

Distinct rights of different classes of stockholders. Parties to actions.

See Port Clinton, etc., Co. v. Cleveland, etc., Co., 13 O. S. 544

Section 8670. (Liability of holder of preferred stock.)

Upon the insolvency of the corporation no holder of preferred stock shall be liable for its debts until after the remedy against the common stockholders upon their liability, as provided by law, has been exhausted, and then only for such amount as remains unpaid. Such liability in no event shall exceed that fixed by law for the common stock of such corporation. (R. S. Sec. 3235a; 95 v. 623.)

An action may be brought upon a subscription to preferred stock, before exhausting the liability of subscribers to common stock, where the corporation is insolvent, and the full amount of subscriptions to preferred stock will be necessary to pay the corporate debts. Yoder v. Tubman, 19 C. C. n. s. 225 (1911).

An agreement by the corporation to give shares of common stock free, as a bonus to a subscriber to preferred stock, does not release the subscriber from his obligation to pay for the preferred stock. Yoder v. Tubman, 19 C. C. n. s. 225 (1911).

Section 8671. (Rights of holders of preferred stock.)

On the insolvency or dissolution of the corporation, the holders of preferred stock shall be entitled to receive from the assets remaining after paying its liabilities, the full payment of its par value, before anything is paid to the common stock. (R. S. Sec. 3235a; 95 v. 623.)

There is no authority for inserting in articles of incorporation a statement limiting the statutory rights of preferred stockholders conferred by this section. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1918, p. 517.

Before the enactment of this section it was held that, where not prohibited by statute, preference might be given as to assets as well as dividends.

Hamlin v. Toledo, etc., Co., 78 Fed. 664 (C. C. A. 1897).

Continental Trust Co. v. Toledo, etc., Co., 86 Fed. 929 (C. C. 1898).

Toledo, etc., Co. v. Continental Trust Co., 95 Fed. 497 (C. C. A. 1899).

But such preference could be over other stock only; not over the rights of creditors.

Warren v. King, 108 U. S. 389 (1883).

Section 8672. (Certificate of stock.) Upon his demand therefor, of the president or secretary of the company, they shall execute and deliver to any stockholder a certificate showing the true amount of paid up stock therein, held by him. (R. S. Sec. 3254; April 14, 1884, 81 v. 196; R. S. 1880.)

A stockholder who has paid for his stock may, by a suit in equity, compel the issuance and delivery of a certificate, or he may sue for damages. But mandamus is not the proper remedy.

State v. Carpenter, 51 O. S. 83 (1894).

Freon v. Carriage Co., 42 O. S. 30 (1884).

A stockholder is only entitled to a certificate for such stock as is paid in full.

Cincinnati, etc., Co. v. Bank, 1 C. C. 199, 209; 1 C. D. 109 (1885).

State v. Davis, 85 O. S. 44 (1911).

Where all of the capital stock of a bank, organized under former statutes, was subscribed for, and only fifty percent paid thereon, the bank has no legal right to issue certificates to the stockholders. Rep. Atty. Gen. 1912, p. 688.

The assignee of a subscription may tender the amount due thereon and compel the corporation to issue a certificate.

Iron Railroad Co. v. Fink, 41 O. S. 321 (1884).

Certificates of stock generally, see note to § 8673.

Section 8673. (Record of certificates of stock.) The directors of such corporation, when organized, shall keep a record of all stock subscribed and transferred, and its secretary or recording officer shall register all subscriptions and transfers of stock. For that purpose a book shall be kept, and when a certificate of stock is assigned and delivered by a stockholder, the assignee thereof on demand may have it duly transferred therein by such officer, who at the same time shall enroll also the name of the assignee as a stockholder. The books and records of such corporation at all reasonable times shall be open to the inspection of every stockholder. (R. S. Sec. 3254; April 14, 1884, 81 v. 196; R. S. 1880.)

Transfers of stock on corporate books. See note to § 8673-1.

CERTIFICATES OF STOCK.

Certificates of stock are not "moneys" or "credits."

State v. Davis, 85 O. S. 44 (1911).

Distinguished from stock itself. There is a distinction between the stock and the certificate representing such stock. The certificate is not the stock itself but merely evidence of its ownership.

Bank v. Towle Mfg. Co., 67 O. S. 306, 314 (1902).

State v. Davis, 85 O. S. 44 (1911).

Person may be a stockholder without a certificate. A certificate is not necessary to constitute a person a stockholder. The person who appears on the books of a corporation as the owner of stock is entitled to vote and to receive dividends, although no certificates have been issued, or his certificates have been lost.

Simons Hardware Co. v. Stokes, 16 C. C. 145, 150; 8 C. D. 779 (1898).

Bank v. Towle Mfg. Co., 67 O. S. 306, 314 (1902).

Railroad Co. v. Robbins, 35 O. S. 483, 502 (1880).

Franklin Bank v. Commercial Bank, 36 O. S. 350, 355 (1881).

Norton v. Norton, 43 O. S. 509, 522 (1885).

National Bank v. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co., 21 O. S. 221 (1871).

Kreisser v. Ashtabula, etc., Co., 2 C. C. n. s. 597, 601; 14 C. D. 313 (1901).

Henderson v. Hogan, 1 W. L. B. 227 (Dist. Ct. 1876).

Officers authorized to execute certificates. The president and secretary are authorized and required to execute stock certificates. Such authority and duty are conferred by statute. (§ 8672).

Railway Co. v. Bank, 56 O. S. 351 (1897).

It is doubtful whether a corporation may designate another corporation to act as transfer agent of its stock. This section authorizes only the secretary or recording officer to register transfers.

Burch v. Cincinnati Trust Co., 12 N. P. n. s. 86, 91; 22 L. D. 6 (C. P. 1911); aff'd on other grounds, 14 C. C. n. s. 346.

Compare Robison v. Railroad, 13 L. D. 1.

LIABILITY OF CORPORATION ON CERTIFICATES ISSUED FRAUDULENTLY OR WITHOUT AUTHORITY.

Certificates issued to president or secretary. The liability of a corporation on certificates which have been fraudulently issued to an officer, who is authorized to issue certificates, depends upon its negligence. Where the president of a corporation signed certificates in blank and left them with the secretary, who fraudulently issued them to himself and the directors exercised no supervision, the corporation was held liable.

Railway Co. v. Bank, 56 O. S. 351 (1897); affirming 29 W. L. B. 15.

But where a certificate was issued to the secretary of a corporation, who immediately pledged it back to the corporation to secure his indebtedness to it, and subsequently abstracted the certificate from the safe and pledged it to another person, the corporation was held not to be liable, there being no negligence.

Farmers Bank v. Diebold, etc., Co., 66 O. S. 367 (1902).

The same facts involved in Railway Co. v. Bank, 56 O. S. 351, were passed upon in the following cases:

Cincinnati, etc., Ry. Co. v. Third Nat. Bank, 1 C. C. 199; 1 C. D. 109 (1885).

Citizens' Nat. Bank v. Cincinnati, etc., Ry. Co., 11 W. L. B. 86 (1884).

First Nat. Bank v. Cincinnati, etc., Ry. Co., 16 W. L. B. 399 (1886).

Cincinnati, etc., Ry. Co. v. Rawson, 16 W. L. B. 423 (1886); affirmed, 25 W. L. B. 87.

Perin v. Cincinnati, etc., Ry. Co., 18 W. L. B. 382 (1887).

Cincinnati, etc., Ry. Co. v. Citizens' Nat. Bank, 22 W. L. B. 248 (1889); s. c., 56 O. S. 351.

Cincinnati, etc., Ry. Co. v. Citizens' Nat. Bank, 24 W. L. B. 198; s. c., 29 W. L. B. 15.

Overissued stock. Certificates of stock issued after the entire capital stock had been issued are spurious and void. An innocent purchaser or pledgee can not compel the corporation to transfer such stock to him. But the corporation is liable in damages to such purchaser or pledgee.

Railway Co. v. Bank, 56 O. S. 351 (1897).

Cook on Corporations, §§ 293, 426.

Certificates of stock of constituent company issued after consolidation. A certificate of stock of a corporation issued after its consolidation with another corporation is spurious. A stockholder in such constituent company who has had his stock transferred into that of the consolidated company is chargeable with knowledge of the facts, and can not be regarded as an innocent purchaser of such spurious stock, which he subsequently acquired.

Worthington v. C. C. Ry., 9 C. C. n. s. 433; 19 C. D. 321 (1904); aff'd, no rep., 75 O. S. 626.

Duty of purchaser or pledgee to make inquiry. As against the corporation, a prospective purchaser or pledgee of a certificate is not required to make inquiry beyond the genuineness of the certificate. Even where the certificate was issued to the secretary of the corporation no inquiry is necessary, in the absence of knowledge of fraud in its issue.

Railway Co. v. Bank, 56 O. S. 351, 379, 380 (1897).

Personal liability of president and secretary on certificates. A president signing a certificate which stated that the stock is "full paid and nonassessable," is not liable in damages to a person who purchased it in the open market, without inquiry, although the president knew that the stock was issued for property at an overvaluation.

Nutt v. Wheeler, 10 C. C. n. s. 217; 20 C. D. 86 (1907).

The president and secretary of a corporation are not personally liable for a refusal to transfer stock. The liability is that of the corporation.

Snodgrass v. Morrison, etc., Co., 4 O. L. R. 622; 17 L. D. 497 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1907).

CORPORATE STOCK BOOKS.

Form. Sec. 8673 does not prescribe the form in which the records shall be kept.

Freon v. Carriage Co., 42 O. S. 30, 36 (1884).

It is not necessary that a book of any special kind be adopted as a stock record; but when a book is selected and used it becomes the stock book and transfers, to be valid, must be made upon it.

Harpold v. Stobart, 46 O. S. 397, 400 (1889).

Where no stock book is kept, the stubs of the certificate book may be resorted to for the purpose of ascertaining who the stockholders are. In such case the stub of the transferred certificate should show to whom the stock has been transferred.

Herrick v. Wardwell, 58 O. S. 294 (1898).

But see State B. & T. Co. v. Mitchell Co., 14 N. P. n. s. 57, 63, 64 (1913).

Evidence as to who are stockholders. In an action against a corporation, by the administrator of a stockholder, to compel the transfer of stock, an entry in the stock ledger showing a prior transfer of the same stock, without the surrender of the certificate, is not admissible in evidence, unless it appears that the stockholder knew of or acquiesced in the book entry. Russell v. Bank, 26 O. C. n. s. 529 (1917); motion to certify record overruled, 15 O. L. R. 115; s. c., 102 O. S. 248.

Under the former double liability law, books were held admissible to show that a person who claimed to have transferred his stock and to be no longer a stockholder, was in fact still a stockholder.

Harpold v. Stewart, 46 O. S. 397 (1889).

Herrick v. Wardwell, 58 O. S. 294 (1898).

See Kreisser v. Ashtabula, etc., Co., 2 C. C. n. s. 597, 601; 14 C. D. 313 (1901).

Under § 8686 where a certificate is properly tendered for transfer but the entry is not made in the corporate books, the transferrer is not liable.

State B. & T. Co. v. Mitchell, 14 N. P. n. s. 49 (C. P. 1913).

As against a transferee who denies having bought the stock or authorized the transfer, the corporate records showing the transfer are not sufficient proof of acceptance of the transfer so as to render the transferee liable for calls and assessments.

Tripp v. Appleman, 35 Fed. 19; 6 O. F. D. 71 (C. C. Ohio 1888).

Who may register transfers. It is doubtful whether a corporation can appoint another corporation as a transfer agent and require certificates to be presented to such transfer agents. Section 8673 authorizes only the secretary or recording officer to register transfers.

Burch v. Cincinnati Trust Co., 12 N. P. n. s. 86, 91; 22 L. D. 6 (1911); aff'd on other grounds, 14 C. C. n. s. 346.

See G. C. § 710-158, which authorizes trust companies to act as agent or trustee for registering, countersigning or transferring certificates of stock.

RIGHT OF STOCKHOLDERS TO INSPECT BOOKS OF CORPORATION.

A stockholder has the right to have the inspection made by a proper agent and to take copies from the books and records. More than one inspection may be made.

Cincinnati Volksblatt Co. v. Hoffmeister, 62 O. S. 189 (1900).

Blymyer v. Blymyer, etc., Co., 5 N. P. 71 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1898).

All the books may be examined.

Caldwell v. Hill, etc., Co., 2 O. L. R. 294; 17 L. D. 801 (Super Ct. Cin.).

Preferred stockholders are entitled to examine the corporate books.

Pearce v. Atkins, 13 N. P. n. s. 580 (1913).

The motive or purpose of a stockholder in demanding an inspection is immaterial.

Cincinnati Volksblatt Co. v. Hoffmeister, 62 O. S. 189 (1900).

Blymyer v. Blymyer, etc., Co., 5 N. P. 71 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1898).

The only limitation of the right is that the inspection must be at reasonable times.

Cincinnati Volksblatt Co. v. Hoffmeister, 62 O. S. 198 (1900).

A stockholder may inspect the books although the corporation is in the hands of a receiver.

Rep. Atty. Gen., 1911-1912, p. 747.

What corporations are subject to inspection by stockholders.

Trust company. The word "such" in § 8673 does not limit the right of inspection to any class of corporations. A stockholder in a trust company may inspect its books.

Kennon v. Ohio Trust Co., 4 O. L. R. 352; 16 L. D. 733 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1906); s. c., 3 O. L. R. 424; 16 L. D. 339.

In a suit to enforce such right of inspection beneficiaries of trusts administered by the trust company are not necessary or proper defendants.

Kennon v. Ohio Trust Co., 4 O. L. R. 352; 16 L. D. 733 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1906).

Corporation not for profit. Sec. 8673 does not apply to corporations not for profit.

Ohio Humane Soc. v. Biles, 11 C. C. n. s. 384 (1908).

Foreign corporation. Where a foreign corporation has complied with §§ 178 and 183, its stockholders have, by § 5508, all the rights of inspection which stockholders of an Ohio corporation have. American Co. v. Whitney, 19 C. C. n. s. 584 (1912).

Where the books of a foreign corporation were kept in an office maintained by it in Ohio, it was held that the right of stockholders to inspect its books, granted by a statute of its home state, could be enforced in Ohio.

State v. Farmer, 7 C. C. 429 (1892).

Contra, Riggs v. Whippey, etc., Co., 7 O. L. R. 446 (C. P. 1909).

Compare State v. Unida, etc., Co., 13 C. C. n. s. 100; 22 C. D. 54 (1910).

A suit to enjoin a foreign corporation from refusing a stockholder an inspection of its books can not be removed to federal court on the ground of diverse citizenship, as the right of the stockholder can not be ascertained or calculated in money.

Whitney v. American Shipbuilding Co., 10 O. L. R. 383; 197 Fed. 777 (U. S. D. C. 1911).

National bank. The common law right, for proper purposes and under reasonable regulations as to place and time, to inspect the books of the corporation, may be exercised by a stockholder of a national bank. Such right may be enforced in state courts.

Guthrie v. Harkness, 199 U. S. 148 (1905).

Remedy and pleading. Injunction, and not mandamus, is the proper remedy.

Cincinnati Volksblatt Co. v. Hoffmeister, 62 O. S. 189 (1900).

Blymyer v. Blymyer, etc., Co., 5 N. P. 71 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1898).

Ratcliff v. Auto Co., 20 N. P. n. s. 39 (1917).

A petition which alleges that the plaintiff is a stockholder; that he has requested the corporation to allow him to inspect the books and records of the corporation, and fix a reasonable time for the same, which request has been refused, states a cause of action.

Cincinnati Volksblatt Co. v. Hoffmeister, 62 O. S. 189 (1900).

The details for the request for inspection, whether it was oral or in writing, and the time, place and person upon whom made, need not be alleged.

Kennon v. Ohio Trust Co., 3 O. L. R. 424; 16 L. D. 339 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1905).

A petition to enforce the right of inspection does not state a cause of action against the president individually, where the only allegation as to him is that he is president. Pearce v. Atkins, 13 N. P. n. s. 580 (1913).

Inspection of books under § 11552. See Arbuckle v. Woolson Spice Co., 21 C. C. 348; 11 C. D. 743 (1901); Richards v. Bunte, 15 C. C. n. s. 401 (1908).

An order under § 11552 permitting a plaintiff to inspect the books of defendant corporation is not a final order reviewable in error. Kleybolte v. Railway Co., 11 L. D. 817 (Super Ct. Cin. 1896).

Who are chargeable with notice of contents of corporate books and records.

Stockholders. A stockholder is not bound to have knowledge of the contents of the corporate records and books, although he had the right of inspection. Heintzman v. Tenacity, etc., Co., 4 O. L. R. 553; 17 L. D. 554 (Super Ct. Cin. 1906); Greenville Gas Co. v. Reis, 54 O. S. 549, 558 (1896).

Directors.. See note to § 8660. Duties of directors.

Section 8673-1. (Transfer of title to shares.) Title to a certificate and to the shares represented thereby can be transferred only.

(a) By delivery of the certificate indorsed either in blank or to a specified person by the person appearing by the certificate to be the owner of the shares represented thereby, or

(b) By delivery of the certificate and a separate document containing a written assignment of the certificate or a power of attorney to sell, assign, or transfer the same or the shares represented thereby signed by the person appearing by the certificate to be the owners of the shares represented thereby. Such assignment or power of attorney may be either in blank or to a specified person.

The provisions of this section shall be applicable although the charter or articles of incorporation or code of regulations or by-laws of the corporation issuing the certificate and the certificate itself, provide that the shares represented thereby shall be transferable only on the books of the corporation or shall be registered by a registrar or transferred by a transfer agent. (June 7, 1911, 102 v. 500, § 1.)

- I. Uniform Stock Transfer Act, p. 1064.
- II. Assignment of stock by separate instrument without transfer of certificate, p. 1064.
- III. Ohio decisions as to transfer of certificates, p. 1064.
- IV. Transfer or registry on the books of the corporation, p. 1064.
- V. Consequences of failure to present stock for registry, p. 1064.
- VI. Effect of § 8673-1, p. 1065.
- VII. Right of transferee to have stock registered in his name, p. 1065.
- VIII. Defalcation of transfer agent. Liability of corporation, p. 1065.
- IX. What the corporation may require before registry of transfers.
 - A. Evidence of genuineness of indorsement and identity of parties, p. 1065.
 - B. Surrender of original certificate, p. 1066.
 - C. Certified copy of order of probate court authorizing transfer by executor, p. 1066.
- X. Remedy for refusal of corporation to register transfers, p. 1066.
- XI. Measure of damages, p. 1067.
- XII. Presumptions and burden of proof as to validity of issue of stock, p. 1067.
- XIII. Joinder of parties and actions, p. 1067.
- XIV. Defenses of corporation.
 - A. Non-compliance with by-law regulating transfers, p. 1068.
 - B. Certificate issued without consideration to qualify director, p. 1068.
 - C. Lien of corporation on stock reserved in certificate, p. 1068.
 - D. Improper motive or bad faith of transferee, p. 1068.
 - E. Statute of limitations, p. 1068.
 - F. Waiver of right to damages, p. 1068.
 - G. That third persons claim to own the stock, p. 1069.
- XV. To whom stock may be transferred on the corporate books.
 - A. Pledgee, p. 1069.
 - B. Trustee, p. 1069.
 - C. Corporation, p. 1069.
 - D. Fictitious person, p. 1069.
 - E. Guardian, p. 1070.
- XVI. Liability of transferee for unpaid balance on stock, p. 1070.
- XVII. Rights of equitable owners, p. 1070.
- XVIII. Transfer reserving future dividends, p. 1070.

I. UNIFORM STOCK TRANSFER ACT.

The Uniform Stock Transfer Act recommended by the Commissioners of Uniform State Laws for general adoption is contained in sections 8673-1 to 8673-24 inclusive. It applies only to certificates issued after July 1, 1911. Its effect is to place certificates of stock on the basis of negotiable instruments. The act has been adopted in Louisiana, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, Wisconsin and Alaska.

II. ASSIGNMENT OF STOCK BY SEPARATE INSTRUMENT WITHOUT TRANSFER OF CERTIFICATE.

It should be noted that under this section an assignment of stock by a separate instrument without a delivery of the certificate does not transfer the title. Such assignment is, in effect, merely a contract to transfer under § 8673-10. Rep. American Bar Assn. (1910), 575,576.

III. OHIO DECISIONS AS TO TRANSFER OF CERTIFICATES.

The assignment of a certificate of stock with power of attorney to have it transferred on the books of the corporation gives to the assignee the status of a legal holder of the stock. Dueber, etc., Co. v. Dougherty, 62 O. S. 589, 595 (1900); Andrews v. Watson, 12 C. D. 668 (1887); s. c., 12 C. D. 692 (1890); aff'd, 51 O. S. 617. Compare Carll v. Little Miami R. Co., 13 C. C. n. s. 598 (1911).

A certificate may be assigned and an attorney appointed in blank. Lee v. Citizens' N. B., 2 C. S. C. R. 298 (1872); Cincinnati, etc., Ry. Co. v. Rawsons, 16 W. L. B. 423 (Super Ct. Cin. 1886); aff'd, Supreme Court, without report, 25 W. L. B. 87; Krebs v. Forbriger, 21 W. L. B. 313 (Super Ct. Cin. 1889).

A power of attorney endorsed on a certificate by a husband in favor of his wife, on the same day on which the certificate was issued to him, was held to expire at her death. Carll v. Railroad, 13 C. C. n. s. 598 (1911).

Under a contract for the sale of stock, a tender of the certificates, properly endorsed by the owner, either in blank or direct to the purchaser, is sufficient. Transfer on the corporate books is unnecessary. Laundry Co. v. Whitmore, 92 O. S. 44 (1915); Sprague v. Munger, 17 C. C. n. s. 130 (1910); Hager v. Reed, 11 O. S. 626 (1860).

IV. TRANSFER OR REGISTRY ON THE BOOKS OF THE CORPORATION. HOW MADE.

The transfer book of the corporation should be signed by the transferer personally, or by his attorney in fact. In practice the name of the secretary or transfer agent of the corporation is usually inserted in the power of attorney on the certificate of stock. See § 8673.

V. CONSEQUENCES OF FAILURE TO PRESENT STOCK FOR REGISTRY.

As against the corporation the transferee does not become a stockholder until he presents the certificate for transfer on the corporate books. Until then he is an equitable holder merely. The registered owner is entitled to vote and to receive dividends. § 8673-3. Railway Co. v. Bank, 68 O. S. 582 (1903); Railroad Co. v. Robbins, 35 O. S. 483 (1880); Schmuck v. Crume, etc., Co., 7 N. P. n. s. 24;

19 L. D. 819 (C. P. 1905); aff'd, 78 O. S. 409; Norton v. Norton, 43 O. S. 509, 522-23 (1885); Haldeman v. Hillsborough, etc., R. Co., 2 Handy 101 (Super Ct. Cin. 1855); Armstrong v. Herancourt Brewing Co., 26 W. L. B. 39 (C. P. 1891).

Notices of proposed corporate action on such matters as a proposed consolidation, or a sale of the entire corporate property, are properly sent by the corporation to the persons registered on its books as the owners. A person who holds certificates, without transfer on the corporate books, is not entitled to be notified of, or to participate in, such proceedings. Railway Co. v. Bank, 68 O. S. 582 (1903); Schmuck v. Crume, etc., Co., 7 N. P. n. s. 24; 19 L. D. 819 (C. P. 1905); aff'd, 78 O. S. 409; In re S. & S. Mfg. Co., 246 Fed. 1005; 16 O. L. R. 163 (D. C. Ohio 1917).

The lien of a corporation on stock, expressly reserved in the certificates, may be asserted against a transferee who received the certificates before, but did not present them for transfer until after the original holder become indebted to the corporation. Stafford v. Produce Exch. Bkg. Co., 61 O. S. 160 (1899).

VI. EFFECT OF § 8673-1.

The intention of this section is to make the certificate the representative of the shares and to make a transfer on the corporate books like the recording of a deed of real estate. Rep. American Bar Assn. (1910), 574.

VII. RIGHT OF TRANSFEREE TO HAVE STOCK REGISTERED IN HIS NAME.

A purchaser or pledgee of stock, holding a certificate properly indorsed is entitled, upon presenting such certificate to the corporation, to have the stock transferred to him on the corporate books and to have a new certificate issued to him. Cincinnati, etc., Ry. Co. v. Rawson, 16 W. L. B. 423 (Super Ct. Cin.); aff'd by Supreme Court without report, 25 W. L. B. 87; Railway Co. v. Bank, 56 O. S. 351 (1897); Dayton N. B. v. Merchants N. B., 37 O. S. 208, 215 (1881); § 8673.

VIII. DEFALCATION OF TRANSFER AGENT. LIABILITY OF CORPORATION.

Where a corporation made it possible for its transfer agent to mix stock held by him as trustee with treasury stock, causing loss to the owners of stock entrusted to him, the corporation is liable to the equitable owners for such of the stock as was returned to the treasury of the company. Robison v. Railway Co., 24 C. C. n. s. 569 (1904).

IX. WHAT THE CORPORATION MAY REQUIRE BEFORE REGISTRY OF TRANSFERS.

A. Evidence of genuineness of indorsement and identity of parties. The corporation may require satisfactory evidence of the identity of the parties and the genuineness of the assignment and power of attorney. But when these are established it can not arbitrarily refuse to make the transfer. Krohn v. Central, etc., Co., 4 N. P. n. s. 270; 6 L. D. 552 (C. P. 1897); Oliver v. Cincinnati, etc., Co., 1 Hosea 457 (Super Ct. Cin.); s. c., 3 O. L. R. 53, 607; aff'd, 73 O. S. 386. See § 8673-11.

Where certificates of a deceased stockholder are presented for transfer, and the officers are informed of the existence of a will, they are chargeable with notice of the provisions of the will which affect the title to the stock or the right to transfer it. Allen v. Globe Ins. Co., 19 W. L. B. 198 (Super Ct. Cin. 1888) aff'd, Supreme Court, 32 W. L. B. 374.

B. Surrender of original certificate. Where a certificate provides that the stock is transferable "on surrender of the certificate" the corporation may refuse to transfer the stock on its books and to issue new certificates, until the original certificate evidencing the same has been surrendered. Railroad Co. v. Robbins, 35 O. S. 483 (1880); Lee v. Citizens Bank, 2 C. S. C. R. 298 (1872); § 8673-13.

A corporation is not liable to the equitable owner of stock for its value, where certificates therefor are outstanding in the hands of a third person, who claims to be the owner. National Bank v. Lake Shore, etc., Ry. Co., 21 O. S. 221 (1871).

A corporation which issues a new certificate without a surrender of the original certificate, is liable to the holder of the original certificate, although the new certificate was issued under the belief that the original had been lost. The corporation must either replace the stock or account for its value. Railroad Co. v. Robbins, 35 O. S. 483 (1880).

The rights of the holder of the original certificate may be barred by laches. Bank stock was, without a surrender of the original certificate, transferred to another person in 1867, and R., the original holder, resided in the same county until 1889 when he removed to Oregon and died in 1895. In 1911 the original certificate was found among his papers, an administrator was appointed and suit brought against the bank. Between 1862 and 1895 dividends were declared and sometimes advertised in newspapers published in the county. R. made no claim for dividends at any time after 1867. Held, the claim was barred by laches. Russell v. Bank, 102 O. S. 248 (1921). See Stoltz v. Carroll, 99 O. S. 289 (1919).

The corporation is not liable for dividends paid to the registered owner before the certificate was presented for transfer. Railroad Co. v. Robbins, 35 O. S. 483 (1880).

Where certificates have been lost the corporation may require a bond of indemnity before issuing a new certificate. § 8673-17; Hof v. Western German Bank, 6 W. L. B. 665, 697 (Dist. Ct. 1881); Farmers Bank v. Diebold, etc., Co., 66 O. S. 376 (1902).

C. Certified copy of order of probate court authorizing transfer by executor. A corporation can not require a certified copy of an order of the probate court of the county, in which the principal office of such corporation is located, authorizing an executor to make the transfer. Bureh v. Cincinnati Trust Co., 12 N. P. n. s. 86 (1911); aff'd, 14 C. C. n. s. 346. Contra. Humphries v. Loomis, 18 C. C. n. s. 529 (1911), holding that a purchaser of stock belonging to a decedent's estate, had a right to require proof of the authority of the executor to sell and transfer the same.

X. REMEDY FOR REFUSAL OF CORPORATION TO REGISTER TRANSFERS.

Where a corporation wrongfully refuses to transfer stock on its books and to issue a new certificate to a person entitled thereto, his remedy is in equity to enforce the issue and delivery of such certificate, or an action against the corporation for damages, either of which he may pursue at his election. State v. Carpenter, 51 O. S. 83 (1894); Iron R. Co. v. Fink, 41 O. S. 321 (1884); Krohn v. Central, etc., Co., 4 N. P. 270; 6 L. D. 552 (C. P. 1897); Burch v. Cincinnati Trust Co., 12 N. P. n. s. 86 (C. P. 1911); aff'd, 14 C. C. n. s. 346.

The plaintiff may in his petition ask for relief in the alternative, for the issue and delivery of a certificate, or damages in lieu thereof. State v. Carpenter, 51 O. S. 83, 89 (1894). See Railroad Co. v. Robbins, 35 O. S. 483.

Mandamus is not the proper remedy. State v. Carpenter, 51 O. S. 83 (1894); Freon v. Carriage Co., 42 O. S. 30 (1884); s. c., 11 W. L. B. 103; Richardson v. Grand View Min. Co., 1 W. L. B. 140 (Dist. Ct. 1876).

The president and secretary are not personally liable for a refusal to transfer stock. The liability is that of the corporation. Snodgrass v. Morrison, etc., Co., 4 O. L. R. 622; 17 L. D. 497 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1907).

Wrongful refusal to transfer stock amounts to a conversion. Andes Ins. Co. v. Waters, 1 W. L. B. 172 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1876).

XI. MEASURE OF DAMAGES.

The damages are not limited to the market value of the stock, but the transferee may recover its actual value, which may be shown by the value of the property and business of the corporation, its good will and dividend earning capacity. State v. Carpenter, 51 O. S. 83, 88 (1894); Freon v. Carriage Co., 42 O. S. 30 (1884).

XII. PRESUMPTIONS AND BURDEN OF PROOF AS TO VALIDITY OF ISSUE OF STOCK.

Where a certificate bears the genuine signatures of the president and secretary, and the corporate seal, the issue of such stock is presumed to be regular and valid. The burden of proving its invalidity rests on the corporation, although the certificate was issued to the secretary. Cincinnati, etc., Ry. Co. v. Rawson, 16 W. L. B. 423 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1886); aff'd, no rep., 25 W. L. B. 87; Railway Co. v. Bank, 56 O. S. 351; Perin v. Railway Co., 18 W. L. B. 382 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1887); Citizens' N. B. v. Railway Co., 11 W. L. B. 86 (Super Ct. Cin. 1884).

XIII. JOINDER OF PARTIES AND ACTIONS.

The transferrer of the stock is not a necessary party to a suit to compel a transfer of stock, unless he claims some interest therein. Krohn v. Central, etc., Co., 4 N. P. 270; 6 L. D. 552 (C. P. 1897).

But the corporation may make all persons claiming any interest in the stock parties to the action. Lahman v. Cincinnati, etc., Co., 8 N. P. 211 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1901). See Dayton N. B. v. Merchants N. B., 37 O. S. 208 (1881).

The president and secretary are not proper parties defendant. Snodgrass v. Morrison, etc., Co., 4 O. L. R. 622; 17 L. D. 497 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1907).

Nor a transfer agent.

Burch v. Cincinnati Trust Co., 12 N. P. n. s. 86 (1911); aff'd, 14 C. C. n. s. 346.

Other equitable relief may be sought in the same action, as, an order for the inspection of the corporate books by the stockholder.

Arbuckle v. Woolson Spice Co., 21 C. C. 356 (1901).

See Iron R. Co. v. Fink, 41 O. S. 321 (1884).

Right of corporation to join in one action all holders of certificates wrongfully issued by an officer, to remove cloud on the title of genuine certificates and to prevent a multiplicity of suits.

See Railway Co. v. Bank, 56 O. S. 351 (1897).

XIV. DEFENSES OF CORPORATION.

A. Noncompliance with by-law regulating transfers. A by-law prohibiting transfers of stock to persons not stockholders, until the board of directors had been notified and given a reasonable time in which to purchase the stock, is invalid. Supply Co. v. Harvey, 16 C. n. s. 42 (1910); aff'd no rep. 82 O. S. 390.

But a by-law of a Delaware corporation was held valid, which required stockholders to notify the directors before selling their stock, and give the directors thirty days in which to sell the stock to certain designated classes of persons whose occupations might render them valuable in extending the corporate business. Nicholson v. Brewing Co., 82 O. S. 94 (1910).

A by-law prohibiting the transfer of stock which has been paid by note and mortgage is unreasonable and was held not to justify a refusal to transfer.

Andes Ins. Co. v. Waters, 1 W. L. B. 172 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1876).

See notes to §§ 8701 and 8702.

B. Certificate issued without consideration to qualify directors. It is no defense against a pledgee of a stock certificate, that the certificate was issued to the pledgor to qualify him as a director, without consideration, and under an agreement to surrender the certificate on ceasing to be a director, where the pledgee had no notice thereof.

Dueber, etc., Co. v. Dougherty, 62 O. S. 589 (1900).

C. Lien of corporation on stock reserved in certificate. A corporation may, by express stipulation in the certificate, reserve a lien on the stock to secure indebtedness of the original holder to it. This lien may be asserted against a purchaser who received the certificate before, but did not present it for transfer until after the original holder became indebted to the corporation.

Stafford v. Produce Exch. Bkg. Co., 61 O. S. 160 (1899).

See § 8673-15 and note.

See also State v. Davis, 85 O. S. 44 (1911).

But where the lien is not reserved in the certificate, although provided for by by-laws, a bona fide purchaser or pledgee takes the certificate free from such lien.

Lee v. Citizens N. B., 2 C. S. C. R. 298 (1872).

§ 8673-15.

D. Improper motive or bad faith of transferee. A corporation can not refuse to transfer stock because of the motive which prompted the transferee to acquire it.

Nicholson v. Franklin Brewing Co., 82 O. S. 94, 110 (1910).

E. Statute of limitations. The statute of limitations does not begin to run against a transferee of stock until a demand has been made on the corporation for a transfer, and has been refused.

Iron R. Co. v. Fink, 41 O. S. 321 (1884).

Railroad Co. v. Robbins, 35 O. S. 483 (1880).

Larwill v. Burke, 19 C. C. 449; 10 C. D. 579 (1900).

Where new certificates were issued without a surrender of the original certificates, the statute does not begin to run against the holder of the original certificates until a demand, or until he had notice of the transfer to the other parties.

Railroad Co. v. Robbins, 35 O. S. 483 (1880).

F. Waiver of right to damages. Where the plaintiff subsequently collected dividends, accepted a new certificate of stock and paid an assessment, the right to recover damages was held to be waived.

Andes Ins. Co. v. Waters, 1 W. L. B. 172 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1876).

G. That third persons claim to own the stock. Where more than one party claims to own the stock, the corporation, by refusing to assume the peril of deciding between the contending claimants, ought not to be held liable as a wrongdoer for the value of the stock.

National Bank v. Lake Shore, etc., Co., 21 O. S. 221, 232 (1871).

But there must be a real controversy.

See Dayton N. B. v. Merchants N. B., 37 O. S. 208, 215 (1881).

The bankruptcy of the original stockholder, and appointment of a trustee in bankruptcy, does not justify a corporation in refusing to transfer the stock to a pledgee, who had received the certificate prior to such bankruptcy.

But where the trustee in bankruptcy became a party defendant, and contested the validity of the pledge, which was decided in favor of the pledgee, and an order of sale granted, the court can not render a deficiency judgment against the corporation.

Dayton N. B. v. Merchants N. B., 37 O. S. 208 (1881).

See Oliver v. Cincinnati, etc., Co., 1 Hosea 457 (Super. Ct. Cin.); s. c., 3 O. L. R. 53, 607; aff'd, 73 O. S. 386.

The corporation may bring in, as parties defendant, all persons claiming an interest in the stock.

Lahman v. Cincinnati, etc., Co., 8 N. P. 211 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1901).

Before the passage of the Uniform Act it was held that a corporation was bound to respect the rights of equitable owners from the time it received notice thereof.

Conant v. Reed, 1 O. S. 298 (1853).

Andrews v. Watson, 12 C. D. 686 (1887); aff'd, 51 O. S. 617.

XV. TO WHOM STOCK MAY BE TRANSFERRED ON THE CORPORATE BOOKS.

A. Pledgee. A pledgee of stock, holding certificates properly indorsed, is entitled to have the stock registered in his name on the corporate books.

Railway Co. v. Bank, 68 O. S. 582, 599 (1903).

Dayton N. B. v. Merchants N. B., 37 O. S. 208, 215 (1881).

Cincinnati, etc., Ry. Co. v. Rawson, 16 W. L. B. 423 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1886); aff'd, 25 W. L. B. 87.

B. Trustee. A stockholder has the right, for a proper purpose, to transfer his stock to a trustee.

State v. Railway Co., 6 C. C. 415; 3 C. D. 518 (1892); aff'd, 49 O. S. 668.

See note to § 8647. Voting trusts.

C. A corporation. A corporation may, without liability, refuse to transfer stock on its books to another corporation which is not authorized by law to acquire or hold such stock.

Franklin Bank v. Commercial Bank, 36 O. S. 350 (1881).

Power of corporation to acquire and hold stock in other corporations.

See § 8683.

Power to acquire its own stock. See note to § 8627.

D. Fictitious person. A transfer to a fictitious person is void, and leaves the title in the transferor.

Krohn v. Central, etc., Co., 4 N. P. 270; 5 L. D. 113 (C. P. 1897).

Muskingum, etc., Co. v. Ward, 13 Ohio 120 (1844).

See Gaff v. Flesher, 33 O. S. 107, 112 (1877).

E. Guardian. A guardian, who has possession of a certificate of stock belonging to estate of the deceased mother of his wards, has no authority to exchange it for a certificate made out to himself.

First N. B. v. Merchants Bank, 7 N. P. 381 (C. P.).

XVI. LIABILITY OF TRANSFEREE FOR UNPAID BALANCE ON STOCK.

A purchaser of stock from another person at par is not liable for an unpaid balance unless he had knowledge thereof. He is entitled to the presumption that the stock has been full paid. A statement on the certificate that it is "full paid" is a representation by the corporation to that effect and the purchaser need not inquire further.

Roebing, etc., Co. v. Shawnee, etc., Co., 4 N. P. n. s. 113; 17 L. D. 8 (C. P. 1906); aff'd, 78 O. S. 408.

XVII. RIGHTS OF EQUITABLE OWNERS.

Prior to the passage of the Uniform Act it was held that the corporation was bound to respect the rights of equitable owners from the time it received notice thereof.

Conant v. Reed, 1 O. S. 298 (1853).

Andrews v. Watson, 12 C. D. 686 (1887); s. c., 12 C. D. 692 (1890); aff'd, 51 O. S. 617.

Prout v. Post, 12 L. D. 141 (C. P.).

See Provident, etc., Co. v. Voight, 13 C. C. n. s. 267 (1910).

One of two conflicting equitable owners may, by acquiring the legal title, secure priority over the other where he acquired his equitable interest without notice of the earlier equity, although he had such notice at the time he acquired the legal title.

Dueber, etc., Co. v. Daugherty, 62 O. S. 589 (1900).

One who takes an assignment of stock, with notice of a prior assignment which conveyed the legal title, acquires no interest therein.

Creed v. Lancaster Bank, 1 O. S. 1 (1852).

XVIII. TRANSFER RESERVING FUTURE DIVIDENDS.

It has been held that in a transfer of stock no valid reservation can be made of future dividends.

Marble v. Van Wert N. B., 3 C. C. 464; 2 C. D. 265 (1888).

Section 8673-2. (Powers of infant, trustee, executor, etc., not enlarged.) Nothing in this act shall be construed as enlarging the powers of an infant or other persons lacking full legal capacity, or of a trustee, executor or administrator, or other fiduciary, to make a valid indorsement, assignment or power of attorney. (June 7, 1911, 102 v. 501, § 2.)

The uniform stock transfer act applies to trustees, executors, administrators and other fiduciaries, where the validity of the transfer does not depend on the endorsement of the fiduciary. Stoltz v. Carroll, 99 O. S. 289 (1919).

Duty and liability of corporation in registering transfer of stock belonging to decedent's estate, under inheritance tax law. §§ 5348-2, 5348-3.

A corporation which has issued stock to one as trustee is bound to inquire into his authority to dispose of it, before registering the transfer on its books. Fuller v. Railway, 8 N. P. 605 (1901).

Power of executor to transfer stock. An executor or administrator of the estate of a deceased stockholder, when properly authorized, may execute an assignment of the stock. But an executor can not execute a power of attorney for the sale of stock delegating to the attorney discretionary powers entrusted to the executor.

Allen v. Globe Ins. Co., 19 W. L. B. 198 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1888); aff'd, 32 W. L. B. 374.

An exchange of stock, by an executor, not authorized by the will or an order of court, is void.

Marriot v. Railway, 16 L. D. 135 (C. P. 1905); s. c., 10 C. C. n. s. 573, 575.

An order of the probate court directing an executor to sell stock "at its market value" is not a sufficient compliance with G. C. § 10704 which requires a minimum price to be fixed in the order.

Burch v. Cincinnati Trust Co., 14 C. C. n. s. 346 (1911); contra, s. c., 12 N. P. n. s. 86; 22 L. D. 6 (C. P. 1911).

But such a defect does not impair the title of a purchaser from the executor under such order, where the sale was made in good faith, at the market value, without fraud or collusion, and the proceedings in all other respects conformed to the statute.

Burch v. Cincinnati Trust Co., 14 C. C. n. s. 346 (1911); affirming 12 N. P. n. s. 86; 22 L. D. 6.

A purchaser of stock belonging to a decedent's estate may refuse to accept it until furnished proof of the authority of the executor or administrator to sell and transfer the same. Humphries v. Loomis, 18 C. C. n. s. 529 (1911).

Compare Burch v. Trust Co., 12 N. P. n. s. 86; 22 L. D. 6; holding that a corporation had no right to require a certified copy of the order of the probate court authorizing the transfer, before making the transfer on the corporate books (affirmed on other grounds, 14 C. C. n. s. 346).

A widow, executrix of her husband's will and a life tenant of stock belonging to the estate, with power of sale, has no authority to give an option to purchase the stock at her death. Carnes v. McAfee, 11 N. P. n. s. 517; 24 L. D. 487 (1911).

Proxies given by executor or infant. An infant can not give a valid proxy. State v. Voight, 2 Ohio App. 145; 17 C. C. n. s. 447; 25 C. D. 255 (1913).

A proxy given by an executor, to be valid, must contain express directions for whom the votes shall be cast, leaving no discretion to the holder of the proxy. State v. Voight, 2 Ohio App. 145; 17 C. C. n. s. 447; 25 C. D. 255 (1913).

Pledge of certificate by trustee for his personal debt to corporation. Certificates of stock in a building and loan company were taken by M. C. in the name of her infant granddaughter, with a parenthetic clause after the name ("M. C. or other legal guardian may draw") and retained possession of the certificates. M. C. died leaving a will, wherein she named her lawyer R. as executor and trustee of her property for the use and benefit of the granddaughter, and declaring in the will an intention to make the executor her successor in the trust as to the stock. The executor sent the loan company a copy of the will, with notice that he held the certificates under the will, and requested that dividends be paid to him as trustee. Thereafter he borrowed money from the company for his personal use, pledging some of the certificates as security, and turned in other certificates for cash, signing the transfers and pledge contract as trustee. He squandered the money and died insolvent. Held, the company was a party to the breach of trust and conversion.

Mook v. Akron Sgs. & L. Co., 87 O. S. 273 (1913).

Section 8673-3. (Corporation not forbidden to treat registered holder as owner.) Nothing in this act shall be construed as forbidding a corporation.

(a) To recognize the exclusive right of a person registered on its books as the owner of shares to receive dividends, and to vote as such owner, or

(b) To hold liable for calls and assessments a person registered on its books as the owner of shares. (June 7, 1911, 102 v. 501, § 3.)

The person who appears on the corporate books as the owner of stock is entitled to vote and receive dividends.

Railroad Co. v. Robbins, 35 O. S. 483 (1880).

Norton v. Norton, 43 O. S. 509, 522-523 (1885).

Franklin Bank v. Commercial Bank, 36 O. S. 350, 355 (1881).

Where a certificate was endorsed in blank by the owner, and three years later it was found among the effects of P., recently deceased, who never had the stock transferred to his name on the corporate books but had knowingly permitted the endorser to vote and receive dividends, the presumption is that the ownership of P. is special and not absolute, although he might have transferred title by delivery to an innocent purchaser. Stoltz v. Carroll, 99 O. S. 289 (1919).

Notices of stockholders meetings need be given only to stockholders of record. In re Mfg. & Sales Co., 246 Fed. 1005; 16 O. L. R. 163 (D. C. Ohio 1917); Railway Co. v. Bank, 68 O. S. 582 (1903).

Section 8673-4. (Title derived from certificate extinguishes title derived from a separate document.) The title of a transferee of a certificate under a power of attorney or assignment not written upon the certificate, and the title of any person claiming under such transferee, shall cease and determine if, at any time prior to the surrender of the certificate to the corporation issuing it, another person, for value in good faith, and without notice of the prior transfer, shall purchase and obtain delivery of such certificate with the indorsement of the person appearing by the certificate to be the owner thereof, or shall purchase and obtain delivery of such certificate and the written assignment or power of attorney of such person, though contained in a separate document. (June 7, 1911, 102 v. 501, § 4.)

Section 8673-5. (Who may deliver a certificate.) The delivery of a certificate to transfer title in accordance with the provisions of section 1 [G. C. § 8673-1], is effectual, except as provided in section 7 [G. C. § 8673-7], though made by one having no right of possession and having no authority from the owner of the certificate or from the person purporting to transfer the title. (June 7, 1911, 102 v. 501, § 5.)

Negotiability of certificates. This section is intended to give full negotiability to certificates of stock.

Rep. American Bar Assn. (1910) 576.

What must be taken notice of by purchasers or pledgees of stock.

Laws of state and by-laws regulating transfers. A purchaser or pledgee of stock is chargeable with notice of the laws of the state of incorporation and valid by-laws which impose restrictions on transfers.

Nicholson v. Franklin Brewing Co., 82 O. S. 94, 109 (1910).

See Lee v. Citizens N. B., 2 C. S. C. R. 298 (1872).

But restrictions imposed under by-laws must be stated upon the certificate.

See § 8673-15.

Genuineness of certificates and endorsement. A purchaser of stock is bound to inquire as to the genuineness of the certificates.

Railway Co. v. Bank, 56 O. S. 351, 379-380 (1897).

And of the endorsement thereon.

Krohn v. Central, etc., Co., 4 N. P. 270; 6 L. D. 552 (C. P. 1897).

Authority of executor of estate of deceased owner. Where the certificates are endorsed by the executor of a deceased owner, the transferee must take notice of the authority of such representative.

See §§ 8673-2, 8673-7.

Allen v. Globe Ins. Co., 19 W. L. B. 198 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1888); aff'd, 32 W. L. B. 374.

First N. B. v. Merchants Bank, 7 N. P. 381 (C. P.).

Marriott v. Railway, 16 L. D. 135 (C. P. 1905); s. c., 10 C. C. n. s. 573, 575.

A purchaser of stock belonging to a decedent's estate may refuse to accept it until furnish proof of the authority of the executor or administrator to sell and transfer the same. Humphries v. Loomis, 18 C. C. n. s. 529 (1911).

Compare Burch v. Trust Co., 12 N. P. n. s. 86; 22 L. D. 6; holding that a corporation had no right to require a certified copy of the order of the probate court authorizing the transfer before making the transfer on the corporate books (affirmed on other grounds, 14 C. C. n. s. 346).

A widow, executrix of her husband's will and a life tenant of stock belonging to his estate, with power of sale, has no power to give an option to purchase the stock at her death. Persons dealing with her as to such stock are bound to take notice of the rights of the remaindermen. Carnes v. McAfee, 11 N. P. n. s. 517; 24 L. D. 487 (1911).

Lien of corporation reserved in certificate. See note to § 8673-15.

Liens on stock acquired by garnishment process served on corporation. Before the passage of the Uniform Act it was held that a creditor of a stockholder could acquire a lien on his stock by garnishment process served on the corporation. Such lien was superior to the rights of a subsequent purchaser or pledgee of the stock, in good faith and without notice, who relied on the certificates.

Bank v. Towle Mfg. Co., 67 O. S. 306 (1902).

This rule is effective as to certificates issued prior to July 1, 1911.

See §§ 8673-23, 8673-24.

As to certificates issued since July 1, 1911, see § 8673-13.

Whether stock has been paid up. A purchaser who pays par for stock is entitled to assume that the stock has been paid in full. A statement in the certificate that it is "full paid" is a representation by the corporation to that effect and the purchaser need not inquire further.

Roebeling, etc., Co. v. Shawnee, etc., Co., 4 N. P. n. s. 113, 121; 17 L. D. 8 (C. P. 1906); aff'd, 78 O. S. 408.

See Nutt v. Wheeler, 10 C. C. n. s. 217; 20 C. D. 86 (1907).

Pending suits affecting the stock. The doctrine of lis pendens does not apply to certificates of stock transferable by endorsement.

Krebs v. Forbriger, 21 W. L. B. 313 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1889).

NEGOTIABILITY OF CERTIFICATES ISSUED PRIOR TO JULY 1, 1911.

Prior to the passage of the Uniform Stock Transfer Act it was held that a certificate of stock was not a promise to pay money and did not possess the essentials of a negotiable instrument.

Farmers Bank v. Diebold, etc., Co., 66 O. S. 367 (1902).

Simmons Hardware Co. v. Stokes, 16 C. C. 145, 149-150; 8 C. D. 779 (1898).

A purchaser or pledgee of a certificate, although in good faith and without notice, took it subject to any lien which a creditor of the seller or pledgor may have acquired, prior to the transfer, by attachment or aid of execution served on the corporation.

Bank v. Towle Mfg. Co., 67 O. S. 306 (1902).

Certificate as evidence of title. Estoppel of corporation and former owners of stock. Prior to the passage of the Uniform Act a certificate of stock was held to be an assurance to the world that the person named therein is the owner of the number of shares stated therein and that these shares will be transferred on the corporate books to one purchasing the same, on surrender of the certificate properly assigned.

Railway Co. v. Bank, 56 O. S. 351, 383 (1897).

Bank v. Towle Mfg. Co., 67 O. S. 306, 314 (1902).

See Marble v. Van Wert N. B., 3 C. C. 464; 2 C. D. 265 (1888).

The corporation itself and former owners of the stock were, as a general rule, estopped from setting up claims to stock evidenced by certificates in the hands of an innocent purchaser for value.

Dueber, etc., Co. v. Dougherty, 62 O. S. 589, 595 (1900).

Railway Co. v. Bank, 56 O. S. 351 (1897).

Krebs v. Forbriger, 21 W. L. B. 313 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1889).

Railroad Co. v. Robbins, 35 O. S. 483 (1880).

Lee v. Citizens N. B., 2 C. S. C. R. 298 (1872).

A pledgor of certificates who had assigned the same in blank was estopped from asserting any title thereto against an innocent purchaser from the pledgee, although the pledgee had violated the contract of pledge in making the sale.

Krebs v. Forbriger, 21 W. L. B. 313 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1889).

Stolen certificates. Before the passage of the Uniform Act a purchaser of stolen certificates, endorsed in blank, acquired no title thereto, in the absence of negligence on the part of the owner, proximately contributing to the deceit.

Bank v. Safe & Lock Co., 66 O. S. 367 (1902).

Section 8673-6. (Endorsement effectual in spite of fraud, duress, mistake, revocation, death, incapacity or lack of consideration or authority.) The indorsement of a certificate by the person appearing by the certificate to be the owner of the shares represented thereby is effectual, except as provided in section 7 (G. C. § 8673-7) though the indorser or transferer,

(a) Was induced by fraud, duress or mistake, to make the indorsement or delivery, or

(b) Has revoked the delivery of the certificate, or the authority given by the indorsement or delivery of the certificate, or

(c) Has died or become legally incapacitated after the indorsement whether before or after the delivery of the certificate, or

(d) Has received no consideration. (June 7, 1911, 102 v. 501, § 6.)

Delivery by fraud, etc. See Dueber, etc., Co. v. Dougherty, 62 O. S. 589, 595 (1900).

Railway Co. v. Bank, 56 O. S. 351 (1897).

Death of transferrer or of attorney. The death of the transferrer does not revoke the power of attorney.

Culp v. Mulvane, 66 Kans. 143 (1903).

Fraser v. Charleston, 11 S. C. 486 (1878).

A power of attorney to transfer stock is revoked by the death of the person named as attorney. In such case a bona fide purchaser may be protected, but a donee probably not.

Carll v. Little Miami R. Co., 13 C. C. n. s. 598 (1911).

See Dickinson v. Central Bank, 129 Mass. 279.

Hess v. Rau, 95 N. Y. 359.

Duty and liability of corporation in registering transfer of stock belonging to decedent's estate, under inheritance tax law. §§ 5348-2, 5348-3.

Section 8673-7. (Rescission of transfer.) If the indorsement or delivery of a certificate,

(a) Was procured by fraud or duress, or

(b) Was made under such mistake as to make the indorsement or delivery inequitable; or

If the delivery of a certificate was made.

(c) Without authority from the owner, or

(d) After the owner's death or legal incapacity, the possession of the certificate may be reclaimed and the transfer thereof rescinded, unless:

(1) The certificate has been transferred to a purchaser for value in good faith without notice of any facts making the transfer wrongful, or

(2) The injured person has elected to waive the injury, or has been guilty of laches in endeavoring to enforce his rights.

Any court of appropriate jurisdiction may enforce specifically such right to reclaim the possession of the certificate or to rescind the transfer thereof and, pending litigation, may enjoin the further transfer of the certificate or impound it. (June 7, 1911, 102 v. 502, § 7.)

Section 8673-8. (Rescission of transfer of certificate does not invalidate subsequent transfer by transferee in possession.) Although the transfer of a certificate or of shares represented thereby has been rescinded or set aside, nevertheless, if the transferee has possession of the certificate or of a new certificate representing part or the whole of the same shares of stock, a subsequent transfer of such certificate by the transferee, mediately or immediately, to a purchaser for value in good faith, without notice of any facts making the transfer wrongful, shall give such purchaser an indefeasible right to the certificate and the shares represented thereby. (June 7, 1911, 102 v. 502, § 8.)

Section 8673-9. (Delivery of unendorsed certificate imposes obligation to endorse.) The delivery of a certificate by the person appearing by the certificate to be the owner thereof without the indorsement requisite for the transfer of the certificate and the shares represented thereby, but with intent to transfer such certificate or shares shall impose an obligation, in the absence of an agreement to the contrary, upon the person so delivering, to complete the transfer by making the necessary indorsement. The transfer shall take effect as of the time when the indorsement is actually made. This obligation may be specifically enforced. (June 7, 1911, 102 v. 502, § 9.)

The delivery of a certificate without written endorsement, but with the intention of transferring the title upon a valid consideration, operates as a transfer of the equitable title. The transferrer may be compelled by a suit in equity to assign the certificate.

Lawler v. Kell, 4 N. P. 218; 6 L. D. 311 (C. P. 1897).

Oliver v. Cincinnati, etc., Co., 1 Hosea 457 (Super. Ct. Cin.); s. c. 3 O. L. R. 53, 607; aff'd, 73 O. S. 386.

To make a proper tender under a contract to sell stock, the certificates should be endorsed or the person making the tender should offer to make the transfer. Sprague v. Munger, 17 C. C. n. s. 130 (1910); Hager v. Reed, 11 O. S. 626 (1860).

But a transfer on the corporate books is not necessary. Laundry Co. v. Whitmore, 92 O. S. 44 (1915).

Section 8673-10. (Ineffectual attempt to transfer amounts to a promise to transfer.) An attempted transfer of title to a certificate or to the shares represented thereby without delivery of the certificate shall have the effect of a promise to transfer and the obligation, if any, imposed by such promise shall be determined by the law governing the formation, and performance of contracts. (June 7, 1911, 102 v. 502, § 10.)

See G. C. § 8385.

Bates v. Smith, 83 Mich. 347.

M. C. invested money in stock of a building and loan company, taking the certificates in the name of her infant granddaughter, with a parenthetic clause after the name ("M. C. or other legal guardian may draw") and retained possession of the certificates. This was held to be an inchoate gift in trust for the grandchild.

Mook v. Akron Sgs. & Loan Co., 87 O. S. 273 (1913).

Section 8673-11. (Warranties on sale of a certificate.) A person who for value transfers a certificate, including one who assigns for value a claim secured by a certificate, unless a contrary intention appears, warrants:

- (a) That the certificate is genuine,
- (b) That he has a legal right to transfer it, and
- (c) That he has no knowledge of any fact which would impair the validity of the certificate.

In the case of an assignment of a claim secured by a certificate, the liability of the assignor upon such warranty shall not exceed the amount of the claim. (June 7, 1911, 102 v. 503, § 11.)

For similar provisions see G. C. § 8993-34 (Bills of Lading Act) and G. C. § 8500 (Warehouse Receipts Act).

Section 8673-12. (No warranty implied from accepting payment of a debt.) A mortgagee, pledgee, or other holder for security of a certificate who in good faith demands or receives payment of the debt for which such certificate is security, whether from a party to a draft drawn for such debt, or from any other person, shall not by so doing be deemed to represent or to warrant the genuineness of such certificate, or the value of the shares represented thereby. (June 7, 1911, 102 v. 503, § 12.)

Section 8673-13. (No attachment or levy upon shares unless certificate surrendered or transfer enjoined.) No attachment or levy upon shares of stock for which a certificate is outstanding shall be valid until such certificate be actually seized by the officer making the attachment or levy, or be surrendered to the corporation which issued it, or its transfer by the holder be enjoined. Except where a certificate is lost or destroyed, such corporation shall not be compelled to issue a new certificate for the stock until the old certificate is surrendered to it. (June 7, 1911, 102 v. 503, § 13.)

FORMER LAW—APPLICABLE TO STOCK EVIDENCED BY CERTIFICATES ISSUED PRIOR TO JULY 1, 1911.

Stock in a corporation may be reached by creditors of a stockholder by garnishee process served on the corporation.

Attachment.

Norton v. Norton, 43 O. S. 509 (1885).

Prout v. Post, 12 L. D. 141 (C. P. 1900).

Proceeding in aid of execution or creditor's bill.

Bank v. Mfg. Co., 67 O. S. 306 (1902).

For the purpose of seizure and subjection to legal process the situs of stock is the domicile of the corporation.

National Bank v. Lake Shore, etc., Ry. Co., 21 O. S. 221 (1871).

Ashley v. Quintard, 90 Fed. 84; 41 W. L. B. 289; 10 O. F. D. 365 (C. Ohio 1898).

But stock can not be reached by a judgment creditor by a bill in equity, without the return of an execution nulla bona.

Schmuck v. Pearce, 3 O. L. R. 403; 16 L. D. 287 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1905).

A corporation may, by garnishee process served upon itself, reach the stock of a shareholder indebted to it.

Norton v. Norton, 43 O. S. 509 (1885).

A corporation which, for many years, acquiesced in a subscription made by a person, in the name of his children, permitting them to vote and to exercise acts of ownership over the stock, is estopped from maintaining an action to subject such stock to the payment of its claim against the person who made the subscription.

Creed v. Lancaster Bank, 1 O. S. 1 (1852).

Dividends on attached stock. Dividends declared by a corporation, and remaining in its possession after garnishment process has been served, follow the stock and are subject to the same order of distribution.

Norton v. Norton, 43 O. S. 509 (1885).

Alimony suit against nonresident stockholder. Where, in an alimony suit against a nonresident stockholder who was served by publication only, the corporation was made a defendant and was enjoined from transferring the stock, the court has jurisdiction to award such stock as alimony and to decree a transfer of the title thereto.

Cleveland, etc., Co. v. Beeman, 12 C. C. n. s. 460 (1909); aff'd, 81 O. S. 509, 510.

Stock in foreign corporation. Stock in a foreign corporation, owned by a nonresident of Ohio, can not be attached by levying the writ upon the certificate of stock in the possession of a resident of Ohio.

Simmons Hardware Co. v. Stokes, 16 C. C. 145; 8 C. D. 776 (1898).

See §§ 8673-13 and 8673-22 "Certificate" defined.

Stock in a corporation in one state, owned by a resident of another, can not be reached by garnishment in a third state in which the corporation maintains an agent and does business, in the absence of special statutory provision therefor.

Ashley v. Quintard, 90 Fed. 84; 41 W. L. B. 289; 10 O. F. D. 365 (C. C. Ohio 1898).

Defenses of stockholder. That stock has been transferred. A stockholder can not defend against a creditor's bill on the ground that he had pledged the stock prior to the bringing of the proceeding. It is for the pledgee to make such defense. But the court may make the pledgee a party to the proceeding.

Krebs v. Forbriger, 21 W. L. B. 313 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1889).

Ultior motive of creditor. That a creditor who seeks to reach the stock of his debtor in a corporation is induced to do so by other stockholders, with whom he has made plans for future management of the corporation, is no reason for denying him the remedy of a creditor's bill. McMullen v. Ritchie, 64 Fed. 253; 8 O. F. D. 314 (1894).

Execution. Former law; see.

Lee v. Citizens N. B., 2 C. S. C. R. 298, 311 (1872).

Priorities between creditors of stockholder and pledgees or purchasers of stock.

Creditor and subsequent pledgee. The creditor of a stockholder acquires a lien from the time of the service of the garnishee process on the corporation. A subsequent pledge of the shares is subject to the lien, although the stock certificates were transferred to the pledgee, who advanced money thereon without notice of the lien.

Bank v. Mfg. Co., 67 O. St. 306 (1903).

Creditors' rights as against existing pledge. Where stock was pledged, and the stock certificates transferred to the pledgee, prior to the time of service of the garnishee process, the lien of the pledgee is superior to the lien of the creditor, although the pledgee has not presented the stock for transfer.

Haldeman v. Hillsborough, etc., R. Co., 2 Handy 101.

Bergin v. McCabe, 91 O. S. 427 (1915).

Maue v. Krell Piano Co., 7 O. L. R. 539 (Super Ct. Cin. 1909).

Krebs v. Forbriger, 21 W. L. B. 313 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1889).

Norton v. Norton, 43 O. S. 509 (1885).

The surplus after payment of the debt to the pledgee is reached by the garnishment, and if the pledgee does not exercise his right to sell, the court may order a sale and distribution of the proceeds.

Norton v. Norton, 43 O. S. 509 (1885).

Creditor and prior purchaser. A bona fide purchaser of stock has an equity superior to a subsequent attaching creditor, although the purchaser has not presented the stock for transfer.

Prout v. Post, 12 L. D. 141 (C. P. 1900).

Section 8673-14. (Creditors' remedies to reach certificate.)

A creditor whose debtor is the owner of a certificate shall be entitled to such aid from courts of appropriate jurisdiction, by injunction and otherwise, in attaching such certificate or in satisfying the claim by means thereof as is allowed at law or in equity, in regard to property which can not readily be attached or levied upon by ordinary legal process. (June 7, 1911, 102 v. 503, § 14.)

Section 8673-15. (There shall be no lien or restriction unless indicated on certificate.) There shall be no lien in favor of a corporation upon the shares represented by a certificate issued by such corporation and there shall be no restriction upon the transfer of shares so represented by virtue of any by-law of such corporation, or otherwise, unless the right of the corporation to such lien or the restriction is stated upon the certificate. (June 7, 1911, 102 v. 503, § 15.)

This section does not apply to the lien of a free banking company under G. C. § 9683, where the certificate was issued prior to July 1, 1911. Bank v. Hunt, 16 N. P. n. s. 65, 68 (1914).

Lien of corporation on stock. A corporation may, by express stipulation in a certificate of stock, reserve a lien on the stock to secure indebtedness of the holder to it. Such lien may be asserted against a transferee who received the certificate before, but did not present it for transfer until after the original holder became indebted to the corporation.

Stafford v. Produce Exch. Bkg. Co., 61 O. S. 160 (1899).

See Conant v. Reed, 1 O. S. 298 (1853).

Tomb v. Felch, 40 W. L. B. 186 (Supreme Court without report, 1898).

Franklin Bank v. Commercial Bank, 4 Am. L. R. 705 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1876); aff'd, 36 O. S. 350.

Downer v. Zanesville Bank, Wright 477 (1833).

Where a certificate of stock was transferable "subject to all conditions and stipulations in the articles of association and by-laws," a by-law passed after the certificate was issued, creating a lien in favor of the corporation, was held binding on a person who received the certificate without consideration.

Bellevue Bank v. Higbee, 4 C. C. 222; 2 C. D. 512 (1889); aff'd, 28 W. L. B. 336.

Where a certificate contains no mention of a lien in favor of the corporation, the corporation can not assert a lien against a purchaser or pledgee of such certificate.

Lee v. Citizens N. B., 2 C. S. C. R. 298 (1872).

Rep. Atty. Gen. 1913, p. 817.

Where there was a custom between bankers and brokers for a banker, on application of a broker, to certify as to whether the bank had a lien on certain of its stock, an application by a broker for such a certificate will put the bank on inquiry, and charge it with notice, that a loan had been or would be made to the stockholder.

Covington, etc., Bank v. Commercial Bank, 65 Fed. 547 (C. C. Ohio 1895).

Where a corporation has a lien, by statute, on all stock owned by its debtors, and has full control over its transfer, possession of the certificates, by pledge, gives the corporation no additional rights or benefits.

State v. Davis, 85 O. S. 44 (1911).

A lien on dividends may be reserved.

Bellevue Bank v. Higbee, 4 C. C. 222; 22 C. D. 512 (1889); aff'd, 28 W. L. B. 336.

It is said that since the enactment of the Thomas Banking Act a bank has no power to reserve a lien on its stock, by stipulation on the certificate.

Rep. Atty. Gen. 1911-1912, p. 775.

G. C. § 710-114.

Restriction on transfers of stock. Power of corporation to make. See notes to §§ 8702 and 8704.

Section 8673-16. (Alteration of certificate does not divest title to shares.) The alteration of a certificate, whether fraudulent or not and by whomsoever made, shall not deprive the owner of his title to the certificate and the shares originally represented thereby, and the transfer of such certificate shall convey to the transferee a good title to such certificate and to the shares originally represented thereby. (June 7, 1911, 102 v. 503, § 16.)

Section 8673-17. (Lost or destroyed certificate.) Where a certificate has been lost or destroyed, a court of competent jurisdiction may order the issue of a new certificate therefor on service of process upon the corporation and on reasonable notice by publication, and in any other way which the court may direct, to all persons interested, and upon satisfactory proof of such loss or destruction and upon the giving of a bond with sufficient surety to be approved by the court to protect the corporation or any person injured by the issue of the new certificate from any liability or expense, which it or they may incur by reason of the original certificate remaining outstanding. The court may also in its discretion order the payment of the corporation's reasonable costs and counsel fees.

The issue of a new certificate under an order of the court as provided in this section, shall not relieve the corporation from liability in damages to a person to whom the original certificate has been or shall be transferred for value without notice of the proceedings or of the issuance of the new certificate. (June 7, 1911, 102 v. 503, § 17.)

This section provides relief similar to that given by §§ 8677 to 8681, which have not been repealed. This section provides for a bond of indemnity to the corporation, which is not required under §§ 8677 to 8681.

Before the enactment of §§ 8677 to 8681, a bond was deemed proper, before a corporation was required to issue a duplicate certificate.

Hof v. Western German Bank, 6 W. L. B. 665, 697 (Dist. Ct. 1881).

See Farmers Bank v. Diebold, etc., Co., 66 O. S. 376 (1902).

In an action by a national bank for reissue of a lost certificate of stock in a corporation, acquired in exchange for dishonored bonds, the corporation can not defend on the ground that the acquisition of the stock by the national bank was ultra vires. Bank v. Urbana Co., 22 C. C. n. s. 529 (1915).

Section 8673-18. (Rule for cases not provided for by this act.) In any case not provided for by this act, the rules of law and equity, including the law merchant, and in particular the rules relating to the law of principal and agent, executors, administrators and trustees, and to the effect of fraud, misrepresentation, duress or coercion, mistake, bankruptcy or other invalidating cause, shall govern. (June 7, 1911, 102 v. 504, § 18.)

Section 8673-19. (Interpretation.) This act shall be so interpreted and construed as to effectuate its general purpose to make uniform the law of those states which enact it. (June 7, 1911, 102 v. 504, § 19.)

Section 8673-20. ("Indorsement" defined.) A certificate is indorsed when an assignment or a power of attorney to sell, assign, or transfer the certificate or the shares represented thereby is written on the certificate and signed by the person appearing by the certificate to be the owner of the shares represented thereby, or when the signature of such person is written without more upon the back of the certificate. In any of such cases a certificate is indorsed though it has not been delivered. (June 7, 1911, 102 v. 504, § 20.)

Section 8673-21. ("Owner" defined.) The person to whom a certificate was originally issued is the person appearing by the certificate to be the owner thereof, and of the shares represented thereby, until and unless he indorses the certificate to another specified person, and thereupon such other specified person is the person appearing by the certificate to be the owner thereof until and unless he also indorses the certificate to another specified person. Subsequent special indorsements may be made with like effect. (June 7, 1911, 102 v. 504, § 21.)

Section 8673-22. (Other definitions.) (1) In this act, unless the context or subject matter otherwise requires—

"Certificate" means a certificate of stock in a corporation organized under the laws of this state or of another state whose laws are consistent with this act.

"Delivery" means voluntary transfer of possession from one person to another.

"Person" includes a corporation or partnership or two or more persons having a joint or common interest.

To "purchase" includes to take as mortgagee or as pledgee.

"Purchaser" includes mortgagee and pledgee.

"Shares" means a share or shares of stock in a corporation organized under the laws of this state or of another state whose laws are consistent with this act.

"State" includes state, territory, district and insular possession of the United States.

"Transfer" means transfer of legal title.

"Title" means legal title and does not include a merely equitable or beneficial ownership or interest.

"Value" is any consideration sufficient to support a simple contract, an antecedent or pre-existing obligation, whether for money or not, constitutes value where a certificate is taken either in satisfaction thereof or as security therefor.

(2) A thing "is done in good faith" within the meaning of this act, when it is in fact done honestly, whether it be done negligently or not. (June 7, 1911, 102 v. 504, § 22.)

Pledges of stock. Rights and remedies of pledgor and pledgee see note to § 8682.

"Value." For other definitions see

G. C. § 8295 (Negotiable Instruments Act).

G. C. § 8456 (Sales Act).

G. C. § 8508 (Warehouse Receipts Act).

G. C. § 8993-52 (Bills of Lading Act).

Where no extension of time was given, a pledgee to whom certificates were transferred to secure a pre-existing debt was held to have no greater rights therein than the pledgor.

Cleveland v. Bank, 16 O. S. 236, 269 (1865).

Section 8673-23. The provisions of this act apply only to certificates issued after the taking effect of this act. (June 7, 1911, 102 v. 504, § 23.)

Section 8673-24. This act shall take effect on the first day of July, one thousand nine hundred and eleven. (June 7, 1911, 102 v. 505, § 24.)

Section 8674. (How payment of stock enforced.) If an installment on stock is unpaid for sixty days after the time it was to be paid, whether the stock is held by the subscriber, an assignee, or transferee, it may be collected by suit, or the directors may sell such stock at public auction for the installment then due. (R. S. Sec. 3253; March 14, 1853, 51 v. 484, § 1; May 1, 1852, 50 v. 274, § 7; S. & C. 276, 319.)

Subscriptions generally. See note to § 8630.

Payment of subscriptions. See note to § 8632.

Exchange of stock for property. See note to § 8630.

I. Forfeiture of subscriptions.

A. Waiver of right, p. 1085.

B. Injunction against forfeiture, p. 1085.

C. Irregular forfeiture. Laches of stockholder, p. 1085.

II. Suits to collect subscriptions.

A. Conditions precedent, p. 1085.

(a) Calls, p. 1085.

(b) Notice of calls, p. 1085.

(c) Calls after insolvency, p. 1086.

(d) Presentation of claim to administrator, p. 1086.

(e) Subscription of ten percent of capital stock, p. 1086.

(f) Performance of conditions, p. 1086.

(g) Tender of stock certificates, p. 1086.

B. Who may bring suit.

(a) The corporation, p. 1087.

(b) A consolidated company, p. 1087.

(c) An assignee of subscriptions, p. 1087.

(d) The assignee for creditors, p. 1087.

(e) The trustee in bankruptcy, p. 1087.

(f) A receiver, p. 1087.

(g) Creditors, p. 1088.

- C. Who are liable.
 - (a) Original subscribers, p. 1089.
 - (b) Transferrers, p. 1089.
 - (c) Transferees, p. 1090.
 - (d) Purchasers and donees of stock after organization, p. 1090.
 - (1) Stock dividends, p. 1090.
 - (2) Sales below par, p. 1090.
 - (3) Exchanges of stock for property, p. 1091.
 - (e) Legatees, p. 1091.
 - (f) Unauthorized agent, p. 1091.
 - (g) The state, p. 1092.
 - (h) Subscribers to stock in a foreign corporation may be sued in Ohio by a creditor, p. 1092.
- D. Joinder of actions, p. 1092.
- E. Joinder of defendants, p. 1092.
- F. Pleading and practice, p. 1092.
 - (a) Supplemental petition setting up judgment against corporation, p. 1092.
 - (b) Amendment of petition substituting allegation of receivership for judgment, etc., p. 1092.
 - (c) Discovery of names of subscribers, p. 1093.
 - (d) Evidence. As to former judgment for installments, p. 1093.
 - (e) Prima facie case, p. 1093.
 - (f) Amount of recovery, p. 1093.
 - (g) Error or appeal, p. 1093.
- G. Other remedies against subscribers.
 - (a) Proof of claim in bankruptcy, p. 1093.
 - (b) Corporation may apply dividends on unpaid subscriptions, p. 1093.
 - (c) Unpaid subscriptions as a trust fund for creditors, p. 1093.
- H. Statute of limitations, p. 1093.
- I. Defenses.
 - (a) Non-compliance with the Blue Sky Law, p. 1094.
 - (b) Withdrawal and release of subscription, p. 1094.
 - (c) Compromise and release of subscription, p. 1094.
 - (d) Fraud in obtaining subscription, p. 1095.
 - (e) Alteration of subscription, p. 1095.
 - (f) Alteration of decoy subscription made by another person, p. 1095.
 - (g) Decoy subscription, p. 1095.
 - (h) Irregular or incomplete incorporation, p. 1095.
 - (i) Irregular incorporation as a defense against the corporation, p. 1096.
 - (j) Misnomer of corporation, p. 1096.
 - (k) Forfeiture of charter, p. 1097.
 - (l) Amendments to charter, p. 1097.
 - (m) Agreement to give common stock free with preferred stock, p. 1097.
 - (n) Change in character of stock, p. 1097.
 - (o) Delay in completion of work. Abandonment of enterprise, p. 1097.
 - (p) Change of route of railroad, p. 1097.
 - (q) Change of termini of railroad, p. 1098.
 - (r) Variance of corporate purpose from prospectus, p. 1098.

- (s) Discharge in bankruptcy, p. 1098.
- (t) Agreement to pay in property, p. 1098.
- (u) Payment.
 - (1) In money, but less than par, p. 1098.
 - (2) In property, p. 1099.
 - (3) By dividends, p. 1099.
 - (4) By note, p. 1099.
 - (5) To unauthorized agent of corporation, p. 1099.
- (v) Breach of condition subsequent or stipulation in subscription, p. 1099.
- (w) Set off and counterclaim, p. 1099.
- (x) Stipulation in corporate mortgage against individual liability, p. 1100.
- (y) Irregularities in a creditor's judgment, p. 1100.

I. FORFEITURE OF SUBSCRIPTIONS.

A. Waiver of right. Until a corporation proceeds under §§ 8674 to 8676 to foreclose the interest of a subscriber, it remains the property of the subscriber. A corporation can not, without following the method authorized by these sections, forfeit the subscription and appropriate the amounts paid. Where a corporation takes no action the subscriber, or an assignee, may tender the amount due with interest, and by action compel the corporation to issue a stock certificate, and to account to him for dividends declared. The statute of limitations begins to run from the time of such tender.

Iron Railroad Co. v. Fink, 41 O. S. 321 (1884).

B. Injunction against forfeiture. A forfeiture of stock in an insolvent corporation by the directors so as to release solvent subscribers is fraudulent as to creditors and may be enjoined by them.

Upton v. Rocky River, etc., Co., 2 Cleve. L. R. 355 (C. P. 1879).

C. Irregular forfeiture. Laches of stockholder. Where there were defects in forfeiture proceedings, but the stockholder had knowledge of the assessments, and failed to pay the same for sixteen years, having knowledge of the precarious financial condition of the corporation, the stockholder is barred by laches from enforcing any rights in his stock.

Hedley v. Improvement Co., 13 N. P. n. s. 523 (C. P. 1912).

II. SUITS TO COLLECT SUBSCRIPTIONS.

A. Conditions precedent.

(a) Calls. An action to recover on a stock subscription can not be brought until sixty days after the time of payment designated in the call. After the first installment is paid nothing is due on a subscription until a call has been made by the directors specifying the time for payment. § 8632.

Thomas v. Kalbfus, 97 O. S. 232 (1918).

Mansfield, etc., Co. v. Hall, 26 O. S. 310 (1875).

Railroad Co. v. Fink, 41 O. S. 321, 329 (1884).

Gibson v. Columbia, etc., Co., 18 O. S. 396 (1868).

Unless the call has been waived by agreement of the parties.

See Mansfield, etc., Co. v. Pettis, 26 O. S. 259 (1875).

The making of the call should be alleged in the petition where the action is brought by the corporation, or a consolidated company, or an assignee of the subscription.

Mansfield, etc., Co. v. Hall, 26 O. S. 310 (1875).

P. & O. Canal Co. v. Webb, 9 Ohio 136 (1839).

(b) Notice of calls. Whether notice of a call must be given to subscribers before suit can be brought on their subscriptions has not been judicially determined in Ohio except in Proprietors, etc., v. Wade, 7 W. L. J. 95 (Commercial Court of Cincinnati, 1849) in which five installments were involved and payment of the first four had been demanded. It was held that demand of the fifth installment was not necessary except perhaps as affecting costs.

In other states under statutes somewhat similar to §§ 8632 and 8674 the authorities are conflicting.

Cook on Corporations, §§ 117, 118.

Publication of notice is a condition precedent to forfeiture of stock for nonpayment of calls.

See § 8675.

(c) Calls after insolvency. Where the corporation is insolvent the making of a call by the directors is not a condition precedent to an action by the receiver or a creditor. In such an action the subscriptions will either be regarded as due, or the court will make the call.

Thomas v. Kalbfus, 97 O. S. 232 (1918).

Turnbull v. Pomeroy Salt Co., 24 W. L. B. 133 (C. P. 1890).

Henry v. Vermillion, etc., R. Co., 17 Ohio 187, 191 (1848).

A court of bankruptcy may make the call.

In re Flood-Pratt Dairy Co., 7 O. L. R. 603; 16 O. F. D. 396 (Referee 1909).

(d) Presentation of claim to administrator. The claim should be presented to the administrator or executor of the estate of a deceased subscriber before suit.

Roebbing Sons Co. v. Shawnee, etc., Co., 4 N. P. n. s. 113, 115; 17 L. D. 8 (1906); aff'd, no rep., 78 O. S. 408.

But where the estate of a deceased subscriber was fully administered before a call was made by the court, after insolvency, a residuary legatee, who received from the estate property of value in excess of the amount claimed under the subscription, can not escape liability on the ground that the claim was not presented to, and suit brought against, the executor. Thomas v. Kalbfus, 97 O. S. 232 (1918).

(e) Subscription of ten percent of capital stock. Until ten percent of the capital stock has been subscribed subscribers can not be compelled by the corporation to pay beyond the first installment.

Trust Co. v. Floyd, 47 O. S. 525, 542 (1890).

It is not necessary that the entire capital stock be subscribed. Subscriptions may be enforced after ten percent has been subscribed.

See §§ 8632 to 8635.

Jewett v. Railway, 34 O. S. 601 (1878).

Subscribers may waive the statutory right to have ten percent subscribed.

Emmitt v. Springfield, etc., R. Co., 31 O. S. 23, 26 (1876).

(f) Performance of conditions. The petition in an action brought on a conditional subscription must allege performance of all conditions precedent.

Trott v. Sarchett, 10 O. S. 241 (1859).

Railroad Co. v. Hinsdale, 45 O. S. 556, 570 (1888).

See note to § 8630. Conditional subscriptions.

(g) Tender of stock certificates to the subscriber is not required before suit. But where by the terms of a subscription the amount was payable in installments and certificates were to be issued for the several installments paid it was held that readiness and willingness to issue and deliver the certificates should be alleged in the petition.

James v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 2 Dis. 261 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1858).

B. Who may bring suit.

(a) The corporation may sue to enforce payment of subscriptions to its stock.

See Iron Railroad Co. v. Fink, 41 O. S. 321, 332 (1884).

Ashtabula, etc., R. Co. v. Smith, 15 O. S. 328 (1864).

Henry v. Vermillion, etc., R. Co., 17 Ohio 187 (1848).

But see Traction Co. v. Burch, 93 O. S. 498.

A subscription payable to the "president and directors" of a corporation may be enforced in the name of the corporation.

Milford, etc., Co. v. Brush, 10 Ohio 111 (1840).

(b) A consolidated company may recover on subscriptions to the stock of its constituent corporations, where the consolidation was effected under statutes in force at the time such subscriptions were made and which authorize the consolidated company to acquire debts due on subscriptions.

Mansfield, etc., Co. v. Brown, 26 O. S. 223, 238, 239 (1875).

Mansfield, etc., Co. v. Stout, 26 O. S. 241 (1875).

Compton v. Railway, 45 O. S. 592, 620 (1888).

See § 9038.

(c) An assignee of subscriptions may sue the subscriber where the calls have been made by the directors.

Dungan v. Safford, 41 O. S. 15 (1884).

Downie v. Hoover, 12 Wis. 174.

An assignee, who has purchased claims for unpaid subscriptions from the trustee in bankruptcy of the corporation, may sue thereon, although it may be doubtful whether he is entitled to recover more than the amount paid by him therefor. Yoder v. Tubman, 19 C. C. n. s. 225 (1911).

(d) The assignee for creditors of the corporation may sue, unpaid subscriptions being a part of the trust fund for creditors. The assignee and a creditor may join as plaintiffs in the action.

Saylor v. Simpson, 12 L. D. 148 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1888).

Turnbull v. Pomeroy Salt Co., 24 W. L. B. 133 (C. P. 1890).

See Niles v. Olszak, 87 O. S. 229 (1912).

(e) The trustee in bankruptcy of the corporation is vested with the legal title to unpaid subscriptions and may sue thereon.

Thrall v. Union, etc., Co., 6 O. L. R. 676; 19 L. D. 732 (C. P. 1909).

Security Trust Co. v. Ford, 75 O. S. 322 (1906).

Kiskadden v. Steinle, 203 Fed. 375 (C. C. A. 1913).

Petition of Stuart, 272 Fed. 938 (1921).

The trustee may be substituted as plaintiff in a suit, brought by a creditor before the bankruptcy, in which suit a demurrer had been filed on the ground that the creditor had not exhausted his remedy by judgment and execution. Van Camp v. McCulley, 89 O. S. 1 (1913).

(f) A receiver appointed under § 11943 et seq. to wind up the affairs of a corporation may bring suit on stock subscriptions.

G. C. § 11946.

Smith v. Johnson, 57 O. S. 486 (1898).

After judgment against a subscriber in favor of such a receiver the court appointing the receiver has power to direct the receiver to collect on such judgment only the subscriber's fair proportion of the corporate debts.

Clarke v. Thomas, 34 O. S. 46 (1877).

An action by such a receiver is a suit at law. Subscribers residing out of the county can not be joined as defendants and served with summons issued to the county of their residence.

Smith v. Johnson, 57 O. S. 486 (1898).

The action is not appealable. Union Sav. Bank v. Traction Co., 13 Ohio App. 9, 31 O. C. A. 127, 270 (1920); motion to certify record overruled, 18 O. L. R. 112.

An allegation that the plaintiff seeks to recover only so much of unpaid subscriptions as is necessary to pay the corporate debts and to equalize the assessments on stockholders does not convert the action into a chancery case. Union Sav. Bank v. Traction Co., 13 Ohio App. 9, 31 O. C. A. 127, 270 (1920); motion to certify record overruled, 18 O. L. R. 112.

A receiver of an insolvent foreign corporation appointed in its home state with no other title to its assets and property than that derived from his appointment in a suit brought to subject its property to the payment of claims of creditors can not sue in Ohio on a subscription to its stock.

Leman v. Mac Lennan, 7 C. C. n. s. 205; 18 C. D. 137 (1905); aff'd, no rep., 75 O. S. 643.

A receiver appointed by federal court is the proper person to bring suit to collect stock subscriptions. Hartford Trust Co. v. Doherty, 286 Fed. 926 (C. C. A. Ohio 1923).

(g) Creditors. Where a corporation has property or assets upon which execution may be levied, a creditor can not bring suit upon its stock subscriptions. But where the corporation has no such property or assets a creditor may, by a creditor's bill or proceeding in aid of execution, subject unpaid subscriptions to his claim.

Henry v. Vermillion, etc., R. Co., 17 Ohio 187 (1848).

Van Camp v. McCulley, 89 O. S. 1 (1913).

Gilmore v. Bank of Cincinnati, 8 Ohio 62, 71 (1837).

Dunbar v. Harrison, 18 O. S. 24 (1868).

Moutray v. Connor, etc., Co., 7 O. L. R. 446 (C. P. 1909).

Ewin v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 2 W. L. M. 42 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1859).

Everheart v. U. S. Investment Co., 1 Hosea 524.

By the filing of a proceeding in aid of execution, or creditor's bill, a judgment creditor acquires a lien on the fund.

Dunbar v. Harrison, 18 O. S. 24 (1868).

Miers v. Zanesville, etc., Co., 13 Ohio 197 (1844).

Kilbreath v. Gaylord, 3 W. L. B. 525 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1878); aff'd, 34 O. S. 305.

One creditor may sue on behalf of all creditors.

Turnbull v. Pomeroy Salt Co., 24 W. L. B. 133 (C. P. 1890).

But after the corporation has been adjudged a bankrupt a creditor can not sue. The trustee in bankruptcy of the corporation alone has the right to maintain the action.

Thrall v. Union, etc., Co., 6 O. L. R. 676; 19 L. D. 732 (C. P. 1909).

After the appointment of a receiver under § 11943 in a proceeding to wind up the affairs of a corporation, a creditor may intervene in the proceeding by answer and cross-petition and set up a cause of action against a subscriber.

Peter v. Farrel Foundry & Machine Co., 53 O. S. 534 (1895).

Action by creditor after assignment for creditors.

See Painesville N. B. v. King Varnish Co., 8 C. C. 563; 4 C. D. 511 (1894); reversed, without report, 56 O. S. 744.

Turnbull v. Pomeroy Salt Co., 24 W. L. B. 133 (C. P. 1890).

Subscriptions to stock in a foreign corporation may be reached in Ohio by creditor's bill.

Everheart v. U. S. Investment & Red. Co., 1 Hosea 524 (Super. Ct. Cin.).

Citing Kulp v. Fleming, 65 O. S. 321.

The petition in a creditor's action should, in general, allege that a judgment has been recovered on his claim against the corporation and that execution has been issued and returned nulla bona.

Dickason v. Grafton, etc., Co., 6 C. C. n. s. 329, 330, 331; 17 C. D. 357 (1905); aff'd, 76 O. S. 612.

Turnbull v. Pomeroy Salt Co., 24 W. L. B. 133 (C. P. 1890).

American, etc., Co. v. Dox, 4 N. P. n. s. 155; 16 L. D. 501 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1906).

But judgment and execution are unnecessary where the corporation has no property or assets subject to execution, or its assets are in the hands of a receiver.

Peter v. Farrell, etc., Co., 53 O. S. 534, 557 (1895).

Dickason v. Grafton, etc., Co., 6 C. C. n. s. 329, 330, 331; 17 C. D. 357 (1905); aff'd, 76 O. S. 612.

Moutray v. Connor, etc., Co., 7 O. L. R. 446 (C. P. 1909).

Turnbull v. Pomeroy Salt Co., 24 W. L. B. 133 (C. P. 1890).

A judgment against the corporation in favor of a creditor can not be collaterally impeached by a stockholder where it was not obtained by fraud or collusion, although the stockholder had no notice of the suit.

Scofield v. Excelsior Oil Co., 6 C. C. n. s. 176; 17 C. D. 318 (1905); aff'd, no rep., 74 O. S. 513.

Henry v. Vermillion, etc., R. Co., 17 Ohio 187, 191.

And although obtained during the pendency of the suit to recover on the subscription and set up in a supplemental petition.

Scofield v. Excelsior Oil Co., 6 C. C. n. s. 169, 176; 17 C. D. 347, 318 (1905); aff'd, no rep., 74 O. S. 513.

In a creditor's action directors may be enjoined from fraudulently disposing of funds realized from stock subscriptions.

Upson v. Rocky River, etc., Co., 2 Cleve. L. R. 355 (C. P. 1879).

C. Who are liable.

(a) Original subscribers are liable on their subscriptions unless they have been released by the corporation or by a transfer in good faith.

Gaff v. Flesher, 33 O. S. 107, 112 (1877).

See below Defenses. Withdrawal and release of subscriptions.

(b) Transferrers. A subscription to stock on which installments have been paid may be assigned by the subscriber.

Iron Railroad Co. v. Fink, 41 O. S. 321 (1884).

See Peter v. Union Mfg. Co., 56 O. S. 181 (1897).

And it has been held that a subscriber who, acting in good faith, has transferred his subscription to another and paid all calls to the time of transfer is not further liable on his subscription, where the transfer is properly entered in the corporate books.

Gilmore v. Bank of Cincinnati, 8 Ohio 62, 71 (1837).

Porter v. Laws, 6 Am. L. R. 756; 3 W. L. B. 384 (Dist. Ct. 1878).

A transfer to an insolvent person for the purpose of avoiding liability does not release the transferrer, at least as against debts existing at the time of transfer.

Gaff v. Flesher, 33 O. S. 107, 112 (1877).

Peter v. Union Mfg. Co., 56 O. S. 181 (1897).

A transfer to a fictitious person is void and does not release the transferrer.

Muskingum, etc., Co. v. Ward, 13 Ohio 120 (1884).

Krohn v. Central, etc., Co., 4 N. P. 270; 6 L. D. 552 (C. P. 1897).

A verbal agreement made at the time of subscription between the subscriber and the president of the corporation to the effect that a third person would assume a part of the subscription is no defense to the subscriber, where there was no transfer.

Painesville N. B. v. King Varnish Co., 8 C. C. 563; 4 C. D. 511 (1894); reversed, in part, 56 O. S. 744.

Where a transferrer has been compelled to pay calls made after the transfer, he may be subrogated to the rights of the corporation against the transferee, on clear proof of acceptance of the transfer.

Tripp v. Appleman, 35 Fed. 19 (U. S. C. C. Ohio 1888).

(c) Transferees. The transferee of stock which has not been fully paid impliedly assumes the obligations for the unpaid balance and is liable for calls.

Turnbull v. Pomeroy Salt Co., 24 W. L. B. 133 (C. P. 1890).

Gilmore v. Bank of Cincinnati, 8 Ohio 62, 71 (1837).

Acceptance of the transfer by the transferee must be shown.

Tripp v. Appleman, 35 Fed. 19; 6 O. F. D. 71 (U. S. C. C. Ohio 1888).

A purchaser for value of stock who has no notice that it has not been fully paid is not liable. The purchaser may rely on the representation of the corporation that it has been paid. The statement "full paid" on a stock certificate is a representation by the corporation that the stock has been paid up and the purchaser need not inquire further.

Roebling Sons Co. v. Shawnee, etc., Co., 4 N. P. n. s. 113, 121; 17 L. D. 8 (1906); aff'd, no rep., 78 O. S. 408.

(d) Purchasers and donees of stock after organization. Where stock is disposed of by the directors after organization, not by means of subscriptions but by means of sales, exchanges for property or stock dividends, the persons receiving the stock from the corporation may be liable to creditors where the stock is not fully paid in money or property. "The fact that they did not subscribe for it or agree to take it until receipt of the certificates is immaterial, as the acceptance of the certificates is sufficient evidence of an agreement to pay their par value."

Handley v. Stutz, 139 U. S. 417, 427 (1891).

Gates v. Tippecanoe Stone Co., 57 O. S. 60 (1897).

In re Flood-Pratt Dairy Co., 7 O. L. R. 603; 16 O. F. D. 396 (Referee in Bkry. 1909).

— (1) Stock dividends. Where a stock dividend was declared at a time when there were no surplus profits (as required by § 8724) the stockholders who accepted the certificates are liable. They can not be relieved from liability by offering to return the stock after the corporation has become insolvent and suit brought to enforce payment.

First N. B. v. Patton Co., 13 C. C. n. s. 289 (1910).

See Handley v. Stutz, 139 U. S. 417 (1891).

— (2) Sales below par. A purchaser of stock from the corporation for less than par is liable to subsequent creditors who had no knowledge of the terms of the purchase, for the difference between the amount paid and the par value of the stock.

Rickerson, etc., Co. v. Farrell, etc., Co., 75 Fed. 554 (C. C. A. 1896).

Security Trust Co. v. Ford, 75 O. S. 322 (1906).

Handley v. Stutz, 139 U. S. 417 (1891).

In re Flood-Pratt Dairy Co., 7 O. L. R. 603; 16 O. F. D. 396 (Referee in Bkry. 1909).

But under some circumstances such a purchaser is not liable to the corporation or as against other stockholders.

Peter v. Union Mfg. Co., 56 O. S. 181 (1897).

Kinsey v. Mt. Auburn Cable Co., 6 C. C. n. s. 305; 17 C. D. 633 (1905);
aff'd, no rep., 75 O. S. 602.

See Security Trust Co. v. Ford, 75 O. S. 322, 333 (1906).

Nor to creditors whose claims were incurred prior to the purchase.

Handley v. Stutz, 139 U. S. 417 (1891).

See Peter v. Union Mfg. Co., 56 O. S. 181, 203 (1897).

Nor to subsequent creditors who have knowledge of the terms of the purchase.

Rickerson, etc., Co. v. Farrell, etc., Co., 75 Fed. 554 (C. C. A. 1896).

Kinsey v. Mt. Auburn Cable Co., 6 C. C. n. s. 305, 314; 17 C. D. 633
(1905); aff'd, no rep., 75 O. S. 602.

See note to § 8630, Sales below par.

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals has held that stockholders who purchase stock from the corporation below par at its market price, its capital being then impaired, are not liable to creditors. Thoms v. Goodman, 254 Fed. 39; 17 O. L. R. 31 (Ohio 1918).

Where less than par is paid by a subscriber, the difference being credited to a Board of Trade as commission on the subscription, and assigned by the Board of Trade to the subscriber, he is liable to creditors for the difference. Vandeusen v. Ransom, 23 C. C. n. s. 194 (1912).

— (3) Exchanges of stock for property. Where stock is exchanged for property at a fraudulent overvaluation the persons receiving the stock from the corporation are liable to creditors for the difference between the actual value of the property and the par value of the stock.

Gates v. Tippecanoe Stone Co., 57 O. S. 60 (1897).

Ford v. Lamson, 17 C. C. 539; 9 C. D. 374 (1899).

Sayler v. Simpson, 12 L. D. 148 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1888).

But they are not liable to the corporation itself.

Orton v. Edson, etc., Co., 5 C. C. n. s. 540; 17 C. D. 107 (1905);
aff'd, no rep., 75 O. S. 580.

Leman v. MacLennan, 7 C. C. n. s. 205, 208; 18 C. D. 137 (1905);
aff'd, no rep., 75 O. S. 643.

See note to § 8630, Exchange of stock for property.

(e) Legatees. A residuary legatee, who has received assets of the estate exceeding the amount unpaid on a subscription made by the testator, is liable where the cause of action did not accrue on the subscription until after the estate was fully administered. Thomas v. Kalbfus, 97 O. S. 232 (1918).

Where, under a will bequeathing all the estate to a sole legatee providing she shall first pay from the moneys of the estate all debts, the legatee did not accept stock on which there was a liability for unpaid subscriptions, she was held not to be personally liable therefor.

Roebing Sons Co. v. Shawnee, etc., Co., 4 N. P. n. s. 113, 116; 17 L. D. 8 (1906); aff'd, no rep., 78 O. S. 408.

But where such a legatee purchased the stock from herself as executrix and had it transferred to her name on the corporate books, she was held, although the purchase from herself was illegal.

Biggio v. Sandheger, 8 N. P. 13 (C. P. 1900).

(f) Unauthorized agent. It has been held that a person who without authority signs the name of another person to a subscription, his own name not appearing on the paper, can not be held liable on the subscription.

Cincinnati Hotel Co. v. Marsh, 9 W. L. B. 176 (Dist. Ct. 1883).

(g) The state. No suit can be brought against the state on a subscription.

Miers v. Zanesville, etc., Co., 11 Ohio 273 (1842).

(h) Subscribers to stock in a foreign corporation may be sued in Ohio by a creditor.

Everheart v. U. S. Investment & Red. Co., 1 Hosea 524 (Super. Ct. Cin.)

See Kulp v. Fleming, 65 O. S. 321 (1901).

Blair v. Newbegin, 65 O. S. 425 (1901).

But not by a receiver of an insolvent foreign corporation appointed in its home state with no other title to its assets and property than that derived from his appointment in a suit brought to subject its property to the payment of creditors' claims.

Leman v. MacLennan, 7 C. C. n. s. 205; 18 C. D. 137 (1905); aff'd, no rep., 75 O. S. 643.

D. Joinder of actions. An action by a creditor on stock subscriptions may be joined with an action to enforce the statutory liability of stockholders.

Warner v. Callender, 20 O. S. 190 (1870).

Peter v. Farrell, etc., Co., 53 O. S. 534, 557 (1895).

E. Joinder of defendants. Where the suit is equitable in its nature all subscribers may be joined as defendants. Where it is merely an action at law subscribers whose liability is several can not be joined as defendants in one action.

Smith v. Johnson, 57 O. S. 486, 488 (1898).

An action by the corporation itself, or by a receiver appointed under § 11943 to wind up its affairs, is an action at law. It is not proper practice to join as defendants subscribers who reside out of the county where suit is brought and to issue summons to another county to obtain service on them.

Smith v. Johnson, 57 O. S. 486 (1898).

It has been held that such nonresident stockholders may be joined in a creditors' bill after judgment.

Ewin v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 2 W. L. M. 42 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1859).

In a suit to set aside a fraudulent payment of subscriptions by property, all subscribers who participate in the fraud may be joined.

Sayler v. Simpson, 12 L. D. 148 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1888).

A stockholder, bringing suit for the benefit of the corporation to collect subscriptions, can not join a cause of action in favor of the plaintiff personally against a resident of another county for fraud in inducing plaintiff to purchase the stock. Smith v. Banking Co., 19 C. C. n. s. 417 (1912).

F. Pleading and practice.

(a) Supplemental petition setting up judgment against corporation. In an action by a creditor, where the original petition was defective in not alleging a judgment and execution against the corporation, a supplemental petition may be filed setting up that, during the pendency of the action, such judgment has been recovered and execution issued.

Scofield v. Excelsior Oil Co., 6 C. C. n. s. 169, 176; 17 C. D. 347, 318 (1905); aff'd, 74 O. S. 513.

(b) Amendment of petition substituting allegation of receivership for judgment, etc. In an action by a creditor, where the petition alleged a judgment against the corporation but it appeared that the judgment was void for lack of proper service, the creditor was permitted, at the trial, to amend and allege the appointment of a receiver and the judicial determination of insolvency of the corporation.

Dickason v. Grafton, etc., Co., 6 C. C. n. s. 329, 331; 17 C. D. 357 (1905); aff'd, 76 O. S. 612.

Where suit was brought by a creditor, who failed to allege a judgment against the corporation, or insolvency of the corporation, the trustee in bankruptcy of the corporation may be substituted as plaintiff, and, by amended petition, may set up his right and title to maintain the suit. Van Camp v. McCulley, 89 O. S. 1 (1913).

(c) Discovery of names of subscribers. A creditor, by creditor's bill or proceeding in aid of execution, may compel a disclosure of the names of subscribers and the amounts due from each.

Miers v. Zanesville, etc., Co., 11 Ohio 273 (1842).

(d) Evidence. As to former judgment for installments. In an action on two subscriptions for four and ten shares respectively, which were denied by the answer, the record of a judgment against the subscriber for installments on one subscription of a different date for fourteen shares is not admissible.

Hanes v. Dayton, etc., Co., 40 O. S. 95 (1883).

(e) Prima facie case.

See Milford, etc., Co. v. Brush, 10 Ohio 111 (1840).

(f) Amount of recovery. Interest from the time when calls were due may be recovered by the corporation.

Railroad Co. v. Fink, 41 O. S. 321, 327 (1884).

National Bank v. Greenville, etc., Co., 3 C. C. n. s. 372, 381; 13 C. D. 274 (1899).

On a subscription payable in land the recovery is not the par value of the stock. If the circumstances prevent a specific performance of the agreement, the measure of damages is the value of the land.

Dayton, etc., R. Co. v. Hatch, 1 Dis. 84 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1855).

After judgment against a subscriber in favor of a receiver the court appointing the receiver has power to direct the receiver to collect on such judgment only the subscriber's fair proportion of the corporate debts.

Clarke v. Thomas, 34 O. S. 46 (1877).

(g) Error or appeal. An action to collect unpaid subscriptions is not a chancery case and is not appealable. Traction Co. v. Trust Co., 9 Ohio App. 414 (1918).

G. Other remedies against subscribers.

(a) Proof of claim in bankruptcy. An unpaid subscription is a debt provable against the estate of the bankrupt subscriber.

Roebblings Sons Co. v. Shawnee, etc., Co., 4 N. P. n. s. 113; 17 L. D. 8 (1906); aff'd, no rep., 78 O. S. 408.

(b) Corporation may apply dividends on unpaid subscriptions.

Rhodes v. Equitable, etc., Co., 3 C. C. 501; 2 C. D. 288 (1888); affirmed, 27 W. L. B. 160.

(c) Unpaid subscriptions as a trust fund for creditors.

See note to § 8684.

H. Statute of limitations.

An action to recover on a stock subscription is barred in fifteen years, a subscription being a promise in writing.

Warner v. Callender, 20 O. S. 190 (1870).

Gibson v. Columbia, etc., Bridge Co., 18 O. S. 396 (1868).

See Gilmore v. Bank of Cincinnati, 8 Ohio 62, 71 (1837).

The cause of action accrues at the time of payment specified in the call made by the directors.

Gibson v. Columbia, etc., Bridge Co., 18 O. S. 396 (1868).

Warner v. Callender, 20 O. S. 190 (1870).

Railroad Co. v. Fink, 41 O. S. 321, 329 (1884).

Kilbreath v. Gaylord, 34 O. S. 305 (1877).

Where the corporation is insolvent the statute of limitations begins to run in favor of the subscriber at the time of the appointment of a receiver or other act of insolvency.

Roebings Sons Co. v. Shawnee, etc., Co., 4 N. P. n. s. 113; 17 L. D. 8 (1906); aff'd, no rep., 78 O. S. 408.

Where, after insolvency, a call is made by the court, the statute begins to run when the call is so made. Thomas v. Kalbfus, 97 O. S. 232 (1918).

An action against the estate of a deceased subscriber may, where the corporation is insolvent, be barred in eighteen months under G. C. § 10746.

Roebling Sons Co. v. Shawnee, etc., Co., 4 N. P. n. s. 113, 115, 116; 17 L. D. 8 (1906); aff'd, no rep., 78 O. S. 408.

An action by creditors to set aside a fraudulent exchange of property for stock is barred in four years from discovery of the fraud by the creditors.

Saylor v. Simpson, 12 L. D. 148 (Cin. Super. Ct. 1888).

Where demand notes were given by subscribers to the stock of an insurance company organized under a special charter, it was held that such notes were intended to be payable on call of the directors and that the statute did not begin to run until such call was made.

Kilbreath v. Gaylord, 34 O. S. 305 (1877).

The limitation of G. C. § 8688 does not apply to an action on subscriptions. Bauman v. Kiskadden, 94 O. S. 130 (1916); Kiskadden v. Anderson, 95 O. S. 88 (1916); Yoder v. Tubman, 19 C. C. n. s. 225 (1911).

I. Defenses.

(a) Non-compliance with the Blue Sky Law. A subscription obtained without complying with the Blue Sky Law (§§ 6373-1 to 6373-24) is illegal and unenforceable. Edward v. Ioor, 205 Mich. 617, 172 N. W. 620; Goodyear v. Meux, 143 Tenn. 287, 228 S. W. 57.

(b) Withdrawal and release of subscription. A subscriber can not relieve himself from liability by attempting to withdraw or cancel his subscription.

Gaff v. Flesher, 33 O. S. 107, 112-113 (1877).

Nor can the corporation release the subscriber to the prejudice of any intervening creditor.

Gaff v. Flesher, 33 O. S. 107, 113 (1877).

Directors have no power to release a subscriber except with the unanimous consent of the other subscribers.

See Royce v. Tyler, 2 C. C. 175, 187; 1 C. D. 428 (1887).

A subscriber may be released by the unanimous consent of the other subscribers before debts are incurred. Such consent need not be express. Where a subscriber stated in open meeting that he would withdraw his subscription for five shares, but agreed to take one share, and all other subscribers had knowledge of his withdrawal and made no objection, he was held not liable to subsequent creditors. Ginn v. Sanitarium Co., 16 C. C. n. s. 90 (1909).

(c) Compromise and release of subscription. The directors have power to compromise with and release a subscriber, for a valuable consideration paid by the subscriber, where there is a bona fide controversy as to his liability or where the subscriber is insolvent. When made in good faith and fully executed the compromise agreement releases the subscriber from further liability.

Warner v. Callender, 20 O. S. 190, 198 (1870).

State v. Building Assn., 35 O. S. 258, 263 (1879).

Wangerien v. Aspell, 47 O. S. 250 (1890).

Biggio v. Sandheger, 8 N. P. 13, 15 (1900).

See Morgan v. Lewis, 46 O. S. 1 (1888).

Sanderson v. Aetna Iron & Nail Co., 34 O. S. 442 (1878).

(d) Fraud in obtaining subscription. Fraud in inducing a subscription is a defense against its enforcement.

Jewett v. Railway, 34 O. S. 601, 609 (1878).

Armstrong v. Karshner, 47 O. S. 276, 294 (1890).

Freeman v. Muth, 3 W. L. B. 914 (Dist. Ct. 1878).

James v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 2 Dis. 261, 266 (1851).

But where the subscriber takes no action for an unreasonable time after discovery of the fraud and the rights of creditors intervene, he can not defend on the ground of fraud.

Mansfield v. Woods, Jenks & Co., 29 W. L. B. 111 (C. P.).

Ryan v. Miami, etc., Ry. Co., 10 A. L. R. 263 (C. P. 1881).

See Painesville N. B. v. King Varnish Co., 8 C. C. 563; 4 C. D. 511 (1894); reversed, in part, 56 O. S. 774.

Fraud is a defense, even after bankruptcy of the corporation, where no corporate debts were contracted after the subscription. Yoder v. Hoyt, 18 C. C. n. s. 433 (1910).

After insolvency of the corporation, while a defrauded subscriber can not rescind to the prejudice of creditors, yet the liability of other stockholders must be exhausted before his liability is resorted to. Gill v. Printing Co., 16 C. C. n. c. 568 (1907); aff'd, no rep. 80 O. S. 742, 81 O. S. 515.

As to representations which constitute fraud, see note to § 8630.

(e) Alteration of subscription. Where a subscription has been materially altered by increasing the number of shares subscribed for, without the knowledge of the subscriber, the corporation can not recover on the original subscription without showing that the alteration was not fraudulently made by it.

Bery v. Marietta, etc., Co., 26 O. S. 673 (1875).

(f) Alteration of decoy subscription made by another person. Where one was induced to subscribe on the faith of a prior subscription made by another person, a subsequent alteration of the prior subscription, the number of shares being reduced, is no defense to the persons so induced to subscribe. The alteration, being an attempted fraud on other subscribers, is a nullity.

Jewett v. Railway, 34 O. S. 601 (1878).

Bates v. Lewis, 3 O. S. 459 (1854).

(g) Decoy subscription. That a subscription was made without any intention to pay it, but for the purpose of pretending to the public that the stock had been largely subscribed, and to prevent the predominance of certain stockholders, is no defense to the subscriber.

Bates v. Lewis, 3 O. S. 459 (1854).

Jewett v. Railway, 34 O. S. 601 (1878).

Royce v. Tyler, 2 C. C. 175, 183; 1 C. D. 428 (1887).

(h) Irregular or incomplete incorporation. In an action by a creditor, or for the benefit of creditors, a subscriber is estopped from setting up as a defense that statutory requirements were not complied with in the incorporation proceedings.

Dickason v. Grafton Sav. Bank, 6 C. C. n. s. 329, 332; 17 C. D. 357 (1905); aff'd, no rep., 76 O. S. 612.

Clark v. Thomas, 34 O. S. 46, 62 (1877).

Warner v. Callender, 20 O. S. 190, 197 (1870).

Mansfield v. Woods, 29 W. L. B. 111 (C. P. 1893).

Ryan v. Miami, etc., R. Co., 10 A. L. R. 263, 273 (C. P. 1881).

See note to § 8627. Estoppel to deny corporate existence.

Where the corporation has a de facto existence the subscribers are liable to creditors regardless of defects or irregularities in its organization.

Gaff v. Flesher, 33 O. S. 107, 113 (1877).

See note to § 8627. De facto corporations.

Although in some cases corporate officers and others may be personally liable for carrying on business in the corporate name in violation of law, such personal liability is no defense to an action by creditors on subscriptions made by such persons.

Dickason v. Grafton Sav. Bank, 6 C. C. n. s. 329, 335; 17 C. D. 357 (1905); aff'd, no rep., 76 O. S. 612.

See note to § 8627. Ultra vires acts. Personal liability for.

The following irregularities or defects have been held not to release subscribers: Failure to pay the first installment of ten percent with the subscription as required by § 8632.

Henry v. Vermillion, etc., R. Co., 17 Ohio 187 (1848).

Chamberlain v. R. R. Co., 15 O. S. 225, 249 (1864).

Ashtabula, etc., R. Co. v. Smith, 15 O. S. 328, 336 (1864).

That a banking corporation commenced business before its entire capital stock was subscribed and one-half paid in, as required by statute:

That the incorporators failed to give notice of the stockholders' meeting to elect directors; or that a bare majority of the directors elected at such irregular meeting ever qualified or acted.

Dickason v. Grafton Sav. Bank Co., 6 C. C. n. s. 329, 332; 17 C. D. 357 (1905); aff'd, no rep., 76 O. S. 612.

That the subscription was made before the articles of incorporation were filed.

Royce v. Tyler, 2 C. C. 175; 1 C. D. 428 (1887).

That no notice was given of a meeting of stockholders at which an increase of the capital stock of a mining company was voted; that a part of the increased stock was declined by the stockholders without actual apportionment; or that original stockholders were given part of the increased stock without payment in money, as required by statute.

Clark v. Thomas, 34 O. S. 46 (1877).

Failure to obtain minimum amount of subscriptions is a defense against the corporation.

Trust Co. v. Floyd, 47 O. S. 525, 542 (1890).

(i) Irregular incorporation as a defense against the corporation.

Where an action is brought on a subscription by the corporation itself, it is doubtful whether the subscriber is estopped from setting up irregular or incomplete incorporation as a defense.

Raccoon River Nav. Co. v. Eagle, 29 O. S. 238 (1876).

Gaff v. Flesher, 33 O. S. 114-115 (1877).

Society Perun v. Cleveland, 43 O. S. 498-499 (1885).

Trust Co. v. Floyd, 47 O. S. 525, 542 (1890).

(j) Misnomer of corporation. An error in the corporate name in the subscription will not release the subscriber where there is no doubt as to the corporation intended.

Milford, etc., Co. v. Brush, 10 Ohio 111, 114 (1840).

Commissioners v. Perry, 5 Ohio 56 (1831).

Royce v. Tyler, 2 C. C. 175, 183; 1 C. D. 428 (1887).

See Biggio v. Sandheger, 8 N. P. 13; 10 L. D. 316 (1900).

(k) Forfeiture of charter. A judgment of ouster in a quo warranto proceeding against the corporation is no defense to a subscriber in an action brought by a creditor.

Rowland v. Meader Furniture Co., 38 O. S. 269 (1882).

Nor is it a defense to an action brought by the corporation that the corporation has committed an act for which its charter might be forfeited by the state.

Milford, etc., Co. v. Brush, 10 Ohio 111 (1840).

(l) Amendments to charter. The acceptance, by a corporation organized under a special charter, of an amendment to its charter which materially changed the business of the corporation was held to release the subscriber.

Marietta, etc., R. Co. v. Elliott, 10 O. S. 57 (1859).

(m) Agreement to give common stock free with preferred stock. An agreement by the corporation to give certain common stock free, to a subscriber for preferred stock, does not render the subscription illegal so as to release the subscriber from his obligation to pay for the preferred stock. Yoder v. Tubman, 19 C. C. n. s. 225 (1911).

(n) Change in character of stock. Where a corporation changes the nature and character of its capital stock so as to make it substantially different from the stock subscribed for, the subscriber is not liable.

James v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 2 Dis. 261, 275 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1858).

Covington, etc., Co. v. Sargent, 1 C. S. C. R. 354 (1871); reversed on other grounds, 27 O. S. 233.

(o) Delay in completion of work. Abandonment of enterprise. It is no defense that a railroad company has not completed the road in its entirety, nor that it has abandoned a part of the enterprise, where the subscription is not made on such conditions precedent.

Armstrong v. Karshner, 47 O. S. 276, 300 (1890).

See Four Mile, etc., Co. v. Bailey, 18 O. S. 208 (1868).

Where a turnpike company did not complete its enterprise until thirteen years after the date of its charter the delay was held no defense to a subscriber where the company during the entire time continued efforts to procure subscriptions and constructed the road as soon as funds were secured.

Gibson v. Columbus, etc., Co., 18 O. S. 396 (1868).

But where there are no corporate debts abandonment of the corporate enterprise may be a defense. Traction Co. v. Burch, 93 O. S. 498, 92 O. S. 540.

(p) Change of route of railroad. An immaterial change of the route of a railroad or turnpike company is no defense.

Milford, etc., Turnpike Co. v. Brush, 10 Ohio 111 (1840).

Jewett v. Railway, 34 O. S. 601 (1878).

See Armstrong v. Karshner, 47 O. S. 276 (1890).

P. & O. Canal Co. v. Webb, 9 Ohio 136 (1839).

Unless the subscription was made on the faith of the original location of the road, in which case the subscriber may obtain a release by written notice.

G. C. § 8747.

(q) Change of termini of railroad. A change of termini of a railroad may release the subscriber.

See § 8747.

Marietta, etc., R. Co. v. Elliott, 10 O. S. 57 (1859).

See Jewett v. Railway, 34 O. S. 601 (1878).

(r) Variance of corporate purpose from prospectus. A subscription to stock in a foreign corporation was made, before incorporation, on the faith of a prospectus which proposed to build a hotel and possibly to furnish it. As organized, the corporate purpose was to build a hotel and operate a hotel and restaurant. Held, a variance sufficient to relieve the subscriber from liability. Ginter v. Blain, 2 Ohio App. 482; 21 C. C. n. s. 366 (1913).

(s) Discharge in bankruptcy. A liability on a stock subscription is not released by the discharge in bankruptcy of the subscriber where the subscriber did not schedule the liability as a debt, and the corporation had no knowledge or notice of the bankruptcy proceedings.

Roeblings Sons Co. v. Coal & Iron Co., 4 N. P. n. s. 113; 17 L. D. 8 (1906); aff'd, no rep., 78 O. S. 408.

(t) Agreement to pay in property. A collateral agreement between a subscriber and the corporation giving the subscriber the privilege of paying his subscription in property is no defense to an action brought by a creditor, although the collateral agreement was made contemporaneously with the subscription. Such an agreement is considered a fraud on other stockholders.

Henry v. Vermillion, etc., R. Co., 17 Ohio 187 (1848).

Noble v. Callender, 20 O. S. 199 (1870).

Gates v. Tippecanoe Stone Co., 57 O. S. 60, 75 (1897).

Stunt v. Newark, etc., Co., 22 C. C. 120, 125; 12 C. D. 175 (1901); aff'd, no rep., 67 O. S. 555.

But such an agreement should be distinguished from an executed transaction in which the directors in good faith exchanged stock for property at a fair valuation, or accepted property in payment of a stock subscription.

See Gates v. Tippecanoe Stone Co., 57 O. S. 60, 75 (1897).

Orton v. Edson, etc., Co., 5 C. C. n. s. 540; 17 C. D. 107 (1905); aff'd, 75 O. S. 580.

Dayton, etc., R. Co. v. Hatch, 1 Dis. 84, 96 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1855).

Sanderson v. Iron & Nail Co., 34 O. S. 442, 449 (1878).

(u) Payment. (1) In money, but less than par. Payment of a sum of money less than the full amount of the subscription is no defense against creditors although the stock has been issued as full paid and non-assessable.

Security Trust Co. v. Ford, 75 O. S. 322 (1906).

See Handley v. Stutz, 139 U. S. 417 (1891).

In re Flood-Pratt Dairy Co., 7 O. L. R. 603; 16 O. F. D. 396 (Referee in Bkry. 1909).

Although under some circumstances such payment may be a defense against the corporation or as against other stockholders.

Security Trust Co. v. Ford, 75 O. S. 322, 335 (1906).

See note to § 8630. Sales below par.

Where less than par was paid by a subscriber, the difference being credited to a Board of Trade as commission on the subscription, and assigned by the Board of Trade to the subscriber he is liable to creditors for the difference. Vandeusen v. Ransom, 23 C. C. n. s. 194 (1912).

— (2) In property. A stockholder who has received stock as fully paid up in exchange for property may under some circumstances be liable to creditors, but he is not liable to the corporation. The corporation can not treat the stock as only partially paid up and assess him with the difference between the actual value of the property and the par value of the stock. If the transaction was fraudulent the remedy of the corporation is to rescind the agreement.

Orton v. Edson, etc., Co., 5 C. C. n. s. 540; 17 C. D. 107 (1905); aff'd, no rep., 75 O. S. 580.

Leman v. MacLennan, 7 C. C. n. s. 205, 208; 18 C. D. 137 (1905); aff'd, no rep., 75 O. S. 643.

But where the property was fraudulently overvalued creditors may recover from the stockholder the difference between the actual value of the property and the par value of the stock.

Gates v. Tippecanoe Stone Co., 57 O. S. 60 (1897).

Saylor v. Simpson, 12 L. D. 148 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1888).

See note to § 8630.

A purchaser of such stock from the original stockholder is not liable unless he knew of its fraudulent character.

Roebblings Sons Co. v. Shawnee, etc., Co., 4 N. P. n. s. 113; 17 L. D. 8 (C. P. 1906); aff'd, no rep., 78 O. S. 408.

— (3) By dividends. A subscriber is entitled to credit for dividends, both in cash and in stock, declared after his subscription was made. If in default for payments he should be charged with interest.

Railroad Co. v. Fink, 41 O. S. 321 (1884).

See Rhodes v. Equitable Life Ins. Co., 3 C. C. 501; 2 C. D. 288 (1888); aff'd, 27 W. L. B. 160.

— (4) By note. See notes to § 8632.

— (5) To unauthorized agent of corporation. Subscriptions should be paid to the treasurer of the corporation. Payment to an unauthorized agent is no defense.

See Natl. Bank v. Greenville, etc., Co., 3 C. C. n. s. 372, 381; 13 C. D. 274 (1899).

(v) Breach of condition subsequent or stipulation in subscription. A breach by the corporation of a condition subsequent or stipulation in a subscription is no defense to the subscriber. His remedy is an action for damages.

Stunt v. Newark, etc., Co., 22 C. C. 120; 12 C. D. 175 (1901); aff'd, no rep., 67 O. S. 555.

Chamberlain v. Painesville, etc., R. Co., 15 O. S. 225, 247.

See note to § 8630. Conditional subscriptions.

(w) Set off and counterclaim. A subscriber may set off a bona fide debt due him from the corporation against his liability on the subscription, whether the action is brought by the corporation,

Dungan v. Safford, 41 O. S. 15 (1884).

Sims v. Street Railroad, 37 O. S. 556, 558 (1882).

or by an assignee for creditors of the corporation.

Niles v. Olszak, 87 O. S. 229 (1912).

Compare Handley v. Stutz, 139 U. S. 417 (1891).

Painesville N. B. v. King Varnish Co., 8 C. C. 563; 4 C. D. 511 (1894).

Union, etc., Co. v. Jones, 35 O. S. 351 (1880).

The provisions of the bankruptcy act, as to set off of mutual debts, do not apply to the case of the creditor of a bankrupt corporation who is also indebted to the corporation on his stock subscription.

The claim of the creditor stockholder against the corporation should not be allowed until his indebtedness to the corporation has been collected by plenary suit. If found uncollectible, it should be applied on his claim as an equitable set off.

Kiskadden v. Steinle, 203 Fed. 375 (C. C. A. 1913) (distinguishing Niles v. Olszak, 87 O. S. 229.)

In an action by an assignee of the subscription a subscriber to railroad stock may set off scrip of the railroad company owned by him when notified of the assignment of his subscription, but not scrip purchased thereafter.

Dungan v. Safford, 41 O. S. 15 (1884).

(x) Stipulation in corporate mortgage against individual liability. A stipulation in a corporate mortgage securing a bond issue to the effect that the bondholders should have no recourse to the individual liability of stockholders does not apply to a liability for unpaid subscriptions and is no defense thereto.

Raymond v. Spring Grove, etc., Co., 21 W. L. B. 103 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1889).

Preston v. Cincinnati, etc., Co., 36 Fed. 54 (U. S. C. C. 1888).

(y) Irregularities in a creditor's judgment against the corporation do not constitute a defense in favor of a subscriber, provided the judgment was not obtained by fraud or collusion.

Scofield v. Excelsior Oil Co., 6 C. C. n. s. 176; 17 C. D. 318 (1905); aff'd, no rep., 74 O. S. 513.

Henry v. Vermillion, etc., R. Co., 17 Ohio 187, 191 (1848).

Section 8675. (Notice of sale.) Before stock can so be sold, the directors shall give thirty days' notice of the time and place of sale, in some newspaper in general circulation in the county where the delinquent holder resided when he subscribed for it or became such assignee or transferee, or of his actual residence at the time of the sale. If such stockholder resides out of the state, the publication shall be made in the county where the company's principal office is located. (R. S. Sec. 3253; March 14, 1853, 51 v. 484, § 1; May 1, 1852, 50 v. 274, § 7; S. & C. 276, 319.)

Section 8676. (Distribution of proceeds of sale.) When a sale is made, if after paying from its proceeds the amount due on the stock, a balance remains, on his demand it shall be paid to the owner. But if such proceeds fail fully to pay such installment, any balance may be recovered by action against the subscriber, assignee or transferee. (R. S. Sec. 3253; March 14, 1853, 51 v. 484, § 1; May 1, 1852, 50 v. 274, § 7; S. & C. 276, 319.)

Section 8677. (Procedure when certificate of stock lost or destroyed.) In case a certificate of stock in a corporation is lost or destroyed, the owner thereof may file his petition in the probate court of the county where the principal business office of such corporation is located in this state, setting forth a pertinent description of the certificate, and a full statement of the facts relating to its destruction or loss; that he is the owner of such certificate, and was at the time of its loss or destruction; that he had not assigned, transferred or disposed of it; and that it was not pledged to any one, or if so, stating to whom, with the facts relating thereto. (R. S. Sec. 3254-1; April 23, 1891, 88 v. 336, § 1.)

See note to § 8679.

In an action by a national bank for reissue of a lost certificate of stock in a corporation, acquired in exchange for dishonored bonds, the corporation can not defend on the ground that the acquisition of the stock by the national bank was ultra vires. Bank v. Urbana Co., 22 C. C. n. s. 529 (1915).

Section 8678. (Parties and notice.) Such petitioner shall make the corporation and any pledgee defendants to such proceeding, and serve a certified copy of his petition on some chief officer of the corporation, and such pledgee, on which copies the probate judge over his signature shall state when the petition will be heard. Such copies shall be so served not less than twenty days before the hearing. In a newspaper published and of general circulation in the county where the proceeding is pending, and also in the county where he resides, the petitioner shall publish a notice containing the substance and prayer of his petition, for three consecutive weeks immediately before the day of hearing, and stating when and where it will be heard. (R. S. Sec. 3254-1; April 23, 1891, 88 v. 336, § 1.)

Section 8679. (Finding and order of the court.) If, upon the hearing, the probate court finds that the foregoing provisions have been complied with, that such certificate was lost or destroyed, and that at that time the petitioner was and is its owner, an order shall be made that such corporation issue and deliver a new certificate to him for the original amount and kind of stock, unless the certificate was pledged to some one at the time of its loss or destruction, and the pledgee yet has a claim against it, in which case the order shall direct that such new certificate be delivered to the pledgee on such terms as the court directs. The corporation shall comply with such orders, and it shall in no wise be prejudiced thereby, or by paying dividends on such new certificate, so long as it is not made known to it that the original certificate is in existence and owned by a person other than the petitioner. (R. S. Sec. 3254-2; April 23, 1891, 88 v. 337, § 2.)

Under § 8673-17, which provides relief similar to that given by §§ 8677 to 8681, a bond of indemnity must be given before a reissue of certificates is ordered.

In the absence of other evidence, the fact that the lost certificate was originally issued to the plaintiff would be conclusive as to his title. But where it was shown that the real ownership was in another person or corporation and that the plaintiff had merely the naked legal title, the plaintiff was held not entitled to a reissue.

Provident, etc., Co. v. Voight, 13 C. C. n. s. 267 (1910).

The corporation may, in general, require surrender of original certificate before issuing a new one.

Lee v. Citizens Bank, 2 C. S. C. R. 298 (1872).

Railroad Co. v. Robbins, 35 O. S. 483 (1880).

G. C. § 8673-13.

A corporation is not liable to the equitable owner of stock for its value, where certificates therefor are outstanding in the hands of a third person who claims to be the owner.

National Bank v. Lake Shore, etc., Ry. Co., 21 O. S. 221 (1871).

Section 8680. (Rights and liabilities under new certificate.) All rights and liabilities attaching to the original certificate shall attach to such re-issued certificate, while in force. Upon the production of the original certificate to such corporation by the owner or pledgee, the re-issued certificate shall be cancelled, surrendered and void. (R. S. 3254-2; April 23, 1891, 88 v. 337, § 2.)

Rights of holder of original certificate not affected by a reissue. When a new certificate is, under a by-law of the corporation, issued in lieu of a certificate represented to have been lost, the rights of the holder of the original certificate are not affected thereby.

Railroad Co. v. Robbins, 35 O. S. 483 (1880).

A corporation which issues a new certificate, without a surrender of the original certificate, is liable to the holder of the original certificate, although the new certificate was issued under the belief that the original had been lost. The corporation must either replace the stock or account for its value.

Railroad Co. v. Robbins, 35 O. S. 483 (1880).

See Lee v. Citizens N. B., 2 C. S. C. R. 298 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1872).

But it is not liable for dividends paid to the registered owner before the certificate was presented for transfer.

Railroad Co. v. Robbins, 35 O. S. 483 (1880).

Where a certificate issued to an officer was pledged by him, and while it was outstanding, he transferred the same stock on the books to the corporation to secure his indebtedness to it, the transfer to the corporation was held to be void. The outstanding certificate was notice to the corporation of the rights of others.

Lee v. Citizens N. B., 2 C. S. C. R. 298 (1872).

Section 8681. (Proceedings may be had by administrators or executors.) Executors and administrators, on behalf of estates of deceased owners of such lost or destroyed certificates of stock, may proceed under the next three preceding sections, and have all the rights and benefits thereof. (R. S. Sec. 3254-2; April 23, 1891, 88 v. 337, § 2.)

Section 8682. (Paid up stock personal property.) Shares of stock in a corporation shall be personal property, and when fully paid up, be subject to levy and sale upon execution against the owner. (R. S. Sec. 3255; May 1, 1852, 50 v. 274, § 5; S. & C. 276.)

Certificates of stock, see §§ 8672 to 8673-24 and notes.

Capital stock, see notes to §§ 8625 and 8667.

Remedies of creditors of a stockholder, §§ 8673-13, 8673-14.

I. Nature of stock.

A. Share of stock, p. 1104.

B. Stock as "goods" or "property" under other statutes, p. 1104.

II. Power of stockholder to dispose of stock, p. 1104.

III. Loan of stock, p. 1104.

IV. Gift, p. 1105.

V. Contracts for sale of stock.

A. When must be in writing, p. 1105.

B. Payment to be made out of dividends, p. 1105.

C. Consideration, p. 1105.

D. Time for delivery, p. 1106.

E. Tender, p. 1106.

F. Breach of contract by buyer, p. 1106.

VI. Sales of stock.

A. Sale with option to purchaser to return the stock, p. 1106.

B. Sale of stock "short", p. 1107.

C. Authority of agent to sell, p. 1107.

D. An agent authorized to sell stock can not himself purchase, p. 1107.

E. Liability of broker purchasing for undisclosed principal, p. 1107.

F. Sale for illegal purpose, p. 1107.

G. Evidence as to executed sale, p. 1107.

H. Option or contract of sale, p. 1107.

VII. Pledge or hypothecation of stock.

A. Stock may be hypothecated, p. 1107.

B. When note renewed, collateral becomes security for new note, p. 1108.

C. Agreement for pledge, p. 1108.

D. Purchase through stock broker, p. 1108.

E. Right of broker to repledge, p. 1108.

F. Stolen certificates; pledge of, p. 1108.

G. Pledge of fraudulently acquired stock, p. 1108.

H. Pledge of trust stock to secure personal debt of trustee, p. 1108.

I. Assignment of stock to be delivered to creditor after death of debtor, p. 1108.

J. Taxation of pledged stock, p. 1109.

K. Rights of pledgee.

(a) Transfer of stock on corporate books, p. 1109.

(b) Where stock not transferred to pledgee on the books of the corporation, p. 1109.

(c) Foreclosure by judicial proceeding, p. 1110.

- (d) Sale of stock without judicial proceedings, p. 1110.
- (e) Notice of sale must be given, p. 1110.
- (f) When pledgee may purchase, p. 1111.
- (g) Price specified in contract of pledge, p. 1111.
- (h) Unauthorized sale. Statute of limitations. Measure of damages, p. 1111.

I. NATURE OF STOCK.

A. A share of stock is a right which entitles its owner to participate in the profits of the corporation, in its assets upon liquidation, and to vote at elections for directors.

See Jones v. Davis, 35 O. S. 477 (1880).

Shares of stock of a railroad company are personal property and the widow of a stockholder is not entitled to dower therein.

Johns v. Johns, 1 O. S. 350 (1853).

Shares of stock belonging to a decedent's estate are not "debts due and owing."

Marriott v. Railway, 16 L. D. 135 (C. P. 1905); aff'd, 10 C. C. n. s. 573, 575.

B. Stock as "goods" or "property" under other statutes. Shares of stock are "goods" under the sales of goods act. Contracts for the sale of stock of the value of $2,500 and upwards are required by G. C. § 8384(1) to be in writing and signed by the parties to be charged. Laundry Co. v. Whitmore, 92 O. S. 44 (1915).

Under the inheritance tax law, stock in a domestic corporation is "property", and may be subjected to an inheritance tax by the state although the owner is a non-resident. Stock in a foreign corporation held by a resident of Ohio at the time of his death is "property" and subject to the inheritance tax laws. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1917, pp. 1282, 2132.

II. POWER OF STOCKHOLDER TO DISPOSE OF STOCK.

A stockholder has the same power of disposition over his stock as other other species of property.

Peter v. Union Mfg. Co., 56 O. S. 181, 207 (1897).

Unless restrictions are placed on his right of transfer by statute or by a valid by-law or regulation of the corporation.

See § 8673-15.

Nicholson v. Franklin Brewing Co., 82 O. S. 94, 109 (1910).

Stafford v. Produce Exchange Bkg. Co., 61 O. S. 160 (1899).

Stock may be sold at auction.

Andrews v. Watson, 12 C. O. 686 (1887).

A widow, executrix of her husband's will and a life tenant of stock belonging to the estate, with power of sale, has no authority to give an option to purchase the stock at her death. Carnes v. Me-Afee, 11 N. P. n. s. 517; 24 L. D. 487 (1911).

An assignment for creditors of all the real and personal estate, effects and credits of the assignor, includes stocks.

Haldeman v. Hillsborough, etc., R. Co., 2 C. S. C. R. 101 (1855).

III. LOAN OF STOCK.

Where stock was loaned "to be returned on demand" the borrower was held not liable for its value until a demand therefor was made. Where no demand was made until after the corporation became insolvent and the stock worthless, only nominal damages can be recovered.

Under the contract the borrower had a right to discharge his obligation by a return of an equal number of shares without regard to its market value.

Fosdick v. Greene, 27 O. S. 484 (1875).

Where stock was assigned by sisters to their brother to enable him to be elected to a salaried position in the corporation he is, in effect, a trustee. The statute of limitations does not begin to run in his favor until he disclaims the trust.

Bonnell v. Brown, 11 C. C. n. s. 58; 20 C. D. 712 (1908).

Right of borrower of stock to pledge the same.

See Brown v. Bank, 41 O. S. 445, 459 (1885).

IV. GIFT.

Where a person purchases stock and places it in the name of a member of his family, the presumption is that the stock was intended as a gift or advancement, but this presumption may be rebutted.

Creed v. Lancaster Bank, 1 O. S. 1 (1852).

Bonnell v. Brown, 11 C. C. n. s. 58; 20 C. D. 712 (1908).

Mook v. Akron S. & L. Co., 87 O. S. 273 (1913)

A valid gift inter vivos may be made of stock certificates. McCoy v. Gosser, 8 Ohio App. 145, 30 O. C. A. 312; citing § 8673-6; motion to certify record overruled, 15 O. L. R. 485.

Contractual rather than testamentary capacity is required to uphold a gift of stock inter vivos. Laws v. Morley, 24 C. C. n. s. 103 (1915); motion to certify record overruled, 13 O. L. R. 22.

Completed gift of stock during life of donor. Circumstances held to constitute. Ewalt v. Ames, 6 Ohio App. 374 (1917).

V. CONTRACTS FOR SALE OF STOCK.

A. When must be in writing. A contract for the sale of stock of the value of $2,500 and upward is required by G. C. § 8384(1) to be in writing and signed by the parties to be charged. Laundry Co. v. Whitmore, 92 O. S. 44 (1915).

B. Payment to be made out of dividends. Sales to employees of corporation. A contract which contained an express promise by one party to sell, and by the other party to purchase, shares of stock, is not invalid for want of mutuality, although the contract further provided that the seller should receive the dividends and apply them on the purchase price; and that the purchaser had the option to make payments from other sources. No time of payment being stipulated in the contract, an agreement was implied to pay, by dividends or otherwise, within a reasonable time.

Stewart v. Herron, 77 O. S. 130 (1907); reversing in part, 10 C. C. n. s. 355.

Where a contract, by a large stockholder to sell stock to a skilled employee, contained no express promise by the latter to purchase (the contract providing for payment out of the dividends with an option to the employee to make other payments), but the stock was issued to the employee and by him assigned to the seller as security for payment of the purchase price, and the employee voted the stock for four years, without objection, it was held that the contract, being executed, was not invalid for want of consideration or lack of mutuality, and could not be rescinded by one party without consent of the other party.

White v. Cooper Co., 7 C. C. n. s. 114; 17 C. D. 703 (1903); aff'd, 72 O. S. 615, 691.

C. Consideration. An agreement to sell stock in a corporation, whether solvent or insolvent, imports that the stock is of some value. The seller may recover the contract price, whether the stock is valuable or not.

Van Arsdale v. Brown, 18 C. C. 52; 9 C. D. 488 (1899).

Mutual promises, consisting of the promise of the seller to deliver, and of the buyer to buy, certain stock, are a sufficient consideration. Laundry Co. v. Whitmore, 92 O. S. 44 (1915).

D. Time for delivery. Where no time for delivery is specified in the contract of sale, the seller has a reasonable time. Laundry Co. v. Whitmore, 92 O. S. 44 (1915).

E. Tender. A tender of certificates, properly endorsed by the owner, either in blank or to the purchaser, is sufficient. Transfer on the corporate books is unnecessary. Laundry Co. v. Whitmore, 92 O. S. 44 (1915).

A tender of stock is insufficient where the seller demands more than the agreed price. Sinks v. Green, 19 C. C. n. s. 445 (1912).

F. Breach of contract by buyer. Remedies of seller. Measure of damages. Where the buyer refuses to accept the stock the seller may resell the stock, within a reasonable time after such refusal, using reasonable care and judgment, and may recover from the buyer the difference between the contract price and the proceeds of such sale.

G. C. §§ 8440, 8444.

Ashley v. Walker, 15 C. C. 660; 8 C. D. 285 (1898).

Or, without a resale, the seller may bring suit for damages. In such case, where there is an available market price, the measure of damages is, ordinarily, the difference between the contract price and the market or current price at the time fixed for acceptance.

G. C. § 8444.

Andrews v. Watson, 12 C. D. 686, 692; aff'd, no rep., 51 O. S. 619.

Sullivan v. Frank, 13 N. P. n. s. 505 (1912).

Where, under the contract of sale, payment is to be made before delivery of the stock, or delivery and payment are to be concurrent acts, the seller may tender the stock, and, on refusal of the buyer to accept and pay, may bring an action for the purchase price.

G. C. § 8443.

Andrew v. Watson, 12 C. D. 692 (1890); aff'd, 51 O. S. 619.

Shawhan v. Van Nest, 25 O. S. 490 (1874).

When the tender is made it is not necessary that the assignment of the certificate and power of attorney should have been signed. An offer to sign and deliver, with ability to perform, is sufficient.

Hager v. Reed, 11 O. S. 626 (1860).

Where the buyer has repudiated the contract and made it certain that he does not intend to perform, actual formal tender is unnecessary. A showing of readiness and ability by the seller, to perform his part of the contract, communicated to the buyer, is sufficient.

Andrews v. Watson, 12 C. D. 692 (1890); aff'd, 51 O. S. 619.

Brewing Co. v. Maxwell, 78 O. S. 54 (1908).

VI. SALES OF STOCK.

A. Sales with option to purchaser to return the stock. Where, by a contract of sale, the purchaser has the option to return the stock after one year from the date of purchase, he may exercise such option within a reasonable time after the expiration of the year. Hartman v. Gorrel, 7 Ohio App. 318; 29 O. C. A. 201 (1917).

Where stock was sold under an agreement by the seller to repurchase the stock at par, on demand, at the end of a stipulated period, it is the duty of the purchaser, on the day specified, to tender back the certificates and to demand payment therefor.

Jones v. Jaeger, 9 N. P. n. s. 206 (C. P. 1909).

An allegation in a petition that the plaintiff tendered the "stock" necessarily includes all things essential to the ownership. Sprague v. Munger, 17 C. C. n. s. 130 (1910).

A written proposition by the seller that he will repurchase the stock within one year if the buyer so desires, becomes a contract, upon sufficient consideration, where the buyer communicates his desire to transfer the stock to the seller, and tenders it, within the year. Sprague v. Munger, 17 C. C. n. s. 130 (1910).

B. Sale of stock "short." A sale of stock "short" is a sale of that which the seller does not possess at the time, but which he expects to acquire at a lower price, subsequently, for delivery.

Lamprecht v. State, 84 O. S. 32 (1911).

C. Authority of agent to sell. Authority to sell stock is not authority to exchange it.

Cleveland v. State Bank, 16 O. S. 236 (1865).

Smith v. Gowan, 18 C. C. n. s. 99 (1911).

D. An agent authorized to sell stock can not himself purchase. A bank official who gratuitously engages to find a purchaser for a customer of the bank thereby becomes the agent of the customer, and can not himself become the purchaser without the full knowledge and consent of his principal.

Telling v. Sullivan, 14 C. C. n. s. 1; 22 C. D. 312 (1911); reversed, no rep., 88 O. S. 525.

E. Liability of broker purchasing for undisclosed principal. A stockbroker purchasing stock for an undisclosed principal is personally liable upon default of his principal.

Sullivan v. Frank, 13 N. P. n. s. 505 (1912).

F. Sale for illegal purpose. Where the object of a purchaser of stock is to obtain control of the corporation for illegal purposes, which were known to the seller, and the sale is made for the purpose of enabling the purchaser to carry out such illegal purpose, the sale is illegal and void.

Newark v. Elliott, 5 O. S. 113 (1855).

G. Evidence as to executed sale. A witness may testify that he sold stock and delivered the certificates to a person named, without producing the certificates for inspection.

Cincinnati, etc., Ry. Co. v. Rawson, 16 W. L. B. 423 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1886); aff'd, 25 W. L. B. 87.

H. Option or contract of sale. For contract construed and held to constitute an option only, see Wadsworth v. Edwards, 21 C. C. n. s. 401 (1906).

VII. PLEDGE OR HYPOTHECATION OF STOCK.

A. Stock may be hypothecated. "Strictly speaking, stock, being of an incorporeal nature, is not capable of being pledged, as there can not be a delivery of intangible property. It may be, and frequently is, hypothecated, which is a pledge in a secondary sense. An hypothecation is defined as a right which a creditor has over a thing belonging to another, and which consists in a power to cause it to be sold, in order to be paid his claim out of the proceeds."

Dueber, etc., Co. v. Dougherty, 62 O. S. 589, 593 (1900).

See Dayton N. B. v. Merchants N. B., 37 O. S. 215 (1881).

Where a corporation has a lien, by statute, on all stock owned by its debtors, and has full control over its transfer, the possession of the certificates, by pledge, gives the corporation no additional rights or benefits.

State v. Davis, 85 O. S. 44 (1911).

B. When note renewed, collateral becomes security for new note. Where a note secured by a pledge of stock is partly paid and a renewal note given for the balance, the stock will stand as collateral security for the balance of the debt embraced in the new note, in the absence of any agreement to the contrary.

Dayton N. B. v. Merchants N. B., 37 O. S. 208 (1881).

C. Agreement for pledge. Where a person became surety on a note on the agreement of the principal debtor to transfer, as indemnity, a certificate of stock which he then held, within a short time, it was held that the surety thereby acquired an equity in the stock which he could enforce against all persons having notice.

Dueber, etc., Co. v. Daugherty, 62 O. S. 589 (1900).

D. Purchase through stock broker. Broker as pledgee. Where a broker buys stock on the order of a customer, the customer is the owner of the stock from the time of purchase, whether purchased in his name or not, and he is entitled to its possession, on demand, subject to payment to the broker of advances and commissions, as to which the customer is the debtor of the broker. The legal relation of customer and broker is that of pledgor and pledgee. Upon such demand the broker need not deliver the identical stock purchased, but may deliver an equal number of shares of the same kind and value.

Lamprecht v. State, 84 O. S. 32 (1911).

Citizens Bank v. Andrews, 24 N. P. n. s. 361 (1923).

E. Right of broker to repledge. The broker may be authorized, by contract or custom of business, to repledge securities held for a client. If the client deals on margin, the broker may repledge the client's securities. But if the securities are bought and fully paid for, or are held for safe keeping, or if the client is not indebted to the broker, there is no right to repledge. Citizens Bank v. Andrews, 24 N. P. n. s. 361, 372, 374 (1923).

F. Stolen certificates; pledge of.

See note to § 8673-5.

G. Pledge of fraudulently acquired stock. Where stock, fraudulently obtained, is pledged to secure a preexisting debt, without an extension of time or other consideration therefor, the pledgee has no greater rights therein than the pledgor had.

Cleveland v. Bank, 16 O. S. 236, 269 (1865).

See § 8673-22, "Value" defined.

H. Pledge of trust stock to secure personal debt of trustee. Where a trustee borrowed money for his own use from a building and loan company, on a pledge of certificates of its stock belonging to the trust estate, of which fact the company held notice, the company acquired no lien on such stock.

Mook v. Akron S. & L. Co., 87 O. S. 273 (1913).

I. Assignment of stock to be delivered to creditor after death of debtor. A certificate of stock, assigned in blank and witnessed, found among the papers of a decedent in an envelope on which was written in the handwriting of the decedent the name of the creditor and the words "collateral for whatever I owe him", was held to pass the stock to the creditor.

In re Clerke, 17 W. L. B. 369 (C. P. 1887).

J. Taxation of pledged stock. Where pledged stock is taxable, and no transfer to the pledgee has been made on the corporate books, it is taxed in the name of the pledgor.

Ratterman v. Ingalls, 48 O. S. 468, 491 (1891).

See notes to §§ 5372 and 192 as to what stock is taxable.

K. Rights of pledgee.

(a) Transfer of stock on corporate books. A pledgee is entitled to have the stock transferred to his name on the corporate books.

Railway Co. v. Bank, 68 O. S. 582, 599 (1903).

Henkle v. Salem Mfg. Co., 39 O. S. 547 (1883).

Dayton N. B. v. Merchants N. B., 37 O. S. 208, 215 (1881).

Railway Co. v. Rawson, 16 W. L. B. 423 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1886);
aff'd, 25 W. L. B. 87.

The bankruptcy of the pledgor does not affect this right.

Dayton N. B. v. Merchants N. B., 37 O. S. 208, 215 (1881).

But it has been held that liquidating trustees of a corporation had no authority to acquire title to stock, held by the corporation as pledgee, so as to render the corporation liable as a stockholder under the former double liability law. Gill v. Printing Co., 16 C. C. n. s. 568 (1907); aff'd, no rep. 80 O. S. 742.

(b) Where stock not transferred to pledgee on the books of the corporation. Under the Uniform Stock Transfer Act certificates of stock are, in effect, negotiable instruments.

§§ 8673-1, 8673-5 and notes.

A bona fide pledgee, holding properly endorsed certificates, is protected against all prior holders and against third persons, without a registry of the transfer on the corporate books.

§§ 8673-1, 8673-5 ("Purchaser" includes pledgee, § 8673-22).

But as against the corporation, a pledgee is not a stockholder until he presents the certificates for transfer on the corporate books.

§ 8673-3.

Henkle v. Salem Mfg. Co., 39 O. S. 547 (1883).

He is not entitled to vote, and the dividends are prima facie payable to the registered stockholder. The corporation is protected in paying dividends to the pledgor in the absence of notice of rights of the pledgee.

Railroad Co. v. Robbins, 35 O. S. 483 (1880).

Norton v. Norton, 43 O. S. 509, 522-523 (1885).

Franklin Bank v. Commercial Bank, 36 O. S. 350, 355 (1881).

§ 8673-3.

Unless the stock is transferred to the pledgee on the corporate books, he is not entitled to participate in, nor be notified of, proceedings to effect a consolidation.

Railway Co. v. Bank, 68 O. S. 582 (1903).

Nor of proceedings to sell the entire corporate property.

Schmuck v. Crume, etc., Co., 7 N. P. n. s. 24; 19 L. D. 819 (1905);
aff'd, 78 O. S. 409.

Before the enactment of the Uniform Transfer Law, where the entire corporate property was disposed of, by a sale or consolidation, and the proceeds distributed to the stockholders of record, unregistered pledgees were in danger of losing their security.

See Railway Co. v. Bank, 68 O. S. 582 (1903).

Schmuck v. Crume, etc., Co., 7 N. P. n. s. 24; 19 L. D. 819 (1905); aff'd, 78 O. S. 409.

But under § 8673-1, which makes registry of transfers unnecessary, it is doubtful whether a corporation may, without liability, distribute the proceeds except on a surrender of the certificates.

Before the enactment of the Uniform Transfer law it was held that as between the pledgor and pledgee the pledgee, without a transfer, held neither the equitable or legal title, but only a special property. But, by having executed the blank assignment and power of attorney, the pledgor was estopped from asserting any control over the legal title.

Krebs v. Forbriger, 21 W. L. B. 313 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1889).

Under the double liability of stockholders, by the former law, a pledgee who held the assigned certificates, without a transfer, was not liable.

Henkle v. Salem Mfg. Co., 39 O. S. 547 (1883).

A pledgee of stock in a national bank becomes liable as a stockholder, under the national banking act, where he has the stock registered in the name of his employee, with no beneficial interest, and afterwards indorses on the note the supposed value of the stock as a credit, and presents the note, reduced by the credit, to the administrator who allows the claim in such form.

Ohio Valley N. B. v. Hulitt, 204 U. S. 162; 15 O. F. D. 530 (1907); affirming, 137 Fed. 461.

(c) Foreclosure by judicial proceeding. A pledgee may bring suit to foreclose his lien and for a sale of the stock. In such case neither party is entitled by law to a jury trial.

Brigel v. Creed, 65 O. S. 40 (1901).

A pledgee may be made a party to a suit by a junior lienholder.

Healy v. Robinson, 21 L. D. 579 (1911).

(d) Sale of stock without judicial proceedings. A pledgee has the right to sell the pledged stock on default of payment of the debt at maturity, without judicial proceedings, although no power of sale is contained in the collateral note or other contract of pledge.

Glidden v. Mechanics N. B., 53 O. S. 588, 598 (1895).

Robinson v. Boyd, 60 Q. S. 57, 68-69 (1899).

Bates v. Wiles, 1 Handy 532 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1855).

Oliver v. Cincinnati, etc., Co., 1 Hosea 457 (Super. Ct. Cin.)

Although a receiver of the assets of the pledgor has been appointed and although the amount due is in dispute.

Harrison v. Friend, 1 N. P. 39; 1 L. D. 258 (C. P. 1893).

Where a power of sale is contained in the contract of pledge it controls the rights of the parties.

Glidden v. Mechanics N. B., 53 O. S. 588, 599 (1895).

The sale must be conducted in good faith.

Bates v. Wiles, 1 Handy 532 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1855).

The pledgee's right to sell is not affected by a suit by a creditor of the pledgor to reach the stock, to which suit the pledgee is not a party. The doctrine of lis pendens does not apply to certificates of stock.

Krebs v. Forbriger, 21 W. L. B. 313 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1889).

(e) Notice of sale must be given. Reasonable notice of the time and place of sale must be given to the pledgor, unless notice is waived in the contract of pledge, or otherwise.

Glidden v. Mechanics N. B., 53 O. S. 588, 599 (1895).

Lee v. Citizens N. B., 2 C. S. C. R. 298 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1872).

If no notice is given, or an unreasonably short notice, the sale may be declared invalid.

Bates v. Wiles, 1 Handy 532 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1855).

A notice of sale given to the pledgor is equivalent to a demand of payment.

Harrison v. Friend, 1 N. P. 39; 1 L. D. 258 (C. P. 1893).

(f) When pledgee may purchase. A pledgee can not become the purchaser at his own sale, either directly or indirectly, in the absence of an express agreement to that effect.

Glidden v. Mechanics N. B., 53 O. S. 588 (1895).

Moore v. Central N. B., 12 C. C. n. s. 529 (1910).

Where a collateral note authorized its "holder" to sell the pledged stock and to become the purchaser thereof, a bank holding the same for collection, merely, can not sell the stock nor become the purchaser.

Moore v. Central N. B., 12 C. C. n. s. 529 (1910).

An unauthorized purchase by a pledgee may be ratified by the pledgor, but ratification can not be presumed from silence where the pledgor had no notice of the sale.

Glidden v. Mechanics N. B., 53 O. S. 588, 600 (1895).

Moore v. Central N. B., 12 C. C. n. s. 529 (1910).

An unauthorized purchase by the pledgee is not a conversion while the pledgee holds the stock, unless the pledgor elects to treat it as a valid sale, in which event the pledgee is accountable for the net proceeds of sale.

Glidden v. Mechanics N. B., 53 O. S. 588 (1895).

But when the pledgee disposes of the stock, he will be liable for a conversion, without a demand and offer of performance by the pledgor.

Glidden v. Mechanics N. B., 53 O. S. 588 (1895).

(g) Price specified in contract of pledge. Authority of negotiating agent to receive payment. Where a note and contract of pledge, stipulating the price in excess of the debt for which the payee may become the absolute owner of the stock, is delivered to the payee with knowledge that he is to obtain the consideration from another person, the payee is authorized to receive the original consideration for the note, but not authorized to receive, at the maturity of the note, a tender of the stipulated balance of the purchase price.

Rumsey v. Lentz, 59 O. S. 189 (1898).

(h) Unauthorized sale. Statute of limitations. Measure of damages. The statute of limitations does not begin to run in favor of a pledgee, who has made an unauthorized sale, until the pledgor had notice thereof.

Moore v. Central N. B., 12 C. C. n. s. 529 (1910).

Where a pledgee, without authority, purchased stock at his own sale and subsequently disposed of it, he was held accountable for the amount received therefor, with interest, less the amount of the debt, with interest.

Moore v. Central N. B., 12 C. C. n. s. 529 (1910).

See Glidden v. Mechanics N. B., 53 O. S. 588 (1895).

Where stock was sold, without notice to the pledgor, he was held entitled to recover the highest market value at any time between the day of the sale and the commencement of the suit.

Bates v. Wiles, 1 Handy 532 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1855).

Lien of corporation on stock for indebtedness of stockholder to it.
See note to § 8673-15.

Section 8683. (May purchase stock in other companies.)
A private corporation also may purchase, or otherwise acquire, and hold shares of stock in other kindred but not competing private corporations, domestic or foreign. This shall not authorize the formation of a trust or combination for the purpose of restricting trade or competition. (R. S. Sec. 3256; May 6, 1902, 95 v. 390; April 15, 1902, 95 v. 151; R. S. 1880.)

I. Common law rule, p. 1112.

II. Exceptions.

- A. To avoid loss, p. 1112.
- B. Executed transaction, p. 1113.
- C. Mutual insurance company, p. 1113.
- D. Stock in building and loan association, p. 1113.

III. Effect of § 8683.

- A. In general, p. 1113.
- B. Holding companies, p. 1113.
- C. "Kindred" corporations, p. 1113.
- D. "Competing" corporations, p. 1113.
- E. Section 8683 applies to railroad companies, p. 1113.
- F. Stock control of one corporation by another, p. 1114.
- G. Foreign corporation, p. 1114.
- H. Action by stockholder to enjoin acquisition of stock. Venue and parties defendant, p. 1114.

IV. Federal restrictions on acquiring stock in other corporations, p. 1115.

For power of corporation to acquire stock in itself see note to § 8627.

I. COMMON LAW RULE.

A corporation has no power, at common law, to subscribe for or become the owner of stock of another corporation unless authority is clearly conferred by statute.

Franklin Bank v. Commercial Bank, 36 O. S. 350 (1881).

Ry. Co. v. Iron Co., 46 O. S. 44 (1888).

Columbus, etc., Ry. Co. v. Burke, 19 W. L. B. 27 (1887).

Hafer v. N. Y., etc., R. Co., 14 W. L. B. 68, 70 (1885).

Easun v. Buckeye Brewing Co., 51 Fed. 156; 7 O. F. D. 188 (1892).

State v. H. V. Ry. Co., 12 C. C. n. s. 49; 21 C. D. 175 (1909).

See comment in Mannington v. H. V. Ry. Co., 8 O. L. R. 481, 482; 183 Fed. 156, 157; 16 O. F. D. 577, 578 (C. C. Ohio 1910).

Nor have liquidating trustees of a corporation any such power. Gill v. Printing Co., 16 C. C. n. s. 568 (1907); aff'd, no rep. 80 O. S. 742.

II. EXCEPTIONS.

A. To avoid loss. To secure itself from loss, on a debt due to it or otherwise, a corporation may acquire stock in another corporation with a view to its subsequent sale and conversion into money.

Armstrong v. Herancourt Brewing Co., 26 W. L. B. 39, 40 (C. P. 1891).

See Coppin v. Greenless, 38 O. S. 275 (1882).

Where a corporation held bonds of another corporation as security for a debt due to it, and exchanged the bonds for stock in a new corporation formed as a reorganization of the debtor corporation, it became the lawful owner of such stock.

Marriott v. Railway Co., 16 L. D. 135 (C. P. 1905); aff'd, 10 C. C. n. s. 573, 575.

Bank v. Water Works Co., 22 C. C. n. s. 529 (1915).

B. Executed transaction. Where a corporation has made an ultra vires subscription to the capital stock of another corporation, and voluntarily made payment thereon, it can not recover back such payments.

Railway Co. v. Iron Co., 46 O. S. 44 (1888).

See Norwalk, etc., Co. v. Norwalk, etc., Co., 14 C. C. 1; 7 C. D. 275 (1897).

C. Mutual insurance company. A corporation may become a member of a mutual insurance company, for the purpose of its own protection.

Stone v. Traction Co., 4 N. P. n. s. 104; 16 L. D. 645 (C. P. 1906).

D. Stock in building and loan association. A corporation may subscribe for stock in a building and loan association in order to borrow money for its business.

Norwalk, etc., Co. v. Norwalk, etc., Co., 14 C. C. 1; 7 C. D. 275 (1897).

III. EFFECT OF § 8683.

A. In general. The common law rule is modified by § 8683 so as to permit a corporation to acquire stock in corporations which are (1) kindred (2) and not competing, when (3) the result of the purchase is not the formation of a trust or combination.

Mannington v. H. V. Ry. Co., 8 O. L. R. 476; 183 Fed. 152; 16 O. F. D. 572 (U. S. C. C. 1910).

It is improper to insert, in the purpose clause of articles of incorporation, a provision authorizing the company to acquire stock in other corporations. Rep. Atty. Gen. 1912, p. 34. See also note to § 8625. Purpose for which organized.

B. Holding companies. Holding companies are not authorized in Ohio. Articles of incorporation which attempted to authorize the proposed corporation to own or deal generally in stocks of other companies have been rejected by the secretary of state for the reason that § 8683 authorizes only a limited dealing in stocks.

5 Opins. Attys. Gen. 969, 924 (1903).

Rep. Atty. Gen. 1911-1912, pp. 58, 61.

C. "Kindred" corporation. A railroad company and a coal mining company are not kindred corporations. A railroad company has no power to acquire stock in a coal mining corporation.

State v. H. V. Ry. Co., 12 C. C. n. s. 49, 59; 21 C. D. 175 (1909).

State v. H. V. Ry. Co., 8 Ohio App. 450; 28 O. C. A. 241 (1917).

"Kindred" may mean "a corporation of the same class", or it may be more narrowly construed as meaning "congenial" or "sympathetic". Toledo Co. v. Smith, 205 Fed. 643, 652 (D. C. 1913).

D. "Competing" corporations.

See note to § 8807.

An interurban railway company is not a competitor of a city street railway company, over whose tracks it runs cars by agreement. In re Mansfield Co., 3 Ohio App. 253; 21 C. C. n. s. 95 (1914).

E. Section 8683 applies to railroad companies. This section applies to railroad companies. Its provisions are not inconsistent with the provisions of §§ 8806 to 8809, but are cumulative.

Pollitz v. Commission, 96 O. S. 49 (1917).

Mannington v. H. V. Ry. Co., 8 O. L. R. 451; 183 Fed. 133.

State v. H. V. Ry. Co., 12 C. C. n. s. 49, 59; 21 C. D. 175 (1909).

F. Stock control of one corporation by another. Where one corporation owns a majority of the stock of another corporation, its representatives constituting a majority of the board of directors, and by means of such control it is attempted to expend large sums for equipment chiefly for the benefit of the stockholding corporation, thereby diverting profits otherwise applicable to dividends, resulting in injunction suits and controversies with the minority stockholders, the corporation may be dissolved under G. C. § 11938. In re Mansfield Co., 3 Ohio App. 253; 21 C. C. n. s. 95 (1914).

It is probably competent for one corporation to cause a subsidiary company to be organized for legitimate purposes. Kardo Co. v. Adams, 231 Fed. 950; 14 O. L. R. 223 (O. C. A. Ohio 1916). See also page 174 of the opinion in Cemetery Assn. v. Traction Co., 93 O. S. 161.

But one corporation can not organize another corporation as a mere "dummy" with no real purpose of its own. Cemetery Assn. v. Traction Co., 93 O. S. 161 (1915).

Ownership, by one corporation, of all the stock in another corporation, will not make it liable for the debts of the latter, in the absence of unusual circumstances. Pittsburg Co. v. Duncan, 232 Fed. 584 (C. C. A. Ohio 1916); Trust Co. v. Carpenter, 250 Fed. 668 (C. C. A. Ohio 1918).

Where one corporation controls another corporation by stock ownership, there is not necessarily a merger of identity of the two companies. One may sue the other in federal court, if diversity of citizenship exists. Toledo v. Rys. & Lt. Co., 259 Fed. 450 (1919).

G. A foreign corporation may own stock in kindred but not competing Ohio corporations, when authorized by the laws of its home state, and not prohibited by statute in Ohio.

Mannington v. H. V. Ry. Co., 8 O. L. R. 451, 481 to 484; 183 Fed. 133; 16 O. F. D. 552 (C. C. Ohio 1910).

Smith v. Newark, etc., R. Co., 8 C. C. 583, 591 (1894).

Acting as a stockholder in an Ohio corporation or giving assent to changes in its regulations is not "doing business" in Ohio within the meaning of §§ 178 or 5508.

Toledo Co. v. Smith, 205 Fed. 643 (D. C. 1913).

A foreign corporation organized for the sole purpose of holding the stock and securities of an Ohio corporation may exercise in Ohio all the incidents of such ownership, such as voting at stockholders' meetings and giving assent to change of regulations, provided the exercise of such incidents does not tend to foster monopoly or suppress competition.

Toledo Co. v. Smith, 205 Fed. 643, 651 (U. S. D. C. 1913).

A foreign corporation with corporate power to own and deal in stocks of other corporations generally can not be admitted to do business in Ohio, since under § 8683 Ohio corporations may acquire stock only in kindred and not competing corporations.

5 Opins. Attys. Gen. 924, 969 (1903).

Rep. Atty. Gen. 1910-1911, p. 246.

Rep. Atty. Gen. 1911-1912, p. 61.

Unless it expressly renounces the right to exercise such power in Ohio.

Rep. Atty. Gen. 1911-1912, p. 78.

H. Action by stockholder to enjoin acquisition of stock. Venue and parties defendant. An action by a stockholder in a railroad company to enjoin the unlawful acquisition of stock in other corporations must be brought in a county in which jurisdiction may be acquired over the railroad company. The other corporations are not proper parties defendant.

Westfall v. Lake Shore, etc., Ry., 13 N. P. n. s. 217; 22 L. D. 75, 397 (C. P. 1910).

IV. FEDERAL RESTRICTIONS ON ACQUIRING STOCK IN OTHER CORPORATIONS.

The Clayton Act (38 U. S. Stats. 730, § 7) prohibits one corporation engaged in interstate commerce from acquiring, directly or indirectly, stock in another corporation, which is engaged in interstate commerce, where the effect of the acquisition may be to substantially lessen competition between the corporations, or to restrain such commerce in any section or community, or tend to create a monopoly in any line of commerce. The prohibition, however, does not apply to corporations acquiring such stock solely for investment, nor prevent a corporation "from causing the formation of subsidiary corporations for the actual carrying on of their immediate lawful business, or the natural and legitimate branches or extensions thereof, or from owning and holding all or a part of the stock of such subsidiary corporations, when the effect of such formation is not to substantially lessen competition. Section 7 of the Clayton Act is printed in the Appendix.

Section 8684. (Corporate property, how employed.) No corporation shall employ its stocks, means, assets, or other property, directly or indirectly, for any other purpose than to accomplish the legitimate objects of its creation. (R. S. Sec. 3266; May 1, 1852, 50 v. 274, § 73; S. & C. 309.)

Misappropriation of property and remedies.

See note to § 8660.

Corporate property as a trust fund. Corporate property is not owned by the corporation in the sense of ownership as applied to property of an individual. Corporate property is a fund set apart to be used only for corporate purposes. It is impressed with the character of a trust fund for that purpose.

A trust relation exists between the directors and stockholders. The duties of the directors are of a fiduciary nature. They are trustees for the stockholders and creditors.

Rouse v. Bank, 46 O. S. 493, 501-502 (1889).

Hardware Co. v. Castings Co., 90 O. S. 171 (1914).

Goodin v. Cincinnati, etc., Co., 18 O. S. 169 (1868).

Cheney v. Maumee Cycle Co., 64 O. S. 205, 213 (1901).

Bank v. Mfg. Co., 67 O. S. 306, 314 (1902).

Niles v. Olszak, 87 O. S. 229 (1912).

But see Hollins v. Brierfield, etc., Co., 150 U. S. 371, 381, 383 (1893).

McDonald v. Williams, 174 U. S. 397, 401 (1899).

The trust relation exists to such an extent that when brought into court by creditors for an accounting, the corporation may ask the instruction of the court as to its duties.

Everhardt v. U. S., etc., Co., 8 N. P. 525; 11 L. D. 687 (Super. Ct. Cin.)

Unpaid subscriptions to the stock of an insolvent corporation are a part of the trust fund for creditors.

Turnbull v. Pomeroy Salt Co., 24 W. L. B. 133 (C. P. 1890).

Niles v. Olszak, 87 O. S. 229 (1912).

In the opinion of the federal courts, the trust fund doctrine of Rouse v. Bank is limited to cases where the corporation has ceased to be a going concern. Bank v. Johnson, 219 Fed. 89, 94 (1915). See Thoms v. Goodman, 254 Fed. 39; 17 O. L. R. 31 (1918).

Fraudulent transfers of property. Where the property of a corporation has been fraudulently or wrongfully disposed of by directors, its creditors or stockholders may pursue it into the hands of purchasers with notice.

Goodin v. Cincinnati, etc., Co., 18 O. S. 169 (1868).

Taylor v. Miami Exporting Co., 5 Ohio 162 (1831).

It is the duty of a receiver of an insolvent or dissolved corporation to recover property fraudulently conveyed.

Monitor Furnace Co. v. Peters, 40 O. S. 575 (1884).

Sayle v. Guarantee, etc., Co., 2 C. C. n. s. 401; 15 C. D. 503 (1903).

Where it did not appear that a corporation was insolvent and that it had ceased to prosecute the objects for which it was created at a time when its funds were used to pay notes, executed by its president and endorsed by the corporation, held by a bank to cover a loss by the failure of a former corporation the funds so used are not so impressed with a trust as to be recoverable by the trustee in bankruptcy of the corporation. Haines v. Bank, 203 Fed. 225 (C. C. A. 1913).

Preferences by insolvent corporations. At a time when insolvent individuals were permitted to prefer certain of their creditors, it was held that preferences by insolvent corporations were invalid.

Rouse v. Bank, 46 O. S. 493 (1889).

Smith, etc., Co. v. McGroarty, 136 U. S. 237; 24 W. L. B. 110 (1890).

Remington v. Central, etc., Co., 3 N. P. 258; 4 L. D. 337 (1896).

Benedict v. Bank, 4 N. P. 231; 6 L. D. 320 (1897); 19 C. C. 408.

Cheney v. Maumee Cycle Co., 20 C. C. 19 (1900); aff'd, 64 O. S. 205 (1901).

Although certain mortgages and liens created or suffered by corporations, which were going concerns, were upheld as not being preferential.

Campbell, etc., Co. v. Bellman Bros. Co., 11 C. C. 360; 5 C. D. 389 (1896).

Damarin v. Huron Iron Co., 47 O. S. 581 (1890).

Ford v. Lamson, 17 C. C. 539; 9 C. D. 374 (1899).

Bosche v. Toledo, etc., Co., 14 C. C. 289; 7 C. D. 374 (1897).

In re Winchell Mfg. Co., 1 N. P. 136; 1 L. D. 310 (1894).

Preference by foreign corporation.

See Kit Carter Cattle Co. v. McGillen, 21 C. C. 210 (1900).

STOCKHOLDERS.

Section 8685. (Annual statement to stockholders.) Every corporation organized under the laws of Ohio, annually shall make a statement of its financial condition, setting forth its assets and liabilities, and furnish to each stockholder a true copy thereof, together with a list of its stockholders, and their places of residence. (R. S. Sec. 3268; R. S. 1880.)

Section 8686. (Liability of stockholders.) The stockholders of a corporation who are holders of its shares at a time when its debts and liabilities are enforceable against them, shall be held liable, equally and ratably, but not one for another, in addition to their stock in an amount equal thereto, to the creditors of the corporation, to secure the payment of such debts and liabilities. No stockholder who transfers his stock in good faith, if such transfer is made on the books of the company or on the back of the certificate of stock properly witnessed or tendered for transfer on its books prior to the time when such debts and liabilities are so enforceable, may be held to pay any portion thereof. (R. S. Sec. 3258; April 25, 1904, 97 v. 390; April 29, 1902, 95 v. 312; May 1, 1852, 50 v. 296, §§ 78-79; March 11, 1853, 51 v. 386; April 17, 1854, 52 v. 44, § 78; April 12, 1865, 62 v. 134; March 11, 1874, 69 v. 25; R. S. 1880; S. & C. 310.)

Double liability of bank stockholders, see § 710-75.

- I. Liability of stockholders in absence of statute.
 - A. Not liable for corporate debts, p. 1118.
 - B. Not bound by corporate contracts, p. 1118.
 - C. Not subject to injunction for acts of corporation alone, p. 1118.
 - D. Assessment on stockholders by agreement, p. 1118.
 - E. On stock purchased from corporation for less than par, p. 1118.
 - F. For ultra vires or illegal acts or business, p. 1118.
 - G. On guaranty contracts, p. 1118.
 - H. Liability on stock subscriptions, p. 1119.
- II. Double statutory liability.
 - A. No liability on debts incurred since 1903, p. 1119.
 - B. Transferrer. Liability of, p. 1119.
 - C. Transferee, p. 1120.
 - D. Stockholders registered in the corporate books are prima facie liable, p. 1120.
 - E. Debts of corporation assumed by new corporation, p. 1120.
- III. Nature of statutory liability, p. 1120.
- IV. Control of corporation over liability, p. 1121.
 - V. Enforcement of liability of stockholders in foreign corporations, p. 1121.
- VI. Contribution between stockholders, p. 1121.
- VII. Liability attaches when, p. 1122.
- VIII. Bond against liability, p. 1122.
- IX. Defenses of stockholders.
 - A. Waiver of liability by creditors, p. 1122.
 - B. Discharge in bankruptcy, p. 1122.
 - C. That corporation is not insolvent, p. 1122.
 - D. Settlement, p. 1122.
 - E. Objections to claims of creditors, p. 1122.
 - F. Set off, p. 1123.
 - G. Insolvency, p. 1123.
 - H. That no certificate of stock has been issued is no defense, p. 1123.

I. LIABILITY OF STOCKHOLDERS IN ABSENCE OF STATUTE.

A. Not liable for corporate debts. A stockholder, whose stock has been paid up, is not personally liable for the debts of the corporation. Carr v. Inglehart, 3 O. S. 457, 458 (1854).

Ireland v. Palestine, etc., Co., 19 O. S. 369, 372 (1869).

Robinson v. Willard, 16 C. C. n. s. 464 (1907); aff'd, no rep. 78 O. S. 441.

Stockholders in a corporation de facto are not individually liable as partners. Their liability is that of stockholders only.

Rowland v. Meader Furn. Co., 38 O. S. 271 (1882).

Irregular or defective incorporation does not render the stockholders personally liable for corporate debts, where the incorporation statute has been substantially complied with.

Second N. B. v. Hall, 35 O. S. 158 (1878).

See note to § 8627. Estoppel to deny corporate existence.

B. Not bound by corporate contracts. A contract made by a corporation, on a sale of its entire property and good will, that it will not re-engage in business in competition with the purchaser, is not binding upon its stockholders personally.

Hall's Safe Co. v. Herring, etc., Co., 146 Fed. 37; 15 O. F. D. 37 (C. C. A. 1906).

C. Not subject to injunction for acts of corporation alone. A stockholder is not individually liable, nor subject to injunction, because of unfair competition practiced by the corporation alone.

Hall's Safe Co. v. Herring, etc., Co., 146 Fed. 37; 15 O. F. D. 37 (C. C. A. 1906).

D. Assessment on stockholders by agreement. An agreement between all the stockholders of a corporation whereby the preferred stockholders remitted all accumulated and unpaid dividends, and the common stockholders agreed to pay an assessment of a specified amount per share, is valid and enforceable. Dever v. Engineering Co., 5 Ohio App. 77; 24 C. C. n. s. 454 (1915); motion to certify record overruled, 13 O. L. R. 515.

An agreement by solvent stockholders of an embarrassed corporation that they will severally contribute to raise a fund to pay the corporate indebtedness creates a valid obligation. If the share to be contributed by each is not expressly fixed by the agreement, each should contribute in the proportion that the number of shares of stock owned by him bears to the shares held by all the contributors.

Sterling Wrench Co. v. Amstutz, 50 O. S. 484 (1893).

Stockholders, who joined in a contract of employment made by the corporation, and agreed to transfer stock to the employee in part payment for his services, are not liable to such employee, when it appears that the contract is void under the statute of frauds, although the corporation is liable on a quantum meruit. Robinson v. Willard, 16 C. C. n. s. 464 (1907); aff'd, no rep. 78 O. S. 441.

E. On stock purchased from corporation for less than par.

See note to § 8630. Disposition of stock by corporation after election of directors.

F. For ultra vires or illegal acts or business.

See notes to § 8627. Ultra vires acts; Corporation as a legal entity, and Promoters.

G. On guaranty contracts. Rights and liabilities.

See Wise v. Miller, 45 O. S. 388 (1887).

H. Liability on stock subscriptions.

See notes to §§ 8630 and 8674.

II. DOUBLE STATUTORY LIABILITY.

A. No liability on debts incurred since 1903. Exception as to bank stockholders.

See § 8687.

B. Transferrer. Liability of. By the amendment of this section (95 v. 312) it was the intention of the legislature to restrict the liability of a stockholder to those debts which were incurred while the stock was held by such stockholder.

Scotfield v. Excelsior Oil Co., 6 C. C. n. s. 169; 17 C. D. 347 (1905); aff'd, 74 O. S. 513.

State B. & T. Co. v. Mitchell Co., 14 N. P. n. s. 49 (1913).

The amendment (95 v. 312) was evidently intended to avoid the consequences of Herrick v. Wardwell, 58 O. S. 294 (1898).

State B. & T. Co. v. Mitchell, 14 N. P. n. s. 49, 64 (1913).

The amendment (95 v. 312) exempting transferrers from liability has been held unconstitutional.

Swift & Co. v. Youngstown, etc., Co., 6 C. C. n. s. 89; 17 C. D. 253 (1905).

Little v. Aultman, etc., Co., 15 L. D. 355 (C. P. 1905).

Contra, Scotfield v. Excelsior Oil Co., 6 C. C. n. s. 169, 175; 17 C. D. 347 (1905); aff'd, no rep., 74 O. S. 513.

See Sheets Mfg. Co. v. Neer Mfg. Co., 4 N. P. n. s. 201; 17 L. D. 119 (C. P. 1906).

State B. & T. Co. v. Mitchell Co., 14 N. P. n. s. 49, 63 (1913).

The amendment does not affect liability for debts previously contracted. Blackburn v. Irwine, 205 Fed. 217, 219 (C. C. A. 1913).

Prior to the amendment (95 v. 312) a transfer, although made in good faith, did not release the transferrer for debts incurred prior to the transfer.

Brown v. Hitchcock, 36 O. S. 678 (1881).

Harpold v. Stobart, 46 O. S. 397 (1889).

Rider v. Fritchey, 49 O. S. 285, 295 (1892).

The transferee was primarily liable. If insolvent or nonresident, resort could be had to the transferrer, after the total liability of the existing solvent and resident stockholders had been exhausted, but not before.

Poston v. Hull, 75 O. S. 502 (1907).

Wick N. B. v. Union N. B., 62 O. S. 446 (1900).

Brown v. Hitchcock, 36 O. S. 667 (1881).

The transferrer is not liable for debts incurred after transfer of the stock on the corporate books, if in good faith. But if the transferrer remained the equitable owner he remained liable.

Peter v. Union Mfg. Co., 56 O. S. 181 (1897).

Muskingum, etc., Co. v. Ward, 13 Ohio 120 (1844).

Poston v. Hull, 75 O. S. 505 (1907).

A transferrer, who has been held liable to creditors, may recover against his transferee.

Harpold v. Stobart, 46 O. S. 397, 401 (1889).

Poston v. Hull, 75 O. S. 505 (1907).

The equities between a transferrer and transferee may be adjusted in the stockholders' liability suit.

Railroad Co. v. Smith, 48 O. S. 219 (1891).

Where judgment has been rendered against the transferee, the transferrer being a party to the suit, such judgment is final, and, after failure to collect the judgment from the transferee, creditors can not hold the transferrer.

Bullock v. Kilgour, 39 O. S. 543 (1883).

The renewal of corporate notes does not release a transferrer, although after the transfer and without his knowledge.

Hauenschild v. Standard, etc., Co., 8 N. P. 124 (Super. Ct. Cin.).

Boice v. Hodge, 51 O. S. 236.

Unless the renewal note was accepted in payment of the obligation.

Wheeler v. Faurot, 37 O. S. 26 (1881).

C. Transferee. Liability to creditors follows the stock and a transferee of stock is primarily liable to creditors. The transferee is held to indemnify the transferrer on account of any statutory liability.

Poston v. Hull, 75 O. S. 502, 505 (1907).

Harpold v. Stobart, 46 O. S. 397, 401 (1889).

Wheeler v. Faurot, 37 O. S. 26, 28 (1881).

Brown v. Hitchcock, 36 O. S. 667, 680 (1881).

Bonewitz v. Bank, 41 O. S. 78 (1884).

R. R. Co. v. Smith, 48 O. S. 219 (1891).

Barrick v. Gifford, 47 O. S. 180 (1890).

The liability attaches to all who are stockholders at the time of the enforcement of the liability regardless of when they became stockholders.

Poston v. Hull, 75 O. S. 502, 507 (1907).

Umstaetter v. Newark, etc., Co., 4 N. P. n. s. 150; 17 L. D. 30 (1906).

A transferee is liable although he held the stock only long enough to transfer it again.

Schwill v. Beekel, 1 N. P. n. s. 1; 13 L. D. 699 (Super Ct. Cin. 1903).

D. Stockholders registered in the corporate books are prima facie liable.

See G. C. § 8689.

Harpold v. Stobart, 46 O. S. 397 (1889).

Herrick v. Wardwell, 58 O. S. 294 (1898).

Biles v. Looker Co., 17 C. C. 538; 9 C. D. 685 (1889).

Wehrman v. Reakirt, 1 C. S. C. R. 230 (1871).

Marriott v. Railway, 16 L. D. 135 (C. P. 1905); aff'd, 10 C. C. n. s. 573, 575.

But since the amendment of § 8686 in 1902 where a certificate properly assigned was left for transfer on the corporate books, but the transfer was not made because of omission of the officers of the corporation the transferrer is not liable.

State B. & T. Co. v. Mitchell Co., 14 N. P. n. s. 49, 64 (1913).

E. Debts of corporation assumed by new corporation. Where a corporation is reorganized and succeeded by a new corporation, which assumes the debts of the old corporation, the stockholders of the old corporation remain liable, but such liability is secondary to that of the new corporation and its stockholders.

Marriott v. Railway Co., 16 L. D. 135 (C. P. 1910); s. c., 10 C. C. n. s. 573; 20 C. D. 419.

Irvine v. Bankard, 181 Fed. 206 (1910); aff'd, no rep., 184 Fed. 986.

III. NATURE OF STATUTORY LIABILITY.

Not joint, but several.

Mason v. Alexander, 44 O. S. 318, 333 (1886).

Umsted v. Buskirk, 17 O. S. 113 (1866).

Poston v. Hull, 75 O. S. 505 (1907).

Not a primary resource for the collection of corporate debts, but a secondary and collateral obligation, to be resorted to only in case of insolvency of corporation.

- Poston v. Hull, 75 O. S. 502, 505 (1907).
- Bronson v. Schneider, 49 O. S. 438 (1892).
- Younglove v. Lime Co., 49 O. S. 663, 666 (1892).
- Peter v. Union Mfg. Co., 56 O. S. 181, 197 (1897).
- Falkenback v. Patterson, 43 O. S. 359, 370 (1885).
- Swan v. Mansfield, etc., R. Co., 3 N. P. 225; 5 L. D. 297 (1896).

It is contractual in its nature.

- Dabney v. Pappenheimer Co., 20 C. C. 707 (1888).
- Cleveland Gas Co. v. Collins, 19 C. C. 247 (1899).
- Northern N. B. v. Maumee, etc., Co., 2 N. P. 260; 2 L. D. 67 (1894).
- See Kulp v. Fleming, 65 O. S. 321 (1901).
- Blair v. Newbegin, 65 O. S. 425 (1901).

The liability is a provable claim against the estate of a bankrupt stockholder.

- In re Rouse, 40 W. L. B. 220.

IV. CONTROL OF CORPORATION OVER LIABILITY.

The corporation has no control over the statutory liability, which is for the exclusive benefit of creditors. It can not assign the liability even for the benefit of all creditors.

- Wright v. McCormack, 17 O. S. 86 (1866).
- Umsted v. Buskirk, 17 O. S. 113 (1866).
- White v. Ingersoll, 2 Cleve. L. R. 362 (1878).

Nor can it release a stockholder therefrom.

- No. Fairmount, etc., Co. v. Ashbrook, 12 L. D. 10 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1901).

Nor counterclaim upon it against a stockholder.

- Jungkuntz v. West Lib. Assn., 6 W. L. B. 428 (1881).

V. ENFORCEMENT OF LIABILITY OF STOCKHOLDERS IN FOREIGN CORPORATIONS.

Where the liability is contractual, and not penal, it may be enforced in Ohio.

- Kulp v. Fleming, 65 O. S. 321 (1902).
- Blair v. Newbegin, 65 O. S. 425 (1902).
- Roher v. Bank, 22 C. C. n. s. 502 (1904).
- See Wyatt v. Moorehead, 4 N. P. 435; 7 L. D. 380 (1897).
- Judson v. Stewart, 7 N. P. 160 (1897).

Where the liability of stockholders of a foreign corporation is enforced in Ohio, the procedure followed is that of Ohio, and, although by the law of the home state of such corporation stockholders must be sued separately, they may in Ohio be joined in one action.

- Blair v. Newbegin, 65 O. S. 425 (1901).

VI. CONTRIBUTION BETWEEN STOCKHOLDERS.

Stockholders may require that all solvent resident stockholders be made defendants.

- Harpold v. Stobart, 46 O. S. 397, 404 (1889).
- Wheeler v. Faurot, 37 O. S. 26, 29 (1881).
- Umsted v. Buskirk, 17 O. S. 113 (1866).

But stockholders do not bear the relation of sureties to each other. One stockholder, having voluntarily paid the corporate debts, can not recover contribution from other stockholders who were solvent and resident.

- Burr v. Bates, 3 C. C. 1, 6; 2 C. D. 1 (1887).
- See Wehrman v. Reakirt, 1 C. S. C. R. 230, 234 (1871).

VII. LIABILITY ATTACHES WHEN.

The liability attaches at the time the debt or liability is incurred.

Herrick v. Wardwell, 58 O. S. 294 (1898).

Harpold v. Stobart, 46 O. S. 397, 404 (1889).

Brown v. Hitchcock, 36 O. S. 667, 678 (1881).

Cleveland Gas Co. v. Collins, 19 C. C. 247 (1899).

VIII. BOND AGAINST LIABILITY.

For rights under bond given by purchaser of property, from stockholder against liability, see Hatry v. Painesville, etc., Co., 1 C. C. 426; 1 C. D. 238 (1886);

aff'd, 32 W. L. B. 281.

IX. DEFENSES OF STOCKHOLDERS.

A. Waiver of liability by creditors. Whether the statutory liability may be waived by creditors, as by an express stipulation in a corporate mortgage, has been differently decided.

Waiver held invalid.

Kreisser v. Ashtabula, etc., Co., 2 C. C. n. s. 597; 14 C. D. 313 (1901).
Held valid.

Hull v. Standard, etc., Co., 20 C. C. 533 (1900).

Hardman v. Cincinnati, etc., Co., 18 W. L. B. 264 (C. P. Referee 1887).

Babbitt v. Read, 236 Fed. 42 (C. C. A. N. Y. 1916).

B. Discharge in bankruptcy. A discharge in bankruptcy of the stockholder is no defense unless the claims of the plaintiff and other creditors were scheduled in the bankruptcy proceeding, or they had notice or knowledge of the proceeding.

Roebing, etc., Co. v. Shawnee, etc., Co., 4 N. P. n. s. 113; 17 L. D. 8 (C. P. 1906); aff'd, 78 O. S. 408.

C. That corporation is not insolvent. A stockholder may deny insolvency of the corporation.

Murphy v. Alma, etc., Co., 5 O. L. R. 508 (C. P. 1907).

D. Settlement. Where the stockholders settled with all but one creditor, at a discount, the one dissenting creditor can not thereafter recover more than he would have recovered had the suit been prosecuted to a final decree and the proceeds distributed pro rata.

Ryan v. Miami, etc., R. Co., 16 C. C. 530; 9 C. D. 401 (1898).

Where solvent stockholders agreed to severally contribute to raise a fund to pay the corporate debts, one stockholder agreeing to surrender and cancel a note of the corporation, the other stockholders having paid their share may set up such agreement in defense to an action on such note.

Sterling Wrench Co. v. Amstutz, 50 O. S. 484 (1893).

Note given to one creditor under an agreement that it shall be credited on statutory liability. Agreement construed.

Beebe v. Thomas, 2 W. L. B. 107 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1877).

Compromise and payment of a certain sum is a defense in a suit by a receiver against a non-resident stockholder, at least to the extent of the actual payment. Mottinger v. Hendricks, 208 Fed. 824 (D. C. 1913).

E. Objections to claims of creditors. Where the claim of a creditor is not in judgment, stockholders may interpose only such defenses thereto as the corporation might have pleaded.

Railroad Co. v. Smith, 48 O. S. 219 (1891).

Where the claim has been reduced to judgment it is conclusive on the stockholders, although rendered by default.

Gaw v. Glassboro, etc., Co., 20 C. C. 416 (1900).

Scofield v. Excelsior Oil Co., 6 C. C. n. s. 176; 17 C. D. 318 (1905); aff'd, 74 O. S. 513.

That the creditor has settled his claim against the corporation, or filed his claim and asserted a lien in another case is no defense, where it is not alleged that the claim has been paid.

Hardman v. Cincinnati, etc., Ry. Co., 15 W. L. B. 164 (1886).

Where one creditor is also a stockholder, and has purchased and set up certain claims against the corporation, another stockholder who has agreed with him to pay debts equally may, by cross petition, have an accounting. Jones v. Turney Co., 91 O. S. 122 (1914).

F. Set off. A stockholder can not set off against his liability an indebtedness of the corporation to him.

Hardman v. Cincinnati, etc., Co., 15 W. L. B. 164 (1886).

Marriott v. Railway, 16 L. D. 135; s. c., 10 C. C. n. s. 573; 20 C. D. 419.

Painesville N. B. v. King Varnish Co., 8 C. C. 563; 4 C. D. 54 (1894); reversed, in part, 56 O. S. 744.

But see Niles v. Olszak, 87 O. S. 229 (1912).

Except to the extent of his dividend or distributive share from the fund realized for creditors.

King v. Armstrong, 50 O. S. 222 (1893).

Barber v. Leader, etc., Co., 7 C. C. 411; 4 C. D. 658 (1893).

Marriott v. Railway, 16 L. D. 135; s. c., 10 C. C. n. s. 573; 20 C. D. 419.

But a stockholder may in one pleading allege a proper defense, and also set up his claim against the corporation.

Murphy v. Alma, etc., Co., 5 O. L. R. 508 (C. P. 1907).

And where a claim is founded upon a note of the corporation, acquired by the claimant after maturity, from a payee who was indebted to the corporation, the indebtedness of the payee may be set off against the note. Gill v. Printing Co., 16 C. C. n. s. 568 (1907); modified and aff'd, no rep. 80 O. S. 742; 81 O. S. 515.

G. Insolvency of a stockholder is not a defense available to him.

Marriott v. Railway, 16 L. D. 135 (C. P. 1905); aff'd, 10 C. C. n. s. 573, 575.

H. That no certificate of stock has been issued is no defense.

Royce v. Tyler, 2 C. C. 175; 1 C. D. 428 (1887).

Kreisser v. Ashtabula, etc., Co., 2 C. C. n. s. 597, 601; 14 C. D. 313 (1910).

Section 8687. (Corporations created subsequent to November 23, 1903.) The next preceding section shall not apply to stockholders in a corporation created after the twenty-third of November, 1903, nor to debts or liabilities of a corporation incurred after such date. As to all debts and liabilities of corporations for profit incurred after such date, the stockholders thereof shall be under no liabilities other than those stated in article XIII, section three, of the constitution of Ohio. (R. S. Sec. 3258; April 25, 1904; 97 v. 390; April 29, 1902, 95 v. 312; May 1, 1852, 50 v. 296, §§ 78-79; March 11, 1853, 51 v. 386; April 17, 1854, 52 v. 44;

April 12, 1865, 62 v. 134; March 11, 1874, 69 v. 25; R. S. 1880; S. & C. 310.)

Bank stockholders are subject to double liability. See Constitution, Art. XIII, Sec. 3, as amended in 1912, in effect, January 1, 1913.

Lang v. Bank, 100 O. S. 51 (1919).

The amendment of Sec. 3, Art. XIII of 1903 of the constitution is self executing. Stockholders are not subject to double liability for debts incurred by the corporation after November 23, 1903.

Sheets Mfg. Co. v. Neer Mfg. Co., 4 N. P. n. s. 201; 17 L. D. 119 (C. P. 1906).

Emerich v. Coal Co., 21 C. C. n. s. 83 (1907).

Middletown N. B. v. Railway Co., 197 U. S. 394 (1905).

Barnes v. Wheaton, 80 Hun (N. Y.) 8 (1894).

But the amendment does not affect stockholders' liability for debts incurred prior to that date.

Poston v. Hull, 75 O. S. 502, 508 (1907).

Little v. Aultman, etc., Co., 15 L. D. 355 (1905).

Irvine v. Elliott, 203 Fed. 82, 93 (D. C. 1913).

Kuerze v. Bank, 12 Ohio App. 412; 31 O. C. A. 296 (1919); aff'd, no rep. 100 O. S. 547.

Where a note was given after the amendment of the constitution in 1903, for an indebtedness incurred prior to the amendment, the liability of stockholders depends upon whether the note was accepted as payment of the original obligation.

First N. B. v. Patton Co., 13 C. C. n. s. 289 (1910).

See Boice v. Hodge, 51 O. S. 236 (1894).

Hauenschild v. Standard, etc., Co., 8 N. P. 124 (Super. Ct. Cin.).

Wheeler v. Faurot, 37 O. S. 26 (1881).

The presumption is that a renewal note is in conditional, and not absolute, payment. Where several notes were renewed from time to time, some by exchanging for new notes, and some by going through the form of a new loan, the proceeds being credited to the bank account of the corporation and its check being drawn for the amount due on the old note, and the referee and court of common pleas found that the intention was to continue the original obligation, the reviewing court refused to disturb the finding. Kuerze v. Bank, 12 Ohio App. 412; 31 O. C. A. 296 (1919); aff'd, no rep. 100 O. S. 547.

Where a note of the corporation was transferred after the amendment to the constitution, and was subsequently renewed by and in the name of the transferee, this was held to be a novation extinguishing the original debt. Gill v. Printing Co., 16 C. C. n. s. 568 (1907); modified and aff'd, no rep. 80 O. S. 742.

Section 8688. (Limitation of action to enforce liability.)

An action upon the liability of stockholders under the two next preceding sections can only be brought within eighteen months after the debt or obligation shall become enforceable against stockholders. (R. S. Sec. 3258a; April 25, 1904, 97 v. 390; April 29, 1902, 95 v. 313.)

The limitation of this section does not apply to an action to collect unpaid stock subscriptions. Bauman v. Kiskadden, 94 O. S. 130 (1916); Kiskadden v. Anderson, 95 O. S. 88 (1916); Yoder v. Tubman, 19 C. C. n. s. 225 (1911).

When right of action accrues. A right of action accrues when a judgment has been recovered against the corporation and an execution rendered unsatisfied in whole or in part.

Or where the corporation has done, or suffered, any act which renders judgment and process nugatory, as where it has made an assignment for creditors, or been adjudged a bankrupt, or, by the appointment of a receiver, or otherwise, its property has been put in process of application to the payment of its debts.

Younglove v. Lime Co., 49 O. S. 663 (1892).

Bronson v. Schneider, 49 O. S. 438 (1892).

Barrick v. Gifford, 47 O. S. 180 (1890).

King v. Armstrong, 50 O. S. 222, 238 (1893).

Peter v. Farrell, etc., Co., 53 O. S. 534, 557 (1895).

Morgan v. Lewis, 46 O. S. 1 (1888).

Kuerze v. Bank, 12 Ohio App. 412; 31 O. C. A. 296 (1919); aff'd, no rep. 100 O. S. 547.

Creditors need not wait for final distribution or settlement by the assignee, etc., before commencing action.

Younglove v. Lime Co., 49 O. S. 663.

But a right of action does not accrue on the appointment of a receiver, not because of insolvency, but to carry on the business, or to subserve some other purpose of the directors or stockholders.

Nor does a right of action accrue on the mere insolvency of the corporation in the sense that its debts exceed its assets.

Younglove v. Lime Co., 49 O. S. 663 (1892).

Bronson v. Schneider, 49 O. S. 438 (1892).

Barrick v. Gilford, 47 O. S. 180 (1890).

Statute of limitations. Where a corporation, because of insolvency, was placed in the hands of a receiver on a certain date, the statute of limitations begins to run from such date.

Marriott v. Columbus, etc., R. Co., 2 N. P. n. s. 231; 15 L. D. 100 (C. P. 1904); s. c., 16 L. D. 135; aff'd, 10 C. C. n. s. 573, 575.

Roebing Sons Co. v. Shawnee, etc., Co., 4 N. P. n. s. 113; 17 L. D. 8 (C. P. 1906); aff'd, 78 O. S. 408.

Irvine v. Blackburn, 198 Fed. 360 (D. C. 1912).

The statute does not begin to run against a creditor until his claim is due.

Hardman v. Cincinnati, etc., Ry. Co., 15 W. L. B. 164, 165 (C. P. 1886).

Harris v. Railway Co., 4 N. P. n. s. 31; 16 L. D. 653 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1906).

Where a claim is disputed, the statute does not run until it is liquidated as to amount.

Hardman v. Cincinnati, etc., Ry. Co., 15 W. L. B. 164, 165 (C. P. 1886).

Voluntary dissolution under G. C. § 8740 et seq., does not cause the statute to begin to run. Nevin v. Engineering Co., 18 C. C. n. s. 237 (1908); aff'd, no rep. 84 O. S. 498.

A suit by one creditor on behalf of all creditors saves the running of the statute as against all creditors who assert their claims in the suit before its final determination.

Barrick v. Gifford, 47 O. S. 180 (1890).

Each creditor's claim is distinct, and a bar to one is no bar to others.

Hardman v. Cincinnati, etc., Ry. Co., 15 W. L. B. 164 (C. P. 1886).

Where creditors negligently fail to bring in resident, solvent stockholders, as defendants, until the statute has run against them, the other stockholders' assessments can not be increased because of such neglect.

Smith v. Newark, etc., Co., 8 C. C. 583; 4 C. D. 356 (1894).

A stipulation in a contract with the corporation, limiting the time for bringing suit thereon, does not apply to the statutory liability of its stockholders.

Davis v. Stewart, 26 O. S. 643 (1875).

Stewart v. Triumph Ins. Co., 1 W. L. B. 103 (1876).

This section does not apply to a suit by a receiver appointed to collect an assessment made in an action under § 8691 et seq., brought before the enactment of this section. Irvine v. McCoy, 16 N. P. n. s. 481; 25 L. D. 83 (C. P. 1914). See Irvine v. Baker, 225 Fed. 834.

Limitation of action against estate of deceased stockholder.

See Roeblings Sons Co. v. Shawnee, etc., Co., 4 N. P. n. s. 113; 17 L. D. 8 (C. P. 1906); aff'd, 78 O. S. 408.

Bevitt v. Diehl, 12 L. D. 383, 315 (1901).

Limitation of actions against nonresidents. The limitation does not begin to run against an action brought in another jurisdiction against a nonresident stockholder, until a decree is entered making an assessment and appointing a receiver for its collection.

Irvine v. Putnam, 167 Fed. 174 (C. C. 1909).

Irvine v. Putnam, 190 Fed. 321 (C. C. 1911).

Irvine v. Bankard, 181 Fed. 206 (C. C. 1910); aff'd, no rep., 184 Fed. 986.

Goss v. Carter, 156 Fed. 746 (C. C. A. 1907).

Blackburn v. Irvine, 205 Fed. 217 (C. C. A. 1913).

Where an appeal is taken from the decree, the running of the statute is suspended during its pendency, even though the appeal is taken by creditors.

Irvine v. Bankard, 181 Fed. 206 (C. C. 1910); aff'd, no rep., 184 Fed. 986.

A receiver is not estopped from asserting that the pendency of an appeal from the decree suspended the running of the limitation because during such pendency he settled and received payment of claims against other stockholders.

Irvine v. Bankard, 181 Fed. 206 (1910).

Section 8689. ("Stockholder" defined.) The term "stockholder" as used in the three next preceding sections, shall apply not only to persons who appear by the books of the corporation to be such, but also to an equitable owner of stock, although on the books it appears in the name of another. (R. S. Sec. 3259; R. S. 1880.)

This section should be construed in connection with §§ 8672 and 8673.

State B. & T. Co. v. Mitchell Co., 14 N. P. n. s. 49, 57 (1913).

What stockholders are liable.

Generally. The following have been held liable—Stockholders in de facto corporations.

Rowland v. Meader Furn. Co., 38 O. S. 269 (1882).

Gaff v. Flesher, 33 O. S. 107 (1877).

Royce v. Tyler, 2 C. C. 175, 182; 1 C. D. 428 (1887).

Corporation holding stock.

Smith v. Newark, etc., R. Co., 8 C. C. 583; 4 C. D. 356 (1894).

Marriott v. Columbus, etc., Co., 16 L. D. 135 (C. P. 1905); aff'd, 10 C. C. n. s. 573, 575.

See Gill v. Printing Co., 16 C. C. n. s. 568 (1907); modified and aff'd, no rep. 80 O. S. 742.

Infant holding stock after becoming of age.

Hardman v. Cincinnati, 15 W. L. B. 164 (1886).

Preferred stockholders.

R. R. Co. v. Smith, 48 O. S. 219 (1891).

Holders of stock distributed as a stock dividend.

Aultman's Appeal, 98 Pa. St. 505 (1881).

Transferrer and Transferee.

See § 8686.

Equitable owner. The purpose of § 8689 is to give creditors a cumulative remedy and, where the legal owner is insolvent, to permit them to pursue the equitable owner.

Holcomb v. Gibson, 39 W. L. B. 380 (1898).

Under § 8689 the legal and equitable owners may be treated as co-owners.

Biggio v. Sandheger, 3 O. L. R. 470; 16 L. D. 285 (1905); s. c., 8 N. P. 13 (1900).

Where a person transfers his stock for the purpose of divesting himself of apparent ownership to escape possible liability, but really remains the beneficial owner, he is liable.

Peter v. Union Mfg. Co., 56 O. S. 181, 208 (1897).

An action may be brought against both the legal and the equitable owner and a judgment rendered against both.

Irvine v. Blackburn, 198 Fed. 360 (D. C. 1912).

Trustee. The person in whose name the stock is registered on the books of the corporation is liable. It is no defense that he is a trustee only, although he is entitled to be reimbursed by the beneficiary.

Holcomb v. Gibson, 39 W. L. B. 380 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1898).

Schwill v. Beckel, 1 N. P. n. s. 1, 104; 13 L. D. 699 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1903).

Marriott v. Columbus, etc., Co., 16 L. D. 135 (C. P. 1905); s. c., 10 C. C. n. s. 573; 20 C. D. 419.

Blackburn v. Irvine, 205 Fed. 217 (C. C. A. 1913); affirming, 198 Fed. 360.

Stewart v. Triumph Ins. Co., 1 W. L. B. 103 (1876).

But in one case where the stock books of the corporation disclosed the trust capacity in which the stock was held, the trustee was held not liable.

Biggio v. Sandheger, 8 N. P. 13 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1900); compare s. c., 3 O. L. R. 470; 16 L. D. 285 (1905).

Pledgee. A pledgee who does not have the stock transferred to his name on the corporate books is not liable.

Henkel v. Salem Mfg. Co., 39 O. S. 547 (1883).

But where it is so transferred the pledgee is liable, although as against the pledgor he is entitled to reimbursement.

Biggio v. Sandheger, 3 O. L. R. 470; 16 L. D. 285 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1905); see s. c., 8 N. P. 13.

Liquidating trustees of a corporation have no authority to acquire the general title to stock, held by the corporation as pledgee, and by attempting to acquire such title the trustees do not render the corporation liable. Gill v. Printing Co., 16 C. C. n. s. 568 (1907); modified and aff'd, no rep. 80 O. S. 742.

Where a judgment is rendered against both the pledgor and pledgee it is a judgment against co-owners. A compromise by the receiver with the pledgor does not release the pledgee.

Biggio v. Sandheger, 3 O. L. R. 470; 16 L. D. 285 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1905).

A pledgee of stock in a national bank becomes liable as a stockholder, under the national banking act, where he has the stock registered in the name of his employee, with no beneficial interest, and afterwards indorses on the note the supposed value of the stock as a credit, and presents the note, reduced by the credit, to the administrator who allows the claim in such form.

Ohio Valley N. B. v. Hulitt, 204 U. S. 162; 15 O. F. D. 530 (1907); affirming 137 Fed. 461.

Legatee of stock. A person to whom stock is bequeathed by will, but the stock is not transferred on the corporate books and there is no evidence of acceptance of the bequest, is not liable. The estate of the testator is liable.

Roebblings Sons Co. v. Shawnee, etc., Co., 4 N. P. n. s. 113; 17 L. D. 8 (C. P. 1906); aff'd, 78 O. S. 408.

De Camp v. Levoy, 19 C. C. 335 (1900).

But where the legatee causes the stock to be transferred he becomes liable.

Biggio v. Sandheger, 8 N. P. 13 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1900).

Where a widow, who was executrix and residuary legatee under her husband's will, caused a part of his stock to be transferred to her name, and accepted a dividend payable in property, it was held that she was liable to the extent of the shares so transferred, but not liable as the owner of shares not so transferred. Kuerze v. Bank, 12 Ohio App. 412; 31 O. C. A. 296 (1919); aff'd, no rep. 100 O. S. 547.

Estate of deceased stockholder. The estate of a deceased stockholder is liable. In such case it is not necessary to present the claim to the administrator before suit.

Roebblings Sons Co. v. Shawnee, etc., Co., 4 N. P. n. s. 113; 17 L. D. 8; aff'd, 78 O. S. 408.

Hall v. Standard Coal Co., 7 N. P. 157 (1897).

Wanz v. Park Hotel Co., 1 C. C. 105; 1 C. D. 63 (1885).

Where, in the parent suit, the plaintiff sought to charge certain stockholders as executors only, he can not thereafter maintain a suit against them as individuals. Irvine v. Johnson, 19 N. P. n. s. 333 (1916).

A demurrer will lie to an answer of an executor, alleging that he has settled up the estate, but not setting up the statute of limitations.

Umstaetter v. Newark, etc., Co., 4 N. P. n. s. 150; 17 L. D. 30 (C. P. 1906).

Broker. A stock broker who purchases stock for another, on a stock exchange, and delivers the certificate to his principal, is not a "stockholder" either legal or equitable under § 8689, although he paid therefor with his own check and did not disclose the name of his principal, and although the transfer was never made on the corporate books.

Joecken v. Cuyahoga, etc., Co., 1 C. C. n. s. 342; 14 C. D. 605 (1903); affirming, 13 L. D. 652; aff'd, no rep. 72 O. S. 643.

Stockholder or creditor. See note to § 8669. Issues of stock construed; preferred stock or debt.

Section 8690. (Where complaint for enforcement of liability filed.) When a creditor of a corporation seeks to charge its directors, trustees, or other superintending officers, or the stockholders thereof, on account of a liability created by law, he may file his complaint for that purpose in any common pleas court which possesses jurisdiction to enforce such liability. (R. S. Sec. 3260; April 16, 1900, 94 v. 359; 91 v. 88; R. S. 1880.)

Action to enforce liability of bank stockholders, see § 710-75.

An action to subject the liability of trustees of a corporation not for profit under § 8666, is governed by this section as to matters of procedure. Paper Co. v. Chevaliers, 18 C. C. n. s. 195 (1907).

Nature of action. The action is equitable. The liabilities and equities of the parties as between themselves may be marshalled and adjusted in the final judgment.

Younglove v. Lime Co., 49 O. S. 663, 667 (1892).

R. R. Co. v. Smith, 48 O. S. 219 (1891).

Bullock v. Kilgour, 39 O. S. 543, 546 (1883).

Wheeler v. Faurot, 37 O. S. 26, 29 (1881).

Brown v. Hitchcock, 36 O. S. 667, 681 (1881).

Griffin v. Rowley, 3 Ohio App. 481; 23 C. C. n. s. 209.

It is for the benefit of all creditors. One creditor can not acquire priority.

Wright v. McCormack, 17 O. S. 86 (1866).

Umsted v. Buskirk, 17 O. S. 113 (1866).

Venue of action. Summons to other counties. The action may be brought in any county in which any defendant may be sued and served. Summons may be issued to other counties for other defendants, including the corporation.

Blair v. Newbegin, 65 O. S. 425 (1901).

Swan v. Railroad Co., 4 L. D. 71 (1895).

Hull v. Standard Coal Co., 7 N. P. 157 (1897).

See Reece v. West, etc., Co., 12 C. D. 728.

The action can not be brought in a county where a defendant does not reside and may not be summoned.

Lamont v. Home Ins. Co., 10 W. L. B. 413 (1883).

Except by consent of the parties. Such consent may be evidenced by answer and trial on the merits without objection. Objection can not be made, for the first time, on appeal.

Reece v. West, etc., Co., 12 C. D. 728.

Mason v. Alexander, 44 O. S. 318 (1886).

Suit against bank stockholders. The superintendent of banks is a proper party to enforce the individual liability of stockholders of a state bank which he has taken possession of for liquidation. Lang v. Osborn Bank, 100 O. S. 51 (1919).

Parties, joinder of actions, pleading, practice, etc.

See Bates Pleading.

Consolidation of actions.

See Newberry v. Alexander, 44 O. S. 346 (1886).

Schaus v. Newark, etc., Co., 5 O. L. R. 388 (1907).

Actions in other jurisdictions.

This section contemplates an action in Ohio courts alone. An original action can not be brought in another jurisdiction for the enforcement of liability generally.

Middletown N. B. v. Railway, 197 U. S. 394 (1905).

Actions in other jurisdictions against nonresident stockholders, by receiver, see §§ 8693, 8695 and notes.

Section 8691. (Procedure by court; receiver.) The court shall proceed thereon, as in other cases, and, when necessary, cause an account to be taken of the property and obligations due to and from such corporation, and may appoint one or more receivers. (R. S. Sec. 3260a; April 16, 1900, 94 v. 360.)

Sections 8691 to 8697 inclusive were enacted to provide an efficient remedy for the enforcement of the liability against nonresident stockholders.

Irvine v. Elliott, 203 Fed. 82 (D. C. 1913).

Section 8692. (Enforcement of liability.) On the filing of an answer, or the taking of such account, if it appears that such corporation is insolvent, and has not sufficient property or effects to satisfy such creditor, the court may proceed to ascertain the respective liabilities of the directors, officers and stockholders, and enforce them by its judgment, as in other cases. (R. S. Sec. 3260b; April 16, 1900, 94 v. 360.)

Practice as to creditors. The names of the creditors and the amount due to each from the corporation are usually ascertained by a reference to a master or referee, notice being published by order of the court for creditors to present their claims (§ 8696). In case of a contested claim, an issue should be ordered to be made up and tried to ascertain and fix the amount due to the creditor from the corporation. While the issue and trial as to such contested claim is a proceeding in the case, it is distinct from the proceedings against the stockholders, the one being to establish the validity of a creditor's claim against the company, and the other to collect a fund from the stockholders for the common benefit of all the creditors.

Herrick v. Wardwell, 58 O. S. 294, 307 (1898).

Burden of proof as to stockholders is on the plaintiff.

Henkle v. Salem Mfg. Co., 39 O. S. 547, 552 (1883).

Judgment. There can be but one final judgment assessing the liability.

Bullock v. Kilgour, 39 O. S. 543 (1883).

Marriott v. Railway, 16 L. D. 135; s. c., 10 C. C. n. s. 573; 20 C. D. 419.

But the court may enter an interlocutory judgment as to a part of the issues, and reserve other issues for future determination, all to be included in the final judgment.

Mason v. Alexander, 44 O. S. 318 (1886).

Marriott v. Railroad Co., 8 C. C. n. s. 495 (1906); s. c., 10 C. C. n. s. 573 (1907).

Younglove v. Lime Co., 49 O. S. 663, 667 (1892).

A final judgment is a bar to other actions against the stockholders who were parties.

Bullock v. Kilgour, 39 O. S. 543 (1883).

Herrick v. Wardwell, 58 O. S. 294, 306 (1898).

Swan v. Mansfield, etc., Co., 3 N. P. 225; 5 L. D. 297.

See Hamilton v. Home Ins. Co., 1 N. P. 329; 3 L. D. 389 (1895).

B. & O. R. Co. v. Smith, 54 O. S. 562 (1896).

Smith v. Newark, etc., R. Co., 8 C. C. 583; 4 C. D. 356 (1894).

Judgment may be rendered against the stockholders before the court for their pro rata share of the indebtedness, taking into account the liability of all solvent stockholders.

Burr v. Bates, 3 C. C. 1, 4; 2 C. D. 1 (1887).

Marriott v. Railway, 16 L. D. 135; s. c., 10 C. C. n. s. 573; 20 C. D. 419.

The equities as between the parties may be adjusted and included in the judgment.

See R. R. Co. v. Smith, 48 O. S. 219 (1891).

Bullock v. Kilgour, 39 O. S. 543, 546 (1883).

Biggio v. Sandheger, 3 O. L. R. 470; 16 L. D. 285 (1905); s. c., 8 N. P. 13.

Interest from the beginning of the suit may be included in the judgment, although it exceeds the liability, when it is apparent at the beginning of the suit that stockholders must be assessed to the full amount of their liability.

Mason v. Alexander, 44 O. S. 318 (1886).

Taylor v. West, etc., Co., 9 Am. L. R. 28 (1880).

Wehrman v. Reakirt, 1 C. S. C. R. 230 (1871).

But if the amount is not so apparent, interest should be charged only from the confirmation of the referee's report.

Berger v. Commercial Bank, 5 N. P. 176; 5 L. D. 277.

Appeal. Where a transferrer and transferee of stock are both parties, and an issue is between the two, an appeal by one carries up the case as to the other.

Harpold v. Stobart, 46 O. S. 397 (1889).

An order of the common pleas court which determines the liability of some but not all of the defendant stockholders is interlocutory and not appealable.

Marriott v. Railroad Co., 8 C. C. n. s. 495 (1906); affirmed, no rep., 76 O. S. 599, 605, 609; s. c., 10 C. C. n. s. 573 (1907).

Section 8693. (Notice to non-resident stockholders.)

When the directors or other officers of a corporation, or the stockholders thereof, are made parties to an action in which a judgment is rendered, if its property is insufficient to discharge its debts, the court shall give notice to non-resident stockholders as provided by law for service upon non-resident defendants in other actions, and then first proceed to compel each stockholder to pay in the amount due and unpaid on the stock held by him, or so much thereof as is necessary to satisfy the debts of the company. (R. S. Sec. 3260c; April 16, 1900, 94 v. 360.)

A proceeding under § 8690 et seq. is a proceeding in which service by publication is sufficient.

Shipman v. Treadwell, 200 N. Y. 472; 93 N. E. 1104 (1911).

Irvine v. Elliott, 203 Fed. 82, 101-102 (D. C. 1913).

Where the stockholders were not all before the court, and it did not appear that those not served with process could not have been served, it was held error to assess the entire corporate indebtedness upon the stockholders served.

Bonevitz v. Van Wert County Bank, 41 O. S. 78 (1884).

In the parent suit, a stockholder was falsely alleged to be a non-resident and was not served with summons, but an assessment was made on him by the court. In a suit against him by the receiver it was held that he was bound by the assessment, but was entitled to make "personal defenses", such as, that he was not a stockholder, or, payment, or set off. Griffin v. Rowley, 3 Ohio App. 481; 23 C. C. n. s. 209 (1914); affirming, 14 N. P. n. s. 625; 23 L. D. 555.

Nonresident stockholders. Nonresident stockholders are represented by the corporation, in the proceeding, and are bound by the finding and decree therein, although not served with process.

Irvine v. Putnam, 167 Fed. 174 (1909).

Irvine v. Baker, 225 Fed. 834 (1915).

Francis v. Hazlett, 192 Mass. 137, 142 (1906).

Childs v. Cleaves, 95 Me. 498; 50 Atl. 114 (1901).

The decree ordering the assessment, while not binding them as a judgment or decree in personam after personal service, yet is conclusive as to the amount of the indebtedness of the corporation, and the necessity of making an assessment to the extent and in the amount specified.

Irvine v. Elliott, 203 Fed. 82, 102 (D. C. 1913).

Irvine v. Blackburn, 198 Fed. 360 (D. C. 1912).

Irvine v. Blackburn, 198 Fed. 360; aff'd, 205 Fed. 217.

Attachment against nonresident stockholders. An action to enforce statutory liability is upon a demand arising upon contract, and attachment will lie against nonresident stockholders.

Dabney v. Pappenheimer Co., 20 C. C. 707; 41 W. L. B. 329 (1888).

Cleveland Gas Company v. Collins, 19 C. C. 247 (1899).

Northern N. B. v. Maumee, etc., Co., 2 N. P. 260; 2 L. D. 67 (C. P. 1894).

Actions against nonresidents in other jurisdictions.

See § 8695.

Application of assets to reduce or reimburse liability.

See Morris v. Collamer, 2 Cleve. L. R. 347 (1878).

Younglove v. Lime Co., 49 O. S. 663 (1892).

Turnbull v. Pomeroy Salt Co., 24 W. L. B. 133 (1890).

Cowles v. Bartell, 3 W. L. M. 41 (1860).

Taylor v. West Liberty Wheel Co., 9 Am. L. R. 28 (1880).

An action to enforce stockholders' liability is not demurrable because brought prior to ascertainment, by the receiver, of the corporate assets.

Umsteatter v. Newark, etc., Co., 4 N. P. n. s. 150; 17 L. D. 30 (C. P. 1906).

Section 8694. (Court to ascertain and adjudge liabilities.)

If its debts remain unsatisfied, the court shall proceed to ascertain the respective liabilities of the directors or other officers and of the stockholders, and to adjudge the amount payable by each, and enforce the judgment, as in other cases. (R. S. 3260d; April 16, 1900, 94 v. 360.)

No action can be maintained against nonresident stockholders in other jurisdictions until a proceeding has been brought in Ohio under § 8694 et seq. and a finding made under this section.

Middletown N. B. v. Railway Co., 197 U. S. 394 (1905).

Bank v. Sayward, 91 Fed. 443 (C. C. A. 1899).

Nimick v. Iron Works, 25 W. Va. 184 (1884).

Clark v. Knowles, 187 Mass. 35 (1904).

Rice v. Hoisery Co., 56 N. H. 114 (1875).

Barnes v. Wheaton, 80 Hun 8 (N. Y. 1894).

Cleveland, etc., Ry. v. Kent, 87 Hun 329 (N. Y. 1895).

Where only a part of the stockholders were before the court, and it did not appear that the remaining stockholders could not have been served, it was held to be error to assess upon those served the whole amount of the corporate indebtedness. Bonewitz v. Bank, 41 O. S. 78 (1884).

Section 8695. (Actions by receiver.) If a receiver is appointed, the court also may authorize and direct him to prosecute such actions in his own name as receiver, in other jurisdictions as become necessary to collect the amount found due from an officer or stockholder. (R. S. Sec. 3260d; April 16, 1900, 94 v. 360.)

A receiver, directed to prosecute actions under this section, is in the position of a quasi assignee representing all of the creditors, and may maintain an action in a federal court in another state, and his own citizenship, not that of the creditors, affords the test of jurisdiction.

Irvine v. Bankard, 181 Fed. 206 (C. C. 1910); aff'd, no rep., 184 Fed. 986.

Irvine v. Putnam, 190 Fed. 321 (C. C. 1911).

Bernheimer v. Converse, 206 U. S. 516 (1907).

Converse v. Hamilton, 224 U. S. 243 (1912).

Irvine v. Elliott, 203 Fed. 82 (D. C. 1913).

A nonresident stockholder is bound by the constitution and laws of the state, under which the corporation is organized, and an assessment on stockholders, properly made by a court in the home state of such corporation, may be enforced by the receiver of the corporation in the courts of other states.

Appeal of Aultman, 98 Pa. St. 505 (1881).

Cushing v. Perot, 175 Pa. St. 66 (1896).

Howorth v. Lombard, 175 Mass. 570; 49 L. R. A. 301 (1900).

Bank v. Baker, 176 Mass. 294 (1900).

Post v. Toledo, etc., Railroad, 144 Mass. 341 (1887).

Childs v. Cleaves, 95 Me. 498; 50 Atl. 714 (1901).

Howorth v. Angle, 162 N. Y. 179; 47 L. R. A. 725.

Shipman v. Treadwell, 200 N. Y. 472; 93 N. E. 1104 (1911).

Nonresident stockholders are represented by the corporation in the proceeding under § 8690 et seq., and are bound by the finding and decree therein although not served with process.

Irvine v. Putnam, 167 Fed. 174 (1909).

Spargo v. Converse, 191 Fed. 823 (C. C. A. 1911).

Francis v. Hazlett, 192 Mass. 137, 142 (1906).

Childs v. Cleaves, 95 Me. 498; 50 Atl. 714 (1901).

Suit against a nonresident can not be founded on the finding and order of assessment as on a personal judgment, where the nonresident was not served with process in the proceeding under § 8690 et seq.

Shipman v. Willard, 194 Fed. 575 (1912).

But the decree is conclusive as to the amount of the indebtedness of the corporation and the necessity of making an assessment to the extent and in the amount specified.

Irvine v. Elliott, 203 Fed. 82, 102 (D. C. 1913).

Irvine v. Blackburn, 198 Fed. 360 (D. C. 1912).

When not personally served in the original proceeding, a nonresident defendant may show in defense (1) that he was not a stockholder; (2) a set off or (3) any other defense personal to himself.

Selig v. Hamilton, 234 U. S. 652 (1914); Mottinger v. Hendricks, 208 Fed. 824 (1913); Griffin v. Rowley, 3 Ohio App. 481; 23 C. C. n. s. 209 (1914).

An action against nonresident stockholders can not be brought in other states or federal courts until a proceeding has been brought in Ohio under § 8690 et seq.

Middletown N. B. v. Ry. Co., 197 U. S. 394 (1905).

Bank v. Sayward, 91 Fed. 443 (C. C. A. 1899).

Nimick v. Iron Works, 25 W. Va. 184 (1884).

Clark v. Knowles, 187 Mass. 35 (1904).

Rice v. Hoisery Co., 56 N. H. 114 (1875).

Barnes v. Wheaton, 80 Hun 8 (N. Y. 1894).

Cleve., etc., Ry. v. Kent, 87 Hun 329 (N. Y. 1895).

Limitation of actions against nonresidents. The limitation does not begin to run against an action brought in another jurisdiction against a nonresident stockholder, until a decree is entered making an assessment and appointing a receiver for its collection.

Irvine v. Putnam, 167 Fed. 174 (C. C. 1909).

Irvine v. Putnam, 190 Fed. 321 (C. C. 1911).

Irvine v. Bankard, 181 Fed. 206 (C. C. 1910); aff'd, no rep., 184 Fed. 986.

Goss v. Carter, 156 Fed. 746 (C. C. A. 1907).

Irvine v. Elliott, 203 Fed. 82, 108-110 (D. C. 1913).

Irvine v. Blackburn, 198 Fed. 360 (D. C. 1912).

Where an appeal is taken from the decree, the running of the statute is suspended during its pendency, even though the appeal is taken by creditors.

Irvine v. Bankard, 181 Fed. 206 (C. C. 1910); aff'd, no rep., 184 Fed. 986.

A receiver is not estopped from asserting that the pendency of an appeal from the decree suspended the running of the limitation because during such pendency he settled and received payment of claims against other stockholders.

Irvine v. Bankard, 181 Fed. 206 (1910).

Section 8696. (Notice to creditors.) If an action is brought against a corporation, its directors or other superintending officers, or stockholders, according to the foregoing provisions, when it appears proper, the court may order notice to be published, in such manner as it directs, requiring all the creditors of such corporation to exhibit their claims and become parties to the action, within a reasonable time, not less than six months from the first publication of such order, and, in default thereof, to be precluded from any benefit of the judgment rendered therein, and from any distribution made under such judgment. (R. S. Sec. 3260e; April 16, 1900, 94 v. 360.)

This section does not deprive the court of discretionary power to permit creditors to present claims after expiration of the time specified in the order, if no prejudice results.

Marriott v. Railway Co., 16 L. D. 135 (C. P. 1905).

One creditor may object to the allowance of improper claims of other creditors.

Hardman v. Cincinnati, etc., Co., 15 W. L. B. 164 (1887).

Right of creditors to reinstate action dismissed by plaintiff. An action to enforce statutory liability is for the benefit of all creditors, and where such action is dismissed by the plaintiff, other creditors may have the same reinstated.

Johnson v. Carpenter, 21 C. C. 168; 11 C. D. 457 (1900); aff'd, 66 O. S. 638.

See Dreidame v. Germania Inv. Co., 8 N. P. 405 (1901).

Section 8697. (Distribution of assets.) Upon a final judgment in such an action against an insolvent corporation, the court shall cause a just distribution of its property and assets, or the proceeds thereof, to be made among its creditors. (R. S. Sec. 3260f; April 16, 1900, 94 v. 360.)

Attorney's fees. The court may award a reasonable attorney's fee, out of the fund realized, to the plaintiff's attorney, although some creditors have employed other attorneys.

Mason v. Alexander, 44 O. S. 318, 337 (1886).

Hessler v. Cleveland, etc., Co., 61 O. S. 620 (1899).

But such attorney's fee can not be taxed as a part of the costs.

Rider v. Fritchey, 49 O. S. 285, 296 (1892).

Marriott v. Railway, 16 L. D. 135 (C. P. 1905); s. c., 10 C. C. n. s. 573; 20 C. D. 419.

Power of court to make an order in the parent suit fixing fees in receiver's subsequent suits. Bahmann v. Druggan, 26 C. C. n. s. 303.

Equitable setoff. Where an insolvent stockholder is also a creditor, his distributive share, as a creditor, may be set off against his liability.

King v. Armstrong, 50 O. S. 222 (1893).

Barber v. Leader, etc., Co., 7 C. C. 411; 4 C. D. 658 (1893).

Niles v. Olszak, 87 O. S. 229 (1912).

Kiskadden v. Steinle, 203 Fed. 375 (C. C. A. 1913).

Application of proceeds. A creditor having both a secured and an unsecured claim can not apply his dividend on the unsecured claim. It should be applied pro rata.

Nat. Bank v. Carn, 13 C. D. 447, 457; 3 C. C. n. s. 428, 439 (1902).

CHANGES IN CAPITAL STOCK.

Section 8698. (Increase of capital stock; procedure.) The authorized capital stock of a corporation having capital stock, consisting of both common and preferred stock or common stock only, may be increased, by increasing both common and preferred or common only, prior to organization, if its authorized capital stock is fully subscribed for and an installment of ten per cent. on each share of stock has been paid thereon, by all of the original subscribers consenting in writing to such increase, and authorizing the incorporators or a majority of them to file a certificate setting forth such action and the amount of the increase, showing the proportion of common and preferred stock when both are increased, with the secretary of state. The corporation shall not issue or dispose of such increased stock until such certificate is filed.

After the organization of the corporation, if its authorized common stock is fully subscribed for and an installment of ten per cent. on each share of stock has been paid thereon, the common stock may be increased by a vote of the holders of a majority of all its stock, at a stockholders meeting called by a majority of its directors, at least thirty days' notice of the time, place and object of which has been given by publication in some newspaper of general circulation and by letter addressed to each stockholder whose place of residence is known.

After the organization of the corporation, the authorized capital stock may be increased at any time by issuing preferred stock, within the limits permitted by law, upon the written consent of three-fourths of all of its stockholders, representing at least three-fourths of both its subscribed and issued capital stock.

After the organization of the corporation, if its authorized common stock is fully subscribed for and an installment of ten per cent. on each share of such stock has been paid thereon, the authorized capital stock may also be increased by both common and preferred stock or common only, at a meeting of the stockholders at which all are present in person or by proxy and waive in writing notice of such meeting and also agree in writing to such increase, naming the amount thereof and the proportion of common and preferred stock when both are increased. In increasing the authorized capital stock at any time by both common and preferred, the total authorized preferred stock of such corporation after such increase shall not exceed the limits provided by law.

Whenever after organization a corporation increases its capital stock, the president and secretary thereof shall file a certificate setting forth the action taken and the amount of the increase, showing the proportion of common and preferred stock when both are increased, with the secretary of state, and no corporation shall issue or dispose of such increased stock until such certificate is filed. If the original article of incorporation do not provide for preferred stock a certificate of increase providing for preferred stock shall not be filed unless accompanied by a certificate of amendment to the articles of incorporation providing for the preferred stock, which shall be filed and recorded in the manner provided by law.

For the purposes of this section restrictions or limitations on the voting power of any of the authorized capital stock shall not apply; and no increase of the authorized capital stock shall be made by increasing the par value of the shares. (107 v. 414; R. S. Sec. 3262; 69 v. 24; 70 v. 37; R. S. 1880; 80 v. 23; 83 v. 134; 90 v. 141.)

The notice need not be published for thirty consecutive days. One notice, published at least thirty days before the day set, is sufficient.

Muskingum, etc., Co. v. Ward, 13 Ohio 120 (1844).

Craig v. Fox, 16 Ohio 563, 566 (1847).

Newport News v. Potter, 122 Fed. 321, 332 (C. C. A. 1903).

The par value of shares can not be increased under this section. Rep. Atty. Gen. 1911-1912, p. 99; Opins. Atty. Gen. 1917, p. 76.

But may be increased or reduced under § 8719. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1919, p. 1564; 17 O. L. R. 430; 11 Dept. Rep. 580. Contra, Rep. Atty. Gen. 1911-1912, pp. 99, 126.

Authorized stock must be fully subscribed. The authorized stock must be fully subscribed and ten percent paid on each subscription. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1915, p. 1144.

Except where the increase is by preferred stock alone. State v. Urschel, 104 O. S. 172 (1922); Opins. Atty. Gen. 1915, p. 1646; Rep. Atty. Gen. 1914, p. 305.

Before the amendment of 107 v. 414 the attorney general ruled that where the "original" capital stock had been fully subscribed and the required payment made, a corporation could increase its capital stock, although stock authorized by a previous increase had not been fully subscribed. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1916, p. 1392.

It should be noted that the amendment of 107 v. 414 requires the "authorized" capital stock to be fully subscribed, instead of the "original" capital stock.

When amendment of articles necessary on increase by preferred stock. When the original articles of incorporation did not authorize the issue of preferred stock, this section expressly requires that the articles be amended so as to show the preferences, etc. Where the original articles did provide for preferred stock, no amendment is necessary if the increased stock is to have the same preferences. But where the increased preferred stock is to have a different preferred dividend, or other preferences or restrictions, an amendment is necessary. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1918, p. 33.

Before §§ 8698 and 8699 were amended in 1917 (107 v. 414) it was unnecessary to amend the articles of incorporation. State v. Urschel, 104 O. S. 172 (1922). Compare Opins. Atty. Gen. 1917, p. 108; Rep. Atty. Gen. 1911-1912, p. 102.

Increase by preferred stock. Where the increase is by preferred stock alone, the authorized capital stock need not be fully subscribed. State v. Urschel, 104 O. S. 172 (1922); Opins. Atty. Gen. 1915, p. 1646; Rep. Atty. Gen. 1914, p. 305.

Conversion of unissued common into preferred stock. Unissued common stock may be converted into preferred stock by amendment to the articles of incorporation, without increasing the capital stock. § 8719; In re Mansfield Co., 3 Ohio App. 253; 21 C. C. n. s. 95 (1914); Rep. Atty. Gen. 1904-1905, p. 81.

Franchise tax on increased stock. Where its capital stock is increased within six months prior to the time for filing the annual franchise tax report under § 5495, a corporation is required to pay the tax on the increased stock which has been subscribed or issued or outstanding. § 5519; Opins. Atty. Gen. 1918, p. 227; Opins. Atty. Gen. 1916, p. 1606; 4 Dept. Rep. 985. Contra, 5 Opins. Atty. Gen. 865 (1903).

Section cited.

Snyder v. Chamber of Commerce, 53 O. S. 1 (1895).

Miller v. Ratterman, 47 O. S. 157 (1890).

Mannington v. Railway Co., 9 N. P. n. s. 684 (1910).

Increases under former acts.

See Turnbull v. Pomeroy Salt Co., 24 W. L. B. 133 (1890).

Clarke v. Thomas, 34 O. S. 46 (1877) (Mining Company).

Under the former law the original capital stock was required to be full paid before it could be increased.

Peter v. Union Mfg. Co., 56 O. S. 181, 200 (1897).

Section 8699. (Right of stockholders to subscribe for new issues or increase.) The holders of record of the common stock of a corporation shall have the right, when and as issued, to subscribe for the increase stock or for new issues of stock of such corporation in such proportion as their respective common shares bear to the whole number of common shares already issued, at such price as the board of directors may fix. If any holder fails to avail himself of such right within the time fixed by the board of directors, the stock so unsubscribed may be disposed of in such manner as the board of directors prescribe. The right of any stockholders to subscribe for such stock shall not apply to any authorized and unissued stock appropriated by the board of directors, either for the purpose of retiring preferred stock or for any other purpose. (March 31, 1917, 107 v. 415; R. S. Sec. 3263; May 12, 1902, 95 v. 624; March 6, 1874, 71 v. 19, §§ 1, 2.)

Decisions prior to amendment of 107 v. 415. Each stockholder is entitled to subscribe for and take new stock in proportion to his holdings of the old stock.

State v. Franklin Bank, 10 Ohio 91 (1840).

Sutton v. Mfg. Co., 17 N. P. n. s. 497.

See 7 O. L. R. 345, article by Frank M. Coppock.

But this right may be waived by a stockholder. Where a stockholder fails to subscribe within a reasonable time, after opportunity is given him, he is deemed to have waived his right and the directors may dispose of the stock to others.

Hall v. Hall, 11 C. C. n. s. 335; 20 C. D. 826 (1908); aff'd, 79 O. S. 456.

7 O. L. R. 369 ib.

The right to take new stock may be sold by a stockholder.

See 7 O. L. R. 373 ib.

State v. Franklin Bank, 10 Ohio 91 (1840).

It is doubtful whether existing stockholders can be required to pay more than par for the new stock.

See 7 O. L. R. 365 ib.

But new stock, not taken by existing stockholders, may be sold to the public at a premium.

See State v. Franklin Bank, 10 Ohio 91, 99, 100 (1840).

Subscriptions to increased stock. Rights and liabilities of subscribers generally, see notes to §§ 8630 and 8674.

See also Clarke v. Thomas, 34 O. S. 46 (1877).

Tillinghast v. Bailey, 86 Fed. 46 (C. C. 1897).

Latham v. Union, etc., Ins. Co., 1 W. L. B. 127 (Dist. Ct. 1876).

Necessity for. There are no express statutory provisions relating to subscriptions to increased stock. The opinion has been expressed that, before corporate action is taken on the faith of the increase, at least ten percent of the entire capital stock, including the increase, must be subscribed for: but that subscriptions to the original stock may be counted.

Rep. Atty. Gen. 1906-1907, p. 52.

No certificate of subscription to the increased stock need be filed with the secretary of state.

Rep. Atty. Gen. 1911-1912, p. 66.

Liability for acting as if increased stock had been subscribed. Where an increase of stock was authorized by the stockholders, a certificate of increase filed with the secretary of state, a bond issue put forth on the faith of such increase, and no effort was made to sell the new stock, it was held that an intention was thereby shown on the part of existing stockholders to take new stock in proportion to their original holdings, and a judgment was rendered against the stockholders accordingly.

Kreisser v. Ashtabula, etc., Co., 2 C. C. n. s. 597; 14 C. D. 313 (1901).

Unissued original stock is not increased stock. The original stock which remains unsubscribed after the first election of directors is not increased stock.

Sims v. Street Railroad Co., 37 O. S. 556, 564 (1882).

Painesville N. B. v. King Varnish Co., 8 C. C. 563; 4 C. D. 511 (1894); reversed, in part, 56 O. S. 744.

Stock dividends.

See notes to § 8724.

Section 8700. (Reduction of capital stock.) With the written consent of the persons in whose names a majority of the shares of the capital stock thereof stands on its books, the board of directors of such a corporation may reduce the amount of its capital stock and the nominal value of all the shares thereof, and issue certificates therefor. The rights of creditors shall not be affected thereby; and a certificate of such action shall be filed with the secretary of state. (R. S. Sec. 3264; May 11, 1886, 83 v. 134; R. S. 1880; April 3, 1868, 65 v. 51, §§ 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 [S. & C. 309; S. & S. 242]; May 1, 1852, 50 v. 274, § 74.)

Preferred stock, when issued subject to redemption, may be redeemed and retired without filing a certificate. But common stock can be reduced only in the manner authorized by this section.

Rep. Atty. Gen. 1906-1907, p. 46.

When preferred stock is cancelled after redemption, a certificate of cancellation must be filed. § 8669.

The redemption of preferred stock, when authorized by statute, is not a reduction of the capital stock by a purchase of its own shares.

Mannington v. H. V. Ry. Co., 8 O. L. R. 451; 183 Fed. 133; 16 O. F. D. 552 (C. C. Ohio 1910); s. c., 9 N. P. n. s. 641; 20 L. D. 468 (C. P. 1910).

It is not a reduction of its capital stock for a corporation to acquire shares of its own stock, by the rescission of an exchange of stock for property or to secure a debt, although the certificates are marked "cancelled."

Morgan v. Lewis, 46 O. S. 1, 7 (1888).

See note to § 8627. Power of corporation to acquire its own stock. Redemption of preferred stock. See note to § 8669.

A corporation can not reduce its capital stock by a purchase of stock from stockholders.

Rep. Atty. Gen. 1906-1907, p. 58.

A regulation providing for the expulsion of stockholders, and for payment, by the corporation to expelled stockholders, of the par value of their stock, is invalid as an unauthorized reduction of capital stock. Paxson v. Cleveland, etc., Co., 17 C. C. n. s. 55 (1909).

Legal reserve life and fire insurance companies can not reduce their capital stock under this section.

Rep. Atty. Gen. 1911-1912, pp. 80, 110.

The number of shares may be decreased. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1916, p. 357; Contra, Rep. Atty. Gen. 1911-1912, p. 99; Rep. Atty. Gen. 1914, p. 253.

The number of shares may be decreased by amendment of the articles under § 8719.

The par value of shares may be reduced under this section. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1919, p. 1564.

For franchise tax purposes a reduction of capital stock is not effective until the certificate of reduction is filed. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1919, p. 1585; Contra, Opins. Atty. Gen. 1916, p. 1912.

REGULATIONS AND BY-LAWS.

Section 8701. (Corporation may adopt regulations.)

Every corporation may adopt a code of regulations for its government, consistent with the constitution and laws of the state. (R. S. Sec. 3249; R. S. 1880.)

Regulations of banks, § 710-50.

Regulations and by-laws distinguished. Regulations constitute the fundamental law of a corporation subordinate to the constitution and laws of the state and must be adopted by the stockholders or members. By-laws are adopted by directors or trustees for their own government.

State v. Kreutzer, 100 O. S. 246 (1919).

State v. Burial Assn., 8 C. C. n. s. 233, 248; 18 C. D. 397 (1906); dismissed by supreme court for want of jurisdiction, 4 O. L. R. 708.

Chevaliers v. Shearer, 6 C. C. n. s. 587; 17 C. D. 509 (1905).

Corporations not required to adopt regulations. This section is directory merely and not mandatory.

Proprietors v. Wade, 7 W. L. J. 95 (Com. Ct. Cincinnati 1849).

Regulations must be reasonable and consistent with laws of Ohio.

Regulations, to be valid, must be reasonable.

Hagerman v. Ohio, etc., Assn., 25 O. S. 186, 202 (1874).

Forest City, etc., Assn. v. Gallagher, 25 O. S. 208, 216 (1874).

They must be consistent with the statutes of the state.

Nicholson v. Franklin Brewing Co., 82 O. S. 94, 110 (1910).

And with the constitution.

State v. Cincinnati, 23 O. S. 445 (1872).

The validity of a regulation or by-law is a question of law for the court.

Holmes v. Pickering, 3 W. L. J. 222 (1845).

Knowledge of regulations imputed to stockholders. A stockholder is chargeable with knowledge of the regulations of the corporation.

Nicholson v. Franklin Brewing Co., 82 O. S. 94, 109 (1910).

Kroger Co. v. Butchers, etc., Assn., 8 N. P. n. s. 222; 20 L. D. 33 (C. P. 1909).

Where an officer of a corporation, which held stock in another corporation, was familiar with the business methods of such other corporation operating under one of its regulations, the stockholder corporation is chargeable with actual knowledge of the regulation.

Kroger Co. v. Butchers, etc., Assn., 8 N. P. n. s. 222; 20 L. D. 33 (C. P. 1909).

Estoppel to deny regulations. A member of a corporation not for profit who acquires membership under a provision of the regulations is estopped from claiming that the regulations were not legally adopted.

Cheney v. Ketcham, 5 N. P. 139; 7 L. D. 183 (C. P. 1897).

See State v. Cincinnati, etc., Exch., 4 N. P. 244; 6 L. D. 363 (1897).

Construction of regulations and by-laws. Regulations and by-laws are governed by the rules of construction which apply to statutes.

Burke v. Home Bldg. Assn., 7 W. L. B. 114 (Dist. Ct. 1882).

Practical construction by stockholders and officers will be regarded.

Kroger Co. v. Butchers, etc., Assn., 8 N. P. n. s. 222; 20 L. D. 33 (C. P. 1909).

Regulations as contracts. Regulations made pursuant to § 8704 and not in contravention of other statutory provisions have all the force of contracts between the corporation and its members and between the members themselves. State ex rel. v. Shaw, 103 O. S. 660 (1921). See also

Nicholson v. Franklin Brewing Co., 82 O. S. 94, 110-111 (1910).

Kroger Co. v. Butchers, etc., Assn., 8 N. P. n. s. 222; 20 L. D. 33 (C. P. 1909).

Stafford v. Produce Exch. Bkg. Co., 61 O. S. 160 (1899); aff'g, 16 C. C. 50; 8 C. D. 483.

Compare Cronin v. Potters Co-op. Co., 29 W. L. B. 52 (C. P. 1892).

Section 8702. (Trustees or directors may adopt by-laws.)

The trustees or directors of a corporation may adopt a code of by-laws for their government, consistent with the regulations of the corporation, and the constitution and laws of the state, and change it at pleasure. (R. S. Sec. 3250; R. S. 1880.)

By-laws distinguished from regulations. By-laws are adopted by directors or trustees for their own government. Regulations must be adopted by the stockholders or members.

State v. Kreutzer, 100 O. S. 246 (1919).

State v. Burial Assn., 8 C. C. n. s. 233, 248; 18 C. D. 397 (1906); dismissed by supreme court for want of jurisdiction, 4 O. L. R. 708.

By-laws relating to the business of the corporation are within the powers of directors.

Chevaliers v. Shearer, 6 C. C. n. s. 587; 17 C. D. 509 (1905).

Adoption. The adoption of by-laws is sufficiently proved by showing that they appear upon the corporate records and have been uniformly acted upon and enforced as the by-laws of the corporation. The corporation may enforce rights under such by-laws, although the corporate records fail to show that they were adopted by a formal vote of its directors.

Hagerman v. Association, 25 O. S. 186, 204 (1874).

By-laws may be adopted by custom, where such custom is a uniform rule of action and is acquiesced in by all stockholders.

Stafford v. Produce Exchange Bkg. Co., 16 C. C. 50, 55; 8 C. D. 483 (1898); aff'd, 61 O. S. 160.

Regulating transfers of stock. A corporation has power to regulate the mode and manner of transferring the title of stock.

National Bank v. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co., 21 O. S. 221, 232 (1871).

Railroad Co. v. Robbins, 35 O. S. 483 (1880).

Tomb v. Feleh, 40 W. L. B. 186 (Sup. Ct. without opinion).

Stafford v. Produce Exchange Banking Co., 61 O. S. 160 (1899); affirming, 16 C. C. 50; 8 C. D. 483.

See note to § 8704.

But restrictions on transfers must be stated upon the certificates.

See § 8673-15.

A by-law prohibiting the transfer of stock which has been paid with notes and mortgages is unreasonable and will not justify a refusal to transfer.

Andes Ins. Co. v. Waters, 1 W. L. B. 172 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1876).

Special act requiring by-laws of a hospital to be approved by city council. A special act requiring the rules and regulations of the trustees of a hospital to be approved by the city council is unconstitutional as a special law assuming to confer corporate power.

State v. Cincinnati, 23 O. S. 445 (1872).

Section 8703. (How regulations adopted or changed.)

Regulations may be adopted or changed by the assent thereto, in writing, of two-thirds of the stockholders, or, if there is no capital stock, of the members, or by a majority of the stockholders or members, at a meeting held for that purpose, notice of which has been given by the acting president personally to each member or stockholder, or by publication in some newspaper of general circulation in the county in which the corporation is located, or in the counties through which its improvement does or will pass. (R. S. Sec. 3251; R. S. 1880.)

"Two-thirds of the stockholders" means "two-thirds of the stockholders in interest" and not two-thirds in number, except in the case of corporations chartered under G. C. § 8638.

Toledo T. L. & P. Co. v. Smith, 205 Fed. 643 (D. C. 1913).

Directors or trustees can not adopt or amend regulations. Regulations must be adopted by the stockholders, or, where the corporation is not for profit, by the members. Directors or trustees have no power to adopt or amend regulations.

State v. Kreutzer, 100 O. S. 246 (1919).

State v. Burial Assn., 8 C. C. n. s. 233, 248; 18 C. D. 397 (1906); dismissed by supreme court for want of jurisdiction, 4 O. L. R. 708.

Farmers, etc., Co. v. Bachman, 39 W. L. B. 324 (Sup. Ct. without report 1898).

Amendments. Regulations may be amended by a majority of stockholders or members, although such regulations were originally adopted unanimously and signed by all stockholders or members.

Wangerien v. Aspell, 47 O. S. 250, 260 (1890).

Cronin v. Potters Co-op. Co., 29 W. L. B. 52 (C. P. 1892).

But a vested right acquired under a regulation or by-law can not be affected by its repeal or amendment.

Windhorst v. Germania Bldg. Assn., 7 W. L. B. 29 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1882).

A written assent to an amendment to corporate regulations, signed by the attorney in fact for another corporation which holds a majority of the stock of the corporation, and filed with the secretary, is a substantial compliance with § 8703. Toledo Co. v. Smith, 205 Fed. 643, 659 (D. C. 1913).

An amendment shortening the time of notice of special stockholders' meetings from ten to five days is valid. Toledo Co. v. Smith, 205 Fed. 643, 660 (D. C. 1913).

A corporation may provide in its regulations that they shall not be amended without unanimous consent of all the stockholders or members. Such a provision is valid. No amendment is binding unless consent of the stipulated number is given.

Wangerien v. Aspell, 47 O. S. 250, 260 (1890).

McKeown v. Irish Bldg. Assn., 5 W. L. B. 52 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1880).

Where the regulations contain no provision as to their amendment, they are amendable under § 8703.

Wangerien v. Aspell, 47 O. S. 250, 260 (1890).

Proof of adoption. The adoption of by-laws is sufficiently proved by showing that they appear upon the records of the corporation, and have been uniformly acted upon and enforced as the by-laws of the corporation, although the corporate records do not show, and it is not otherwise proved, that they were adopted by a formal vote.

Hagerman v. Association, 25 O. S. 186, 204 (1874).

Stafford v. Banking Co., 16 C. C. 50, 55; 8 C. D. 483 (1898); aff'd, 61 O. S. 160.

Notice of stockholders' meeting. It has been held that this section requires notice to be served personally and that notice given to stockholders by mail is insufficient.

Cheney v. Ketcham, 5 N. P. 139, 142; 7 L. D. 183 (C. P. 1897).

Section 8704. (What may be provided for by regulations.) When no other provision is specially made in this title, a corporation by its regulations may provide—

1. The time, place and manner of calling and conducting its meetings.

2. The number of stockholders or members constituting a quorum.

3. The time of the annual election for trustees or directors, and the manner of giving notice thereof.

4. The duties and compensation of officers.

5. The manner of election, or appointment, and the tenure of office, of all officers other than the trustees or directors.

6. The qualifications of members, when the corporation is not for profit. (R. S. Sec. 3252; R. S. 1880.)

I. Place of meeting, p. 1144.

II. Quorum of stockholders or members; p. 1144.

III. Time and notice of annual election, p. 1145.

IV. Duties and compensation of officers, p. 1145.

V. Election of officers and tenure of office, p. 1145.

VI. Qualification of members, p. 1146.

VII. Regulations on other subjects, p. 1146.

A. Transfer of stock, p. 1146.

B. Number of trustees or directors, p. 1147.

C. Limiting corporate existence, p. 1147.

D. Prohibiting recourse to courts, p. 1147.

E. Change of place of business, p. 1147.

F. Removal of directors, officers or employees, p. 1147.

G. Expulsion of stockholders, p. 1147.

VIII. Regulations as contracts, p. 1147.

I. PLACE OF MEETING.

A regulation specifying the place for holding meetings is valid. State v. Shaw, 103 O. S. 660 (1921).

Manner of calling meetings. Where officers refuse to call a stockholders' meeting, pursuant to the regulations, the remedy of a stockholder is injunction, not mandamus.

State v. Unida, etc., Co., 13 C. C. n. s. 100; 22 C. D. 54 (1910).

See note to § 8647.

II. QUORUM OF STOCKHOLDERS OR MEMBERS.

Where no regulation has been adopted on the subject, the stockholders present at a meeting, in person or by proxy, may elect officers and transact business, although a majority of the stock is not represented.

Lutterby v. Herancourt Brewing Co., 12 L. D. 67, 72, 73 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1901).

See Kalb v. American N. B., 21 C. C. 1, 7; 11 C. D. 437 (1900); aff'd, 65 O. S. 566.

But where the regulations prescribe the number necessary to constitute a quorum, a less number can not hold a legal meeting or take any valid action except to adjourn. State v. Shaw, 103 O. S. 660, 668 (1921).

The "number of stockholders constituting a quorum" means number of shares of stock represented, not the number of stockholders. Toledo Co. v. Smith, 205 Fed. 643, 658 (D. C. 1913).

III. TIME AND NOTICE OF ANNUAL ELECTION.

Where the regulations provide for an "annual meeting" at a time other than the first Monday in January, as provided in § 8647, the time for the "annual election" is thereby changed and the election should be held at such annual meeting.

State v. Burial Assn., 8 C. C. n. s. 233, 250; 18 C. D. 397 (1906); dismissed by supreme court for want of jurisdiction, 4 O. L. R. 708.

But regulations which have not been properly adopted are not effective to change the time of the annual election of directors from the first Monday in January.

State v. Burial Assn., 8 C. C. n. s. 233, 249; 18 C. D. 397 (1906).

A provision for five days' notice by mail of special stockholders' meetings, is valid. Toledo Co. v. Smith, 205 Fed. 643, 660 (D. C. 1913).

The term of office of a director can not be shortened by an amendment to the regulations, to go into immediate effect, advancing the date of the annual election.

Toledo Co. v. Smith, 205 Fed. 643 (1913).

No notice need be given to stockholders of the annual meeting, where its place, day and hour are specified in the regulations, and no requirement as to other notice is provided therein. State v. Kreutzer, 100 O. S. 246 (1919).

Directors have no power to postpone an annual meeting, the time and place of which are specified in the regulations. State v. Kreutzer, 100 O. S. 246 (1919).

IV. DUTIES AND COMPENSATION OF OFFICERS.

See also note to § 8664. Executive officers and note to § 8660. Delegation of duties to executive committee.

A corporation may by its regulations so define the duties of its officers as to make them alter ego within the assigned limits.

Bradford Belting Co. v. Gibson, 68 O. S. 442, 449 (1903).

Dickason v. Grafton, etc., Co., 6 C. C. n. s. 333; 17 C. D. 357; aff'd, 76 O. S. 612.

See Morris v. Griffith, 34 W. L. B. 191 (U. S. C. C. 1895).

The regulations may lawfully provide that directors shall hold a meeting immediately after every regular or special meeting of stockholders. Toledo Co. v. Smith, 205 Fed. 643, 660 (D. C. 1913).

Where the regulations authorize the president to make contracts, he may bind the corporation by ratification of a contract entered into by the secretary, without authority. Grabler Mfg. Co. v. Leahy, 18 C. C. n. s. 17 (1910); aff'd, no rep. 85 O. S. 442.

Where regulations authorize the directors to fix the compensation of the president and other executive officers, the action of directors in voting on their own salaries is not void in the absence of fraud or unfair dealing toward other stockholders. Kirn v. Pbg. Co., 12 Ohio App. 55; 31 O. C. A. 47 (1919); motion to certify record overruled, 17 O. L. R. 392.

Regulations of corporation chartered by special act under former constitution (treasurer).

See Portage, etc., Co. v. Wetmore, 17 Ohio 330 (1848).

V. ELECTION OF OFFICERS AND TENURE OF OFFICE.

A regulation requiring proxies to be deposited with the secretary at least one day before the meeting is said to be valid. Rep. Atty. Gen. 1913, p. 798.

The president must be elected by the directors. His election can not be otherwise provided for in the regulations.

§ 8664.

Walsenberg Water Co. v. Moore, 5 Colo. App. 144; 38 Pac. 60.

The stockholders may determine the number of directors. §§ 8635, 8665. This is frequently done by a provision in the regulations. But the tenure of office of a director can not be shortened by a decrease in the number under § 8665.

Lutterby v. Herancourt Brewing Co., 12 L. D. 67, 76 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1901).

The manner of filling vacancies in the board of directors may be provided for in the regulations. G. C. § 8662; Toledo Co. v. Smith, 205 Fed. 643, 647 (D. C. 1913).

Neither the incorporators of a corporation not for profit nor the trustees first elected are authorized to adopt a regulation or by-law providing that they shall hold office for life, and in case of vacancy to fill the same by appointment.

State v. Standard Life Assn., 38 O. S. 281 (1882).

VI. QUALIFICATION OF MEMBERS.

A corporation not for profit may provide in its regulations for the expulsion of members, and may delegate the power to try and expel to a committee or board.

Cheney v. Ketcham, 5 N. P. 139; 7 L. D. 183 (C. P. 1897).

Blumenthal v. Chamber of Commerce, 9 W. L. B. 76 (Super. Ct. Cin.); affirming 7 W. L. B. 327.

See note to § 8653.

A corporation for profit, however, can not legally provide in its regulations that only persons engaged in a particular business shall be eligible to hold stock, nor can it provide for the expulsion of ineligible stockholders. Paxson v. Cleveland Co., 17 C. C. n. s. 55 (1909).

VII. REGULATIONS ON OTHER SUBJECTS.

Where statutes under which a corporation is formed authorize by-laws upon specifically named subjects there is an implied denial of authority to make by-laws upon subjects not named.

But restrictive regulations upon the transfer of stock have been sustained as contracts.

Nicholson v. Franklin Brewing Co., 82 O. S. 94, 110, 111 (1911).

(a) Transfers of stock. Specific authority is not given in § 8704 to adopt regulations as to the transfer of stock. Such regulations have been sustained as contracts in some states, although they may have been technically invalid as regulations.

Nicholson v. Franklin Brewing Co., 82 O. S. 94, 110-111 (1910).

See Stafford v. Produce Exchange Brewing Co., 61 O. S. 160 (1899); affirming 16 C. C. 50; 8 C. D. 483.

Rep. Atty. Gen. 1911-1912, p. 88.

Restrictions on transfers of stock must be stated in the certificates of stock.

§ 8673-15.

Power to regulate transfers of stock is not power to prohibit transfers.

Nicholson v. Franklin Brewing Co., 82 O. S. 94, 112 (1910).

Under a Delaware statute authorizing corporations to adopt by-laws regulating the issuance and transference of stock, a by-law was held valid which required a stockholder who desired to sell his stock, before doing so, to notify the directors and give them thirty days in which to sell the stock to certain designated classes of persons whose occupations might render them valuable in extending the corporate business.

Nicholson v. Franklin Brewing Co., 82 O. S. 94 (1910).

A regulation or by-law prohibiting transfers of stock to persons not already stockholders, until the board of directors had been notified and given a reasonable time in which to purchase the stock was held to be invalid. Pattison Supply Co. v. Harvey, 16 C. C. n. s. 42 (1910); aff'd, no rep. 82 O. S. 390.

(b) Number of trustees or directors. The number of trustees of a corporation not for profit may be fixed in the regulations. Rep. Atty. Gen. 1913, p. 89; G. C. § 8644.

(c) Limiting corporate existence. A regulation unanimously adopted, in writing, by the stockholders limiting the life of the corporation to ten years may be amended by a majority of the stockholders. And where the majority continued business beyond such period, without expressly amending such regulation, the court refused to decree a dissolution at the suit of one stockholder.

Cronin v. Potters Co-op. Co., 29 W. L. B. 52 (C. P. 1892).

(d) Prohibiting recourse to courts. A regulation of a corporation not for profit which prohibits a member from resort to courts to assert a right, but requiring him to submit to the tribunals of the corporation, is void.

Myers v. Jenkins, 63 O. S. 101; reversing 16 C. C. 545; 8 C. D. 431.

(e) Change of place of business.

See G. C. § 8625.

Mercantile Trust Co. v. Aetna Iron Works, 4 C. C. 579, 588; 2 C. D. 718 (1890).

(f) Removal of directors, officers or employees. This section does not authorize regulations providing for the removal, at stockholders' meetings, of officers or employees chosen or appointed by the directors nor arbitrarily removing directors. Directors are entitled to hold office for the term for which they are elected, unless removed for cause upon notice and hearing. Toledo Co. v. Smith, 205 Fed. 643, 646 (D. C. 1913).

(g) Expulsion of stockholders. A regulation of a corporation for profit providing for the expulsion and suspension of stockholders is unauthorized and invalid.

Rep. Atty. Gen. 1911-1912, p. 88.

A regulation providing that only persons engaged in a particular business should be eligible to hold stock, and providing for the trial and expulsion of ineligible stockholders, and for the payment by the corporation to expelled stockholders of the par value of their stock, is invalid. Paxson v. Cleveland, etc., Co., 17 C. C. n. s. 55 (1909).

VIII. REGULATIONS AS CONTRACTS. Regulations made pursuant to § 8704 and not in contravention of other statutory provisions have all the force of contracts between the corporation and its members and between the members themselves. State ex rel. v. Shaw, 103 O. S. 660 (1921); Nicholson v. Brewing Co., 82 O. S. 94, 110-111 (1910); Stafford v. Banking Co., 61 O. S. 160 (1899).

Section 8705. (Power to borrow money upon mortgage; real estate companies. Certain limitations not applicable.)

A corporation may borrow money in any sum not exceeding the amount of its capital stock, issue its notes or coupons or registered bonds therefor, at such rate of interest as may be provided in such issue, and secure their payment by a mortgage of its property, real or personal, or both; provided, however, that a corporation formed to buy and sell real estate may borrow money, issue its notes or bonds secured by mortgage of its real estate in an amount not to exceed sixty-five per cent of the market value thereof without regard to the amount of its capital stock.

The limitations of section 8303 of the General Code shall not apply to any such borrowing maturing and payable one year or more after the date thereof, and no corporation, wherever organized, nor anyone in its behalf, shall interpose the defense or make the claim of usury in any suit or proceeding upon or with reference to any such corporate borrowing. (109 v. 231; 106 v. 553; R. S. Sec. 3256; May 6, 1902, 95 v. 390; April 15, 1902, 95 v. 151; R. S. 1880.)

Bonds of public utility or railroad; when authority of public utilities commission required. § 614-53 et seq.

Railroad mortgages. See § 8793 et seq.

Street and interurban railway mortgages. See § 9121-1.

Power of corporations to borrow money, in general. When not prohibited by statute, a corporation may borrow money for its corporate purposes and may evidence and secure the loan by customary instruments.

Larwell v. Hanover, etc., Society, 40 O. S. 274, 282 (1883).

Hays v. Galion Gas Co., 29 O. S. 330 (1876).

Raymond v. Spring Grove, etc., Ry. Co., 21 W. L. B. 103 (1889).

Burt v. Rattle, 31 O. S. 116 (1876).

Straus v. Eagle Ins. Co., 5 O. S. 59 (1855).

Where a corporation has obtained a loan, under its apparent power to borrow, it can not escape liability therefor by setting up the defense of ultra vires.

Hays v. Galion, etc., Co., 29 O. S. 330, 340 (1876).

See Picard v. Hughey, 58 O. S. 577, 594-595 (1898).

Conant v. Reed, 1 O. S. 298 (1853).

Limitation on amount borrowed. Loans in excess of capital stock.

Section 8705 does not expressly limit loans to the amount of paid-up stock.

Kreisser v. Ashtabula, etc., Co., 2 C. C. n. s. 597, 599; 14 C. D. 313 (1901).

But, in the opinion of the attorney general, the limit is the amount of the paid in capital stock, and not the authorized capital stock. Rep. Atty. Gen. 1913, p. 813.

A mortgage by a corporation to secure a debt in excess of its capital stock is not void as to a subsequent mortgagee with notice, if upheld by the corporation and its stockholders.

Central Trust Co. v. Columbus, etc., Co., 87 Fed. 815; 10 O. F. D. 328 (C. C. 1898).

Stockholders and directors who caused an issue of bonds in excess of the amount allowed by law are not personally liable on such bonds.

Raymond v. Spring Grove, etc., Co., 21 W. L. B. 103 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1889).

Where the capital stock of a corporation was increased, and bonds issued on the faith of such increase, the stockholders and directors are estopped from questioning the validity of the mortgage on the ground that the increased stock was not subscribed for.

Kreisser v. Ashtabula, etc., Co., 2 C. C. n. s. 597; 14 C. D. 313 (1901).

Farmers Trust Co. v. Railway Co., 67 Fed. 49; 9 O. F. D. 230 (1895).

Power of a public utility or railroad to borrow in excess of capital stock when authorized by public utilities commission, see § 614-53.

Duty of lender to inquire as to authorization of loan. It has been held that a lender should know that the corporation has power to make the loan and execute the mortgage, but that he is not bound to inquire whether all the formalities have been observed, as whether the directors have had a meeting and passed a formal resolution authorizing the loan and mortgage.

Bosche v. Toledo, etc., Co., 14 C. C. 289; 7 C. D. 374 (1897).

Fritsch Mfg. Co. v. Elmont, etc., Co., 11 C. C. n. s. 356; 21 C. D. 47 (1908).

See also note to § 8660, Corporate Contracts.

CORPORATE MORTGAGES OR DEEDS OF TRUST.

Authorized by directors. When assent of stockholders necessary. A mortgage on the property of a corporation must be authorized by the directors.

East Cleveland R. Co. v. Everett, 19 C. C. 205; 10 C. D. 493 (1900).

And by a yea and nay vote entered in the record.

See § 8709.

Assent of the stockholders is not necessary;

Bundy v. Iron Co., 38 O. S. 300, 312 (1882).

G. C. § 8660.

except when specially required by statute. Mortgages by certain building companies must be assented to by a vote of the holders of two-thirds of the stock (§ 10210). Bonds or notes convertible into stock require the written assent of three-fourths of the stockholders representing three-fourths of the paid up stock (§ 8709).

Where a stockholders' meeting is held, and a mortgage authorized, the stockholders voting favorably are estopped from questioning the validity of such mortgage.

Kreisser v. Ashtabula, etc., Co., 2 C. C. n. s. 597; 14 C. D. 313 (1901).

Where, through mistake, a mortgage was executed by stockholders in their own names, it was held good as an equitable mortgage against the corporation and against a second mortgage expressly made subject to it.

Bundy v. Iron Co., 38 O. S. 300 (1882).

Where, by statute of the home state of a foreign corporation, written assent of two-thirds of the capital stock is required to be filed in the office of the "clerk," such consent may be filed with the recorder, when a mortgage is executed on property in Ohio. A guaranty of payment signed by holders of two thirds of the stock is a sufficient consent.

West v. Klotz, 37 O. S. 420, 428 (1881).

Waiver of stockholders' liability in mortgage. Validity.

See note to § 8686.

Mortgage by college incorporated under special charter. Provision in charter for permanent occupation of property.

See President, etc., v. Zeigler, 17 O. S. 52 (1866).

Execution of bonds, notes and mortgages. Authority of officers.

See notes to §§ 8627, 8660 and 8664.

An Ohio corporation which has removed its plant and business to another state, may, in such state, execute a valid mortgage on its property in Ohio. Although a majority of the directors are not residents of Ohio they are de facto directors and their acts valid.

Lattimer v. Mosaic Glass Co., 13 C. C. 163; 7 C. D. 430 (1896).

Negotiability of bonds and mortgage. The affixing of the corporate seal does not render a bond nonnegotiable.

Railway Co. v. Lynde, 55 O. S. 23 (1896); aff'd, 172 U. S. 493.

The bona fide purchaser of a bond, complete in form, and payable to bearer, acquires a valid title, although the president of the corporation, who was entrusted with its custody, negotiated it wrongfully and for his own benefit. Such purchaser is entitled to a lien under the mortgage securing the bond issue.

Railway Co. v. Lynde, 55 O. S. 23 (1896); aff'd, 172 U. S. 493.

Where a mortgage provides that a default for six months in payment of interest shall render the bonds immediately due and payable, it is doubtful whether a default alone, without steps being taken by any holder to enforce the provision, is such a dishonor as to destroy their negotiability. But where the interest is afterwards paid in full the negotiability of the bonds is restored.

Railway Co. v. Lynde, 55 O. S. 23 (1896); aff'd, 172 U. S. 493.

See G. C. § 8157.

The doctrine of lis pendens does not apply to negotiable bonds, transferred before due, in due course of business for value.

Railway Co. v. Lynde, 55 O. S. 23 (1896); s. c., 172 U. S. 493.

What bonds are secured by mortgage.

See note to § 8707.

After-acquired property clause in mortgage. A railroad or public utility company may mortgage property to be acquired in the future. But, "there is a clear distinction between the obligations of a mortgagor under a mortgage in which the property described as mortgaged, though definitely described, is yet to be bought and constructed, and the obligations of one under a mortgage in which the property described as mortgaged is in existence as a completed thing, and the after-acquired property clause is inserted only to increase the original security. In the former class of cases, the mortgagor is impliedly bound to buy and complete the thing mortgaged as described, and bring it under the lien of the mortgage, without burden or incumbrance, * * *. In the latter class of cases the mortgagor is bound neither to make additions, nor, if he does make them, to free them from prior liens arising in and out of the act of acquisition." Harris v. Bridge Co., 90 Fed. 322 (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1898); Trust Co. v. Traction Co., 106 O. S. 577, 592 (1922).

Estoppel to question validity of mortgage. Stockholders and directors are estopped from denying the validity of a mortgage authorized by them.

Kreisser v. Ashtabula, etc., Co., 2 C. C. n. s. 597; 14 C. D. 313 (1901).
Farmers Trust Co. v. Toledo, etc., Ry. Co., 67 Fed. 49; 9 O. F. D. 230 (1895).

A subsequent mortgagee is estopped from questioning the validity of a prior mortgage to which his mortgage is expressly subject.

Bundy v. Iron Co., 38 O. S. 303 (1882).

Central Trust Co. v. Columbus, etc., R. Co., 87 Fed. 815 (1898).

A person who advanced money on the mortgage bonds of a corporation, and afterwards sold the same to other persons, is estopped from asserting a mechanic's lien as against the mortgage.

West v. Klotz, 37 O. S. 420 (1881).

See note to § 8793.

Consideration. A mortgage given by a corporation to secure endorser's of its notes is based on a present consideration under Bankruptcy Act, § 67d. The mortgagees became creditors of the corporation contingently at and from the time of endorsement.

In re Farmers Supply Co., 170 Fed. 502 (D. C. 1909).

Sale of bonds. The president of a corporation has no power to sell bonds without authority from the directors, nor to employ a broker to sell them.

East Cleveland R. Co. v. Everett, 19 C. C. 205, 209; 10 C. D. 493 (1900).

But where bonds, complete in form and negotiable by delivery, are placed in the custody of the president, he thereby becomes clothed with apparent authority of disposition, and a bona fide purchaser acquires a valid title although the president negotiates them wrongfully and for his own benefit.

Railway Co. v. Lynde, 55 O. S. 23 (1896); aff'd, 172 U. S. 493.

See Railway Co. v. Bank, 56 O. S. 351 (1897).

The president of a corporation, having possession of a bond for sale, has no right to appropriate the bond to the payment of a debt due to him from the corporation, without the consent of the directors.

Greenville Gas Co. v. Reis, 54 O. S. 549 (1896).

Where a broker is in possession of bonds of a railroad company under an agreement providing that his right to retain the same should accrue contemporaneously with actual payment therefor, an indictment for embezzlement lies for the pledging of the bonds by the broker and the conversion of the proceeds of the loan prior to a call for funds by the company.

Hayes v. State, 14 C. C. n. s. 497 (1910); aff'd, no rep., 83 O. S. 490.

Sale below par. A selling committee of directors, when not authorized to sell for less than par, can not authorize a broker to sell for less than par.

East Cleveland R. Co. v. Everett, 15 C. C. 181; 8 C. D. 210 (1897); s. c., 19 C. C. 205, 209; 10 C. D. 493 (1900).

Sale below par by railroad company, see § 8797.

Pledge of bonds by corporation. The power to "issue" bonds, conferred by this section, includes the power to pledge its mortgage bonds to secure other obligations, and the delivery of such bonds in pledge to a trustee is an issue of them and renders the mortgage a present incumbrance.

Transportation Co. v. Insurance Co., 170 Fed. 279 (C. C. A. 1909).

Character of transaction, sale or loan. See note to § 8797.

Bonds given to stockholders as a bonus. Other creditors of the corporation have priority over stockholders to whom bonds were issued as a bonus. But where such bonus bonds are issued for the purpose of protecting minority stockholders, they have priority over other stockholders, including holders of preferred and common stock subsequently sold. Williamson v. Collins, 243 Fed. 835 (C. C. A. Ohio 1917).

Trustee under mortgage. A statement in a bond that it shall not become obligatory until authenticated by the trustee is equivalent to a declaration that when so authenticated its obligatory character shall become complete.

Railway Co. v. Lynde, 55 O. S. 23, 41 (1896).

Failure of the trustee to record the mortgage for some time after its execution was held not to estop the bondholders from asserting the lien after it was recorded. Davis v. Hanover Soc., 210 Fed. 768 (C. C. A. 1913).

The trustee represents the bondholders only in matters affecting the enforcement of the security and administration of the trust property under the terms of the trust. Baker v. Trust Co., 235 Fed. 17 (C. C. A. Ohio 1916).

Provision in mortgage authorizing trustee to bid in property at foreclosure sale.

See Cincinnati Trust Co. v. Miami, etc., Co., 5 O. L. R. 514 (C. P. 1907).

The trustee of a mortgage executed by a consolidated company, to secure a bond issue, is a necessary party to an action, by mortgage creditors of one of its constituent companies, seeking to set aside the consolidation on the ground that they were induced by fraud to surrender their lien.

Union, etc., Co. v. Hess, 159 Fed. 889; 6 O. L. R. 372; 16 O. F. D. 73 (C. C. A. 1908).

Liability of trustee for certifying bonds with knowledge that the corporation did not own the property included in the mortgage.

See Dreifus v. Union, etc., Co., 13 C. C. n. s. 441; 23 C. D. 46 (1910); reversed, without report, 87 O. S. 525.

Davidge v. Trust Co., 203 N. Y. 331; 96 N. E. 751 (1911).

Trust company as trustee. When mortgage void for failure of trust company to comply with law, see § 710-154.

Foreclosure. Where corporate property was sold under foreclosure to a director for less than its actual value, the sale was set aside on motion of a bondholder upon the giving of security that a larger sum would be bid on a resale.

Secor v. Maumee, etc., Co., 1 N. P. 100; 1 L. D. 80 (C. P. 1894).

Where mortgaged property is bid in by the bondholders, who, as authorized by the mortgage and the order of sale, paid therefor by surrendering the bonds, the sheriff is not entitled to poundage on the amount of bonds surrendered.

Major v. International Coal Co., 76 O. S. 200 (1907).

Where a provision in a mortgage required the trustee to bid in the property on foreclosure and to organize a new corporation, paying the purchase price in stock of such new company, which should be distributed among the bondholders in full satisfaction of their bonds, the court refused to carry such provision into the decree of foreclosure, where it appeared that an action was pending to require stockholders to pay up their stock, which action might be prejudiced by such decree.

Cincinnati Trust Co. v. Miami, etc., Co., 5 O. L. R. 514 (C. P. 1907).

The consent of all bondholders is not necessary to authorize the trustee to bid in the mortgaged property on their behalf. But non-consenting bondholders may compel the trustee to account to them for their pro rata share of the price bid, as if the same had been received by him in money. Beckman v. Supply Co., 9 Ohio App. 275 (1918).

Deficiency judgment. Where the bonds are payable to the trustee or bearer, the trustee, in a suit to foreclose the mortgage, may plead a separate cause of action for a personal judgment. A court of appeals hearing the case on appeal is authorized to render only a deficiency judgment. Trust Co. v. Traction Co., 106 O. S. 577, 625 (1922). Compare, Connor v. Bramble, 6 N. P. 195 (1895).

See Raymond v. Spring Grove, etc., Ry. Co., 21 W. L. B. 103 (1889).

A corporation is not liable for a deficiency judgment where the loan was obtained and note and mortgage given by an individual, although for the benefit of the corporation.

De Camp v. Levoy, 19 C. C. 335 (1900).

Reorganization agreements. Creditors' claims. See Keetch v. Stowe Co., 205 Fed. 887 (C. C. A. Ohio 1913). Powers of committee. See Sharpe v. Oil Co., 232 Fed. 703 (C. C. A. Ohio 1917).

Rights of minority stockholders where majority stockholders obtain corporate property through unfair reorganization proceedings. See So. Pac. Co. v. Bogert, 250 U. S. 483 (1919).

Reorganization of railroad companies. § 9079 et seq.

Section 8706. (When mortgage deemed to be duly recorded.) A mortgage of real and personal property heretofore or hereafter made by a company organized to operate a line or lines of telegraph, telephone, district telegraph messenger service, or for the purpose of supplying gas or electricity or hot water, for lighting, fuel or other purposes, or hot water, or steam, for heating or fuel purposes, shall be duly recorded in the office of the recorder of deeds in each of the counties in which the real or personal property mortgaged is situated or employed. (R. S. Sec. 3256a; May 6, 1902, 95 v. 366.)

This section is constitutional. Thompson v. Electric Co., 21 C. C. n. s. 291 (1906).

Section 8707. (When lien effective.) A mortgage so recorded shall be a good and sufficient lien from the date of its filing for record in each county where it is recorded as well upon the personal as the real property of such a company. (R. S. Sec. 3256a; May 6, 1902, 95 v. 366.)

The lien of all bonds, in the hands of bona fide holders, secured by one mortgage but issued at different times, dates from the recording of the mortgage.

Railway Co. v. Lynde, 55 O. S. 23 (1896); aff'd, 172 U. S. 493.

See Bank v. Brotherton, 78 O. S. 173 (1908).

A mortgage recorded prior to the enactment of this section was held to be a valid lien from the date this section became effective. Thompson v. Electric Co., 21 C. C. n. s. 291 (1906).

Section 8708. (Change of bonds authorized.) A corporation which lawfully has issued registered or coupon bonds, upon the request of a holder thereof, may change such registered into coupon bonds, or coupon into registered bonds, either by substitution or proper indorsement thereon. All liens, securities, and rights which existed on or accrued to such original bonds shall be and continue on and to such substituted or indorsed bonds. (R. S. Sec. 3265; April 7, 1876, 73 v. 123, §§ 1, 2.)

Section 8709. (Obligations may be converted into stock.)

Upon the written assent of not less than three-fourths of the stockholders, representing at least three-fourths of its capital stock actually paid, a company may borrow money not exceeding one-half of the capital stock so paid in, on such security, by way of mortgage, or otherwise, as is agreed upon, at a lawful rate of interest, and in the instrument evidencing the contract may stipulate that the holders of such instruments shall have the right to convert the amount borrowed, or a part thereof, into either common or preferred stock, this having been provided for by the proper action and certificate of the company. Any action of the directors for borrowing money, issuing bonds, or involving an expenditure of money shall be by yea and nay votes, and record thereof be made showing the vote of each director voting upon the question. (R. S. Sec. 3257; March 25, 1870, 67 v. 26, §§ 1, 2, 3, 4.)

Right to convert not severable from bond. A stipulation for conversion is inseparably connected with the bond on which it is endorsed, and is only available to the holder of the bond so long as he continues to be such holder. The holder of a bond can not assign to another the right of action for a breach of the stipulation for conversion and yet retain the bond for the benefit of himself and future assigns.

Denney v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 28 O. S. 108 (1875).

In an action for a refusal to convert bonds, the petition is fatally defective in not averring that the plaintiffs were, and at the commencement of the action continued to be, the holders of the bonds for the non-conversion of which they bring suit.

Denny v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 28 O. S. 108 (1875).

When stock deemed a debt. A corporation issued certificates of preferred stock, so called, certifying that the corporation guaranteed to holders the payment of four percent semi-annual dividends, and the final payment of the entire amount at a specified time, with the right to convert the preferred stock into common stock, and the company at the same time executed and delivered to a trustee its bond and mortgage to secure the holders of such certificates. Held, that the holders of the certificates did not thereby become stockholders of the corporation, but its creditors, and that, as such, they had a lien upon the mortgaged property superior to that of the general creditors of the corporation or of its assignees.

Burt v. Rattle, 31 O. S. 116 (1876).

See note to § 8669. Issues of stock construed—preferred stock or debt.

Contracts of consolidation limiting right to issue bonds. A contract of consolidation which prohibits the issuing of bonds without the consent of the majority in interest of preferred stockholders probably violates this section:

Burke v. Cleveland, etc., Co., 22 W. L. B. 11, 16 (C. P. 1889).

SALE OF ENTIRE PROPERTY.

Section 8710. (Sale of entire property and assets.) No corporation organized under the laws of this state shall sell its entire property and assets to any person, persons or association, or to another corporation, whether organized for the same or similar purposes or otherwise, under the laws of this or any other state, unless three-fourths of the directors of such corporation authorize the execution of an agreement therefor prescribing the terms, considerations and conditions thereof. The considerations may be money, stocks, bonds, or other instruments for the payment of money, or any valuable consideration. (R. S. Sec. 3256b; April 2, 1906, 98 v. 229.)

Power to sell corporate property generally, see note to § 8627.

Sale of stocks of merchandise in bulk, see G. C. §§ 11102 to 11103-1.

An Ohio corporation has no authority to sell its entire property and assets except in the manner provided in § 8710 et seq. Cyclone Drill Co. v. Ziegler, 99 O. S. 151 (1918).

Where all the stockholders and directors were present at a meeting, at which a sale of all assets was authorized, the corporation cannot thereafter set aside the executed transaction on the ground that §§ 8710 to 8718 were not complied with. Harrison Co. v. Blacker, 15 N. P. n. s. 377 (1914).

Directors may authorize the filing of a voluntary bankruptcy petition on behalf of the corporation, although a charter provision requires the consent of stockholders to a disposition of its entire assets. In re De Camp Co., 272 Fed. 558 (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1921).

Sale of entire property—what constitutes. When corporate property is sold, but the corporation retains its cash, notes and accounts receivable and real estate, the transaction is not a sale of "entire property". Krell v. Piano Co., 23 N. P. n. s. 193 (1920); aff'd, 14 Ohio App. 74; motion to certify record overruled, 19 O. L. R. 125.

Duty of purchaser. It is the duty of a purchaser of the entire property of a corporation, before making the purchase, to ascertain whether the corporation has given notice to its stockholders under § 8711 and complied with the other statutory requirements. Otherwise the purchaser takes the property subject to the rights of dissenting stockholders. Cyclone Drill Co. v. Ziegler, 99 O. S. 151 (1918).

Rights of creditors of vendor corporation. Where one corporation purchases all the assets of another corporation, and pays therefor with stock in the vendee corporation, the vendee may, under some circumstances, be liable for the debts of the vendor company. Bruce Co. v. Eustis Co., 8 Ohio App. 341; 30 O. C. A. 177 (1917); motion to certify record overruled, 15 O. L. R. 485.

A person having a claim for personal injuries, upon which he brought suit after sale and conveyance of the assets of the corporation, is a subsequent creditor, and the sale will be set aside only upon proof of the vendor company's actual intent to defraud its creditors. Pfisterer v. Traction Co., 89 O. S. 172 (1913).

For rights of creditors of constituent railroad company, after consolidation, see note to § 9038.

For other rights of creditors, see Andres v. Morgan, 62 O. S. 236 (1900); Bank v. Trebein, 59 O. S. 316 (1898); In re Reiger, Kapner & Altmark, 8 O. L. R. 498; 187 Fed. 609.

Corporation paying in stock for assets of another corporation. Where a corporation acquires all the assets of another corporation, paying therefor in stock of the vendee corporation, the transaction is, in substance, a merger or successorship in interest. The purchaser may rescind a contract which the selling corporation had, by fraud, been induced to make. Shipbuilding Co. v. Steamship Co., 215 Fed. 304; 12 O. L. R. 455; affirming, 10 O. L. R. 395; 197 Fed. 780, 797.

But the purchaser may be liable for debts of the selling corporation. Bruce Co. v. Eustis Co., 8 Ohio App. 341; 30 O. C. A. 177 (1917); motion to certify record overruled, 15 O. L. R. 485; Andres v. Morgan, 62 O. S. 236 (1900).

Creditors of the vendor corporation may reach stock of the new corporation issued in payment for assets of the vendor, although such stock was issued to stockholders of the vendor corporation. Hewett v. Fenton Co., 21 N. P. n. s. 537 (1919).

The vendee corporation may be bound by an injunction in force against the vendor corporation at the time of sale. Fertilizer Co. v. Ruh, 7 Ohio App. 430; 29 O. C. A. 165 (1917).

Agreement of vendor corporation and stockholders not to re-engage in business. An agreement by a corporation, on a sale of its entire property and good will, not to re-engage in business is not binding on a stockholder individually although he was an officer of the corporation and acted in the transaction.

Hall's Safe Co. v. Herring, etc., Co., 146 Fed. 37; 15 O. F. D. 37 (C. C. A. 1906).

But where the stockholders expressly agree, as individuals, not to re-engage in business, within certain limitations, they are bound.

Davis v. Booth, 2 O. L. R. 309; 131 Fed. 31 (C. C. A. 1904).

Employment contracts of corporation; when binding on purchaser. Novation.

See Paul v. Caldwell Furnace Co., 7 C. C. n. s. 272; 17 C. D. 768 (1905).

Jarmusch v. Otis, etc., Co., 3 C. C. n. s. 1; 13 C. D. 122 (1901); aff'd, 68 O. S. 720.

Rescission. Before the enactment of §§8710 to 8718 it was held that where several corporations combined by organizing a new corporation, to which the constituent companies conveyed their property in exchange for stock, one of the constituent companies could not sue for a rescission, on the ground that it was an arrangement in restraint of trade, without tendering back all the stock received by it.

Sportsman Shot Co. v. American, etc., Co., 30 W. L. B. 87 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1893).

Power of corporation to sell its entire property, independently of statute. Former law.

See Schmuck v. Crume, etc., Co., 7 N. P. n. s. 24, 32; 19 L. D. 819 (1905); aff'd, 78 O. S. 409.

Keystone Bank v. Union Oil Co., 2 C. C. n. s. 427; 15 C. D. 464 (1903).

Easum v. Buckeye Brewing Co., 51 Fed. 156 (C. C. 1892).

Donner v. Dayton, etc., Co., 1 C. S. C. R. 130, 140 (1871).

Section 8711. (Submission of agreement.) Such agreement shall be submitted to the stockholders of the corporation at a meeting called for the purpose of taking it into consideration, ten days' notice of the time and place of holding which, and the object thereof, shall be given by registered letter containing a written or printed notice addressed to each of the persons in whose names the stock of the corporation stands on its books; and also by like notice published in some newspaper in the city or village where the corporation has its principal office or place of business. But when all the stockholders are present at such meeting in person or by proxy, notice may be waived in writing. (R. S. Sec. 3256c; April 2, 1906, 98 v. 230.)

The provision of this section requiring notice to stockholders is mandatory. Cyclone Drill Co. v. Ziegler, 99 O. S. 151 (1918).

Section 8712. (Adoption of agreement.) At such meeting of stockholders the agreement of the directors shall be considered and a vote by ballot taken for its adoption or rejection. For each share of stock on which all the installments called for by the board of directors are paid, the holder thereof shall be entitled to one vote. The ballots must be cast in person or by proxy, and if three-fourths of all the votes cast at the meeting be for the adoption of the agreement, it shall be valid and binding on such corporation. Upon its adoption, the officers of the company shall execute and deliver to the purchaser good and sufficient deeds and transfers of all the property and assets of the corporation, upon the terms and conditions in the agreement provided. (R. S. Sec. 3256c; April 2, 1906, 98 v. 230.)

Where the assets of a corporation are purchased by another corporation under §§ 8710 to 8713, the purchaser may rescind a contract of the selling corporation, entered into through the fraud of its promoter, by which a portion of the assets were acquired.

Shipbuilding Co. v. Steamship Co., 215 Fed. 304; 12 O. L. R. 467 (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1914).

When a preferred stock issue gives the preferred stockholders exclusive voting rights, a sale may be approved by three-fourths of the preferred stockholders. The common stockholders of such a corporation are not entitled to vote. Krell v. Piano Co., 14 Ohio App. 74 (1921); affirming, 23 N. P. n. s. 195; motion to certify record overruled, 19 O. L. R. 125.

Section 8713. (Dissatisfied stockholder.) If a stockholder be dissatisfied with such sale and refuses to participate in the proceeds thereof, within thirty days after the adoption of such agreement, he shall state his objections thereto in writing and file them with such corporation, and in writing demand from it payment for his stock. Within sixty days thereafter such corporation shall pay to him the value thereof at the time such agreement was adopted. In case of a disagreement as to the value of the stock, it shall be ascertained by three disinterested persons, one of whom to be chosen by the stockholder, one by the directors of the corporation, and the other by the two so selected who shall conduct such arbitration as provided by the law regulating arbitrations. (R. S. Sec. 3256d; April 2, 1906, 98 v. 230.)

See § 9034.

An award under this section is a common law award requiring the concurrence of all the arbitrators, and not a statutory award under G. C. § 12149 et seq. Shoe Co. v. Hoffard, 27 O. C. A. 513 (1916); aff'd, 95 O. S. 376.

By submitting to arbitration, dissatisfied stockholders waive their right to question the constitutionality of the statute. Wall v. Parrot Co., 244 U. S. 407 (1917).

In the absence of a statute, a minority stockholder may recover the proportionate value of his stock where the majority stockholders sell the entire corporate property to another corporation for less than its value, the majority stockholders receiving stock in the vendee corporation, and the minority stockholder receiving none. Stebbins v. Michigan Co., 212 Fed. 19 (1914).

Section 8714. (How award collected.) If the award is not paid within sixty days from its making, and notice thereof given to the stockholder and the corporation, its amount shall be evidence of the amount due from the corporation and may be collected as other debts against it. On receiving payment of the award, the stockholder shall surrender his stock to such corporation. (R. S. Sec. 3256d; April 2, 1906, 98 v. 230.)

In an action to recover the amount of the award, the defense of legal defect appearing on the face of the award is available to the defendant corporation. Hoffard v. Shoe Co., 95 O. S. 376 (1917); affirming, 27 O. C. A. 513.

Section 8715. (Procedure when stockholder refuses to submit question.) If such stockholder refuses to submit such question to arbitration, upon the application of a director of the company, the judge of the common pleas court shall appoint arbitrators, who shall ascertain the value of the stock as if the question had been submitted by consent of both parties. (R. S. Sec. 3256e; April 2, 1906, 98 v. 230.)

Section 8716. (Notice.) In all cases of such arbitration, the party desiring it, shall give the opposite party at least ten days' notice of his intention to apply to the judge for the appointment or arbitrators, which notice shall be served in the manner provided for the service of summons and specify the time and place of the hearing of the application. In cases of non-residents the notice shall be by publication for four consecutive weeks in some newspaper printed in the county. (R. S. Sec. 3256e; April 2, 1906, 98 v. 231.)

Section 8717. (Deposit of award.) If the party owning the stock refuses to receive the amount awarded, the company may deposit it with the clerk of the common pleas court of the county in which the arbitration was held, which deposit shall operate as if payment were made to the owner of the stock, and also as a cancellation of such stock upon the books of the company. (R. S. Sec. 3256e; April 2, 1906, 98 v. 231.)

Section 8718. (Sale to a trust prohibited.) A sale of its entire property by a corporation, as hereinbefore authorized, shall not be made for the formation of or to a trust or combination for the purpose of restricting trade or preventing competition. (R. S. Sec. 3256b; April 2, 1906, 98 v. 229.)

See Sportsman Shot Co. v. American, etc., Co., 30 W. L. B. 87 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1893).

AMENDMENTS.

Section 8719. (Power to amend articles.) A corporation organized under the general corporation laws of the state may amend its articles of incorporation as follows:

1. So as to change its corporate name—but not to one already appropriated, or to one likely to mislead the public.
2. So as to change the place where it is to be located, or its principal business transacted.
3. So as to modify, enlarge or diminish the objects or purposes for which it was formed; but not substantially to change the purpose of its original organization.
4. So as to increase or decrease the number of shares into which its capital stock is divided; to provide for preferred stock, or dispense with unissued preferred stock; to change unissued common stock to preferred stock, within the limits permitted by law; to change unissued preferred stock to common stock; to add any or all of the provisions permitted by sections 8668 and 8669 of the General Code, or to make new provisions of such nature with respect to newly authorized preferred stock; or to amend or eliminate such provisions as to unissued preferred stock; or to add to the articles anything omitted from, or which lawfully might have been provided for originally, or to take out of the articles any unnecessary provisions or provisions which might lawfully have been omitted from them originally. But the authorized capital stock of a corporation shall not be increased or diminished by such amendment. (107 v. 414; R. S. Sec. 3238a; May 18, 1886, 83 v. 193.)

A fire insurance company organized under G. C. § 9510 et seq. may amend its articles under this section.

Rep. Atty. Gen. 1911-1912, p. 98.

A legal reserve life insurance company organized under § 9340 may amend its articles under this section. Rep. Atty. Gen. 1912, p. 24.

Change of name. Corporate name generally, see note to § 8628.

A corporation having changed its name, the former name was adopted by a new corporation, but most of the mail addressed to the former name was intended for the older company. Held that all mail should be opened by the former company in the presence of a representative of the new company.

Clark Carriage Co. v. Smith Eggers Co., 1 N. P. 391; 3 L. D. 77 (Cin. Super. Ct. 1894).

A casualty company may change its name under this section.

Rep. Atty. Gen. 1908-1909, p. 88.

A change of the corporate name does not release a subscriber to stock.

Royce & Pulling v. Tyler, 2 C. C. 175, 183; 1 C. D. 428 (1887).

Whether a statute, authorizing a change of name of a railroad company on certain conditions, has been complied with must be proved. Judicial notice will not be taken of a statement in a report of the commissioner of railroads, that such statute has been complied with.

Railroad Co. v. Hoffhines, 46 O. S. 643 (1889).

Capital stock. Prior to the amendment of 107 v. 414, unissued common stock could be changed into preferred stock only by the unanimous consent of the stockholders. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1915, pp. 8, 127, 363 and 1284.

The par value of shares may be increased or reduced, by amendment of the articles, if the authorized capital stock is not increased or decreased. 17 O. L. R. 430; Opins. Atty. Gen. 1919, p. 1564; 11 Dept. Rep. 580. Contra, Rep. Atty. Gen. 1911-1912, pp. 99, 126.

A corporation not for profit having no capital stock may, by amendment, provide for a capital stock. The fee for such amendment is governed by G. C. § 176, par. 9. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1915, p. 440; Opins. Atty. Gen. 1918, p. 206.

A corporation not for profit, but having a capital stock, may not eliminate its capital stock by amendment, where a portion of the stock is owned by nonmembers.

Rep. Atty. Gen. 1904-1905, p. 63.

Prior to the amendment of 107 v. 414, preferred stock could not be authorized by amendment to the articles under this section. State v. Urschel, 104 O. S. 172 (1922).

Preferred stock can not be retired by an amendment providing for an issue of common stock which would exceed the authorized amount of common stock. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1915, p. 504.

Substantial change of purpose. While the purpose may be modified, enlarged or diminished, it can not be substantially changed. A corporation organized to furnish gas and electricity can not by amendment be authorized to operate a street railway.

State ex rel. v. Taylor, 55 O. S. 61 (1896).

Where a corporation amends its articles so as to substantially change its original purpose, bonds issued in carrying out such unauthorized purposes will, in the absence of estoppel, be void in the hands of holders with notice.

Picard v. Hughey, 58 O. S. 577, 595 (1898).

A corporation organized to furnish gas for lighting purposes may, by amendment, be authorized to furnish electricity for the same purpose.

Picard v. Hughey, 58 O. S. 577 (1898).

A corporation formed to manufacture electric fixtures can not, by amendment, be authorized to furnish electric light and steam heat.

4 Opins. Attys. Gen. 580.

A company formed to conduct a farming and nursery business can not, by amendment, be authorized to deal in real estate, or to manufacture cotton and cotton paper.

Rep. Atty. Gen. 1909-1910, p. 135.

An amendment authorizing a railway company to engage in transportation by water is a fundamental change.

Marietta, etc., R. Co. v. Elliott, 10 O. S. 57 (1859).

Association for care of crippled children. A certificate from the board of state charities is required before filing a certificate of amendment of articles of association for care of dependent, etc., children. G. C. § 1352-2.

Special charters under former constitution. Amendment of.

See note to § 8736.

Fundamental changes in special charters require the assent of all stockholders.

Chapman v. Mad River, etc., Co., 6 O. S. 119 (1856).

Marietta, etc., R. Co. v. Elliott, 10 O. S. 57 (1859).

See Dayton, etc., R. Co. v. Hatch, 1 Disn. 84 (1855).

But the rights of such stockholders may be lost by laches.

Chapman v. Mad River, etc., Co., 6 O. S. 119 (1856).

Owen v. Purdy, 12 O. S. 73 (1861).

Section 8720. (Proceedings.) Amendments to articles of incorporation may be made at any meeting of the members or stockholders thereof, of which, and of the business to come before it, thirty days' notice has been given by a majority of the directors or trustees, in a newspaper published and of general circulation in the county where the company's principal place of business is located, and by a vote of the owners of at least three-fifths of its capital stock then subscribed, if it has a capital stock, or if not, by a vote of at least three-fifths of its members. (R. S. Sec. 3238a; May 18, 1886, 83 v. 193.)

The notice need not be published for thirty consecutive days. One notice, published at least thirty days before the day set, is sufficient.

Muskingum, etc., Co. v. Ward, 13 Ohio 120 (1844).

Craig v. Fox, 16 Ohio 563, 566 (1847).

Newport News v. Potter, 122 Fed. 321, 332 (C. C. A. 1903).

Notice by mail is probably not a compliance with this section. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1915, p. 164.

Section 8721. (Copy to be filed with secretary of state.)

When thus adopted, a copy of such amendment, with a certificate thereto affixed, stating the fact and date of its adoption, that such copy is a true copy thereof, signed by the president and secretary of the corporation, and if one there be, sealed with its seal, shall be recorded in the office of the secretary of state, who shall note on the margin of the record of the original articles filed by such corporation, and on the margin of the index thereto, the volume and page where such amendment is recorded. (R. S. Sec. 3238a; May 18, 1886, 83 v. 193.)

Section 8722. (When amendments take effect.) Amendments to articles of incorporation shall not take effect until filed for record with the secretary of state, nor, unless it be waived, until the corporation gives notice of them in some newspaper of general circulation in the county where its principal office is located, for three consecutive weeks. (R. S. Sec. 3238a; May 18, 1886, 83 v. 193.)

Publication of the notice once a week for three consecutive weeks is sufficient, but publication is not complete until the lapse of three full weeks from the date of the first publication. The better practice is to copy in full the resolution amending the articles. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1917, p. 1987.

Section 8723. (How notices waived.) All the notices hereinbefore required in such proceedings to amend, may be waived when the holders of all the capital stock of a corporation, or all the members of one having no stock, consent thereto in writing. (R. S. Sec. 3238a; May 18, 1886, 83 v. 193.)

DIVIDENDS.

Section 8724. (Dividends to be paid from surplus profits only.) Directors of a corporation organized under the laws of this state shall not make dividends except from surplus profits arising from its business. (R. S. Sec. 3269-1; April 11, 1888, 85 v. 182, § 1.)

Dividends.

On preferred stock, see §§ 8668 to 8669.

Defined. Dividends consist of that portion of the profits which the directors separate from the general property and apply to the benefit of the stockholders.

State v. Farmers Bank, 11 Ohio 94 (1841).

Where the property of a corporation is divided among the stockholders, on the winding up of its affairs, the term "dividend" may be applied, although usually applied to the distribution of profits.

Larwill v. Burke, 19 C. C. 450, 513; 10 C. D. 579, 605 (1900).

Under some circumstances an informal division of profits may be treated as a dividend, although there were no book entries crediting the dividend to the stockholders. Kramer v. Foundry Co., 23 N. P. n. s. 81 (1918).

Discretionary power of directors to declare dividends. In the absence of bad faith, or an arbitrary and unjustifiable withholding of the profits by the directors, the discretionary power of directors as to dividends will not be interfered with by the courts.

De La Croix v. Eid, etc., Co., 8 N. P. n. s. 489; 19 L. D. 767 (C. P. 1909).

Smith v. Aultman Co., 25 C. C. n. s. 461 (1916).

See In re Mansfield Co., 3 Ohio App. 253; 21 C. C. n. s. 95 (1914).

A corporation may borrow money to pay dividends when the earnings are represented by credits or merchandise readily reducible to cash. But where a corporation is already so heavily in debt that it can not borrow money on its own credit, the directors are not justified in declaring a dividend. Thomas v. Matthews, 94 O. S. 32, 56 (1916).

Can not be declared or paid out of capital. A corporation has no power to declare or pay dividends out of its capital stock. A contract to pay dividends otherwise than out of profits is invalid and can not be enforced. Dividends can only be paid out of surplus profits.

Painesville, etc., R. Co. v. King, 17 O. S. 534 (1867).

Ohio College v. Rosenthal, 45 O. S. 183, 194 (1887).

De La Croix v. Eid, etc., Co., 8 N. P. n. s. 489; 19 L. D. 767 (C. P. 1909).

Wood v. Pearce, 2 Dis. 411 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1859).

Ryan v. Miami, etc., Ry. Co., 10 Am. L. R. 263 (1881).

Dividends on preferred stock can be paid out of surplus profits only.

Miller v. Ratterman, 47 O. S. 141, 158 (1890).

Mente v. Graff, 10 N. P. n. s. 148 (C. P. 1910).

Dividends paid out of capital, and not out of surplus profits, may be recovered from the stockholders by a trustee in bankruptcy of the corporation, although paid to preferred stockholders and received by them in good faith.

Mente v. Groff, 10 N. P. n. s. 148 (C. P. 1910).

See First N. B. v. Patton Co., 13 C. C. n. s. 289 (1910).

Railway Co. v. Burke, 19 W. L. B. 27 (C. P. 1887).

In an action against a stockholder, it is no defense that the stockholder, in receiving the dividends, acted in good faith and believed that the dividends were paid out of earnings; nor is it a defense that the corporation was not actually insolvent when the dividend was paid and that no existing creditors were injured, where the effect of the dividend was to hinder, delay or defraud creditors. Rheinstrom v. Seasongood, 19 N. P. n. s. 394 (1917).

Agreement of director with third person that corporation will pay dividends. A contract by a director with a third person, obligating the director to vote in favor of dividends, regardless of the requirements of the company as working capital or as to equipment, is against public policy. Thomas v. Matthews, 94 O. S. 32, 55-59 (1916).

Guaranty of dividends. (a) By corporation. A general guaranty by a railroad company, of dividends on its preferred stock, was construed to be a guaranty of dividends only in the event that dividends were earned.

Miller v. Ratterman, 47 O. S. 141 (1890).

(b) Personal guaranty by officer of corporation. Where a person subscribed and paid for stock, relying on the verbal promise of the president of the corporation that the subscriber should receive fifteen percent on the amount invested, within one year, the agreement was held not to be within the statute of frauds.

Moorehouse v. Crangle, 36 O. S. 130 (1880).

Title to profits before declaration of dividend. The net earnings are the property of the corporation until a dividend is declared.

Adams v. Shields, 17 C. C. 129; 9 C. D. 558 (1898); aff'd, 61 O. S. 643.

Marble v. Van Wert N. B., 3 C. C. 464; 2 C. D. 265 (1888).

Dividend, when declared by directors, becomes a debt due to stockholders. When a dividend has been declared by the directors, it becomes a debt of the corporation to its stockholders. When declared out of profits, it can not be rescinded or revoked by the directors or by a majority of the stockholders.

Mitchell v. Bookwalter Wheel Co., 4 N. P. n. s. 609; 17 L. D. 483 (1905); aff'd, no rep., 75 O. S. 639.

See Cleveland Trust Co. v. Lander, 19 C. C. 271; 10 C. D. 452 (1900); aff'd, 62 O. S. 266.

To whom dividends payable. In general. Dividends are prima facie payable to the persons appearing on the corporate books as stockholders. The corporation is protected in paying to the registered stockholder in the absence of notice of the rights of other parties.

§ 8673-3.

Railroad Co. v. Robbins, 35 O. S. 483, 502 (1880).

Bank v. Mfg. Co., 67 O. S. 306, 314 (1902).

Norton v. Norton, 43 O. S. 509, 522 (1885).

A corporation is bound to respect the rights of equitable owners from the time it receives notice thereof.

Conant v. Seneca Co. Bank, 1 O. S. 298 (1853).

Where a corporation has paid dividends to one not entitled thereto, and has been compelled to pay the dividends a second time, it may recover the amount from the person who wrongfully obtained it.

Marble v. Van Wert N. B., 3 C. C. 464; 2 C. D. 265 (1888).

Where stock transferred. Future dividends follow the stock and are payable to the purchaser. It has been held that, on a sale of stock, no valid reservation of future dividends can be made.

Marble v. Van Wert N. B., 3 C. C. 464; 2 C. D. 265 (1888).

Dividends declared after the sale belong to the purchaser although earned prior to that time.

Dissette v. Lawrence Pub. Co., 9 C. C. n. s. 118; 19 C. D. 168 (1906).

Zinn v. Baxter, 65 O. S. 341, 366 (1901).

Where dividends have been declared by the directors and carried to the credit of the stockholder on the corporate books, the transferrer, and not the transferee, is entitled thereto.

City of Ohio v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 6 O. S. 489 (1856).

But where the dividends have not been declared, although earned, prior to the transfer, the transferrer has no interest in them.

See Dissette v. Lawrence Pbg. Co., 9 C. C. n. s. 118; 19 C. D. 168 (1906).

Where a creditor garnishees the interest of a stockholder in a corporation unpaid dividends follow the stock.

Norton v. Norton, 43 O. S. 509 (1885).

Application of dividends to payment of debt due from stockholder.

Where a stockholder is indebted to the corporation, on a subscription to its stock, or on a valid assessment on his stock, the corporation may credit the dividends on such indebtedness.

Rhodes v. Equitable, etc., Co., 3 C. C. 501; 2 C. D. 288 (1888); aff'd, 27 W. L. B. 160.

A subscriber to stock is entitled to credit for the dividends declared thereon.

Iron Railroad Co. v. Fink, 41 O. S. 321, 326, 327 (1884).

The corporation may reserve a lien on dividends, by express stipulation in the certificate of stock.

§ 8673-15.

Bellevue Bank v. Higbee, 4 C. C. 222; 22 C. D. 512 (1889); aff'd, 28 W. L. B. 336.

Sale of stock to be paid for out of dividends.

See note to § 8682.

Stewart v. Herron, 77 O. S. 130.

White v. Cooper, 7 C. C. n. s. 114; 17 C. D. 703; aff'd, no rep., 72 O. S. 615, 691.

Stock dividends. When surplus profits exist they may be applied toward the payment of increased stock or unissued stock, and distributed among the stockholders as a stock dividend.

State v. Insurance Co., 13 C. C. n. s. 49; 22 C. D. 262 (1910); aff'd, 84 O. S. 459.

See 7 O. L. R. 352 (article by Frank M. Coppock).

Stearns v. Hibben, etc., Co., 11 C. C. n. s. 553 (1909).

Railway Co. v. Furnace Co., 49 O. S. 102 (1892).

A stock dividend, like a cash dividend, may be declared only when surplus profits exist. Where a stock dividend was declared at a time when there were no surplus profits, the stockholders who accepted the certificates may be compelled by creditors to pay for such stock.

Handley v. Stutz, 139 U. S. 417 (1891).

See note to § 8674. Who are liable.

An offer by stockholders to return the stock is too late after insolvency of the corporation and a suit begun to enforce liability.

First N. B. v. Patton Co., 13 C. C. n. s. 289 (1910).

Stock dividends as capital or income. Whether stock dividends are capital or income, as between a life tenant and remainderman, was discussed but no fixed rule adopted in Wilberding v. Miller, 90 O. S. 28, 44 (1914). See Worthington v. McAlpin, 18 N. P. n. s. 436 (1915); Raymond v. Perkins, 23 C. C. n. s. 385; Bank v. Clark, 7 Ohio App. 6, 28 O. C. A. 1; motion to certify record overruled, 61 Bull. 191.

Under the federal income tax law stock dividends are merely additional evidence of the stockholders interest and not taxable income. Towne v. Eisner, 245 U. S. 418 (1918); Eisner v. Macomber, 252 U. S. 189.

Scrip certificates. The issuing to stockholders of scrip certificates, redeemable in the future in the stock of the corporation, is not the declaring of a dividend, nor a promise to pay money. It is merely a promise to make a future stock dividend.

Adams v. Shields, 17 C. C. 129; 9 C. D. 558 (1898); aff'd, no rep., 61 O. S. 643.

Actions to recover dividends.Action is at law.

Larwill v. Burke, 19 C. C. 450, 513 (1900).

Moore v. Lima N. B., 8 C. C. 287, 297; 4 C. D. 529 (1894).

Before the enactment of the uniform transfer act (§ 8673-1 et seq.) it was held that an equitable owner of stock might sue for dividends.

Larwill v. Burke, 19 C. C. 449, 513; 10 C. D. 579, 605 (1900).

Conant v. Seneca County Bank, 1 O. S. 298 (1853).

Demand before suit and statute of limitations. A demand must be made on the corporation for the dividend before suit.

Stearns v. Hibben, etc., Co., 11 C. C. n. s. 553 (1908).

Larwill v. Burke, 19 C. C. 449, 513, 526, 532; 10 C. D. 579, 605 (1900).

An action to recover a dividend is barred in six years from the time when it is due and payable.

Stearns v. Hibben, etc., Co., 11 C. C. n. s. 553, 560; 21 C. D. 270 (1908).

Where no time is fixed by the directors for payment, a dividend is due and payable within a reasonable time.

Mitchell v. Bookwalter Wheel Co., 4 N. P. n. s. 609; 17 L. D. 483 (C. P. 1905); aff'd, 75 O. S. 639.

Although a demand is necessary before bringing an action to recover dividends, failure to make such demand does not suspend the operation of the statute of limitations.

Stearns v. Hibben, etc., Co., 11 C. C. n. s. 553, 560; 21 C. D. 270 (1908).

Except under circumstances where the dividends are held under a continuing trust.

Larwill v. Burke, 19 C. C. 449, 513, 526, 532; 10 C. D. 579, 605 (1900).

Officers not liable. When declared by the directors, a dividend becomes the debt of the corporation. The officers of the corporation are not personally liable therefor.

Snodgrass v. Morrison, etc., Co., 4 O. L. R. 622; 17 L. D. 497 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1907).

Evidence. Where the minutes are silent as to the declaration of a dividend, action of the directors may be shown by parol. Kramer v. Foundry Co., 23 N. P. n. s. 81 (1918).

Unanimous consent by stockholders to an informal division of profits, other than pro rata, may estop the corporation from setting up informalities, or the inequality of the distribution as a defense against the payment of the dividend. Kramer v. Foundry Co., 23 N. P. n. s. 81 (1918).

Miscellaneous. A bequest of dividends, without limitation as to time or other qualification, is a bequest of the stock itself.

Collier v. Collier, 3 O. S. 369 (1854).

A by-law of an incorporated co-operative sales company, making the right to certain dividends dependent on the stockholder marketing his entire product through the corporation, has been held valid.

Kroger, etc., Co. v. Butchers Hide Ass., 8 N. P. n. s. 222 (C. P. 1909).

Upon attaining their majority the daughters of R, who was their guardian and held stock inherited by them from their mother, appeared in probate court, receipted for balances shown to be due them on account of dividends collected, and in writing asked that the accounts of their father as guardian be approved. For some years thereafter they permitted him to draw and use the dividends, and then by a written agreement authorized him to draw and use the dividends during his life. After another long interval suits were filed by the daughters for a rescission of the agreement and for a judgment for the dividends drawn. Held, the action was not maintainable.

Lamkin v. Robinson, 15 C. C. n. s. 126; 34 C. D. 91; aff'd, no rep., 88 O. S. 603; reversing 10 N. P. n. s. 1; 21 L. D. 13.

Section 8725. (Unpaid interest not profits.) In calculating its profits, prior to a dividend, interest then unpaid, although due, on debts owing to it, shall not be included. (R. S. Sec. 3269-2; April 11, 1888, 85 v. 182, § 2.)

Section 8726. (How profits ascertained.) In order to ascertain the surplus profits from which a dividend may be made, in the account of profit and loss there shall be charged and deducted from the actual profits—

1. All ordinary and extraordinary expenses, paid or incurred, in managing the affairs and transacting the business of the corporation.

2. Interest paid, or then due or accrued, on debts it owes.

3. All losses of the corporation. In computing its losses, debts owing to it which have been due without prosecution, or interest paid thereon, for more than one year, or upon which judgment was recovered, but has been more than two years unsatisfied, and on which also for that period, no interest was paid, shall be included. (April 10, 1889, 86 v. 228, § 3; April 11, 1888, 85 v. 182, 183.)

The profits need not have been earned during the current year. If undivided profits have been accumulated and carried over, a dividend may be declared therefrom, although no profits were earned during the current year.

Mente v. Groff, 10 N. P. n. s. 148, 157 (C. P. 1910).

Section 8727. (What advertisements prohibited.) No such corporation shall advertise a larger amount of capital stock than actually has been subscribed and paid in, nor advertise a greater dividend than actually has been earned and credited or paid to its stockholders or members. (R. S. Sec. 3269-4; April 10, 1889, 86 v. 228; April 11, 1888, 85 v. 182, 183.)

Issuing fraudulent prospectus of financial condition, penalty, see § 13175.

Section 8728. (Liability for violation.) Every director of such a corporation, who violates or is concerned in violating any provision of the next four preceding sections shall be personally liable to its creditors and stockholders for any loss which thereby they respectively sustain. (R. S. Sec. 3269-4; April 11, 1888, 85 v. 183, § 4.)

See notes to § 8660.

Wrongful payment of dividends.

See Excelsior Water, etc., Co. v. Pierce, 90 Cal. 131 (1891).

Braun v. Riggle, 7 Ky. Law Rep. 519 (1886).

Cornell v. Seddinger, 237 Pa. St. 389.

Where directors of a corporation caused a notice to be published that they and the stockholders were personally responsible for the debts of the company, when the charter did not make them so responsible, a creditor of the corporation who extended credit to it on the faith of such notice may maintain an action against the directors for deceit.

Westervelt v. Demorest, 46 N. J. Law, 37 (1884).

See Cross v. Sackett, 16 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 62 (1858).

Cazeaux v. Mali, 25 Barb. (N. Y.) (1857).

Morse v. Swits, 19 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 275 (1859).

Salmon v. Richardson, 30 Conn. 360 (1862).

Fenn v. Curtis, 23 Hun 384 (1881).

Dividends illegally paid by directors may, in an action by stockholders for mismanagement, be deducted from the stockholders' losses and may be adjudicated in the action.

Glass v. Courtright, 14 N. P. n. s. 273; 23 L. D. 253 (C. P. 1913).

COMMON STOCK WITHOUT PAR VALUE.

Section 8728-1. (Corporations may issue shares of common stock without nominal value; exceptions. Statements required in articles. Filing fee. What each certificate should show. Opening books of subscription; sale of shares; payment of dividends in stock or cash.) The articles of incorporation of any corporation for profit under the laws of this state, except banking, safe deposit, trust and insurance companies, may provide for the issuance of shares of common stock without any nominal or par value, by stating in such articles:

(a) The total number of authorized shares which may be issued by the corporation, and the classes, if any, into which such shares are divided, the number of shares of each class and, if any such shares be preferred stock, the terms and provisions thereof and the amount of each share thereof, which shall be five dollars or some multiple of five dollars, but not more than one hundred dollars.

(b) The amount of common capital with which the corporation will begin to carry on business, which shall not be less than $500.00.

Such statements in the articles of incorporation shall be in lieu of any statements required by law to be stated in the articles of incorporation as to the amount of capital stock, and the number of shares into which the same shall be divided, and the par value of such shares.

The secretary of state shall charge and collect for filing such articles of incorporation a fee of five cents on each share of common stock authorized in the articles to be issued without any nominal or par value, and in addition thereto a fee of one-tenth of one per cent of the par value of the preferred stock authorized in the articles, but in no case shall the aggregate amount to be paid to the secretary of state be less than $25.00 and upon any increase of authorized capital stock, either common or preferred, or both, such fees shall be charged and collected by the secretary of state.

At no time shall the number of shares of preferred stock outstanding be more than two-thirds of the total number of shares, common and preferred, outstanding.

Each share of common stock, without nominal or par value, shall be equal to every other share of such stock, except that the articles of incorporation may provide that such stock shall be divided into different classes, with such designation and voting powers or restrictions or qualifications thereof as shall be stated therein, but all such stock shall be subject to the preference given to the preferred stock, if any, authorized to be issued. Every certificate for such shares without nominal or par value shall have plainly written or printed upon its face the number of such shares which it represents and the number of such shares which the corporation is authorized to issue, and no such certificate shall express any nominal or par value of such shares.

Such corporation may receive subscription for, and issue and sell its preferred shares, as authorized by law. At the time of opening books of subscription to the capital stock, as required by law, subscriptions may be received for the common shares, without nominal or par value, for such consideration as may be decided upon by a majority of the incorporators at the time of ordering books to be opened for subscription; thereafter, subject to the provisions of section 8699, the corporation may issue and sell its said common shares, from time to time, for such consideration as shall be the fair value of such shares, as fixed by its board of directors, or for such consideration as shall be consented to in writing by the holders of all the outstanding shares of common stock, or for such consideration as shall be fixed by the vote of a majority in number of the outstanding common shares at a meeting called for that purpose in such manner as shall be prescribed by the code of regulations. Nothing herein shall prevent a corporation from paying dividends, subject to the limitations of this act, payable in common stock of the company at a price fixed by the board of directors instead of in cash or property. Any and all shares issued as permitted by this section shall be deemed fully paid and non-assessible and the holder of such shares shall not be liable to the corporation or to its creditors in respect thereof. (110 v. 114; 109 v. 273; 108 (Pt. 2) v. 1287; 108 (Pt. 1) v. 507.)

The no-par-value stock act is contained in sections 8728-1 to 8728-11 inclusive.

Under this act a corporation may, but is not required to, provide for preferred stock. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1919, p. 1085.

Section 8728-2. (When corporation may begin business. Rights of creditors and others; limitation of actions. Payment of dividends. When preferred stock may be redeemed. Not subject to certain limitations on borrowing capacity.)

When not less than five persons have subscribed for at least one share each of the capital stock, and paid ten per cent on each share subscribed for, the incorporators or a majority of them shall in lieu of the provisions of section 8633 at once so certify in writing to the secretary of state. As soon as such certificate is filed, the signers thereto and the stockholders shall proceed as provided in sections 8635 and 8636.

No corporation formed pursuant to this act shall begin to carry on business or shall incur any debts until the amount of common capital stated in its articles of incorporation, shall have been fully paid to the corporation in money or in property taken at its actual value; and a certificate to that effect signed and acknowledged by at least a majority of the directors, before an officer authorized to administer oaths, shall be filed with the secretary of state, who shall charge and collect therefor a fee of $5.00. The rights of creditors and persons dealing with such corporation, without knowledge of the failure of the corporation to have complied with the foregoing provisions, shall not be affected thereby, but the directors of the corporation assenting to the creation of any debt in violation of this action shall be liable jointly and severally for such debt; but no action shall be brought under the foregoing provisions of this section unless, within one year after the debt shall have been incurred, the creditor shall have served upon the assenting director or directors written notice of intention to hold him or them personally liable for such debts. Any director who, because of any such liability under this section, shall pay any debt of the corporation, shall be subrogated to all rights of the creditor in respect thereof against the corporation and its property, and also shall be entitled to contribution from all other directors of the corporation similarly liable for the same debt, and the personal representative of any such director who shall have died before making such contribution.

No such corporation shall declare or pay any dividends except from surplus profits arising from its business. In case any dividend shall be declared or paid in violation hereof, the directors in whose administration the same shall have been declared or paid, except those who may have caused their dissent therefrom to be entered upon the minutes of such directors at the time, or who were not present when such action was taken shall be liable jointly and severally to such corporation or a creditor thereof, to the full amount of any loss sustained by such corporation or creditors respectively by reason of such dividend.

The preferred stock, if any be issued, shall not be redeemed by the corporation if thereby the property and assets of the corporation will be reduced below the amount stated in the articles of incorporation or any amendment thereof, as the common capital with which the corporation will begin to carry on business; nor shall such preferred stock be redeemed, if thereby the property and assets of the corporation will be reduced below the amount of its outstanding debts and liabilities.

Corporations formed or reorganized pursuant to this act shall not be subject to the limitations on borrowing capacity provided for by section 8705. (109 v. 275; 108 (Pt. 2) v. 1289; 108 (Pt. 1) v. 508.)

Section 8728-3. (How par value of shares shall be stated.)

In any case in which the law requires that the par value of the shares of stock of a corporation be stated in any certificate or paper, it shall be stated in respect to shares without par value that such shares are without par value, and wherever the amount of stock authorized or issued is required to be stated, the number of shares authorized or issued shall be stated, and it shall also be stated that such shares are without par value. (108 (Pt. 2) v. 1290; 108 (Pt. 1) v. 510.)

Section 8728-4. (Increase or reduction of stock; fee. When and how amendment can be made.)

Any corporation formed or re-organized so as to have common stock without par value may increase the amount of its stated common capital, or may reduce the same to not less than five hundred dollars, or may reduce the number of its authorized common shares, or may provide for preferred stock, or may amend its articles of incorporation or certificate of reorganization so as to accomplish any of the purposes authorized by section 8719 that are not inconsistent with any of the other provisions of this act, in the manner and in accordance with sections 8719 and -8723, inclusive, of the General Code, or may reduce the number of its authorized preferred shares as provided in section 8700 of the General Code and a charge of five dollars shall be made for such amendment or reduction. The secretary of state shall charge and collect for filing a certificate of amendment changing unissued common stock to preferred stock, a fee of one-tenth of one per cent of the par value of said preferred stock, less the fees theretofore paid upon the shares of common stock so changed, but not less than five dollars to be charged in any such case, and for filing every other certificate of amendment the fees provided by law for filing certificates of amendments.

Corporations formed or re-organized pursuant to this act may increase the total number of authorized shares in the manner provided by sections 8698 and 8699 of the General Code.

An amendment cannot be made under this section unless as so amended the articles of incorporation could lawfully have been originally filed under this act. In case of a reduction of the amount of common capital of a corporation, a certificate setting forth the whole amount of the ascertained debts and liabilities of the corporation shall be made, signed and verified by the president or vice president, and by the secretary or treasurer of the corporation, and filed with the certificate of amendment; and such certificate of debts and liabilities shall have endorsed thereon the certificate of the commissioner of securities that he has received satisfactory proof that the reduced amount of capital is sufficient for the proper purpose of the corporation and that said corporation has tangible assets equal to or in excess of its ascertained debts and liabilities and the amount of said common capital as reduced, and also the par value of its preferred stock, if any, then outstanding. (109 v. 276; 108 (Pt. 2) v. 1290; 108 (Pt. 1) v. 510.)

Section 8728-5. (Certificate of reorganization; statements required.) Any corporation for profit heretofore or hereafter organized under the general incorporation laws of this state, other than corporations belonging to one of the classes specifically excepted by section 8728-1, may be reorganized so that such corporation, its officers, directors and stockholders, shall acquire and enjoy all the rights, privileges, powers and exemptions, and become subject to all of the liabilities and obligations imposed by this act, upon the filing and recording in the office of the secretary of state, a certificate of reorganization of the company, pursuant to this act, stating:

First: The name under which the corporation was originally organized, and if it has been changed, the present corporate title.

Second: The date of its articles of incorporation, and all amendments thereof, and volume and page wherein recorded in the office of the secretary of state.

Third: The place where it is located or its principle business transacted.

Fourth: The amount of its capital stock, and the number of shares into which it has been divided, and, if classified, the number and par value of the shares included in each class, and the terms and provisions of the preferred stock, if any.

Fifth: The number of shares of each class issued and outstanding.

Sixth: The number of shares that may henceforth be issued by the corporation, which may be either less than, or equal to, or in excess of the number of shares into which the capital stock was previously divided, and all of the matters and things required to be stated in an original certificate of incorporation by subdivision "a" of section 8728-1.

Seventh: The amount of common capital with which the reorganized corporation will begin to carry on business, which shall be in all respects as required by subdivision "b" of section 8728-1.

Eighth: The terms upon which new shares of the reorganized corporation shall be issued in place of such of the outstanding shares of stock as are changed or affected by the provisions of the certificate of reorganization.

Ninth: It may also, if desired, prescribe the minimum consideration for which the reorganized corporation may issue and sell its authorized common shares. If such consideration be not so prescribed, said common shares shall be disposed of as provided by section 8728-1.

Nothing shall be included in such certificate other than as authorized by this section, and it shall be either:

(a) Signed by every stockholder of record of the corporation, having voting power, or his duly authorized proxy, and shall have annexed an affidavit of the secretary of the company to the effect the persons who have executed the certificate, in person or by proxy, constitute the holders of record of all the shares of stock of the corporation, issued and outstanding, entitled to vote, or:

(b) Signed by the president or a vice-president and the secretary or treasurer of the corporation, who shall make and annex an affidavit stating that they have been authorized and directed to execute and file the certificate by the votes, cast in person or by proxy, of the holders of record of two-thirds or more of each class of the outstanding shares of stock entitled to vote at a meeting called and held upon written notice mailed to each stockholder of record, entitled to vote, at least two weeks before the date set for the meeting, and published once a week for at least two successive weeks in a newspaper published and of general circulation in the county wherein the principal office of the corporation is located; and that such notice did expressly state the purpose of the meeting to be that of reorganizing the corporation pursuant to this act, so as to permit the issuance of shares without par value, and did state the terms upon which the outstanding shares of stock were to be exchanged for the new shares; provided, however, that if it is proposed in the certificate of reorganization to change the terms or provisions, or to increase the number of shares, or the par value of shares of any class of stock which is denied full voting power, or of any class of stock senior thereto, then such stock shall, for the purposes of this section, have voting power. (108 (Pt. 2) v. 1291; 108 (Pt. 1) v. 510.)

Section 8728-6. (When affidavit as to debts and liabilities required; endorsement of commissioner.) If the amount of common capital, stated in the certificate of re-organization as that with which the re-organized corporation will begin to carry on business, be less than the total amount of the par value of the previously issued and outstanding common capital stock, there shall be annexed to such certificate an affidavit of the president or vice president and the secretary or treasurer of the corporation, setting forth the whole amount of the ascertained debts and liabilities of the corporation; and, in such case, the certificate of reorganization shall have endorsed thereon the approval of the commissioner of securities to the effect that he has received proof satisfactory to him that the amount of common capital stated in the certificate of reorganization as that with which the reorganized corporation will begin to carry on business is sufficient for the proper purposes of the corporation, and that said corporation has tangible assets equal to or in excess of its ascertained debts and liabilities and the amount of said common capital as stated in the certificate of reorganization, and also, the par value of its preferred stock, if any, then outstanding, or to be issued in exchange for outstanding stock as provided in said certificate. (109 v. 277; 108 (Pt. 2) v. 1292; 108 (Pt. 1) v. 512.)

Section 8728-7. (Statement by president and treasurer before incurring debts; filing fee; rights of creditors.) No corporation reorganized under this act shall incur any debts subsequent to the filing of the certificate of reorganization until it shall have assets of an actual value at least equal to the amount of its common capital stated in its certificate of reorganization as that with which it will begin to carry on business, and shall have first filed with the secretary of state the sworn statement of its president or vice-president and treasurer of such facts, for the filing of which the secretary of state shall charge and collect a fee of $5.00. The rights of creditors and persons dealing with such corporation without knowledge of the failure of the corporation to have complied with the foregoing provisions shall not be affected thereby, but the directors of a corporation assenting to the creation of a debt in violation of this section shall be jointly and severally liable for such debt in like manner as provided and subject to the conditions and limitations imposed by section 8728-2 of this act. (108 (Pt. 2) v. 1293; 108 (Pt. 1) v. 512.)

Section 8728-8. (Liability unaffected by reorganization.) The liability of the corporation, its officers, directors and stockholders for corporate debts contracted or obligations incurred prior to the filing of the certificate of reorganization pursuant to this act shall be unaffected thereby, but for the purpose of enforcing and recovering upon such claims creditors shall have the same right of recourse against the corporation, or against its officers, directors and stockholders individually that they would have had if the corporation had not been reorganized. Except as provided by this section the new shares issued by the reorganized corporation shall be deemed fully paid and non-assessable and the holder of such shares shall not be liable to the corporation or to its creditors in respect thereof. (108 (Pt. 1) v. 513.)

Section 8728-9. (Proceedings shall not work a dissolution or create new corporation.) No proceedings taken under section six of this act (G. C. 8728-6) shall be deemed to work a dissolution, or to create a new corporation or to interrupt in any way the continuity of existence of the corporation affected. (108 (Pt. 1) v. 513.)

Section 8728-10. (Fees to be paid secretary of state.) Every corporation reorganized pursuant to this act, and every such reorganized corporation increasing its authorized capital stock, shall pay to the secretary of state the same fees provided in section 8728-1, as therein computed; provided, however, that the secretary of state shall charge and collect for the filing of the certificate of reorganization referred to in section 8728-5 a fee of not less than $25.00.

Any corporation which has heretofore been organized or reorganized under the provisions of sections 8728-1 to 8728-12, inclusive, of the General Code, shall be entitled to the benefits of this amendatory act upon filing with the secretary of state a certified copy of a resolution adopted by its board of directors signifying its election to avail itself hereof and upon payment of a filing fee of twenty-five dollars. (108 (Pt. 2) v. 1293; 108 (Pt. 1) v. 513.)

A corporation reorganized under the act is not entitled to credit for fees theretofore paid to the secretary of state. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1919, p. 1085.

The fee payable by a corporation reorganized under the act is five cents for each authorized share of no-par common stock, whether the shares are new stock, or shares changed from par value to no-par value. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1919, p. 1085.

Section 8728-11. (Amount of fees payable.) The amount of fees payable under section 5498 by a corporation formed or re-organized so as to have common stock without par value shall be three-twentieths of one percent upon its subscribed or issued and outstanding preferred stock, plus five cents for each share of common stock, without par value, subscribed or issued and outstanding, but not less than ten dollars in any case.

The amount of fees payable by a foreign corporation having common stock without par value under section 180 shall be the fees therein provided as to the authorized preferred stock, and five cents per share for the authorized common stock without par value, but such fees shall not be less than fifteen dollars nor more than fifty dollars. The amount of fees payable by such a foreign corporation under section 184 shall be one-tenth of one percent upon the pro-

ANNUAL FRANCHISE TAX ON FOREIGN CORPORATIONS UNCONSTITUTIONAL

The United States Supreme Court on October 20, 1924, held Sec. 8728-11, General Code of Ohio, to be unconstitutional. Air-Way Electric Appliance Corporation v. Day, Treasurer, U. S., 69 Law Ed. (Advance Sheets November 1, 1924); reversing 279 Fed. 878.

G. C. Sec. 8728-11 imposes an annual franchise tax on foreign corporations based on the number of authorized shares of no-par stock. The reasoning of the decision seems also to affect G. C. Sec. 5502, which imposes an annual franchise tax on foreign corporations (having a par value capital stock) based on the authorized capital stock. It may also affect G. C. Sec. 184, basing the initial franchise tax of a foreign corporation on its authorized capital stock.

Action on this subject may be expected from the next session of the Ohio Legislature.

THE W. H. ANDERSON COMPANY

November 12, 1924.

portion of authorized preferred stock represented by property owned and used and business transacted in this state, and five cents per share upon the proportion of the number of shares of authorized common stock, represented by property owned and used and business transacted in this state, but not less than ten dollars in any case; and the fee payable under section 185 by such corporations shall be determined in the same manner, but not less than ten dollars in any case; and under section 5503 shall be three-twentieths of one per cent upon the proportion of the authorized preferred stock represented by property owned and used and business transacted in this state and five cents per share upon the proportion of the number of shares of authorized common stock, represented by property owned and used and business transacted in this state, but not less than ten dollars in any case. (109 v. 277; 108 (Pt. 2) v. 1293; 108 (Pt. 1) v. 513.)

The amendment of 109 v. 277 is constitutional. Air-way Corporation v. Archer, 279 Fed. 878 (D. C. Ohio 1922).

The minimum and maximum fee under § 180 applies to the capital stock as a whole, and not to common and preferred separately. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1920, p. 886.

Being a general revenue measure, the amendment of 109 v. 277 became effective May 17, 1921. Air-way Corporation v. Archer, 279 Fed. 878.

Fees of foreign corporation under original act. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1919, pp. 1085, 1117.

Section 8728-12. (Jurisdiction of commissioner not superseded; expenses paid by corporation under investigation.) Nothing in this act shall modify or supersede the jurisdiction of the commissioner of securities over the sale of bonds, stocks and other securities by corporations formed or organized pursuant to this act, under all laws enacted to regulate the sale of bonds, stocks and other securities and to prevent fraud in such sales. Any expenses incurred by the commissioner of securities in the performance of the duties required of him under sections 4 and 6 of this act (G. C. §§ 8728-4, 8728-6), shall be paid by the corporation involved in the investigation. (108 (Pt. 1) v. 513.)

MISCELLANEOUS.

Section 8729. (Affidavit as to campaign contributions.) Every corporation for profit doing business in this state, except corporations required by law to file annual report with the auditor of state or the superintendent of insurance, annually during the month of May, if it be a domestic corporation, and during the month of September, if it be a foreign corporation, shall file with the secretary of state in such form as he prescribes, an affidavit subscribed and sworn to by an officer having knowledge of the facts therein set forth, setting forth that such corporation has not during the preceding year directly or indirectly paid, used or offered, consented or agreed to pay or use, any of its money or property for, or in aid, of any political party, committee or organization, or for, or in aid of, any candidate for political office or for nomination for any such office, or in any manner used any of its money or property for any political purpose whatever, or for the reimbursement or indemnification of any person or persons for moneys or property so used. Such forms of affidavits as the secretary prescribes shall be attached to or made part of the report required to be made of such corporation under the law, requiring corporations to file annual reports with the secretary of state and to pay annual fee therefor. (February 26, 1908, 99 v. 23, § 2.)

See §§ 5522, 13320.

This section does not apply to partisan newspapers.

Rep. Atty. Gen. (1908-1909) 76.

A corporation may pay for the insertion of an advertisement in the program of a convention of a political party.

Rep. Atty. Gen. (1908-1909) 86.

Section 8730. (Affidavit in annual reports to auditor and superintendent of insurance.) Corporations required by law to file annual reports with the auditor of state or the superintendent of insurance, shall file with such officers similar affidavits in such form as the auditor of state or the superintendent of insurance prescribes. The form of affidavit presented by such officer shall be attached to or made a part of the report required to be made of such corporation under existing laws. The affidavit shall be made at the time when such reports are required to be made. (February 26, 1908, 99 v. 23, § 2.)

Section 8730-1. (Corporations authorized to create and maintain instrumentalities for public welfare; co-operation of such. Report to secretary of state.) That any corporation organized under the laws of this state may co-operate with other corporations and with natural persons in the creation and maintenance of community funds or of charitable, philanthropic or benevolent instrumentalities conducive to public welfare, and its directors or trustees may appropriate and expend for such purposes such sum or sums as they may deem expedient and as, in their judgment, will contribute to the protection of the corporate interests, provided that whenever the expenditures for such purposes in any calendar year shall in the aggregate amount to one per centum on the capital stock outstanding, then, before any further expenditure is made during such year for such purposes by the corporation, ten days' notice shall be given to the stockholders in such manner as the directors or trustees may direct of the intention to make such further expenditure, specifying the amount thereof, and if written objection be made by stockholders holding twenty-five per centum or more of the stock of the corporation, such further expenditure shall not be made until it shall have been authorized at a stockholders' meeting.

All such corporations making appropriations and expenditures under the provisions of this act shall report annually to the secretary of state the sums so appropriated or expended and the name or names of the community funds or philanthropic, charitable or benevolent instrumentalities in whose behalf such sums are appropriated or expended. (108 (Pt. 2) v. 1245.)

Except as authorized by this section, donations for public and charitable purposes are ultra vires, and officers who make the same may be liable for the amount thereof. But if the primary object is to promote the corporate purposes, either directly or indirectly, a contribution or donation may be within the corporate powers. Such donations should be authorized by the directors. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1915, p. 1492.

Section 8731. (By what laws corporations shall be governed.) Corporations created before the adoption of the present constitution, which have not, by election or some other act, come to be governed by laws since passed, shall be governed and controlled by the laws then in force, and the valid modifications thereof since or herein enacted. Other corporations now existing or hereafter created shall be governed and controlled by the provisions of this title. (R. S. Sec. 3232; R. S. 1880.)

A general law of the state will affect companies incorporated under special acts, as to which there was a reserved power of amendment or repeal.

State v. Cincinnati Gas, etc., Co., 18 O. S. 262.

Although the special charter is not subject to amendment or repeal, the corporation is subject to general police regulation and control.

State v. Columbus, etc., Co., 34 O. S. 572 (1878).

State v. Eagle Ins. Co., 50 O. S. 252 (1893).

Gas companies incorporated under special charters are subject to § 3982 authorizing municipalities to regulate the price of gas, where the right to fix their own rates is not expressly granted in the charters.

Zanesville v. Gas Light Co., 47 O. S. 1, 35 (1889).

A corporation organized under a special act, for a certain specified time, may be treated as a corporation where it continues to exercise its corporate powers after the expiration of the time for which it was chartered.

Myers v. Lucas, 16 C. C. 545; 8 C. D. 431 (1898); reversed on other grounds, 63 O. S. 101.

The Association of the Tobacco Trade of Cincinnati, a corporation formed under the act of April 3, 1866 (S. & S. 182), since the repeal of that act, is under this section governed by the provisions of title IX of the General Code.

State v. Casey, 38 O. S. 555 (1883).

Railroad companies organized under the act of 1848, before the adoption of the present constitution, and which have not relinquished their right to be governed by said act, are not bound by later acts reducing the rates of freight.

Iron R. R. Co. v. Lawrence Furnace Co., 29 O. S. 208 (1876).

Section 8732. (What corporations may accept the provisions of this title.) A corporation created before the adoption of the present constitution, and now actually doing business, may accept any of the provisions of this title. When a certified copy of such acceptance is filed with the secretary of state, so much of its charter as is inconsistent with the provisions of this title is hereby repealed. (R. S. Sec. 3233; May 1, 1852, 50 v. 274, § 71; S. & C. 309.)

A certificate of acceptance is merely evidence of the fact of acceptance, and is not indispensable. Acceptance may be implied from the use of privileges granted by the present law. A railroad company by taking or making leases authorized by the present law was held to thereby accept the present law and to relinquish all rights inconsistent therewith.

C. H. & D. R. Co. v. Cole, 29 O. S. 126 (1876).

Owen v. Purdy, 12 O. S. 73 (1861).

Dayton, etc., R. Co. v. Hatch, 1 Disney 84 (1855).

Zabriskie v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 23 How. (U. S.) 381, 396, 397 (1860).

See also, G. C. § 8736 and note.

An amendment of a charter can not be accepted in part. It must be accepted or rejected in toto.

Marietta, etc., R. Co. v. Elliott, 10 O. S. 57, 60 (1859).

Baldwin v. Hillsborough R. Co., 10 W. L. J. 337 (1853).

By adopting the provisions of this title a corporation can not acquire powers or rights inconsistent with its original charter.

Rep. Atty. Gen. 1911-1912, p. 798.

A corporation organized under special charter, which desires to change its name and at the same time preserve its corporate powers intact, should apply to the legislature for a special act changing the name.

Rep. Atty. Gen. 1911-1912, p. 1679.

Before a corporation not for profit, organized under special charter, may change the number of its trustees it should formally accept the general corporation law. Rep. Atty. Gen. 1913, p. 89.

Special privileges conferred by private charter under the constitution of 1802 do not so inhere in the railroad constructed under the charter as necessarily to pass to any corporation which, by subsequent legislation, may acquire the right to operate the road.

Pittsburg, etc., Ry. Co. v. Moore, 33 O. S. 384 (1878).

Section 8733. (Special charters not accepted or acted upon.) All special acts of incorporation in force in this state, which have not been accepted, or acted upon, be and the same are hereby repealed. (R. S. Sec. 3233-1; February 12, 1861, 58 v. 12.)

A special charter, being deemed merely an offer on the part of the state until acceptance, may be revoked and repealed at any time before acceptance.

State v. Damson, 16 Ind. 40 (1861).

Effect of constitution of 1851 on unaccepted charters.

See State v. Roosa, 11 O. S. 16 (1860).

Citizens Bank v. Wright, 6 O. S. 318 (1856).

Judicial notice of special charters. Held not judicially noticed; must be pleaded under G. C. § 11340 (R. S. 5092).

Pittsburg, etc., Co. v. Moore, 33 O. S. 384 (1878).

Contra, Brown v. State, 11 Ohio 276 (1842).

Jones v. Scudder, 2 C. S. C. R. 178 (1872).

See Railroad Co. v. Hoffhines, 46 O. S. 643, 650 (1889).

State v. Granville Society, 11 Ohio 1, 9 (1841).

Beaty v. Knowler, 4 Pet. 152.

Section 8734. (Duty of secretary of state; effect of charter.) When it is made to appear to the satisfaction of the secretary of state that any religious society or corporation heretofore organized or incorporated under the laws of this state has lost its charter or certificate of incorporation, or that it has been destroyed, he shall issue a new certificate of incorporation of such religious society or corporation of the date of issuing such lost or destroyed certificate as near as shall be made to appear to him. Thereupon all deeds, mortgages, or other instruments of writing for the conveyance of land, as well as all acts done by such religious society or corporation by virtue of such lost certificate or charter, shall be binding and of full force in law and in equity. But nothing herein shall be construed to make valid any act not authorized under the laws of this state which heretofore have been in force. (R. S. Sec. 3233-2; March 25, 1878, 75 v. 77.)

Section 8735. (Prima facie evidence of incorporation.) The fact that a religious society for not less than thirty years, claiming to have been duly and legally incorporated as such, and performing during such time duties and exercising rights as such, shall be prima facie evidence of the original issue of such charter or certificate of incorporation as claimed by such society. (R. S. Sec. 3233-3; March 25, 1878, 75 v. 77.)

See Congregational Church v. Webber, 54 Mich. 571.

Section 8736. (Corporations created prior to 1851.) Corporations created before the adoption of the present constitution, which take any action under or in pursuance of this title, shall thereby and thereafter be deemed to have consented, and be held to be a corporation, and to have and exercise all its franchises under the present constitution and the laws passed in pursuance thereof, and not otherwise. But any fire insurance company so created, filing annual reports with the superintendent of insurance, as provided by law, or complying with any police regulation contained in chapter one of subdivision two of division three of this title, or in chapter two of division two of title three, part first, shall not be deemed to have consented, nor be affected by the provisions of this section by reason of such compliance. (R. S. Sec. 3234; March 8, 1892, 89 v. 73; May 18, 1886, 83 v. 201; R. S. 1880.)

See note to § 8732.

Corporate acts constituting acceptance. Railroad company taking or making leases.

C. H. & D. R. Co. v. Cole, 29 O. S. 126 (1876).

Consolidation of railroad companies.

Shields v. State, 26 O. S. 86 (1875); affirmed, 95 U. S. 319.

Receiving real estate in payment of subscriptions to stock of railroad company.

Goodin v. Evans, 18 O. S. 150 (1868).

Dayton, etc., R. Co. v. Hatch, 1 Disney 84 (1855).

General course of business transacted by a bank.

Owen v. Purdy, 12 O. S. 73, 80 (1861).

Change of time of election and terms of directors.

State v. Lakamp, 4 C. C. 257; 2 C. D. 533 (1889).

Fire insurance company issuing policies authorized by general laws, and not authorized by its charter.

Knox County Mutual Ins. Co. v. Bowersox, 6 C. C. 275; 3 C. D. 451 (1892).

5 Opins. Attys. Gen. 853, 935 (1900).

Continuing to act as a corporation after the time limited in the special charter for its expiration.

Myers v. Lucas, 16 C. C. 545; 8 C. D. 431 (1898); reversed, on other grounds, 63 O. S. 101.

Acceptance by directors. Where the special charter conferred such authority on the directors, acceptance by the directors is binding upon the corporation.

Goodin v. Evans, 18 O. S. 150, 167 (1868).

Dayton, etc., R. Co. v. Hatch, 1 Disney 84, 92 (1855).

Estoppel of stockholders to deny acceptance.

Goodin v. Evans, 18 O. S. 150, 168 (1868).

Owen v. Purdy, 12 O. S. 73, 78 (1861).

Statute imposing new liability on stockholders. A statute imposing upon stockholders, without their consent, a liability not imposed by the charter, is unconstitutional. The assent of a stockholder to such a liability is not presumed, but must be proved.

Ireland v. Palestine, etc., Turnpike Co., 19 O. S. 369 (1869).

See Owen v. Purdy, 12 O. S. 73, 79 (1861).

Fire insurance companies. A fire insurance company is not exempt from G. C. §§ 9590 to 9592 unless such exemption was clearly granted by its charter.

State v. Eagle Insurance Co., 50 O. S. 252 (1893); affirmed, 153 U. S. 446.

Section 8737. (When provisions do not apply.) This chapter does not apply when special provision is made in subsequent chapters of this title, but the special provision shall govern, unless it clearly appears that the provision is cumulative. (R. S. Sec. 3269; R. S. 1880.)

The general corporation law (§§ 8623 to 8743 inclusive) does not apply to the organization of insurance companies, which are governed by § 9339 et seq.

State v. Pioneer Live Stock Co., 38 O. S. 347 (1882).

Rep. Atty. Gen. 1914, pp. 229, 233.

The provisions of § 8683 authorizing a corporation to acquire stock in certain other companies apply to railroad companies and are not inconsistent with §§ 8806 to 8809, but are cumulative.

Mannington v. H. V. Ry. Co., 8 O. L. R. 451, 477; 183 Fed. 133; 16 O. F. D. 552 (C. C. 1910).

The articles of a corporation formed under a special statutory provision for a certain class of corporations should not contain a statement that it is formed under the general corporation law. The reference, if any, should be to the special provision. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1919, pp. 18, 36.

"Unless it clearly appears that the provision is cumulative." "Clearly" means "in a clear manner; without obscurity; without entanglement or confusion; without uncertainty."

"Cumulative" means "additional; that which is superadded to another thing of the same character and not substituted for it."

Mannington v. H. V. Ry. Co., 8 O. L. R. 451, 477; 183 Fed. 133; 16 O. F. D. 552 (1910).

DISSOLUTION.

Section 8738. (Dissolution by abandonment of objects.) When a majority of the directors, trustees, or other officers of a corporation not for profit desire to abandon its corporate existence and it has no debts, or in case of a corporation for profit when a majority of such officers become satisfied that the objects of the corporation cannot be accomplished, that no installment of its capital stock has been paid, no investments made, and that it has no debts, they, or the president of the board of directors, trustees, or other officers, may call a meeting of the members or stockholders of the corporation at such time and place as he or they designate by at least two weeks' publication in a newspaper published and of general circulation in the county wherein the principal office is located. (R. S. Sec. 5674; April 18, 1902, 95 v. 208; May 4, 1869, 66 v. 94, § 1.)

Dissolution by judicial proceedings see §§ 11938 to 11973.

Forfeiture of charter § 12304 et seq.

Where no stock has been subscribed for and the incorporators desire to abandon the proposed corporation, they may file a certificate to that effect with the secretary of state. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1915, p. 137.

Section 8739. (Filing of certificate.) If a majority of the members of such corporation not for profit present at such meeting desire such abandonment, or a majority in amount of the stockholders of such corporation for profit present in person or by proxy decide that the objects of such corporation cannot be accomplished then such corporation shall be abandoned or dissolved upon the filing of a certificate of such abandonment or dissolution with the secretary of state in the manner provided by law. (R. S. Sec. 5674; April 18, 1902, 95 v. 208; May 4, 1869, 66 v. 94, § 1.)

See § 5521.

Section 8740. (Dissolution by corporation whose business is closed.) When a majority of the directors or other officers having the management of the concerns of a corporation for profit, which has completely closed its business, and paid all the debts and liabilities incurred by it, desire to surrender its corporate authority and franchises, they, or the president of such board of directors, may call a meeting of the stockholders at such time or place as he or they designate by publication for four weeks in some newspaper published and of general circulation in the county wherein the principal office of the corporation is located and by written notices addressed to each of the stockholders whose residence is known, of the object, time and place of the meeting. (R. S. Sec. 5674a; April 18, 1902, 95 v. 208.)

A waiver of the notice required by this section is not authorized. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1915, p. 162.

Publication of the notice once a week for four weeks is sufficient. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1917, p. 1987.

"Liabilities" include claims for unliquidated damages which have not been reduced to judgment, such as a claim in tort. Roberts v. Krug, 24 N. P. n. s. 490 (1922); aff'd by Court of Appeals.

The notice required by this section is for the benefit of stockholders, and not of creditors, and publication of the notice imposes no duty on a creditor to file a claim before dissolution. Roberts v. Krug, 24 N. P. n. s. 490 (1922); aff'd by Court of Appeals.

Dissolution under this section does not cause the statute of limitations (§ 8689) to begin to run against stockholder's liability, the right of voluntary dissolution being conferred only upon corporations whose debts are paid. Nevin v. Engineering Co., 18 C. C. n. s. 237 (1908); aff'd, no rep. 84 O. S. 498.

Section 8741. (Filing of certificate.) If all the stockholders present at such meeting in person or by proxy decide to surrender and abandon its corporate authority the corporation shall be abandoned and dissolved upon the filing of a certificate of the abandonment or dissolution with the secretary of state in the manner provided by law. (R. S. Sec. 5674a; April 18, 1902, 95 v. 208.)

A certificate from tax commission that the corporation has made all reports and paid all taxes is required as a condition precedent to filing a certificate of dissolution. § 5521.

The certificate should show that notice was given as required by § 8740. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1915, p. 162.

: After articles have been cancelled, under § 5509, for failure to make franchise tax reports or payments, reinstatement under § 5511 is necessary before a certificate of voluntary dissolution may be filed. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1923, p. —; 1 Ohio Law Abst. 586.

Section 8742. (Trustees to settle affairs of corporation.) Upon the dissolution of a corporation by the expiration of the term of its charter, or otherwise, and unless other persons be appointed by the legislature, or by the stockholders, directors, or trustees of the corporation, or by a court of competent authority, the directors, trustees, or managers of the affairs of such corporation, acting last before the time of its dissolution by whatever name known in law, and their survivors, shall be the trustees of the creditors and stockholders of the dissolved corporation, and have full power to settle its affairs, collect and pay outstanding debts, and divide among the stockholders the money and other property remaining, in proportion to the stock of each stockholder paid up, after payment of debts and necessary expenses. (R. S. Sec. 5675; March 21, 1850, 48 v. 90, § 5; March 7, 1842, 40 v. 67, § 14; S. & C. 363.)

Where a corporation, organized for the purpose of disposing of land, completed its business and adjourned sine die in 1809 it is presumed that the corporation was dissolved and that neither its stockholders nor their successors retained any interest in a strip of land which had been dedicated as a street.

Cleveland v. Railways, 8 N. P. n. s. 457 (C. P. 1909; aff'd, 15 C. C. n. s. 193; 87 O. S. 469).

This section applies to Ohio corporations only. Weiser v. Julian, 15 Ohio App. 171 (1921).

Where assets are distributed to stockholders, a creditor holding an unliquidated claim may, after obtaining judgment against the corporation, require the stockholders to account for the value of the assets to the extent necessary to pay the judgment. Roberts v. Krug, 24 N. P. n. s. 490 (1922); aff'd by Court of Appeals.

Taxes. Claims for, and defenses. See Rep. Atty. Gen. 1913, p. 604.

Section 8743. (Powers and duties of such trustees.) The persons so constituted trustees may sue for and recover the debts and property of the dissolved corporation, by the name of trustees of the corporation, describing it by its corporate name, and jointly and severally they shall be responsible to the creditors and stockholders of the corporation, to the extent of its property and effects coming into their hands. Such trustees may be made or become parties to any action, by or against the corporation. All liens of judgments existing at the time of the dissolution either in favor of or against the corporation, shall continue in force as if the dissolution had not taken place. (R. S. Sec. 5675; March 21, 1850, 48 v. 90, § 5; March 7, 1842, 40 v. 67, § 14; S. & C. 363, 366.)

The trustees may sue in their collective names, not in their individual names.

Martin v. Trustees of Belmont Bank, 13 Ohio 250 (1844).

The trustees may have judgment entered on a cognovit note owned by the corporation at the time of its dissolution.

Martin v. Trustees of Belmont Bank, 13 Ohio 250 (1844).

Directors who distribute assets to stockholders before the payment of corporate creditors are personally liable to the creditors to the extent of such assets. Macneale v. Mfg. Co., 276 Fed. 491 (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1921.)

It has been held that the trustees had no authority to acquire the title to stock, held by the corporations as pledgee, so as to render the corporation liable as a stockholder under the former double liability law. Gill v. Printing Co., 16 C. C. n. s. 568 (1907); aff'd, no rep. 80 O. S. 742.

A creditors committee authorized to dispose of corporate assets "by sale, liquidation or otherwise" has no authority to exchange the assets for stock in another corporation. But the stockholders may be barred by estoppel from questioning the transaction. Smith v. Gowan, 18 C. C. n. s. 99 (1911).

Where a corporation went into voluntary liquidation after the death of a stockholder, it was held that, in a suit by his administrator for a share of the assets, the liquidating trustees were not entitled to set off a claim of the corporation against the stockholder which accrued during his life. Downer v. Loan Co., 16 C. C. n. s. 378 (1905).

Suits against defunct corporation.

See Renick v. Bank of West Union, 13 Ohio 298 (1844).

Service of process upon the members of its last acting board of directors is sufficient, under the statute, to give the court jurisdiction.

Warner v. Callender, 20 O. S. 190 (1876).

Vallette v. Kentucky Trust Co., 2 Handy 1 (1855).

Directors of a dissolved corporation may voluntarily enter their appearance in an action against the corporation.

In re Columbus Bicycle Co., 1 N. P. n. s. 461; 14 L. D. 407 (C. P. 1908).

THE LAW
OF PRIVATE CORPORATIONS IN OHIO

TOGETHER WITH DECISIONS, COMMENTARIES, FORMS AND PRECEDENTS

BY
HOWARD A. COUSE
OF THE CLEVELAND BAR
AUTHOR OF THE OHIO FORM BOOK

SECOND EDITION

VOLUME II.

TWO-VOLUMES-IN-ONE EDITION

CINCINNATI
THE W. H. ANDERSON CO.

1924

COPYRIGHT, 1913,
BY
THE W. H. ANDERSON COMPANY.

COPYRIGHT, 1924,
BY
THE W. H. ANDERSON COMPANY.

TABLE OF CONTENTS

VOLUME I

PART		PAGE
I.	Organization and management of private corporations for profit.....	1
II.	Forms.....	102
III.	Constitution of Ohio. Provisions affecting corporations..	397
IV.	Miscellaneous statutory provisions.....	403
V.	Foreign corporations.....	408
VI.	Public utilities commission.....	431
VII.	Superintendent of insurance.....	552
VIII.	Banks and banking.....	595
IX.	Tax commission act.....	690
X.	Cemetery associations.....	696
XI.	Miscellaneous provisions of the municipal code relating to private corporations, railroads, street railways, gas, water and electric light companies, etc.....	699
XII.	Taxation of corporations and stock.....	771
XIII.	Regulation of sale of securities. (Blue Sky Law).....	854
XIV.	Trusts.....	874
XV.	Miscellaneous statutory provisions relating to carriers..	886
XVI.	General corporation law.....	913

VOLUME II

XVII.	Railroads and street railways.....	1187
XVIII.	Public service corporations other than railroads.....	1515
XIX.	Insurance companies.....	1605
XX.	Building and loan associations.....	1921
XXI.	Title companies, collateral loan companies, and miscellaneous statutory provisions relating to banks.....	1949
XXII.	Corporations not for profit. Special provisions.....	1956
XXIII.	Miscellaneous provisions relating to certain corporations..	2061
XXIV.	Justice of the peace code provisions.....	2109
XXV.	Appropriation of property.....	2115
XXVI.	Code of civil procedure provisions.....	2153
XXVII.	Penal code provisions.....	2228
XXVIII.	Federal statutes affecting corporations.....	2256

OHIO PRIVATE CORPORATIONS

PART XVII.

RAILROADS.

- CHAPTER 1. Special Powers.
- CHAPTER 2. Tracks and Crossings.
- CHAPTER 3. Drainage and Fences.
- CHAPTER 4. Trains and Equipment.
- CHAPTER 5. Fare and Freight.
- CHAPTER 6. Employees.
- CHAPTER 7. Consolidation.
- CHAPTER 8. Sales and Receivers.
- CHAPTER 9. Reorganization.
- CHAPTER 10. Street and Interurban.
- CHAPTER 11. Policemen.

CHAPTER 1.

SPECIAL POWERS.

- | | |
|---|---|
| § 8744. Office of company in state. | § 8762. When conveyance to company void. |
| Construction. | § 8763. Elevated track; use of public way. |
| § 8745. May build and operate railroad. | § 8764. Appropriation of property for elevated track. |
| § 8746. Terminus on state line or boundary. | § 8765. Limitation as to action for damages. |
| § 8747. Change of line or terminus. | § 8766. Longitudinal occupancy of way unlawful. |
| § 8748. Change to be certified to secretary of state. | § 8767. Appropriation of easement. |
| § 8749. Mortgage on line so changed. | § 8768. Submission of plans to council. |
| § 8750. When and how route may be changed. | § 8769. Control by public authorities. |
| § 8751. Damages for diversion. | § 8770. Piers or other supports in a public way. |
| § 8752. Limitations on actions for damages. | § 8771. Submission of question to electors. |
| § 8753. Change of location or grade. | § 8772. Extension of line, how authorized. |
| § 8754. Appropriation of land to make such change. | § 8773. Diversion of road or stream. |
| § 8755. Damages by change after completion. | § 8774. Construction of bridges; use as toll bridges. |
| § 8756. Extension of road into other states. | § 8775. Bridging of canals or navigable rivers. |
| § 8757. Construction of branch road. | § 8776. Height of bridges over canals. |
| § 8758. Electricity as motive power. | § 8777. Certain established bridges not affected. |
| § 8759. Appropriation of land; entry upon for examination and survey. | § 8778. Enforcement of preceding section. |
| § 8760. Compensation for property appropriated. | § 8779. When companies must use same bridge. |
| § 8761. Company may acquire lands. | § 8780. Appropriation of use of joint bridge. |

Directors and Officers.

- § 8781. Opening of transfer books in other states.
- § 8782. Election of a vice-president.
- § 8783. Election of a treasurer.
- § 8784. Number of directors may be increased or diminished.
- § 8785. Directors may be classified at stockholders' meeting.
- § 8786. Classification of directors.
- § 8787. Rights of creditors in election of directors.
- § 8788. Personal liability of directors.
- § 8789. Who ineligible to office or appointment.
- § 8790. Acts of ineligible persons void; forfeiture.
- § 8791. When directors may receive subscriptions in installments.
- § 8792. Conditional subscriptions.

Borrowing Money.

- § 8793. Mortgage bonds.
- § 8794. Aggregate indebtedness shall not exceed capital stock.
- § 8795. How mortgage or pledge made.
- § 8796. Where mortgage recorded.
- § 8797. Disposition of securities by directors.
- § 8798. Securities sold to directors, when void.
- § 8799. Narrow-gauge railroad may issue second mortgage bonds.
- § 8800. How bonds and mortgage authorized.
- § 8801. When company may borrow money.
- § 8802. Bonds in excess of capital, when lawful.
- § 8803. Bonds of consolidated railroad.

- § 8804. Form and disposition of such securities.
- § 8805. Articles of incorporation may provide for division and classification of capital stock.

Connecting Lines.

- § 8806. Subscription to aid another company.
- § 8807. Lease or purchase of another railroad.
- § 8808. Companies not competing may make beneficial arrangements.
- § 8809. Vote of stockholders of each company requisite.
- § 8810. Dissenting stockholder may sell stock; procedure.
- § 8811. When court may appoint arbitrators.
- § 8812. Notice of application therefor.
- § 8813. Lease of railroad; security required.
- § 8814. Lessor and lessee jointly liable.

Increase of Capital Stock.

- § 8815. Purposes for which stock may be increased.
- § 8816. Proceedings to increase capital stock.
- § 8817. Common or preferred stock may be issued; sale thereof.
- § 8818. Certificate to secretary of state.

Miscellaneous.

- § 8819. Dissolution of certain companies.
- § 8820. Owner of land leased for right of way not to be taxed therefor.
- § 8821. Taxation of land used as right of way.
- § 8822. Lease of right of way to be recorded.

Section 8744. (Office of company in state.) As soon as convenient after its organization, each railway company shall establish a principal or general office at some point on the line of its road, or the line of a road within this state with which it connects or has running arrangements, but its location may be changed at pleasure. The company shall give notice of the establishment or change of such office in some newspaper published on its line in this state. The offices of its president, secretary and treasurer shall be at such general office, or some other point on its line of road in this state, and a record there kept of all the company's proceedings, to be open at reasonable hours for the inspection of any stockholder. (R. S. Sec. 3311; April 9, 1880, 77 v. 153; R. S. 1880; May 1, 1852, 50 v. 274, § 17.)

A mining company having built a railroad under § 10141 may change the office of its railroad under this section, but not its principal office, which can only be changed under § 8719.

State v. Coal Co., 4 N. P. 115; 6 L. D. 178 (C. P. 1897).

Snow Fork, etc., Co. v. Railroad Co., 7 N. P. 191; 6 L. D. 178 (C. P. 1897).

Forfeiture of franchise for failure to maintain office.

See Simmons v. Norfolk, etc., Co., 113 N. C. 147 (1893).

State v. Milwaukee, etc., R. R. Co., 45 Wis. 579 (1878).

People v. Kingston Co., 23 Wend. (N. Y.) 193 (1840).

State v. South Pac. Co., 24 Tex. 80 (1859).

CONSTRUCTION.

Section 8745. Any railroad company may maintain and operate, or construct, maintain and operate a railroad, with such main tracks, not exceeding six and such side tracks, turnouts, offices, depots, round-houses, machine shops, water tanks, telegraph lines, and other necessary appliances, as it deems necessary, between the points named in its articles of incorporation, commencing at or within, and extending to or into any city, village, or place named as a terminus of its road. (May 10, 1910, 101 v. 323; April 7, 1908, 99 v. 71; R. S. Sec. 3270; April 29, 1872, 69 v. 203, § 4.)

Articles of incorporation.

See note to § 8625.

Nature of railroad companies. Private or public corporations. Railroad companies are not private corporations in the strict sense of the ordinary business corporation, because they are charged with duties of a public nature which distinguish them from the purely and strictly private corporation, but in many respects they are private corporations in all that the term implies. They can not be treated as public corporations, such as cities, counties, townships, etc. Their foundation is private. They are organized for gain, and their strictly private rights are as much beyond legislative control as are the rights of the purely private corporation.

Mannington v. Railway Co., 8 O. L. R. 451, 479; 183 Fed. 133; 16 O. F. D. 552 (C. C. 1910).

Where a railroad company organized under the laws of Ohio, with authority to exercise the sovereign power of the state, has constructed and operated as a common carrier a line of railroad, portions of which are along and across public highways or other railroads, such railroad becomes impressed with a public interest. A purchaser thereof, either at judicial sale or otherwise, has no right to operate it for his own private purpose or the purposes of those with whom he may privately contract, to the exclusion of the public. State v. Black Diamond Co., 97 O. S. 24 (1917); Railroad v. Commission, 101 O. S. 29 (1920).

And where the railroad of such a company is leased to another company organized as a common carrier, it is the duty of the lessee to furnish reasonably adequate shipping facilities without discrimination. Barlotti v. Commission, 103 O. S. 647 (1921).

The franchises, rights and privileges of a railroad company are granted because of the public nature of the business carried on by it; the resulting benefits to the public constitute the consideration for the grant, and, while exercising such rights and franchises, the company is subject, as to its state business, to state regulation. Railway v. Commission, 92 O. S. 9 (1915).

A railroad company, incorporated under the general laws of the state, for the purpose of "building, acquiring, owning, leasing and maintaining a railroad to be operated by steam or other motive power", is amenable to the control of the public utilities commission, so far as its property or traffic is intrastate; and, as a common carrier, may be required to provide reasonably adequate passenger service. Railroad Co. v. Commission, 92 O. S. 1 (1915).

Interurban railway when a "railroad."

See note to § 9117.

Constitutionality of statutes applying to railroad companies. A statute applying to railroad companies and not to other corporations is valid where reasonable grounds exist for its application to railroad companies which do not exist as to other corporations.

Froelich v. Railway Co., 5 C. C. n. s. 6; 14 C. D. 359 (1903).

Termini. A railroad company is authorized by this section to construct and operate a railroad having both of its terminal points wholly within the same city.

State v. Railroad, 72 O. S. 455 (1905).

Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Murray, 1 N. P. n. s. 301; 51 Bull. 623 (Ct. of Ins. 1903).

There is nothing in this section which requires the termini to be in towns or cities.

Long Branch Com'rs v. West Line R. R. Co., 29 N. J. Eq. 566 (1878).

Attorney-General v. Delaware, etc., R. R. Co., 12 C. E. Green (N. J.) 645 (1876).

When a charter empowered a company to build a road from a town a location sixty rods outside the town is not in compliance with the charter, and the company may be compelled to extend the road.

Comm. v. Erie, etc., R. Co., 27 Pa. St. 339-352 (1856).

Where a company is empowered to build to a certain city, it is not barred from reaching such point by the fact that it made a point outside such city a temporary terminus.

Colorado, etc., Ry. Co. v. Union Pac. Ry. Co., 41 Fed. Rep. 293 (1890).

Childs v. Railroad Co., 33 N. J. L. 323 (1869).

Statements in articles of incorporation as to route and termini, see § 8625 and notes.

Change of terminus within municipality, see note to § 8747.

POWERS OF RAILROAD COMPANIES.

General powers.

See notes to §§ 8627 and 12304.

To cross streets and highways. By its articles of incorporation a railroad company is empowered to locate its tracks across streets and highways.

Commissioners v. Penna Co., 6 N. P. n. s. 141; 18 L. D. 348 (C. P. 1907); aff'd, Cir. Ct., no rep.

State v. Montclair Ry. Co., 35 N. J. L. 328 (1872).

Lewis v. Germantown, etc., R. Co., 16 Phila. (Pa.) 608 (1881).

See §§ 8763 to 8766, 8773, 8857.

To maintain side tracks. A side track constructed by a railroad company to a manufactory at the expense and over the land of the latter, solely for its advantage, under an agreement silent as to time, may not be maintained by the railroad company over the objection of the owner of the manufactory.

Rodefer v. Railroad, 72 O. S. 272 (1905).

To build and maintain bridges. Power to build a railroad between certain points implies power to bridge streams when necessary.

Fall River Iron Works Co. v. Old Colony, etc., R. Co., 5 Allen (Mass.) 221 (1862).

Hamilton v. Vicksburg, etc., R. Co., 34 La. Ann. 970 (1882); s. c., 119 U. S. 280.

Miller v. Prairie du Chien Ry. Co., 34 Wis. 533 (1874).

Works v. Junction R. Co., McLean (U. S.) 425 (1853); 3 O. F. D. 101.

Power to build includes power to repair bridges.

Hamilton v. Vicksburg, etc., R. R. Co., 119 U. S. 280.

Central Trust Co. v. Wabash, etc., Ry. Co., 32 Fed. 566.

A railroad company will not be restrained from rebuilding a bridge across a stream when it will cause no greater obstruction than the old bridge.

Board of Com'rs v. Pierce, 90 Fed. 764 (1898).

A railroad bridge is a part of its line. Land may be appropriated for an approach thereto.

L. & N. Ry. v. Taylor, 50 Bull. 20 (Ct. of Insolv. 1904).

Care required in constructing bridge. Liability. In the construction, repair and maintenance of its bridges a railroad company is bound to use reasonable care.

N. Y., etc., R. Co. v. Ellis, 13 C. C. 704; 6 C. D. 304 (1895).

But in the absence of a statute, or of evidence showing that it is usual, a railroad bridge need not be constructed so as to permit a person to stand thereon while a train is passing.

Erie R. Co. v. McCormick, 69 O. S. 45 (1903).

Recovery for damages to land by flood waters can not be had from a railroad company where the flood was unprecedented, and other causes to produce the injury intervened.

B. & O. R. Co. v. Simpson, 12 C. C. n. s. 185 (1906).

To make construction contracts. A railroad company may enter into a contract with another person for the construction of its road without retaining control over the mode and manner of doing the work, and may under proper circumstances be exempt from liability for the wrongful act of its contractors.

Hughes v. Cincinnati, etc., Ry. Co., 39 O. S. 461 (1883).

Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Iliff, 13 O. S. 235, 247 (1862).

Carman v. Steubenville, etc., R. Co., 4 O. S. 399 (1854).

Interpretation of construction contract.

See Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Kelley, 5 O. S. 180 (1855).

Mansfield, etc., R. R. Co. v. Veeder, 17 Ohio 385 (1848).

To run along and upon highways. Only in cases of necessity has a railroad power to build its road along and upon a highway.

Springfield v. Connecticut River R. R. Co., 4 Cush. (Mass.) 63 (1849).

Kenton County Bank v. Bank Lick Turnpike Co., 10 Bush. (Ky.) 529 (1874).

G. C. § 8766.

To purchase land to procure materials. A railroad company may, if necessary and convenient, purchase land for the purpose of obtaining gravel, timber, etc., for construction purposes.

Overmeyer v. Williams, 15 Ohio 26.

Power and obligation to operate. Power to purchase implies authority to operate.

Campbell v. Marietta, etc., R. Co., 23 O. S. 168 (1872).

When company compelled to operate.

See Port Clinton R. Co. v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 13 O. S. 544 (1862).

Chapman v. Mad River, etc., R. Co., 6 O. S. 120 (1856).

To acquire stock in other corporations.

See §§ 8806, 8683 and notes.

To purchase other railroads. Power to locate and construct branch roads does not by implication confer authority to purchase the railroad of another company.

Campbell v. Marietta, etc., R. Co., 23 O. S. 168 (1872).

See § 8807.

Eminent domain.

See §§ 8759, 8760.

Sleeping car contracts.

See Stanley v. Cleveland, etc., R. R. Co., 18 O. S. 552 (1869).

To accept donations.

See Elder v. Bellaire, etc., Ry. Co., 1 C. C. 256; 1 C. D. 140 (1885).

Sperry v. Johnson, 11 Ohio 452 (1842).

To engage in mining, telegraph, etc., business, either directly or through stock control. A railroad company may build and operate a telegraph line, and may operate coal mines, for its own use, but can not engage in the general telegraph, mining or other outside business.

State v. Railway Co., 12 C. C. n. s. 49, 62; 21 C. D. 175 (1909).

Railroad Co. v. Telegraph Co., 38 O. S. 24 (1882).

Telegraph Co. v. Railroad Co., 1 W. L. B. 201, 309 (1876).

To guarantee bonds of mining company. A railroad company can not lawfully indorse and guarantee the bonds of a coal mining company. Such an obligation may be valid in favor of the bondholders, but not as against the state.

State v. H. V. Ry. Co., 12 C. C. n. s. 49, 66; 21 C. D. 175 (1909).

To guarantee bonds of another railroad company. A railroad company which has purchased stock in another company, as authorized by § 8683, and has in good faith, for protection of its own interests, acquired bonds issued by such other company, may, in order to sell the bonds for an adequate price, guarantee their payment. But it has no power to enter into a joint contract, with other guarantors, to guarantee an entire bond issue of which it owns only a part. Pollitz v. Commission, 96 O. S. 49 (1917).

To operate street railway. A railroad company has no power to engage in the street railway business.

Rogers v. Railway Co., 12 L. D. 136 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1901).

To locate road. All charters must be taken to allow the exercise of a discretion in the location of the route as is incident to an ordinary practical survey of the same, made with reference to the nature of the country to be passed over and the obstacles to be encountered or avoided. The courts will interfere only in cases of abuse of such discretion.

Walker v. Mad River R. R. Co., 8 Ohio 38 (1837).

Callender v. Painesville, etc., R. Co., 11 O. S. 524 (1860).

Southern, etc., R. Co. v. Stoddard, 6 Minn. 150 (1861).

Fall River Co. v. Old Colony, etc., R. Co., 5 Allen (Mass.) 221 (1862).

Auspach v. Maganoy, etc., R. Co., 5 Phila. (Pa.) 491 (1864).

See Baldwin v. Hillsborough, etc., R. Co., 10 W. L. J. 337 (1853).

If the location is not in substantial compliance with the articles, the company may be dissolved.

State v. Railway, 40 O. S. 504 (1884).

When road is located. A road is said to be located when a survey is completed and accepted. The supreme court of Pennsylvania, in Williamsport R. Co. v. Railroad Co., 141 Pa. St. 407 (1891), said:

"The successive steps contemplated as necessary to vest a title to the railway in the corporation are these:

"1. A preliminary entry on the lands of private owners for the purpose of exploration. This is made by engineers or surveyors, who run or work one or more experimental lines, and who report their work, with such maps and profiles as may be necessary to represent it properly to the company that employs them.

"2. A selection and adoption of a line, or one of the lines so run, as and for the location of the proposed railroad. This is done by the corporation, and it requires the action in some form of the board of directors. This makes what was before experimental and open, a fixed and definite location. It fastens a servitude upon the property affected thereby, and so takes from the owner and appropriates to the use of the corporation.

"3. Payment to the owner for what is taken and the consequences of the taking, or security that it shall be made when the amount due him is legally ascertained. The title of the owner is not divested until the last of these steps has been taken. As against him the corporation can acquire only a conditional title by its act of location, which ripens into an absolute one upon making compensation.

"As to third persons and rival corporations, however, the action of the company adopting a definite location is enough to give title.

* * * * *

"In many states provision is made by law for recording the action of the company and the line adopted by it, so as to give notice to the public and to settle questions of priority of location. We have no such statute, and the action of the company must be proved by other competent evidence, but when proved it has the same effect upon all interested as though it had been recorded. It settles the date of actual appropriation, and shows the exact location of the line of the road proposed."

See Baldwin v. Hillsborough R. R. Co., 10 W. L. J. 356 (1853).

Agreement for location of road. An agreement for the location of the route of a railroad at a particular intermediate place is not per se void as against public policy.

Railroad Co. v. Ralston, 41 O. S. 573 (1885).

See Pittsburg, etc., Ry. Co. v. Rose, 24 O. S. 119 (1856).

Surveying and staking do not constitute a location. A line of road is not so "located" by surveying and staking without condemnation or purchase as to give the company a right to the land exclusive of another railroad company that subsequently surveys and stakes the same line, and begins appropriation proceedings. Such first company can not enjoin the second company from entering on such land. Its remedy is at law.

Columbus Terminal, etc., v. Toledo Ry. Co., 32 W. L. B. 186 (1894).

Section 8746. (Terminus on state line or boundary.)

When a terminus named in the articles of incorporation is a county upon the line or boundary of the state, the president and directors of the company, upon the location of the road in that county, shall make and acknowledge a certificate definitely fixing the location in such county, and file it with the secretary of state. (R. S. Sec. 3271; 69 v. 163, § 1.)

Section 8747. (Changes of line or termini.) By a resolution adopted by a majority of its board of directors, at a meeting thereof duly called for the purpose, with the written consent of three-fourths in interest of its stockholders, a company may change the line, or any part thereof, and either of the proposed termini, of its road. No change shall be made which will involve the abandonment of any part of the road, either partly or completely constructed. Any subscription of stock made upon the faith of the location of the road, or a part thereof, upon a line abandoned by the change, shall be canceled at the written request of a subscriber who has not consented thereto, filed with the secretary or other chief officer of the company, within six months after such change. (R. S. Sec. 3272; April 7, 1876, 73 v. 115, § 1.)

Abandonment of line, main tracks or depots must be authorized by the public utilities' commission. §§ 504-2, 504-3.

History of legislation. Prior to 1848 there was no general law providing for a change of location, route, or terminus of a railroad. In that year the first statute was passed, the latest form of which is G. C. § 8753.

See Acts of Feb. 11, 1848, 46 v. 44, § 10; Acts of May 1, 1852, 50 v. 276, § 11; Acts of April 5, 1866, 63 v. 141, § 11; Acts of March 8, 1865, 62 v. 36.

In 1871 an act was passed to facilitate location of good roads by minor changes, which act, with the changes, is found in G. C. § 8750.

See Acts of May 2, 1871, 68 v. 129; Acts of March 30, 1874, 71 v. 54. The act to provide for change in route was passed in 1876, and is found in G. C. § 8747.

See Bickerstaff v. Traction Co., 5 O. L. R. 547.

Previous to 1848 roads without special provisions in their charters were unable to adopt any changes in route or location.

Moorehead v. Little Miami R. R. Co., 17 Ohio 340 (1848).

Little Miami v. Naylor, 2 O. S. 235 (1853).

Atkinson v. Marietta, etc., R. R. Co., 15 O. S. 21 (1864).

Works v. Junction R. R. Co., 5 McLean (U. S.) 425; 3 O. F. D. 101.

Interurban railroad. An interurban railroad, in amending its articles so as to change its route or a terminus, must comply with §§ 8747 and 8748. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1915, p. 1282.

Exhaustion of power to locate. In the absence of authority the completion of a location of a road exhausts the power of the company, and this principle applies whether it is attempted to relocate on private property or on a street or highway.

Moorehead v. Little Miami R. R. Co., 17 Ohio 340 (1848).

Little Miami R. R. Co. v. Naylor, 2 O. S. 235 (1853).

Construction of §§ 8747, 8750 and 8753.

These sections provide for changes in the route and location of railways in different forms and under different circumstances.

Section 8747 covers any change in the line, route or termini before the part affected is partially or completely constructed.

Section 8750 covers minor changes or divergences in the line before it is located, so as to avoid dangerous and expensive operation and construction, saving from such changes the main point of the road, the general route and located parts.

Section 8753 covers changes in a located or completed road so as to avoid dangerous operation.

Laws of this nature, being in derogation of private right, must be strictly construed, but it should not be that narrow and niggardly strictness which utterly disregards the admitted policy of the law, and gives strained and secondary meaning to its language, in order to defeat that policy. In other words, these statutes are not to be viewed with the liberality extended to enactments purely remedial, but, on the other hand, the rules applicable to penal statutes are not to be applied to them.

Jewett v. Railway, 34 O. S. 601 (1878).

Toledo, etc., Ry. Co. v. Daniels, 16 O. S. 390 (1865).

The right to change location is withheld except so far as it has been granted by these sections.

Bickerstaff v. Traction Co., 5 O. L. R. 548 (R. R. Com. 1907).

Cause of change. Before a change can be made the cause set forth must be shown to be fairly within the terms of the statute.

In re New York, etc., R. Co., 88 N. Y. 279.

Works v. Junction R. R. Co., 5 McLean (U. S.) 425; 3 O. F. D. 101.

Remedy for illegal change. Where a railroad company has received from private parties donations of lands, subscriptions of stock, and payments of money in consideration that it should locate its road at a particular place, and allow private side track and warehouse privileges in connection therewith, the company will not be permitted to effectuate a change in fact (though not in name) of the line of its road away from such a place, by getting up a new corporation and constructing a new road parallel with its old one, under a different charter, permitting its old line to go to decay, without compensating the parties with whom it has contracted as aforesaid.

Chapman v. Mad River, etc., R. Co., 6 O. S. 119 (1856).

Indirect change of route. Whether a railroad company may construct another road entirely parallel with its own, which if owned and managed by an interest distinct from itself, must necessarily be a competing road, for the purpose and with the effect to bring about a change in its own line, rather than to create a feeder or an extension of its own line, is within the limits of such connections as are authorized by § 8806, quaere.

Chapman v. Mad River, etc., R. R. Co., 6 O. S. 119 (1856).

See Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. St. Louis, 66 Mo. 228 (1890).

Injunction against change.

See Stewart v. Little Miami R. Co., 14 Ohio 353 (1846).

Extensions of line. Authority to extend a line of railroad will not authorize a company in departing from the named terminus.

Works v. Junction R. R. Co., 5 McLean (U. S.) 425; 3 O. F. D. 101; 10 W. L. J. 370 (1853).

See § 8772.

Resolution of directors. The vote of the directors need not show the particular route to be occupied in the new counties or places selected. There is a new power to locate according to the statute when the directors have by proper vote so determined.

In re New York, etc., Ry. Co. 88 N. Y. 279 (1882).

Remedy of conditional subscribers. This section adds a remedy for conditional subscribers to stock, but in no way affects the terms of their contracts. It is not necessary, therefore, for a conditional subscriber to request the cancellation of his subscription in writing. He may rely on the terms of his subscription.

Railway Co. v. Fisher, 39 O. S. 330 (1883).

A subscriber is not released unless he subscribed on the faith of the location of the road, and within six months after the change requested in writing the cancellation of his subscription.

Armstrong v. Karshner, 47 O. S. 276, 302 (1890).

Defenses of subscribers to stock.

See note to § 8674.

Change by necessity. A change of the line of a railway by necessity to adjacent property for a short distance is not such a change as is contemplated by this section.

Devou v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 4 O. L. R. 313; 19 C. D. 113 (1906).

Change of terminus within municipality. Where a certain municipal corporation of the state is designated as a terminus, the point not being marked by any survey, the railroad company may extend its terminus within the municipality to procure terminal facilities, without proceeding under the statutes regulating the extension of railroads.

L. & N. Ry. v. Taylor, 50 Bull 20 (Insolv. Ct. 1904).

Abandonment or removal of switch or spur track. A railroad company may abandon a spur or switch track in the absence of express contract. This section does not cover such track.

Mercantile Trust Co. v. Columbus, etc., R. R. Co., 90 Fed. 148; 12 O. F. D. 157 (C. C. Ohio 1898).

Side tracks placed on the leasehold estate of a coal company, at its request, may be removed by the railroad company upon abandonment of the premises by the lessee, over the objection of the lessor, the lease providing that the lessee may remove the mining appliances.

Ambler v. Erie R. Co., 9 C. C. n. s. 81; 19 C. D. 89 (1906).

A switch constructed on the land of a manufactory, at its expense and solely for its benefit, under an agreement silent as to the length of time it is to remain, can not be maintained by the railroad company against the objection of the owner of the manufactory.

Rodefer v. Railroad, 72 O. S. 272 (1905).

Where a track was extended about one mile beyond the terminal station, that part of the track beyond the station was regarded as a switch.

Mercantile Trust Co. v. Columbus, etc., Co., 90 Fed 148; 12 O. F. D. 157 (1898).

As between lessee and lessor, spur railway tracks and a track scale, easily removable from the land, are trade fixtures which may be removed by the lessee.

Market N. B. v. Iron Co., 13 N. P. n. s. 27; 22 L. D. 633 (1912).

Section 8748. (Change to be certified to secretary of state.) When such change is made it shall be described in such resolution, a duly authenticated copy of which, under the seal of the company, shall be filed with the secretary of state, and by him recorded, with proper reference, on the record of the articles of incorporation of the company. When so filed, such change shall be considered as made, and be as valid and binding as if the changed line had been the line originally described in the articles. (R. S. Sec. 3273; April 7, 1876, 73 v. 115, § 2.)

Section 8749. (Mortgage on line so changed.) When such company has issued its mortgage bonds for the construction of its road, the record of the mortgage securing them, in each county through or into which the changed line of the road passes, shall be as effectual to create a lien upon the changed line of road, and upon the property of the company, as if the mortgage contained a complete description of the changed line and of such property. (R. S. Sec. 3274; April 7, 1876, 73 v. 115, § 3.)

In Ewell v. Grand Street, etc., R. R. Co., 67 Barb. (N. Y.) 83 (1874), it is said:

"To hold that by deviating from the route laid down by the road could be pro tanto freed from the lien, would be to announce a very dangerous doctrine.

"Good faith forbids that a security should be invalidated after one party has received the full benefit, and can no longer place the other party in as good position as it originally occupied. The bondholders therefore acquired a full right to have the road, as built, sold to pay their bonds."

Meyer v. Johnston, 53 Ala. 237 (1875).

Meyer v. Stewart, 64 Ala. 603 (1879).

Section 8750. (When and how route may be changed.) When a company, the line of whose road has not been finally located in whole or in part, finds it necessary, in order to avoid dangerous or difficult curves, grades, or dangerous or unsubstantial grounds, or foundations, or for other reasonable cause, to pass through a county not named in the articles of incorporation, or to avoid passing into or through a county named therein, other than a county in which a terminus of the road has been fixed by its articles of incorporation, or in which is located a town or place by or through which the line of such road is to pass, its president and directors, or a majority of them, under their hands and seals, may make a certificate declaring such necessity, the cause thereof, and name therein the county, or counties, through which it is necessary to pass, or to avoid, which certificate shall be acknowledged and certified, as provided in chapter one of this title, and forwarded to the secretary of state. A copy of the certificate, duly certified by him shall be evidence of the facts therein stated. Nothing herein is to be construed to authorize the abandonment of any part of the company's line which is finally located, or a change of the general route of the line of such road, or the terminal points named in the articles of incorporation. (R. S. Sec. 3275; March 30, 1874, 71 v. 54, § 1.)

Cited, Bickerstaff v. Traction Co., 5 O. L. R. 547.

A railroad company can not change its location because of the failure of a town to contribute to the road.

Works v. Junction, etc., R. R. Co., 5 McLean (U. S.) 425; 3 O. F. D. 101; 10 W. L. J. 370 (1853).

As to change of location by directors.

See Baldwin v. Hillsborough, etc., R. R. Co., 10 W. L. J. 356 (1853).

Section 8751. (Damages for diversion.) When, under the preceding section, a company's line of road is diverted from a county named in the articles of incorporation, it shall be liable to any person owning land in the county for damages caused by the change or diversion. All subscribers to the capital stock of the company, on the line of that part of its road so changed, shall be released from all obligation to pay their subscriptions. (R. S. Sec. 3276; March 30, 1874, 71 v. 54, § 2.)

Cited, Bickerstaff v. Traction Co., 5 O. L. R. 547.

Damages to landowners.

See Leisse v. St. Louis, etc., R. R. Co., 2 Mo. App. 105 (1876); s. c., 72 Mo. 561.

A defense under this section to an action on a stock subscription must show that the road was diverted from a county named in the articles of incorporation, and that the subscriber was on the line diverted.

Armstrong v. Karshner, 47 O. S. 276, 301 (1890).

Section 8752. (Limitations on actions for damages.) Saving the rights of infants, lunatics, and persons imprisoned, for six months after their disability is removed, no action shall be brought for damages caused by such change or diversion, unless it is begun within six months from the filing of the certificate therefor with the secretary of state, and the publication of notice thereof by the company, for four consecutive weeks, in some newspaper printed in such county. (R. S. Sec. 3276; 71 v. 54, § 2.)

Section 8753. (Change of location or grade.) For the purpose of avoiding annoyance to public travel, or dangerous or difficult curves or grades, or unsafe or unsubstantial grounds or foundations, or when the roadbed has been injured or destroyed by the current of a river, water-course, or other unavoidable or reasonable cause, a company may change the location or grade, of any portion of its road, but shall not depart from the general route prescribed in the articles of incorporation. (R. S. Sec. 3277; April 5, 1866, 63 v. 141, § 11; March 8, 1865, 62 v. 36, § 1.)

Section cited. Bickerstaff v. Traction Co., 5 O. L. R. 547 (R. R. Com. 1907).

This section makes no provision for the crossing of a street within a municipal corporation.

Railway Co. v. Elyria, 69 O. S. 414, 428 (1904).

No judicial determination is necessary, under this section, as to the necessity for the change, the presumption being that a railroad company would not undertake an expensive improvement unless the change is necessary. But where an appropriation of land is required to make the change, proof should be made as to the necessity of the change.

Lorain County v. Railway, 11 C. C. n. s. 419; 12 C. D. 805.

See Railway Co. v. South, 78 O. S. 10, 13 (1908).

Reusch v. Traction Co., 19 C. C. n. s. 1 (1912); aff'd, no rep. 89 O. S. 456.

A change under this section is valid if the general route is not departed from, and if sufficient cause exists.

Piedmont, etc., Ry. Co. v. Speelman, 67 Md. 260 (1887).

Construction of section. See note to § 8747.

Section 8754. (Appropriation of land to make such change.) For the purpose of making any such change, the company shall have all rights, powers, and privileges to enter upon and appropriate lands, and make surveys necessary to effect it, upon the terms, and subject to the obligations, rules, and regulations prescribed by law, except that, when it is necessary to appropriate property for such change, the appropriation may be had, if the probate court, in the proceedings instituted therefor, finds that it will conduce to the interests of the company and the public, and that the property and rights of those owning real estate along the portion of the road to be affected by the change will not be unreasonably injured thereby. (R. S. Sec. 3278; April 5, 1866, 63 v. 141, § 11; March 8, 1865, 62 v. 36, § 1.)

See note to § 8753.

This section and §§ 8747, 8750 and 8753 indicate that the policy of the law is against any change of location, even where the right of way may be obtained by purchase, and that the rights of residents along the line must be considered.

Bickerstaff v. Traction Co., 5 O. L. R. 548 (R. R. Com. 1907).

A finding by the probate court "that the property rights of said defendants will not be unreasonably injured by such change" is sufficient under this section. Reusch v. Traction Co., 19 C. C. n. s. 1 (1912); aff'd, no rep. 89 O. S. 456.

Section 8755. (Damages by change after completion.) When the location is changed after the road has been used for transportation of persons and property, the company shall be liable for all damages occasioned by the change to the owner of the land upon which the road was first constructed. (R. S. Sec. 3278; April 5, 1866, 63 v. 141, § 11; March 8, 1865, 62 v. 36, § 1.)

See Leisse v. St. Louis, etc., R. R. Co., 2 Mo. App. 105 (1876); s. c., 72 Mo. 561.

Chapman v. Mad River, etc., R. R. Co., 6 O. S. 119 (1856).

Section 8756. (Extension of road into other states.) A company organized for the purpose of constructing a railroad to the boundary line of this state, may extend its road into and through an adjoining state under the regulations which may be prescribed by such state. The rights, powers, and privileges of the company over the extension, in the construction and use of its road, and in controlling the property and applying the money and assets thereon, shall be the same as if the road were built wholly within this state. (R. S. Sec. 3279; April 10, 1856, 53 v. 143, § 9.)

A railroad company, by extending its lines into another state, does not cease to be a citizen of the state of Ohio, and thereby entitled to remove cases brought against it in such other state to the federal courts.

Baltimore, etc., R. R. Co. v. Cary, 28 O. S. 208 (1876).

Railway v. Stringer, 32 O. S. 463 (1877).

Railway Assurance Co. v. Pierce, 27 O. S. 155 (1875).

Section 8757. (Construction of branch road; certificate under oath filed with Secretary of State.) A company may construct branches from the main line to towns or places within the limits of a county through or into which its road passes, or to a connection with any railroad within this state, or to any coal or other mine, stone-quarry, plastic-clay, pottery-clay and fire clay pits or banks, marl beds, sand or gravel pits or banks, asphalt deposits, slag banks, ore or shale banks, if, at a meeting of the stockholders called for that purpose, the holders of a majority of the capital stock of the company, by a vote, in person or by proxy, so determine. Upon such determination, the president and directors shall make and acknowledge a certificate setting forth the facts, and file it with the secretary of state. (109 v. 236; R. S. Sec. 3280; 91 v. 87; R. S. 1880; 69 v. 203, § 4.)

The filing of the certificate required by this section is a condition precedent to the right to appropriate property for a branch railroad.

Railroad v. Tod, 72 O. S. 156 (1905).

After the steps required by this section have been taken, the railroad company has the same power to construct a branch road that it had to construct its main line. It may appropriate property for such branch.

State v. Toledo, etc., Co., 1 C. C. n. s. 513, 525; 14 C. D. 321; aff'd, no report, 69 O. S. 550.

An "industrial" track branching from a belt railway, and leading to a large plant about one mile distant, for use in the ordinary course of business, is not a branch road under this section but is a side track.

State v. Toledo, etc., Co., 1 C. C. n. s. 513, 536; 14 C. D. 321; aff'd, no rep., 69 O. S. 550.

Branches to factories, mines, etc.

See § 8902.

Power to purchase branch roads. Power to construct branches to a main road does not include authority to purchase a branch road.

Campbell v. Marietta, etc., R. R. Co., 23 O. S. 168 (1872).

Location and length of branch roads. Where a special charter of an Ohio railroad granted it power to locate and construct branched roads from the main line to other towns or places in the several counties through which said road may pass, it was held that the branches must proceed from the main line and terminate at towns or places in the same county.

Works v. Junction R. R. Co., 5 McLean (U. S.) 425 (1853); 3 O. F. D. 101.

Section 8758. (Electricity as motive power.) Upon any railroad in this state, electricity may be used as a motive power in the propulsion of cars. But before a line of poles and wires may be constructed through or along the streets, alleys, or public grounds of a municipal corporation, plans of the construction must be submitted to and approved by its council. (91 v. 397, § 1; May 21, 1894; R. S. Sec. 3310-1.)

The motive power of a railroad company should be specified in the articles of incorporation.

Rep. Atty. Gen. 1908, p. 75.

A steam railroad company may amend its articles of incorporation so as to authorize the use of electricity as motive power; but may not amend so as to authorize the sale of electric light and power.

Report of Atty. Gen. 1906, p. 67.

A commercial railroad does not become an interurban railway under § 5416 by installing electric passenger cars and operating with frequent stops, when train service is no more frequent than it was prior to electrification. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1915, p. 865.

Under the former municipal code the trustees of a hamlet were held to be included in the word "council" in this section.

In re Newburgh, 15 C. C. 78; 8 C. D. 24 (1897).

Interurban railway, when a railroad.

See note to § 9117.

Section 8759. (Appropriation of land; entry upon for examination and survey.) A company, domestic or foreign, or municipal corporation which owns or operates a railroad may enter upon any land for the purpose of examining and surveying its railroad line, and appropriate so much thereof as is deemed necessary for its railroad including necessary side-tracks, depots, workshops, round-houses, and water-stations, material for construction, except timber, a right of way over adjacent lands sufficient to enable it to construct and repair its road and the right to conduct water by aqueducts and to make proper drains. (106 v. 347; R. S. Sec. 3281; May 18, 1894, 91 v. 294; R. S. 1880; May 1, 1852, 50 v. 274, § 10.)

Appropriation proceedings. See § 11038 et seq.

Appropriation of use of streets. See § 8764.

A belt or terminal railway may exercise the right of eminent domain. Realty Co. v. Railway, 18 C. C. n. s. 86 (1910); aff'd, no rep. 86 O. S. 364.

Statute strictly construed. Statutes granting power to condemn land for railroad purposes must be strictly construed.

Cemetery Assn. v. Traction Co., 93 O. S. 161 (1915).

Railway Co. v. South, 78 O. S. 10 (1908).

Platt v. Pennsylvania Co., 43 O. S. 228, 244 (1885).

Currier v. Marietta, etc., R. Co., 11 O. S. 228 (1860).

Miami Coal Co. v. Wigton, 19 O. S. 560, 566 (1860).

Foreign corporation. A foreign corporation is expressly authorized by § 8759 to appropriate property. Railway Co. v. Barger, 10 Ohio App. 443; 30 O. C. A. 65 (1919) (s. c., 28 O. C. A. 92); affirming, 21 N. P. n. s. 97. See also, § 9090.

Dummy corporation. This section does not authorize a railroad company to appropriate property in which it will have no real or beneficial interest or use, but which it intends to transfer to another company. Cemetery Assn. v. Traction Co., 93 O. S. 161 (1915).

But officers or employes of one corporation may organize another corporation for the benefit of the former if they, acting for themselves as individuals, subscribe and pay for their stock, elect directors and complete the organization. Railway Co. v. Barger, 10 Ohio App. 443; 30 O. C. A. 65 (1919).

Right to enter to survey. The legislature may properly and constitutionally confer the right to enter upon the lands of an individual without compensation, in order to survey and make examinations for its line of road, and the company may exercise the right, doing no unnecessary damage.

Ward v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., 10 W. L. J. 365 (1853).

Meaning of "land." The word "land" as used in this section includes all the rights and interests which may be had in lands which it may be necessary to take for railway purposes. It, therefore, includes the rights of an owner of abutting property in the street taken for the right of way, even if the fee is in the city.

Valley Ry. Co. v. Pouchet, 4 C. C. 187 (1889); 2 C. D. 492; aff'd, 51 O. S. 571.

See Ohio Southern R. Co. v. Hinkle, 1 N. P. 63 (1894); 1 L. D. 682. See § 11042.

It also includes an estate in remainder subject to a life estate.

Gorrill v. Toledo, etc., Ry., 4 C. C. 398, 403; 2 C. D. 617 (1890).

See Webster v. Railroad Co., 78 O. S. 87 (1908).

Quantity of land necessary. Route. Discretion of railroad company. The railroad company has primary discretion to determine how much land is necessary. But the probate judge under § 11046 may prevent abuse in the exercise of such discretion.

Railroad v. Railroad, 72 O. S. 368 (1905).

Ohio, etc., R. Co. v. Hinkle, 1 N. P. 63; 1 L. D. 682 (1894).

Where two or more ways are equally available it is not for the court to select the way. Such selection is within the discretion of the railroad company.

C. & P. Ry. v. East Liverpool, 51 Bull. 599 (Prob. Ct. 1906).

Cincinnati, etc., Co. v. Murray, 1 N. P. n. s. 301; 48 Bull. 877 (Ins. Ct. 1906).

Only so much land as is necessary can be taken.

See notes to §§ 11042 and 11046.

Interest acquired by appropriation. Rights remaining in land-owner. The estate acquired by a railroad company for right of way purposes is a permanent and not a temporary interest.

Garlick v. Railway Co., 67 O. S. 223, 234 (1902).

Gorrell v. Toledo, etc., Ry., 4 C. C. 398, 403; 2 C. D. 617.

See Platt v. Penna. Co., 43 O. S. 228, 244 (1885).

A judgment lien attaches to the interest of the railroad company in land acquired by appropriation.

Stewart v. Railway Co., 53 O. S. 151, 172 (1895).

The possession of a right of way by a railroad company for railroad purposes is not adverse to the rights remaining in the owner of the fee.

Railway v. Wachter, 70 O. S. 113 (1904).

The owner of the fee retains, where the interest of the railroad is an easement only, all rights not inconsistent with those of the railroad company to build, repair and operate its road, and to use materials condemned.

Platt v. Penna. Co., 43 O. S. 228, 244 (1885).

Railway v. Wachter, 70 O. S. 113 (1904).

Vought v. Railroad Co., 58 O. S. 123 (1898); aff'd, 176 U. S. 469.

The owner of the fee may erect a building necessary to the use and enjoyment of his land and which does not unreasonably interfere with the maintenance and operation of the railway. Railway v. Baum, 15 C. C. n. s. 383; aff'd, no rep. 78 O. S. 427.

Where additional burdens are thereafter imposed, the owner is entitled to compensation therefor.

Vought v. Railroad Co., 58 O. S. 123 (1898).

Hatch v. Railway Co., 18 O. S. 92 (1868).

Hawkins v. Buckeye, etc., Co., 6 N. P. n. s. 553, 556; 16 L. D. 333 (C. P. 1905).

Newton v. Railway Co., 115 Fed. 781 (C. C. A. 1902).

Dower barred by appropriation. Where full compensation is made a widow is not entitled to dower in land appropriated pursuant to statute. Little Miami R. Co. v. Jones, 5 W. L. G. 5 (1860).

Sale or abandonment of land acquired by appropriation. A railroad company, having acquired title to lands for railroad purposes by grant or proceedings in appropriation, may sell to another corporation for like railroad purposes all or a part of the same. Such sale is not an abandonment of the premises unless such was the intention.

Garlick v. Railway Co., 67 O. S. 223 (1902).

Compare Platt v. Penn. Co., 43 O. S. 228 (1885).

Penna. Co. v. Platt, 47 O. S. 366 (1890).

The question of abandonment is one of intention and is to be determined from the nature of the conveyance itself and the attending facts and circumstances.

Garlick v. Railway Co., 67 O. S. 223 (1902); affirming, 20 C. C. 501.

Hatch v. Railway Co., 18 O. S. 92, 121 (1868).

See Wagner v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 22 O. S. 563 (1872).

Nonuser for twenty-one years works an abandonment.

Platt v. Penna. Co., 43 O. S. 228, 240 (1885).

Penna. Co. v. Platt, 47 O. S. 366 (1890).

Wagner v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 22 O. S. 563 (1872).

See § 9059.

Non-user for three years does not prove an intention to abandon.
Railway v. Ward, 23 C. C. n. s. 465 (1912).

The ownership of a hundred foot right of way for fifty years, with only a single track in the center, does not create a presumption that the unused portion has been abandoned. Nor does the grant of a license to maintain a pipe line on the unused portion for five years establish an abandonment where the right is reserved to annul the license should the space be needed for railroad purposes.

Hawkins v. Buckeye Pipe Line Co., 6 N. P. n. s. 553; 16 L. D. 333 (C. P. 1905).

The lease of a railroad is not an abandonment.

Cincinnati, etc., Co. v. Murray, 1 N. P. n. s. 301; 48 Bull. 877 (1903).

Upon an abandonment the interest of the railroad company reverts to the landowner.

Platt v. Penna. Co., 43 O. S. 228, 240 (1885).

Vought v. Railroad Co., 58 O. S. 123 (1898).

Moving main tracks from right of way, but using it for railway purposes in storing cars and for access to stock pens, is not an abandonment. Schenck v. Railway, 11 Ohio App. 164; 30 O. C. A. 580 (1919).

For circumstances held to constitute an abandonment of unnecessary land, see Knepfle v. Railway, 26 C. C. n. s. 68 (1916).

Defenses against appropriation.

See note to § 11046.

A municipality can not appropriate for the use of a railroad.

Morehouse v. Norwalk, 6 W. L. B. 267 (1881).

See White v. Cleveland, 12 N. P. n. s. 25 (1911); aff'd, 14 C. C. n. s. 369.

G. C. § 3677.

For what purposes land may be appropriated.

Side tracks. Land may be appropriated for side tracks leading from the main tracks to depot buildings.

Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Daniels, 16 O. S. 390 (1865).

Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Spring Grove Ave. Co., 15 W. L. B. 384 (1886).

See Union Line v. Railway, 233 U. S. 211 (1914).

An "industrial" track branching from a belt railway and leading to one or more manufacturing plants one mile distant, to be used for usual railroad purposes is a side track within the meaning of this section.

State v. Toledo, etc., Co., 1 C. C. n. s. 513; 14 C. D. 321 (1903); aff'd, 69 O. S. 550.

Realty Co. v. Railway, 18 C. C. n. s. 86 (1910); aff'd, no rep. 86 O. S. 364.

Expert testimony is competent in determining whether a proposed track is a side track, or one to be used for a private purpose.

State v. Toledo, etc., Co., 1 C. C. n. s. 513; 14 C. D. 321 (1903); aff'd, 69 O. S. 550.

Side track defined.

State v. Toledo, etc., Co., 1 C. C. n. s. 513, 519; 14 C. D. 321.

Depots. The legislature has constitutional power to confer upon a corporation authorized to construct a railroad, the right to appropriate grounds necessary for its use as a depot.

Giesy v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 4 O. S. 308 (1854).

And for a depot platform.

Railway v. Devine, 15 N. P. n. s. 56 (1913).

Crossings. Land occupied by a railway may be condemned, if necessary, to furnish a crossing for another road.

Lake Shore, etc., Ry. Co. v. Cincinnati, etc., Ry. Co., 30 O. S. 604 (1876).

See Railway Co. v. Traction Co., 4 C. C. n. s. 329; 16 C. D. 1 (1903); reversed, on other grounds, 72 O. S. 429.

Appropriation for street over railroad tracks.

See § 3677 and note.

Bridges. Land may be appropriated for an approach to a railroad bridge.

L. & N. Ry. v. Taylor, 50 Bull. 20 (Ins. Ct. 1904).

Embankments. Land may be appropriated to form a basis for embankments.

Ohio, etc., R. Co. v. Henkle, 1 N. P. 63; 1 L. D. 682 (1894).

Wharves. Under this section a railroad company is not authorized to condemn private property solely for wharf purposes.

Iron R. Co. v. Ironton, 19 O. S. 299 (1869).

Temporary right of way. A railroad company has no power to appropriate a temporary right of way to be used until its main line is ready for use.

Currier v. Marietta, etc., Co., 11 O. S. 228 (1890).

Branch roads.

See note to § 8757.

Appropriation of property of other railroad companies. Property of one railroad company may be appropriated by another railroad company to furnish a crossing over such road.

Railway v. Railway, 30 O. S. 604.

See §§ 8834-8836.

But a company seeking to appropriate land of another company, longitudinally, must establish urgent necessity for the land. Where such necessity is shown, and the other company does not require it for immediate use, and can arrange its tracks so as to avoid using it for a long period, the right to appropriate exists.

Railway Co. v. Railway Co., 2 N. P. n. s. 45; 49 O. L. B. 240 (Prob. Ct. 1903).

Unfinished road bed of another company.

See §§ 11076 to 11083.

Appropriation by telegraph company of right of way of railway company.

See §§ 9175 and 9196.

Property subject to appropriation.

See note to § 11042.

Appropriation of canal lands—rights of owner of fee. Where a railroad company appropriates the lands of a canal company, the owner of the fee is entitled to recover the full value of the lands, if any, taken by the railroad company, and not covered by the former appropriation by the canal company, and, also, a full and fair compensation for such additional burdens and inconveniences, not common to the general public, as accrue to him and his entire tract on which the easement is imposed, by reason of the change of uses to which the lands appropriated have been subjected.

Hatch v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 18 O. S. 92 (1868).

Vought v. Columbus, etc., R. R. Co., 58 O. S. 123 (1898).

Sale of canal lands to railways.

See Hatch v. Cincinnati, etc., Ry. Co., 18 O. S. 92 (1868).

Goodin v. Cincinnati, etc., Canal Co., 18 O. S. 180 (1868).

Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Zinn, 18 O. S. 417 (1868).

Vought v. Columbus, etc., R. Co., 58 O. S. 123 (1898).

Section 8760. (Compensation for property appropriated.)

The appropriation of private property provided for in the next preceding section, shall not be made until full compensation therefor, irrespective of any benefit from any improvement proposed by such company or municipal corporation, is made in money, or secured to the owner by deposit of money for him. (R. S. Sec. 3281; May 18, 1894, 91 v. 294; R. S. 1880; May 1, 1852, 50 v. 274, § 10.)

See note to § 11053.

Failure to make compensation. Remedies of landowner. A landowner may enjoin a railroad company from entering his land for the purpose of constructing a road, until compensation is made.

Gorrill v. Toledo, etc., Ry., 4 C. C. 398; 2 C. D. 617 (1890).

Where land has been occupied, tracks constructed and cars operated, without compensation having been made, the owner may recover possession of such land, unless barred by laches or acquiescence.

Bothe v. Dayton, etc., R. Co., 37 O. S. 147 (1881).

Platt v. Penna. Co., 47 O. S. 366 (1890).

Where a land owner is estopped from reclaiming the land he may recover compensation.

Penna. Co. v. Platt, 47 O. S. 366 (1890).

Goodin v. Canal Co., 18 O. S. 169.

"Owner" includes remainderman. The owner of an estate in remainder, subject to a life estate, may enjoin the construction of a railroad until compensation is made, although the owner of the life estate has granted a right of way.

Gorrill v. Toledo, etc., Ry., 4 C. C. 398, 406; 2 C. D. 617 (1890).

— Includes owner of neighboring lots having rights under restrictive covenants as to use of property.

Kuebler v. Cleveland, etc., Ry., 10 N. P. n. s. 385; 20 L. D. 525 (1910); (aff'd, by Cir. Ct.; reversed by Supreme Court on ground of laches, 84 O. S. 463).

See note to § 111042.

Compensation.

Speculative and contingent remuneration can not be recovered. A compensatory and not a speculative remuneration is guaranteed for land taken and for the damages occasioned thereby to the rest of the property. The difference in value of the property with the appropriation and that without it is the rule of compensation. The difference must be ascertained with reference to the value of the property in view of its present character, situation, and surroundings. It can not be enhanced by proving facts of a contingent and prospective character, such as the probable rents that may be derived from the property, or its special value as a prospective monopoly of a railway to the adjoining lands of other persons.

Powers v. Hazelton, etc., R. Co., 33 O. S. 429 (1878).

Danger from fire to buildings, fences, timber or crops upon the remainder, in so far as it depreciates the value of the property is a proper element of compensation, although the railroad company is liable for all losses by fire which originate from the operation of the road.

Hayes v. Toledo, etc., Co., 6 C. C. n. s. 281; 16 C. D. 395 (1903); aff'd, 70 O. S. 425.

But the proximity of the buildings to the railway must be such as to render the danger imminent and appreciable.

Hatch v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 18 O. S. 92 (1868).

Must be based on present conditions. In an appropriation proceeding preparatory to a change of grade through farm lands, the assessment of damages to the residue of the tract must be based on present conditions; not on conditions existing prior to the original location of the railway years before.

Railway Co. v. Cordry, 10 C. C. n. s. 87; 20 C. D. 830 (1907).

Railroad intersecting tract of land. Where the railroad cuts asunder an entire tract of land, the owner is entitled to compensation for the inconvenience and danger of access between the two parts of the tract when the inconvenience and danger are peculiar to the owner in the use of his property, and not common to the public at large.

See Hatch v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 18 O. S. 92 (1868).

Platt v. Pennsylvania Co., 43 O. S. 244 (1885).

Lorain St. Ry. Co. v. Sinning, 17 C. C. 649; 6 C. D. 753 (1895).

Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Ball, 5 O. S. 568 (1856).

Schaible v. L. S., etc., Ry., 10 C. C. 334 (1895).

Damage done in making appropriation. A petition stating only that a railroad company, in locating and constructing its road on and through the plaintiff's land, appropriated about two acres of the land to its own use, and located its road through the land in a diagonal manner so as to greatly injure the same and committed other acts and trespasses upon the land to the plaintiff's damage, fails to state a cause of action, there being no allegation that unnecessary damage was done or failure to make compensation.

Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Stackhouse, 10 O. S. 567 (1860).

Damage of turnpike company. Where a railroad is constructed along land covered by the easement of a turnpike company, the latter is entitled to compensation to the extent of the damage accruing to it in the diminution of the productive value of its property, excepting, however, diminution caused by competition between the turnpike company and the railroad as means of transportation.

Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Zinn, 18 O. S. 417 (1868).

Appropriation under constitution of 1802. Under the constitution of 1802, which was, unlike the present constitution in that respect, where lands were appropriated by a railroad company for its track, supposed benefits might be set off against the value of the land taken, and hence the land might be appropriated without the payment of any money whatever.

Platt v. Pennsylvania Co., 43 O. S. 228 (1885).

Additional burdens imposed after appropriation. Where property appropriated for one public use is subsequently appropriated for, or devoted to, another public use, and the second use imposes additional burdens on the land, the owner is entitled to compensation therefor.

Vought v. Railroad Co., 58 O. S. 123 (1898); aff'd, 176 U. S. 469.

Hatch v. Railway, 18 O. S. 92 (1868).

Hawkins v. Buckeye, etc., Co., 6 N. P. n. s. 553, 556; 16 L. D. 333 (C. P. 1905).

Newton v. Railway Co., 115 Fed. 781; 14 O. F. D. 156 (C. C. A. 1902).

Section 8761. (Company may acquire lands.) Such a company may acquire by purchase or gift lands in the vicinity of the line of its road, or through which it passes, so far as is deemed convenient or necessary by the company to secure a right of way, and such as are granted to aid in the construction of its road, and hold or convey them, as the directors prescribe. Conveyance made by the company shall be signed by the president under the corporate seal. (R. S. Sec. 3282; May 1, 1852, 50 v. 274, § 15.)

Right to acquire and hold land.

See also note to § 8627.

A railroad company has power to acquire real estate only when such power is granted to it by statute or by its charter.

Walsh v. Barton, 24 O. S. 28, 42 (1873).

The purpose of §§ 8761 and 8762 is to clothe the railway corporation with capacity to acquire by purchase or gift lands that are convenient or necessary to secure the right of way, or any lands granted to aid in the construction of the road.

State v. Cincinnati, etc., Ry. Co., 37 O. S. 157, 170 (1881).

The right of a railroad corporation to hold land is not an unqualified right, but it is limited to the uses and purposes of the corporation, and is to be held for the purposes of the grant for the public uses. The title which it has in its right of way is a qualified title, subject to the equal right of another railroad corporation to cross the same with its track, provided compensation be made as required in the case of individuals for the property appropriated, or the interest therein which is so appropriated.

Lake Shore, etc., Ry. Co. v. Cincinnati, etc., Ry. Co., 30 O. S. 604 (1876).

Property of a railroad company is held subject to the right of the state to adopt police regulations for public welfare and safety.

Lake Shore, etc., Ry. Co. v. Cincinnati, etc., Ry. Co., 30 O. S. 604 (1876).

Land of railroads is subject to street assessments.

Railroad Co. v. Connolly, 10 O. S. 159 (1859).

Railroad Co. v. Commissioners, 19 O. S. 589 (1869).

Purposes for which land may be purchased. Land may be purchased for the right of way.

Walsh v. Barton, 24 O. S. 28, 42 (1873).

And to obtain timber or materials.

Lessee of Overmeyer v. Williams, 15 Ohio 26 (1846).

See note to § 8759; Purposes for which land may be appropriated.

Where a railroad company purchases unnecessary land, a title thereto derived from such company is valid. The property would not escheat, and estoppel would operate against the parties directly concerned.

Walsh v. Barton, 24 O. S. 28, 42 (1873).

Methods of acquiring property.

Gift. §§ 8761, 8762.

Appropriation. §§ 8759, 8760.

Dedication is not a means by which property may be acquired by a railroad company. The recording of a town plat with a lot reserved for a depot is not a dedication of the lot.

Todd v. Railroad Co., 19 O. S. 514 (1869):

Property may be acquired by adverse possession for twenty-one years. But the statute of limitations does not begin to run against a remainderman until the termination of the life estate.

Webster v. Railroad Co., 78 O. S. 87 (1908).

The possession of a right of way by a railroad company for railroad purposes is not adverse to the rights remaining in the owner of the fee.

Railway v. Wachter, 70 O. S. 113 (1904).

Land granted by the state to a municipality, upon a valuable consideration, to be used for street and other purposes, may be leased by the municipality to a railroad company for its general purposes. The lease is valid where the municipality reserves the right to use the leased premises for street purposes, without compensation.

Cleveland T. & V. R. Co. v. State, 85 O. S. 251 (1912).

Subscriptions to stock payable in real estate.

See Goodin v. Evans, 18 O. S. 150 (1868).

A deed of a right of way may be held in escrow by an agent of the railroad company.

Railroad Co. v. Iliff, 13 O. S. 235 (1862).

License for side track. A written agreement, silent as to time, for the construction of a side track on the land of another, at his expense and for his advantage, is a revocable license, and the railroad company can not maintain the side track against the objection of the land owner.

Rodefer v. Railroad, 72 O. S. 272 (1905).

Right of railroad company to remove side track.

Ambler v. Erie R. Co., 9 C. C. n. s. 81; 19 C. D. 89 (1906).

Purchase by land contract.

Equitable lien of vendor. An owner agreed in writing with the railroad company to release the right of way and the right to enter upon and construct the road through his lands in consideration that the company agreed to pay a certain sum of money at a future day, and construct certain road crossings and cattle-guards. The company took possession and constructed its road before receiving a deed for the right of way, and before payment of the money or constructing the crossings or guards. Held, the owner is entitled to make an equitable lien upon the property sold as well for the damages for not constructing the road in the proper manner, as for the unpaid purchase money.

Dayton, etc., R. Co. v. Lewton, 20 O. S. 401 (1870).

Ames v. Wheeling, etc., Ry. Co., 17 C. C. 684; 9 C. D. 443 (1899).

Notice to subsequent purchasers and mortgagees. Where the owner sells the right of way to the company on contract, and retains the legal title, the fact is sufficient to put subsequent mortgagees and purchasers of the road upon inquiry as to the rights of the owner.

Dayton, etc., R. Co. v. Lewton, 20 O. S. 401 (1870).

Seasongood v. Miami Valley Ry. Co., 9 W. L. B. 256 (1883).

See Day v. Railroad Co., 41 O. S. 392 (1884).

The construction and operation of a railroad on land is constructive notice to purchasers of the rights of the railroad company.

Day v. Railroad Co., 41 O. S. 392 (1884).

Remedies of vendor. The vendor may compel specific performance of the contract or may enforce his vendor's lien.

Dayton, etc., R. Co. v. Lewton, 20 O. S. 401 (1870).

Foreclosure of lien. Sale of entire road. Where public interests preclude the sale of the portion of the road covered by the lien, a sale of the entire road may be decreed.

Dayton, etc., R. Co. v. Lewton, 20 O. S. 401 (1870).

Ames v. Wheeling, etc., Ry. Co., 17 C. C. 684; 9 C. D. 443 (1899).

Stewart v. Railway, 53 O. S. 151 (1895).

Seasongood v. Miami, etc., Ry. Co., 9 W. L. B. 256 (1883).

RIGHT OF WAY.

A grant to a railroad company of a right of way, without limit as to time, is perpetual, unless terminated by release or abandonment.

Junction R. Co. v. Ruggles, 7 O. S. 1 (1857).

Garlick v. Railway Co., 67 O. S. 223, 234 (1902).

See Bosworth v. Pittsburg, etc., Ry. Co., 1 C. C. 69, 70; 1 C. D. 42 (1885).

Where the grant is of an easement only, the grantor retains all rights not inconsistent with those of the railroad to build, repair and operate its road.

Railway Co. v. Wachter, 70 O. S. 113 (1904).

Platt v. Penna. Co., 43 O. S. 228, 244 (1885).

The grantor may construct a building on his remaining land, near to the railroad, where it will not unreasonably interfere with the operation of the road, although it may cause some inconvenience to the railroad company.

Railway v. Baum, 15 C. C. n. s. 383 (1906); aff'd, no rep., 78 O. S. 427.

Where a track is constructed and maintained near the center of a right of way of definite width, such possession includes land on each side of the track reasonably necessary for its use and maintenance, and is constructive notice to subsequent purchasers.

Day v. Railroad Co., 41 O. S. 392 (1884).

See Happ v. Railroad Co., 1 N. P. n. s. 337; 14 L. D. 173 (C. P. 1903).

Where the terms of a right of way grant are general and indefinite, its location and use by the grantee, acquiesced in by the grantor, will have the same legal effect as if it had been fully described by the terms of the grant.

Warner v. Railroad Co., 39 O. S. 70 (1883).

A lease to drill for oil and gas does not prevent the owner of the fee from conveying a valid right of way.

Ohio Oil Co. v. Railroad Co., 4 C. C. 210; 2 C. D. 505 (1889).

Where the description of the right of way is indefinite, the grantor by accepting the agreed compensation after construction of the railroad thereon, with full knowledge of the facts, is estopped to deny that the actual location is the agreed location.

Railway Co. v. Williams, 53 O. S. 268 (1895).

Cleveland, etc., Ry. Co. v. Reid, 4 N. P. 127 (1896).

Where the owner of land granted to a company the right to select a strip thereof for its right of way, and from the terms of the grant and the circumstances it is clear that both parties understood that the right granted was to be exercised at the time of the final location and construction of the railroad, and not afterward, a court of equity will, by injunction, restrain such railroad company from taking possession of any additional part of said land after its railroad has been located.

Warner v. Railroad Co., 39 O. S. 70 (1883).

Where property owners agreed with a railroad company to convey land for its track, and to submit to arbitration the question of compensation to be paid them by the company for the land and damages, such arbitration does not involve the question of possession and title to real estate within the meaning of G. C. § 12148.

C. P. & V. R. R. Co. v. Duckwall (Sup. Ct.), 46 W. L. B. 92 (1901).
Construction of deed for right of way.

Belmer v. Railroad Co., 10 W. L. B. 232 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1883).

Grant with restrictive agreement as to use of the property. A railroad company, having built a spur track on land of another under an agreement limiting its use to certain specified business, may be enjoined from carrying other and increased traffic without compensation to the owner.

Collins v. Craig Shipbuilding Co., 7 C. C. n. s. 350; 17 C. D. 802 (1905).

A restrictive agreement in a deed, binding the railroad company, grantee, not to construct additional tracks within a certain distance from a dwelling, may be enforced by injunction. Miller v. Railway, 88 O. S. 499 (1913).

A condition subsequent in a deed, requiring the road to be completed within two years, does not operate of itself, and the right of forfeiture may be lost by waiver or estoppel.

Field v. Railway Co., 3 C. C. n. s. 130; 13 C. D. 1 (1897); aff'd, 62 O. S. 633.

Sale and conveyance of land by railway. A railroad company having acquired title to land for railroad purposes, by grant or appropriation, may sell all or a part of the same to another corporation for like railroad purposes.

Garlick v. Railway Co., 67 O. S. 223 (1902).

See note to § 8759.

A deed executed in the name of the corporation, by the president, under the corporate seal, is presumed to have been authorized by the directors and is prima facie valid.

Railroad Co. v. Harter, 26 O. S. 426 (1875).

But such deed is not admissible in evidence without proof of its execution.

Walsh v. Barton, 24 O. S. 28 (1873).

See note to § 8627.

A license to take gravel from the right of way need not be executed by the president.

Greene v. Trustees, 8 N. P. 491; 11 L. D. 771; aff'd, 64 O. S. 609.

Adverse possession against railroads of part of right of way. To acquire title to a right of way by adverse possession, an abutting owner must occupy and use the land in a manner inconsistent with the paramount rights of the railroad. Possession and use of part of the easement not in use and not needed for immediate railroad purposes, and consistent with its rights to reclaim it when needed, is presumed to be permissive only.

Smith v. Railway Co., 5 C. C. n. s. 194; 16 C. D. 44 (1904); aff'd, 73 O. S. 391.

Railroad v. Roseville, 76 O. S. 108 (1907).

Day v. Railroad Co., 41 O. S. 392 (1884).

Possession of a strip for more than twenty-one years does not become adverse to the railroad company by the raising of vegetables, or repair of the fence, where the original use of the land and construction of the fence were permissive on the part of the railroad company.

Happ v. Railroad Co., 1 N. P. n. s. 337; 14 L. D. 173 (C. P. 1903).
But see Knepfle v. Railway, 26 C. C. n. s. 68 (1916).

Where a railroad company maintains a way or street over its tracks and unenclosed land for forty years, for the use of its patrons, and incidentally it is used also by the public, the presumption is that the user was permissive. Such use does not establish the dedication of the way as a street, in the absence of an acceptance by proper public officials.

Railroad v. Roseville, 76 O. S. 108 (1907).

Whether exclusive occupancy is required by the necessities of the railroad, and what use by an abutting owner is an interference therewith are questions of fact.

Smith v. Railway Co., 5 C. C. n. s. 194; 16 C. D. 44 (1904); aff'd, 73 O. S. 391.

The act of an abutter in accepting and recording a deed and taking possession of disputed land is adverse.

Smith v. Railway Co., 5 C. C. n. s. 194; 16 C. D. 44 (1904); aff'd, 73 O. S. 391.

Abandonment of right of way.

See note to § 8759.

A provision in a deed that the premises shall be used for railroad purposes only, to revert to the grantor, his heirs or assigns, if they cease to be so used, is a condition subsequent. Title vests upon delivery of the deed, and a breach of the condition does not ipso facto produce a reverter. The right of forfeiture is not alienable. Reiter v. Penna. Co., 21 N. P. n. s. 58 (1917).

Removal of fixtures, tracks, etc., on abandonment. Stone piers built as a part of a railroad, on land acquired for its right of way, may be removed by the railroad company on abandonment.

Wagner v. Railroad Company, 22 O. S. 563 (1872).

Side tracks built on the leasehold estate of a coal mining company, at its request, may be removed by the railroad company, against the objection of the lessor on abandonment of the premises by the lessee, where the lease provided that mining appliances might be removed.

Ambler v. Erie R. Co., 9 C. C. n. s. 81; 19 C. D. 89 (1906).

Taxation of right of way. See also §§ 8820, 8821.

A strip of land owned in fee, and used as a right of way, by a railroad, located parallel to a municipal street, it is "land" subject to assessment under G. C. § 3812. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1919, p. 501.

Section 8762. (When conveyance to company void.) Conveyances to such companies, acquired by gift, shall be null and void, unless the company to which they are made, completes its road on the right of way so conveyed, within five years from the time of a conveyance for that purpose. (R. S. Sec. 3282; May 1, 1852, 50 v. 274, § 15.)

Where land is given to a railroad company on condition that it should be occupied for depot grounds a substantial compliance with the terms of the deed will prevent a recovery of the land for failure to perform the conditional agreement.

Pittsburg, etc., Ry. Co. v. Rose, 24 O. S. 219 (1873).

Where a railroad company has received from private parties donations of land in consideration that it should locate its road at a particular place, the company will not be permitted to effectuate a change in fact (though not in name) of the line of its road away from such place, by organizing a new corporation and constructing a new road parallel with the old one, under a different charter, and permitting its old line to go to decay, without compensating the parties with whom it has contracted as aforesaid.

Chapman v. Mad River R. Co., 6 O. S. 119 (1856).

Section 8763. (Elevated track; use of public way.) If in the location of any part of a railroad owned or operated by a domestic or foreign corporation, it be necessary to occupy with a surface or elevated track, with the necessary supports therefor, any public road, street, alley, way or ground, of any kind, or part thereof, the municipal or other corporation or public officers or authorities, owning or having charge thereof, and the company, may agree upon the manner, terms and conditions upon which it can be used or occupied. In the event of the occupancy of such ground with an elevated track, the agreement shall specify the number, character and location of all supports for the track, any part of which will be upon such public ground, and the vertical and longitudinal clearances between such supports. (R. S. Sec. 3283; May 9, 1908, 99 v. 589; April 15, 1857, 54 v. 133, § 12.)

Opening or extension of street over railroad tracks. Appropriation. § 3677 and note.

Maintenance of tracks at highway crossings. See § 6956.

This section applies to crossings. Ritter v. Railway, 17 C. C. n. s. 4 (1908); reversing, 6 N. P. n. s. 161; 18 L. D. 846; aff'd, no rep. 83 O. S. 515.

In re Avon Beach, etc., Ry., 3 N. P. n. s. 561, 564, 565; 16 L. D. 87, 90 (C. P. 1905).

Railroad v. Cincinnati, 8 W. L. B. 334 (Dist. Ct. 1882).

An agreement with an existing railroad for repair or alteration of a crossing or bridge is not within this section.

Railroad Co. v. Defiance, 52 O. S. 262, 313 (1895).

The grant of the right to use a street for railroad purposes does not authorize its use for other purposes.

Rogers v. Railway, 12 L. D. 136 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1901).

Exclusive occupancy of street by railroad not authorized. A municipal corporation can not by agreement permit a railroad company to occupy a street so as to exclude the public from any portion thereof, unless the municipality is authorized by statute, in express terms or by clear implication, to make such contract. General legislation authorizing the occupation of streets for railroad purposes does not authorize exclusive and permanent use.

Railway Co. v. Elyria, 69 O. S. 415 (1903); affirming, 3 C. C. n. s. 250.

Ravenna v. Penna. Co., 45 O. S. 118.

Cincinnati v. Railway, 24 C. C. n. s. 305 (1915).

Ry. v. Hartford, 15 Ohio App. 305 (1921).

See C. & P. Ry. v. Liverpool, 51 O. L. B. 599 (Probate Ct. 1906).

Railroad Co. v. Cincinnati, 76 O. S. 481 (1907).

Change in judicial interpretation of section as to extent of use authorized, see

Railroad Co. v. Cleveland, 15 C. C. n. s. 193, 208 (1910); affirming 8 N. P. n. s. 457; 19 L. D. 372; aff'd, no rep., 87 O. S. 469.

This section contemplates a joint or common use of a street by the railroad company and public.

Railway Co. v. Elyria, 69 O. S. 415, 429 (1903); s. c., 3 C. C. n. s. 250; 14 C. C. 48; 7 C. D. 312 (1897).

And the right of the municipality to regulate the use of the street continues.

Railway Co. v. Cincinnati, 16 W. L. B. 367.

Railroad Co. v. Defiance, 52 O. S. 262, 308 (1895); s. c., 167 U. S. 88 (1897).

Ganz v. Ohio, etc., Co., 140 Fed. 692, 695 (C. C. A. 1905).

An abandonment or surrender of the street is not authorized.

Railroad Co. v. Defiance, 52 O. S. 262, 308 (1895); affirmed, 167 U. S. 88 (1897).

Railway Co. v. Elyria, 69 O. S. 415 (1903).

A person injured upon a track in a street is not a trespasser.

Smith v. Railway Co., 90 Fed. 783 (C. C. 1898).

Railroad Co. v. Anderson, 85 Fed. 413 (C. C. A. 1898).

What amounts to exclusive occupation. Two railway tracks in a street from thirty-six to forty feet wide do not amount to an exclusive occupancy.

Cincinnati, etc., Co. v. Railway Co., 14 C. C. n. s. 195; 23 C. D. 192 (1911); aff'd, no rep., 86 O. S. 343.

Before the amendment of this section and the enactment of §§ 8767 to 8771 (99 v. 589) it was held that this section did not authorize a municipality to permit permanent abutments, supporting an overhead crossing, in a street, where the public was excluded from any portion thereof.

Railway Co. v. Elyria, 69 O. S. 414 (1903); affirming 3 C. C. n. s. 250; s. c., 14 C. C. 48; 13 C. D. 482; 7 C. D. 312; 12 L. D. 609 (1897).

Railway Co. v. Steubenville (unreported), 83 O. S. 443 (1910).

Telephone Co. v. Cincinnati, 73 O. S. 81 (1905).

Crossing a street with five tracks connecting with a railway yard and really becoming a part of the yard is an unreasonable occupation. Cincinnati v. Railway, 24 C. C. n. s. 305 (1915).

Control over streets not surrendered by municipality. This section does not authorize a municipality to surrender or abridge its control over a street. A city, having given a railroad company permission to cross a street below grade and to build a bridge over the railroad, is not prevented by such agreement from thereafter lowering the street so as to cross the railroad at grade.

Railroad Co. v. Defiance, 52 O. S. 262, 308 (1895).

Affirmed, Wabash R. Co. v. Defiance, 167 U. S. 88 (1897).

Ganz v. Ohio, etc., Co., 140 Fed. 692, 695 (C. C. A. 1905).

After constructing its track in a street at an agreed grade, the railroad company can not subsequently raise the grade of the street.

Railroad Co. v. Hambleton, 40 O. S. 496 (1884).

"Public road, street, alley, way or ground." A highway, outside of a municipal corporation, is a public road, and can not be occupied without agreement or appropriation under §§ 8763 or 8764.

Commissioners v. Penna. Co., 6 N. P. n. s. 141; 18 L. D. 348 (C. P. 1907); (aff'd, by Cir. Ct., without rep.).

Youngstown v. Railroad Co., 3 C. C. 214; 2 C. D. 121 (1888).

The word "way" or "public ground" does not include the public navigable canals of the state in express terms, nor by necessary implication. A way, in the connection in which it stands in this section, must be regarded as something of the same nature and kind as a road or street.

State v. Cincinnati, etc., Ry. Co., 37 O. S. 157 (1881).

Land acquired by a municipality for park purposes, but occupied by a railroad under an agreement for many years, and declared by municipal authorities to be unnecessary for park or municipal purposes, and never used therefor, is not park property and may be appropriated for a permanent right of way.

Railway Co. v. Cincinnati, 6 N. P. n. s. 325 (Ct. of Ins. 1908).

Likewise land dedicated for street purposes, but unsuited therefor, and having remained unimproved for many years, ib.

A city street can not be crossed or occupied by a railroad under § 8773; but authority must be obtained under § 8763 or § 8764.

Youngstown v. Railroad Co., 3 C. C. 214; 2 C. D. 121 (1888).

Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Cincinnati, 8 W. L. B. 334 (Dist. Ct. 1882).

Where land has been granted by the state to a municipality, for a valuable consideration, to be used for street and other purposes, the municipality, reserving the right to use the property for street purposes without compensation, may make a valid lease of such land to a railroad company for its general purposes.

Cleveland T. & V. R. R. Co. v. State, 85 O. S. 251 (1912).

Prior to the amendment of this section and § 8767 (99 v. 589) a public common or landing could not be occupied with an elevated structure, by an agreement under this section.

Railroad Co. v. Cincinnati, 76 O. S. 481 (1907).

See Cincinnati v. Railway, 9 N. P. n. s. 433; 20 L. D. 440 (1910); aff'd, 82 O. S. 466.

Railway v. Cincinnati, 10 N. P. n. s. 649; 56 Bull. 317; aff'd, 88 O. S. 283; 12 N. P. n. s. 65; 22 L. D. 363.

Power of municipality to lease dock to railroad company.

See G. C. § 3699-1.

White v. Cleveland, 14 C. C. n. s. 369; aff'd, no rep., 87 O. S. 482.

Agreement for occupancy of street.

By whom made. "Public officers or authorities." County commissioners are "public authorities" having charge of roads outside of municipalities.

Trust Co. v. Railway, 7 N. P. n. s. 497, 511 (Ct. of Ins. 1908).

Megrue v. Commissioners, 15 C. C. 242; 8 C. D. 262 (1897).

County commissioners are not precluded by G. C. § 8896 from making an agreement permitting a railroad to cross highways above or below grade. Ritter v. Railway, 17 C. C. n. s. 4 (1908); aff'd, no rep. 83 O. S. 515.

To be valid under G. C. § 2445 the contract should be entered on the minutes of the commissioners. But where such a contract has been fully performed on the part of the county the other party can not evade performance on the ground that such entry was not made.

Commissioners v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 37 O. S. 205 (1881).

The council of a municipality has authority to agree as to the use of its streets.

Rockport v. Railway, 85 O. S. 73 (1911).

Validity. A misnomer of the street in the ordinance will not invalidate the contract where it is clear what street is intended.

Gunning v. Railway, 2 N. P. n. s. 411; 14 L. D. 660 (1904).

Provisions, terms and conditions. A restriction prohibiting the use of tracks during certain hours is valid and reasonable.

Pittsburg, etc., Ry. Co. v. Hood, 94 Fed. 618 (C. C. A. 1899).

Louisville Trust Co. v. Cincinnati, 76 Fed. 296; 10 O. F. D. 112 (C. C. A. 1896).

A municipality has no power to prescribe the rates to be charged by a belt line for hauls over its entire line, less than 30 miles long, as a condition to granting a right of way over its streets for a part of its line. Such a provision in an ordinance is ultra vires and void. In an action by an individual claiming the benefit of such provision, the railroad company is not estopped from setting up its ultra vires character as a defense.

Brick Co. v. Trust Co., 187 Fed. 63 (C. C. A. 1911).

Where permission to cross streets is granted on condition that the municipality may thereafter extend any streets across the tracks, free of damage and expense and without appropriation proceedings, the railroad company is estopped from denying the right of the municipality to extend streets.

Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Hamilton, 3 C. C. 455; 2 C. D. 259 (1888).

In granting permission the public authorities may require a bond securing the repair and restoration of the street or highway.

Megrue v. Commissioners, 15 C. C. 242; 8 C. D. 262 (1897).

Permission to lay one track in a street does not authorize an additional track or switch.

Railroad Co. v. Hambleton, 40 O. S. 496 (1884).

Varwig v. Railroad Co., 54 O. S. 455 (1896).

Chambers v. Railway, 5 C. C. n. s. 298; 17 C. D. 193; aff'd, 73 O. S. 348.

Cleveland, etc., Co. v. Reeder, 6 C. C. 354; 3 C. D. 489 (1892).

Where the grade is specified in the agreement the railroad company can not subsequently change the grade.

Railroad Co. v. Hambleton, 40 O. S. 496 (1884).

Construction. Where a branch track was laid on an unfinished street, under an ambiguous ordinance, capable of two constructions, one that the track was laid to assist in making the street, and the other that the track was for general railroad use, the ordinance is not necessarily to be construed strictly as against the grant of a franchise. Where later ordinances recognized the track as for general use, the rule of construction by conduct may be applied.

Railway Co. v. Cincinnati, 16 W. L. B. 367 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1886; aff'd by Supreme Court without opinion).

Breach of agreement. Liability. A railroad company is liable for failure to perform an agreement to grade and gravel streets, within a reasonable time, without special notice or demand.

Railway Co. v. Carthage, 36 O. S. 631 (1881).

Revocation or rescission. The agreement authorized by this section, when fairly made, is valid and binding.

Megrue v. Commissioners, 15 C. C. 242; 8 C. D. 262 (1897).

The grant, by a municipality, of permission to use a street does not create a mere revocable license. The railroad has the same rights as if the use had been acquired by appropriation.

Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Cincinnati, 16 W. L. B. 367 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1886; aff'd, Supreme Ct. no opinion).

An agreement which required the railroad company to grade and gravel the streets is not abrogated by an inoperative ordinance rescinding the original permission.

Railway Co. v. Carthage, 36 O. S. 631 (1881).

Occupation of streets without agreement or appropriation. A railroad company has no power to occupy a street until it has obtained consent or appropriated the right to do so.

In re Avon Beach, etc., Ry., 3 N. P. n. s. 561, 564; 16 L. D. 87 (C. P. 1905).

Cincinnati, etc., Ry. v. Cincinnati, 8 W. L. B. 334 (Dist. Ct.).

Youngstown v. Railroad Co., 3 C. C. 214; 2 C. D. 121 (1888).

Commissioners v. Penna. Co., 6 N. P. n. s. 141; 18 L. D. 348 (C. P. 1907); (aff'd, by Cir. Ct., without rep.).

The unauthorized occupation of a street with a permanent incumbrance is a public nuisance.

Pittsburg, etc., Ry. Co. v. Hood, 94 Fed. 618 (C. C. A. 1899).

Railroad Co. v. Railway Co., 3 N. P. n. s. 109; 16 L. D. 777 (Cin. Super. Ct. 1904).

Zanesville v. Fannan, 53 O. S. 605, 614 (1895).

Railway Co. v. Elyria, 69 O. S. 415, 433 (1903).

Such unauthorized occupation renders a railroad company a trespasser and liable for damages proximately resulting to persons or property.

Pittsburg, etc., Ry. Co. v. Hood, 94 Fed. 618 (C. C. A. 1899).

Adverse possession of street by railroad. The title of a municipality to its streets being in trust for the public, the statute of limitations does not run against a municipality, at least where the adverse possession is by structures which are unauthorized by statute.

Railroad Co. v. Cleveland, 15 C. C. n. s. 193, 205; 23 C. D. 482 (1910); affirming, 8 N. P. n. s. 457; 19 L. D. 372; aff'd, no rep., 87 O. S. 469.

Compare, Railroad Co. v. Hambleton, 40 O. S. 496 (1884).

Trust Co. v. Railway, 7 N. P. n. s. 497, 513 (1908).

Adverse possession against turnpike company, see Railway Co. v. Commissioners, 92 O. S. 513 (1915); reversing, 21 C. C. n. s. 46; 12 N. P. n. s. 129.

Remedies for unlawful occupation. A railroad company may be enjoined from crossing or occupying a street until it has obtained authority under this section or § 8764. Such occupation may be enjoined by the municipality or county commissioners; Commissioners v. Penna. Co., 6 N. P. n. s. 141; 18 L. D. 348; aff'd, by Cir. Ct., without rep.).

or by an abutting owner.

Railroad Co. v. Railway Co., 3 N. P. n. s. 109; 16 L. D. 777 (1904).

Where a railroad company has occupied a street, under an invalid agreement, with a structure which excludes the public from a portion thereof, it may be compelled by mandatory injunction to remove the structure without compensation for the expense.

Railway Co. v. Elyria, 69 O. S. 414 (1903).

An action in ejectment under § 11903 may be maintained by a municipality to recover possession of land of which the municipality has the paramount title and a railway an easement for certain purposes.

Railroad v. Cleveland, 15 C. C. n. s. 193 (1910); affirming, 8 N. P. n. s. 457; 19 L. D. 372; aff'd, no rep., 87 O. S. 469.

Cleveland v. Railway, 93 Fed. 113 (1899).

See Cleveland v. Railway, 147 Fed. 171.

The municipality or public authorities may maintain an action for damages.

Lawrence R. Co. v. Commissioners, 35 O. S. 1 (1878).

Where, after a spur track was constructed across a turnpike and maintained for five years, with full knowledge of the turnpike company, the turnpike company tore up the track, an injunction against relaying the track was refused, the turnpike company, having acquiesced in laying the track and having a remedy at law.

Batavia, etc., Co. v. Railroad Co., 12 C. D. 723; aff'd, 62 O. S. 635.

Spur or switch track distinguished from general tracks. A spur or switch track placed in a street for convenience of shippers differs from a track for general traffic. Such a spur track could not, in many instances, accomplish its purposes elsewhere than in a street.

Railway Co. v. Cincinnati, 16 W. L. B. 367 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1886; aff'd by Supreme Ct.).

Gunning v. Railway Co., 2 N. P. n. s. 411, 414; 14 L. D. 660 (C. P. 1904).

Cincinnati v. Railway, 30 W. L. B. 137 (1893).

Cleveland Lake Front cases.

Railroad Co. v. Cleveland, 15 C. C. n. s. 193; 23 C. D. 482 (1910); affirming 8 N. P. n. s. 457; 19 L. D. 372; aff'd, no rep., 87 O. S. 469.

Holmes v. Railroad, 93 Fed. 100 (1861).

Cleveland v. Railroad, 93 Fed. 113 (1899).

Section 8764. (Appropriation of property for elevated track.) If the parties are unable to agree thereon, and it be necessary in the judgment of the directors of such company, to use or occupy such road, street, alley, way or ground, or a part thereof, for surface tracks, or for crossing with an elevated structure when no piers, supports or obstructions are to be placed therein, the company may appropriate so much thereof as is necessary for the purposes of its road, in the manner and upon the terms provided for the appropriation of the property of individuals. (R. S. Sec. 3283; May 9, 1908, 99 v. 589; April 15, 1857, 54 v. 133, § 12.)

Appropriation of private property by railroads, §§ 8759, 8760.

Appropriation proceedings, § 11038 et seq.

No greater use can be obtained by appropriation than by agreement under § 8763.

Railroad Co. v. Defiance, 52 O. S. 262, 308 (1895); affirmed, 167 U. S. 88 (1897).

This section does not authorize appropriation for a railroad yard.

Rockport v. Railway Co., 85 O. S. 73 (1911).

Nor does it give a railroad company the right to appropriate streets for an unlimited number of tracks. The court is required to determine the reasonableness of the appropriation.

Rockport v. Railway Co., 85 O. S. 73 (1911).

Order under § 8898 et seq. as a condition precedent. An order of the court of common pleas under §§ 8898 and 8899 must be obtained before a proceeding will lie to appropriate the use of a street at grade. A petition for appropriation which does not allege such an order is subject to a motion to make definite and certain.

Railway v. East Liverpool, 10 N. P. n. s. 157; 55 Bull. 173 (Probate Ct. 1909); (aff'd, Cir. Ct., no report).

See Toledo v. Railway Co., 9 C. C. n. s. 399; 19 C. D. 658; 78 O. S. 429.

In re Avon Beach, etc., Ry., 3 N. P. n. s. 561; 16 L. D. 87 (C. P. 1905).

Public "road, street, etc."

See note to § 8763.

Necessity for use. The necessity must be expressly determined by the directors. A failure to do so is a jurisdictional defect which can not be cured.

C. & P. Ry. v. E. Liverpool, 51 O. L. B. 599 (Prob. Ct. 1906).

The directors have primary discretion to determine the necessity for the appropriation but under § 11046 the court has the final authority to determine such necessity.

Cincinnati v. Railroad Co., 88 O. S. 283 (1913); affirming, 12 N. P. n. s. 65; 22 L. D. 363; 10 N. P. n. s. 749; 56 Bull. 317; reversing 15 C. C. n. s. 62; 23 C. D. 464.

Railroad v. Railroad, 72 O. S. 368 (1905).

Necessity to use a street for railroad yard purposes is not a necessity within the meaning of this section.

Rockport v. Railway, 85 O. S. 73 (1911).

Inability to agree must be shown, and a finding of inability to agree made by the court.

Rockport v. Railway, 85 O. S. 73 (1911).

Section 8765. (Limitation as to action for damages.)

Every company which lays a track upon or over any such street, alley, road or ground, or part thereof, shall be responsible for injuries done thereby to private or public property lying upon or near to such ground, which may be recovered by civil action brought by the owner before the proper court, at any time within two years from the completion of the track. (R. S. Sec. 3283; May 9, 1908, 99 v. 589; April 15, 1857, 54 v. 133, § 12.)

Easements or rights of abutting owners. An abutting owner has rights or easements of access, light and air.

Railway v. Lake Erie Provision Co., 9 N. P. n. s. 572 (1909).

These are property rights. (Railway v. Cumminsville, 14 O. S. 523, 524) which are not abrogated or affected in any way by an agreement between public authorities and a railroad company.

Railroad Co. v. O'Harra, 48 O. S. 343 (1891).

Lumber Co. v. Railway, 11 N. P. n. s. 289 (1911).

Railroad Co. v. Cincinnati, 76 O. S. 481 (1907).

Where land abuts upon a cul de sac the easement of ingress and egress extends to all that part of the street lying between such lands and the first connecting thoroughfare.

Cleveland Furnace Co. v. Ry. Co., 9 N. P. n. s. 426; 20 L. D. 188 (1909).

Lumber Co. v. Railway, 11 N. P. n. s. 289; aff'd, no rep., 86 O. S., 354 (1911).

See Railroad Co. v. Railway Co., 3 N. P. n. s. 109; 16 L. D. 777 (1904).

Furniture Co. v. Railroad, 7 N. P. 640; aff'd, no report, 65 O. S. 571.

See also below, What property is "near to" the street.

What constitutes an interference with access. The right of an abutting owner extends to the entire width of the street or highway. A change or obstruction which requires him to travel beyond his lot lines in order to reach the traveled way is an interference with his easement of access.

English v. Trustees, 8 W. L. B. 15 (Dist. Ct. 1882).

Madden v. Penna. Ry., 21 C. C. 73; 11 C. D. 571; aff'd, 66 O. S. 649.

Schimmelmann v. Railway Co., 83 O. S. 356 (1911).

Compare, Smedes v. Cincinnati, etc., Co., 4 O. L. R. 44; 16 L. D. 743 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1906).

Remedies of abutting owners.

Injunction. An abutting owner may enjoin the construction of tracks in a street, which will substantially interfere with his rights and easements, until he has been compensated. It is immaterial whether the fee of the street is in the municipality or in the abutting owners, so long as it is held upon the same defined uses.

Hall v. Railway, 85 O. S. 148 (1911).

Railway Co. v. Lawrence, 38 O. S. 41 (1882).

Cleveland Furnace Co. v. Ry. Co., 9 N. P. n. s. 426; 20 L. D. 188; aff'd, no rep., 86 O. S. 354.

Toledo Bending Co. v. Manufacturers Ry. Co., 2 N. P. 317; 3 L. D. 430.

Taphorn v. Marietta, etc., R. Co., 4 W. L. B. 988; 11 W. L. B. 92.

Dyer v. Cincinnati, etc., Ry. Co., 7 C. C. 255; 4 C. D. 584 (1893).

Sargent v. Ohio, etc., R. Co., 1 Handy 52 (1854).

Varwig v. Railroad Co., 54 O. S. 455 (1896).

A mandatory injunction to restore the street to its former condition will be granted, where the railroad company proceeds to tear up the street without having first obtained the consent of abutting owners.

Toledo Bending Co. v. Manufacturers Ry. Co., 2 N. P. 317; 3 L. D. 430 (C. P. 1895).

See Railway Co. v. Cincinnati, 8 W. L. B. 334 (1882).

Varwig v. Railway Co., 54 O. S. 455 (1896).

Tracks in the street within twenty-six feet of the entrance to a factory, where wagons are loaded and unloaded, constitute a material interference which may be enjoined.

Cleveland, etc., Co. v. Erie Ry., 4 C. C. n. s. 365; 14 C. D. 107 (1902).

See note to § 9105.

Where the mode of construction causes the drains and gutters to fill up and turn the surface water into the middle of the street, where gullies have formed interfering with access, injunction will lie.

Hall v. Railway Co., 11 C. C. n. s. 97; 20 C. D. 718 (1908); reversed in part, 85 O. S. 148.

A spur track across the sidewalk on the opposite side of the street from plaintiff's property, and the building of an overhead track above it, is not a material interference.

Smedes v. Cincinnati, etc., Co., 4 O. L. R. 44; 16 L. D. 743 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1906).

Where the property is not opposite the track, and the outlet to other streets are unobstructed, a track laid even with the surface of the street is not a material interference.

Herzog v. Railway Co., 6 C. C. n. s. 527; 15 C. D. 702; aff'd, 74 O. S. 440.

Railroad Co. v. Railway Co., 3 N. P. n. s. 109; 16 L. D. 777 (1904).

Furniture Co. v. Railroad, 7 N. P. 640; 10 L. D. 218; aff'd, 65 O. S. 571.

But the property need not abut upon the immediate portion of the street occupied by the railroad. The obstruction of a street near enough to the property to materially affect its value may be enjoined.

Hall v. P. C. C. & St. L. Ry., 85 O. S. 148; modifying, 11 C. C. n. s. 97.

Madden v. Penna. Ry. Co., 21 C. C. 73; 11 C. D. 571 (1900); aff'd, 66 O. S. 649.

Cleveland Furnace Co. v. Ry. Co., 9 N. P. n. s. 426; 20 L. D. 188 (C. P. 1909); aff'd, no rep., 86 O. S. 354.

Raising the grade of the highway four or six feet in front of the entrance to improved property constitutes a material interference which may be enjoined, in the absence of laches. Ritter v. Railway, 17 C. C. n. s. 4 (1908); reversing, 6 N. P. n. s. 161, 18 L. D. 846; aff'd, no rep. 83 O. S. 515; McNulta v. Ralston, 5 C. C. 330.

A track across a street, with gates, so near the property of an abutting owner as to materially affect it or depreciate its value, may be enjoined. Sommer v. Penna. Co., 4 Ohio App. 340; 23 C. C. n. s. 33 (1915).

An injunction will not be granted where the damages complained of by the property owner are remote and are of the same kind though different in degree than are suffered by the general public.

Herzog v. Railway Co., 6 C. C. n. s. 527; 15 C. D. 702 (1904); affirming, 2 N. P. n. s. 17; 14 L. D. 529; affirmed, 74 O. S. 440.

Furniture Co. v. Railroad, 7 N. P. 639, 640; 10 L. D. 218; aff'd, without report, 65 O. S. 571.

See Hall v. Railway Co., 85 O. S. 148 (1911).

Nor where the abutting owner is guilty of laches.

Gunning v. Railway Co., 2 N. P. n. s. 411; 14 L. D. 660 (1904).

Railway v. Duncan, 84 O. S. 463 (reversing 10 N. P. n. s. 385; 20 L. D. 525).

Ritter v. Railway, 17 C. C. n. s. 4 (1908); aff'd, no rep. 83 O. S. 515.

Nor where the abutting owner fails to show material interference with his property rights.

Railway v. Railway, 2 N. P. n. s. 237; 15 L. D. 112 (1904); aff'd, 72 O. S. 598.

Gunning v. Railway, 2 N. P. n. s. 411; 14 L. D. 660 (1904).

Nor where the abutting owner has granted a right of way over other property for a track connecting with the proposed street track.

Railway v. Railway, 2 N. P. n. s. 237; 15 L. D. 112; aff'd, 72 O. S. 598.

Nor where appropriation proceedings are pending and the proposed tracks do not constitute an exclusive occupancy of the street.

Cincinnati, etc., Co. v. Railway Co., 14 C. C. n. s. 195 (1911).

Nor where the evidence is conflicting as to whether or not the proposed track will enhance the value of the abutting property.

Lumber Co. v. Railway, 11 N. P. n. s. 289 (1911).

Action to compel appropriation. An abutting owner may bring an action under §§ 11084, 11085 to compel appropriation of his property rights.

Lawrence R. Co. v. Williams, 35 O. S. 168 (1878).

Kramer v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., 53 O. S. 436 (1895).

Railway v. Pouchot, 4 C. C. 187; 2 C. D. 492; aff'd, 51 O. S. 571.

The remedy under § 8765 does not include the relief provided by the appropriation statutes. The damages recoverable under § 8765 are personal and do not pass to a grantee on a conveyance of the property. While in the case of an easement appurtenant to abutting lands the right of action passes to the grantee.

Railroad Co. v. Lersch, 58 O. S. 652 (1898).

Railroad Co. v. Campbell, 51 O. S. 328 (1894).

Railroad Co. v. O'Harra, 50 O. S. 667 (1893).

Hall v. Ry. Co., 11 C. C. n. s. 97; 20 C. D. 718 (1908); reversed in part, 85 O. S. 148.

An action to compel appropriation is not barred in two years under this section.

Railroad Co. v. O'Harra, 48 O. S. 343 (1891).

Action for damages. Sections 8765 and 11084 are consistent. An abutting owner may pursue either at his option. Traction Co. v. Hart, 2 Ohio App. 1; 19 C. C. n. s. 71 (1913); Grafton v. Railroad, 12 W. L. B. 214; 21 Fed. 209; 5 O. F. D. 318 (1884).

Right of action prior to enactment of § 8765.

Parrot v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 3 O. S. 330 (1854).

Little Miami R. Co. v. Naylor, 2 O. S. 235 (1853).

Columbus, etc., R. Co. v. Mowatt, 35 O. S. 284, 287 (1880).

Action under § 8765. An action under this section may be maintained against a railroad company which built an embankment along the property of an abutting owner, interfering with the access, and destroyed fruit trees and a fence. Traction Co. v. Hart, 19 C. C. n. s. 385; 2 Ohio App. 1 (1913).

Limitation of two years. The track is completed when it is in a condition fit for permanent use for traffic.

Railway Co. v. Gardner, 45 O. S. 309, 325 (1887).

The limitation is waived by failure to raise it by demurrer or answer.

Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Lersch, 58 O. S. 639 (1898).

Where a street is occupied without consent of the public authorities the two year limitation does not apply.

Lawrence R. Co. v. Cobb, 35 O. S. 94 (1878).

The two year limitation applies to an action based upon the common law remedy independent of § 8765.

Railroad Co. v. Mowatt, 35 O. S. 284 (1880).

But does not apply to an action to compel appropriation under § 11084 et seq.

Railroad Co. v. O'Harra, 48 O. S. 343 (1891).

Where a main track occupied a street for thirty years or more and subsequently a branch track was laid in another street, it was held that damages were recoverable only for the branch track.

Cleveland, etc., Co. v. Reeder, 6 C. C. 354; 3 C. D. 489 (1892).

Joinder of causes of action for injunction and damages. An action for injunction can not be joined with one for damages. Offenbacher v. Columbus, 17 N. P. n. s. 74 (1914).

By whom action may be brought. An administrator can not sue for compensation and damages for wrongfully taking land during the life of the decedent. The right of action is in the heirs. But the administrator may sue for damages accruing from wrongful use of the lands, interruption of easement, etc., for which the decedent could have maintained a personal action.

Railroad Co. v. O'Harra, 50 O. S. 667 (1893).

The right of action for damages under § 8765 remains in the grantor, on a conveyance of the property injured. Such damages are personal in their nature.

Railroad Co. v. Campbell, 51 O. S. 328 (1894).

Railroad Co. v. Lersch, 58 O. S. 652 (1898).

A mortgagee may bring an action for injury to the mortgage security.

Cameron v. Cincinnati, 17 W. L. B. 153 (C. P. 1886).

Against whom action brought. The lessor and lessee of a railroad are jointly liable where the lessor raised the grade and laid an additional track, and the lessee took possession and continued the permanent use.

Railroad Co. v. Hambleton, 40 O. S. 496 (1884).

Defenses. Unrecorded consent of plaintiff's vendor. A purchaser of abutting property is not affected by an unrecorded consent given by his vendor, of which he had no knowledge.

Varwig v. Railroad Co., 54 O. S. 455 (1896).

— Encroachment of abutting owner on street. Where a state road was, by the incorporation of a municipality, brought under the jurisdiction of the municipality, the fact that an abutting owner had encroached on the road is no defense to an action under G. C. § 8765 against a railroad company for destroying a fence and fruit trees and constructing an embankment which interfered with access, although the construction was under a franchise from the municipality. Traction Co. v. Hart, 2 Ohio App. 1; 19 C. C. n. s. 71 (1913).

— Estoppel. An abutting owner who induces a railroad to locate on a right of way, on which his land abuts, is estopped from claiming damages from its operation. His successors in title are also estopped, so long as it is operated in the same manner as when originally constructed.

Kinney v. Railway, 3 O. L. R. 545; 16 L. D. 761 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1906); aff'd, no rep., 77 O. S. 609.

Evidence. Of plaintiff's title. The plaintiff's title may be established by proof of adverse possession.

Lawrence R. Co. v. Cobb, 35 O. S. 94 (1878).

See Shepherd v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 130 U. S. 426, 434; 6 O. F. D. 322 (1888).

— Of damages. It is error to permit witnesses to testify how much less rent was received before, than after, the track was laid; to give opinions as to the amount of damages; and opinions as to the differences in value of the property with the track in the street, and if it was some other place.

Railway Co. v. Gardner, 45 O. S. 309 (1887).

See Railroad Co. v. Campbell, 4 O. S. 583 (1855).

What property is "near to" the street. Property is "near to" a street, so as to entitle the owner to avail himself of the remedy given by the statute, if the injury to it is the direct and necessary result of the occupancy of the street by the track or other structures of a railroad company. And an injury arises when the diminution of the value of the property can be fairly attributed to such use and occupancy of the street.

Shepherd v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 130 U. S. 426, 432; 6 O. F. D. 322 (1888).

Wheeling, etc., R. R. Co. v. McLaughlin, 15 C. C. 1 (1897); aff'd, 61 O. S. 279.

Columbus, etc., R. R. Co. v. Mowatt, 35 O. S. 284 (1880).

Madden v. Penna. Ry. Co., 21 C. C. 73; 11 C. D. 571 (1900); aff'd, 66 O. S. 649.

Property within fifty feet of that part of the street upon which the railroad is operated is "near" thereto. It is not error for the trial judge to so charge the jury.

Toledo, etc., Co. v. Meinen, 6 C. C. n. s. 377; 17 C. D. 208 (1905).

Land abutting upon a cul de sac.

Cleveland Furnace Co. v. Railway Co., 9 N. P. n. s. 426; 20 L. D. 188 (1909).

Lumber Co. v. Railway, 11 N. P. n. s. 289 (1911); aff'd, no rep., 86 O. S. 354.

See above, Remedies of abutting owners. Injunction.

Damages. Abutting owners are entitled to recover full compensation for the depreciation in value of their property. In estimating the damages the same standard is to be applied as in direct appropriation proceedings.

Grafton v. B. & O. Ry., 21 Fed. 309; 12 W. L. B. 214 (C. C. 1884).

Railway Co. v. Gardner, 45 O. S. 309, 320 (1887).

See note to § 11053.

The measure of damages is, in general, the difference in the value of the property before and after the final location and construction of the railroad.

Toledo, etc., Co. v. Meinen, 6 C. C. n. s. 377; 17 C. D. 208 (1905).

Shepherd v. B. & O. Ry., 130 U. S. 426 (1889).

Railway Co. v. Gardner, 45 O. S. 309 (1887).

The damages recoverable under § 8765 are personal in their nature.

Railroad Co. v. Campbell, 51 O. S. 328 (1894).

Railroad Co. v. Lersch, 58 O. S. 652 (1898).

Railway Co. v. Hall, 11 C. C. n. s. 97; 20 C. D. 718 (1908); reversed in part, 85 O. S. 148.

Inconvenience common to general public. Damages can not be recovered where the injury caused by the tracks and operation of the railroad is not different in kind from that suffered by the general public, although the injury may be greater in degree. The common law rule as to such injuries is not abrogated by § 8765.

Wheeling, etc., R. Co. v. McLaughlin, 15 C. C. 1; 7 C. D. 647 (1897); aff'd, 61 O. S. 279.

Herzog v. Railway Co., 6 C. C. n. s. 527; 15 C. D. 702 (1904); aff'd, 74 O. S. 440.

Railway Co. v. Railway Co., 3 N. P. n. s. 109; 16 L. D. 777.

Flielman v. Cleveland, etc., Ry. Co., 27 W. L. B. 302.

Kinnear Mfg. Co. v. Beatty, 65 O. S. 264 (1901).

Schmidt v. Cleveland, 15 C. C. n. s. 589; 34 C. D. 7 (1913).

See Hall v. Railway Co., 85 O. S. 148 (1911).

Columbus Plow Co. v. Railway, 12 N. P. n. s. 81 (1911).

Smoke, noise, danger of fire, etc. It is competent to take into consideration evidence of substantial injury and loss to the property (not common to the community at large) caused by smoke, noises and sparks of fire, occasioned by running locomotives and cars along the track in front of the property.

Railway Co. v. Gardner, 45 O. S. 309 (1887).

Wheeling, etc., R. Co. v. McLaughlin, 15 C. C. 1; 7 C. D. 647 (1897); aff'd, 61 O. S. 279.

Nypano Ry. Co. v. Wadsworth Salt Co., 9 C. C. n. s. 114; 19 C. D. 110 (1906).

Danger of fire may be considered where the proximity of the buildings to the railroad is such as to render the danger imminent and appreciable.

Hayes v. Toledo, etc., Co., 6 C. C. n. s. 281; 16 C. D. 395 (1903); aff'd, 70 O. S. 425.

Hatch v. Railroad Co., 18 O. S. 92 (1868).

Although in actions under § 8765 noise, smoke, etc., incident to the proper operation of a railroad are proper elements of damage, yet in other actions property owners can not, in general, recover for injuries caused thereby.

Cincinnati, etc., Co. v. Burski, 4 C. C. n. s. 98; 16 C. D. 486 (1904).

Ross v. Cincinnati, etc., Ry. Co., 5 C. C. n. s. 565; 17 C. D. 135 (1905); aff'd, 74 O. S. 507.

Fliehman v. Cleveland, etc., Ry. Co., 27 W. L. B. 302 (1892).

Temporary obstruction of street. Damages caused by the temporary obstruction of a street during the construction of the railroad are not recoverable under this section unless such obstructions are unnecessarily and unreasonably interposed and prolonged.

Shepherd v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 130 U. S. 426; 6 O. F. D. 322 (1888).

Additional tracks. Additional tracks laid in a street, already occupied by one or more tracks, constitute an additional burden, and abutting owners are entitled to compensation and damages.

Railroad Co. v. Hambleton, 40 O. S. 496 (1884).

Varwig v. Railroad Co., 54 O. S. 455 (1896).

Chambers v. Cleveland, etc., Co., 5 C. C. n. s. 298; 17 C. D. 193; aff'd, 73 O. S. 348.

Cleveland, etc., Co. v. Reeder, 6 C. C. 354; 3 C. D. 489 (1892).

Interest. In an action under this section, an allowance may be made in the nature of interest on account of delay.

Lawrence R. Co. v. Cobb, 35 O. S. 94 (1878).

Limited to damages pleaded. Recovery is limited to the damages pleaded.

B. & O. R. Co. v. Lersch, 58 O. S. 639 (1898).

Railroad Co. v. Burski, 4 C. C. n. s. 98, 99; 16 C. D. 486 (1904).

Liability of municipality. The liability of the municipality is not affected, nor the remedy against it taken away, by this section, but in the action against the municipal corporation the plaintiff is not entitled to recover damages which are in the nature of compensation for the additional burden in the street arising from the location and construction of the tracks therein; for damages of that character the municipal corporation is not liable.

Zanesville v. Fannan, 53 O. S. 905 (1895).

See Steubenville v. McGill, 41 O. S. 235 (1884).

Dillenbach v. Xenia, 41 O. S. 207 (1884).

The liability of the railroad company is not limited to that of the municipality.

Lake Shore, etc., Ry. Co. v. Brown, 16 C. C. 269; 9 C. D. 37 (1896).

Section 8766. (Longitudinal occupancy of way unlawful.)

Nothing herein shall authorize a grant of the right to occupy any public street, avenue, or alley, longitudinally by an elevated track, except in so far as that is necessary to accommodate a curve in the line of the elevated track, in which case no supports shall be placed in the roadway of the street, avenue, or alley between the curb lines thereof, nor shall such longitudinal occupancy of the street, avenue, or alley exceed three hundred feet in length. (R. S. Sec. 3283; May 9, 1908, 99 v. 589; April 15, 1857, 54 v. 133, § 12.)

In the absence of legislative authority the construction and use by a railroad of its road longitudinally on a public highway is a public nuisance.

Railway Co. v. Hood, 94 Fed. 618 (C. C. A. 1899).

See Railway v. Cincinnati, 8 W. L. B. 334 (Dist. Ct. 1882).

Railway v. Defiance, 167 U. S. 88; 10 O. F. D. 480; affirming, 52 O. S. 262.

Section 8767. (Appropriation of easement.) If in the judgment of the board of directors of any domestic or foreign corporation owning or operating a railroad wholly or partly within this state, it be necessary to use and occupy for an elevated track any portion of any public ground lying within the limits of a municipality and dedicated to the public for use as a public ground, common, landing or wharf, or for any other public purpose, excepting all streets, avenues, alleys or public road, such company may appropriate an easement over so much of such ground as is necessary for such purpose, including the right to maintain the necessary piers and supports for the elevated track. Such appropriation shall be limited to such an easement as is necessary for the construction, maintenance and uses of such elevated track, in accordance with the plan hereinafter provided for. Proceedings for appropriation shall be conducted in the manner and upon the terms provided for the appropriation of the property of individuals. (R. S. Sec. 3283a; May 9, 1908, 99 v. 589.)

Piers in streets.

See Railway Co. v. Elyria, 69 O. S. 414 (1903); aff'g, 3 C. C. n. s. 250; 13 C. D. 482.

Railway Co. v. Steubenville (unreported), 83 O. S. 443 (1910).

See § 8763.

Prior to the enactment of this section (99 v. 589) a public common or landing could not be occupied with an elevated structure.

Railroad Co. v. Cincinnati, 76 O. S. 481 (1907).

This section authorizes the appropriation of an easement for an elevated track over a public landing.

Cincinnati v. Railway, 9 N. P. n. s. 433; 20 L. D. 440 (1910); aff'd, no report, 82 O. S. 466.

Affirmed by U. S. Supreme Court, 223 U. S. 390 (1912).

In appropriating an easement across a public landing under §§ 8767 to 8769 it is necessary to follow the procedure provided in § 11046.

Cincinnati v. Railroad Co., 88 O. S. 283 (1913); affirming, 12 N. P. n. s. 65; 22 L. D. 363; reversing 15 C. C. n. s. 62; 23 C. D. 464.

The directors have primary discretion to determine the necessity for the appropriation under this section, but under § 11046 the court in which the proceeding is brought has the final authority to determine such necessity and whether the proposed appropriation will be an abuse of corporate power or destructive of the public purpose to which the land is devoted.

Cincinnati v. Railroad Co., 88 O. S. 283 (1913); affirming, 12 N. P. n. s. 65; 22 L. D. 363; 10 N. P. n. s. 749; 56 Bull. 317; reversing 15 C. C. n. s. 62; 23 C. D. 464.

Sections 8767, 8768 and 8769 are constitutional.

Cincinnati v. Railway, 223 U. S. 390 (1912); affirming, 82 O. S. 466.

Section 8768. (Submission of plans to council.) Before such appropriation may be made, there shall be submitted to the council of the municipality general plans of the proposed structure showing the manner, character and location of all supports, any part of which will be upon public ground, common, landing or wharf, and also the vertical and longitudinal clearances between the supports. No right to appropriate shall accrue to the railroad company until after it and the council have agreed upon the manner, terms and conditions upon which the property may be used or occupied and the plans submitted have been approved by ordinance duly passed by a two-thirds vote of council. Such ordinance shall be read on three separate days. The rules requiring such reading shall not be suspended. (R. S. Sec. 3283a; May 9, 1908, 99 v. 590.)

An easement across a public landing can not be appropriated until an agreement has been made as to the "manner, terms and conditions" of the occupancy.

"Manner" means method or mode—the way tracks are laid; "terms", the boundary, limit and extent of the grant; "conditions", the stipulations, precedent, the inducement to the grant.

Railway v. Cincinnati, 12 N. P. n. s. 65, 75 (C. P. 1911); aff'd, 88 O. S. 283.

An ordinance, which deals with streets and a public landing, deals with two distinct subjects and is invalid.

Railway v. Cincinnati, 12 N. P. n. s. 65, 75, 76; 22 L. D. 363; (C. P. 1911); aff'd, 88 O. S. 283.

Section 8769. (Control by public authorities.) Such appropriation shall not be restrictive of the control by the public officers or authorities over such public ground, common, landing or wharf, subject to the continued maintenance and use of such elevated track upon the terms and conditions agreed upon. (R. S. Sec. 3283a; May 9, 1908, 99 v. 590.)

Section 8770. (Piers or other supports in a public way.) When it is deemed and declared necessary by two-thirds of the members of the council thereof and the mayor approving, any municipal corporation may grant the right, by ordinance duly passed, to a railroad company operating a steam railroad in such municipality to place and maintain necessary piers, or other stays or supports, in any street or way thereof, when they are provided for and included in the plans and specifications prepared for the abolishment of grade crossings therein under the provisions of an act to abolish crossings in municipal corporations, passed May 2, 1902, and all acts supplementary thereto and amendatory thereof. Every railroad to whom a grant has been made by any municipal authority as herein provided shall notify in writing the authorities making the grant of its rejection or acceptance of the grant at a time fixed by such authorities, when making it. After such a grant has been made, and accepted by a railroad, if within sixty days after such acceptance, there is filed with the mayor of the city or village making such grant a petition protesting against it, and signed by such a number of the electors of the city or village qualified to vote at the last preceding general election, as equals ten per cent of the number of votes cast for mayor at the last preceding election for mayor he shall certify that fact to the proper election officials. (R. S. Sec. 3283-1; May 9, 1908, 99 v. 591.)

Prior to the enactment of this section and the amendment of § 8763 piers and supports in a street were unauthorized.

Railway Co. v. Elyria, 69 O. S. 414 (1903); affirming, 3 C. C. n. s. 250; 13 C. D. 482.

Railway Co. v. Steubenville, 83 O. S. 443 (unreported).

Sections 8770 and 8771 do not apply to § 8763 et seq. These sections are complete in themselves and do not depend upon such other sections.

Cincinnati v. Railway, 9 N. P. n. s. 433, 436; 20 L. D. 440; aff'd, no Rep., 82 O. S. 466; aff'd, 223 U. S. 390.

Section 8771. (Submission of question to electors.) The officials in charge of such general election, in accordance with the statutes relating to elections, shall arrange and provide for and conduct the submission of such question to such electors. The question whether such grant shall be made shall be submitted to the electors of such city or village at the next succeeding general election occurring more than thirty days after the expiration of such sixty days. The ballots at such election shall read "Elevated Railroad Grant—Yes"; "Elevated Railroad Grant—No". If at the election a majority of the votes cast on such question is against the grant, it shall be ineffective and void. (R. S. Sec. 3283-1; May 9, 1908, 99 v. 591.)

Blank ballots are not "votes cast on such question" under this section and can not be counted.

Brush v. Orgill, 9 N. P. n. s. 632 (C. P. 1910).

The canvassing board may be enjoined from counting ballots which did not express any vote.

Brush v. Orgill, 9 N. P. n. s. 632 (C. P. 1910).

Section 8772. (Extension of line, how authorized.) When a company desires to extend the line of its road beyond either of its previously designated termini, its president and directors may submit the question of such extension and change of termini to a meeting of its stockholders, to be called for that purpose by notice published for four consecutive weeks in some newspaper in general circulation in each county through or into which the road passes. If the holders of a majority of the stock, in person or by proxy, so determine, the president and directors, or a majority of them, shall make a certificate of the fact, naming the places of the new terminus or termini of the road, and the county or counties through or into which the extended line will pass, and file it in the office of the secretary of state. Such extension then shall be held to be a part of the original line of the road. (R. S. Sec. 3306; March 20, 1875, 72 v. 70, § 2.)

Change of line, § 8747.

The provision that an extension shall "be held to be a part of the original line" does not have the effect of including the extension in a prior mortgage on the original line, which mortgage did not in terms cover after acquired property.

Louisville Trust Co. v. Railway Co., 91 Fed. 699; 10 O. F. D. 646 (1897).

See also note to § 8793.

This section applies to completed lines and requires a vote of a majority of the stock, only, for a change of termini.

Louisville Trust Co. v. Railway Co., 91 Fed. 699, 705; 10 O. F. D. 646 (1897).

The provisions of this section are for the benefit of the public.

Metropolitan Trust Co. v. Railway Co., 91 Fed. 18, 20; 13 O. F. D. 58 (1899).

Section 8773. (Diversion of road or stream.) When it is necessary in the construction of its road to cross a road or a stream of water, a company may divert it from its location or bed, but without unnecessary delay it shall place such road or stream in such condition as not to impair its former usefulness. (R. S. Sec. 3284; May 1, 1852, 50 v. 274, § 16.)

See § 8763.

For bridges over highways, see § 8857.

This section does not authorize a railroad company to lay tracks upon or across a county road. Its purpose is confined to the diversion of a road or stream.

Commissioners v. Penna. Co., 6 N. P. n. s. 141; 18 L. D. 348 (1907); (aff'd Cir. Ct. without report).

This section applies only to county roads. A street in a municipal corporation can not be crossed or occupied by a railroad under this section. Such occupancy or crossing is governed by § 8763.

Youngstown v. Railroad Co., 3 C. C. 214; 2 C. D. 121 (1888).

Railroad Co. v. Cincinnati, 8 W. L. B. 334 (Dist. Ct. 1882).

See Commissioners v. Penna. Co., 6 N. P. n. s. 141; 18 L. D. 348 (1907); (aff'd Cir. Ct. without report).

This section is substantially the common law rule on the subject.

Railroad Co. v. Defiance, 52 O. S. 262, 314 (1895).

Power to divert. Subject to the performance of the duty to restore, the power or right to divert a road or stream is coextensive with the public necessity which calls for its exercise, and the diversion may be temporary or permanent, as the public needs or necessities require.

Valley Ry. Co. v. Bohm, 34 O. S. 114, 119 (1877).

See Commissioners v. Penna. Co., 6 N. P. n. s. 141; 18 L. D. 348 (1907); (aff'd by Cir. Ct. without report).

Trust Co. v. Railway, 7 N. P. n. s. 497.

The diversion may be permanent, if reasonably necessary, and if the road is restored so as not to impair its former usefulness. Brown v. Railway, 16 C. C. n. s. 511; 25 C. D. 35 (1907); affirmed, except as to compensation for maintenance, 79 O. S. 440; Valley Ry. v. Bohm, 34 O. S. 114 (1877); Railroad v. Commissioners, 31 O. S. 338 (1877).

A railroad will not be enjoined from driving piling into the bed of a stream to construct a new bridge, unless substantial damage will be caused.

Commissioners v. Pierce, 90 Fed. 764; 12 O. F. D. 287 (C. C. 1898).

Necessity. The court may determine whether a necessity exists for the proposed diversion.

Commissioners v. Railway, 7 N. P. n. s. 529; 17 L. D. 418 (1908); aff'd in part, 79 O. S. 440.

After construction of road. A railroad company can not appropriate property for the purpose of diverting a stream after the original construction of its road.

Railway Co. v. South, 78 O. S. 10 (1908).

See Lorain County v. Railway, 11 C. C. n. s. 419; 12 C. D. 805.

Commissioners v. Railway, 7 N. P. n. s. 529; 17 L. D. 418 (1908); aff'd in part, 79 O. S. 440.

Duties of railroad company.

To guard pending construction. Until the highway is restored to its former condition of usefulness, the railroad company must, by proper barriers, prevent and guard travelers from using the highway where it is in a dangerous condition.

Potter v. Bunnell, 20 O. S. 150 (1870).

To restore to condition of usefulness. The requirement of this section is not to restore to its former place or conditions, but to such condition as not to affect materially its utility. It is to be left in such condition, how much so ever it may be diverted from its former course, that the right to the public or private enjoyment, where such right exists, shall not be materially disturbed or interfered with.

Valley Ry. Co. v. Bohm, 34 O. S. 114 (1877).

Little Miami R. R. Co. v. Commissioners, 31 O. S. 338 (1877).

Restoration to the former usefulness may be accomplished by the substitution of another way for the part taken.

Commissioners v. Railway, 7 N. P. n. s. 529; 17 L. D. 418 (1906); aff'd in part, 79 O. S. 440.

Megrue v. Commissioners, 15 C. C. 242; 8 C. D. 262 (1897).

The duty to restore rests upon the railroad company, and can not be shifted to a contractor.

Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Van Dorn, 1 C. C. 292; 1 C. D. 160 (1885).

The obligation to restore is inseparable from the right to divert.

Zanesville v. Fannan, 53 O. S. 615 (1895).

State v. Dayton, etc., R. Co., 36 O. S. 434 (1881).

A railroad may appropriate land necessary to restore the road or stream.

Valley Ry. Co. v. Bohm, 34 O. S. 114 (1877).

But the power to appropriate may be exercised only at the time of the original construction of the road.

Railway Co. v. South, 78 O. S. 10 (1908).

Before the enactment of § 8770 it was held that piers or supports for overhead tracks could not be permanently placed in a street; and that a street had not been restored to its former usefulness where such supports were maintained.

Railway Co. v. Elyria, 69 O. S. 414, 435 (1903); s. c., 3 C. C. n. s. 250; 13 C. D. 482.

To keep in repair after restoration. No duty is imposed by this section to keep the highway in repair, after it has been placed in such condition as not to impair its usefulness.

Pittsburg, etc., Ry. Co. v. Maurer, 21 O. S. 421 (1871).

Brown v. Commissioners, 79 O. S. 440.

Remedies on failure to restore road or stream to condition of usefulness.

Injunction. Injunction will lie to compel a railroad to perform its obligation to restore the road. Such action may be brought by the attorney general in the name of the state.

State v. Dayton, etc., R. Co., 36 O. S. 434 (1881).

Commissioners v. Railway, 7 N. P. n. s. 529, 540; 17 L. D. 418 (1906); aff'd in part, 79 O. S. 440.

Or by the county commissioners.

Little Miami R. Co. v. Commissioners, 31 O. S. 338 (1877).

The remedy given to county commissioners by G. C. § 2424 et seq. is cumulative and does not affect the right of the state.

State v. Dayton, etc., R. Co., 36 O. S. 434 (1881).

The statute of limitations is not a defense to an action brought to compel the railroad company to perform its obligation.

Little Miami R. Co. v. Commissioners, 31 O. S. 338 (1877).

Action for damages. A railroad company is liable for injuries to persons or property caused by its failure to restore the road to the former condition of usefulness.

G. C. § 7473.

Pittsburg, etc., Ry. Co. v. Maurer, 21 O. S. 421 (1871).

Potter v. Bunnell, 20 O. S. 150 (1870).

Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Van Dorn, 1 C. C. 292; 1 C. D. 160 (1885).

Consent of public authorities to the change does not affect the liability of the railroad company.

McNulta v. Ralston, 5 C. C. 330; 3 C. D. 163 (1891).

Where a stream is turned into a new channel on land of the railroad company, so that, beyond the railroad land, it is thrown upon the land of another, the railroad company is under a liability, which continues until the right to cause such damage is acquired.

Valley Ry. Co. v. Frantz, 43 O. S. 623 (1885).

Damages for a diversion of a highway can not be recovered in a proceeding to appropriate land adjoining the highway. A separate action must be brought for such injury.

Schaible v. Railway Co., 10 C. C. 334; 6 C. D. 505 (1895).

Where permission to divert a highway was granted by county commissioners, and certain individuals executed a bond securing the repair of the highway, and upon default of the railroad company the commissioners completed the repairs, it was held that the cost could be recovered in an action on the bond.

Megrue v. Commissioners, 15 C. C. 242; 8 C. D. 262 (1897).

Liability of municipal corporation. The fact that the railroad company is liable does not relieve a municipal corporation from its duty to keep its streets free from nuisance, nor change its liability.

Zanesville v. Fannan, 53 O. S. 605, 615 (1895).

Where a street bridge over a railroad falls, the railroad company having assumed the repair and maintenance of the bridge, and the municipality having control over it, are jointly liable.

Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Sweeny, 8 C. C. 298; 4 C. D. 11 (1894); (aff'd by divided court, 52 O. S. 616).

Diversion of streams generally.

See Railroad Co. v. Carr, 38 O. S. 448 (1882).

Crawford v. Rambo, 44 O. S. 279 (1886).

C. & H. C. & I. Co. v. Tucker, 48 O. S. 41 (1891).

Section 8774. (Construction of bridges; use as toll bridge.) A railroad company may so construct its bridges as to answer the ordinary purposes of travel and business, as well as for railroad purposes, and may demand and receive such rates of toll for the passage of individuals, vehicles of all kinds, or animals, as it fixes, subject to the approval of the commissioners of the county or counties in which such bridge is erected. Rates of toll shall be uniform, shall be printed or painted, and kept conspicuously posted in or near the toll-house of the bridge, and may be revised and changed in the first week of each year. The company may compound and bargain with any person or party for the use of such bridge, by the month, quarter, or year. No company shall receive toll upon such a bridge if erected within one mile of a toll bridge previously constructed over the same stream. (R. S. Sec. 3285; May 11, 1853, 51 v. 415, § 1.)

Section 8775. (Bridging of canals or navigable rivers.) When the line of the road crosses a canal or any navigable water, the company shall file with the board of public works, the plan of the bridge, and other fixtures therefor, which shall designate the place of crossing. If the board approves such plan, it shall notify the company, in writing, of such approval. If the board disapproves such plan, or fails to approve it within twenty days from the filing thereof, the company may apply to the court of common pleas, or a judge thereof in vacation, and upon reasonable notice being given to the members of the board, upon good cause shown, the court or judge shall appoint a competent, disinterested engineer, not a resident of a county through which the road passes, to examine such crossing, and prescribe the plan and conditions thereof, so as not to impede navigation. Within twenty days from his appointment, such engineer shall make his returns to the common pleas court of the county wherein such crossing is to be made, subject to exceptions by either party. At the next term after filing the return, the court shall examine, approve, and confirm it, unless good cause be shown against such approval. Its order of confirmation shall be sufficient authority for the erection, use, and occupancy of such bridge, in accordance with such plans. (R. S. Sec. 3317; May 1, 1852, 50 v. 274, § 20; 50 v. 205, §§ 4, 5.)

Approval of plans for a drawbridge by the board of public works and the secretary of war does not prevent the court from requiring a different motive power, where the plans approved did not disclose the motive power for moving the draw. State v. Railway, 24 C. C. n. s. 432 (1901).

The words "navigable waters" are used in no restricted sense; they embrace all waters within the state, which are navigable by the works of art or nature.

Works v. Junction R. R. Co., 5 McLain (U. S.) 425; 3 O. F. D. 101 (1853).

The right to cross a navigable water by a railroad bridge must be given by the sovereign power, by special or general act. Where this is not done, the board of public works can not approve the plan of a proposed bridge. The board has no power to grant leave to cross the navigable water.

Works v. Junction R. R. Co., 5 McLain (U. S.) 425; 3 O. F. D. 101 (1853).

Jurisdiction over the Miami River, see Rep. Atty. Gen. 1912, p. 1650; Rep. Atty. Gen. 1913, p. 450.

Remedy. See as to quo warranto in court of appeals.

Lake Shore, etc., Ry. Co. v. State (Sup. Ct.) 33 W. L. B. 169 (1894).

Power of congress. Under the power to regulate commerce, congress has power to prevent the obstruction of any navigable river, which is a means of commerce between any two or more states. The exercise of this great public right is not incompatible with the enjoyment of local rights. The public right consists in an unobstructed use of a navigable water connecting two or more states. The local right is to cross such water. The general commercial right is paramount to all state authority.

Lake Shore, etc., Ry. Co. v. Ohio, 165 U. S. 365 (1897).

Works v. Junction R. R. Co., 5 McLain (U. S.) 425; 3 O. F. D. 101 (1853).

See Bridge Co. v. United States, 105 U. S. 470; 5 O. F. D. 67 (1882).

State v. Commissioners, 7 C. C. n. s. 469; 18 C. D. 212 (1905); (dissenting opinion) 8 C. C. n. s. 169.

A sale of abandoned canal lands by the state does not revoke rights of way for railroad bridges granted under § 8775. The purchaser takes subject to the easement of the crossing road. Rep. Atty. Gen. 1913, p. 445.

Section 8776. (Height of bridges over canals.) No company shall construct over a canal any permanent bridge less than ten feet in the clear above the top water line of the canal, and the piers and abutments of such bridge must be placed so as not in any manner to contract the width of the canal, or interfere with free passage on the tow-path. This section shall not prevent the construction or continuance of draw bridges which do not interrupt navigation. (R. S. Sec. 3317; May 1, 1852, 50 v. 274, § 20; 50 v. 205, §§ 4, 5.)

The court has no power to approve a plan for the construction of a bridge where the bridge is to be less than ten feet above the top water-line of the canal, or where the piers or abutments interfere with navigation.

State ex rel. v. Railway Co., 37 O. S. 157, 173 (1881).

Section 8777. (Certain established bridges not affected.)

All railroad bridges erected prior to May 1, 1852, over any navigable canal, feeder, slack-water improvement, river, stream, lake or reservoir, not less than ten feet in the clear above the top water line, shall remain undisturbed by the board of public works. (R. S. Sec. 3318; May 1, 1852, 50 v. 205, § 4.)

Section 8778. (Enforcement of preceding section.) If a company refuses to comply with any of the provisions of sections eighty-seven hundred and seventy-five and eighty-seven hundred and seventy-six, on being notified thereof, the attorney-general shall immediately institute proper legal proceedings, in the name of the state, against such company, for the purpose of enforcing such provisions. (R. S. Sec. 3319; May 1, 1852, 50 v. 205, § 5.)

Section 8779. (When companies must use same bridge.)

When it becomes necessary for two or more railroads to cross any of the navigable waters of this state at or near the same point, by draw or swing bridge, the companies or persons owning or controlling such roads, if practicable, shall use one and the same bridge, and approaches thereto. The right to use any such bridge and its approaches, or other similar structure, so situated and used as to make it necessary for the companies or persons owning or operating two or more roads to agree upon a common use thereof, in order to comply with this section, when such companies or persons can not so agree, may be appropriated by the company or persons owning or operating a road for which such use is desired, in accordance with the provisions of law authorizing the appropriation of private property to the use of corporations. (R. S. Sec. 3364; February 10, 1860, 57 v. 10, § 1.)

Section 8780. (Appropriation of use of joint bridge.)

The statement to be filed in such appropriation proceedings as near as may be, shall set forth the regulations according to which the joint use of such bridge and approaches, or other structure, are to be regulated. If their reasonableness in any part be denied by the defendant in the proceedings, the court shall hear and determine the issue, and record its findings and order thereon, confirming or altering the regulations, as it deems just and reasonable, subject to exceptions and reversal for error by the court of common pleas, on petition filed for that purpose. The order fixing the regulations shall be made before the jury is impaneled to assess the compensation for the right sought to be appropriated, which shall be a sum equal to the annual value of such use, to be paid quarterly each year, in advance, while it continues. (R. S. Sec. 3365; February 10, 1860, 57 v. 10, § 2.)

This section applies to trestles. Whether a structure is a trestle or a bridge is a question of fact for the jury.

Johns v. Railway, 7 N. P. 592; 10 L. D. 348 (C. P. 1900).

DIRECTORS AND OFFICERS.

Section 8781. (Opening of transfer books in other states.)

When they deem it expedient for the interest or convenience of the company, its directors may open transfer books in any state of the United States, for the purpose of transferring stock purchased or held by persons out of this state, and employ suitable agents to keep such books, whose acts, done under the authority of this section, shall bind the company. (R. S. Sec. 3291; March 21, 1850, 48 v. 51, § 1.)

Section 8782. (Election of a vice-president.) The directors may elect from their number a vice-president, when, in their opinion, the interest or convenience of the company requires it. In case of the absence, death, resignation, or other disability of the president, the vice-president so elected shall exercise the powers and discharge the duties which belong to the office of president, until such vacancy is filled by a new election, or such disability removed. (R. S. Sec. 3292; March 29, 1856, 53 v. 36, § 1.)

The office of vice-president may be made active and independent.

Colman v. West Virginia, etc., Co., 25 W. Va. 148 (1884).

Chicago, etc., Co. v. James, 22 Wis. 194 (1867); s. c., 24 Wis. 388 (1869).

Richards v. Osceola, 79 Ia. 707 (1890).

Section 8783. (Election of a treasurer.) When, in their opinion, the interests or convenience of the company will be promoted thereby, the directors may elect a suitable person as treasurer of the company, to be subject to such rules and regulations as they or the company prescribe. (R. S. Sec. 3293; April 7, 1857, 54 v. 103, § 1.)

Section 8784. (Number of directors may be increased or diminished.) By a vote of a majority of its stock, at any regular annual meeting of the company, it may increase the number of directors to not more than fifteen, or decrease the number before or after such increase to not less than seven. (R. S. Sec. 3294; January 14, 1875, 72 v. 17, § 3.)

A decrease or increase in the number of directors is not such a fundamental change but that it may be done by the majority.

Mower v. Staples, 32 Minn. 284 (1884).

Section 8785. (Directors may be classified at stockholders' meeting.) The stockholders of a company, whose railroad is wholly or partly within this state, at any regular meeting, or special meeting of which at least thirty days' notice has been given by publication, by an affirmative vote of those owning a majority of the stock of the company, may direct its board of directors so to classify the members thereof, by lot or otherwise, that one-third shall terminate their official term at the first annual election thereafter, one-third at the next annual election thereafter, and the remainder at the next succeeding annual election. At the first regular election succeeding such classification, when the term of the directors of the first class expires and at each succeeding annual election thereafter, the stockholders shall elect directors for three years, to take the places of those retiring, and no more. All vacancies which otherwise occur in the board shall be filled in the manner prescribed by law. (R. S. Sec. 3295; April 30, 1869, 66 v. 77, § 1.)

Section 8786. (Classification of directors.) The stockholders of a company whose road is wholly or partly within this state, at any regular annual election of directors thereof, may so classify and elect such directors that one-third thereof shall serve for one year, one-third for two years, and the remainder for three years. At each succeeding annual election thereafter the stockholders shall elect directors to take the place of those whose terms so expire. No person shall be allowed to vote for directors unless he has been a registered stockholder of the company at least thirty days prior to such election. The registry of such stock shall be made in the books kept at the principal office of the company. (R. S. Sec. 3296; April 30, 1869, 66 v. 77, § 2.)

Section 8787. (Rights of creditors in election of directors.) The provisions of the next two preceding sections also apply to companies whose bondholders or other creditors share with the stockholders in the election of directors. In such case the vote necessary to direct the classification provided for in those sections shall be the same as is required to elect directors of such company. (R. S. Sec. 3297; April 30, 1869, 66 v. 77, § 3.)

Section 8788. (Personal liability of directors.) Such directors shall be liable in their individual capacity to the stockholders for any damage sustained by them by reason of negligence, mismanagement, or unfaithfulness in the discharge of their duties; but a director may exonerate himself by entering his protest upon the record against an act done without his concurrence from which injury is feared, and forthwith publishing it for three weeks in some newspaper printed and of general circulation in the county in which is the principal office of the company. (R. S. Sec. 3314; May 1, 1854, 52 v. 91, § 3.)

Section 8789. (Who ineligible to office or appointment.) No person who is a stockholder, owner, or part owner of any express, dispatch, fast freight, or transportation company, whether incorporated or not, an object, or one of the objects, of which is the shipment of freight or the transportation of persons over any railroad in the United States, or who in any way is pecuniarily interested in a company or partnership formed for such or like purpose, shall perform the duties of, or be elected or appointed to, an office of profit or trust in a railroad company, or employed as freight or ticket agent thereof. All such persons shall be ineligible to any such office or appointment. (R. S. Sec. 3315; April 6, 1866, 63 v. 156, § 1.)

Similar acts are in force in Missouri, Pennsylvania and Wisconsin.

Employees of a freight despatch company are not "stockholders, owners or part owners." They are not interested in such company within the meaning of this section and are not disqualified from acting as directors.

Devou v. Cincinnati, etc., Co., 4 O. L. R. 313; 19 C. D. 113 (1906).

Section 8790. (Acts of ineligible persons void; forfeiture.) If any person be elected to an office, or appointed to a position, or performs duties, in violation of the next preceding section, all his official acts shall be null and void. For every day that he exercises or attempts to exercise the functions of such office or appointment, he shall forfeit and pay fifty dollars, to be recovered at the suit of any stockholder of the company, in its name, one-half of which shall go into the treasury of the company, and the other to the stockholder prosecuting. (R. S. Sec. 3316; April 6, 1866, 63 v. 156, § 2.)

Section 8791. (When directors may receive subscriptions in installments.) The directors of a company which has expended in the construction of its road ten per cent of its authorized capital, and has obtained actual bona fide subscriptions to its capital stock to the amount of at least twenty per cent thereof, may receive subscriptions to its capital stock, payable in such installments, dependent upon the completion of the whole or any part of its road so that cars may pass over it, as they deem expedient, and upon full payment thereof issue certificates of stock therefor. No subscriber to the stock hereby authorized shall be entitled to any of the privileges of a stockholder until his subscription is fully paid, nor for any purpose, be deemed a stockholder until the happening of the contingency upon which the installments on his subscription are made dependent. (R. S. Sec. 3298; April 15, 1857, 54 v. 133, § 3.)

If at the time a subscription is made it is unauthorized by this section, it may be a continuing offer to subscribe and become absolute when its conditions have been complied with, though it may be withdrawn at any time before such performance.

Armstrong v. Karshner, 47 O. S. 276 (1890).

Where a subscription is conditioned upon the completion and operation of the road between specified points, it is not necessary that the whole road should be completed before the subscription can be enforced.

Leshner v. Karshner, 47 O. S. 302 (1890).

The addition of the words "paid as donation" do not convert a conditional subscription to an agreement for a gift.

Leshner v. Karshner, 47 O. S. 302 (1890).

A subscriber to stock is entitled to no privileges until his subscription is fully paid; for instance, he can not vote if action is to be taken under §§ 8806 to 8808.

Railroad Co. v. Hinsdale, 45 O. S. 556 (1888).

For conditional subscriptions in general, see note to § 8630.

Section 8792. (Conditional subscriptions.) A company which has begun and partly built its road, but is unable to finish and operate it for want of means, may take subscriptions conditioned that the proceeds thereof shall not be used or applied upon the debts of the company. All money or material collected upon such subscriptions, and all material or implements purchased with such money for the construction of the track, houses, depots, and rolling stock of the company, shall be exempt from execution, or other process or proceedings for the payment of the debts of the company so long as such money, material or implements are used or designed for the construction of such track, houses, depots and rolling-stock. (R. S. Sec. 3299; April 16, 1867, 64 v. 192, § 1.)

Conditional subscriptions. See note to § 8630.

BORROWING MONEY.

Section 8793. (Mortgage bonds.) A railroad company may issue bonds, convertible or otherwise, bearing a rate of interest not exceeding seven per cent per annum, to an amount not exceeding two-thirds of its capital stock, actually subscribed, for one or more of the following purposes: Completing or extending its road, constructing branch roads, laying double or additional track, increasing its machinery or rolling-stock, building depots or shops, making improvements, paying its unfunded debts, or redeeming its bonds. It may secure the bonds so issued, by mortgage on its property, or otherwise, if authorized by the vote, in person or by proxy, of holders of a majority of the stock upon which all the installments called for by the board of directors have been paid. Such vote shall be taken at a meeting of stockholders, of which thirty days' notice shall be given. (R. S. Sec. 3286; March 14, 1876, 73 v. 25, § 5.)

Corporate mortgages and bond issues generally. See § 8705 et seq.

By consolidated railroad companies, § 8801 et seq.

By street and interurban railways, § 9121-1.

An issue of bonds by a railroad must be authorized by the public service commission.

See §§ 614-53 to 614-55.

Issue of bonds regardless of amount of capital stock, when authorized by commission, see G. C. § 614-53.

Vote of stockholders. This section does not in terms require a vote of the stockholders to give the directors authority to issue bonds. Such authority is only required for the execution of a mortgage over the corporate property.

Shoemaker v. Dayton, etc., R. Co., 19 W. L. B. 322 (1888); aff'd, 3 C. C. 473; 2 C. D. 270.

What property may be mortgaged.

After acquired property. Where railroad mortgages contain apt language to that effect, they attach to and cover future acquisitions of property for the use of the road.

Coopers v. Wolf, 15 O. S. 523 (1864).

Trust Co. v. Traction Co., 106 O. S. 577 (1922).

Feike v. Cincinnati, etc., Ry. Co., 14 C. C. 186; 7 C. D. 652 (1897).

Coe v. Columbus, etc., R. Co., 10 O. S. 372 (1859).

Coe v. Peacock, 14 O. S. 187 (1863).

Ludlow v. Hurd, 1 Dis. 552 (1857).

Hatry v. Painesville, etc., Ry. Co., 1 C. C. 426; 1 C. D. 238 (1886).
Maher v. Ventilating Co., 11 C. C. 381; 5 C. D. 159.
Trust Co. v. Cincinnati, etc., Ry. Co., 91 Fed. 699; 10 O. F. D. 646 (1897).

Compton v. Jessup, 68 Fed. 263; 8 O. F. D. 452 (1895).

After-acquired property clauses attach to equitable interests as well as to legal interests.

Property acquired by a consolidated company may be subject to mortgages given by constituent companies before the consolidation.

But, the mortgage does not attach to property conveyed by other constituent companies to the consolidated company, on the consolidation, in the absence of an agreement to that effect. Trust Co. v. Traction Co., 106 O. S. 577 (1922).

Where lands parallel to rights of way were acquired by the consolidated company and its lessee, for the purpose of removing tracks from the highway and straightening curves, but the removals were not completed at the time of foreclosure, all lands used or immediately useful or adapted to prospective needs become the property of the roads to which they were appurtenant and subject to the mortgages. Trust Co. v. Traction Co., 106 O. S. 577 (1922).

A railroad mortgage covering "all of the following, present and in the future to be acquired property and estate of said company" does not convey present and after acquired property generally where such description is followed by a specific reference to the property.

King v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 12 C. D. 551 (1886).

A conveyance of "all the right, title and interest which the said company now has or may hereafter acquire in and to its aforesaid railroad" specifies nothing and does not convey after acquired property.

King v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 12 C. D. 551 (1886).

Section 8772 does not operate to include an extension of line in a prior mortgage on the original line which does not, in terms, cover after acquired property.

Louisville Trust Co. v. Railway Co., 91 Fed. 699; 10 O. F. D. 646 (1897).

A railway company gave a mortgage to secure its coupon bonds, conveying all the property which it then possessed or should thereafter acquire, and subsequently executed a lease, to which the mortgagee was not a party, whereby the lessee agreed to pay the coupons at maturity, in the event the net earnings of the demised road should not be sufficient to protect the interest on the bonds. In a suit to foreclose the mortgage, held, that the lease was not after acquired property within the meaning of the mortgage.

Moran v. Pittsburg, etc., Ry. Co., 32 Fed. 878; 5 O. F. D. 712 (1887).

Where a lease is executed by a mortgagor subsequent to the mortgage, and there is no privity of estate or contract thereby created between the mortgagee and lessee, and there is no attornment by lessee to mortgagee, the mortgagee can not either before or after the mortgagor's default, demand the benefits of the lease without the consent of the lessee.

Moran v. Pittsburg, etc., Ry. Co., 32 Fed. 878; 5 O. F. D. 712 (1887).

A mortgage on "the road" of the company, "whether made or to be made, acquired or to be acquired," and all property, real or personal, "of the company, whether now owned or hereafter to be acquired, used or appropriated for the operating or maintaining the said road," is not a lien upon the real estate of the company then owned or afterward acquired which has not been used or appropriated for operating or maintaining the road.

Walsh v. Barton, 24 O. S. 28 (1873).

Hatry v. Painesville, etc., Ry. Co., 1 C. C. 426; 1 C. D. 238 (1886).

Franchise to be a corporation. A railroad company has no power to mortgage or sell its franchise to be a corporation, and a judicial sale upon mortgages executed by it would not invest the purchaser with any corporate capacity whatever.

Atkinson v. Marietta, etc., R. Co., 15 O. S. 21 (1864).

Coe v. Columbus, etc., R. Co., 10 O. S. 372 (1859).

Franchise to operate railroad. The franchise to maintain the railroad and receive compensation for transportation may be mortgaged.

Coe v. Columbus, etc., R. Co., 10 O. S. 372 (1859).

A street railway may mortgage its franchise to operate on streets.

Louisville Trust Co. v. Cincinnati, 76 Fed. 296; 10 O. F. D. 112 (C. C. A. 1896).

Rolling stock. Extra-territorial effect. A mortgage covers rolling stock, though temporarily out of the state, and a receiver may, under comity between states by an action brought in the foreign state in his own name, assert his right to the possession thereof where such right is not in conflict with the rights of citizens of such foreign state nor against the policy of its laws.

Bank v. McLeod, 38 O. S. 174 (1882).

Winslow v. Troy Iron, etc., Co., 1 Dis. 229 (1856).

Scrap. Cast-off articles. The cast-off articles, fragments and old materials, once forming part of the road, or used in its operation, still continue under the mortgage, if a proper and judicious management of the road requires that they should be recast or exchanged for new articles, for the uses of the road.

Coopers v. Wolf, 15 O. S. 523 (1864).

Construction of mortgage and bonds. Where the words or terms of a bond are equivocal or not entirely clear, the court may consider the deed of trust in connection with the bond in order to ascertain the real contract between the corporation and the bondholder.

Shoemaker v. Dayton, etc., R. Co., 18 W. L. B. 43 (1887).

A mortgage given to secure the payment of dividends to the holders of certificates of preferred stock, is an incident to the principal obligation, and the terms and purport of the certificates will be held to express the real intent of the parties, even though some of the stipulations of the mortgage may be apparently inconsistent with the intent as expressed by the certificates.

Miller v. Ratterman, 47 O. S. 141 (1890).

Interest. An interest coupon, in which no payee was designated, was held to be nonnegotiable.

Wright v. Ohio, etc., R. Co., 1 Disney 465 (1857).

But coupons payable to bearer are negotiable.

G. C. §§ 8106, 8114.

Where bonds were issued bearing interest at seven percent, per annum, payable semi-annually, and it was claimed that the corporation had no power to contract for the payment of interest either semi-annually or at any other time before the money fell due, it was held that the payment of the interest could be regulated according to the usual course of dealing in borrowing money and paying the price or compensation for its use.

Coe v. Columbus, etc., R. R. Co., 10 O. S. 372, 396 (1859).

Where interest on bonds is made payable out of net income at certain periods, a failure of income in one period does not discharge the interest, but it is payable from the income of succeeding periods.

Dayton, etc., R. Co. v. Shoemaker, 3 C. C. 473; 2 C. D. 270 (1888).

Where the mortgage provides that the bonds shall become due immediately upon a default of interest for six months, it is doubtful whether a default alone, without any steps being taken by a holder to enforce the provisions, is such a dishonor as to destroy the negotiability. But where the interest is subsequently paid in full, the negotiability of the bonds is restored.

Railway Co. v. Lynde, 55 O. S. 23 (1896); aff'd, 172 U. S. 493.

Proceeds of sale of bonds as a trust fund. Where money is held by a corporation or its directors, arising from a sale of its mortgage bonds, and the purposes for which the bonds or their proceeds are to be used by the corporation are set forth in the mortgage, and are such as are authorized by statute, it is a trust fund to be used in good faith by the corporation for the purposes stated in the mortgage.

Columbus, etc., Ry. Co. v. Burke, 19 W. L. B. 27 (1887).

Central Trust Co. v. Burke, 1 N. P. 169; 2 L. D. 96 (1895).

Upon a proper showing the bondholders are entitled to an injunction to restrain a misuse of the funds arising from the sale of bonds.

Columbus, etc., Ry. Co. v. Burke, 19 W. L. B. 27 (1887).

Estoppel to deny validity of bonds. Where a company has paid interest and principal on bonds for several years, it may be estopped to deny the validity of the issue of the bonds.

Shoemaker v. Dayton, etc., R. R. Co., 19 W. L. B. 322 (1888).

See note to § 8705.

Negotiable notes secured by bonds. A trustee appointed by a railroad company to hold bonds as collateral security for its negotiable notes is the agent of the company and not of the holders of the notes. Notice to the trustee of defenses is not notice to bona fide holders of the notes.

Central Trust Co. v. Railway Co., 7 O. L. R. 15; 169 Fed. 466 (C. C. 1908).

Convertible bonds.

See § 8709 and note.

Where convertible bonds were issued, and the interest regularly paid, the bondholders are entitled to convert their bonds into stock, but to receive only an amount of stock equal to the principal sum of the bonds, without stock or money for dividends on the stock, not being entitled to both interest and dividends.

Sutcliffe v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 24 O. S. 147 (1873).

Where bonds are converted into stock, not in good faith, but for the purpose of keeping the control of the company in the hands of a board of directors, a court of equity may interfere on the ground of fraud.

Baldwin v. Hillsborough R. R. Co., 10 W. L. J. 356 (1853).

See note to § 8630, Sales to directors and officers.

Rights of general creditors, to unissued or undelivered bonds. Railroad mortgage bonds held by the company or its agents, for the use of the company before delivery, are not subject to execution as property of the company, nor can they be subjected to sale by proceedings in aid of execution.

Means v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 2 Dis. 465 (1859).

A writ of mandamus will not be allowed to compel a corporation to issue its bonds to one of its creditors in order to obtain the benefit of a mortgage security, where the right of the creditor to such security is doubtful, and the property sought to be affected has passed into the hands of third parties as purchasers. The remedy in such case should be by a suit brought in equity against the parties whose interest it is sought to affect.

Ham v. Toledo, etc., Ry. Co., 29 O. S. 174 (1876).

Execution against railroad property. The levy of an execution upon personal property of a railroad, while in actual use, is invalid on the ground of public policy. But in general a railroad is not entitled to special immunity from process in favor of its creditors.

State v. Brimson, 46 W. L. B. 275 (Supreme Court without report, 1901).

A freight car in use in interstate commerce, and in transit into and from the state, can not be levied upon.

Buckeye Buggy Co. v. Railway, 3 O. L. R. 426; 16 L. D. 279 (C. P. 1905).

Pullman Co. v. Linke, 11 O. L. R. 64; 203 Fed. 1017 (D. C. 1913).

The execution of a mortgage by a railroad company can give no exemption to its personal property from liability for its debts that the execution of a like mortgage by an individual would not create.

Coe v. Columbus, etc., R. R. Co., 10 O. S. 372 (1859).

Coe v. Knox County Bank, 10 O. S. 412 (1859).

Coe v. Peacock, 14 O. S. 187.

See Carey v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 1 W. L. M. 338 (1859).

But where the value of the entire mortgaged property is less than the amount of the mortgage, the removal and sale on execution of portions of such property may be enjoined.

Lane v. Bingham, 17 O. S. 642 (1867).

Ludlow v. Hurd, 1 Dis. 552 (1857).

Where the amount of mortgages exceeds the entire value of the mortgaged property, only nominal damages can be recovered against the sheriff for refusing to levy upon and sell the property on executions against the company.

Coopers v. Wolf, 15 O. S. 523 (1864).

See Coe v. Peacock, 14 O. S. 187 (1863).

When the property is inadequate security for the payment of mortgage debts, a judgment creditor's remedy is in equity, to subject the interest of the mortgagor to the payment of his judgment, or where the nature of his claim is such as to entitle him to have it paid out of the earnings of the company, by proceedings to appropriate so much thereof as may be necessary to the payment of the judgment.

Lane v. Baughman, 17 O. S. 642 (1867).

See Carey v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 1 W. L. M. 338 (1859).

Stewart v. Railway Co., 53 O. S. 151 (1895).

FORECLOSURE.

By trustee. The trustee under a railroad mortgage is bound to recognize the rights of the holders of all bonds which are prima facie valid, and to act on their request to foreclose when made by the requisite number.

Central Trust Co. v. Ry. Co., 7 O. L. R. 15; 169 Fed. 466 (C. C. 1908).

A trustee under a railroad mortgage, in bringing suit to foreclose, acts for the benefit of every bondholder who may show his right to share in the proceeds of sale. The trustee is not incapacitated from maintaining the suit although there is a controversy between bondholders as to distribution of the proceeds, and although the trustee represents certain of the bondholders in a different capacity.

Central Trust Co. v. Railway Co., 7 O. L. R. 15; 169 Fed. 466 (C. C. 1908).

Where bonds are payable to the trustee or to bearer, in a suit for foreclosure the trustee may plead a separate cause of action praying for personal judgment. Trust Company v. Traction Co., 106 O. S. 577 (1922).

Suit by holder of non-negotiable coupons to compel trustee to foreclose.

See Wright v. Ohio, etc., R. Co., 1 Dis. 465 (1857).

A trustee, holding bonds for the benefit of others, can not maintain an action of deceit to recover damages suffered by his cestuis que trustent by reason of a deception practiced upon them in connection with their purchase of the bonds, nor can he maintain an equitable action on the ground of fraud.

Raymond v. Spring Grove, etc., Ry. Co., 21 W. L. B. 103 (1889).

By one bondholder on behalf of all. Where no provision is contained in the mortgage or bonds limiting the right of foreclosure to the trustee, one bondholder may bring suit on behalf of all, under G. C. § 11257. Where a special master was appointed, all who proved their claims before him were held bound by the judgment as if they had been formally made parties.

Carpenter v. Canal Co., 35 O. S. 307.

A suit by one bondholder to enforce an equitable lien of railroad equipment bonds, "on his own behalf as well as for all who may come in and contribute to the expense" is not a class suit under § 11257 and does not bind those who do not come in, unless they had notice and opportunity and refused to do so.

Adelbert College v. Toledo, etc., Ry. Co., 3 N. P. 15; 5 L. D. 14 (1896); s. c., 74 O. S. 483; reversed, 208 U. S. 38, 609 (1908).

In federal court. A suit in a federal court to foreclose a mortgage on the property of a railroad corporation, operates as constructive notice throughout the district, and all persons acquiring an interest in or lien on any part of the property during the pendency of the suit will be bound by the decree and sale made thereunder; the purchaser will take the property discharged from all such liens and interests; though the persons obtaining them be not parties to the suit, they must seek satisfaction from the proceeds of the sale, to reach which they should become parties, and bring their claims to the attention of the court by appropriate pleadings.

Stewart v. Railway Co., 53 O. S. 151 (1895).

See Railway Co. v. Lynde, 55 O. S. 23 (1896); aff'd, 172 U. S. 493.

The pendency of a foreclosure suit in federal court, in which the decree saves the rights secured by a prior mortgage, does not interfere with the negotiation of bonds secured by such prior mortgage or impair in any degree the lien thereby created.

Railway Co. v. Trust Co., 172 U. S. 493 (1899); affirming, 55 O. S. 23.

Effect of federal court proceeding on power of state courts.

Where the property is in the possession of the federal court, a state court has no power to order a sale of the property, or, as an essential part of the order of sale, to adjudge that certain equipment bonds are a lien upon the property.

Wabash Railroad Co. v. Adelbert College, 208 U. S. 38, 609 (1908); reversing 74 O. S. 483.

A judgment recovered in a state court against a railroad company by a creditor who was not made a party to the foreclosure suit in federal court, remains unaffected by the decree and sale. Such judgment becomes a lien on the real property owned by the company at the time of its recovery, in the county where rendered, including lands acquired for the roadway, right of way, depots and other purposes of the company, and continues to be so against the property in the hands of the purchaser at the foreclosure sale.

Stewart v. Railway Co., 53 O. S. 151 (1895).

Sale must be of entire road. Because of the interest of the public in the operation of railroads, a railroad must, on a judicial sale, be sold in entirety and not in sections.

King v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 12 C. D. 551 (1886).

Stewart v. Railway Co., 53 O. S. 151 (1895).

An exception to this rule exists where the property subject to the lien is independent, as a lot of land not actually used in operation, the sale of which will not interfere with operation.

King v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 12 C. D. 551 (1886).

Injunction. An injunction may be allowed restraining the removal and sale on execution of portions of the mortgaged property of a railroad company on the application of the mortgagees, when the whole of the property is admitted to be inadequate security for the payment of the mortgage debts.

Lane v. Baughman, 17 O. S. 642 (1867).

Ludlow v. Hurd, 1 Dis. 552 (1857).

Possession by trustee. A power inserted in a mortgage authorizing the mortgagee, upon default of payment, to take possession of the railroad and other property connected therewith, and to use or sell the same, must be exerted upon all the property mortgaged; and does not authorize the mortgagee to detach portions thereof, either from the possession of the company or an officer succeeding to its rights by a valid levy.

Coe v. Peacock, 14 O. S. 187 (1863).

See Goodman v. Railroad Co., 2 Dis. 176 (1858).

Subrogation. The purchaser at a foreclosure sale may, when necessary for his protection, be subrogated to the rights of the mortgagee.

Stewart v. Railway Co., 53 O. S. 151 (1895).

Mill Creek, etc., Ry. Co. v. Carthage, 18 C. C. 216; 9 C. D. 833 (1899); aff'd, 62 O. S. 636.

Priorities. Where bonds, secured by one mortgage to a trustee, are issued at different times, the lien of all bonds, outstanding in the hands of bona fide holders for value, are equal in priority. The lien of each bond dates from the recording of the mortgage.

Railway Co. v. Lynde, 55 O. S. 23 (1896); aff'd, 172 U. S. 493.

Where interest on bonds is made payable out of net income, the corporation may be enjoined from expending its net income for other purposes.

Dayton, etc., R. Co. v. Shoemaker, 3 C. C. 473; 2 C. D. 270 (1888).

A claim for ties necessary to the preservation of a railroad, finished within six months of the appointment of a receiver, is not superior to a mortgage recorded prior to the making of the contract for furnishing the ties.

Gregg v. Metropolitan Trust Co. (U. S. Sup. Ct. 1905); 15 O. F. D. 21; affirming, 124 Fed. 721; 14 O. F. D. 65; 109 Fed. 220; 13 O. F. D. 624.

A railroad mortgage covering after acquired property has priority over a mechanic's lien for labor and materials under § 8345, which was enacted after the execution and recording of the mortgage.

Reed v. Ginsburg, 64 O. S. 11 (1901).

A claim against a railroad company for money advanced to pay interest and taxes is not entitled to an equitable lien as against mortgagees.

Coe v. Columbus, etc., R. Co., 10 O. S. 372 (1859).

Where a party contracts to sell land to a railway company, but retains the legal title pending payment, it is sufficient to put subsequent mortgagees of the road upon inquiry as to his rights.

Dayton, etc., R. Co. v. Lewton, 20 O. S. 401 (1870).

Priorities between vendor's lien and mortgage.

Hatry v. Railway Co., 1 C. C. 426; 1 C. D. 238; aff'd, 23 W. L. B. 281.

Between mortgage and lien under conditional sale agreement.

See notes to §§ 9060, 9061.

Duty of purchaser to operate railroad. Where a railroad company, organized under the laws of Ohio with power of eminent domain, has constructed and operated a line of railroad, portions of which were along and across public highways or other railroads, such railroad becomes impressed with a public interest. A purchaser, either at judicial sale or otherwise, has no right to operate it as a private road, to the exclusion of the public. State v. Black Diamond Co., 97 O. S. 24 (1917).

A purchaser of a street railway at judicial sale assumes the obligation of the original grantee of its street franchise to operate the road. Gress v. Fort Loramie, 100 O. S. 35 (1919).

The purchaser at judicial sale is not personally obligated to pay the mortgage debt, but it is his duty to repair and restore the property, and if he neglects such duty, any accumulated net earnings may, on foreclosure, be ordered applied to such purpose, and, if not so expended, should be distributed to the mortgagee in the amount and to the value of the accrued depreciation. Trust Co. v. Traction Co., 106 O. S. 577 (1922).

Miscellaneous. The title to rolling stock may be determined in the foreclosure suit.

Central Trust Co. v. Ohio Central Ry., 15 O. F. D. 843 (C. C. 1898).

In federal court, the court may order a sale before the final determination of the validity and amount of bonds held by each holder, and it is a recognized practice to postpone the final determination of such questions until after the sale. Petitioners who desire to contest the validity of certain bonds will not be allowed to intervene before the sale, but will be remanded for hearing before the master.

Central Trust Co. v. Railway Co., 7 O. L. R. 15; 169 Fed. 466 (C. C. 1908).

A trustee appointed by a railroad company to hold mortgage bonds pledged as security for its negotiable notes is the agent of the company only. Where such trustee is a party to a suit to foreclose the mortgage, in a different capacity, the note holders are not thereby made parties by representation.

Central Trust Co. v. Railway Co., 7 O. L. R. 15; 169 Fed. 466 (C. C. 1908).

Section 8794. (Aggregate indebtedness shall not exceed capital stock.) A railroad company may borrow money, at not exceeding seven per cent per annum interest for any purpose required in its business, execute bonds or promissory notes therefor in sums of not less than one hundred dollars, and secure payment thereof by a pledge of its property and income. The aggregate indebtedness authorized by this and the next preceding section shall not exceed the amount of the capital stock of the company. (R. S. Sec. 3287; May 1, 1852, 50 v. 274, § 14.)

See notes to §§ 8793, 8797 and 8705.

The power to mortgage income, conferred by this section, includes power to mortgage the property which produces the income. Trust Co. v. Traction Co., 106 O. S. 577, 615 (1922).

Distribution of income on mortgage foreclosure. Ib.

The income which railway corporations are authorized to pledge is their net income, not their gross earnings. It is therefore the right and duty of these companies to apply their earnings, first, to pay for all services rendered by laborers, agents and officers; for taxes, machinery, fuel, expenses of maintaining and operating their roads, and for liabilities growing thereout. Second, to pay interest on mortgages. Third, to pay liens in the order of priority.

Carey v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 1 W. L. M. 338 (1859).

See McCormack v. Central Ohio R. Co., 3 W. L. G. 218 (1859).

Darst v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 4 W. L. G. 377 (1859).

Railroad Co. v. Shoemaker, 3 C. C. 473; 2 C. D. 270 (1888).

A court of equity, upon application of an income bondholder for himself and others, should take cognizance of the trust, and restrain the corporation from diverting the funds, to which alone he and his associates may look for the payment of their interest.

Shoemaker v. Dayton, etc., R. R. Co., 18 W. L. B. 43; 3 C. C. 473 (1887).

Carey v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 1 W. L. M. 338 (1859).

See Darst v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 4 W. L. G. 377 (1859).

One lien may be put on the property after another until bonds are executed to the amount authorized and the power exhausted.

See Coe v. Columbus R. R. Co., 10 O. S., 372, 400 (1859).

Loan in excess of capital stock.

See §§ 8705, 614-53.

Railway companies have general power to issue bonds secured by mortgage and where such bonds are issued in excess of the amount allowed by law, there can be no recovery on the bonds against the individual stockholders and directors who caused the issue.

Raymond v. Spring Grove, etc., Ry. Co., 21 W. L. B. 103 (1889).

Estoppel to deny validity of issue. Where the stock of a railway company is irregularly increased, and bonds are issued based upon such increase in stock, both the corporation and the stockholders are estopped to deny the validity of the issue after they have acquiesced in the same for three years.

Farmers Trust Co. v. Toledo, etc., Ry. Co., 67 Fed. 49; 9 O. F. D. 230 (1895).

Kreisser v. Ashtabula, etc., Co., 2 C. C. n. s. 597; 14 C. D. 313 (1901).

Section 8795. (How mortgage or pledge made.) Such mortgage or pledge may be by a deed of mortgage or other instrument in writing, executed by the company, for the purpose of securing payment of money loaned to it, or the notes, bonds, or other evidences of indebtedness issued by the company, and may include both its personal and real property. (R. S. Sec. 3288; February 9, 1853, 51 v. 332, § 1.)

Section 8796. (Where mortgage recorded.) It shall be sufficient record of such mortgage or instrument, if it be recorded in the office of the recorder of deeds in each county wherein the real or personal property therein described is situated or employed. So recorded, it shall be a good and substantial lien upon all of such property, from the date of its record in each of such counties. (R. S. Sec. 3289; February 9, 1853, 51 v. 332, § 2.)

The lien of all bonds, in the hands of bona fide holders, secured by one mortgage, but issued at different times, dates from the recording of the mortgage.

Railway Co. v. Lynde, 55 O. S. 23 (1896); aff'd, 172 U. S. 493.
See Bank v. Brotherton, 78 O. S. 173 (1908).

A recorded mortgage given by a railroad company on its roadbed and other property, creates a lien whose priority can not be displaced thereafter either directly by a mortgage given by the company, or indirectly by a contract between the company and a third party for the erection of buildings or other works of original construction.

Toledo, etc., R. R. Co. v. Hamilton, 134 U. S. 296; 6 O. F. D. 537 (1890).

A creditor having been permitted to levy an execution upon a part of the personal property, including a portion acquired subsequently to the date of both second and third mortgages, but this levy having been made after the action to foreclose was brought, and while the property was in the hands of a receiver appointed in the case, he is not entitled to a preference over the equitable second mortgage.

Coe v. Columbus, etc., R. Co., 10 O. S. 372 (1859).

Where a mortgage is defective in its execution, and therefore void under our laws, it is good as against a subsequent mortgage which is made subject to it.

Coe v. Columbus, etc., R. Co., 10 O. S. 372 (1859).

Section 8797. (Disposition of securities by directors.)

The directors of the company may sell, negotiate, mortgage, or pledge its own bonds or notes, as well as notes, bonds, scrip, or certificates for the payment of money or property which the company receives as donations, or in payment of subscriptions to the capital stock, or for other dues of the company, at such times and in such places, either within or without the state, and at such rates and for such prices, not less than seventy-five cents on the dollar, as, in their opinion will best advance its interests. If such notes or bonds are thus sold at a discount, without fraud, the sale shall be as valid in every respect, and the securities as binding for the respective amounts thereof, as if they were sold at their par value. (R. S. Sec. 3290; December 15, 1852, 51 v. 286, § 1; March 14, 1876, 73 v. 25, § 5.)

A pledge of bonds to secure a debt of less than 75% of their par is invalid to the extent of the excess. Trust Co. v. Railway, 211 Fed. 515 (D. C. 1914).

Under a Wisconsin statute, corresponding in some respects to § 8797, it was held that bonds sold for less than 75% of par were valid in the hands of bona fide purchasers without notice, who were entitled to enforce them for the full amount. In re Footville Co., 229 Fed. 698 (C. C. A. Wis. 1916).

Character of transaction—sale or loan. The giving of a guaranty of bonds is to be looked to in determining whether the real transaction is a bona fide sale or a disguised loan. If a sale, the guaranty passes as an incident, and is, in equity, assignable to subsequent purchasers of the bonds.

Bank of Ashland v. Jones, 16 O. S. 145 (1865).

See Junction R. R. Co. v. Bank, 12 Wallace (U. S.) 226 (1870).

When a transaction would otherwise be a sale by a railroad corporation of its own bonds, the fact that their payment is guaranteed by the directors in their individual capacities does not necessarily make the transaction a loan.

Bank of Ashland v. Jones, 16 O. S. 145 (1865).

Effect on usury laws. In so far as §§ 8797 and 8794 permit railroad companies to borrow money at a rate of interest exceeding 8 percent, their effect is to exempt railroad companies from the general usury statute; and notes or lease warrants executed by a railroad company for deferred payments on equipment purchased conditionally, and which were payable monthly as rental, the title to the equipment to vest in the company on their full payment are not usurious, though their amount is greater than the stated value of the equipment with 8 percent interest until maturity, but not greater than would have been required if they had borne 7 percent interest, and had been discounted at 75 percent of par.

Metropolitan Trust Co. v. Equipment Co., 108 Fed. 913; 13 O. F. D., 643; s. c., 93 Fed. 702.

Where one contracted to perform certain services in the reorganization of a railway company, for which he was to receive certain amounts of bonds and stock in the reorganized company, it being claimed that the bonds were issued for less than 75 percent of their par value, and were therefore void under this section; held, that the stock should be taken at its actual, and not at its par, value, in computing the amount received by the company for the bonds.

Continental Trust Co. v. Toledo, etc., R. R. Co., 86 Fed. 929 (1898); s. c., 95 Fed. 497 (1899); 82 Fed. 642 (1897).

Before a sale of bonds can be declared invalid, as in contravention of the settled policy of the state where made, the repugnancy must be plain and substantial. The fact that bonds sold here bear a higher rate of interest than may be prescribed for similar bonds issued under the authority of this state, but which are authorized to be sold at any price, creates no repugnancy.

Bank of Ashland v. Jones, 16 O. S. 145 (1865).

A corporation having power to sell its bonds at less than par may exchange them for iron rails.

Coe v. Columbus, etc., R. Co., 10 O. S. 372 (1859).

Sale in foreign state. A corporation of a state, authorized to raise money by the sale of its bonds, may itself sell the bonds directly, either within or without the state, and such transaction will not be regarded as a loan.

Bank of Ashland v. Jones, 16 O. S. 145 (1865).

Foreign corporations. The law of Ohio authorizing railroad companies to sell their own bonds and notes at such prices as they may deem expedient, is extended by comity to the companies of other states authorized to transact business in Ohio.

Junction R. R. Co. v. Bank, 12 Wallace (U. S.) 226 (1870).

In McGregor v. Covington, etc., R. R. Co., 1 Dis. 509 (1857), it was held that this section applies only to domestic corporations, and a sale of bonds by a foreign corporation at less than par is usurious.

Authority of officers to sell bonds.

See note to § 8705.

Section 8798. (Securities sold to directors; when void.)

All capital stock, bonds, notes, or other securities of such a company, purchased of it by a director thereof, either directly or indirectly, for less than par value, shall be null and void. (R. S. Sec. 3313; April 27, 1872, 69 v. 173, § 2.)

This section applies only to stock securities, etc., issued by a company of which the purchaser is a director. It does not apply to securities issued by one company and merely guaranteed by another company of which the purchaser is a director.

Railway Co. v. Kleybolte, 80 O. S. 311 (1909); affirming 5 N. P. n. s. 536; 18 L. D. 141.

The words "null and void" in this section are used in the sense of "voidable."

Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Continental Trust Co., 95 Fed. 497; 13 O. F. D. 86 (C. C. A. 1899).

This section applies only to original sales, and does not apply to a subsequent purchase by a director from the original purchaser, although the original sale was for less than par.

Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Continental Trust Co., 95 Fed. 497; 13 O. F. D. 86 (C. C. A. 1899).

Continental Trust Co. v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., 86 Fed. 929 (1898).

The issue of bonds to a syndicate of which the directors are members, for less than par, is in violation of this section.

Union Trust Co. v. Railway, 17 W. L. B. 176 (1887).

But such bonds are valid in the hands of bona fide purchasers.

Union Trust Co. v. Railway, 17 W. L. B. 176 (1887)

Railway Co. v. Lynde, 55 O. S. 23 (1896).

And the bona fide purchaser of such bonds is entitled to a lien under the mortgage.

Railway Co. v. Lynde, 55 O. S. 23 (1896).

Contra, Union Trust Co. v. Railway, 17 W. L. B. 176 (1887).

Where bonds have been purchased by a director for less than par, and the company has paid interest regularly for a long time, it can not repudiate the transaction without returning to the director the consideration paid.

Shoemaker v. Dayton, etc., R. R. Co., 19 W. L. B. 322 (1888).

Duty of directors. It is the duty of directors to use their best efforts to advance the value of the stock of their company, to restore, if lost, confidence therein, and to advise holders of the stock of its real value; and not by combinations and arrangements place themselves in a position of using their superior knowledge of its value to depress such value and purchase large quantities of stock at prices far below its real value.

Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Duckworth, 2 C. C. 518; 1 C. D. 618 (1887).

Section 8799. (Narrow-gauge railroad may issue second mortgage bonds.) A railroad company having a gauge not exceeding three feet, known as a narrow-gauge road, incorporated under the laws of this state, having at least fifty miles of completed road, and not exceeding six thousand dollars per mile of first mortgage bonds issued for each mile completed, for the purpose of funding its floating debt, or for the completion of its unfinished proposed line of road, or for the purchase of rolling stock, or for the erection of repair shops, or for the purchase of supplies necessary for the operation of such road, or for any or all of such purposes, is authorized to issue its second mortgage bonds, bearing a rate of interest not exceeding seven per cent per annum, secured by a second mortgage upon its entire property, real and personal, and its franchise, for a sum not exceeding two-thirds the amount of its authorized capital stock, and sell them at such time and places within or without the state, and at such rate as the directors of the company deem for its best interest. (77 v. 164, § 1; April 10, 1880; R. S. Sec. 3286-1.)

Section 8800. (How bonds and mortgage authorized.)

Such issue of bonds and mortgage must be authorized by a vote, either in person or by proxy, of a majority of the holders of paid up stock. But previous to taking such vote thirty days' notice shall be given to the stockholders of the company, by publication in a newspaper of general circulation in each and every county through which the line of road is operated. (77 v. 164, § 1; April 10, 1880; R. S. Sec. 3286-1.)

Section 8801. (When company may borrow money.)

A railroad company organized under the laws of this state, or which is or shall be consolidated with other companies, as hereinafter in this title provided, at a meeting of its stockholders, called as hereinbefore provided, instead of issuing preferred stock as provided in section eighty-eight hundred and seventeen may provide for borrowing money to locate, construct and equip its proposed line of railway, or for the purpose of leasing or purchasing and equipping branch or connecting roads constructed or in process of construction, not exceeding ten miles in length, or for redeeming or exchanging any of its previously issued bonds, or for funding its floating debt, or for any or all of such purposes, in such an amount as it deems necessary, not exceeding its authorized capital stock. (R. S. Sec. 3309a; April 14, 1880, 77 v. 206; April 19, 1881, 78 v. 230; March 13, 1883, 80 v. 55; March 20, 1884, 81 v. 57; April 11, 1890, 87 v. 181; March 10, 1892, 89 v. 82; April 27, 1896, 92 v. 415.)

Section 8802. (Bonds in excess of capital, when lawful.)

Railroad companies formed by consolidation of one or more companies of this state or of this state with one or more companies of other states as hereafter in this title provided, may issue bonds in excess of such capital stock at such rates of interest as may be agreed upon between the respective parties, not exceeding seven per cent per annum, payable semiannually or quarterly, as they direct, and may execute and issue securities therefor, and to secure the payment thereof, pledge the entire property and net income of such company by mortgage or otherwise. (R. S. Sec. 3309a; April 27, 1896, 92 v. 415; March 10, 1892, 89 v. 82; April 11, 1890, 87 v. 181; March 20, 1884, 81 v. 57; March 13, 1883, 80 v. 55; April 19, 1881, 78 v. 230; April 14, 1880, 77 v. 206.)

Section 8803. (Bonds of consolidated railroad.) A railroad company formed by the consolidation of two or more railroad companies existing under the laws of this state or by the consolidation of one or more companies created by or existing under the laws of this state and any other state or states, with a railroad company or companies of this state or any other state, from time to time, if authorized by the vote in person or proxy of holders of two-thirds of the paid-up stock of such consolidated company present and voting at meetings of stockholders, called as aforesaid, may issue its bonds, convertible or otherwise, into stock, bearing a rate of interest not exceeding six per cent per annum, for one or more of the following purposes: Paying, redeeming or funding debts or obligations assumed, incurred or created by it or either of its predecessors or constituent companies, compromising claims made against it or either of its predecessors or constituent companies, purchasing the whole or a part of any railroad held by it under lease to, or operating contract with it or either of its predecessors or constituent companies acquiring the whole or a part of the stock or bonds of any company owning a railroad held by such consolidated company under lease or operating contract, acquiring the whole or any part of the bonds, notes or other obligations of any other railroad company of this or any other state, the whole or a majority of whose capital stock is held by such consolidated company, completing, extending, improving, maintaining or operating its road, branches or lines, held under lease or contract, laying double or additional track, purchasing rolling stock, building depots, elevators or shops, and generally for any purpose needed in its business, and if the directors so determine, may secure such issue or issues of bonds by mortgage or pledge of its real or personal estate, franchise or income. (R. S. Sec. 3309a; April 14, 1880, 77 v. 206; April 19, 1881, 78 v. 230; March 13, 1883, 80 v. 55; March 20, 1884, 81 v. 57; April 11, 1890, 87 v. 181; March 10, 1892, 89 v. 82; April 27, 1896, 92 v. 415.)

See notes to §§ 8793, 8794.

Application of section to street railways, before adoption of General Code.

See Massillon Bridge Co. v. Cambria Iron Co., 59 O. S. 179 (1898)

Section 8804. (Form of disposition of such securities.)

Such securities may be expressed in dollars or in the currency of the country where disposed of and be sold upon such terms, at such prices as are agreed upon between the respective parties not inconsistent with the laws of this state. The proceeds of their sale shall be applied only as now required by law. (R. S. Sec. 3309a; April 27, 1896, 92 v. 415; March 10, 1892, 89 v. 82; April 11, 1890, 87 v. 181; March 20, 1884, 81 v. 57; March 13, 1883, 80 v. 55; April 19, 1881, 78 v. 230; April 14, 1880, 77 v. 206.)

Section 8805. (Articles of incorporation may provide for division and classification of capital stock.) At its formation, in its articles of incorporation, a railroad company may provide for the division of its capital stock into common stock and classes of preferred stock, by stating therein the amount of each kind and class of stock, the par value of the respective shares thereof, and the vote which shares of each class shall have. Such articles also may prescribe other terms and conditions of such preferred stock not inconsistent with law. (R. S. Sec. 3309b; April 2, 1891, 88 v. 267.)

See §§ 8817 and 8667 to 8671 and notes.

CONNECTING LINES.

Section 8806. (Subscription to aid another company.)

A company may aid another in the construction of its road, by means of subscription to its capital stock, or otherwise, for the purpose of forming a connection of the roads of the companies, if the road of the company so aided will not when constructed form a competing line. (R. S. Sec. 3300; March 14, 1882, 79 v. 35; R. S. 1880, § 3300; April 15, 1873, 70 v. 129, § 24; May 1, 1852, 50 v. 281.)

Purchase by mining, etc., company of stock in transportation company.

See § 10138.

This section does not apply to interurban railways. Troy Trust Co. v. Railway, 18 N. P. n. s. 298 (1915).

What roads are competing.

See note to § 8807.

POWER TO ACQUIRE STOCK IN OTHER CORPORATIONS.

Generally under § 8683. Section 8683 applies to railroad companies. Its provisions are not inconsistent with the provisions of §§ 8806 and 8809 but are cumulative.

Pollitz v. Commission, 96 O. S. 49 (1917).

Mannington v. H. V. Ry. Co., 8 O. L. R. 451, 476-480; 183 Fed. 133.

State v. H. V. Ry. Co., 12 C. C. n. s. 49, 59; 21 C. D. 175 (1909).

Under § 8683 a railroad company may acquire stock in corporations which are (1) kindred; (2) not competing and (3) when the result of the purchase is not the formation of a trust.

Mannington v. H. V. Ry. Co., 8 O. L. R. 451, 476; 183 Fed. 133 (1910).

Stock in competing railroads can not be acquired.

State v. H. V. Ry. Co., 12 C. C. n. s. 49, 145; 21 C. D. 175 (1909).

Mannington v. Ry. Co., 9 N. P. n. s. 641; 20 L. D. 468 (1910). Removed to U. S. Court, 183 Fed. 133; 8 O. L. R. 451.

A foreign corporation may own stock in kindred but not competing Ohio corporations, when authorized by the laws of its home state, and not prohibited by statute in Ohio.

Mannington v. H. V. Ry. Co., 8 O. L. R. 451, 481 to 484; 183 Fed. 133 (1910).

Smith v. Newark, etc., R. Co., 8 C. C. 583, 591 (1894).

Under § 8806. This section authorizes only subscriptions to or purchases of stock to aid the construction of a railroad. It does not authorize a purchase of stock from stockholders of another railroad company, the road of which has been completed.

Columbus, etc., Ry. Co. v. Burke, 19 W. L. B. 27 (1887).

State v. H. V. Ry. Co., 12 C. C. n. s. 49, 60; 21 C. D. 175 (1909).

Stock in mining company. This section does not authorize a railroad company to purchase stock in a mining company.

Columbus, etc., Ry. Co. v. Burke, 19 W. L. B. 27 (1887).

A railroad company and a coal mining company are not "kindred" corporations under § 8683. A railroad company has no power to acquire stock in a coal mining company, especially to acquire or hold a controlling interest.

State v. H. V. Ry., 8 Ohio App. 450; 28 O. C. A. 241 (1917).

State v. H. V. Ry. Co., 12 C. C. n. s. 49, 59; 21 C. D. 175 (1909).

That a coal mining company has power to construct a railway from its mines to a railroad or other outlet does not constitute the mining company a railway or kindred company.

State v. H. V. Ry. Co., 12 C. C. n. s. 49; 21 C. D. 175 (1909).

Stock in miscellaneous corporations. Bridge company, § 9315. Union depot company, § 9163. Elevator company, § 10173.

Aid by traffic guaranty and purchase or guaranty of bonds. Aid may be extended by a traffic guaranty and purchase of bonds.

O. & M. R. Co. v. Short, 3 W. L. B. 1143 (1879).

Or by a guaranty of bonds.

Zabriskie v. Railroad Co., 23 How. (U. S.) 381; 3 O. F. D. 562.

A railroad company which has purchased stock in another company, as authorized by § 8683, and has in good faith, for protection of its own interests, acquired bonds issued by such other company, may, in order to sell the bonds for an adequate price, guarantee their payment. But it has no power to enter into a joint contract, with other guarantors, to guarantee an entire bonds issue of which it owns only a part. Pollitz v. Commission, 96 O. S. 49 (1917).

Abandonment of road to which donations have been made. Construction of parallel line. A railroad company which has received from private parties, donations of lands, subscriptions of stock, and payments in money, in consideration that it should locate its road at a particular place, and allow private side track and warehouse privileges in connection therewith, will not be permitted to effectuate a change in fact (though not in name) of the line of its road away from such place, by organizing a new corporation and constructing a new road parallel with its old one, under a different charter, and permitting its old line to go to decay, without compensating the parties with whom it has contracted as aforesaid. Chapman v. Mad River, etc., R. R. Co., 6 O. S. 119 (1856).

Action by stockholder to enjoin acquisition of stock. Venue and parties defendant. An action by a stockholder in a railroad company to enjoin the unlawful acquisition of stock in other corporations must be brought in a county in which jurisdiction may be acquired over the railroad company. The other corporations are not proper parties defendant. Westfall v. Lake Shore, etc., Ry., 13 N. P. n. s. 217; 22 L. D. 75, 397 (C. P. 1910).

Section 8807. (Lease or purchase of another railroad.) A company may lease or purchase any part or all of a railroad constructed, or in course of construction by another company, if the lines of their roads are continuous or connected, and not competing, upon terms agreed upon between the companies. After such purchase the purchasing company shall be vested with all the rights and powers in respect to the location, construction, completion, and operation of such railroad, and of branches thereto of the company from which it was purchased, including the power to acquire and appropriate property therefor, and be subject to all the duties, obligations, and restrictions of such company. (R. S. Sec. 3300; March 14, 1882, 79 v. 35; R. S. 1880, § 3300; April 15, 1873, 70 v. 129, § 24; May 1, 1852, 50 v. 281.)

Sale of road owned by two or more companies, § 9047 et seq.
Power to sell road, § 9054 et seq.

Connected roads. Two railroad companies owning lines of railroad connected only by other railroads, which such companies hold by lease, are not connected.

State v. Vanderbilt, 37 O. S. 590 (1882).

Where roads are connected by the tracks of a union depot and terminal company, in which each has a proprietary interest, they are connecting lines within the statute.

See Burke v. Cleveland, etc., Ry. Co., 22 W. L. B. 11 (1889).

State v. H. V. Ry. Co., 12 C. C. n. s. 145, 151 (1909).

D. & U. Ry. Co. v. Ry. Co., 6 C. C. n. s. 537, 543; 15 C. D. 705 (1902); aff'd, 67 O. S. 523.

Competing roads. Where the lines of two railroad companies are in their general features parallel they are competing roads.

State v. Vanderbilt, 37 O. S. 590 (1882).

State v. H. V. Ry. Co., 12 C. C. n. s. 49, 66, 153; 21 C. D. 175 (1909).

Chapman v. Mad River, etc., R. R. Co., 6 O. S. 119 (1856).

But where only an inconsequential part of the lines are parallel, the roads are not competing.

State v. Railway, 12 C. C. n. s. 49, 66; 21 C. D. 175 (1909).

D. & U. Ry. v. Railway, 6 C. C. n. s. 537; 15 C. D. 705 (1902); aff'd, 67 O. S. 523.

Roads running at right angles from point of connection can not be said to be competing "in their general features or from a geographical standpoint;" although there may be incidental competition on through or seaboard business.

Burke v. Cleveland, etc., Ry. Co., 22 W. L. B. 11 (1889).

Roads may be competing though they reach competing points by trackage arrangements with other lines.

Hafer v. Cincinnati, etc., R. R. Co., 29 W. L. B. 68 (1893).

Or by virtue of connections.

State v. H. V. Ry. Co., 12 C. C. n. s. 145, 152 (1909).

Roads may be competing though they do not actually cut rates.

Hafer v. Cincinnati, etc., R. R. Co., 29 W. L. B. 68 (1893).

No road or line may be deemed competing until constructed.

Mannington v. H. V. Ry. Co., 183 Fed. 133; 8 O. L. R. 451; 16 O. F.

O. 552 (C. C. Ohio 1910); compare s. c., 9 N. P. n. s. 641; 20

L. D. 468 (C. P. 1910).

Section 9054 does not authorize a railroad to acquire an uncompleted road which is parallel and naturally competing in character.

State v. Railway Co., 13 C. C. n. s. 145; 22 C. D. 147 (1910).

Proof of illegal control of competing railroad. The control and management by a railroad of a competing road, may be shown by the circumstances. A unity of stockholding interests, together with unity of management pursuant to an established plan, is sufficient proof.

State v. H. V. Railway, 12 C. C. n. s. 49; 21 C. D. 175 (1909).

LEASE.

In the absence of statute, a railroad company has no authority to lease its line, if the contract lessens its obligations to the public.

Quigley v. Toledo Co., 89 O. S. 68 (1913).

A lease for more than three years must be acknowledged.

Ohio, etc., R. Co. v. Indianapolis, etc., R. Co., 5 A. L. Reg. n. s. 733 (1866).

The leasing of its right of way is not evidence of the abandonment of its corporate purposes and does not impair the right of a railroad company to appropriate property

Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Murray, 1 N. P. n. s. 301; 48 Bull. 877 (1903).

A condition in a lease, prohibiting the lessee from receiving for transportation property from certain connecting roads, is a condition subsequent which is void as against public policy.

Metropolitan Trust Co. v. Columbus, etc., Ry. Co., 95 Fed. 18 (1899).

Prior to the act of March 14, 1882, only constructed roads could be leased or purchased.

Railroad Co. v. Hinsdale, 45 O. S. 556 (1888).

A contract which, owing to defects in its execution, is invalid as a lease may be valid as a license.

D. & U. Ry. Co. v. Railway Co., 1 N. P. n. s. 577 (1900); aff'd, 6 C. C. n. s. 537; 15 C. D. 705 (1902); 67 O. S. 523.

A foreign corporation having no charter from the state of Ohio, authorizing it to construct and operate a railroad in this state, can not, by a transfer of a portion of a railroad already constructed in the state by legal authority, acquire a right to use and operate such railroad within this state.

Ohio, etc., R. Co. v. Indianapolis, etc., R. Co., 5 A. L. Reg. n. s. 733 (1866).

See § 8814.

Where the lessee agreed to advance the money necessary to pay the coupons on the bonds of the lessor, such advance to be paid out of subsequent earnings and not otherwise, the agreement will not be held to be harsh, oppressive or inequitable, and not to be an agreement to loan money to an insolvent corporation, which the court will not enforce.

Henry v. Pittsburg, etc., Ry. Co., 2 N. P. 118, 5 L. D. 41 (1895).

The lessee or purchaser is subject to control of the public utilities commission. Barlotti v. Commission, 103 O. S. 647.

In an action against a railroad company for personal injuries, it was held that operation by the defendant as lessee or otherwise was sufficiently shown by proof that it issued a bill of lading for freight consigned to it at a station on the leased line, that defendant's time table gave the leased line as one of its lines, and that the surgeon who treated the plaintiff was in the employ of the defendant. Railroad v. Dickinson, 18 C. C. n. s. 586 (1906); aff'd, no rep. 77 O. S. 639.

Rescission of lease. A lease can only be rescinded by the same consent of stockholders required to authorize a lease.

Henry v. Pittsburg, etc., Ry. Co., 2 N. P. 118, 5 L. D. 41 (1895).

Specific performance. The specific performance of a lease will not be compelled by a court.

Henry v. Pittsburg, etc., Ry. Co., 2 N. P. 118, 5 L. D. 41 (1895).

See Port Clinton, etc., R. R. Co. v. Cleveland, etc., R. R. Co., 13 O. S. 544 (1862).

Effect of receivership of lessee. The receiver of a lessee company has no power to abrogate a valid lease. As between the lessor and lessee the lease stands until abrogated under some condition therein.

But the receiver has the option, under the direction of the court, to adopt or reject the lease.

Rent accruing prior to appointment of the receiver is not a preferred claim.

New York, etc., R. Co. v. Railway Co., 58 Fed. 278 (C. C. 1893).

See Investment Co. v. Railway Co., 41 Fed. 379 (C. C. 1889).

Duty of lessor to repair. At common law, in the absence of express covenant in a lease, the lessor is not bound to make repairs, additions, or improvements to the leased property, or to rebuild structures thereon which may have become unfit for use, nor is there any implied covenant that the property is fit for the purpose for which it is leased. The fact that the demised property is a railroad does not affect the application of those principles.

Felton v. Cincinnati, 95 Fed. 336; 13 O. F. D. 68 (1899).

Under a covenant to make repairs and replacements, new equipment substituted by the lessee for equipment removed may be subject to a mortgage given by the lessor covering after-acquired property. Trust Co. v. Traction Co., 106 O. S. 577 (1922).

Liability of lessor for negligence in operation.

See § 8814.

PURCHASE.

"Duties, obligations and restrictions." The purchaser takes the property subject to all limitations and restrictions, of a public nature, as to rates of fare.

Campbell v. Marietta, etc., Co., 23 O. S. 168 (1872).

Railway Co. v. Moore, 33 O. S. 384 (1878).

But not subject to private contract obligations of the seller unless assumed by the purchaser. A claim for breach of a contract, made by the selling company to transport stone for a specified rate, is not an "obligation" binding upon the purchaser.

Rice v. Norfolk & W. Ry., 153 Fed. 497; 15 O. F. D. 478 (C. C. A. 1907).

Subscriptions to stock of vendor company. This section does not authorize a sale of stock subscriptions.

Railroad Co. v. Hinsdale, 45 O. S. 556, 557, 572 (1888).

This section becomes a part of a contract of subscription to stock, and a sale of a part of the road does not release the subscriber, unless the subscription is conditional, and the sale makes performance of the condition impossible.

Armstrong v. Karshner, 47 O. S. 276 (1890).

Control of another railroad by voting trust.

See State v. O. & M. Ry. Co., 6 C. C. 415; 3 C. D. 518 (1892); aff'd, 49 O. S. 668.

License to use tracks.

See note to § 8808, Trackage contracts.

Effect of lease or purchase. A railroad corporation whose line is operated by another company under a long term lease is not required to make reports or pay taxes under the Willis Law (§ 5495 et seq.) although it maintains its corporate organization, collects the rent and pays dividends. Railroad Co. v. State, 2 Ohio App. 288, 20 C. n. s. 61; 26 C. D. 403; motion to certify record overruled, 11 O. L. R. 538; State v. Railroad, 7 Ohio App. 309; 27 C. C. n. s. 154; 28 C. D. 297; motion to certify record overruled, 15 O. L. R. 431; G. C. § 5518.

Sale of road as surrender or abandonment of special charter of vendor company. State v. Sherman, 22 O. S. 411.

A railroad company created under special charter, by making or taking leases under authority of § 8807 or similar statutes, was held to have accepted the general law and thereby to relinquish special privileges under its special charter. Railroad v. Cole, 29 O. S. 126 (1876).

Section 8808. (Companies not competing may make beneficial arrangements.) Two or more companies whose lines are connected and not competing, may enter into any arrangement for their common benefit consistent with, and calculated to promote the objects for which they were created. (R. S. Sec. 3300; March 14, 1882, 79 v. 35; R. S. 1880, § 3300; April 15, 1873, 70 v. 129, § 24; May 1, 1852, 50 v. 281.)

"Connected" and "competing" roads, see note to § 8807.

Trackage contracts. A trackage contract between two railroad companies, whose tracks are parallel for fifteen miles and thereafter separate widely, is authorized, and does not destroy, but rather creates, competition between them.

D. & U. Ry. Co. v. Railway Co., 6 C. C. n. s. 537; 15 C. D. 705 (1902); aff'd, 67 O. S. 523; s. c., 1 N. P. n. s. 577.

An agreement permitting one company to use the tracks of another company for a short distance, made in part for the purpose of enabling it to take up its parallel track, is authorized. The removal of such parallel track is a public good.

D. & U. Ry. Co. v. Railway Co., 6 C. C. n. s. 537; 15 C. D. 705 (1902); aff'd, 67 O. S. 523; s. c., 1 N. P. n. s. 577.

An agreement permitting one railroad company to use the tracks of the other so long as they continue to exist as chartered corporations is in the nature of a permanent license.

D. & U. Ry. Co. v. Railway Co., 6 C. C. n. s. 537; 15 C. D. 705 (1902); aff'd, 67 O. S. 523; s. c., 1 N. P. n. s. 577.

A company can only charge a reasonable price for use of tracks.

See Toledo, etc., R. R. Co. v. Railway Co., 7 N. P. 376 (1894).

Trackage agreement, to enable one company to connect disconnected portions of its line and to form a continuous line, the grantee company being prohibited from taking business from or to stations of the grantor company, construed and held not to entitled grantee company to use a private side track, and that grantee company could not be required to furnish cars to shippers in violation of the agreement. Railway v. Commission, 96 O. S. 414 (1917).

Orders of public utilities commission requiring parties to track-age contracts to perform certain service, see 14 O. L. R. 453, 15 O. L. R. 317.

Interpretation. The word "road" in a trackage contract is a generic term, including present and future tracks, side tracks and structural facilities in the transaction of both local and through business.

D. & U. Ry. Co. v. Railway Co., 6 C. C. n. s. 537; 15 C. D. 705 (1902); aff'd, 67 O. S. 523; s. c., 1 N. P. n. s. 577.

A grant of the use of the road of another company for "all trains required in the prosecution of its business" limits the licensee to its own business. Whether business conducted is that of the licensee is to be determined by the facts, and not from the engines or crews operating the trains.

D. & U. Ry. Co. v. Railway Co., 6 C. C. n. s. 537; 15 C. D. 705 (1902); aff'd, 67 O. S. 523; s. c., 1 N. P. n. s. 577.

Practical construction by the parties may be considered. Where a contract for the joint use of terminal property, in fixing the basis for the division between the companies of the cost of maintenance, used the terms "wheelage" and "car and engine mileage" indiscriminately, but in the performance of the contracts the division was based on wheelage, that construction was adopted by the court.

Columbus, etc., Ry. Co. v. Penna. Co., 143 Fed. 757; 15 O. F. D. 353 (C. C. A. 1906).

But practical construction is not binding on successors in interest of one of the parties.

D. & U. R. Co. v. Railway Co., 1 N. P. n. s. 577 (1900); aff'd, 6 C. C. n. s. 537; 15 C. D. 705; 67 O. S. 523.

Ultra vires provision. An ultra vires provision looking toward the stifling of competition which has not been acted upon, and which may be eliminated from the remainder of the contract, does not render the entire contract invalid.

D. & U. Ry. Co. v. Railway Co., 6 C. C. n. s. 537; 15 C. D. 705 (1902); aff'd, 67 O. S. 523.

Liability for injuries. To passengers. A common carrier being the owner of its tracks is liable to its passenger for an injury received in a collision between its car and the car of another company which it admits to the joint use of its track, although the collision resulted wholly from the negligence of the latter company.

Maumee, etc., Co. v. Montgomery, 81 O. S. 426 (1910).

— Liability of companies inter se. In such a case the liability of the owning company for breach of its contract of carriage, and of the other for its negligence, may be enforced in the same action, and the facts should be so determined by interrogatories or special findings that liability for compensation may ultimately rest upon the company guilty of negligence.

Maumee, etc., Co. v. Montgomery, 81 O. S. 426 (1910).

— To employee of other company. While it is competent, in contracts to facilitate the movements of trains at crowded terminals, to incur liabilities for injuries to the employees of other companies, resulting from negligence of their own employees, such contracts may not, by implication, be extended beyond the scope of their terms.

Ann Arbor R. Co. v. Addison, 84 O. S. 259 (1911).

See note to § 8814.

— To other persons. The defendant made an arrangement with the D. company whereby it gave to the latter company the right to construct a track on the side of defendant's roadbed for the purpose of connecting the road of the D. company with defendant's road, the connecting track passing over a bridge previously constructed by defendant for its track, and which foot-passengers had been permitted to use for the purpose of transit. The plaintiff, in passing on foot, fell through the same, between the rails of the connecting track, and was injured by reason of the defective covering; held, the defendant having no interest in or control over the track, can not be held liable.

Gwathney v. Little Miami R. R. Co., 12 O. S. 92 (1861).

OTHER CONTRACTS.

Traffic agreements. A traffic agreement is not an "appurtenance" of a railroad so as to pass to the purchaser of the road from the receiver. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Cincinnati, etc., Ry. Co., 6 N. P. 427; 9 L. D. 493 (1899).

An injunction will not be granted to enforce a traffic contract where there is an adequate remedy at law, or where the complainant's right is doubtful.

B. & O. R. Co. v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 1 C. C. 100; 1 C. D. 60 (1885).

A traffic agreement, unfair to one company, which was controlled by directors who were also directors of the other company, was set aside. Trust Co. v. Railway, 211 Fed. 515 (D. C. 1914).

A traffic agreement for the interchange of business between two railroads, for a term of years, requiring one road to pay to the other a percentage of its receipts, if necessary to pay interest on bonds of such other railroad, was held to create no lien on the property of the promissor as against subsequent purchasers or creditors. Baker v. Trust Co., 235 Fed. 17 (C. C. A. Ohio 1916).

Tonnage contracts, as such and without other features, are valid. State v. H. V. Ry. Co., 12 C. C. n. s. 145, 148 (1909).

Indorsement and guaranty of bonds of coal mining companies. The indorsement and guaranty of the bonds of a coal mining company by a railway company is ultra vires; and so also is an agreement between railroad companies operating parallel and naturally competing railroads to indorse and guarantee the bonds of a coal mining company, in consideration of an equal division between the railroad companies of all freight to and from the mines. Such obligations may be valid in favor of the bondholders, but are illegal as against the state.

State v. H. V. Ry. Co., 12 C. C. n. s. 49, 66; 21 C. D. 175 (1909).

Such a guaranty can not be construed as a tonnage contract, but is in the nature of a monopoly and leads to discrimination.

State v. H. V. Ry. Co., 12 C. C. n. s. 145 (1909).

Illegal agreements. Right of state to interfere. The state is not bound by the fact that the parties are satisfied with an illegal agreement, but, if the public is prejudiced, it may proceed against the parties.

State v. H. V. Ry. Co., 12 C. C. n. s. 145 (1909).

Section 8809. (Vote of stockholders of each company requisite.) No such aid shall be furnished, nor any purchase or lease perfected, until a meeting of the stockholders of each of the companies has been called for that purpose by the directors thereof, on thirty days' notice to each stockholder, at such place and in such manner as is provided for the annual meetings of the companies, and the holders of at least two-thirds of the stock of each company, in person or by proxy, at such meeting, assent thereto. In case of the lease of a railroad situate in whole or part within this state, the rental reserved and secured for the leased road shall be equal, at least to its net earnings for the fiscal year next preceding the one in which the lease is made. (R. S. Sec. 3301; April 17, 1892, 79 v. 111; Rev. Stats. 1880; April 15, 1873, 70 v. 129, § 24.)

The statute does not require the assent to be in any particular form, and the circumstances will be looked to for light on that question.

See Humphreys v. St. Louis, etc., Ry. Co., 37 Fed. 307 (1889).

Where a lease is made without the stockholders' assent, their acquiescence in the lease for a long period will be held to be a waiver of the requirement of the statute.

See St. Louis, etc., R. R. Co. v. Terre Haute, etc., R. R. Co., 33 Fed. 440 (1888); s. c., 145 U. S. 393.

Zabriskie v. Cleveland, etc., R. R. Co., 64 U. S. 381 (1859).

In construing a Nebraska statute similar to this section the court said: "The stockholders' meeting, and the vote in such meeting on the question of assenting to the proposed lease, are matters of essence, of substance, and not of mere form, and their assent individually obtained outside of such meeting, and in the absence of deliberation, would bind no one."

Peters v. Lincoln, etc., R. R. Co., 12 Fed. 513 (1881).

Where the notice of meeting was not given for the time prescribed in this section, and the contract was unfair to the corporation, the contract was set aside. Trust Co. v. Railway, 211 Fed. 515, 527 (D. C. 1914).

Section 8810. (Dissenting stockholder may sell stock; procedure.) A stockholder who refuses his assent to such sale, lease, or aid by subscription, and signifies it by notice in writing, to the purchaser or lessee, within sixty days thereafter, on demand, shall be entitled to receive from such purchaser or lessee, previous to the consummation of such sale or lease, the average market value of his stock for six months next preceding the day of the meeting of the companies at which the sale or lease is approved, on surrendering the stock. If the stockholder and purchaser or lessee can not agree as to the value of the stock, the parties may submit the question to arbitration, to be conducted in accordance with the provisions of law regulating arbitrations, so far as applicable, by three disinterested persons, to be appointed upon the motion of either of the parties, by the judge of the common pleas court of the county in which the owner of the stock resides, or, in case he is a non-resident of the state, or of any county through or into which the road passes, then the county in which the principal office of the company is kept. (R. S. Sec. 3302; April 15, 1873, 70 v. 129, § 24 [§ 2].)

See as to arbitration under a similar section, Railway Co. v. Garrett, 50 O. S. 405 (1893).

Arbitration under general corporation law, on sale of entire corporate property. § 8713 et seq.

Section 8811. (When court may appoint arbitrators.) If such stockholder refuses to submit the question to arbitration, upon the application of a director of either of the companies parties to the contract, the proper judge shall appoint the arbitrators, who shall proceed to ascertain the value of the stock as if the question had been submitted by consent of both parties. If the party owning the stock refuses to receive the amount awarded him, the company may deposit it with the clerk of the common pleas court of the county in which the arbitration is held, which deposit shall operate as if payment were made to the owner of the stock. (R. S. Sec. 3303; April 15, 1873, 70 v. 129, § 24 [§ 2].)

See Railway Co. v. Garrett, 50 O. S. 405 (1893).

Section 8812. (Notice of application therefor.) In all cases of arbitration under the two next preceding sections, the party desiring such arbitration shall give the opposite party at least ten days' notice of his intention to apply to the judge for the appointment of arbitrators, which notice shall be served in the manner provided for the service of a summons, and must specify the time and place of the hearing of the application. In cases of non-residents, the notice shall be by publication for four consecutive weeks, in some newspaper printed in the county. (R. S. Sec. 3304; April 15, 1873, 70 v. 129, § 24 [§ 3].)

Section 8813. (Lease of railroad; security required.) No company shall lease its road or any part thereof to another company, whether of this or any other state, as hereinbefore provided, unless the lessor receives full and adequate security for the payment of the rental and for the preservation of its property in as good condition as on entering into possession thereof. If the lessee fails to pay such rental promptly when due, such lease shall be void, at the option of the lessor. The company to whom a railroad is leased, if a corporation of any other state, shall be subject to all the restrictions, disabilities, and duties of a railroad company incorporated within this state. (R. S. Sec. 3305; April 13, 1883, 80 v. 116; R. S. 1880; April 15, 1873, 70 v. 129, § 24 [§ 4].)

A judgment ordering the cancellation of a railroad lease may be appealed from by a stockholder of the lessor under § 12224 as a person directly affected thereby when there is reason to believe that the officers of the lessor are acting in the interest of the plaintiff.

Henry v. Jeanes, 47 O. S. 116 (1890); s. c., 48 O. S. 443.

Under a covenant to make repairs and replacements, new equipment substituted by the lessee for equipment removed may be subject to a mortgage given by the lessor covering after-acquired property. Trust Co. v. Traction Co., 106 O. S. 577 (1922).

Section 8814. (Lessor and lessee jointly liable.) Notwithstanding such lease the corporation of this state lessor therein, shall remain liable as if it operated the road itself, and both the lessor and lessee shall be jointly liable upon all rights of action accruing to any person for negligence or default growing out of the operation and maintenance of such railroad, or in any wise connected therewith, and may be jointly sued in the courts of this state of proper jurisdiction, and prosecuted to final judgment therein as in other cases of joint liability. Service may be had upon such companies, or either of them by the service of process upon any officer or agent of either of the companies. (R. S. Sec. 3305; April 13, 1883, 80 v. 116; Rev. Stat. 1880; April 15, 1873, 70 v. 129, § 24 [§ 4].)

Liability of lessor.

In general. This section does not require both companies to be sued, as they are jointly and severally liable.

Stoltz v. Baltimore, etc., R. R. Co., 7 N. P. 129 (1897).

See as to removal to U. S. court, Spangler v. R. R. Co., 42 Fed. 305 (1890).

Commencing suit against one company will not save the running of the statute of limitations against the other.

Stoltz v. Baltimore, etc., R. R. Co., 7 N. P. 129 (1897).

For fires. Where damage is caused by a fire originating from the negligence of the lessee, both lessor and lessee are liable.

Fisher v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 3 N. P. 283; 6 L. D. 67 (1896).

For negligence of receiver of lessee. This section does not operate to give a right of action against a lessor company for negligent acts of the employes of a receiver who is operating the road as receiver of the lessee.

Chamberlain v. New York, etc. R. Co., 36 W. L. B. 81 (1896); 71 Fed. 636.

See Caldwell v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 33 W. L. B. 134 (1894).

To employes of lessee. The provisions of this section apply only to the obligations of the lessor to the public. The lessor does not owe to employes of the lessee the duty of exercising ordinary care in furnishing him a safe place to work.

Powers v. Railways, 12 C. C. n. s. 230; 21 C. D. 488 (1909).

This section relates only to the duties of a carrier, and does not make the lessor liable to an employe of the lessee injured through the lessee's failure to perform its duties as master.

Axline v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., 138 Fed. 169; 15 O. F. D. 463 (C. C. 1903).

Beltz v. B. & O. R. Co., 3 O. L. R. 419; 137 Fed. 1016 (C. C. 1905).

Where a railway company leases its line without authority of law, although the lease is void, the lessor is not liable to an employe of the lessee injured through the negligence of the lessee.

Hukill v. Maysville, etc., R. Co., 72 Fed. 745 (C. C.).

At common law.

See Gwathney v. Little Miami, etc., R. Co., 12 O. S. 92 (1861).

Fisher v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 3 N. P. 283; 6 L. D. 67 (1896).

In the absence of statute, a railroad company has no authority to lease its line so far as the contract lessens its obligations to the public. Quigley v. Railway, 89 O. S. 68 (1913).

Under former statute.

Collins v. B. & O. R. Co., 7 N. P. 270; 7 L. D. 445 (1898).

Liability of companies using tracks jointly.

See note to § 8808. Trackage contracts.

Service of process. Jurisdiction over the lessee company is not obtained by the service of process upon the president of the lessor company.

Collins v. B. & O. R. Co., 7 N. P. 270; 7 L. D. 445 (1898).

Removal to federal court. Receivers of the lessee company can not remove an action brought against the lessor and receivers jointly under this section to federal court on the ground of diverse citizenship.

Central, etc., R. Co. v. Mahoney, 114 Fed. 732; 14 O. F. D. 61 (C. C. A. 1902).

But where an Ohio railroad company was joined as a defendant with a foreign railroad company, under a false allegation that the Ohio company had leased its road to the foreign company, the allegation being made to prevent the removal, the case may be removed to federal court.

Diday v. Railroad Co., 107 Fed. 565; 12 O. F. D. 734.

Removal on ground of local prejudice.

See Whelan v. Railroad, 35 Fed. 849; 6 O. F. D. 87.

INCREASE OF CAPITAL STOCK.

Section 8815. (Purposes for which stock may be increased.) A company may increase its capital stock, as hereinafter provided, when in the opinion of the directors it is insufficient for the construction of its road, or it becomes necessary for the speedy and convenient transactions of its business to construct a second additional track, extend its line, or construct branches thereof, increase its machinery, rolling-stock, depots, or other fixtures, or for the purpose of paying any bonds issued or guaranteed by it, or for the purchase of a railroad within this state, sold by a judicial order or decree, or for completing its line of road, or liquidating or paying off any unfunded or floating debt, or other liabilities incurred in the construction or equipment of its road, or for extending it, or constructing branches as authorized or for either or all of such purposes. (R. S. Sec. 3307; May 5, 1873, 70 v. 289, § 1; March 29, 1875, 72 v. 91, § 1.)

Increase of capital stock under general corporation law, § 8698.

The sale or other disposition of unissued stock is not an increase of capital stock.

Sims v. Street Railroad Co., 37 O. S. 556 (1882).

Irregularities in the proceedings to increase the stock, e. g., that no notice of the meeting of stockholders was given, will not defeat an action to recover on a subscription for such increased stock for the purpose of paying debts, where such subscriber having knowledge of the facts, acquiesced until the company became insolvent.

Clarke v. Thomas, 34 O. S. 46 (1877).

Turnbull v. Pomeroy Salt Co., 24 W. L. B. 133 (1890).

See Farmers' Loan, etc., Co. v. Toledo, etc., Ry. Co., 67 Fed. 49; 9 O. F. D. 242 (1895).

Where a railroad, having power to increase its stock, paid a stock dividend, a holder of bonds convertible into stock, who has been paid interest on the bonds, can not on converting his bonds into stock claim the stock dividend.

Sutliff v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 24 O. S. 147 (1873).

Section 8816. (Proceedings to increase capital stock.)

Before any stock is issued under the next preceding section a majority of the directors shall call a meeting of the stockholders, designating distinctly its time, place and purpose, and the amount of stock required, which meeting shall be held at the principal business office of the company in this state, and notice of which shall be given for at least thirty days previous, by continued publication in at least two newspapers published and of general circulation in the state, and by a like notice, mailed thirty days previous to the time named for the meeting, to each stockholder whose residence is known. If at such meeting the consent of the holders of a majority of the stock upon which they would be entitled to vote at an election of directors of the company be given, the stock of the company may be increased to such amount as is decided to be necessary for the purposes named in the preceding section. (R. S. Sec. 3308; March 14, 1876, 73 v. 25, § 2.)

Who may vote.

See § 8786.

Where bonds were issued and sold on the faith of increased stock, the increase having been authorized by an almost unanimous vote of the stockholders, and no objection was made for two years thereafter, the stockholders were held estopped from denying the validity of the bonds because of the lack of notice under § 8816 and of filing the certificate under § 8818. Farmers Co. v. Toledo Co., 67 Fed. 49, 9 O. F. D. 230 (C. C. Ohio 1895).

Section 8817. (Common or preferred stock may be issued; sale thereof.) The increased stock may be "common" or "preferred", as is designated in the call for the meeting of stockholders. If preferred stock be issued, the company may guarantee to the holders thereof semi-annual or quarterly dividends, to an amount not exceeding six per cent per annum, payable at its office, or at such other place as the directors designate. The stock may be sold at such time and place, either within or without the state, as is deemed advisable and the proceeds thereof applied to the purposes for which it is issued. The unpreferred stock of the company shall be entitled to dividends only out of the surplus of profits, after setting apart a sum sufficient to pay the dividends upon the preferred stock. The company which issues such preferred stock shall reserve the privilege of redeeming and canceling it at par, at any time after three years from the date of its issue. The preferred stock herein provided for may be convertible into bonds of the company at the option of the parties. (R. S. Sec. 3309; May 5, 1873, 70 v. 289, § 3.)

See §§ 8667 to 8671, 8699 and 8805.

The right to redeem preferred stock may be exercised by the directors.

Mannington v. Hocking Valley Ry. Co., 183 Fed. 133, 142-146; 8 O.

L. R. 451, 462, 467; 16 O. F. D. 552 (U. S. D. C.).

See s. c., 9 N. P. n. s. 641, 678 (C. P.) 20 L. D. 468.

The redemption of preferred stock, authorized by this section, is not a reduction of the corporation's capital stock by a purchase of its own shares.

Mannington v. Hocking Valley Ry. Co., 183 Fed. 133; 8 O. L. R. 451; 16 O. F. D. 552 (U. S. D. C.).

Section 8818. (Certificate to secretary of state.) Within ten days after such meeting the president and secretary of the company shall make an abstract, stating the whole amount of pre-existing capital stock, the amount authorized, the number of shares of stock upon which all the installments called for by the board of directors have been paid, and the vote at the meeting, and add a certificate that the provisions of the two next preceding sections have been fully complied with. They also shall make affidavit to such abstract and statement, and file it in the office of the secretary of state, who shall cause it to be recorded. (R. S. Sec. 3310; March 14, 1876, 73 v. 25, § 4.)

Where bonds were issued and sold on the faith of increased stock, the increase having been authorized by an almost unanimous vote of the stockholders, and no objection was made for two years thereafter, the stockholders were held estopped from denying the validity of the bonds because of the lack of notice under § 8816 and of filing the certificate under § 8818. Farmers Co. v. Toledo Co., 67 Fed. 49, 9 O. F. D. 230 (C. C. Ohio 1895).

MISCELLANEOUS.

Section 8819. (Dissolution of certain companies.) A company which has been in existence three years, and has not begun to build the road described in its articles of incorporation, or whose road if commenced, has been abandoned for three years, may be dissolved by a vote of two-thirds of its stockholders, at a meeting called for that purpose by its president, notice of which shall be published in each county through or into which the line of the proposed road passes at least thirty days before the meeting is held. (R. S. Sec. 3363; April 27, 1872, 69 v. 171, §§ 1, 2.)

Section 8820. (Owner of land leased for right of way not to be taxed.) Each company owning and occupying a right of way or easement in lands, either by agreement with the owners, or by virtue of an appropriation proceeding, shall present to the auditor of the county in which the land is situated a statement of the quantity embraced within the right of way or easement. Such quantity shall be deducted by the auditor from the land on the tax duplicate, so that the owners thereof shall not be required to pay taxes thereon. A company hereafter becoming the owner and occupant of any such right of way or easement, within six months thereafter, shall present such statement to the auditor. Upon the failure of the company to make the statement, the owner.

of the land may make it. (R. S. Sec. 3321; March 23, 1875, 72 v. 71, § 8.)

Section 8821. (Taxation of land used as right of way.)

Any company using or occupying any land as a right of way, without paper title or contract of record therefor, shall present a correct survey and plat of such land, exhibiting the quantity in such right of way taken from the lands of an owner abutting thereon, as it then stands on the tax duplicate of such county, to the auditor of the county in which the land is situated. Such land, so used or occupied by any such company he shall charge to it on his duplicate, and such relative quantity shall be deducted by him from the land on the tax duplicate, so that the abutting owners thereof shall not be required to pay the taxes thereon. All costs of such survey, plat and transfer shall be paid by the company. Upon the failure of a company to have such survey, plat and transfer made, the owner or owners of such abutting land may have it made and recover the costs thereof in an action against the company before any court having jurisdiction thereof. (R. S. Sec. 3322a; April 1, 1902, 95 v. 73.)

Section 8822. (Lease of right of way to be recorded.)

When the grant of such right of way or easement is not in the form of a lawfully executed deed or lease, the recorder of the county where the land is situated, upon the request of the company owning the right of way or easement, shall record such grant in the record book of leases, and index it. Such record, or a copy thereof duly certified by the recorder, shall be received in evidence in all courts and places, in the same manner and to the same effect as the original. The correctness of such record or copy may be impeached by any interested party, by competent proof. The recorder shall be entitled to the usual fee for recording such grants, and certifying copies thereof. (R. S. Sec. 3322; March 23, 1875, 72 v. 71, § 8.)

This section applies to a contract for a lease. A lease is not invalid because, by mistake of the recorder, it is recorded in a volume entitled "miscellaneous records," instead of in the book of leases.

Cleveland, etc., Co. v. Reid, 4 N. P. 127; 6 L. D. 273 (C. P. 1896).

Where a contract for a right of way is not entitled to record because of defective execution, the construction and operation of a railroad thereon is constructive notice to subsequent grantees of the land.

Miller v. Railway, 12 N. P. n. s. 683; 22 L. D. 638 (C. P. 1911).

CHAPTER 2.

TRACKS AND CROSSINGS.

Tracks.

- § 8823. Track to be of uniform gauge.
- § 8824. When tracks used in common.
- § 8825. Obstructing the laying of a track.

Railroad Crossings.

- § 8826. Railroad crossings.
- § 8827. Crossing of trains; how regulated.
- § 8828. Rules to be made and published.
- § 8829. Forfeiture.
- § 8830. Agent or superintendent liable.
- § 8831. Forfeiture.
- § 8832. Liability of company.
- § 8833. When trains may cross without stopping.
- § 8834. Court of common pleas, duty of.
- § 8835. Grade crossings avoided, if practicable.
- § 8836. Order of court.
- § 8837. Appeal.
- § 8838. Jury.
- § 8839. Exceptions.
- § 8840. One steam railroad crossing another within corporate limits.
- § 8841. Change of grade.
- § 8842. Right to appeal.

Highway Crossings.

- § 8843. Highway crossings, sidewalks, etc.
- § 8844. Powers of councils.
- § 8845. Service of notice.
- § 8846. Failure to comply with notice.
- § 8847. Crossings must be kept clear of snow.
- § 8848. Forfeiture.
- § 8849. Bridges over railroad crossings.
- § 8850. Forfeiture.
- § 8851. Council may regulate use of bridge.
- § 8852. Signboards at road crossings.
- § 8853. Signals at railroad crossings.
- § 8854. Not to interfere with city ordinance.
- § 8855. Penalties for violation of preceding section.
- § 8856. Liability of company.
- § 8857. Crossing of highway to cemetery.

Private Crossings and Ways.

- § 8858. When private crossings must be built.

- § 8859. Owner may build at company's expense.
- § 8860. When two preceding sections do not apply.
- § 8861. Freight ways may be constructed.
- § 8862. Plan must be approved.

Grade Crossings.

- § 8863. Alteration or elimination of grade or other crossings.
- § 8864. Resolution to alter or abolish.
- § 8865. Publication of resolution.
- § 8866. Ordinance or resolution, to proceed with improvement.
- § 8867. Necessary property, how acquired.
- § 8868. Apportionment of cost.
- § 8869. Cost of maintenance of bridge to be borne by county or state.
- § 8870. Bonds and tax.
- § 8871. Assessment and determination of damages.
- § 8872. If company fails to comply with agreement.
- § 8873. Grade crossings on county line road.
- § 8874. Cities may abolish grade crossings.
- § 8875. Changes in location of public ways.
- § 8876. Preparation of plans.
- § 8877. When common pleas court to determine matter of improvement.
- § 8878. Who may petition the court.
- § 8879. Procedure.
- § 8880. Order of the court.
- § 8881. Appeal and error.
- § 8882. How order of court enforced.
- § 8883. Apportionment of cost.
- § 8884. Notice of intention to make improvement.
- § 8885. Claims for damages and judicial inquiry.
- § 8886. Payment of railroad company's proportion of cost.
- § 8887. Height of viaduct.
- § 8888. How necessary land acquired.
- § 8889. Cost of maintenance.
- § 8890. Bond issue.
- § 8891. Tax levy.
- § 8892. Street railway company to bear share of expense.
- § 8893. Time and manner of payment of proportion.
- § 8894. Repairs.
- § 8895. Crossings to be above or below grade.
- § 8896. Railroad crossings.

8897.	Highway crossings.	§ 8903.	Height of over railroads.
8898.	Grade crossings.	§ 8904.	Exceptions.
8899.	Petition, what to contain.	§ 8905.	Costs.
8900.	Costs and expenses.	§ 8906.	Plans and specifications to be filed with railroad commission.
8901.	Appeals.
8902.	Additional tracks and switches.	§ 8907.	How enforced.

TRACKS.

Section 8823. (Track to be of uniform gauge.) Every company shall make every railroad constructed or controlled by it of one uniform gauge or width of track from end to end. When a road connects with or crosses another road, the companies owning or controlling such roads may adopt such uniform gauge or width of track as will enable each company to pass its cars over the road of the other. If roads so connecting or crossing are constructed of different gauges or widths of track, the companies controlling them may lay down, and maintain upon the whole or any portion of such road or roads, an additional rail or rails, so as to admit the passage of the same cars over both roads, and also maintain and operate either or both of such roads, upon the track or tracks originally constructed, as is deemed expedient by the company or companies owning or controlling either or both of the roads. (R. S. Sec. 3338; April 3, 1866, 63 v. 88, § 1.)

Section 8824. (When tracks used in common.) When two or more companies have two or more tracks of the same gauge in the same street, alley, public way, or opening, through a city or village, the council thereof may require such companies to use such tracks in common, and to pass their locomotives and cars over each track in one direction only. (R. S. Sec. 3339; April 15, 1857, 54 v. 133, § 4.)

It is the policy of the law to do away with unnecessary tracks.

Dayton, etc., Ry. Co. v. Ry. Co., 6 C. C. n. s. 537, 545; 15 C. D. 705 (1902); aff'd, 67 O. S. 523.

Section 8825. (Obstructing the laying of a track.) No person or corporation shall wilfully interfere with or obstruct any company engaged in laying the track of its road across any other railroad, if such company has fully complied with the law, and obtained the right to so lay its track; nor shall any person or corporation obstruct the full operation of any road so constructed. A person or corporation violating the provisions of this section, for each day of such interference or obstruction, shall pay one thousand dollars, to be recovered by action in the name of the state, half of the recovery to go to the company so interfered with, and half to the county in which the interference occurs, and shall also be liable for damages to the party injured. (R. S. Sec. 3362; April 1876, 73 v. 160, §§ 1, 2.)

RAILROAD CROSSINGS.

Section 8826. (Railroad crossings.) When the tracks of two railroads cross each other, or in any way connect at a common grade, the crossings shall be made and kept in repair, and watchmen maintained thereat, at the joint expense of the companies owning the tracks. All trains or engines passing over such tracks must come to a full stop not nearer than two hundred feet, nor further than eight hundred feet from the crossing, and not cross until signaled so to do by the watchman, nor until the way is clear. (R. S. Sec. 3333; April 14, 1882, 79 v. 95; R. S. 1880; March 24, 1860, 57 v. 106, § 1.)

When section does not apply. See § 8833.

Constitutionality. This act is a valid exercise of the police power of the state, and is a reasonable regulation of the manner in which railroad trains shall be run so as to avoid danger to the lives and property of people using a railroad.

Lake Shore, etc., Ry. Co. v. Cincinnati, etc., Ry. Co., 30 O. S. 604 (1876).

Every railroad company in this state accepts its charter and maintains and operates corporate property as a railroad, subject to the inherent power of the state to adopt such police regulations as this, whenever public necessity requires them.

Lake Shore, etc., Ry. Co. v. Cincinnati, etc., Ry. Co., 30 O. S. 604 (1876).

This section applies to tracks existing at the time of its enactment.

Street Ry. Co. v. Railroad Co., 32 W. L. B. 4 (1894).

Joint duty. This section imposes a joint duty and obligation of making and maintaining the crossings and keeping watchmen thereat, and requires the expense to be borne by the companies jointly. The burden is common to both companies, and where either performs the whole duty and pays the whole expense it is entitled to recover from the other its equal proportion thereof.

Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Walker, 45 O. S. 577 (1888).

This section imposes on both companies the expense of making and keeping up such crossing as is required, without regard to the date of their respective charters, or the location or construction of their respective roads.

Lake Shore, etc., Ry. Co. v. Cincinnati, etc., Ry. Co., 30 O. S. 604 (1876).

Whether in a case under this section the expense should be apportioned according to the use of the crossing, or otherwise than equally, quaere.

Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Walker, 45 O. S. 577 (1888).

Duty of lessee. A railroad company which has possession and control of a railroad in this state as lessee is one "owning the tracks" of such railroad within the meaning of this section.

Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Walker, 45 O. S. 577 (1888).

The necessity for keeping the crossing in repair, and maintaining watchmen thereat, grows out of the use and operation of the railroads crossing each other at a common grade, and the benefits thereof accrue to the companies using and operating the roads; and as a lessee company, while operating its road, receives the benefit and security resulting from a safe crossing and the services of the watchmen, it takes them subject to the burden of their expense, as provided by the statute.

Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Walker, 45 O. S. 577 (1888).

Negligence in operating crossing. For a charge to a jury in a negligence case involving this section,

See Moulder v. Cleveland, etc., R. R. Co., 1 N. P. 361 (1894).

Specific performance of contract to maintain crossing.

See Columbus, etc., Ry. Co. v. Ohio Southern Ry. Co., 1 C. C. 275; 1 C. D. 151 (1885).

Right to cross tracks and manner of crossing.

See § 8834 et seq.

Street railway crossings.

See § 9124 et seq.

Stopping of electric cars at steam railroad crossings.

Order of Railroad Commission, 4 O. L. R. 668 (1906).

Section 8827. (Crossing of trains; how regulated.) When two passenger or freight trains approach the crossing at the same time, the train on the road first built shall have precedence if the tracks are both main tracks over which all passengers and freights on the road are transported. But if only one track is such main track, and the other is a side or depot track, the train on the main track shall take precedence. If one of the trains is a passenger train and the other a freight train, the former shall take precedence, and regular trains on time take precedence over trains of the same grade not on time. Engines with the cars attached, not on time, shall take precedence of engines without cars attached, not on time. (R. S. Sec. 3333; April 14, 1882, 79 v. 95; R. S. 1880; March 24, 1860, 57 v. 106, § 1.)

See note to § 8826.

Section 8828. (Rules to be made and published.) The managing agent or superintendent of each railroad shall establish, and publish to all the employes on the road, such rules and regulations as in all cases will secure strict compliance with the provisions of the two next preceding sections, and shall republish such rules and regulations on each time table or card issued to the employes on the road. (R. S. Sec. 3334; March 24, 1860, 57 v. 106, § 2.)

Section 8829. (Forfeiture.) If such managing agent or superintendent fails or neglects to establish and publish such rules and regulations, or to republish them on each time table or card issued to the employes on the road, he shall be personally liable, for every such failure or neglect, to a penalty of one hundred dollars, to be recovered together with costs, in an action against him in favor of the state, to be brought in the court of common pleas of any county wherein such crossing is. (R. S. Sec. 3334; March 24, 1860, 57 v. 106, § 2.)

Section 8830. (Agent or superintendent liable.) Such agent or superintendent, and the company of which he is agent or superintendent, shall also be liable in damages to any person or company injured in person or property by an accident arising from such failure or neglect. (R. S. Sec. 3334; March 24, 1860, 57 v. 106, § 2.)

Section 8831. (Forfeiture.) An engineer or person in charge of an engine who wilfully fails to comply with the provisions of sections eighty-eight hundred and twenty-six and eighty-eight hundred and twenty-seven, or fails to bring the engine of which he is in charge, with the train, if any, thereto attached, to a full stop at least two hundred feet before arriving at a railroad crossing, or connection, or crosses it before signaled so to do by the watchman, or before the way is clear, shall be personally liable to any person injured by reason of such failure in a penalty of one hundred dollars to be recovered by civil action, at the suit of the state, in the court of common pleas of the county wherein such crossing or connection is. (R. S. Sec. 3335; March 31, 1874, 71 v. 50, § 3.)

Section 8832. (Liability of company.) The company in whose employ such engineer or person in charge of an engine is, as well as the person himself, shall be liable in damages to any person or company injured in person or property by such neglect or act of such engineer or person. (R. S. Sec. 3335; March 31, 1874, 71 v. 50, § 3.)

Section 8833. (When trains may cross without stopping.) If such two railroads crossing each other, or in any way connecting at a common grade, by works or fixtures to be erected by them render it safe to pass over such crossings without stopping, and such works and fixtures first be approved by the state railroad commission, and the plan thereof for such crossing, designating the plan of crossing, has been filed with such commission, the provisions of the preceding sections of this chapter relating to railroad crossings, shall not apply. If the commission disapproves such plan, or fails to approve it within twenty days from the filing thereof, such companies may apply in the county where the crossing is situated, to the common pleas court or to a judge thereof in vacation, in the manner provided in section eighty-seven hundred and seventy-five. The same proceedings may be had, and with the same effect. (R. S. Sec. 3333; April 14, 1882, 79 v. 95; R. S. 1880; March 24, 1860, 57 v. 106, § 1.)

Interlocking system.

See § 592 et seq.

Where, to obtain the right to cross the track of another company, a railroad company agreed to install and maintain an interlocking system at its own expense, such company was held liable to an employee of the other company injured through the negligence of the towerman in charge.

Hydell v. Railway, 74 O. S. 138 (1906).

Section 8834. (Court of common pleas, duty of.) When outside the corporate limits of a city or village it becomes necessary for the track or tracks of a steam, street, electric or interurban railroad company to cross the track or tracks of another steam, street, electric or interurban railroad company, or it is necessary within the corporate limits thereof, for the track or tracks of a steam, street, electric or interurban railroad company to cross the track or tracks of another steam, street, electric or interurban railroad company, other than within the limits of a public street or highway, unless the manner of such crossing be agreed to between such companies, the common pleas court of the county wherein such crossing is located, or a judge thereof in vacation, on application of either party, must ascertain and define by its decree the mode of such crossing which will inflict the least practical injury upon the rights of the company owning or operating the road intended to be crossed. (May 9, 1908, 99 v. 358, § 1; April 23, 1904, 97 v. 548; May 10, 1902, 95 v. 530; R. S. Sec. 3333-1.)

Crossing in a highway. See § 3775.

This act is constitutional.

Railway Co. v. Traction Co., 79 O. S. 136, 149 (1908).

A similar act has been in force in Pennsylvania since 1871.

Railway Co. v. Traction Co., 79 O. S. 136, 150.

Railroad v. Railroad, 14 C. C. n. s. 321, 325 (1910); aff'd, 80 O. S. 540.

This act applies to all crossings where the companies can not agree.

Traction Co. v. Railway Co., 11 C. C. n. s. 17; 20 C. D. 355; aff'd, 79 O. S. 136.

The original act (95 v. 530) applied to pending cases and it was held that an application might be made although proceedings to appropriate the right to cross had been commenced prior to its enactment.

Railroad v. Railroad, 72 O. S. 368 (1905).

But the amendments do not apply to pending proceedings.

Railroad v. Railroad, 14 C. C. n. s. 321, 322 (1907); aff'd, 80 O. S. 540.

The original section (95 v. 530) was held not to apply to the crossing of a steam railroad by an interurban railway.

D. & U. Ry. Co. v. Traction Co., 4 C. C. n. s. 329; 16 C. D. 1; reversed on other grounds, 72 O. S. 429; s. c., 1 N. P. n. s. 218, 296; 14 L. D. 17, 143.

Rapid Ry. Co. v. Railroad Co., 48 O. L. B. 245 (Super. Ct. Cin.).

The inability of two railroad companies to agree does not require a disagreement leading to violence. It may appear in divergent views respecting their respective rights.

Railway Co. v. Traction Co., 79 O. S. 136, 15 (1908).

This section is not restricted to an initial crossing, but applies where one company desires to eliminate a grade crossing. Railway v. Railway, 18 N. P. n. s. 289 (1915).

Right to cross tracks prior to enactment of § 8834 et seq. Corporate charters and franchises are subject to the power of the state to authorize the construction of other railroads across their tracks whenever the public welfare may require. Neither the priority of one charter over the other, nor the prior location or construction of a railroad thereunder, affects this right.

Lake Shore, etc., Ry. Co. v. Cincinnati, etc., Ry. Co., 30 O. S. 604 (1876).

The right of one railroad corporation to cross the track of another in constructing and operating its road is derived by grant of the franchise so to do from the state, and not by purchase or appropriation from the road first located and constructed. The latter has no vested exclusive right to such crossing for its use against the right of the public to a crossing, provided compensation is made.

Lake Shore, etc., Ry. Co. v. Cincinnati, etc., Ry. Co., 30 O. S. 604 (1876).

Measure of damages. In a proceeding under the statute by a railroad corporation to appropriate a strip of land across the track of another, to be used in common by each as a railroad crossing, at a common grade, the owner of such track has no right to recover as consequential damages the additional expense rendered necessary in operating its road caused by complying with the provisions of this section.

Lake Shore, etc., Ry. Co. v. Cincinnati, etc., Ry. Co., 30 O. S. 604 (1876).

In such condemnation proceeding the company whose tracks it is sought to cross is entitled to compensation for the property or interest in its right of way and tracks actually appropriated, and for such consequential damages, not provided for by this section, as are the direct and proximate consequence of such appropriation.

Lake Shore, etc., Ry. Co. v. Cincinnati, etc., Ry. Co., 30 O. S. 604 (1876).

The jury in such condemnation proceeding can not include the additional expenses provided for by this section, nor take into account the detention of trains, loss of future business, nor additional expenses incident to the future exercise of their corporate powers.

Lake Shore, etc., Ry. Co. v. Cincinnati, etc., Ry. Co., 30 O. S. 604 (1876).

Section 8835. (Grade crossings avoided, if practicable.) If in the judgment of such court or judge thereof, it is reasonable and practicable to avoid a grade crossing, by its process it shall prevent a crossing at grade. In determining the mode of such crossing, no grade shall be required to exceed the established maximum or ruling grade governing the operation by motive power of that division or part of the railroad on which the improvement is to be made, without the consent of the company; nor shall either company's track be required to be placed below high water mark. (May 9, 1908, 99 v. 358, § 1; April 23, 1904, 97 v. 548; May 10, 1902, 95 v. 530; R. S. Sec. 3333-1.)

This act defines the policy of the state to be that railroad tracks may cross at grade only in cases of necessity.

Railway Co. v. Traction Co., 79 O. S. 136 (1908).

Railway v. Railway, 20 C. C. n. s. 408, 22 C. D. 608.

The junior company may not defeat the operation of the act by voluntarily choosing a place of crossing at which the grades can not be separated, when there is a practicable place of crossing at which the grades may be separated.

Railway Co. v. Traction Co., 79 O. S. 136 (1908).

Where an interlocking device has been in use for a considerable period, with favorable results from its operation and comparatively little interruption to trains of the other road and to avoid the grade crossing would involve heavy expense and other hardships, a grade crossing will not be avoided.

Railroad Co. v. Railway Co., 14 C. C. n. s. 321; 23 C. D. 303 (1907);
aff'd, 81 O. S. 540, 550.

"Reasonable and practicable." This term is not synonymous with the term "reasonably practicable" in the Pennsylvania statute.

Railway v. Railway, 14 C. C. n. s. 321, 322 to 325; 23 C. D. 303 (1907).

While one of the purposes of the act is to conserve public safety, grade crossings will not be avoided unless it is reasonable and practicable to be so. ib.

Street railway crossings at grade within municipalities.

See notes to §§ 9108, 3775.

Railway Co. v. Railway Co., 5 C. C. n. s. 597, 598; aff'd, 73 O. S. 364.

Section 8836. (Order of court.) The court by its order, shall define the manner in which the applicant is to do or let the work for such crossing and equitably apportion the initial expense of such construction or crossing and the expense of maintenance among the parties interested. (May 9, 1908, 99 v. 358, § 1; April 23, 1904, 97 v. 548; May 10, 1902, 95 v. 530; R. S. 3333-1.)

An equitable apportionment is not necessarily an equal apportionment.

Railway v. Traction Co., 79 O. S. 136, 150 (1908).

The cost of maintenance as well as the initial cost should be apportioned.

Traction Co. v. Railway Co., 79 O. S. 243 (1908).

Where the junior road has projected and is constructing a double track road, the cost of a crossing sufficiently wide to carry a double track should be apportioned between the companies.

Traction Co. v. Railway Co., 79 O. S. 243 (1908).

The court should apportion between the roads only the cost of such a grade of approach as will be practicable. If the junior road desires a lesser grade it may be charged with the entire additional expense.

Traction Co. v. Railway Co., 79 O. S. 243 (1908).

The road which is first established and in operation has no proprietary rights affecting a division of the costs which are superior to those of the later company seeking a crossing.

Traction Co. v. Railway Co., 11 C. C. n. s. 17; 20 C. D. 355; aff'd, 79 O. S. 136 (1907).

Lake Shore, etc., Ry. v. Cincinnati, etc., Ry. Co., 30 O. S. 604 (1876).

But to the extent that the senior company has improved its right of way by structures and expended money, the companies do not stand on an equal footing.

Railroad v. Railway, 14 C. C. n. s. 321, 323 (1907); aff'd, 80 O. S. 540.

As between a steam railroad, first established, and an electric railway, the steam railroad should share the cost only of that part of the crossing that is necessary to provide a way and support for the tracks of the junior company. The cost of ties, rails, ballast, etc., should be paid by the junior company. Railway v. Railway, 20 C. C. n. s. 408; 22 C. D. 608 (1906).

Section 8837. (Appeal.) A party feeling aggrieved by the decision of the court shall have the right of appeal and proceedings in error as in other civil cases. (May 9, 1908, 99 v. 358, § 1; April 23, 1904, 97 v. 548; May 10, 1902, 95 v. 530; R. S. Sec. 3333-1.)

Right of appeal.

See Railway Co. v. Traction Co., 79 O. S. 136, 137 (1908).

D. & U. Ry. Co. v. Traction Co., 4 C. C. n. s. 329; 16 C. D. 1 (1903); reversed, 72 O. S. 429.

Although the supreme court will not consider the weight of evidence, it will, in a proceeding in error to the circuit court, examine the record to see that the order of the circuit court is in accordance with a proper interpretation of the statute.

Railway Co. v. Traction Co., 79 O. S. 136 (1908).

Section 8838. (Jury.) Unless such companies agree upon the compensation to be paid for the land occupied by such crossing, the court shall submit that question to a jury as provided in other cases for the appropriation of private property. (May 9, 1908, 99 v. 359.)

Section 8839. (Exceptions.) Nothing herein shall prevent any street, electric or interurban railroad company or steam railroad company from laying additional tracks at existing crossings, under authority now existing by virtue of law. (May 9, 1908, 99 v. 359, § 1; May 3, 1904, 97 v. 548, § 2.)

Section 8840. (One steam railroad crossing another within corporate limits.) When, within the corporate limits of a city, or village, it becomes necessary for the track of a steam railroad company to cross the track of another steam railroad company unless the manner of such crossings be agreed to between such companies, the common pleas court of the county wherein such crossing is located, or a judge thereof in vacation, on application of either party, shall ascertain and define by its decree the mode of such crossings which will inflict the least practical injury upon the rights of the company owning or operating the road to be crossed. If in the judgment of such court or the judge thereof, it is reasonable and practicable to avoid a grade crossing, by its process it shall prevent a crossing at grade. (May 3, 1904, 97 v. 538, § 1a; R. S. § 3333-3.)

See notes to §§ 8834, 8835.

Crossing of street railway in highway. See § 3775.

Section 8841. (Change of grade.) In changing the grade of a steam railroad, no grade shall be required to exceed the established maximum or ruling grade governing the operations by engines of that division or part of the railroad on which the improvement is to be made, without the consent of the railroad company, nor shall the railroad company's tracks be required to be placed below high water mark. (May 3, 1904, 97 v. 538, § 1a.)

Section 8842. In its order, the court shall equitably apportion the initial expense of such construction or crossing, and the expense of such construction or crossing, and the expense of maintenance thereof among the parties interested. A party feeling aggrieved by the decision of the court may appeal therefrom as in other civil cases. Nothing herein shall prevent any railroad company from laying additional tracks at existing crossings. (May 3, 1904, 97 v. 538, § 1a.)

See notes to §§ 8836 and 8837.

HIGHWAY CROSSINGS.

Section 8843. (Highway crossings, sidewalks, etc.) Companies operating a railroad in this state, shall build and keep in repair good and sufficient crossings over or approaches to such railway, its tracks, side-tracks and switches, at all points where any public highway, street, lane, avenue, alley, road or pike is intersected by such railway, its tracks, side-tracks or switches; also good and sufficient sidewalks on both sides of streets intersected by their roads, the full width of the right of way owned, claimed or occupied by them. Crossings and approaches outside of municipal corporations, the township trustees shall have power to fix and determine as to their kind and extent, and the time and manner of constructing them. (April 2, 1891, 88 v. 261; R. S. Sec. 3337-3.)

The power of township trustees under this section is not abridged by § 8863 et seq., which confer power on county commissioners to provide for the abolition of dangerous grade crossings.

Grinnell v. Commissioners, 6 C. C. n. s. 180; 17 C. D. 118 (1904).

Crossing defined.

Lynch v. Railway Co., 20 C. C. 248 (1899).

Constitutionality.

Lake Shore, etc., Ry. Co. v. Cincinnati, etc., Ry. Co., 30 O. S. 604 (1876).

See generally §§ 8913 to 8915, 8873.

Section 8844. (Powers of councils.) As to crossings, approaches and sidewalks within municipal corporations, the municipal councils may exercise the same powers as trustees concerning crossways and approaches outside of municipalities, and such crossways, approaches and sidewalks shall be constructed, repaired and maintained by the railroad companies as so ordered. (April 2, 1891, 88 v. 261, § 1; R. S. Sec. 3337-3.)

A municipal corporation may, by ordinance, regulate the length of time a train may remain standing across street crossings. Akron v. Temple, 16 C. C. n. s. 327 (1909).

Section 8845. (Service of notice.) The officer or officers having charge of a public highway, street or alley intersected by a line of railway, shall serve a written notice upon the nearest station agent or section foreman having charge of that portion of the railway where such intersection occurs, that the crossing, approach or sidewalk herein described must be built or repaired, setting forth its kind and extent and the time and manner of constructing it, as ordered by the council or trustees. (April 2, 1891, 88 v. 261, § 2; R. S. Sec. 3337-4.)

Section 8846. (Failure to comply with notice.) A railway company so notified must comply with such notice within a period of thirty days after receiving it. On failure so to do, the township trustees, or council as may be the case, may cause such crossing, approach or sidewalk to be constructed or repaired as before ordered, and recover the cost of so doing with interest thereon, in a civil action against the railroad company, in the name of the trustees or municipality. (April 2, 1891, 88 v. 261, § 3; R. S. Sec. 3337-5.)

Section 8847. (Crossings must be kept clear of snow.)

All railway companies owning or operating a line of railway within this state, must keep public highways crossing such line of railroad clear of snow, for a distance of fifty feet each way from the center of its railroad along such highway, so that at all times they will be in safe and convenient condition for travel. (April 2, 1891, 88 v. 261, § 4; R. S. Sec. 3337-6.)

The company is only bound to use such care as a reasonable person would use under like circumstances.

Cincinnati, etc., R. R. Co. v. Dagner, 39 W. L. B. 19 (1898).

Section 8848. (Forfeiture.) A railroad company which neglects to comply with the terms of the five next preceding sections, shall be liable to pay damage to the city, village, or township in which the highway is situated in the sum of thirty dollars for such neglect, and a further sum of ten dollars per day for each and every day such company fails to comply with the terms of such sections, to be recovered in an action brought in the name of the city, village, or township. The prosecuting attorney of the county shall prosecute to judgment any claim arising under the foregoing provisions, without charge to the city, village, or township. (April 2, 1891, 88 v. 261, § 5; R. S. Sec. 3337-7.)

The remedy provided by this section is not exclusive.

Alexander v. Railroad Co., 2 N. P. n. s. 59; 14 L. D. 102 (1903).

Section 8849. (Bridges over railroad crossings.) No person, company or corporation owning, or operating a railroad, crossing, or that may hereafter cross, over and above a street, less than seventy feet in width, in any city in this state, at an elevation above such street, sufficient to permit persons to pass and repass along such street beneath such crossing, shall place or cause to be placed, or permit to be or remain in such street, beneath such crossing or bridge, any pier or other stay or support therefor, unless the placing or maintaining thereof be authorized by the city wherein the crossing is situated, by ordinance duly passed, or permit such crossing or bridge to be or remain in such condition, that iron, coal or other hard substance, or fluid or noisome matter, can fall or drop through such crossing or bridge, upon persons traveling or passing beneath it. (April 23, 1904, 97 v. 302, § 1; April 3, 1889, 86 v. 197; R. S. Sec. 3337-1.)

This section does not authorize a municipality to grant permission to a railroad company to occupy a public common or landing with an elevated structure.

Railroad Co. v. Cincinnati, 76 O. S. 481 (1907); affirming, 4 N. P. n. s. 217, 497.

See note to § 8763.

Prior to the amendment of this section in 1904 a municipal council had no power to permit supports for an overhead bridge to be placed in the street.

Alexander v. Railroad Co., 2 N. P. n. s. 59; 14 L. D. 102 (1903).

Railway Co. v. Elyria, 69 O. S. 414 (1903).

Railroad Co. v. Defiance, 52 O. S. 262 (1895); aff'd, 167 U. S. 88; 10 O. F. D. 480.

Where abutments were constructed and maintained on the right of way of a private turnpike, more than twenty-one years prior to its acquisition by the county, an action by the county to compel removal of the abutments was barred by the statute of limitation. Railway v. Commissioners, 92 O. S. 513 (1915); reversing, 21 C. C. n. s. 446, 12 N. P. n. s. 446.

Section 8850. (Forfeiture.) A person, company or corporation owning or operating such railroad, that fails to comply with the requirements of, or violates any provision of, the next preceding section, for each and every day during the continuance of such failure or violation, and on account thereof, shall forfeit and pay to such city the sum of one hundred dollars, to be recovered in a civil action, in the city's name, against the owner or operator of such railroad, or both, as the city elects. Thereafter like recovery may be had for subsequent failures and violations. (April 23, 1904, 97 v. 302, § 1; April 3, 1889, 86 v. 197; R. S. Sec. 3337-1.)

Section 8851. (Council may regulate use of bridge.) The council of a city may prohibit the switching of freight engines, trains, or cars, over or on such crossing or bridge, the sounding of locomotive steam whistles, thereon or near thereto, and the standing or stopping of a railroad engine over or on such crossing or bridge, and by ordinance, constitute a violation thereof an offense, and provide for the punishment of any person guilty thereof. (April 3, 1889, 86 v. 197; R. S. § 3337-2.)

Section 8852. (Signboards at road crossings.) At all points where its road crosses a public road, at a sufficient elevation from such public road to admit of the free passage of vehicles of every kind, each company shall erect a sign, with large and distinct letters placed thereon, to give notice of the proximity of the railroad, and warn persons to be on the lookout for the locomotive. A company which neglects or refuses to comply with this provision shall be liable in damages for all injuries which occur to persons or property from such neglect or refusal. (R. S. Sec. 3323; May 1, 1852, 50 v. 274, § 18.)

In an action by a traveler on a public highway against a railroad company, to recover for injuries by collision with a passing train at a public crossing, alleged to have been caused by negligence in the management of the train, where the evidence tends to show that he did not exercise proper care and caution to avoid the injury, it is competent for him to show that there was no sign-board up, as required by law, as reflecting upon the question of his want of care, although the want of such sign-board is not alleged as a ground of recovery.

Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Whitacre, 35 O. S. 627 (1880).

Unless it is averred as a ground of negligence that a sign was omitted, he can not insist upon it as a substantive cause of action. If a party is acquainted with the crossing the absence of the warning post is not available as a proof of negligence.

New York, etc., R. R. Co. v. Kistler, 16 C. C. 316 (1894); 9 C. D. 277.

C. C. & I. Ry. Co. v. Reiss, 13 C. C. 405 (1889); 7 C. D. 450.

See Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Whitacre, 35 O. S. 627 (1880).

Lang v. Holiday, etc., Mining Co., 49 Ia. 469 (1878).

A violation of this section does not render the company absolutely liable for injuries to persons or property while attempting to cross the track. Evidence of such omission merely establishes the negligence of the company, and if it appear that the plaintiff's negligence contributed to the injury, he can not recover.

Dodge v. Burlington, etc., R. R. Co., 34 Ia. 276 (1872).

Section 8853. (Signals at railroad crossings.) Every company shall attach to each locomotive engine passing upon its road, a bell of the ordinary size in use on such engines, and a steam whistle. When an engine in motion and approaching a turnpike, highway or town road crossing or private crossing where the view of such crossing is obstructed by embankment, trees, curve or other obstruction to view, upon the same line therewith, and in like manner where the road crosses any other traveled place, by bridge or otherwise, the engineer or person in charge thereof, shall sound such whistle at a distance of at least eighty and not further than one hundred rods from such crossing, and ring such bell continuously until the engine passes the crossing. (R. S. Sec. 3336; April 16, 1892, 89 v. 331; May 13, 1886, 83 v. 153; R. S. 1880; March 25, 1872, 69 v. 49, § 1.)

Duty of person about to cross tracks. Ordinary prudence requires that a person in the full enjoyment of the faculties of hearing and seeing, before attempting to pass over a known railroad crossing, should use them for the purpose of discovering and avoiding danger from an approaching train; and the omission to do so without a reasonable excuse therefor is negligence, and will defeat a recovery.

B. & O. R. Co. v. McClellan, 69 O. S. 142 (1903).

Stugard v. Railway, 92 O. S. 318.

Pennsylvania Co. v. Rathgeb, 32 O. S. 66 (1877).

Bellefontaine Ry. Co. v. Snyder, 24 O. S. 670 (1874).

Cleveland, etc., R. R. Co. v. Crawford, 24 O. S. 631 (1874).

Cleveland, etc., Ry. Co. v. Elliott, 28 O. S. 340 (1876).

Lake Shore, etc., Ry. Co. v. Gaffney, 9 C. C. 32 (1894); s. c., 6 C. D. 94.

Lake Shore, etc., Ry. Co. v. Schade, 15 C. C. 424 (1895); s. c., 8 C. D. 316.

Railway v. Schneider, 45 O. S. 678 (1888).

Lake Shore, etc., Ry. Co. v. Geiger, 8 C. C. 41 (1893); s. c., 4 C. D. 307.

New York, etc., Ry. Co. v. Swartout, 14 C. C. 582 (1895); s. c., 6 C. D. 768.

C. C. & I. Ry. Co. v. Reiss, 13 C. C. 405 (1889); s. c., 7 C. D. 450.

Schmidt v. Railway, 22 C. D. 539 (1911).

Traction Co. v. Smith, 15 C. C. n. s. 124 (1912).

The duty to exercise reasonable care to discover an approaching train continues until the track is crossed and the danger passed. If a person makes no further effort than to stop and look when sixty feet from the track, he is guilty of contributory negligence. Woolley v. Railroad, 90 O. S. 387 (1914). See Penna. Co. v. Gulling, 5 Ohio App. 183; 25 C. C. n. s. 326 (1916); motion to certify record overruled, 14 O. L. R. 180; Railroad v. Kately, 12 Ohio App. 16; 30 O. C. A. 97; motion to certify record overruled, 17 O. L. R. 24.

Where a street car motorman, driving his car on railroad tracks, pursuant to a negligent direction by his conductor to "come ahead," was struck and killed by a locomotive which approached without giving signals by bell as required by this section, it was held that failure to ring the bell was at least a concurring cause of the accident, and that it was error to direct a verdict for the railroad company.

Hales v. Railroad Co., 200 Fed. 533 (C. C. A. 1912).

Where turnpike is crossed by bridge. This section requires the engineer having in charge an engine in motion to ring the bell and sound the whistle on approaching a place where the road crosses any highway or traveled place by a bridge or other structure.

Railway v. Jump, 50 O. S. 651 (1893).

Duty to persons on track. This section is intended for the protection of such persons only as are crossing the track or are about to do so; and does not inure to the benefit of persons who are on the track but not at a crossing.

Cleveland, etc., Ry. Co. v. Workman, 66 O. S. 509 (1902).

See Dick v. Railroad Co., 38 O. S. 389 (1882).

Railroad Co. v. Depew, 40 O. S. 121, 126 (1883).

Railway Co. v. Gesswine, 144 Fed. 56 (1906).

Byrket v. Railway, 10 C. C. n. s. 73; 19 C. D. 614.

Drown v. Traction Co., 76 O. S. 234.

Evidence. Though there is positive evidence that the whistle was blown before the train reached the crossing, the court can not direct a verdict for defendant where some of the witnesses testify that the whistle was blown more than 2,000 feet from the crossing instead of within 80 or 100 rods of it, as required by this section.

Griffith v. Baltimore, etc., R. R. Co., 44 Fed. 574 (1890); 6 O. F. D. 666.

Hales v. Railroad Co., 200 Fed. 533 (C. C. A. 1912).

The testimony of witnesses who testify that they were walking on the track, knew the train was coming, were giving their attention to the train, and that they heard no whistle or bell, is not negative, but positive testimony.

Lake Shore, etc., R. R. Co. v. Schade, 15 C. C. 424 (1895); 8 C. D. 316.

Other things being equal, the testimony of the engineer and fireman of the train that the whistle was blown and the bell rung as it approached the crossing is entitled to more weight than the negative testimony of other witnesses that they did not hear either or both.

Griffith v. Baltimore, etc., R. R. Co., 44 Fed. 574 (1900); 6 O. F. D. 666; affirmed, 159 U. S. 603; 8 O. F. D. 573.

Duty to trackmen. The custom of a railroad company to give signals as required by this section was for the sole benefit of persons using the crossings. A failure to give such signals does not constitute negligence as against a trackman.

Norfolk, etc., Co. v. Gesswine, 144 Fed. 56; 15 O. F. D. 426 (C. C. A. 1906).

See Railroad v. Skiles, 64 O. S. 458.

Barton v. Railway, 12 C. C. n. s. 387; 21 C. D. 441; aff'd, 74 O. S. 479.

Duty of company to take precaution in addition to bell and whistle signals. Compliance with § 8853 does not excuse a railroad company from taking other precautions if the circumstances are such as to require them.

Erie R. Co. v. Weinstein, 166 Fed. 271; 7 O. L. R. 531 (C. C. A. 1909).

Evans v. Erie R. Co., 213 Fed. 129 (C. C. A. 1914).

Compliance with this section does not relieve a railway company from liability for injury to a traveler at a crossing resulting from negligent failure to take additional precautions by maintaining a watchman, crossing gates, etc., or from negligently running the train at a high rate of speed.

Rothe v. Penna. Co., 195 Fed. 21 (C. C. A. 1912).

Begert v. Payne, 274 Fed. 785 (C. C. A. 1921); Railway v. Iron Works, 279 Fed. 32 (C. C. A. 1922).

In the operation of trains over a highway crossing at grade in a municipality where buildings obscure the approach of trains, care commensurate with the danger existing must be exercised, although that may exceed the giving of signals by bell and whistle; but the railroad company is not the insurer of the safety of travelers using the crossing.

Weaver v. Railway, 76 O. S. 164 (1907).

The statutory requirement as to signals at a crossing is not exclusive. Railway Co. v. Parker, 9 C. C. n. s. 28; 19 C. D. (1907).

Section 8854. (Not to interfere with city ordinance.)

The provisions of the next preceding section shall not interfere with the proper observance of an ordinance passed by a city or village council regulating the management of railroads, locomotives and steam whistles thereon, within the limits of such city or village. (R. S. Sec. 3336; April 16, 1892, 89 v. 331; May 13, 1866, 83 v. 153; R. S. 1880; March 25, 1872, 69 v. 49, § 1.)

The most that can be claimed for this section is that it by implication confers powers upon municipal corporations to regulate the management of locomotives and steam whistles and bells with reference to crossings in such municipalities. It does not enable municipalities to compel railroads to employ watchmen.

Ravena v. Pennsylvania Co., 45 O. S. 118, 125 (1887).

Rapid Transit Co. v. Erie R. Co., 7 C. C. n. s. 199; 18 C. D. 36 (1905).

An ordinance is invalid which requires the bell to be rung continuously while the train is passing through the corporate limits regardless of whether or not it is "approaching a turnpike, highway, etc."

Caskey v. Belle Center, 8 N. P. n. s. 153; 19 L. D. 726 (C. P. 1908).

Section 8855. (Penalties for violation of preceding section.) Every engineer or person in charge of such engine who fails to comply with the provisions of the two preceding sections shall be personally liable to a penalty of not less than fifty nor more than one hundred dollars, to be recovered by civil action, at the suit of the state, in the court of common pleas of a county wherein there is such a crossing. (R. S. Sec. 3337; March 25, 1872, 69 v. 49, § 2.)

Criminal penalty, see G. C. §§ 12549, 12550.

Section 8856. (Liability of company.) The company in whose employ such engineer or person in charge of an engine is, as well as the person himself, shall be liable in damages to a person or company injured in person or property by such neglect or act of such engineer or person. (R. S. Sec. 3337; March 25, 1872, 69 v. 49, § 2.)

The omission to ring the bell or sound the whistle at public crossings is not of itself sufficient ground to authorize a recovery, if the party, notwithstanding such omission, might, by the exercise of ordinary care, have avoided the accident.

Cleveland, etc., Ry. Co. v. Elliott, 28 O. S. 340 (1876).

Pennsylvania Co. v. Rathgeb, 32 O. S. 66, 72 (1877).

New York, etc., Ry. Co. v. Swartout, 14 C. C. 582 (1895); s. c., 6 C. D. 768.

Baltimore, etc., R. R. Co. v. Griffith, 159 U. S. 603, 607 (1895); s. c., 8 O. F. D. 573.

Horn v. Baltimore, etc., R. R. Co., 54 Fed. 301 (1893).

Pennsylvania Co. v. Alburn, 3 C. C. n. s. 104; 13 C. D. 130 (1901).

See Heine v. Erie R. Co., 6 C. C. n. s. 7, 9; 17 C. D. 155; reversed, 75 O. S. 629.

This section does not confer a right of action unless the omission of the signals caused the injury, nor in case the person injured is guilty of contributory negligence.

Rothe v. Penna. Co., 195 Fed. 21 (C. C. A. 1912).

It is evident from the language of this section that the failure to give signals must have occasioned the accident, that is, must have been the proximate cause of it, before a recovery can be had.

Pennsylvania Co. v. Rathgeb, 32 O. S. 66, 72 (1877).

Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Murphy, 18 C. C. 298 (1899); s. c., 10 C. D. 195.

Horn v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 54 Fed. 301 (1893).

Where it appears that the plaintiff was struck several hundred feet from a crossing, the failure to give signals for the crossing can not be regarded as the proximate cause of the accident.

Lake Shore, etc., R. R. Co. v. Harris, 3 C. C. n. s. 599; 13 C. D. 400 (1901).

The railroad can not recover from the owner of a truck for damage to railroad equipment from a collision at a crossing, where there was failure to sound whistle and ring bell as required by § 8853. Railway v. Norton Iron Works, 279 Fed. 32 (1922).

Section 8857. (Crossing of highway to cemetery.) All railroads hereafter constructed, which cross an avenue or public highway leading from a city to a public cemetery thereof, situate within or without the limits of the city, shall be constructed so as to pass under or over such avenue or highway, at an elevation or depression as the case may be, that will allow the unobstructed passage of all wagons, carriages, or other vehicles necessary for any person to use thereon. (R. S. Sec. 3284; May 1, 1852, 50 v. 274, § 16.)

The cemetery of a private association does not come within the terms of this section. It covers and protects only cemeteries owned by cities.

Youngstown v. Pittsburg, etc., R. R. Co., 3 C. C. 214; 2 C. D. 121 (1888).

PRIVATE CROSSINGS AND WAYS.

Section 8858. (When private crossings must be built.) When a person owns fifteen or more acres of land in one body, through which a railroad passes, and which is so situated that he can not use a crossing in a public street, lane, road or other highway, in going from his land on one side of the railroad to that on the other side without great inconvenience, at his request, and within four months thereafter, the company or person operating it, at the expense of such company or person shall construct a good and sufficient private crossing across such railroad and the lands occupied by the company, between the two pieces of land to enable such landowner to pass with a loaded team, and over which he may go at all times when such railroad is not being used at the crossing, or so near to it as to render passing thereat dangerous. (R. S. Sec. 3327; April 18, 1874, 71 v. 85, § 1.)

This section was held constitutional in Mitchell, etc., Co. v. Wabash R. Co., 3 N. P. 231; 6 L. D. 135 (C. P. 1896), which case was affirmed by the supreme court (59 O. S. 607), without, however, passing on its constitutionality.

Railway Co. v. Wachter, 70 O. S. 113, 117, 121 (1904).

This section and § 8859 apply only to cases where lands, intersected by a railroad, are in one ownership at the time of the construction of the road.

Gratz v. Railroad Co., 76 O. S. 230 (1907).

But any owner of land lying on both sides of the road may, at his own expense, construct a crossing, providing it is suitably located and necessary for the convenient use of his lands and does not interfere with the movement of trains.

Gratz v. Railroad Co., 76 O. S. 230 (1907).

This section does not apply where the lands are used for industrial purposes. Railway v. Bradford, 30 O. C. A. 40 (1919); compare, Mitchell v. Railroad, 3 N. P. 231; 6 L. D. 135 (1896).

Where the land on either side of the tracks is accessible to a highway, a private crossing can not be required as a way of necessity, although the highway crossing may be less convenient. Railway v. Bradford, 30 O. C. A. 40 (1919).

The right to a crossing under this section is not affected by the fact that the right of way was appropriated, and the railroad constructed, before the enactment of this section.

Mitchell, etc., Co. v. Wabash R. Co., 3 N. P. 231; 6 L. D. 135 (C. P. 1896); aff'd, 59 O. S. 607.

The right to a private crossing depends upon the fact that the public crossing can not be used "without great inconvenience," and that such private crossing shall be used only when not dangerous; a crossing, therefore, should be constructed at the point most convenient and least dangerous.

Mitchell v. Wabash R. R. Co., 3 N. P. 231; 6 L. D. 135 (C. P. 1896).

Where the matter is before a court of equity, if the parties can not agree as to the location, the court will fix it by means of engineers and referees.

Mitchell v. Wabash R. R. Co., 3 N. P. 231; 6 L. D. 135 (C. P. 1896).

Injunction. Where a landowner, who is entitled to a crossing at his own expense but not at the expense of the railroad company, served a notice on the company requiring it to construct such crossing, the company is not entitled to an injunction preventing such crossing.

Gratz v. Railroad Co., 76 O. S. 230 (1907).

Where a landowner has complied with this section, and the railroad company has declared its intention of preventing the construction of the crossing, an injunction may be allowed to prevent such interference.

Mitchell v. Wabash R. R. Co., 3 N. P. 231; 6 L. D. 135 (1896); aff'd, 59 O. S. 607.

See Jones, etc., Co. v. C. C. C. T. & S. Ry. Co., 7 N. P. 245 (1894).

Right to crossing in absence of statute. Where a landowner conveys to a railroad company a right of way through his land, the right to a private crossing remains in the grantor, provided such crossing is necessary for the convenient use of his lands, and will not unreasonably interfere with the use of the right of way for railroad purposes.

Railway v. Wachter, 70 O. S. 113 (1904).

See Gratz v. Railroad Co., 76 O. S. 230, 233 (1907).

Statute of limitations. The right to a crossing is not barred by the statute of limitation of twenty-one years.

Railway v. Wachter, 70 O. S. 113.

Contract for private crossing; remedies for breach.

See Bell v. Dayton, etc., R. R. Co., 3 C. C. 31; 2 C. D. 19 (1887).

Dayton, etc., R. R. Co. v. Lewton, 20 O. S. 401 (1870).

Where a contract for a right of way required the railroad company to construct a cattle pass, but the deed of the right of way was silent as to the cattle pass, which had been constructed before the execution of the deed, it was held that the purchaser of a railroad, on foreclosure, could not fill up the cattle pass, possession by the grantor constituting notice.

Lowe v. Railway, 12 C. C. 743; 4 C. D. 85 (1894).

An agreement requiring the railroad company to build a crossing within one year after completion of the road is not a covenant running with the land, specifically enforceable against a successor railroad company, several years thereafter, where the agreement contained no covenant requiring the successor to build or maintain the crossing.

Zens v. Railway, 14 N. P. n. s. 202; 23 L. D. 182 (C. P. 1912).

Section 8859. (Owner may build at company's expense.)

If, for four months after request by such landowner for that purpose, such company or person neglects to construct a good and sufficient private crossing as provided in the next preceding section, after reasonable notice to the agent of the company for receiving and shipping freight at the station on the railroad nearest to the land where it is proposed to construct such crossing by the landowner of the time when he will proceed to construct it, he may enter upon the lands of the company, at any point he wishes between the two pieces of his land, and construct such crossing. Such company or person shall be liable to him for all the reasonable expense thereof, not exceeding the sum of fifty dollars, which he may recover in an action against it or him. (R. S. Sec. 3328; April 18, 1874, 71 v. 85, § 1.)

Section cited 30 W. L. B. 206.

Constitutionality of section.

See Railway v. Wachter, 70 O. S. 113, 117, 121 (1904).

Mitchell, etc., Co. v. Wabash R. Co., 3 N. P. 231; 6 L. D. 135 (C. P. 1896).

This section and § 8858 apply only to cases where lands are in one ownership at the time of the construction of the road. But any owner of land lying on both sides of the road may, at his own expense, build a proper crossing.

Gratz v. Railroad Co., 76 O. S. 230 (1907).

Section 8860. (When two preceding sections do not apply.) The provisions of the next two preceding sections relating to private crossings shall not apply to any case in which compensation for building a private crossing has been or may hereafter be taken into consideration, and estimated as part of the consideration to be paid for the right of way, so far as the right to private crossing, has been or may be settled or paid for; nor shall such sections be held to affect, in any manner, any contract or agreement between any railroad company, or person having control or management of a railroad, and the proprietor or occupants of lands adjoining, for the construction or maintenance of railroad crossings. (R. S. Sec. 3329; March 25, 1859, 56 v. 62, § 4; April 18, 1874, 71 v. 85, § 1.)

Where compensation for building a fence or private crossing was taken into consideration when the right of way was acquired, the company is not liable either to the landowner or the public for failure to fence or for insufficient fences.

Railway Co. v. Wood, 47 O. S. 431 (1890).

Where the defense of the company is that it has made compensation for fencing under this section, and the records of the condemnation proceedings are silent upon the subject, no presumption arises that the matter of fences was considered, even if the proceedings were had prior to the passage of this act.

Railroad Co. v. Hoffhines, 46 O. S. 643 (1888).

Mitchell, etc., Co. v. Wabash R. Co., 3 N. P. 231; 6 L. D. 135 (1896).

Contract between owner and railroad company. An agreement is not binding on a subsequent purchaser of the land who had neither actual nor constructive notice thereof at the time of the purchase.

Railway v. Bosworth, 46 O. S. 81 (1888).

A valid agreement embodied in the record of the appropriation proceeding is binding upon subsequent purchasers.

Huston v. Railroad Co., 21 O. S. 235 (1877).

See also notes to §§ 8918 and 8914.

Section 8861. (Freight ways may be constructed.) A person owning or operating a coal or iron-ore mine, stone-quarry, rolling mill, or machine shop, who, as a means of removing the product thereof, uses or desires to use a railway, may construct one and run cars thereon, over or under any railroad or public highway, the consent of the owner of the fee in the land at such crossing first being obtained. Such railway shall be so constructed as in no wise to impede or interfere with the running of cars or the travel upon such railroad or highway, or in any manner injure or impair either, or any switch, building, or appurtenance connected therewith or belonging thereto. When such freightway is constructed over a railroad, it shall be at the height of at least eighteen and one-half feet in the clear above the rails thereof. (R. S. Sec. 3355; May 1, 1873, 70 v. 194, § 1.)

This section contemplates a private railroad or switch for the use of the company constructing it. Barlotti v. Commission, 103 O. S. 647 (1921).

Section 8862. (Plan must be approved.) Before a person constructs such railway across a railroad he shall submit the plan of construction to the railroad commission for its approval, which at the cost of such person for traveling expenses or otherwise, must see that the structure in all respects conforms to the requirements of the next preceding section. (R. S. Sec. 3356; May 1, 1873, 70 v. 194, § 2.)

GRADE CROSSINGS.

Section 8863. (Alteration or elimination of grade or other crossings. Powers of commissioners with respect to roads lying within municipalities.) If the council of a municipal corporation in which a railroad or railroads, and a street or other public highway cross each other at a grade or otherwise, or the commissioners of a county in which a railroad or railroads and a public road or highway cross each other at grade, and the directors of the railroad company or companies are of the opinion that the security and convenience of the public require alterations in such crossing, or the approaches thereto, or in the location of the railroad or railroads or the public way, or the grades thereof, so as to avoid a crossing at grade, or that such crossing should be discontinued with or without building a new way in substitution therefor, and if they agree as to the alterations they may be made as hereinafter provided; provided, however, that the commissioners of a county shall have the same powers with respect to that part of a state, county or township road which lies within the limits of a municipal corporation as are conferred upon municipal corporations to alter or require to be altered, any railroad crossings, or to require any improvement in connection therewith to be made, and to apportion the cost thereof between the county and such railroad or railroads, as is provided in sections 8874, 8875, 8876, 8877, 8878, 8879, 8880, 8881, 8882, 8883, 8884, 8885, 8886, 8887, 8888, 8889, 8890, 8891, 8892, 8893 and 8894, of this chapter. (106 v. 206; R. S. Sec. 3337-8; April 27, 1893, 90 v. 359.)

This act (§§ 8863 to 8873), is adopted from a similar act in Massachusetts.

Stoner v. Railway, 9 N. P. n. s. 337, 348; 20 L. D. 448 (C. P. 1909).

Sections 8863 et seq. are limited to existing crossings and do not apply to proposed crossings over a railway not yet constructed.

Grinnell v. Commissioners, 6 C. C. n. s. 180; 17 C. D. 118 (1904).

The highway may be diverted from its original location for a short distance.

Stoner v. Railway, 9 N. P. n. s. 337; 20 L. D. 448 (C. P. 1909).

An owner of lands abutting upon that portion of a highway, which it is proposed to vacate or divert, may enjoin such change where the injury is different in kind from that of the general public.

Grinnell v. Commissioners, 6 C. C. n. s. 180; 17 C. D. 118 (1904).

Injunction by taxpayer.

See Stoner v. Railway, 9 N. P. n. s. 337; 20 L. D. 448 (C. P. 1909).

The authority of township trustees under § 8843 to determine the kind, manner, etc., of construction of crossings, is not repealed or abridged by this section.

Grinnell v. Commissioners, 6 C. C. n. s. 180; 17 C. D. 118 (1904).

Elimination of a grade crossing by agreement under this section may be enforced against an interurban railway, although it has an existing crossing contract with the railroad company. Railway v. Railway, 18 N. P. n. s. 289 (1915).

While § 8863 et seq. apply only to elimination of grade crossings by agreement and § 8874 et seq. apply only to adversary proceedings, "yet the whole is one scheme of legislation having for its purpose the elimination of grade crossings where the security and convenience of the public require such elimination." Sandusky v. Railroad, 101 O. S. 225 (1920).

In proceeding under § 8874 county commissioners must not only adopt a resolution of necessity, but must endeavor to reach an agreement with the railroad company as to the location of the undercrossing and the plans and specifications therefor. Arbaugh v. Railroad, 104 O. S. 110 (1922).

As to power of county commissioners, see also §§ 6952-2, 6952-3.

Section 8864. (Resolution to alter or abolish.) When it is deemed necessary by a municipality or a county to join with any railroad company or companies in the alteration or abolition of a grade or other crossing, the council of the municipality, by a two-thirds vote of all the members elected thereto, or the commissioners of the county, by a unanimous vote, by resolution, shall declare such necessity and intent, and state therein the manner in which the alterations in the crossing are to be made, giving the method of constructing the new crossing with the grades for the railroad or railroads and the public way or ways; also what land or other property it is necessary to appropriate, and how their cost is to be apportioned between the municipality or county and the railroad company or companies; also by whom the work of construction is to be done and how its cost is to be apportioned between the municipality or county and the railroad company or companies. (R. S. Sec. 3337-9; April 27, 1893, 90 v. 360, § 2.)

See note to § 8863.

Where the preliminary steps required by § 8864 et seq. have not been taken, a taxpayer may enjoin the abolition of a grade crossing, when the prosecuting attorney, after request, has refused to take action. Stoner v. Railway, 9 N. P. n. s. 337; 20 L. D. 448 (C. D. 1909).

A judgment in an action brought by a city solicitor is a bar to an action by a taxpayer, as to all questions which might have been litigated therein. Stockyards Co. v. Cincinnati, 1 Ohio App. 452; 20 C. C. n. s. 139; 24 C. D. 251 (1913); affirming, 14 N. P. n. s. 529.

Inconvenience to an abutting owner by the conversion of the street into a viaduct does not entitle him to an injunction, although he alleges that the damage will be irreparable. The statutory remedy for compensation bars his right to an injunction. Stockyards Co. v. Cincinnati, 1 Ohio App. 452; 20 C. C. n. s. 139; 24 C. D. 251 (1913).

An ordinance providing for the separation of grades, and for other proceedings necessary for the abolishment of a grade crossing, but requiring separate ordinances to effect the same, is not invalid as containing more than one subject. Stockyards Co. v. Cincinnati, 1

Ohio App. 452; 20 C. C. n. s. 139; 24 C. D. 251 (1913); affirming, 14 N. P. n. s. 529.

Section 8865. (Publication of resolution.) Such resolution shall be published and notice of its passage given to owners of property abutting on the proposed improvement, in the manner provided as to resolutions of a city council declaring the necessity of a contemplated public improvement, and claims for damages thereby caused, must be filed in the manner, and within the time prescribed in such cases. (R. S. Sec. 3337-9; April 27, 1893, 90 v. 360, § 2.)

See notes to §§ 8765 and 8885.

Where a subway is constructed under the tracks immediately adjoining the highway, which is not vacated except at the grade crossing, and a cul de sac thus formed between the tracks and the entrance to the subway, with the result that the main travel was diverted from the cul de sac, the owner of a business property, abutting on the cul de sac, may recover damages caused by the depreciation in value.

Schimmelmann v. Railway Co., 83 O. S. 356 (1911).

Section 8866. (Ordinance or resolution, to proceed with improvement.) In not less than thirty nor more than ninety days after the passage of such resolution the council or commissioners shall determine whether it or they will proceed with the proposed improvement or not. If it is decided to proceed therewith, an ordinance by the council or resolution by the commissioners shall be passed, which ordinance or resolution must contain, in addition to the terms and conditions stated in such resolution, the plans and specifications of the proposed alteration and improvement, a statement of the damages claimed or likely to accrue by reason thereof, and how their payment is to be apportioned between the municipality or county and the railroad company or companies; also who shall supervise the work of construction. Upon the acceptance of this resolution or ordinance by resolution by the railroad company or companies through their directors, it shall constitute an agreement, valid and binding on the municipality or county and the railroad company or companies respectively. Such agreement shall thereupon be filed in the common pleas court of the county in which the crossing is located, for entry upon its records, whereupon it shall have the same force and effect as a decree of the court. (R. S. Sec. 3337-10; April 27, 1893, 90 v. 359.)

See State v. Amlin, 1 N. P. n. s. 517, 528; 14 L. D. 113 (1903); aff'd, 74 O. S. 447.

The provision of this section investing the agreement with the force of a decree of court is probably unconstitutional. But the court may enter a decree which will have the effect of a judicial determination as to the execution of the agreement and of its terms and conditions. Stockwell v. Railroad, 18 N. P. n. s. 29; 26 L. D. 211 (1915).

An answer by a railroad company, alleging that, because of conditions occurring after the execution of the agreement, it is unable to raise funds to pay its share of the cost, was held good against demurrer. Stockwell v. Railroad, 18 N. P. n. s. 29; 26 L. D. 21 (1915).

Where by error two crossings were omitted from an ordinance providing for the sale of bonds to pay the city's share of the cost, but such crossings had been specified in the original resolution of the council, and in the published notice of a referendum election, at which the issue of such bonds was approved by the electors, a curative ordinance, subsequently enacted, which includes such crossings renders the bond issue valid.

Cadwell v. Cleveland, 12 N. P. n. s. 483; 22 L. D. 306 (C. P. 1911).

The time limit of this section does not apply to a proceeding by a municipality under §§ 8874-8894. Rep. Atty. Gen. 1912, p. 1714.

Section 8867. (Necessary property, how acquired.) The land or property required to make the alteration in the street or highway necessitated by the proposed improvement, shall be purchased or appropriated by the municipality or county in the manner provided by law for the appropriation of private property for public use, and the land or property required to make the alteration in the railroad or railroads necessitated by the proposed improvement, shall be purchased or appropriated by the railroad company or companies in the manner provided for the appropriation of private property by such corporation. (R. S. Sec. 3337-11; April 27, 1893, 90 v. 361, § 4.)

Property may be appropriated by the municipality for the purpose of opening a new street from a railroad depot near the crossing to the crossing at its higher level. Morrison v. Cleveland, 17 C. C. n. s. 427 (1911).

Section 8868. (Apportionment of cost.) The cost of the construction of the improvement in the crossing, including the cost of land or property purchased or appropriated, and the payment of damages to abutting property shall be apportioned as follows: The railroad company or companies, if several railroads cross a public way at or near the same point, shall pay not less than sixty-five per cent and the municipality or county not more than thirty-five per cent of such cost. Within these limits the apportionment may be fixed by the agreement hereinbefore provided for. (R. S. Sec. 3337-12; April 27, 1893, 90 v. 361, § 5.)

Where the share of the county is twenty percent of the cost, and the remaining eighty percent is divided between two steam railroad companies and a street railway company, the apportionment is valid, although the share of the steam railroads aggregates less than sixty-five percent.

State v. Amlin, 1 N. P. n. s. 517; 14 L. D. 113 (1903); aff'd, 74 O. S. 417.

A certificate from the auditor, under G. C. § 3806, that money to meet the expenditure is in the municipal treasury to the credit of the fund, and not otherwise appropriated, is not required to validate a contract or obligation of the municipality to pay its share of the cost of elimination of grade crossings.

Cincinnati v. Waite, 12 N. P. n. s. 633 (1912).

Section 8869. (Cost of maintenance of bridge to be borne by county or state.) After the completion of the work, the crossings and approaches shall be kept in repairs as follows: When the public way crosses a railroad or railroads, or railroad or railroads and interurban railroad or interurban railroads, by an overhead bridge, the cost of maintenance must be borne by the county, or by the state of Ohio as may be provided by law. When the public way passes under a railroad or railroads, or railroad or railroads and interurban railroad or interurban railroads, the bridge and its abutments shall be kept and maintained by the railroad company or companies, or the railroad company or companies and interurban railroad company or companies, as the case may be, in such proportions as may be fixed by agreement between the parties or, in the absence of such agreement, in such proportions as may be fixed by the common pleas court of the county in which the improvement is located, and the public way and its approaches shall be maintained and kept in repair by the county in which they are situated, or by the state of Ohio as may be provided by law. (110 v. 241; R. S. Sec. 3337-13; April 27, 1893, 90 v. 361, § 6.)

Overhead crossings erected prior to the enactment of § 8863 et seq. should be kept in repair by the railway company. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1922, p. 1020.

Liability of railroad company for defective guard rails on overhead bridge. Railway Co. v. Hether, 91 O. S. 233.

Section 8870. (Bonds and tax levy.) For the purpose of raising money to pay its proportion of the cost of such improvement, the municipality or county may issue its bonds to the necessary amount, which bonds shall be of such denomination and payable at such place and times as the council or the commissioners determine, and bear interest not exceeding six per cent per annum, but not to be sold for less than their par value. A tax on the taxable property of the municipality or county not exceeding one-half mill in each year may be levied to pay the principal and interest of the bonds as they mature. After the improvement is completed, a tax may be levied by the municipality or county to pay the cost of maintaining and keeping in repair that part of the work required to be maintained and kept in repair by it. (109 v. 530; R. S. Sec. 3337-14; April 27, 1893, 90 v. 361, § 7.)

This act authorizes county commissioners to contract for a division of the cost of a bridge and to issue bonds, without reference to the emergency bridge fund, or the fact that sufficient funds are not in the county treasury.

State v. Amlin, 1 N. P. n. s. 517; 14 L. D. 113 (C. P. 1903); aff'd, 74 O. S. 447.

Injunction against issue of bonds by county commissioners without a referendum vote.

State v. Amlin, 1 N. P. n. s. 517; 14 L. D. 113 (1903); aff'd, 74 O. S. 447.

Sections 5635, 5636 relating to a special tax for the restoration of county bridges do not apply to bridges constructed under this act.

State v. Amlin, 1 N. P. n. s. 517; 14 L. D. 113 (1909); aff'd, 74 O. S. 447.

Bonds of municipalities issued to abolish grade crossings are subject to G. C. § 3940 et seq. Cleveland v. Cleveland, 16 C. C. n. s. 471 (1913); aff'd, no rep. 76 O. S. 594.

Section 8871. (Assessment and determination of damages.) All claims for damages by reason of such improvement, filed as hereinbefore provided, shall be assessed and determined as in other cases of public improvements within cities, wherein like claims are made, either before the beginning or after the completion of the proposed crossing improvement, as the council, or commissioners decide, when it is determined to proceed therewith. (R. S. Sec. 3337-15; April 27, 1893, 90 v. 362, § 8.)

The ascertainment of damages to property owners is provided for by this section.

Stoner v. Railway, 9 N. P. n. s. 337, 348; 20 L. D. 448 (C. P. 1909).

See East End, etc., Co. v. Cleveland, 1 N. P. n. s. 493; 14 L. D. 33 (C. P. 1903).

Elements of damage.

See notes to §§ 8885, 8865 and 8765.

Section 8872. (If company fails to comply with agreement.) If a railroad company fails to comply with any provision of an agreement entered of record in a common pleas court, as above provided, on application of a city solicitor or prosecuting attorney, stating the nature of its failure, the court shall make such orders and decrees to enforce the terms of the agreement, the requirements of law relating thereto, and to secure compliance therewith, by the railroad company, as it deems just and proper, and if necessary, may enjoin the company from the use of its track and the operation of its road on and over the crossing in question, until it complies with such order or decree as is made. (R. S. Sec. 3337-16; April 27, 1893, 90 v. 362, § 9.)

Section 8873. (Grade crossing on county line road.)

When a grade crossing is on a county line road, the commissioner of the counties in which such crossing is situated may join in all the proceedings necessary for the abolition of such grade crossing as hereinbefore provided, and that part of the cost of making such change in the crossing and of keeping it in repair which is not agreed to be paid by the railroad company or companies, shall be paid by the counties in equal proportions, and the money for such purpose be raised in accordance with the above provisions as to county road crossings. (R. S. Sec. 3333-17; April 27, 1893. 90 v. 362, § 10.)

Cited, Grinnell v. Commissioners, 6 C. C. n. s. 180, 182; 17 C. D. 118 (1904).

The highway may be diverted from its original location for a short distance.

Stoner v. Railway, 9 N. P. n. s. 337; 29 L. D. 448 (C. P. 1909).

Section 8874. (Powers as to grades above or below railroad tracks, erection of piers, etc.) Any municipal corporation may raise or lower, or cause to be raised or lowered, the grade of any street or way owned by it, either within or without its municipal limits, above or below railroad tracks, and may require any railroad company operating a railroad across such streets or ways to raise or lower the grade of its tracks and may construct ways or crossings above the tracks of any railroad, or require the railroad company to construct ways or crossings that are to be passed under its tracks. The word "railroad" shall include interurban railroads and the words "railroad company" shall include interurban railroad companies engaged in the operation of cars by electricity or other lawful motive power which said companies may adopt or use. Any municipality may require such railroad company to erect permanent piers, abutments or any other appropriate supports, in the ways, crossings, streets, roads or alleys, whenever in the opinion of council, the raising or lowering of the grade of any such railroad tracks, or the raising or lowering of the construction of such ways, crossings or other supports may be necessary, upon the terms and conditions hereinafter set forth. (May 3, 1913, 103 v. 502; May 31, 1911, 102 v. 507; March 23, 1909, 100 v. 77; May 2, 1902, 95 v. 356, § 1; R. S. Sec. 3337-17a.)

This act (§ 8874 et seq.) is constitutional.

Quinby v. Cleveland, 9 O. L. R. 313; 16 O. F. D. 583; 191 Fed. 68 (U. S. C. C. 1911).

See Railway v. Minneapolis, 232 U. S. 430 (1914); Railway v. Omaha, 232 U. S. 121 (1914).

While § 8863 et seq. apply only to elimination of grade crossings by agreement and § 8874 et seq. apply only to adversary proceedings, "yet the whole is one scheme of legislation having for its purpose the elimination of grade crossings where the security and convenience of the public require such elimination." Sandusky v. Railroad, 101 O. S. 225 (1920).

The authority of municipalities to eliminate grade crossings is an exercise of the police power which is a power continuing in its nature and not in any way limited by the extent of the grant or a franchise. Cincinnati v. Traction Co., 25 C. C. n. s. 513 (1916); dismissed, 96 O. S. 602.

Sections 8874 to 8882 relate only to streets and highways, and not to public grounds. These sections confer power upon municipalities to change existing occupancy of streets, but not to grant rights to occupy streets.

Railroad Co. v. Cincinnati, 76 O. S. 481, 499, 500 (1907).

The general policy of the state to avoid permanent obstructions in streets is not infringed by piers which do not interfere with travel.

Cincinnati v. Railway, 7 N. P. n. s. 81; 19 L. D. 74 (1908).

Under this section and § 8863, a municipality may alter or reconstruct an existing bridge, on which a railroad crosses a street above grade, to widen the street and extend it through the embankment supporting the tracks at the ends of the bridge.

Cadwell v. Cleveland, 12 N. P. n. s. 483; 22 L. D. 306 (C. P. 1911).

Section 8875. (Changes in location of public ways.)

When the council of a municipality deems it necessary in the abolishment of such grade crossings to change the location of any street, alley, road or way such council may relocate such street, alley, road or way or any part thereof, may vacate the whole or any portion of such street, alley, road or way abandoned by such relocation, and cause the improvements above contemplated to be placed in such relocated street, alley, road or way. (May 2, 1913, 103 v. 268; March 23, 1909, 100 v. 77, § 1; May 2, 1902, 95 v. 356, § 1; R. S. Sec. 3337-17a.)

Streets may be altered and relocated.

Cincinnati v. Railway, 7 N. P. n. s. 81; 19 L. D. 74 (1908).

Cincinnati v. Traction Co., 25 C. C. n. s. 513 (1916); dismissed, 96 O. S. 602.

Plow Co. v. Railway, 12 N. P. n. s. 81 (1912).

Section 8876. (Preparations of plans and specifications.)

The council of such municipality, for the purpose of making or causing such an improvement to be made, by ordinance may require the railroad company, in co-operation with the engineer of the municipality, or the engineer designated in such ordinance, to prepare and submit to such council, within three months, unless longer time is mutually agreed upon in writing, plans and specifications for such improvement, specifying the number, character and location of all piers and supports, which are to be permanently placed in any street or way, therein, specifying the grades to be established for the streets, and the height, character and estimated cost of any viaduct or way above or below any railroad track, and the change of grade required to be made of such tracks, including the side-tracks and switches. But in changing the grade of any railroad, no grade shall be required to exceed the established maximum or ruling grade governing the operations by engines of that division or part of the railroad on which the improvement is to be made, without the consent of the railroad company, nor shall the railroad company's tracks or such highway, street or way, be required to be placed below high water mark. (May 3, 1913, 103 v. 502; March 23, 1909, 100 v. 78, § 2; May 2, 1902, 95 v. 356, § 2; R. S. Sec. 3337-17b.)

The provisions of this section and § 8877, requiring that plans be prepared and agreed upon within a limited time are directory and not mandatory so far as they concern anyone except the municipality and the railroad company. The improvement can not be enjoined by a taxpayer because of failure to prepare or accept the plans within the time limited.

Cadwell v. Cleveland, 12 N. P. n. s. 483; 22 L. D. 306 (C. P. 1911).

The municipality or county commissioners must endeavor to reach an agreement with the railroad company as to location, plans and specifications, before appealing to the court. Arbaugh v. Railroad, 104 O. S. 110 (1922).

Section 8877. (When common pleas court to determine manner of improvement.) If at the expiration of three months from the passage of such ordinance, the railroad company has refused or failed to co-operate in the preparation of such plans and specifications or if the engineer of the municipality or engineer designated in such ordinance by council, and the railroad company fail to agree upon the plans and specifications for such improvement, then either the railroad company or municipal corporation may submit the matter of determining the method by which the improvement shall be made to the court of common pleas having jurisdiction in the county in which the municipality is situated. (March 23, 1909, 100 v. 78, § 2; May 2, 1902, 95 v. 356, § 2; R. S. Sec. 3337-17b.)

A part of the original of this section (95 v. 357), which provided for submission to the circuit court, was held invalid.

Cincinnati v. Railway, 7 N. P. n. s. 81; 19 L. D. 74 (1908).

The approval, by the railroad company, of plans and specifications, in a proceeding under § 8874 et seq. does not constitute such an agreement for the elimination of a grade crossing as to make applicable the procedure of § 8863 et seq. No resolution to proceed with the improvement under § 8866 is required. Rep. Atty. Gen. 1912, p. 1714.

Section 8878. (Who may petition the court.) Either the municipality or company after the expiration of three months from the passage of the ordinance may apply to such court of common pleas by petition accompanied by the necessary plans prepared by the municipality or railroad company asking that any grade crossing or grade crossings be abolished. Such plans must show the grades to be established for such streets, the changes to be made in the location of streets, alleys, roads or ways; the height, character and estimated cost of any viaduct or way above or below railroad tracks, and the number, character and location of piers, abutments and supports to be permanently located in the streets, alleys, roads or ways, in the municipality and the change of grade to be made in any railroad tracks, including side tracks and switches. (May 2, 1913, 103 v. 269; March 23, 1909, 100 v. 78, § 2; May 2, 1902, 95 v. 356, § 2; R. S. Sec. 3337-17b.)

Section 8879. (Procedure.) Upon the filing of such petition, accompanied by plans, the railroad company or municipality opposed to the prayer thereof, or directly interested therein, shall have the right, within sixty days thereafter to file an answer to such petition and to present other plans for the abolition of such crossing or crossings. After the expiration of such period of sixty days the court shall proceed to a hearing upon the petition and any answers that have been filed, which hearing must be advanced upon the docket upon motion of either party. After examination of all plans presented to it and after hearing the evidence, the court shall make a finding as to whether or not the security and convenience of the public require that alterations be made in the crossing or crossings or in the approaches thereto, or in the location of the railroad or railroads or the public way, or any grades thereof, so as avoid a crossing at common grade, or that such crossings, or any of them be discontinued with or without building a new way in substitution therefor, and whether such plans or any of them are reasonable and practicable. (March 23, 1909, 100 v. 78, § 2; May 2, 1902, 95 v. 356, § 2; R. S. Sec. 3337-17b.)

Each party is entitled to present plans and modifications thereof, and the court may adopt the most reasonable and most practicable plan. Sandusky v. Railroad, 101 O. S. 225 (1920).

Where it is impracticable to eliminate the grade crossing by a vertical raising of the tracks or vertical lowering of the street, the court may adopt a plan requiring a reasonable lateral diversion. Sandusky v. Railroad, 101 O. S. 225 (1920).

Section 8880. (Order of the court.) If the court finds that the public security and convenience require such changes to be made, and that the plans presented by the petitioner or any of the parties answering thereto are reasonable and practicable, it shall order the changes to be made in accordance with the most reasonable and practicable plan presented to the court. The municipality shall be required to make such changes in the streets, roads or highways as may be necessary, and the railroad company or companies be required to make the changes necessary in the tracks and roadbed, in order to comply with the rulings of the court. If more than one railroad company own tracks on the crossing in question, the court shall apportion the part of the expense payable by the railroad companies between or among such companies. But if the court finds that the security and convenience of the public do not require that alterations be made in such crossing or crossings, or that none of the plans are reasonable or practicable, the improvement shall not be made upon such plans. (March 23, 1909, 100 v. 78, § 2; May 2, 1902, 95 v. 356; R. S. Sec. 3337-17b.)

Section 8881. (Appeal and error.) Either party feeling aggrieved by the decision and order of the court may appeal or prosecute error as in other civil cases, the hearing of which shall be advanced upon the docket upon motion of either party. (March 23, 1909, 100 v. 78, § 2; May 2, 1902, 95 v. 356; R. S. Sec. 3337-17b.)

A judgment of the trial court authorizing a crossing at grade will not be reversed, unless it appears to be an abuse of discretion. Railway v. Lakewood, 18 C. C. n. s. 521 (1911).

Section 8882. (How orders of court enforced.) If a municipality, or railroad company refuses or neglects to comply with the orders or findings made by the court under the provisions hereof, the court may enforce its orders or findings by either mandamus or mandatory injunction or as for contempt of court, as the necessity of the case may require, upon the application of either party to such proceedings. (March 23, 1909, 100 v. 78, § 2; May 2, 1902, 95 v. 356, § 2; R. S. Sec. 3337-17b.)

Section 8883. (Apportionment of cost.) The cost of constructing the improvement authorized, including the making of ways, crossings or viaducts, above or below the railroad tracks, and the raising or lowering of the grades of the railroad tracks and side tracks for such distance as may be required by such municipality and made necessary by such improvement, together with the cost of land or property purchased or appropriated, and damages to owners of abutting property, or other property, shall be borne thirty-five per cent. by the municipality and sixty-five per cent. by such railroad company or companies. The municipality shall have a right of action against any such railroad company for the recovery of the sixty-five per cent. and such costs payable by it, with interest from the time they become due. Such municipality and railroad company may agree as to what part of the work shall be done by the railroad company, and also fix the amount to be allowed or credited to the company for doing the work. Such railroad company shall be entitled to deduct from its sixty-five per cent. of the cost of the improvement the expense incurred by it in the change of its grade required by the municipality or made necessary by it under such specifications, but only in case the amount of expense has been agreed upon in writing between the municipality and the railroad company. If the amount of work done by the company, or made necessary by reason of such change of grade on lowering or raising its tracks, exceeds sixty-five per cent. of the cost of the improvement, then it shall have the right to recover the amount with interest in excess of sixty-five per cent. of the expenses, in an action at law against the municipality. (May 10, 1910, 101 v. 377; April 2, 1906, 98 v. 191, § 3; May 2, 1902, 95 v. 356, § 3; R. S. Sec. 3337-17c.)

Share of street railway. § 8892.

Under an ordinance imposing 65 percent of the cost upon the railroad company and 35 percent upon the municipality, an additional credit to the railroad for the actual cost of material and labor, plus ten percent for superintendence and the use of tools, is proper.

Quinby v. Cleveland, 9 O. L. R. 313; 16 O. F. D. 583; 191 Fed. 68 (U. S. C. C. 1911).

See State v. Amlin, 1 N. P. n. s. 517; 14 L. D. 113 (1903); aff'd, 74 O. S. 417.

As a part of the same improvement, a municipality may widen the street, and bear the entire expense of the street widening, without violating this section, where the street widening is not necessary to the abolishment of the grade crossing. Stockyards Co. v. Cincinnati, 1 Ohio App. 452; 20 C. C. n. s. 139; 24 C. D. 251; affirming, 14 N. P. n. s. 529 (1913).

A certificate from the auditor, under G. C. § 3806, that money to meet the expenditure is in the municipal treasury to the credit of the fund, and not otherwise appropriated, is not required to validate a contract or obligation of the municipality to pay its share of the cost of elimination of grade crossings.

Cincinnati v. Waite, 12 N. P. n. s. 633; 23 L. D. 22 (1912).

Section 8884. (Notice of intention to make improvement.) Before any work shall be done which may be required in the making of such proposed improvement, the council of such municipality shall by ordinance or resolution require notice of its intention to make such improvement in accordance with the plans and specifications to be given, after the manner provided by law, to the owner of each piece of property abutting upon any street, highway, or public place, the grade of which will be changed by the proposed improvement. (April 2, 1906, 98 v. 191, § 3; May 10, 1902, 95 v. 356, § 3; R. S. Sec. 3337-17c.)

See East End, etc., Co. v. Cleveland, 1 N. P. n. s. 493; 14 L. D. 33 (1903).

Section 8885. (Claims for damages and judicial inquiry.)

The provisions of law relating to the manner of service of such notices, the filing of claims for damages, and the effect of failure to file such claims, shall apply to the notice herein provided and to all claims for damages by reason of such proposed improvement. After the expiration of the time provided by law for the filing of such claims, the council of such municipality, when claims have been filed within the time limited, shall determine by ordinance or resolution whether such claims are to be judicially inquired into, as hereinafter provided, before commencing, or after the completion, of the proposed improvement. Thereupon, the mayor or solicitor shall make application for a jury, in the manner provided by law to the common pleas or probate court, of the county in which the municipality, or the larger part of it, is situated, either before commencing, or after the completion, of the improvement, as the council determines, and all proceedings upon such application shall be governed by the laws relating to the application provided for in other cases of city improvements. (April 2, 1906, 98 v. 191, § 3; May 10, 1902, 95 v. 356, § 3; R. S. Sec. 3337-17a.)

Damages to abutting owners are of two classes: damages from change of grade of the street, and damages by reason of piers and abutments in the street.

Quinby v. Cleveland, 9 O. L. R. 313; 16 O. F. D. 583; 191 Fed. 68 (U. S. C. C. 1911).

See note to § 8765.

East End, etc., Co. v. Cleveland, 1 N. P. n. s. 493; 14 L. D. 33 (1903).

Abutting property is property abutting on the street. As to piers and abutments, § 8888 applies and the right must be acquired by purchase or appropriation. As to change of grade the law relating to change of grade for other purposes controls.

Quinby v. Cleveland, 9 O. L. R. 313; 16 O. F. D. 583; 191 Fed. 68 (U. S. C. C. 1911).

A municipality may proceed with the improvement, leaving the matter of compensation to abutting owners, for damages for the change of grade, until the improvement is completed. But the railroad company must acquire the right to erect piers and abutments before the work proceeds. Ib.

Damage claims may be settled and paid without judicial determination of their amount. Ib.

A provision in an ordinance that the municipality shall not settle damage claims without the consent of the railroad company does not render the ordinance invalid. Ib.

Where a subway is constructed under the track immediately adjoining the highway, which is not vacated except at the grade crossing, and a cul de sac thus formed between the tracks and the entrance to the subway, whereby travel was diverted from the cul de sac, the owner of a business property, abutting on the cul de sac, may recover damages caused by the depreciation in value.

Schimmelmänn v. Railway Co., 83 O. S. 356 (1911).

An owner of property abutting on the railroad is not entitled to damages resulting from inability to connect with the railroad by a switch as he had done prior to the improvement. Pratt v. Cleveland, 191 Fed. 65 (C. C. 1908).

Where the vacation of a street, the appropriation of land for a street adjacent thereto (and between the vacated street and the theretofore abutting lands) and the appropriation of the vacated street for a railroad above grade, are contemporaneous and simultaneous transactions, the land abuts upon the vacated street for the purpose of fixing the compensation and damages of the owner. Port Clinton v. Fall, 99 O. S. 153 (1919).

Damages can not be recovered for less convenient means of ingress and egress, where the same inconvenience is suffered by the general public, although in less degree.

Schmidt v. Cleveland, 1 Ohio App. 264; 15 C. C. n. s. 589; 24 C. D. 7 (1913); aff'd, no rep. 91 O. S. 410.

Kinnear Mfg. Co. v. Beatty, 65 O. S. 264 (1901).

See note to § 8765.

Damages for change of grade may be recovered by an abutting owner. Lewis v. Douglass, 12 Ohio App. 386; 31 O. C. A. 13 (1919).

Section 8886. (Payment of railroad company's proportion of cost.) The council of such municipality, may by ordinance prescribe the manner and time or times of payment by such railroad company or companies of the proportion of the cost of such improvement which the railroad company or companies shall be required to pay. (April 2, 1906, 98 v. 191, § 3; May 2, 1902, 95 v. 356, § 3; R. S. Sec. 3337-17c.)

Section 8887. (Height of viaduct.) Any way, crossing or viaduct so constructed over a railroad track or tracks in any municipality shall be of such height as not to be of less than twenty-one feet in the clear from the top surface of the rails in the railroad track to the lowest point or projection of such overhead way, crossing or viaduct, unless such company consents to, or the common pleas court orders a less height. But in no event shall such court order a less height than sixteen feet and three inches. (March 23, 1909, 100 v. 80, § 4; May 2, 1902, 95 v. 356, § 4; R. S. Sec. 3337-17d.)

See § 8903.

Section 8888. (How necessary land acquired.) The land or property required to make alterations in the street, road, alley or other way or any right, title or interest in a public street, alley or other way, required for the erection of piers or supports in any municipality, necessitated by the proposed improvement, shall be purchased or appropriated by the municipality or company after the manner provided by law for the appropriation of private property for public use. The land or property required to make any alteration in a railroad or railroads or any right, title or interest in a public street, road, alley or way required to permit the erection of piers or supports in any municipality, and structure necessitated by the proposed improvements, shall be purchased or appropriated by the railroad company or companies after the manner provided for the appropriation of private property by such corporation. But the municipality shall not appropriate land held or owned by a railroad company and necessary for the use of the company in maintaining and operating this road. (May 2, 1913, 103 v. 269; March 23, 1909, 100 v. 80, § 5; May 2, 1902, 95 v. 356, § 5; R. S. Sec. 3337-17e.)

See note to § 8885.

The right to the circulation of air, passage of light and an unobstructed view over a street, together with the relative harmony of the street with the abutting lots, is an incorporeal hereditament and is property within the meaning of this section. Port Clinton v. Fall, 99 O. S. 153 (1919).

Property may be appropriated by a municipality for the purpose of opening a new street from a railroad depot near the crossing to the crossing at its higher level. Morrison v. Cleveland, 17 C. C. n. s. 427 (1911).

Section 8889. (Cost of maintenance.) After the completion of the work the crossings and approaches shall be kept in repair as follows: When the public way crosses a railroad by an overhead bridge, the cost of maintenance must be borne by the municipality. When the public way passes under the railroad, the bridge and its abutments shall be kept and maintained by the railroad company, and the public way and its approaches be maintained and kept in repair by the municipality in which they are situated. (May 2, 1902, 95 v. 359, § 6; R. S. Sec. 3337-17f.)

Section 8890. (Bond issue. Application of law.) For the purpose of raising the money to pay the proportion of the cost of such improvement payable by the municipality, the bonds of the municipality may be issued in the necessary amount and shall be of such denomination and payable at such place and times as the council determines, and bear interest not exceeding six per cent per annum, and shall not be sold for less than par value.

This act and the sections of the General Code as hereby amended [G. C. §§ 8870 and 8890] shall apply to all pending proceedings for the issuance of bonds to defray the cost of eliminating grade crossings, and shall apply to any bonds which have heretofore been authorized but remain unsold. (109 v. 530; 103 v. 269; 100 v. 80, § 7; 95 v. 359, § 7; R. S. Sec. 3337-17g.)

Where the cost will raise the net indebtedness of the municipality beyond the limit authorized by statute, bonds can not be issued without the approval of the electorate.

Cleveland v. Cleveland, 7 N. P. n. s. 249 (1907); aff'd, 76 O. S. 594.

Bonds of municipalities issued to abolish grade crossings are subject to G. C. § 3940 et seq. Cleveland v. Cleveland, 16 C. C. n. s. 471 (1913); aff'd, no rep. 76 O. S. 594.

Section 8891. (Tax levy.) A tax on the taxable property of the municipality in addition to all other levies now allowed by law may be levied to pay the principal and interest of such bonds as they mature. After completion of the improvement, a tax in addition to all other levies allowed by law may be levied by the municipality to pay the cost of maintaining and keeping in repair that part of the work required to be maintained and kept in repair by the municipality. (March 23, 1909, 100 v. 80, § 7; May 2, 1902, 95 v. 359, § 7; R. S. Sec. 3337-17g.)

Section 8892. (Street railway company to bear share of expense.) In case the track or tracks of any street railway company or companies within the limits of a municipality where the improvements hereinbefore authorized are made, cross at grade or otherwise a public street or the right of way of any railroad company or companies at a point where, under the plans and specifications above provided for, it has been determined to construct such improvements, the municipality by ordinance may require such street railway company or companies to bear a reasonable proportion of the cost assumed by it, in making the improvement, not exceeding one-half the portion payable by the municipality; and it shall have a right of action against such street railway company or companies for that part of the cost which the ordinance requires it or them to bear. Such part of the cost also shall be a lien upon all the property, real and personal, of such company or companies situated in the same county with the municipality from and after the date of the passage of such ordinance. (April 2, 1906, 98 v. 192, § 8; May 2, 1902, 95 v. 359, § 8; R. S. Sec. 3337-17h.)

See State v. Amlin, 1 N. P. n. s. 517; 14 L. D. 113 (1903); aff'd, 74 O. S. 417.

Sections 8892-8894 are constitutional. Traction Co. v. Akron, 23 C. C. n. s. 497 (1912); aff'd, 91 O. S. 382.

Where the municipality and street railway company are unable to agree upon the apportionment of the cost, the municipality may, by ordinance, fix the amount to be paid by the company, but, in an action to recover the same, recovery will be for only such amount as the jury shall determine to be a reasonable share of the cost. Traction Co. v. Akron, 23 C. C. n. s. 497; 26 C. D. 644 (1912); aff'd, 91 O. S. 382. See Cincinnati v. Traction Co., 25 C. C. n. s. 513 (1916); dismissed by supreme court, 96 O. S. 602.

A street railway franchise exempting the company from payment of any part of future elimination of grade crossings is invalid. Carpenter v. Traction Co., 13 N. P. n. s. 81; 23 L. D. 588 (1912); s. c., 88 O. S. 625.

Section 8893. (Time and manner of payment of proportion.) The council of such municipality may by ordinance provide the mode and time or times of payment for the proportion of the cost of such improvement to be borne by such street railway company or companies. (April 2, 1906, 98 v. 192, § 8; May 2, 1902, 95 v. 359, § 8; R. S. Sec. 3337-17h.)

Section 8894. (Repairs.) Such street railway company or companies shall keep in repair at its or their own expense all tracks affected by such improvement and all construction work of whatever character, necessary to support such tracks. (April 2, 1906, 98 v. 192, § 8; May 2, 1902, 95 v. 359, § 8; R. S. Sec. 3337-17h.)

Section 8895. (Crossings to be above or below grade.) Except as hereinafter provided, all crossings, hereafter constructed, whether of highways by railroads, or of railroads by highways, shall be above or below the grade thereof. (April 25, 1904, 97 v. 546, § 1; R. S. Sec. 3337-17j.)

This act (§ 8895 et seq.) does not apply to interurban railways.

Commissioners v. Traction Co., 75 O. S. 548 (1907).

In re Avon Beach, etc., R. Co., 3 N. P. n. s. 561; 16 L. D. 87 (1905).

This act does not authorize a municipality to grant to a railroad company the right to occupy a public common or landing with an elevated railroad structure.

Railroad Co. v. Cincinnati, 76 O. S. 481 (1907).

Until an order of the common pleas court is made under § 8899, a municipality may be enjoined from opening a street across tracks at grade. Railroad v. Lima, 89 O. S. 442 (1913).

This section does not preclude county commissioners from making an agreement, authorized by G. C. § 8763, permitting a railroad to cross highways above or below grade. Ritter v. Railway, 17 C. C. n. s. 4 (1908); reversing, 6 N. P. n. s. 161; 18 L. D. 846.

Private rights of way are not "highways" under this section. Railroad Co. v. Realty Co., 92 O. S. 96 (1915).

Section 8896. (Railroad crossings.) Every railroad company building a new line of road, under its charter powers, across a highway, shall construct it above or below the grade of the highway, unless in the manner hereinafter provided, allowed to build it at grade. Such company may exercise the power contained in its charter and the general laws, for altering the grade and location of highways in order to avoid grade crossings. (April 25, 1904, 97 v. 546, § 2; R. S. Sec. 3337-17k.)

The words "general laws" in this section permit a resort to § 8763. Ritter v. Railway, 17 C. C. n. s. 4 (1908); reversing, 6 N. P. n. s. 161; 18 L. D. 846.

Section 8897. (Highway crossings.) Every municipality or other authority hereafter building a highway across an existing railroad, shall construct it above or below the grade thereof, unless in the manner hereinafter provided allowed to build at grade. The cost of such work shall be paid, thirty-five per cent. by such municipality or other authority, and sixty-five per cent. by the company owning the railroad. The word "railroad" shall include interurban railroads and the words "railroad company" shall include interurban railroad companies engaged in the operation of cars by electricity or other lawful motive power which said companies may adopt or use. The method or procedure for the construction of such highway and the manner of construction thereof shall be governed by the statutes regulating the abolition of grade crossings. (May 3, 1913, 103 v. 502; April 25, 1904, 97 v. 546, § 3; R. S. Sec. 3337-17l.)

The grade crossing act is constitutional. Railroad v. Martins Ferry, 92 O. S. 157 (1915); Railway v. Cincinnati, 93 O. S. 496, 497 (1915); affirming, 4 Ohio App. 443; 23 C. C. n. s. 289.

Where a railroad company has acquired entire control of the privileges, tracks and property and assumed the liabilities of another company, both companies are liable for the share of the cost imposed on the railroad. Cincinnati v. Railway, 4 Ohio App. 443; 23 C. C. n. s. 289 (1915); affirmed, 93 O. S. 496, 497.

The grade crossing act (§ 8897 et seq.) did not repeal or modify § 3677, and appropriation proceedings therein authorized can not proceed until it is judicially determined that the appropriation will not unnecessarily interfere with the reasonable use of the property to be crossed by the street. The court of common pleas may, in one proceeding, hear and determine all questions under §§ 3677 and 8899. Railroad v. Martins Ferry, 92 O. S. 158 (1915).

A certificate from the auditor, under G. C. § 3806, that money to meet the expenditure is in the municipal treasury to the credit of the fund, and not otherwise appropriated, is not required to validate a contract or obligation of the municipality to pay its share of the cost of elimination of grade crossings.

Cincinnati v. Waite, 12 N. P. n. s. 633 (1912).

Section 8898. (Grade crossings.) When it is desired by a railroad company constructing a new railroad, or in changing or in altering the location of one heretofore constructed, or by any municipality or authority constructing a new highway that the railroad or highway should be so constructed that the railroad and highway will cross each other at the same grade or if it is desired to divert, change or alter an existing public highway, a petition shall be presented by the party desiring such construction or diversion, to the common pleas court of the county within which the crossing or diversion is situated, and if it is a highway asking for the right to cross a railroad, the railroad company shall be the defendant. If it is a railroad company asking for the right to cross a highway, or divert, change or alter any existing public highway, in a municipality, such municipality shall be the defendant. If outside the municipality, the trustees of the township and the board of county commissioners of the county shall be the defendants. Summons shall be served and the rule days and the rights of the defendants to plead shall be the same as in civil actions in such court. (April 25, 1904, 97 v. 546, § 4; April 3, 1908, 99 v. 58, § 4; R. S. Sec. 3337-17m.)

Section 8899. (Petition, what to contain.) Such petition shall set forth the reasons that are supposed to make such change or alteration necessary or desirable; and the court of common pleas thereupon shall have the jurisdiction of the parties and the subject matter of the petition, and may proceed to examine the matter, either by evidence, by reference to a master commissioner or otherwise. If satisfied that such construction is reasonably required to accommodate the public, or to avoid excessive expense, in view of the small amount of traffic on the highway or railroad, and considering the future uses to which the highway may be adapted, or in view of the difficulties of other methods of construction, or for other good and sufficient reasons, the court shall make an order or orders permitting such crossing at a grade or diversion to be established. In such order, or orders, in its discretion, the court may prescribe that gates, signals, watchmen, or other safeguards shall be maintained by the railroad company, in addition to the signals and safeguards prescribed by statute, and all such orders shall be binding upon the parties and be observed by them. (April 25, 1904, 97 v. 546, § 4; April 3, 1908, 99 v. 58, § 4; R. S. Sec. 3337-17m.)

This section is constitutional. Railway Co. v. Akron, 18 C. C. n. s. 250 (1909).

The court may grant permission to cross at grade, conditional upon the acquirement by the railroad company, by agreement or condemnation, of the right to do so. Such agreement or condemnation need not precede the order of the court under this section.

In re Avon Beach, etc., R. Co., 3 N. P. n. s. 561; 16 L. D. 87 (C. P. 1905).

A municipality may be enjoined from constructing or opening a highway across tracks at grade until an order of court is obtained under this section. Railway v. Lima, 89 O. S. 442 (1913).

An order permitting a municipality to cross at grade is within the discretion of the common pleas court, and will, ordinarily, be reversed only for abuse of discretion. Railway v. Lakewood, 18 C. C. n. s. 521 (1911).

An order of the court of common pleas under this section must be obtained before a proceeding will lie to appropriate the use of a street at grade. A petition for appropriation which does not allege such an order is subject to a motion to make definite and certain.

Railway v. East Liverpool, 10 N. P. n. s. 157; 55 O. L. B. 173 (Pr. Cr. 1909).

See Toledo v. Railway Co., 9 C. C. n. s. 399; 19 C. D. 658 (1907); aff'd, 78 O. S. 429.

In re Avon Beach, etc., R. Co., 3 N. P. n. s. 561; 16 L. D. 87 (C. P. 1905).

Section 8900. (Costs and expenses.) All costs and expenses of the proceedings shall be ascertained and allowed by the court of common pleas and be paid by such party as it decides; or by it apportioned between the parties, and may be collected by execution out of such court. (April 25, 1904, 97 v. 546, § 4; April 3, 1908, 99 v. 58, § 4; R. S. Sec. 3337-17m.)

Section 8901. (Appeals.) Appeals may be taken and error prosecuted from the decision of the common pleas court to the court of appeals in such proceedings, as in civil actions. The decision of that court shall be final and conclusive. In both the common pleas court and court of appeals proceedings brought hereunder shall be advanced over other civil causes. (May 6, 1913, 103 v. 425; April 25, 1904, 97 v. 546, § 4; April 3, 1908, 99 v. 58, § 4; R. S. Sec. 3337-17m.)

Section 8902. (Additional tracks and switches.) Nothing in sections eighty-eight hundred and ninety-five to eighty-nine hundred and one both inclusive, shall prevent a railroad company from laying additional tracks at previously existing crossings, or from constructing switches, sidings and branch lines from their lines of road to a mill, factory, or other manufacturing establishment, or other industrial plant, or an elevator, wharf or pier, or gravel, marl, or clay bed, or any mine, or from laying additional track to increase their yard facilities at terminal or other points across public highways at the grade thereof. Such signposts and signals shall be employed for the protection of such crossings as are by law prescribed for railroad crossings of public highways. (April 25, 1904, 97 v. 547, § 6; R. S. Sec. 3337-170.)

Under this section a track may be built to several mills, factories, etc., and over several streets. This section does not limit the construction of a track over a single street to a single mill, factory, etc. Cincinnati v. Railway, 15 N. P. n. s. 219 (1912); aff'd, no rep. 89 O. S. 416.

A spur track 3,200 feet long, from which numerous private sidings will branch off to neighboring factories is not a new line of railway, and may be authorized by the council, under this section. Cincinnati v. Railway, 15 N. P. n. s. 219 (1912); aff'd, no rep. 89 O. S. 416.

See State v. Toledo, etc., Co., 1 C. C. n. s. 513; 14 C. D. 321 (1903); aff'd, 69 O. S. 550.

State v. Railroad Co., 40 O. S. 504 (1884).

State v. Railroad Co., 50 O. S. 239 (1893).

Reeves v. Treasurer of Wood County, 8 O. S. 333 (1858).

A crossing by a spur track leading to factories, commercial houses and docks, is within the exception as to tracks for increasing "yard facilities at terminal or other points" and such crossing may be at grade.

Toledo v. Railroad Co., 9 C. C. n. s. 399; 19 C. D. 658 (1907); aff'd, 78 O. S. 429.

In an action brought in the court of common pleas to enjoin the laying of a crossing at grade, under a judgment of the probate court, it is error to exclude testimony offered to show that the crossing is within the exception of this section.

Toledo v. Railroad Co., 9 C. C. n. s. 399; 19 C. D. 658 (1907); aff'd, 78 O. S. 429.

Section 8903. (Height of over railroads.) Except cases in which the state railroad commission finds that such construction is impracticable, bridges, viaducts, overhead roadways, foot-bridges, wire or other structure hereafter built over the track or tracks of a railroad or railroads, by a county, municipality, township, railroad company, other corporation or person, shall be not less than twenty-one feet in the clear from the top of the rails of such track or tracks, to such wire or other structure or to the bottom of the lowest sill, girder or crossbeam, and the lowest downward projection on the bridge, viaduct, overhead roadway or foot-bridge. (April 16, 1900, 94 v. 297, § 1; May 21, 1894, 91 v. 365; R. S. Sec. 3337-18.)

See § 8887.

Penalty for violation.

See § 12546.

The jurisdiction of the utilities commission extends to regulating the overhead structures in city street railroad crossings, independent of any interlocking device connected therewith.

Opin. Atty. Gen., 39 W. L. B. 115 (1898).

Duty of railroad to employes.

Lake Shore, etc., Ry. Co. v. Shook, 16 C. C. 665; 9 C. D. 9 (1895).

In the absence of a statute requiring it, or of evidence showing that it is usual, a railroad company is not required to construct its bridges so as to permit a person to stand upon them in safety while a train is passing.

Erie R. Co. v. McCormick, 69 O. S. 45 (1903).

Power to close bridge for repairs. Where it is the duty of a railroad company to erect and maintain a bridge in a street under which its road is passing, and such bridge becomes dangerous and out of repair, the company has the same right as the city to close the bridge for repairs, although it constitutes part of the public street.

Toledo, etc., Ry. Co. v. Mammet, 13 C. C. 591; s. c., 6 C. D. 244 (1895).

Duty to maintain bridge. Although there may be some doubt as to the original liability of a company to build a bridge across its road, if it in fact builds a bridge and maintains it for forty years, it will be held liable to continue to maintain the same.

Toledo v. Lake Shore, etc., Ry. Co., 17 C. C. 265; 9 C. D. 135 (1893).

Bridges over right of way—removal by municipal authorities.

Where a railroad is constructed in a cut across a highway, and the highway is restored by bridging across, such bridge constitutes a part of the highway and may be removed, when the council deem it necessary for the public convenience to make the crossing at grade.

Railroad Co. v. Defiance, 52 O. S. 262 (1895); aff'd, 167 U. S. 88.

Low bridge over highway—remedy. Where an injunction is asked to restrain a railroad from building a bridge over a turnpike which would leave only a space between the surface of the road and the bridge not sufficient for the purposes of the public using such road, and it appears that much work has been done in building such bridge before objection was made, and that the cost of raising such bridge would involve a heavy expense, and that the difficulty could be remedied at much less expense and trouble by lowering the surface of the road at the point in question, the court will order that the latter be done at the expense of the railroad company.

Wooster Turnpike Co. v. Railroad Co., 15 C. C. 268; 8 C. D. 269 (1897).

Section 8904. (Exceptions.) The exception in the next preceding section shall not apply to the structures therein named when built over the main tracks of railroads; and in cases wherein it is allowed, the railroad commission shall file in its office a written statement of the facts upon which it relied in finding the required construction impracticable. (April 16, 1900, 94 v. 297, § 1; May 21, 1894, 91 v. 365; R. S. Sec. 3337-18.)

Section 8905. (Costs.) In case of the rebuilding of bridges or the other structures above provided for, if the structure is at or in line with a public street or highway, and a cross-street or streets, the cost of making such streets or highways conform to a new grade, with all damages to owners of property abutting thereon because of such change shall be determined and paid, as follows: The railroad company or its assigns shall pay all costs or damages resulting from the raising or building of its bridges or structures in the line of a street or highway at a greater height than heretofore was required. If such company is only part owner of such structure it shall pay its proportionate share of the cost of such change in grade and damages. Should a railroad company, or its assigns, hereafter raise the grade of its track or tracks under any of such structures not owned by it, thereby causing a bridge or structure to be put at a higher grade when rebuilt, the company shall pay all costs and damages thereby made necessary. (April 16, 1900, 94 v. 297, § 1; May 21, 1894, 91 v. 365; R. S. Sec. 3337-18.)

“Said structures” refer to § 8903 and not to structures erected under § 8834. Railway v. Railway, 18 N. P. n. s. 289 (1915).

Section 8906. (Plans and specifications to be filed with railroad commission.) Every railroad company, public or private corporation, or person building or permitting to be built, any such bridge, viaduct, overhead roadway, foot bridge, wire and other structure, before proceeding therewith, shall file with the state railroad commission, plans and specifications therefor, and have its permit for the erection of such structure or wire. (May 21, 1894, 91 v. 366, § 2; R. S. Sec. 3337-19.)

Section 8907. (How enforced.) Observance of the provisions of the four next preceding sections may be enforced by an injunction on complaint of any person, corporation or board interested therein. (May 21, 1894, 91 v. 366, § 2; R. S. Sec. 3337-19.)

Penalty for violation.
See § 12546.

CHAPTER 3.

DRAINAGE AND FENCES.

Drainage.		§ 8914.	Cattle-guards and crossings.
§ 8908.	Waterways must be provided.	§ 8915.	Temporary crossings.
§ 8909.	Proceedings to enforce company to provide a waterway.	§ 8916.	Land owner may construct fence at company's expense.
§ 8910.	When probate judge may let work.	§ 8917.	Owner may repair fence.
§ 8911.	Sale of work and proceedings.	§ 8918.	When preceding sections do not apply.
§ 8912.	Fees of officers.	§ 8919.	When company may build fence at landowner's expense.
Fences.		§ 8920.	Forfeitures for not constructing and repairing fences.
§ 8913.	Fences.	§ 8921.	Right to use culvert, etc., for cattle-way.

DRAINAGE.

Section 8908. (Waterways must be provided.) Except where the road-bed of a railroad extends through or by swamp land, the company or person operating the road shall made and keep open ditches, or drains along such road-bed of depth, width, and grade sufficient to conduct water accumulating at the sides of the road-bed from the building or operation of the road, to some proper outlet. (R. S. Sec. 3342; May 7, 1869, 66 v. 335, § 1.)

This section is valid in so far as the accumulation of water is injurious to the contiguous lands, or detrimental to the public, but invalid where such water is not injurious to such lands or the public.

Railroad Co. v. Keith, 67 O. S. 279 (1902); reversing 21 C. C. 669.

Railway Co. v. Eby, 67 O. S. 552 (1903).

Only the company owning the railroad, and not the lessees thereof, can be subjected to ditch assessments.

Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Pausch, 35 W. L. B. 1 (1896).

Agreement to maintain ditch. Where a county ditch was constructed over and along the ditch which a railroad company had agreed to open and maintain along the right of way granted by the plaintiff, under a contract made when the grant was made, the railroad company was released from further obligation.

Railway Co. v. Henry, 14 C. C. n. s. 97 (1910).

In an action for damages against the railroad company for failure to maintain such ditch, the question of whether the construction of the county ditch, with the consent of plaintiff, had not carried a large amount of water which did not naturally flow there should be submitted to the jury.

Railway Co. v. Henry, 14 C. C. n. s. 97 (1910).

Under an agreement to maintain a culvert and crossings necessary to enable the parties "to reasonably occupy their lands, to carry off surplus water," etc.; and to keep open on the hillside of the road a sufficient drain "for the discharge of the drainage," the company was held liable for damages caused by an obstruction of a lower drain through which the drainage of such parties was discharged.

Madden v. Railway Co., 36 O. S. 46 (1880).

Specific performance of a contract for the maintenance of a waterway may be decreed against the railway company.

Bell v. Railroad Co., 3 C. C. 31; 2 C. D. 19 (1887).

An agreement can not be rescinded on the ground of insufficient consideration where two suits, for damages, were brought thereon by the party seeking rescission and recovery was had in one suit and denied in the other suit. Forsythe v. Railway, 88 O. S. 514 (1913).

Liability for damages by flood waters. Damages for injury to land by flood waters can not be recovered from a railroad company where the flood was unprecedented, and other causes to produce the injury intervened.

B. & O. R. Co. v. Simpson, 12 C. C. n. s. 185 (1906).

An owner of land, abutting on a river, through which a creek flows and empties into the river, may, as against proprietors on the opposite side of the river, change the channel and mouth of the creek upon his own land and for his own protection or convenience, if, in so doing, he exercises reasonable care not to injure the rights of others.

Railroad Co. v. Carr, 38 O. S. 448 (1882).

If the opposite bank of the river be subject to inundation and overflow in case of unusual but not unprecedented floods in the river, such change in the mouth of the creek can not be made if increased danger of inundation and overflow on the opposite bank of the river might be anticipated, in the exercise of ordinary care and prudence.

Railroad Co. v. Carr, 38 O. S. 448 (1882).

Where such change is made without fault or carelessness, and a levee on the opposite bank is broken or washed away by an unusual, but not unprecedented flood, whereby the crops growing on adjacent lands are destroyed, it is damnum sine injuria, notwithstanding a sandbar in the river at the new mouth of the creek may have contributed to the damage.

Railroad Co. v. Carr, 38 O. S. 448 (1882).

Where a railroad company constructed an embankment containing sufficient culverts to take care of the drainage, and the municipality subsequently constructed a cross embankment dividing the basin into two parts, leaving one part with insufficient drainage and without constructing culverts in the cross embankment, the railroad company is not liable to the municipality for injuries caused by insufficient drainage of the part so cut off. Cincinnati v. Railway, 1 Ohio App. 461; 17 C. C. n. s. 137 (1913); aff'd, no rep. 92 O. S. 510.

Liability for assessments for county ditch. A railroad company may enjoin the levy of an assessment against its right of way for a county ditch, where the right of way has sufficient drainage and the county ditch would be of no benefit.

Railway v. Commissioners, 15 C. C. n. s. 236 (1912).

Section 8909. (Proceedings to enforce company to provide a waterway.) After ten days' notice or request to a ticket or other agent of the company or person operating a railroad, to provide such drain or ditch, preferred by a person authorized to institute the proceedings hereinafter provided for, if the requirements of the foregoing section are not complied with, any owner or tenant of land contigious to such railroad aggrieved by such neglect may give notice of the fact, in writing, to the probate judge of the county in which it occurs designating therein the place or places on such road where drains or ditches have not been made. Upon receipt of such notice the probate judge shall appoint a commission, of three disinterested freeholders of such county, who with the county surveyor, shall proceed to the places designated in the notice, and, if upon inspection, it is found that such requirements are not complied with, the commission or a majority thereof, shall report the fact to the judge who shall keep a record of such proceedings. He also shall designate a time within which such ditches or drains shall be made or opened and forthwith notify the company or person operating such road, in writing, whose duty it shall be to make or open such ditches or drains within the time specified. (R. S. Sec. 3343; May 7, 1869, 66 v. 335, § 2.)

This section was held unconstitutional in

Railroad Co. v. Keith, 67 O. S. 279 (1902); reversing 21 C. C. 669.

Section 8910. (When probate judge may let work.) If such company or person neglects to comply with the notification of the probate judge, he shall forthwith give notice that the work of making or opening the ditches or drains will be let to the lowest bidder at the time and place designated in the advertisement. Such advertisement shall be for three consecutive weeks, in one or more of the weekly newspapers published in such county. (R. S. Sec. 3344; May 7, 1869, 66 v. 335, § 3.)

This section was held unconstitutional in

Railroad Co. v. Keith, 67 O. S. 279 (1902); reversing 21 C. C. 669.

Section 8911. (Sale of work and proceedings.) At the time and place so specified, such judge shall sell the job or jobs of making or opening such ditches or drains to the lowest bidder, and take from him a sufficient bond, with surety, for the performance thereof. Upon its completion to his satisfaction, he shall give the bidder a certificate therefor, stating the amount due for the work. On its presentation to the auditor of the county, he forthwith shall place the amount so certified upon the county tax duplicate, against the company, together with all costs and expenses for inspection by the commission and surveyor, notices, advertisements, sale of work, making contract therefor, approval of the work, and other costs, and interest on the amount certified to be due, from the time the work is approved until the amount can be collected by the county treasurer. Such tax shall be collected as other taxes, and be paid to the persons entitled thereto on the warrant of the auditor on the treasurer. (R. S. Sec. 3345; May 7, 1869, 66 v. 335, § 4.)

This section was held unconstitutional in

Railroad Co. v. Keith, 67 O. S. 279 (1902); reversing 21 C. C. 669.

Section 8912. (Fees of officers.) The probate judge, commissioners, and surveyor shall be paid for their services such costs, fees and expenses as are provided by law for costs, fees, and expenses of county commissioners and others under proceedings relating to ditches. (R. S. Sec. 3346; May 7, 1869, 66 v. 335, § 5.)

This section was held unconstitutional in

Railroad Co. v. Keith, 67 O. S. 279 (1902); reversing 21 C. C. 669.

FENCES.

Section 8913. (Fences.) A company or person having control or management of a railroad shall construct and maintain in good repair on each side of such road, along the line of the lands of the company owning or operating it, a fence sufficient to turn stock. When such fence is constructed of barbed wire, or separate lateral strands not connected by interwoven wire, or cross perpendicular wire not more than fifteen inches apart, there shall be securely fastened to the posts, at the top thereof, at right angles thereto, at least one board, not less than one and one-eighth inches thick and five inches wide, and extending the entire length thereof. (R. S. Sec. 3324; April 3, 1908, 99 v. 58; May 18, 1894, 91 v. 297; April 8, 1891, 88 v. 295; April 20, 1887, 78 v. 199; R. S. 1880; April 18, 1874, 71 v. 85, §-1.)

Section 8913 to 8915 are constitutional, founded on a sound, public policy, and equally obligatory on railroad companies whether organized under charters granted prior or laws enacted since the constitution of 1851 went into effect.

Railroad Co. v. Infirmary, 32 O. S. 566, 570 (1877).

This act does not apply to interurban railways. Brindle v. Railway, 4 Ohio App. 135; 21 C. C. n. s. 552 (1915).

Duty to fence. Sufficiency of fence. This section does not require railroad companies to fence against persons. The fence required is one sufficient to turn stock.

L. S. & M. S. Ry. v. Lidtke, 69 O. S. 384 (1904).

See Devereaux v. Thornton, 4 W. L. B. 355 (1879); s. c., 2 Clev. L. R. 177; 10 W. L. B. 266.

This section requires the construction and maintenance of fences within the limits of cities and villages where they do not obstruct streets, highways or other public grounds.

Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. McConnell, 26 O. S. 57 (1875).

The duty of a railroad company is not discharged by contracting with another party to perform it, when the performance itself is insufficient.

Gill v. Atlantic, etc., Ry. Co., 27 O. S. 240 (1875).

Railway Co. v. Allen, 40 O. S. 206 (1883).

Inclosures of railroads under this act must be separate and distinct from the inclosures of adjoining proprietors.

Marietta, etc., R. Co. v. Stephenson, 24 O. S. 48 (1873).

This section does not require railroad companies to see that gates are kept closed.

Megrue v. Lennox, 59 O. S. 479 (1898).

Didman v. Railway Co., 7 N. P. 380; 5 L. D. 140; 31 W. L. B. 240.

See note to § 8914, Defenses.

This section does not refer to railroad land other than its line of road and right of way, and does not require such other land to be fenced.

Railroad Co. v. Kinz, 68 O. S. 210, 225 (1903).

The obligation to construct and maintain fences upon both sides of railroads, imposed by this act, is not limited to owners and occupiers of adjoining lands, but extends to the public generally.

Marietta, etc., R. R. Co. v. Stephenson, 24 O. S. 48 (1873).

Railway Co. v. Allen, 40 O. S. 206 (1883).

Gill v. Atlantic, etc., Ry. Co., 27 O. S. 240 (1875).

Railroad Co. v. Scudder, 40 O. S. 173, 175 (1883).

Where the tracks of two railroad companies are parallel and adjoining, it is the duty of the companies to maintain a fence between their respective rights of way.

Hall v. Railway Co., 14 L. D. 74 (C. P. 1903).

The duty to fence is imposed by statute only. At common law there was no duty to fence.

Railway Co. v. Phillips, 81 O. S. 453, 458 (1910).

Seymour v. Railway Co., 44 O. S. 12, 19 (1886).

Kerwhacker v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 3 O. S. 172 (1854).

Agreement by railroad company to fence. Where in proceedings to condemn land the parties enter into an agreement of record whereby the company bound itself to build and maintain fences, the agreement is valid and binding, and runs with the land so as to be binding on the assignees or grantees of both parties.

Huston v. Cincinnati, etc., R. R. Co., 21 O. S. 235 (1871).

Where a contract for a right of way required the railroad company to construct a cattle-pass, but the deed of the right of way was silent as to the cattle-pass, which had been constructed before the execution of the deed, it was held that the purchaser of the railroad, on foreclosure, could not fill up the cattle-pass, possession by the grantor constituting notice.

Lowe v. Railway, 12 C. C. 743; 4 C. D. 85 (1894).

Breach of agreement. Remedies. Where the owner of land, by written contract, agreed to give to a railroad company the perpetual right of way through the same, at a stipulated price, which was paid to him, with a provision in the contract that when the road should be completed the company should fence the same, held, that after the road is completed, the owner of the land can not, upon failure to put up the fence, eject the company from the land.

Hornback v. Cincinnati, etc., R. R. Co., 20 O. S. 81 (1870).

See § 8916.

Where a landowner agreed to release a right of way in consideration of a certain sum of money and the construction of road crossings and cattle-guards, and the company took possession before receiving a deed or constructing the crossings or guards, the landowner has an equitable lien upon the property sold, as well for damages for not constructing the crossings and guards as for the unpaid purchase money, and the landowner may have a remedy by compelling specific performance or by enforcing his lien.

Dayton, etc., R. R. Co. v. Lewton, 20 O. S. 401 (1870).

— Damages. In an action by the vendee of the original owner against the vendee of the company, for failure to build fences and crossings, the rule of damages is the amount of injury to the use and enjoyment of the adjoining land, occasioned by the want of such fences and crossings during the time the railroad or right of way was owned by the defendant.

Huston v. Cincinnati, etc., R. R. Co., 21 O. S. 235 (1871).

The abutting owner can not recover the cost of herding his animals on the abutting unfenced land, nor loss of profits from dairy cows by reason of inability to pasture them at night. Church v. Railroad, 10 Ohio App. 80; 30 O. C. A. 44 (1918); motion to certify record overruled, 16 O. L. R. 404.

Decisions under former acts.

Railroad Co. v. McElroy, 35 O. S. 147 (1878).

Railroad Co. v. Shultz, 43 O. S. 270, 274 (1885).

Partition fences under former act.

See Railroad Co. v. Miami County Infirmary, 32 O. S. 566 (1877).

Sandusky, etc., R. R. Co. v. Sloan, 27 O. S. 341 (1875).

Haxton v. Pittsburg Ry. Co., 26 O. S. 214 (1875).

Liability of railroad companies.

See § 8914 and note.

Section 8914. (Cattle-guards and crossings.) Before operating such road, such company or person shall maintain at every point where a public road, street, lane or highway used by the public, crosses such railroad, safe and sufficient crossings, and on each side of such crossings cattle-guards sufficient to prevent domestic animals from going upon such railroad; and such company or person shall be liable for all damages sustained in person or property by reason of the want or insufficiency of such fence, crossing or cattle-guard, or neglect or carelessness in the construction thereof, or in keeping them in repair. (R. S. Sec. 3324; April 3, 1908, 99 v. 58; May 18, 1894, 91 v. 297; April 8, 1891, 88 v. 295; April 20, 1887, 78 v. 199; R. S. 1880; April 18, 1874, 71 v. 85, § 1.)

This section applies where the construction of the highway precedes that of the railroad. It does not apply where a street is extended over existing tracks.

Railway Co. v. Troy, 68 O. S. 510, 514 (1903).

This section does not refer to railroad land other than its line of road and right of way.

Railroad Co. v. Kinz, 68 O. S. 210, 225 (1903).

Crossings.

See also §§ 8763 to 8766.

Where the grade of the track is higher than that of the road the approaches need not be built by the railroad company so far on both sides of the crossing that there would be practically no incline on the approaches, so that the approaches are brought practically to a level with the railway crossing. It had a right to make inclines, and where the inclines are made safe and sufficient for ordinary and regular purposes of travel, that is a sufficient compliance with the statutes.

Lake Shore, etc., R. R. Co. v. Brazzill, 13 C. C. 622 (1895); s. c., 6 C. D. 363.

Under this section the company is liable for all damages sustained in person or property in any manner by reason of the want or insufficiency of a crossing over its tracks. The word "crossing" is used in a limited or restricted sense, and includes only that part of the structure immediately over and across the tracks, and sufficient space on either side to make a sufficient and safe way over such tracks.

Lynch v. Railway Co., 20 C. C. 248; 11 C. D. 243 (1899).

Where a private road extends across the track and right of way of a railroad company and connects with a public highway, the company is required to maintain across such private road suitable fences, or provide other protection against injuries which may result from animals passing from such highway through the private road on or along the railroad track.

Railroad Co. v. Cunningham, 39 O. S. 327 (1883).

Cattle-guards in towns and station yards. This section, so far as it relates to cattle-guards, may be construed as allowing exceptions, required by public necessity and convenience, and the proper use of a station yard by the company, but when the company is thus relieved, it is its duty to construct the guards at the first point where they will not interfere with the needs of the public and the company; and in an action against the company for damages, the question whether the guards are properly located and placed is for the jury.

Railroad Co. v. Newbrander, 40 O. S. 15 (1883).

Railroad Co. v. Cunningham, 39 O. S. 327 (1883).

Pierce v. Andrews, 13 C. C. 513; 7 C. D. 105 (1896).

To come within the above exception it is necessary that three elements be present: necessity (1) of the public, (2) of the railroad company and (3) of its employees, that the cattle-guards be omitted.

Norfolk, etc., Ry. Co. v. Vallery, 6 C. C. n. s. 348; 17 C. D. 658 (1905); aff'd, 75 O. S. 564.

A railroad company is not entitled to compensation for making or maintaining cattle-guards.

Railway Co. v. Sharpe, 38 O. S. 150 (1882).

Liability of railroad companies. Where the railroad company owning the track permits another company to run trains thereon, both companies are liable.

Berchold v. Railway, 1 Cleve. L. R. 314 (1878).

— To whom liable. The liability of a railroad company under this section is not limited to owners and occupiers of abutting lands but is "for all damages sustained in person or property."

Railway Co. v. Allen, 40 O. S. 206 (1883).

Railroad Co. v. Stephenson, 24 O. S. 48 (1873).

Gill v. Railway, 27 O. S. 240 (1875).

Railroad Co. v. Scudder, 40 O. S. 173, 175 (1883).

Hall v. Railway Co., 14 L. D. 74 (C. P. 1903).

A railroad company may be liable to its employes. As a general rule a railway engineer is not chargeable as a matter of law with knowledge of a break in the fences along the line of the road through which cattle may stray upon the track. Where, after discovering that cattle are upon the track, he does all that a man of ordinary prudence would do to avoid an accident, the derailment that followed, resulting in his death, can not be said to be due to his contributory negligence.

Isley v. Railroad Co., 5 C. C. n. s. 669; 17 C. D. 785 (1905).

— For injuries occurring on tracks of another company. The liability of a railroad company under this section is limited to loss or injuries occurring upon its own right of way. Where stock went through a defective fence over the tracks of the railroad company and upon the track of another company, where it was killed, the railroad company was held not liable.

Railway Co. v. Phillips, 81 O. S. 453 (1910).

As to liability of company upon whose tracks the stock was killed, see

Didman v. Railway Co., 7 N. P. 380; 5 L. D. 140; 31 W. L. B. 240 (C. P. 1894).

Railway Co. v. Wood, 47 O. S. 431 (1890).

Hall v. Railway, 14 L. D. 74 (C. P. 1903).

— For injury to stock running at large. In an action under this section, it is a sufficient answer to allege that the plaintiff did not live along the line of the railway, nor were his cattle grazing in any inclosed field adjacent thereto. That said plaintiff knowingly, willfully and unlawfully permitted his cattle to run at large on the highways and uninclosed lands adjacent to defendant's said railroad, whereby said cattle went upon said road and were accidentally killed.

Pittsburg, etc., Ry. Co. v. Methaven, 21 O. S. 586 (1871).

Railway Co. v. Wood, 47 O. S. 431, 436 (1890).

Where cattle are running at large without the fault of the owner, he is not guilty of contributory negligence in case they are injured.

Marietta, etc., R. R. Co. v. Stephenson, 24 O. S. 48 (1873).

If the owners of cattle permit them to run at large in the vicinity of an uninclosed railroad track, and do not choose to avoid danger to their cattle by keeping them within their own inclosures, they can ask no more than that the agents of the railroad company, in the legitimate conduct of its business, running its trains with a speed regulated by the grade of its road, the capacity of its locomotive power, and the safety of persons and property carried, shall, with due regard to the safety of persons and property in their charge, being the paramount consideration, exercise, what, "in that peculiar business," would be ordinary and reasonable care to avoid unnecessary injury to animals casually coming upon their uninclosed railroad. The company is not bound to take into consideration the possibility of cattle being on the track.

Central Ohio R. R. Co. v. Lawrence, 13 O. S. 66 (1861).

Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Elliott, 4 O. S. 474 (1855).

Kerwhacker v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 3 O. S. 172 (1854).

Bellefontaine, etc., R. R. Co. v. Schruyhart, 10 O. S. 116 (1859).

Bellefontaine, etc., Co. v. Bailey, 11 O. S. 333 (1860).

Didman v. Michigan, etc., R. R. Co., 31 W. L. B. 240 (1894).

Cranston v. Cincinnati, etc., R. R. Co., 1 Handy, 193 (1854).

If the road is properly fenced the company is held to the exercise of ordinary care only in the running of trains to prevent the killing of animals. Where the road is not properly fenced, a higher degree of care is required.

Gill v. Atlantic, etc., Ry. Co., 27 O. S. 240 (1875).

A railroad company in the operation of its trains, is bound to use ordinary care to avoid injury to domestic animals trespassing on the track.

Railroad Co. v. Smith, 22 O. S. 227 (1871).

Railroad Co. v. Weisel, 55 O. S. 155 (1896).

Railway Co. v. Slater, 24 W. L. B. 2 (1890).

Where the contributory negligence of the owner of the animals is the proximate cause of the injury, he can not recover, although the operation of the train was without ordinary care.

Railroad Co. v. Weisel, 55 O. S. 155 (1896).

But where the negligence of the owner of the animals was not the proximate cause of the injury, he may recover.

Railroad Co. v. Elliott, 4 O. S. 474 (1855).

The mere fact that cattle have strayed, without right, on the track of a railroad, neither establishes that character of negligence which precludes a claim for injury done by running the locomotive against them, nor justifies a want of proper care to save and preserve them from destruction.

Cranston v. Cincinnati, etc., R. R. Co., 1 Handy, 193 (1854).

Defenses.

— That railroad company was not negligent. This section is to be reasonably construed, and where damage results from defects (occurring without the fault or neglect of such companies) in an otherwise sufficient fence, there is no liability.

Railroad Co. v. Schultz, 43 O. S. 270 (1885).

Railroad Co. v. Bailey, 11 O. S. 333 (1860).

— Agreement by landowner to build or repair fence. Where the owner of land through which a railroad runs agrees with the railroad company, for a valuable consideration, to build and keep up good and sufficient fences, and fails to do so, and on account of the insufficiency of such fences his animals stray upon the track and are injured, he is not entitled to recover for such injury, although the insufficiency of the fences was caused by casualty and without negligence on his part, unless such injury is shown to have been intentional, or the result of gross carelessness on the part of the agents and servants of the company.

Lake Erie, etc., R. R. Co. v. Weisel, 55 O. S. 155 (1896).

Pittsburg, etc., Ry. Co. v. Smith, 26 O. S. 124 (1875).

Cincinnati, etc., R. R. Co. v. Waterson, 4 O. S. 424 (1854).

Railway Co. v. Heiskell, 38 O. S. 666 (1883).

See Easter v. Little Miami R. R. Co., 14 O. S. 48 (1862).

And where stock of a third person gets upon the track, by reason of the fence not being built by the landowner, the company is not liable, in the absence of negligence.

Railway Co. v. Wood, 47 O. S. 431 (1890).

See Railway Co. v. Allen, 40 O. S. 206 (1883).

See note to § 8918.

Where the defense is that the expense of fencing was included in the damages awarded in the appropriation proceeding (see § 8918), but the record of the appropriation proceeding is silent on the subject, no presumption arises that the expense of fencing was so included.

Railroad Co. v. Hoffhines, 46 O. S. 643 (1889).

When a land owner is bound by an agreement made by his predecessor in title,

See Hulshizer v. Railway, 13 N. P. n. s. 497 (C. P. 1912).

——. Gates left open. Where a company puts in a private crossing with gates, and stock wanders through the gate upon the company's track and is killed, the duty of keeping the same closed devolves primarily upon the landowner, and not upon the company, and evidence showing a gate was carelessly left open is not admissible on the issue as to the condition of the fence.

Megrue v. Lennox, 59 O. S. 479 (1898).

Where gates to permit passage to and from fields across the track are constructed at the request of the landowner, and where he uses them exclusively, the company owes him no duty to see that they are kept closed.

Didman v. Michigan, etc., R. R. Co., 31 W. L. B. 240 (1894); s. c., 7 N. P. 380; 5 L. D. 140.

The same rule applies to a third person whose cattle break into a field in which gates have been left open.

Didman v. Railway Co., 7 N. P. 380; 5 L. D. 140; 31 W. L. B. 240.

See B. & O. R. Co. v. Wood, 47 O. S. 431.

——. Statute of limitations. An action against a railroad company to recover damages for killing or injuring a domestic animal which had strayed upon its tracks, and was killed or injured without fault or negligence of the railroad company in operating its train, but solely by the neglect to fence the road as required by law, is founded upon "a liability created by statute, other than a forfeiture or penalty," and is barred in six years.

Seymour v. Railway Co., 44 O. S. 12 (1886).

Roice v. Railway Co., 5 N. P. n. s. 7; 17 L. D. 505 (C. P. 1907).

——. Knowledge by landowner of defective fence. Where it is the duty of the railroad company to fence, it is not contributory negligence for a landowner to turn his stock into a field which he knew to be insufficiently fenced.

Railway Co. v. Smith, 38 O. S. 410 (1882).

Railroad Co. v. Scudder, 40 O. S. 173 (1883).

Pittsburg, etc., Ry. Co. v. Methven, 21 O. S. 586 (1871).

See under old partition fence act,

Railroad Co. v. Infirmary, 32 O. S. 566 (1877).

Sandusky, etc., R. Co. v. Sloan, 27 O. S. 341 (1875).

But where railroad employes, engaged in repairing or rebuilding a defective fence on the line where the fence had always been located, are ordered off the premises by the landowner, who claimed that the line of the fence was not the true line, and who continued to use the land as a pasture with knowledge that the fence is defective and dangerous, without revoking his warning to the company or taking steps to determine the true line, and his stock is injured in the loose barbed wire of the fence, he can not recover.

Railroad Co. v. McIllyar, 77 O. S. 391 (1908).

——. That railroad company had no notice of condition of fence. A railroad company can not escape responsibility by showing that it had no notice of the condition of a fence.

Railway Co. v. Smith, 38 O. S. 410 (1882).

Railroad Co. v. Shultz, 43 O. S. 270, 273 (1885).

Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Reamer, 24 W. L. B. 222 (1890).

——. Breachy and unruly animals. An owner of breachy and unruly animals may recover for their injury or loss provided the animals were at large without his fault, and he has used that reasonable care and precaution in restraining them which a prudent and cautious man would use under like circumstances.

Railway Co. v. Howard, 40 O. S. 6 (1883).

Pleading. The facts upon which the company's liability depends must be stated in the petition, and, if not admitted, must be established by proof. An allegation that the defendant was, by law, bound to fence and inclose its railroad, tenders an immaterial issue, and is not to be taken as true because not denied.

Baltimore, etc., R. R. Co. v. Wilson, 31 O. S. 555 (1877).

Proof. In an action against a railroad company to recover damages for killing live stock, the plaintiff must prove affirmatively that want of ordinary care on the part of the company or its employes caused the injury. Such inference does not arise from the mere fact that the animal was killed.

Railroad Co. v. McMillan, 37 O. S. 554 (1882).

Railway Co. v. Heiskell, 38 O. S. 666 (1883).

Bellefontaine, etc., R. R. Co. v. Bailey, 11 O. S. 333 (1860).

Where one of the issues in an action is whether a fence is sufficient to turn stock, it is error to permit witnesses, who show no other qualifications than that they had seen the fence, to give to the jury their opinions as to the sufficiency of the fence to turn stock.

Railroad Co. v. Schultz, 43 O. S. 270 (1885).

An expert may testify whether, in view of the distance between the cattle and the engine, it was possible to avoid injury.

Bellefontaine, etc., R. R. Co. v. Bailey, 11 O. S. 333 (1860).

The fact that an insufficient fence has for several weeks been maintained by a railroad company along its right of way is sufficient to justify a jury in finding it guilty of negligence; and the fact that the plaintiff's stock had, during all such time, been kept in a field adjoining the right of way, without escaping through such fence and passing upon the railroad track, is not sufficient to excuse the company from such neglect. Where the immediate means or cause of such stock passing over such fence and upon the railroad track is that, recently prior thereto, a board or rail had become detached and fallen from the fence, without the knowledge of the company, such company is not excused from liability where there is evidence to justify the jury in finding that such special defect was attributable to the generally defective condition of the fence.

Railroad Co. v. Schultz, 43 O. S. 270 (1885).

Section 8915. (Temporary crossings.) In the case of a road in process of construction, or a proposed road which passes through inclosed land, the company or person having control thereof during its construction, shall provide suitable crossings for the owner or occupant of each farm, and make and keep in repair fences along the line of such road through such inclosed fields, and protect crops growing thereon. When the company or person agrees with the owner of the lands through which a railroad passes, that he is to build and keep in repair any portion of the fencing, and if such fencing be destroyed or damaged by fire from passing trains or by the elements, the company or person owning or operating such road, shall rebuild or repair such fence, if the property holder demands it. If a railroad company fails or refuses to construct a fence in the manner hereinbefore provided, after having received written notice so to do from the owner or occupant of lands through which the road passes, then, after thirty days from the time of serving such notice upon the agent of such company nearest such lands, such owner or occupant may proceed to construct it, and the company shall be liable to such person for the cost thereof, together with the attorney's fees as in the next following section provided. This applies to all fences now built, as well as those hereafter constructed. (R. S. Sec. 3324; April 18, 1874, 71 v. 85, § 1; R. S. 1880; April 20, 1887, 78 v. 199; April 8, 1891, 88 v. 295; May 18, 1894, 91 v. 297; April 3, 1908, 99 v. 58.)

Section 8916. (Land owner may construct fence at company's expense.) If such company or person neglects or refuses to construct a fence, as hereinbefore provided, the owner of land abutting on the line of the land of the railroad may construct it so far as his land abuts on the railroad lands. When he has completed the fence he may present for payment a sworn itemized account of the expense thereof, including materials and labor, to the agent of the company for receiving and shipping freight at the station nearest to the tract of land so fenced. If such company or person neglects or refuses for thirty days, to pay the account, the land owner may recover from the owner or lessee of the road, the reasonable cost of such fence, and in addition thereto, if recovery is had for an amount not less than the amount of the verified itemized account as presented to such corporation or person, all reasonable attorney fees not to exceed the sum of twenty-five dollars to be assessed and awarded by the court or jury trying the issue. (R. S. Sec. 3325; April 3, 1908, 99 v. 59; April 18, 1874, 71 v. 85, § 1.)

An abutting owner who has constructed a fence may, under this section, recover of the company the reasonable cost and expense thereof, together with the value of the use and occupation of his premises during the time such fence is being constructed or repaired, but he must do all he can to confine his loss to the minimum, and he can not recover for damages he might have avoided.

Millhouse v. Railway Co., 7 C. C. 466; 4 C. D. 682 (1893); aff'd, 55 O. S. 684.

See Railway v. Bosworth, 46 O. S. 81 (1888).

Section 8917. (Owner may repair fence.) When the fence is completed the company or person shall keep it in good repair, and if such company or person permits any part of the fence on the line of its road to get out of repair, or it is damaged or destroyed by fire or the elements, so that it will not turn stock, the owner of the land abutting on the railroad lands where the fence is out of repair may notify the agent of the company for receiving and shipping freight at the station on the road nearest to the place where it is defective, that a portion of the fence on the line of the road is out of repair, stating where, how, and the probable cost of repairing it. If such company or person fails for twenty-four hours thereafter, to repair or replace the fence so that it will turn stock, the owner of the land may furnish materials and repair or replace it, and present to such agent, for payment, a sworn itemized account of the expense thereof, including materials and labor, and if this be not paid within thirty days thereafter such land owner may recover from the owner or lessee of the road the reasonable expense of such repairs, and in addition thereto, attorney's fees as is provided for in the next preceding section. (R. S. Sec. 3326; April 3, 1908, 99 v. 58; April 18, 1874, 71 v. 85, § 1.)

Section 8918. (When preceding sections do not apply.)

The provisions of the preceding sections relating to fences shall not apply to any case in which compensation for building a fence has been or may hereafter be taken into consideration, and estimated as a part of the consideration to be paid for the right of way, so far as the fence has been or may be settled or paid for; nor shall such sections affect in any manner, any contract or agreement between a railroad company, or person having the control and management of a railroad, and the proprietors or occupants of lands adjoining for the construction or maintenance of fences, and cattle-guards. (R. S. Sec. 3329; April 18, 1874, 71 v. 85, § 1; March 25, 1859, 56 v. 62, § 4.)

See note to § 8860.

Agreements by landowner to build or repair fences. Occasional repairs by a company to fences, which by contract it was the duty of the landowner to repair, do not release the landowner from his duty to maintain and repair.

Railway Co. v. Heiskell, 38 O. S. 666 (1883).

— When covenant runs with the land. Where a railroad company makes a deed poll of land in fee along which its right of way is located, "subject to the condition that said grantee, his heirs and assigns, shall make and maintain good and sufficient fences on each side of the right of way of the railroad as now located and built, . . . which condition and obligation shall be perpetually binding on the owners of the land." the grantee, by accepting the deed, will be deemed to have entered into an express undertaking to perform the condition contained in the deed, and such undertaking will run with the land and become obligatory upon a subsequent owner by purchase from the grantee of the company.

Hickey v. Railway Co., 51 O. S. 40 (1894).

In such case the company will not have a right of action against the grantee for failure to repair, after he has ceased to be the owner of the land by conveying it to another.

Hickey v. Railway Co., 51 O. S. 40 (1894).

A written agreement by the grantor of the right of way to a railway company to fence it on each side through his lands will not affect the right of a subsequent purchaser to require the company to fence its road, where the purchase was made without actual or constructive notice of the existence of such agreement. Such agreement not being recorded, the mere use and occupation of the right of way by the company and its successors for the purpose of a railroad will not constitute constructive notice of the existence of such agreement.

Railway v. Bosworth, 46 O. S. 81 (1888).

Where it is stipulated in a deed poll that the grantee, his heirs and assigns, shall build and perpetually maintain a fence on the line between the land granted and other lands owned by the grantor, and the parties to such deed, at the time of its execution, contemplate the subdivision of the granted premises into building or town lots, and their subsequent sale, the burden of maintaining such fence will not attach to or run with lots which do not abut on the line of the proposed fence.

Walsh v. Barton, 24 O. S. 28 (1873).

Where the covenant runs with the land the grantee of the original owner, whose duty it was to fence, can not recover the cost of fencing.

Warner v. Baltimore, etc., R. R. Co., 31 O. S. 265 (1877).

Where a landowner by duly recorded deed conveyed a right of way and covenanted for himself, his heirs and assigns, to erect and maintain a fence on each side of such way, a lessee of his grantee would be so far bound by the covenant that he could not claim from the railroad company a higher degree of care to avoid injury to a horse than if the covenant had been kept.

Easter v. Little Miami R. R. Co., 14 O. S. 48 (1862).

An agreement requiring the railroad company to build a crossing within one year after completion of the road is not a covenant running with the land, specifically enforceable against a successor railroad company, several years thereafter, where the agreement contained no covenant requiring the successor to build or maintain the crossing.

Zens v. Railway, 14 N. P. n. s. 202; 23 L. D. 182 (C. P. 1912).

Where a contract for a right of way required the railroad company to construct a cattle pass, but the deed of the right of way was silent as to the cattle pass, which had been constructed before the execution of the deed, it was held that the purchaser of the railroad, on foreclosure, could not fill up the cattle pass, possession by the grantor constituting notice.

Lowe v. Railway, 12 C. C. 743; 4 C. D. 85 (1894).

— As a defense to railroad company in action for injury to stock.

See note to § 8914.

Compensation for fencing included in award in appropriation proceeding. Where the defense, in an action against a railroad company for failing to maintain a fence, is that the expense of fencing was included in the compensation awarded in the appropriation proceeding, but the record of the appropriation proceeding is silent on the subject, no presumption arises that the expense of fencing was so included.

Railroad Co. v. Hoffhines, 46 O. S. 643 (1889).

Section 8919. (When company may build fence at land-owner's expense.) If an owner of lands abutting on the line of lands of a company, who is legally bound to build or repair the fence dividing his lands from the lands of the company, neglects or refuses to build or repair such fence within the time in which he is bound to build or repair it, the company may build or repair such fence, and present an itemized account of the cost of labor and materials so expended, to the person thus bound, for payment. If it be not settled or paid within thirty days thereafter, the company may recover from such person the reasonable cost of such labor and materials. (R. S. Sec. 3330; April 18, 1874, 71 v. 85, § 1.)

Section 8920. (Forfeitures for not constructing and repairing fences.) A company or person having the control and management of a railroad, neglecting or refusing to construct fences, cattle-guards, or public crossings, or to keep them in repair, as hereinbefore prescribed, after thirty days' previous notice or request to construct them, made in writing by any person, shall forfeit and pay, for each and every day such company or person so refuses or neglects, a sum not exceeding fifty dollars per day, to be recovered in a civil action, in the name of the state, for the use of the county in which suit is brought. (R. S. Sec. 3331; March 25, 1859, 56 v. 62, § 5.)

A state court is without power to enforce payment of the penalty under this section against a railroad out of funds, in the hands of a receiver appointed by a federal court.

Rep. Atty. Gen. 1911-1912, p. 724.

Section 8921. (Right to use culvert, etc., for cattle-way.) An owner of land through which a railroad is constructed, and upon which there is a culvert, waterway, or opening through the embankment of the railroad, of sufficient height for such purpose, may use such culvert, waterway, or opening, as a stock or cattle-way, under the track of the road, so as to permit stock to pass and re-pass. But the land-owner shall build and maintain all necessary fences on both sides of the opening, and not, by use, or otherwise, permit the foundations of structures about such opening to be injured or interfered with. (R. S. Sec. 3332; R. S. 1880.)

Contract for cattle pass.

Lowe v. W. & L. E. R. R. Co., 12 C. C. 743, 4 C. D. 85 (1894).

Contract for waterway; specific performance.

See Bell v. Dayton, etc., R. R. Co., 3 C. C. 31; 2 C. D. 19 (1887).

CHAPTER 4.

TRAINS AND EQUIPMENT.

- § 8922. Passenger trains must stop at certain stations.
 § 8923. Forfeiture.
 § 8924. Posting time of arrival of trains.
 § 8925. Forfeiture.
 § 8926. Waiting rooms must be maintained; toilet rooms in connection therewith.
 § 8927. Duty of railroad commission.
 § 8928. Forfeiture.
 § 8929. Movable bridge between passenger cars required.
 § 8930. Penalties for violation of preceding section.
 § 8931. Enforcement of two preceding sections.
 § 8932. Heating apparatus for cars.
 § 8933. Forfeiture under preceding section.
 § 8934. Lighting of passenger cars.
 § 8935. Forfeiture under preceding section.
 § 8936. Distance from station platform to step on passenger cars.
 § 8937. Forfeiture under preceding section; penalty.
 § 8938. Equipment of passenger trains with fire extinguishers.
 § 8939. Extinguishers to be approved by railroad commission.
 § 8940. Designation of cars, place and manner of installing extinguisher.
 § 8941. Failure to provide fire extinguishers; penalty.
 § 8942. Telegraph and telephone wires.
 § 8943. Forfeiture under preceding section.
 § 8944. Self-cleaning ash dump pans.
 § 8945. Contributory negligence.
- Headlights.
- § 8945-1. Headlight provisions.
 § 8945-2. Inspection by commission.
 § 8945-3. Penalty.
 § 8945-4. Lights on front and rear of car required. Penalty.
 § 8945-5. Penalty.
 § 8945-6. Enforcement.
- Couplers and Brakes.
- § 8949. Power brakes for locomotives and cars.
- § 8950. Automatic couplers.
 § 8951. Grab-irons.
 § 8951-1. Automatic or foot power doors required on steam locomotive engines.
 § 8951-2. Penalty.
 § 8951-3. Enforcement and prosecution.
 § 8951-4. Footboards on local, switching, etc., locomotives.
 § 8952. Drawbars.
 § 8953. Cars from connecting lines.
 § 8954. Forfeiture.
 § 8955. Contributory negligence.
 § 8956. Power of railroad commission concerning brakes.
- Caboose Cars.
- § 8956-1. Construction of caboose cars. Exception. Extension of time.
 § 8956-2. Penalty.
 § 8956-3. Size of caboose cars specified.
 § 8956-4. Repaired caboose cars shall conform to provisions of this act.
 § 8956-5. Percentage of cars to be so equipped each year.
 § 8956-6. (Penalty.)
- Inspection.
- § 8957. Inspector of automatic couplers and brakes.
 § 8958. Qualifications.
 § 8959. Bond and oath.
 § 8960. Repealed.
 § 8961. Office under supervision of railroad commission.
 § 8962. Duties of inspector.
 § 8963. Liability of company for failure to make repairs.
 § 8964. Power of inspector to condemn car, tender or engine.
 § 8965. Forfeiture.
- Boilers.
- § 8965-1. Inspection.
 § 8965-2. Boiler requirements specified.
 § 8965-3. Duty of inspector.
 § 8965-4. Quarterly inspection.
 § 8965-5. Rules and regulations.
 § 8965-6. Inspector of locomotive boilers.
 § 8965-7. Certificate of inspector.
 § 8965-8. Penalties.
 § 8965-9. (Duty of commission.)
 § 8965-10. (Act takes effect, when.)

Fires.

- | | | | |
|---------|--|---------|--|
| | | § 8972. | What not considered negligence. |
| § 8966. | Spark arresters. | § 8973. | Costs in appeal and attorney fee. |
| § 8967. | Forfeiture under preceding section. | § 8974. | Application of sections. |
| § 8968. | Company must keep right of way free from combustible material. | | Wires over Tracks. |
| § 8969. | When abutting owner may remove combustible material. | § 8975. | Rules and regulations governing the construction, maintenance, etc., of telephone, telegraph, etc., wires. |
| § 8970. | Loss or damage by fire; evidence. | § 8976. | Duty of public utilities commission. |
| § 8971. | Prima facie evidence as to negligence. | | |

Section 8922. (Passenger trains must stop at certain stations.) Each company shall cause three, each way, of its regular trains carrying passengers, if so many are run daily, Sundays excepted, to stop at a station, city or village, containing over three thousand inhabitants, for a time sufficient to receive and let off passengers. (R. S. Sec. 3320; April 13, 1889, 86 v. 291; April 13, 1867, 64 v. 142, § 26.)

Powers of public utility commission as to passenger service, see § 535. Railroad v. Commission, 92 O. S. 1.

This section is a valid exercise of the police power of the state, and does not violate the interstate commerce clause of the constitution of the United States, and is valid until congress passes an act inconsistent with it.

Lake Shore, etc., Ry. Co. v. State ex rel. Lawrence, 8 C. C. 220 (1894); s. c., 4 C. D. 406; s. c., 37 W. L. B. 196.

Lake Shore, etc., Ry. Co. v. State ex rel. Lawrence, 173 U. S. 285 (1899).

This section is not inconsistent with § 5258, Rev. Stat. U. S.

Lake Shore, etc., Ry. Co. v. State ex rel. Lawrence, 8 C. C. 220 (1894); s. c., 4 C. D. 406.

In the absence of statutory provision to the contrary, a railroad company may adopt a regulation that a certain train or trains of passenger cars running regularly on its road shall not stop at designated stations or places; and one traveling as a passenger on such road is bound to inquire whether the train upon which he takes passage stops at the station or place to which he is going. A passenger who is on a train not stopping at the station he desires may be put off if he is unwilling to pay the regular fare to a station at which the train does stop.

Pennsylvania Co. v. Wentz, 37 O. S. 333 (1881).

The power of a railway company to adopt and enforce regulations that certain trains shall not stop at all places is subject to legislative control, and by this section is taken away as to cities of three thousand inhabitants.

Pennsylvania Co. v. Wentz, 37 O. S. 333 (1881).

Where the laws make provision for the stopping of trains at certain places, all tickets and contracts must be construed with reference to such laws, and a contract recognizing the validity of a regulation disregarding such laws is invalid.

Pennsylvania Co. v. Wentz, 37 O. S. 333 (1881).

Where a person who has purchased a ticket to a certain station is, by the fault of the agent of the railroad company, induced to take a train which does not stop at such station, and the passenger is ejected from the train before reaching his destination, he may recover damages in tort.

Railway v. Reynolds, 55 O. S. 370.

Decisions of railroad commission as to establishment of stations and stopping trains.

Leedon v. Railway, 7 O. L. R. 474.

Good v. Railway, 8 O. L. R. 260.

See §§ 487 to 614.

Section 8923. (Forfeiture.) A company, agent or employe thereof, which violates or causes or permits to be violated, the next preceding section, shall forfeit not more than one hundred nor less than twenty-five dollars, to be recovered in an action in the name of the state, upon the complaint of any person, before a justice of the peace of the county in which the violation occurs, for the benefit of the general fund of the county. In all cases of forfeiture under the preceding section, the company whose agent or employe caused or permitted such violation shall be liable for the amount of the forfeiture, and the conductor in charge of such train may be held, prima facie, to have caused the violation. (R. S. Sec. 3320; April 13, 1889, 86 v. 291; April 13, 1867, 64 v. 142, § 26.)

Section 8924. (Posting time of arrival of trains.) Each company or person operating a railroad within this state shall place a blackboard, at least four feet in length and two feet in width, in a conspicuous place in each passenger depot of such company located at any station in the state at which there is a telegraph office. Such company or person must have written upon such board, at least ten minutes before the schedule time for the arrival of each passenger train stopping regularly upon such road at such station, the fact whether such train is on schedule time or not, and if late, how much. (R. S. Sec. 3321-1, May 8, 1886, 83 v. 118, § 1.)

The discrimination in this section between stations having telegraph offices and those without such offices does not render the section unconstitutional.

Pennsylvania Co. v. State, 42 Ind. 428 (1895).

Section 8925. (Forfeiture.) For each violation of any provision of the next preceding section, such company or person so neglecting or refusing to comply therewith, shall forfeit and pay the sum of ten dollars, to be recovered in a civil action in the name of the state, one-half of which shall go to the party commencing proceedings, and the remainder be paid to the treasurer of the township, village or city in which such proceedings are had. (R. S. Sec. 3321-2; May 8, 1886, 83 v. 118, § 2.)

The action to recover a penalty under this section can only be brought before a justice of the peace or a mayor.

State ex rel. McClurg v. Railroad Co., 8 C. C. 604 (1894); s. c., 4 C. D. 372.

Section 8926. (Waiting rooms must be maintained; toilet rooms in connection therewith.) Every person, firm or corporation operating a steam railroad wholly or in part within this state, shall provide a suitable waiting room for the use of the traveling public, at each station where a passenger train of the road is regularly scheduled to stop. Such rooms shall be so maintained and kept, as to be conducive to the comfort, and health of the patrons of the road. Where any such waiting room is located within a municipality within reasonable connecting distance of a water supply and sewerage system, there shall be provided in connection therewith suitable and separate toilet rooms and water closets for the use of male and female persons. Each such toilet room or water closet compartment shall be properly heated, lighted and ventilated and shall contain sufficient floor space and a sufficient number of water closets, urinals, lavatories and toilet accessories to properly and suitably accommodate the patrons of the road. The location, construction and installation of such toilet rooms and water closets shall be in accordance with the provisions of the state building code. (107 v. 178; R. S. Sec. 3321-3; April 16, 1900, 94 v. 231, § 1.)

See § 519.

Greenwich v. Railway, 6 O. L. R. 51; 53 Bull. 103 (Railroad Commission).

Section 8927. (Duty of railroad commission.) Upon the written complaint of ten or more citizens of this state being filed with the state railroad commission that any provision of the next preceding section is being violated, at such station, the commission shall forthwith make investigation thereof. If upon such investigation it be found that such violation exists, it shall issue an order to the person, firm or corporation guilty thereof, setting forth the nature of the improvement required and directing that it be completed within a time to be specified therein. (R. S. Sec. 3321-4; April 16, 1900, 94 v. 231, § 2.)

Section 8928. (Forfeiture.) Any person, firm or corporation failing to comply with an order of such commission, or any of the provisions of the two next preceding sections, upon conviction therefor before a court of common pleas of the county in which such violation occurs, shall forfeit and pay any sum not less than one hundred dollars. Such forfeiture shall be recovered in a civil action in the name of the state, for the benefit of the county in which the failure or violation occurs, and such action shall be brought by the prosecuting attorney of the county, at the instance of such commission, as provided in other cases for the recovery of forfeitures against railroad companies. (R. S. Sec. 3354; April 16, 1900, 94 v. 231, § 3.)

Section 8929. (Movable bridge between passenger cars required.) Every company conveying passengers shall provide the passenger cars in its trains with a flexible or movable bridge or apron, of the full width of the opening between the railings attached to the platforms of such cars, with sideboards or network of strap iron, large wire, or other suitable material, at each side of the bridge or apron, of at least equal height with the ordinary railings upon the platforms, or some other apparatus or arrangement equally efficient to enable passengers to pass from car to car with safety. (R. S. Sec. 3347; March 10, 1871, 68 v. 35, § 1.)

Section 8930. (Penalties for violation of preceding section.) A company which fails to comply with the provisions of the next preceding section shall be subject to a penalty of one hundred dollars for each and every day of such failure, to be recovered in a civil action, in the name of the state, and paid into the state treasury. (R. S. Sec. 3348; March 10, 1871, 68 v. 35, § 2.)

Section 8931. (Enforcement of two preceding sections.) The state railroad commission shall see that the requirements of the two next preceding sections are enforced. Such sections shall not apply in case of passenger car attached to a freight train. (R. S. Secs. 3349, 3350; March 10, 1871, 68 v. 35, §§ 3, 4.)

Section 8932. (Heating apparatus for cars.) When necessary to heat its cars for carrying passengers, mail, baggage or express matter, each railroad company shall do so by a stove or heater so constructed and protected as will most effectually guard passengers against danger from fire, in accidents by collision, or when cars are overturned or thrown from the track. No such company shall permit any other corporation or person to use cars carrying passengers, mail, baggage or express matter, over its road, unless their heating apparatus conforms to the above requirements. (R.

S. Sec. 3351; May 4, 1869, 66 v. 94, § 1; R. S. 1880; April 14, 1880, 77 v. 202.)

Constitutionality.

See People v. New York, etc., R. R. Co., 55 Hun. (N. Y.), 409 (1890).

Section 8933. (Forfeiture under preceding section.) A railroad which fails to comply with the provisions of the next preceding section shall be liable to a forfeiture of not less than one hundred nor more than five hundred dollars, to be recovered in the name of the state, for the benefit of its common schools. Such action shall be prosecuted in any county, through which the road passes, by the prosecuting attorney thereof, at his own instance, or that of the state railroad commission, as provided by law in other cases for the recovery of penalties, and forfeitures against railroad companies, after due notice given by the railroad commission to the president or managing officer of such delinquent company, and its further neglect for thirty days to comply with the requirements of such section. The prosecutor shall receive twenty-five per cent of all penalties and costs so collected. (R. S. Sec. 3354; April 14, 1880, 77 v. 202; R. S. 1880; May 4, 1869, 66 v. 94, § 4.)

Section 8934. (Lighting of passenger cars.) No passenger car on a railroad shall be lighted by naphtha or any fluid made in part from it, or wholly or in part from coal or petroleum, or other substance which will ignite at a temperature of less than three hundred degrees Fahrenheit. (R. S. Sec. 3353; May 7, 1877, 74 v. 207, § 2.)

Section 8935. (Forfeiture under preceding section.) The state railroad commission or its agent at any time may enter cars running on a railroad and take from any lamp therein samples of the oil or fluid there found for the purpose of testing it. When, on trial, such oil or fluid ignites at a lower temperature than that above specified, the company or person running the car from which it was taken, shall be liable to a forfeiture of not less than one hundred nor more than five hundred dollars, which such commission shall bring suit to recover, or cause to be brought for the benefit of the state common school fund, as provided in section eighty-nine hundred and thirty-three. (R. S. Secs. 3353, 3354; April 14, 1880, 77 v. 202; R. S. 1880; May 7, 1877, 74 v. 207, § 2; May 4, 1869, 66 v. 94, § 4.)

Section 8936. (Distance from station platform to step on passenger cars.) Companies and persons operating a railroad shall so regulate the distance between station floors, or platforms and the top of the lowest step on passenger cars that it will not exceed twelve inches. When the distance is more than one foot, it shall be changed, or safe steps provided for passengers within that limit. (R. S. Sec. 3354-1; April 16, 1892, 89 v. 347, § 1.)

Section 8937. (Forfeiture under preceding section; penalty.) A company failing to comply with the next preceding section shall forfeit and pay not less than fifty nor more than five hundred dollars for each and every delinquency. On the written complaint of any citizen, the prosecuting attorney of a county wherein such default occurs at once shall begin suit against the company guilty thereof, for the recovery of such penalty. If personal injury results from failure to comply with such section, in addition to such liability for damages, the person in charge of the operation and management of the road shall be deemed to be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined not less than fifty dollars nor more than five hundred dollars. (R. S. Sec. 3354-1; April 16, 1892, 89 v. 347, § 1.)

Section 8938. (Equipment of passenger trains with fire extinguishers.) If one can be bought for fifteen dollars or less, every person, company or corporation operating a railroad shall put at least one portable chemical fire extinguisher on each passenger train. Each year, one such extinguisher shall be added to every such train until all coaches carrying passengers are supplied therewith. (R. S. Sec. 3354-2; April 27, 1896, 92 v. 396, § 1.)

Section 8939. (Extinguishers to be approved by railroad commission.) Such fire extinguishers shall be of a construction which renders them durable and efficient. Before they are put on trains, they make selected shall be approved for that purpose by the state railroad commission, whose duty it is to exercise its discretion in the premises, so as to invite the fullest competition among the different makers. (R. S. Sec. 3354-3; April 27, 1896, 92 v. 396, § 2.)

Section 8940. (Designation of cars, place and manner of installing extinguisher.) The state railroad commission shall designate which car of a passenger train wherein the first and each subsequent extinguisher is to be placed, until every coach in all such trains is fully supplied. Such commission shall determine where in the car an extinguisher shall be placed, how attached so as to make it easy of access; and also see that the provisions of the two next preceding sections are carried into effect. (R. S. Sec. 3354-4; April 27, 1896, 92 v. 396, § 3.)

Section 8941. (Failure to provide fire extinguishers; penalty.) A person, company or corporation operating a railroad, or railroads, in whole or in part in this state, violating any provision of the three next preceding sections failing to comply with any of the provisions of such sections, upon conviction in any court of competent jurisdiction shall be fined not less than twenty-five dollars nor more than one hundred dollars, and each day that such person, company or corporation runs its trains in violation of such provisions shall constitute a separate offense. (R. S. Sec. 3354-4; April 27, 1896, 92 v. 396, § 3.)

Section 8942. (Telegraph and telephone wires.) Every steam railroad company operating ten miles or more of railroad for the transportation of passengers and freight, shall erect and maintain in complete working order, for use along the line of its road a telegraph or telephone wire, with an office and proper means for communication by such wire at each of its principal stations. No such company operating a road without a telegraph or telephone wire along the line thereof, shall ask, or receive any compensation for the transportation of passengers or freight thereon. (R. S. Sec. 3354-5; April 7, 1898, 93 v. 88, § 1.)

Penalty for violation, see § 12547.

Section 8943. (Forfeiture under preceding section.) The charter of a steam railroad company which fails to comply with the conditions of the next preceding section shall be declared forfeited and shall be annulled, by a civil action brought for that purpose in the name of the state by the prosecuting attorney of any county in or through which its road is operated. (R. S. Sec. 3354-6; April 7, 1898, 93 v. 89, § 2.)

Section 8944. (Self-cleaning ash dump pans.) A person, firm or corporation owning, operating or controlling any railroad running through or within this state, shall in all cases where practicable, cause each locomotive to be equipped with a self cleaning ash dump pan, of modern and approved pattern and design; and all engines or locomotives built or constructed shall be so equipped. No engineer or fireman shall be compelled to go under any locomotive for the purpose of removing ashes from it, except in cases of emergency. This section shall not apply to a person, firm or corporation which does not require engineers or firemen to go under the engine for the purpose of removing ashes therefrom, except in cases of emergency. (R. S. Sec. 3365-27i; March 14, 1906, 98 v. 46, § 1.)

Penalty for noncompliance, see §§ 12558, 12559.

Section 8945. (Contributory negligence.) A person, firm or corporation failing to comply with the provisions of the next preceding section shall not be allowed to set up or make the defense of contributory negligence, or assumption of risk, in an action for personal injury to, or death of, an engineer or fireman resulting from the failure of such person, firm or corporation to comply therewith. (R. S. Sec. 3365-27k; March 14, 1906, 98 v. 47, § 3.)

HEADLIGHTS.

Section 8945-1. (Headlight provisions.) Every railroad corporation operating a railroad or a part of one in this state, shall on or before the first day of January, 1911, equip each of its locomotives, (except locomotives used exclusively in yard service,) with a headlight of such construction, and with sufficient candle power to render plainly visible at a distance of not less than three hundred and fifty feet in advance of such engine, whistling posts, land marks and other warning signs, and it shall be unlawful, after such date for any such railroad to use a locomotive, (except locomotives used exclusively in yard service) upon any part of its road lying within this state, that is not equipped with a headlight of such construction and candle power as will enable the engineer, to see whistling posts, land marks and other warning signs at a distance of not less than three hundred and fifty feet in advance of the engine; provided that not less than thirty per cent. of all the locomotives hereinbefore required to be provided with such headlights shall be so equipped on or before September 1, 1910. (May 20, 1910, 101 v. 330.)

That a headlight was not burning was held not to constitute negligence as a matter of law, but was a question for the jury to determine. Railroad Co. v. Stoianoff, 89 O. S. 440 (1913); Penna. Co. v. Gulling, 5 Ohio App. 183; 25 C. C. n. s. 326 (1916); motion to certify record overruled, 14 O. L. R. 180.

The operation of a locomotive with its headlight obstructed by a box-car or caboose which is pushed by the locomotive is a violation of this section. Railway v. Shurts, 10 Ohio App. 226 (1918).

Where the public generally used a railroad track as a foot passage, with the knowledge and acquiescence of the railroad company, a person injured on such track by a train drawn by an engine on which no headlight was lighted is entitled to recover. Ford v. Railway, 107 O. S. 100 (1923).

Section 8945-2. (Inspection by railroad commission.)

The state railroad commission shall from time to time inspect or cause to be inspected the headlights of all locomotives found in use on any railroad in this state. On discovering any defective headlight the commission shall report the fact to the superintendent or other officer having charge of the road on which it is found, and the railroad corporation receiving such notice, shall thereupon cause such defective headlight to be immediately repaired, and if so ordered by the railroad commission shall put the locomotive containing such defective headlight out of service until repaired and put in good working order. (May 20, 1910, 101 v. 330.)

Section 8945-3. (Penalty.) Any railroad corporation using or permitting to be used on its line in this state a locomotive, in violation of any provision of this act shall be liable to a penalty of one hundred dollars for each violation, to be recovered in a suit or suits to be brought by the prosecuting attorney in the common pleas court of the county having jurisdiction in the locality where such violation occurred. Upon duly verified information being given him of such violation such prosecuting attorney shall bring such suits. The railroad commission shall give the proper prosecuting attorney information of any such violations as may come to its knowledge. (May 20, 1910, 101 v. 330.)

Section 8945-4. (Lights on front and rear of car required.) It shall be unlawful for any superintendent, trainmaster, yardmaster or other employe of the railroad company doing business in the state of Ohio, to allow or permit passenger or freight car to stand on a track commonly called a running track, within yard limits unless flagman or red light is on end of car during the period from thirty minutes before sunset to thirty minutes after sunrise. (107 v. 605, § 1.)

Section 8945-5. (Penalty.) Whoever being superintendent, trainmaster, yardmaster, or other employes of a railroad company, violates section 1 of this act, shall be guilty of misdemeanor, and shall be fined not less than twenty-five dollars nor more than three hundred dollars for each and every offense. (107 v. 605, § 2.)

Section 8945-6. (Enforcement.) The public utilities commission shall be empowered to enforce the forgoing sections and prosecute any violations thereof. (107 v. 605, § 3.)

COUPLERS AND BRAKES.

Section 8946. (Automatic couplers and air-brakes.) Repealed March 18, 1913, 103 v. 117. (R. S. Sec. 3364-24; April 14, 1893, 90 v. 185, § 2.)

Section 8947. (Power brakes on engines.) Repealed March 18, 1913, 103 v. 117. (R. S. Sec. 3365-25; April 14, 1893, 90 v. 185, § 3.)

Section 8948. (Forfeiture.) Repealed March 18, 1913, 103 v. 117. (R. S. Sec. 3365-27; April 14, 1893, 90 v. 185, § 5.)

Section 8949. (Power brakes for locomotives and cars. Percentage required to be so equipped.) No common carrier, engaged in moving traffic on a railroad, between points within this state, shall use on its line a locomotive therefor not equipped with power driving wheel brakes and appliances for operating the train-brake system, or, in such business, run a train unless at least eighty-five percentum of the cars therein shall have air brakes thereon so arranged that they can be operated and used from the engine by the engineer of the locomotive drawing such train, and unless all of such cars so equipped shall be associated together. (March 18, 1913, 103 v. 117; R. S. Secs. 3365-27a, 3363-23; March 19, 1906, 98 v. 75, § 1; April 23, 1904, 97 v. 615; February 27, 1900, 94 v. 25; April 25, 1898, 93 v. 286; April 14, 1893, 90 v. 184.)

Section 8950. (Automatic couplers.) No such common carrier shall haul, or permit to be hauled or used on its line, a locomotive, car, tender, or similar vehicle used in moving state traffic, not equipped with couplers coupling automatically by impact, and which can be uncoupled, without the necessity of men going between the ends of the cars. (R. S. Sec. 3365-27b; March 19, 1906, 98 v. 76, § 2.)

This section is constitutional. It requires the same kind of automatic couplers required by the act of congress, and is not a regulation of interstate commerce.

Railway Co. v. State, 82 O. S. 60 (1910); affirming, 11 C. C. n. s. 482; 21 C. D. 20; 7 N. P. n. s. 41; 19 L. D. 285.

State v. Railway Co., 7 N. P. n. s. 571; 19 L. D. 867 (1908).

This act is in conflict with the federal automatic coupler act.

Railway Co. v. State, 82 O. S. 60 (1910).

State v. Railway Co., 7 N. P. n. s. 571; 19 L. D. 867 (1908).

See also Erie R. Co. v. Solomon, 237 U. S. 427.

The additional penalty under § 8965 for keeping defective couplers in use does not render the act invalid.

State v. Railway, 10 N. P. n. s. 585 (C. P. 1911).

The moving of dirt from one point on the line of railway to another, for the purpose of constructing a fill, or yard, is "traffic" within the meaning of this section.

State v. Pgh., etc., Ry., 13 N. P. n. s. 145; 23 L. D. 135 (C. P. 1912).

This section makes it the positive duty of a railroad company to provide automatic couplers. The use of cars without such equipment is unlawful.

McGarvey v. Railway Co., 83 O. S. 273 (1911).

It is the duty of a railroad company to use ordinary care to keep the couplers in working order.

McGarvey v. Railway Co., 83 O. S. 273 (1911).

See § 8963.

Section 8951-4. (Public utilities commission shall prescribe dimensions, etc., of footboards for locomotives. Penalty.) Section 1. That it shall be unlawful for any railroad doing business in the state of Ohio to operate or permit to be operated in the state of Ohio, a locomotive regularly assigned in mine run, drop or package local freight, or switching service, not equipped with two or more footboards.

Section 2. That the public utilities commission of Ohio shall prescribe the dimensions, location and the manner of application of said footboards, as provided by section 1.

Section 3. That any railroad doing business in the state of Ohio who shall send or cause to be sent out on its road a locomotive not equipped in accordance with sections 1 and 2 of this act shall be guilty of misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be fined not less than one hundred dollars or more than five hundred dollars for each offense.

Section 4. That the words "regularly assigned" as used in section 1 shall be construed to mean more than three consecutive days.

Section 5. That it shall be the duty of the public utilities commission of Ohio to have this law enforced. (110 v. 142.)

The purpose of this act is to require the use of couplers which will obviate the necessity of employes going between the ends of the cars.

McGarvey v. Railway Co., 83 O. S. 273, 289 (1911).

While this statute is in derogation of the common law, it should receive a reasonable construction.

McGarvey v. Railway Co., 83 O. S. 273, 292 (1911).

Under this section the car and not the train is the unit.

Railway v. State, 11 C. C. n. s. 482; 21 C. D. 20 (1909); affirming, 7 N. P. n. s. 541; 19 L. D. 285 (1908); aff'd, 82 O. S. 60 (1910).

Application of former statute to interurban railways.

See C. & E. R. Co. v. Somers, 3 C. C. n. s. 638; 14 C. D. 67 (1902); s. e., 74 O. S. 477.

A crane or derrick, built upon car trucks, used to unload heavy materials, and equipped with a boiler and engine to furnish power to operate the crane and move the machine about on the tracks, is not a "locomotive car, tender or similar vehicle."

Lake Shore, etc., Co. v. Benson, 85 O. S. 215 (1912).

Section 8951. (Secure grab-irons, sill steps, ladders and running boards required on locomotives, tenders and cars.) No such common carrier shall haul, or permit to be hauled or used, on its line a locomotive, car, tender, or similar vehicle, used in moving state traffic, not provided with secure grab-irons or hand-holds on the sides and ends thereof. Every locomotive shall be provided with secure sill steps, on each side of the pilot thereof and each and every tender and car used in such business shall be provided also with secure sill steps on each end of each side thereof, and efficient hand-brakes; and all cars requiring ladders and running boards shall be equipped with secure ladders and running boards, and with secure hand-holds or grab-irons on their roofs at the top of such ladders; provided, that, in the loading and hauling of long commodities requiring more than one car, the hand-brakes may be omitted on all save one of the cars while they are thus combined for such purpose. (March 18, 1913, 103 v. 117; R. S. 3365-27c; March 19, 1906, 98 v. 76, § 3.)

A railroad company which operated an engine, on the pilot of which was a turtleback or iron bar, rendering use of the hand-holds impossible, was held guilty of negligence. Haskett v. Penna. Co., 245 Fed. 327 (C. C. A. Ohio 1917).

Section 8951-1. (Automatic or foot power doors required on steam locomotive engines.) That all steam railroad companies, operating steam locomotives on its railroads in, or through this state, shall provide and equip each and every such locomotive engine so operated over its said road, or roads, in this state, with an automatic or foot power door to the fire box of such locomotive engines. Such automatic or foot power doors shall be so constructed and operated by steam, compressed air, electricity, or foot power, as deemed best and most efficient. The device for operating such door shall be so constructed that it may be operated by the fireman on said engine by means of a push button, pedal, or other appliance located in, on, or near the floor of the engine deck or floor of the tender at a suitable distance from such door to enable the fireman, while firing such engine, by pressure with his foot, to open such door for the firing of such engine. (107 v. 560, § 1.)

Section 8951-2. (Penalty.) Any person, or steam railroad company, violating any of the provisions of this act shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not less than one hundred dollars, nor more than five hundred dollars for each offense. (107 v. 560, § 2.)

Section 8951-3. (Enforcement and prosecution.) The public utilities commission shall be empowered to enforce the foregoing sections and prosecute any violations thereof.

This law shall take effect and be in force on and after December 31, 1920.

All laws, and parts of laws, in conflict herewith are hereby repealed. (107 v. 560, §§ 3, 4, 5.)

Section 8952. (Drawbars.) No such common carrier shall use a locomotive, tender, car, or similar vehicle used in the movement of state traffic, that is not provided with drawbars of the standard height, to-wit: Standard gauge cars, thirty-four and one-half inches; narrow gauge cars, twenty-six inches, measured perpendicularly from the level of the tops of the rails to the centers of the drawbars. The maximum variation from such standard heights between drawbars of empty and loaded cars shall be three inches. (R. S. Sec. 3365-27d; March 19, 1906, 98 v. 76, § 4.)

Section 8953. (Cars from connecting lines.) Such common carrier may refuse to receive from connecting lines or from any shipper a car not equipped in accordance with the four next preceding sections. (R. S. Sec. 3365-27e; March 19, 1906, 98 v. 76, § 5.)

See note to § 8950.

Section 8954. (Penalty for violations of this act. Public service commission shall give information to prosecuting attorneys. Cars or trains to which act does not apply.) Such common carrier using any locomotive engine, running any train, or hauling or permitting to be hauled or used on its line any tender or car in violation of any of the provisions of this act, shall be liable to a penalty of one hundred dollars for each any every such violation thereof, to be recovered in a suit or suits to be brought by the prosecuting attorney in the common pleas court of the county having jurisdiction in the locality where such violation occurred. Upon duly verified information being given him of such violation such prosecuting attorney shall bring such suits. The public service commission of Ohio shall give the proper prosecuting attorney information of any such violations as may come to its knowledge. Nothing contained in the above provisions to common carriers shall apply to locomotives, tenders, cars, or trains, used exclusively in the movement of logs, and when the height of the drawbars of such locomotives, tenders and cars does not exceed twenty-five inches, or to street cars, or to locomotives, tenders, cars, similar vehicles, or trains, while in actual use in interstate commerce. (March 18, 1913, 103 v. 118; R. S. Sec. 3365-27f; March 19, 1906, 98 v. 76, § 6.)

Proceedings under this act are civil in their nature and guilty knowledge and intention are not essential elements of the offense.

State v. Railway Co., 7 N. P. n. s. 571; 19 L. D. 867 (C. P. 1908).

The car is made the unit; and hauling an unequipped car is penalized by this section.

Railway Co. v. State, 11 C. C. n. s. 482; 21 C. D. 20 (1909); affirming, 7 N. P. n. s. 541; 19 L. D. 285 (1908); aff'd, 82 O. S. 60 (1910).

A carrier using a car in violation of this act is not immune from the penalty because the car, or the railroad, is commonly used in interstate traffic, or because it was in a train containing cars loaded with interstate traffic.

Railway Co. v. State, 82 O. S. 60 (1910); affirming, 11 C. C. n. s. 482; 21 C. D. 20; 7 N. P. n. s. 541; 19 L. D. 285.

But see Southern R. Co. v. R. R. Com. of Indiana, 236 U. S. 439 (1915).

A car is used in interstate commerce where it is received from another company by the defendant company and hauled from one of its yards to another for the purpose of being put in a train and forwarded to its destination in another state.

U. S. v. Railway Co., 143 Fed. 360 (C. C. 1905).

See McGarvey v. Railway Co., 83 O. S. 273, 291, 292 (1911).

Where a coupler became out of order after the train had been made up and started, and the car was watched until it reached the first point where the coupler could be repaired, and there removed from the train and repaired, the company is not liable for a penalty. Railroad Co. v. State, 17 C. C. n. s. 124 (1910).

A proceeding may be brought against a receiver, who was acting as such at the time of the neglect of duty.

State v. Harmon, 6 O. L. R. 649; 54 O. L. B. 70 (C. P. 1909).

This section provides penalties for failure to equip cars with automatic couplers. Section 8965 provides penalties for operating cars on which the couplers are out of repair or not used.

State v. Pittsburgh, etc., Railway, 13 N. P. n. s. 145 (C. P. 1912).

Section 8955. (Contributory negligence.) Any employee of such common carrier, who is killed or injured by a locomotive, tender, car, similar vehicle, or train, in use contrary to the provisions of sections eighty-nine hundred and forty-nine to eighty-nine hundred and fifty-four both inclusive, shall not be deemed to have assumed the risk thereby occasioned, although continuing in the employment of such carrier after the unlawful use of such locomotive, tender, car, similar vehicle, or train had been brought to his knowledge, nor shall such employe be held to have contributed to his injury in a case where the carrier violated any provision of such sections, when such violation contributed to his death or injury. (R. S. Sec. 3365-27g; March 19, 1906, 98 v. 77, § 7.)

Both Federal and Ohio employers' liability acts apply only where the relation of master and servant exists. Loucks v. Railway, 14 Ohio App. 320 (1919); affirmed, 103 O. S. 164.

A railroad company transported a car belonging to another railroad company and delivered it to a steel company. Two days later the coupler on the car was found to be defective. Thereafter a brakeman employed by the steel company, acting under orders of his superior, was injured while uncoupling the car. Held, the brakeman was not entitled to recover from the railroad company. Loucks v. Railroad Co., 103 O. S. 164 (1921).

Sections 8949 and 8954 are in derogation of the common law of negligence and a court may not read into the act anything which does not come within the clear meaning of the language, but the act should be given such liberal construction as will accomplish the purpose and intention of the legislature. §§ 8950 and 8952 were held not to apply to a locomotive crane, whirley or derrick. Railway Co. v. Benson, 85 O. S. 215 (1911).

Where an employe is injured in attempting to couple cars, not equipped with automatic couplers, the railroad company is liable in damages. Under this section he is not deemed to have assumed the risk, nor to have contributed to the injury, where the violation of § 8950 by the railroad company contributed to the injury.

McGarvey v. Railway Co., 83 O. S. 273 (1911).

See Railroad Co. v. Somers, 3 C. C. n. s. 638; 14 C. D. 67 (1902); s. c., 74 O. S. 477.

Where automatic couplers have become defective, from long use or other cause, and it became necessary for an employe to go between the cars to make the coupling, and in so doing he was injured, he may recover.

McGarvey v. Railway Co., 83 O. S. 273 (1911).

See §§ 8963, 8965.

Section 8956. (Power of railroad commission concerning brakes.) The state railroad commission after full hearing and for good cause shown, may increase the minimum proportion of cars in a train required to be operated by power or train brakes. Failure to comply with the requirements of such commission, shall be subject to a like penalty as failure to comply with any requirement herein made of such carriers. (R. S. Sec. 3365-27a; March 19, 1906, 98 v. 75, § 1.)

CABOOSE CARS.

Section 8956-1. (Construction of caboose cars. Exception. Extension of time by railroad commission.) It shall be unlawful, from and after the first day of September, 1910, for any common carrier operating a railroad, in whole or in part, within this state, or any manager or superintendent thereof, to require or permit the use, within this state upon such railroad, of any caboose car, or other car used for like purpose, which is not provided with a door in each end thereof and an outside platform across each end of such car; each platform shall not be less than twenty-four inches in width and shall be equipped with proper guard rails, and with grab irons and steps for the safety of persons getting on and off said car. Said steps shall be equipped with a suitable rod, board or other guard at each end and at the back thereof, properly designed to prevent slipping from such step. But nothing herein provided shall affect the right of any railroad to operate a caboose car now constructed or in use having the platforms each not less than twenty inches in width and equipped with the other appliances as herein provided. The railroad commission is hereby authorized to grant to any common carrier, upon full hearing and for good cause shown, a reasonable extension of time in which to comply with the provisions of this act; provided that in no case shall such extension or extensions in the aggregate exceed the period of one year from the time herein limited for compliance with this act. (April 25, 1910, 101 v. 133.)

Section 8956-2. (Penalty.) Any person or common carrier violating any of the provisions of section 8956-1 shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not less than one hundred dollars nor more than five hundred dollars for each offense. (April 25, 1910, 101 v. 133.)

Section 8956-3. (Size of caboose cars specified.) Except as otherwise provided in this act, it shall be unlawful, from and after the first day of July, 1919, for any common carrier operating a railroad, in whole or in part, within this state, or any manager or division superintendent thereof to require or permit the use, upon such railroad, within this state, of any caboose car or other car used for like purpose, unless such caboose or other car shall be at least twenty-four feet in length, exclusive of platforms, and equipped with two four-wheel trucks, suitable closets and cupola; provided however, that the provisions of this section shall not apply to common carriers which operate less than ten miles of interstate railroad in Ohio. (106 v. 429; May 5, 1913, 103 v. 719, § 1.)

For opinion upholding constitutionality of amendment of 106 v. 429, see Opins. Atty. Gen. 1915, p. 878.

Section 8956-4. (Repaired caboose cars shall conform to provisions of this act.) Whenever any such caboose car now in use upon any such railroad, shall, after this act goes into effect, be brought into any of the shops of such railroad for general repairs, it shall be unlawful to again put the same into the service of such railroad, within this state, unless it be equipped as provided in section one of this act. (May 5, 1913, 103 v. 720, § 2.)

Section 8956-5. (Percentage of cars to be so equipped each year.) Such common carrier shall, each year, from and after the first day of July, 1914, equip, in accordance with the provisions of this act, at least fifteen per cent. of the caboose cars in use on its railroad; but the public service commission is hereby authorized to grant to any common carrier, upon full hearing and for good cause shown, a reasonable extension of time in which to comply with the provisions of this act; provided that in no case shall such extension in the aggregate exceed the period of one year from the time herein limited for compliance with this act. (May 5, 1913, 103 v. 720, § 3.)

Section 8956-6. (Penalty.) Any person or common carrier violating any of the provisions of this act shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not less than one hundred dollars nor more than five hundred dollars for each offense. (May 5, 1913, 103 v. 720, § 4.)

INSPECTION.

Section 8957. (Inspector of automatic couplers and brakes, etc., on locomotives and cars.) An inspector of automatic couplers, air brakes, automatic power brakes, and other safety appliances prescribed by law, on railroad locomotives, tenders, cars and similar vehicles, shall be appointed by the public service commission of Ohio. He shall hold office for two years, unless sooner removed for cause, and until his successor is appointed and qualified. When a vacancy occurs in the office such commission immediately shall fill it by appointment. (April 26, 1913, 103 v. 192, in effect July 25, 1913; R. S. Sec. 3365-23b; May 12, 1902, 95 v. 658.)

Section 8958. (Qualifications.) No person shall be eligible to the office who is an officer or employe of a railroad company or owns or is interested, directly or indirectly, in the stocks or bonds of any railroad company, or who has not had at least seven years' experience in the transportation department on some line of railroad of more than thirty miles in length, operated in this state. (R. S. Sec. 3365-23b; May 12, 1902, 95 v. 658.)

Section 8959. (Bond and oath.) Before entering on his duties, the inspector shall give bond to the state in the sum of three thousand dollars, with two or more sureties, or a bond and security company, acceptable to the state railroad commission, conditioned for the faithful performance of his duties. He also shall take the usual oath of office, which oath and bond with the approval of the commission endorsed thereon, shall be deposited with the secretary of state. (R. S. Sec. 3365-23c; May 12, 1902, 95 v. 659.)

Section 8960. Repealed. (107 v. 503.)

Section 8961. (Office under supervision of railroad commission.) Such inspector shall have his office in the office of the railroad commission, and shall be under its supervision. In the performance of his duties he also shall have the right of passing upon all the railroads within the state, and upon all trains, and any part thereof free of charge. (R. S. Sec. 3365-23d; May 12, 1902, 95 v. 659.)

Section 8962. (Duties of inspector.) Such inspector shall inspect the couplers, air brakes, automatic power brakes, hand brakes, ladders, running boards, sill-steps and hand-holds or grab-irons on all locomotives, tenders, cars and similar vehicles found on any railroad in Ohio, and make weekly reports of his inspections to the public service commission, reporting all locomotives, tenders, cars and similar vehicles, giving number thereof, points of billing and final destination, road on which they are found, and the road owning them, if known, which are found to have a defective appliance, describing the defect. On discovering such defective appliance he shall also immediately report it to the superintendent of the road on which it is found, and to the agent thereof at the nearest station, describing the defect. If such defective appliance be found on any locomotive, tive, tender, car or similar vehicle which is then being used in interstate commerce, he shall under oath lodge with the United States district attorney of the district wherein such violation shall have been committed, all information of such violation and mail a like report to the interstate commerce commission, filing a copy thereof with the public service commission of Ohio. When any one of such appliances is lacking on any locomotive, tender, car or similar vehicle, this shall be deemed to be a defective appliance. (April 24, 1913, 103 v. 193; R. S. Sec. 3365-23e; May 12, 1902, 95 v. 659.)

Section 8963. (Liability of company for failure to make repairs.) A railroad whose superintendent or station agent receives such notice of such defective appliance shall cause it to be immediately repaired. The company shall be liable in damages to any person injured, for any injury received by reason of such defective appliance. Nothing in this chapter contained shall diminish the existing legal liability of railroads for injury to persons or property. (April 24, 1913, 103 v. 193; R. S. Sec. 3365-23f; May 12, 1902, 95 v. 660.)

See McGarvey v. Railway Co., 83 O. S. 273 (1911).
State v. Railway, 10 N. P. n. s. 585 (C. P. 1911).

Section 8964. (Inspector may condemn locomotive, tender or car.) On the discovery of such defective appliance on any locomotive, tender, car or similar vehicle, such inspector may condemn such locomotive, tender, car or similar vehicle, and order it out of service until repaired and put in good working order. On receiving an order from the inspector condemning any locomotive, tender, car or similar vehicle, the employes of the road in charge thereof shall put it out of service at the first freight division terminal. (April 24, 1913, 103 v. 193; R. S. Sec. 3365-23g; May 12, 1902, 95 v. 660.)

Section 8965. (Daily forfeiture for use of defective appliance.) A railroad company which fails to comply with such order, shall forfeit and pay to the state, in addition to the penalties prescribed in section 8954 of the General Code, the sum of twenty-five dollars for each day such defective appliance is kept in use, contrary thereto, to be collected in a civil suit in any county in the state where service of process can be had on such road. On request from the inspector, the attorney general or the prosecuting attorney of any county in which the company has a line of railroad shall immediately commence and prosecute, without unnecessary delay, proceedings to collect such sum. The sum so collected less ten per cent. fees for collecting it, due such officer, shall be paid to the general revenue fund of the state. (April 24, 1913, 103 v. 193; R. S. Sec. 3365-23h; May 12, 1902, 95 v. 660.)

Penalty against officers, see § 12562.

The additional penalty imposed, for keeping defective cars in use, does not render the act invalid.

State v. Railway, 10 N. P. n. s. 585 (C. P. 1911).

It is immaterial how short the distance a defectively equipped car was moved; but if the defect was of a temporary nature, easily repairable, and was at once repaired, the use was not unlawful.

State v. Harmon, 6 O. L. R. 649; 54 O. L. B. 70 (C. P. 1909).

This section provides penalties for operating cars on which the couplers are out of repair or not used. Section 8954 provides penalties for operating cars which are not equipped with couplers.

State v. Railway Co., 13 N. P. n. s. 145; 23 L. D. 135 (C. P. 1912).

A railroad company is not required to carry skilled workmen and repair tools on every train operated, to repair defects discovered en route. Railroad Co. v. State, 17 C. C. n. s. 124 (1910).

Where a coupler became out of order after the train had been made up and started, and the car was watched until it reached the first point where the coupler could be repaired, and there removed from the train and repaired, the company is not liable for a penalty. Railroad Co. v. State, 17 C. C. n. s. 124 (1910).

BOILERS.

Section 8965-1. (Inspection.) Every person, firm or corporation operating a steam railroad wholly or in part within this state shall require thorough inspection to be made of the boilers and appurtenances of all locomotives which shall be used by such person, firm or corporation on such railroad within this state. (May 20, 1910, 101 v. 328.)

By the enactment of the federal boiler inspection act (February 27, 1911, 36 U. S. Stat., pt. 1, p. 913) the Ohio act is superseded and is invalid in so far as it applies to a railroad company, the locomotives of which are used in transportation from Kentucky and other states into Cincinnati, and from Cincinnati to such other states, all of said locomotives being used exclusively in interstate commerce.

L. & N. R. Co. v. Hughes, 201 Fed. 727 (D. C. 1912).

See Rep. Atty. Gen. 1911-1912, p. 719.

Section 8965-2. (Boiler requirements specified.) All such boilers so used shall comply with the following requirements: The boilers and appurtenances shall be well made of good and suitable material; the openings for the passage of water and steam respectively, and all pipes and tubes exposed to heat, shall be of proper dimensions and free from obstructions; the spaces between and around the flues shall be sufficient; the flues, boiler, furnace, safety valves, fusible plugs, low water indicators, feed water apparatus, gauge cocks, steam gauges, and means of removing mud and sediment from the boiler, and all other machinery and appurtenances thereof shall be of such construction, shape, condition, arrangement and material that the same may be safely employed in the active service of such railroad without peril to life or limb. (May 20, 1910, 101 v. 328.)

Section 8965-3. (Duty of inspector.) Each inspector shall satisfy himself by thorough examination that said requirements have been fully complied with. No boiler, pipe, nor any connections therewith shall be approved which is made in whole or in part of bad material, or is unsafe in its form, or dangerous from defects, workmanship, age, use or other cause. (May 20, 1910, 101 v. 328.)

Section 8965-4. (Quarterly inspection.) Said inspections shall be made at least every three months under the direction of such person, firm or corporation operating such railroad, by persons of suitable qualifications and attainments to perform the services required of inspectors of boilers and who are able to form a reliable opinion of the strength, form, workmanship and suitability of boilers to be employed without hazard of life from imperfections in the material, workmanship or arrangement of any part of such boiler and appurtenances. (May 20, 1910, 101 v. 329.)

Section 8965-5. (Rules and regulations.) The state railroad commission shall have power to formulate rules and regulations for the uniform inspection and testing of boilers and their appurtenances, and for the qualifications and competency of inspectors of boilers under the provisions of this act. Copies of such rules and regulations shall be mailed to every person, firm or corporation operating a railroad by steam in this state. If it shall be ascertained by such inspection and test, or otherwise, that any locomotive boiler is unsafe for use, the same shall not again be used until it shall be repaired and made safe so as to comply with the requirements of this act. (May 20, 1910, 101 v. 329.)

Section 8965-6. (Inspector of locomotive boilers.) The public utilities commission shall appoint a competent person as inspector of locomotive boilers, and such inspector shall, under the direction of the commission, have charge of the inspection of boilers and their appurtenances, of locomotives used in the operation of steam railroads within this state and shall perform such other duties in connection therewith as the commission shall direct. (107 v. 504; 101 v. 329.)

Section 8965-7. (Certificate of inspector.) Each inspector, if he shall approve of the boiler and the appurtenances throughout, shall make and subscribe his name to a written or printed certificate which shall contain the number of each boiler inspected, the date of its inspection, the condition of the boiler and appurtenances, and such details as may be required by the forms and regulations which shall be prescribed by the railroad commission. Every such certificate shall be verified by the oath of the inspector, and he shall cause said certificate to be filed in the office of the railroad commission within ten days after each inspection shall be made, and also a copy thereof with the officer or employee of such railroad having immediate charge of the operation of such locomotive boiler, which copy shall be placed by such officer or employee in a conspicuous place in the cab connected with the locomotive boiler inspected, and there kept framed under glass. (May 20, 1910, 101 v. 329.)

Section 8965-8. (Penalties.) Every person, firm or corporation operating such railroad and violating any of the provisions of this act shall be liable to a penalty to be paid to the general revenue fund of the state, of one hundred dollars ($100.00) for each offense, and the further penalty of one hundred dollars ($100.00) for each day it or they shall omit or neglect to comply with said provisions; and the making or filing of a false certificate shall be a misdemeanor, and every inspector who wilfully certifies falsely touching any steam boiler or appurtenances thereto belonging, or any matter or thing contained or required to be contained in any certificate signed and sworn to by him, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined in any sum not less than two hundred dollars ($200.00) nor more than five hundred dollars ($500.00). (May 20, 1910, 101 v. 329.)

Section 8965-9. It shall be the duty of the state railroad commission to enforce the provisions of this act. (May 20, 1910, 101 v. 330.)

Section 8965-10. This act shall take effect and be in force on and after September 1, 1910. (May 20, 1910, 101 v. 330.)

FIRES.

Section 8966. (Spark arresters.) Except in the months of December, January and February, any company or person operating a railroad or a part of one, shall place on every locomotive engine used therefor, or in construction or repairing the road, such device or contrivance as most effectually will guard against the escape of fire or sparks that otherwise would be thrown out by such engines, and keep the device in good repair. (R. S. Sec. 3365-1; April 9, 1885, 82 v. 118, § 1.)

Character of spark arrester required. This section requires a railroad company to use a spark arrester which will most effectually guard against the emission of sparks.

Railway Co. v. Wahlers, 1 C. C. n. s. 139; 14 C. D. 310 (1902).

It is sufficient compliance that the spark arrester used is the best in general use.

Railroad Co. v. Kelly, 10 C. C. 322; 6 C. D. 555 (1895); aff'd, 56 S. 785.

See Railroad Co. v. Fredenbur, 3 C. C. 23; 2 C. D. 15 (1887).

A higher degree of care is imposed by this section than was required by common law. Railroad Co. v. Ohio Co., 214 Fed. 751 (C. C. A. Ohio 1914).

To show that a certain netting or arrester is in general use in the United States, the company can not show its use on particular roads.

Lake Side, etc., R. R. Co. v. Kelly, 10 C. C. 322; 6 C. D. 555 (1895); aff'd, 56 O. S. 785.

Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Fredenbur, 3 C. C. 23; 2 C. D. 15 (1887).

Evidence.

— Expert testimony. Where witnesses for the railroad company testified that the engine was equipped with the most approved kind of spark arresting device, and that it was in good condition, the plaintiff may show, in rebuttal, that on the same day other fires were caused by sparks from the same engine within two miles of plaintiff's property, and by experts that such fact would indicate that the spark arrester was not in good condition.

Toledo, etc., R. v. Star Flouring Mills, 146 Fed. 953; 15 O. F. D. 321 (C. C. A. 1906).

Where witnesses for the railroad company testified that the engine was equipped with a proper spark arrester, and witnesses for the plaintiff testified that the engine threw out live sparks, larger than any which could pass through the device described, the question was held to be one of fact for the jury. Railroad Co. v. Ohio Co., 214 Fed. 751 (C. C. A. Ohio 1914).

It is not competent to ask a witness to examine the spark arrester complained of and to state whether it was the most efficient in preventing fires. The proper way is to get all the knowledge the expert has upon the different kinds of netting used, the different classes of spark arresters, their efficiency, etc., and to submit to the jury the question as to the efficiency of the arresters.

Cleveland, etc., Ry. Co. v. McKelvey, 12 C. C. 426 (1895); 5 C. D. 561.

The testimony of expert witnesses is competent to show the different kinds of netting that were used by different roads, to enable the jury to say whether the appliance used was proper. An expert may testify as to defects in the mode of attaching a spark arrester, and as to the effect of sparks and their vitality, and the distance they will carry and still start a fire.

Cleveland, etc., Ry. Co. v. McKelvey, 12 C. C. 426 (1895); 5 C. D. 561.

Expert testimony is admissible to prove that a properly constructed locomotive will not throw sparks a long distance, although the fact that the witness has not been in the employ of a railroad for a long time may affect the weight of his testimony.

Martz v. Cincinnati, etc., R. R. Co., 12 C. C. 144 (1896); 5 C. D. 561

— Fires set by other engines. Where it is alleged that the appliances were defective and the management negligent, it is only competent to show that other engines of the company emitted sparks and coal on other occasions, when such evidence is limited and confined to a time and place not remote from the fire, and not until evidence has first been given tending to exclude the probability that the fire was communicated by any other means.

Pennsylvania Co. v. Rossman, 13 C. C. 111; 7 C. D. 119 (1896).

— Specimens of wire. Specimens of wire netting can not be used as showing the netting used by the defendant, unless it is shown when it was used.

Cleveland, etc., Ry. Co. v. McKelvey, 12 C. C. 426; 5 C. D. 561 (1895).

Charge to jury. The following request and charge is proper, where the fire occurred in one of the months excepted: "The laws of Ohio expressly permit a railroad company to operate its engines during the months of December, January and February, without using a spark arresting device, and if, therefore, you find that the defendant's engine was, at the time of the fire, equipped with and using such a device, that was merely a voluntary precaution against fire taken by the defendant, and which the law did not require of it. The jury are, therefore, not concerned with the questions whether the spark arrester was or was not of the best pattern, or was or was not in repair except as the fact that it was of the best pattern and was in good repair, if proved, may tend to show that the engine so equipped did not and could not have started the fire."

Railroad Co. v. Burr, 82 O. S. 129, 135, 136 (1910).

See Railway Co. v. Kelly, 10 C. C. 322; 6 C. D. 555 (1895); aff'd, 56 O. S. 785.

Negligence. Decisions prior to amendment of § 8970 and repeal of § 8971. A failure to comply with this section would be regarded as negligence per se.

Continental Trust Co. v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., 89 Fed. 637; 40 W. L. B. 379 (1898).

The exception in this section relative to the months of December to February, does not relieve a company from the ordinary legal duty to observe proper care to avoid injuring the property of others by fire.

Toledo, etc., Ry. Co. v. Wickenden, 11 C. C. 378 (1896); 5 C. D. 171.

The inspection of the locomotive and appliances before sending it upon the road, and finding it then in good order, is not sufficient to avoid liability; they must be kept in good order on the line of road.

Cleveland, etc., R. R. Co. v. Fredenbur, 3 C. C. 23; 2 C. D. 15 (1887).

The fact that a high wind caused a greater draft and fire to escape is no defense unless it appears that a locomotive properly constructed with suitable appliances necessarily emits fire during a high wind.

Cleveland, etc., R. R. Co. v. Fredenbur, 3 C. C. 23 (1887); 2 C. D. 15; s. c., 23 W. L. B. 434.

In an action against a railroad company for damages by fire emitted from the smokestack, when it is shown by the evidence that a locomotive properly constructed and equipped with the best appliances in general use, will not emit sparks, and that the fire was caused by sparks from the company's locomotive, the burden of proof is upon the company to prove that its locomotive and appliances were properly constructed and in good order.

Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Fredenbur, 3 C. C. 23 (1887); 2 C. D. 15.

An action under any of these sections involves title to real estate; and a justice of the peace has no jurisdiction.

Erie R. R. Co. v. Furry, 18 C. C. 880 (1894); s. c., 31 W. L. B. 282.

Section 8967. (Forfeiture under preceding section.) A railroad company, corporation or person violating the provisions of the next preceding section, upon conviction thereof in a court of competent jurisdiction, shall forfeit and pay for each violation any sum not exceeding one hundred dollars. In addition thereto the court of common pleas, in a county through which such railroads are constructed and operated, may enjoin such companies, corporations or persons from using on such railroads, a locomotive not provided with the device hereinbefore required. (R. S. Sec. 3365-2; April 9, 1885, 82 v. 118, § 2.)

Section 8968. (Company must keep right of way free from combustible material.) Every company, or person in charge of a railroad as manager or receiver, shall keep the right of way clear from weeds, high grass, and decayed timber, which from nature or condition are combustible, and liable to take or communicate fire from passing locomotives to abutting or adjacent property. Such company shall be liable for all damages sustained by the owner or occupant of such property from carelessness or neglect to keep its right of way clear of such combustible material. (R. S. Sec. 3365-3; March 24, 1890, 87 v. 99, § 1.)

A grain elevator is not combustible material.

Martz v. Railroad Co., 12 C. C. 144; 5 C. D. 451 (1896).

Whether the fire was negligently allowed to escape or not is immaterial.

Indiana, etc., Ry. Co. v. Overman, 110 Ind. 538 (1886).

Louisville, etc., Ry. Co. v. Nitcher, 126 Ind. 229 (1890).

Galveston, etc., R. R. Co. v. Polk, 28 S. W. (Tex.) 353 (1894).

See Pittsburg, etc., Ry. Co. v. Hixon, 79 Ind. 111 (1881).

The entire width of the right of way must be cleared.

Blue v. Railroad Co., 23 S. E. 275 (N. C. 1895).

Constitutionality of Indiana statute requiring railroad companies to cut noxious weeds. Railway Co. v. Anderson, 242 U. S. 283 (1916).

Section 8969. (When abutting owner may remove combustible material.) In case of failure to comply with the above requirements, a person owning or controlling property abutting on or adjacent to a railroad right of way, after twenty days' notice in writing, the default still continuing, may cause all combustible material to be removed from the right of way along or by such property. Upon presentation of a reasonable account therefor to the agent at the nearest station of such company or receiver, if it or he refuses to pay the amount asked, within thirty days, it may be recovered before any court having jurisdiction thereof. (R. S. Sec. 3365-4; March 24, 1890, 87 v. 99, § 2.)

Section 8970. (Liability of railroad company for loss or damage by fire.) Every company, or receiver of such company, operating a railroad or a part of one shall be liable for all loss or damage by fires originating upon the land belonging to it caused by operating such road. Such company, or receiver of such company, further shall be liable for all loss or damage by fires originating on lands adjacent to its land, caused in whole or part by sparks from an engine passing over such railroad, and the exercise by such company, or receiver of such company, of due care in equipping and operating such engine shall not exempt such company, or receiver of such company, from such liability, which may be recovered before any court of competent jurisdiction within the county in which the lands on which such loss or damage occurs are situated. The existence of fires upon the railroad company's lands is prima facie evidence that they are caused by operating such railroad. Provided that nothing herein shall invalidate or prohibit contracts of such company or receiver now existing or hereafter made, by which such company or receiver is indemnified against such loss or damage by fire, or liability therefor released. (May 5, 1911, 102 v. 108; R. S. Sec. 3365-5; April 26, 1894, 91 v. 187.)

Act: history and occasion for.

Insurance Co. v. Railway, 74 O. S. 30, 33, 35 (1906).

Before the amendment of 1911 (102 v. 108) this section and § 8972 were held constitutional.

Baltimore, etc., Ry. Co. v. Kreager, 61 O. S. 312 (1899).

Martz v. Railroad Co., 12 C. C. 144; 5 C. D. 451 (1896).

Liability in absence of statute. In the absence of a statute, the decisions are generally to the effect that a railroad company is not liable for loss caused by fire, unless it was occasioned by its negligence.

Insurance Co. v. Railway, 74 O. S. 30, 33 to 35 (1906).

And negligence could not be inferred from the mere fact that injury to the adjacent property was caused by sparks from the locomotive.

Ruffner v. Railroad Co., 34 O. S. 96 (1877).

Railroad Co. v. Fredenbur, 3 C. C. 23; 2 C. D. 15 (1888).

Cincinnati, etc., Ry. v. Coal Co., 139 Fed. 528; 1 L. R. A. n. s. 533 (C. C. A. 1905).

Railway v. Bell, 206 Fed. 395 (C. C. A. 1913).

An owner of lumber piled on the right of way with consent of the railroad company may recover where the lumber is destroyed by fire occurring through negligence in the operation of trains. Cincinnati, etc., Railway v. Coal Co., 139 Fed. 528; 1 L. R. A. n. s. 533 (C. C. A. 1905).

Liability under § 8970. This section imposes upon every railroad company operating a railroad in this state an absolute liability for loss or damage by fire, originating on its land, caused by operating the road and the fact that the fire originated on the land of the company is made prima facie evidence that it was caused by operating the road. In an action for loss or damage, it is not necessary to allege or prove negligence on the part of the company; nor is the absence of such negligence a defense.

Baltimore, etc., Ry. Co. v. Kreager, 61 O. S. 312 (1899).

Lake Erie, etc., R. Co. v. Falk, 62 O. S. 297 (1900).

See Martz v. Railroad Co., 12 C. C. 144; 5 C. D. 451 (1896).

This section applies to railroad companies in existence and which obtained their right of way prior to its enactment as well as to companies organized since.

Railway Co. v. Kreager, 61 O. S. 312 (1899).

In an action brought by the owner of property destroyed by fire against a railroad company, an insurance company, having made payment to the owner of a portion of the loss, may intervene for the purpose of being subrogated to the extent of its payment. The amount recovered from the railroad company should be adjudged to the owner and insurer according to the interest of each.

Railroad Co. v. Falk, 62 O. S. 297 (1900).

A prima facie case is made out under this statute when evidence is offered tending to prove the facts set out in the statute, the fire, the loss of property, and that the fire was caused by sparks coming from an engine belonging to the defendant.

Toledo, etc., Ry. Co. v. Wales, 11 C. C. 371; 5 C. D. 168 (1896).

A railroad is not liable where the fire originated on land owned by it, but leased for elevator purposes to others, the railroad having no control over the premises. Compton v. Railway, 12 Ohio App. 322 (1919).

Contract exempting railroad company from liability. A stipulation in a lease made by a railroad company that it shall not be liable to the lessee for damages to property on the demised premises, caused by fire accidentally or negligently communicated in the operation of the road, is valid.

Insurance Co. v. Railway, 74 O. S. 30 (1906).

Such lessee and his insurers can not recover for loss by fire, when the fire was communicated to a part of the building located on the demised premises.

Insurance Co. v. Railway, 74 O. S. 30 (1906).

Contracts of indemnity purporting to relieve one from the results of his failure to exercise ordinary care should be strictly construed. A contract whereby a lessee agreed to save harmless a railroad company, lessor, from loss, damage or injury "by fire or otherwise", was held to include only loss from fire or kindred causes and not to include injury to an employe of the lessee by negligent operation of lessor's locomotive. Lumber Co. v. Erie Rd. Co., 102 O. S. 236 (1921); Sugar Co. v. Railroad, 104 O. S. 608 (1922).

Contributory negligence of plaintiff. The mere fact that the owner stored inflammable property on his premises near the railroad right of way, and that the railroad company preceded the owner in the establishment of its business, does not amount to contributory negligence. Leroy Fibre Co. v. Railway Co., 232 U. S. 340 (1914).

An adjoining owner is not limited in the use of his property by its proximity to a railroad; nor is he subject to the careless as well as the careful operation of the road. Leroy Fibre Co. v. Railway Co., 232 U. S. 340 (1914); Railroad Co. v. Coal Co., 139 Fed. 528, 530 (C. C. A. Ohio).

Measure of damages. The measure of damages is the actual value of the property, and not what it would have cost to reconstruct or replace the same, with deductions for wear and tear. Under such a rule the damages might far exceed the actual value of the property and the actual loss to the plaintiffs. Where property totally destroyed has a market value, that market value is the measure of compensation for the loss.

Cleveland, etc., Ry. Co. v. McKelvey, 12 C. C. 426; 5 C. D. 561 (1895).

When the property destroyed under circumstances which make the company liable therefor is insured, the right of the owner as against the railroad company and the insurer is limited to indemnity for his loss.

Lake Erie, etc., R. R. Co. v. Falk, 62 O. S. 297 (1900).

A letter from the plaintiff to the company written soon after the fire, stating the amount of loss, does not limit the recovery to such amount, where evidence detailing the loss shows that it exceeds the amount stated. Railway v. Applegate, 1 Ohio App. 350; 17 C. C. n. s. 256; 24 C. D. 338 (1913); aff'd, no rep. 90 O. S. 445.

Parties plaintiff. Section 8970 inures both to the owner of property destroyed and, by way of subrogation, to insurance companies making payment to the owner under policies. The owner and insurance companies may join in an action. Railway v. Mauk, 9 Ohio App. 438; 29 O. C. A. 257 (1918); motion to certify record overruled, 16 O. L. R. 349.

Pleading. A petition is sufficient under this section which avers that fire and sparks were emitted by a locomotive of defendant, causing fire on the railroad right of way and plaintiff's land, the plaintiff being ignorant as to whether the fire started on his land or that of the railway company.

Railway Co. v. Anderson, 7 C. C. n. s. 17; 17 C. D. 577 (1904).

The direction in which the locomotive was moving need not be alleged. An averment that the locomotive was moving in a southerly direction is immaterial and need not be proved. Railway v. James, 1 Ohio App. 335; 18 C. C. n. s. 210 (1913).

Proof.

— As to ownership of tracks. It is not necessary to show ownership of the tracks. If the proof shows the defendant was the owner, and operated the engine that caused the fire, it is sufficient to make a case.

Toledo, etc., Ry. Co. v. Wales, 11 C. C. 371 (1896).

— As to cause of fire. Where the proof shows that a locomotive passed a short time before the fire; that the wind was blowing in the direction of the plaintiff's land with sufficient force to carry sparks thereon, and that there were no other fires in the neighborhood at the time, the jury is warranted in finding that the fire originated from sparks from such locomotive.

Railway Co. v. Anderson, 7 C. C. n. s. 17; 17 C. D. 577 (1904).

It is competent to show that the fire started in the grass along the track soon after the passage of the engine, and that about that time and immediately after the passage of the locomotive other fires occurred in the neighborhood.

Lake Side, etc., R. R. Co. v. Kelly, 10 C. C. 322; 6 C. D. 555 (1885); aff'd, 56 O. S. 785.

Where the particular locomotive that is claimed to have set the fire is not traceable, it may be shown that the railway company was reckless in this particular, and it would be competent to show that every one of the company's locomotives emitted fire.

Lake Shore, etc., R. R. Co. v. Kelly, 10 C. C. 322; 6 C. D. 555 (1895); aff'd, 56 O. S. 785.

Martz v. Cincinnati, etc., R. R. Co., 12 C. C. 144; 5 C. D. 451 (1896).

If it is clearly established that cinders picked up and produced in evidence came from the engine, it would be competent to admit them in evidence.

Cleveland, etc., Ry. Co. v. McKelvey, 12 C. C. 426; 5 C. D. 561 (1895).

It is incumbent upon the plaintiff to prove that the fire was caused in whole or in part by sparks from an engine upon or passing over or along the railroad while the defendant was operating it. Insurance Co. v. Railway, 2 Ohio App. 136; 18 C. C. n. s. 502 (1913); Columbus Hoop Co. v. Railway, 20 N. P. n. s. 529 (1918); Minneapolis Co. v. Railway, 83 Minn. 370; 86 N. W. 451 (1901).

Where the evidence warranted the conclusion that the fire originated from sparks emitted from a locomotive, the court refused to set aside the verdict on the theory that the fire originated from the chimney of the burned building. Railway Co. v. Applegate, 1 Ohio App. 350; 17 C. C. n. s. 256; 24 C. D. 338 (1913); aff'd, no rep. 90 O. S. 445.

A party may rest his case when he has made out a prima facie case under this statute, but he can not withhold evidence confirmatory of such prima facie case and offer it in rebuttal, unless that evidence would also actually be rebutting evidence.

Toledo, etc., Ry. Co. v. Wales, 11 C. C. 371 (1896); 5 C. D. 168.

Jurisdiction of justice of peace. A justice of the peace has no jurisdiction for the reason that the action involves the title or possession to real estate, and not an action of trespass.

Furry v. Erie R. R. Co., 31 W. L. B. 282 (1894); s. c., 18 C. C. 880.

Section 8971 (Repealed May 5, 1911, 102 v. 109.)

The communication of fire from a locomotive was by this section made prima facie evidence of negligence.

B. & O. Ry. v. Kreager, 61 O. S. 312 (1899).

Railway Co. v. Anderson, 7 C. C. n. s. 17; 17 C. D. 577 (1904).

Railway Co. v. Wahlers, 1 C. C. n. s. 139; 14 C. D. 310 (1902).

Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Star Flouring Mills, 146 Fed. 953 (C. C. A. 1906); 15 O. F. D. 321.

Continental Trust Co. v. Railroad Co., 89 Fed. 637 (1898).

Section 8972. (What not considered negligence.) In no case shall it be considered as negligence on the part of the owner or occupant of property so injured by fire, that he used it, or permitted it to be used and remain as if no railroad passed through or near such property. But this rule shall not apply in cases of injury by fire to personalty which at the time was on the property occupied by such road. (R. S. Sec. 3365-6; April 26, 1894, 91 v. 188, § 2.)

Section 8973. (Costs in appeal and attorney fee.) If either party appeals from the judgment of a court in which an action under the three next preceding sections is begun, or carries the case up on error, the party in whose favor judgment finally is rendered shall have included in his bill no case shall it be considered as negligence on the part of of costs against the adverse party, an attorney fee of fifty dollars, if it is not carried beyond the circuit court. But if carried to the supreme court of Ohio an attorney fee of one hundred dollars shall be included in his bill of costs. (R. S. Sec. 3365-7; April 26, 1894, 91 v. 188, § 3.)

This section is unconstitutional.

Rowland v. Railroad Co., 13 C. C. n. s. 221; 22 C. D. 93 (1910).

See Coal Co. v. Rosser, 53 O. S. 12.

But it is severable from the other sections of the original act and does not affect their validity.

Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Kreager, 61 O. S. 312 (1899).

Section 8974. (Application of sections.) Sections eighty-nine hundred and seventy-one and eighty-nine hundred and seventy-two shall apply to all cases now pending, as well as to those hereafter to be commenced. (R. S. Sec. 3365-8; April 26, 1894, 91 v. 188, § 4.)

WIRES OVER TRACKS.

Section 8975. (Rules and regulations governing the construction, maintenance, etc., of telephone, telegraph, etc., wires.) The public utilities commission shall, within six months after this act takes effect, determine standards of maintenance and operation and also the nature, location and character of the construction to be used where telegraph, telephone, electric light, power, or other electric wires of any kind cross or more or less parallel the line of a railroad, interurban railway or other public utility, and to this end shall formulate, and from time to time issue rules and regulations and complete detailed specifications, covering each class of construction, maintenance and operation of such electric wire crossing and (or) parallel, under the various conditions existing; and the commission upon complaint of any person, railroad, interurban railway, or public utility, claiming to be injuriously affected or subjected to hazard, shall, after hearing, make such order and prescribe such terms and conditions for the construction, maintenance and operation of the lines, plants, or systems, as to it may seem just and reasonable. (109 v. 526; R. S. Sec. 3365-28; 93 v. 154, § 1.)

See Street Railway Co. v. Railroad Co., 21 C. C. 391; 12 C. D. 113 (1898); aff'd, 64 O. S. 550.

See also § 8903 et seq.

Section 8976. (Duty of the public utilities commission.)

The public utilities commission shall see that the provisions of the next preceding section are enforced, and for that purpose shall have power to cause the removal of such telegraph, telephone, electric light, power or other electric wires of any kind crossing or paralleling such other line and not in accordance with the rules, regulations, and specifications issued by said commission. (109 v. 527; R. S. Sec. 3365-29; 93 v. 154, § 2.)

CHAPTER 5.

FARE AND FREIGHT.

Passenger Fare.

- § 8977. Rates of passenger fare.
- § 8978. Excess fare on trains.
- § 8979. Bicycle as baggage.

Freight Charges.

- § 8980. Repealed.
- § 8981. Points competing with public works.
- § 8982. Tariff of rates published; how changed.
- § 8983. Contracts prohibited.
- § 8984. Trunk roads not to discriminate between roads.
- § 8985. Must forward freight by line named by shipper.
- § 8986. Provisions may be enforced by injunction.
- § 8987. No discrimination between way and through freight.
- § 8988. Repealed.
- § 8989. Repealed.
- § 8990. Must furnish equal facilities to same class of shippers.
- § 8991. Damages.
- § 8992. Passengers on freight trains.
- § 8993. To furnish bills of lading.
- § 8993-1. Bills of lading must contain, what.
- § 8993-2. (Carrier may insert in bill, what.)
- § 8993-3. (Nonnegotiable or straight bill.)

- § 8993-4. When negotiable.
- § 8993-5. Shall not be issued in sets; to what countries; liability when so issued.
- § 8993-6. When "duplicate" should appear on the face of bill.
- § 8993-7. "Nonnegotiable."
- § 8993-8. When negotiability not limited.
- § 8993-9. When estopped from denial.
- § 8993-10. Carrier bound to deliver goods, when.
- § 8993-11. (To whom carrier to deliver goods.)
- § 8993-12. Carrier liable for wrongful delivery.
- § 8993-13. Delivery to purchaser of bill in good faith.
- § 8993-14. Exceptions.
- § 8993-15. Effect of alteration.
- § 8993-16. Lost or destroyed negotiable bill; delivery under order of court does not relieve carrier from liability, without notice.
- § 8993-17. Effect of "duplicate" on face of bill.
- § 8993-18. When title no excuse from liability for refusal to deliver goods.
- § 8993-19. Interpleader.
- § 8993-20. Opposing claimants.
- § 8993-21. Defense.
- § 8993-22. Liability of issuing carrier.

- § 8993-23. No attachment after delivery to carrier.
- § 8993-24. Injunction.
- § 8993-25. No lien except for freight, etc.
- § 8993-26. Not liable for delivery, after selling for carriers' lien.
- § 8993-27. When bill negotiated by delivery.
- § 8993-28. Negotiated by endorsement.
- § 8993-29. Transfer by delivery.
- § 8993-30. (Holder of negotiable bill may negotiate same, when.)
- § 8993-31. Title acquired by negotiated bill.
- § 8993-32. Rights when bill transferred but not negotiated.
- § 8993-33. Rights when transferred for value by delivery.
- § 8993-34. Warrants; when transfer for value by endorsement or delivery.
- § 8993-35. Previous endorsers.
- § 8993-36. Payment to mortgagee no warrant as to quality or quantity.
- § 8993-37. Validity not impaired when negotiation was by fraud, etc.
- § 8993-38. Effect of sale to purchaser in good faith and for value.
- § 8993-39. Bill shall indicate, what.
- § 8993-40. Draft with bill of lading attached; assumptions.
- § 8993-41. Sellers' lien nor right of stoppage in transitu, shall defeat of purchaser for value.
- § 8993-42. Rights of mortgagee or lien holder.
- § 8993-43. Fraud; penalty.
- § 8993-44. False statement; penalty.
- § 8993-45. Unauthorized duplicate bills; penalty.
- § 8993-46. Penalty for transfer of negotiable bill for value, without title, or mortgaged.
- § 8993-47. Penalty for negotiating bill for value, for goods not in possession.
- § 8993-48. Penalty for obtaining bill falsely, when goods not delivered to carrier.
- § 8993-49. Aid in obtaining false bills; penalty.
- § 8993-50. Other laws applicable.
- § 8993-51. Uniformity.
- § 8993-52. Definitions.
- § 8993-53. (Exemptions.)
- § 8993-54. (Act takes effect, when.)
- § 8994. Forfeiture.
- § 8995. Storage and warehouse certificate.
- § 8996. Rates of fare and freight on branch roads.
- § 8997. When connections may be made.
- § 8998. When companies must switch cars of other companies.
- § 8999. When companies must transport cars of other companies.
- § 9000. Rates for switching cars of other companies.
- § 9001. How distance computed.
- § 9002. Penalty for overcharge.
- § 9003. Separate actions for each violation.
- § 9004. When provisions do not apply.

PASSENGER FARE.

Section 8977. (Rates of passenger fare.) A company operating a railroad in whole or in part in this state may demand and receive for the transportation of passengers on its road, not exceeding three cents per mile, for a distance of more than five miles, but the fare shall always be made that multiple of five nearest reached by multiplying the rate by the distance. (108 (Pt. 2) v. 1165; R. S. Sec. 3374; 98 v. 4; 73 v. 102, § 13.)

Schedule of fares to be posted and filed, §§ 8981, 505 et seq.

Power of public utilities commission over fares, §§ 527, 535.

Penalty for violation of this section, §§ 9002, 9003.

Under the Federal Transportation Act of 1920 the Interstate Commerce Commission may change rates fixed by a state statute or state commission, the effect of which is an undue, unreasonable or unjust discrimination against interstate or foreign commerce. R. Com. of Wis. v. C. B. & Q. Ry. (U. S. Sup. Ct. 1922); 66 L. Ed. 236; New York v. U. S., 66 L. Ed. 244.

Unit of measurement. The unit of measurement provided by this section is one mile and fractions of a mile are not to be counted. The words "more than five miles" are equivalent to six miles. The limit of three cents per mile applies first to six miles, then to seven and so on. For any distance less than six miles the limit does not apply.

Railway Co. v. Wells, 65 O. S. 313 (1901).

See Scheidler v. Railway, 20 C. C. 712; 10 C. D. 822.

Multiple of five. A railroad company may charge as fare that multiple of five which is nearest to the product produced by multiplying the rate of three cents per mile by the distance, whether such multiple is above or below such product. If such product should be equidistant from the multiple below and the one above, the company may charge as fare either multiple.

C. C. & St. L. Ry. Co. v. Wells, 61 O. S. 268 (1899).

See Railroad Co. v. Skillman, 39 O. S. 444 (1883).

Heaton v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 1 N. P. 433 (1894); s. c., 2 L. D.

47.

Scheidler v. Railway Co., 20 C. C. 712; 10 C. D. 822.

Distance less than five miles. For any distance less than six miles the limit does not apply.

Railway Co. v. Wells, 65 O. S. 313 (1901).

The railroad company may charge a reasonable rate. Whether the rate is unreasonable is a question for the jury.

Railroad Co. v. Skillman, 39 O. S. 444 (1883).

Smith v. Railway Co., 23 O. S. 10 (1872).

Peters v. Railroad Co., 42 O. S. 275 (1884).

Campbell v. Railroad Co., 23 O. S. 168, 190 (1872).

Application of section to companies organizing under special charter.

See Railroad Co. v. Cole, 29 O. S. 126 (1876).

Shields v. State, 26 O. S. 86 (1875); s. c., 95 U. S. 319.

Railroad Co. v. Moore, 33 O. S. 384 (1878).

See also § 8732.

Tickets.

Right to require tickets. A railroad company has a right to require passengers on freight trains to procure tickets prior to taking passage.

Railroad Co. v. Bartram, 11 O. S. 457 (1860).

Hatten v. Railroad Co., 39 O. S. 375 (1883).

Nature of ticket. A ticket is a convenient symbol to represent the fact that the bearer has paid to the company the agreed price for his conveyance upon the road to the place therein designated.

Frank v. Ingalls, 41 O. S. 560, 563 (1885).

Railroad Co. v. Campbell, 36 O. S. 647, 658 (1881).

The contract between the railroad company and passenger may be proved by parol evidence aside from the ticket.

Penna. Co. v. Loftis, 72 O. S. 288, 300 (1905).

See Penna. Co. v. O'Connell, 84 O. S. 218, 221 (1911).

Railroad Co. v. Cook, 37 O. S. 265 (1881).

Where the language of a ticket is ambiguous it should be construed most strongly against the carrier and in favor of the purchaser.

Ann Arbor Ry. v. Amos, 85 O. S. 300 (1912).

— Is for continuous passage. In the absence of any agreement or rule or regulation to the contrary, the obligation created by a sale of the ticket was for one continuous passage, and if the passenger voluntarily left the train at an intermediate station while the carrier was engaged in the performance of its contract, he thereby released it from further performance and had no right to demand such performance on another train at another time.

Hatten v. Railroad Co., 39 O. S. 375 (1883).

Cleveland, etc., R. R. Co. v. Bartram, 11 O. S. 457 (1860).

Where a continuous passage necessitates a change of trains it must be continued on the next available train.

Ellsworth v. Penna. Co., 2 C. C. n. s. 483; 15 C. D. 797 (1904);
aff'd, 74 O. S. 443.

But to relieve the carrier the continuity of the passage must be broken by the holder of the ticket without the assent or fault of the carrier. Where the passenger had no information as to the time of the next train and ignorantly allowed one train to pass, the continuity of the passage was not broken.

Ellsworth v. Penna. Co., 2 C. C. n. s. 483; 15 C. D. 797 (1904);
aff'd, 74 O. S. 443.

— Over connecting lines. A railroad company selling a coupon ticket over its own and connecting lines may, by contract, express or implied, make itself liable for safe carriage over the entire route, but the mere sale of such coupon ticket does not of itself import a contract to be responsible beyond its own line. The presumption is that the selling company acts as agent of the connecting lines.

Penna. Co. v. Loftis, 72 O. S. 288, 300 (1905).

See Railroad Co. v. Campbell, 36 O. S. 647 (1881).

Darlington v. Railway, 14 N. P. n. s. 427; 24 L. D. 37 (1913).

A stipulation, in a ticket over several lines, that the issuing company is acting as agent for connecting lines and is not responsible beyond its own line, relates to railroad transportation and not to a transfer between depots by motor vehicle. The issuing company in such a case is liable for damages caused by negligence of the driver of the vehicle. Harmon v. Barber, 17 O. L. R. 109; 247 Fed. 1 (C. C. A. Ohio 1918).

— Authority of agent to sell tickets. An agent authorized to sell tickets, and stamp and deliver the same upon receiving pay therefor, can not bind his company by stamping and delivering such tickets, without the knowledge or consent of its proper officers, to a third person, to be sold by him, and to be paid for when sold.

Frank v. Ingalls, 41 O. S. 560 (1885).

Terms and conditions in tickets.

Assent of purchaser essential. The purchaser of a ticket does not, by its mere acceptance, acquiesce in, and bind himself to, all the terms and conditions printed therein in the absence of actual knowledge of them.

Kent v. Railroad Co., 45 O. S. 284, 288 (1887).

Railroad Co. v. Campbell, 36 O. S. 647 (1881).

Although the ticket is sold at a reduced rate.

Kent v. Railroad Co., 45 O. S. 284, 288 (1887).

Railway Co. v. Mortal, 18 C. C. 562; 8 C. D. 134 (1897).

A passenger purchasing a ticket, immediately before the departure of the train, is not guilty of negligence in not examining the ticket.

Ann Arbor Ry. Co. v. Amos, 85 O. S. 300 (1912).

Waiver of conditions. Conditions in a ticket may be waived by the acts or conduct of the railroad company or its agents.
Requirement of continuous passage.

Ellsworth v. Penna. Co., 2 C. C. n. s. 483; 15 C. D. 797 (1904); aff'd, 74 O. S. 443.

Signature of purchaser in mileage book.

Kent v. Railroad Co., 45 O. S. 284 (1887).

Where a person has a ticket, purchased from a company, entitling him to be carried from a certain station to another on the line of its road, and is good only on trains stopping at his destination, is, by the fault of the company's station agent, induced to take a train that does not, under the schedule stop at such place, and as a consequence is ejected by the conductor on calling for his ticket, and before reaching his destination, such facts show a right in the passenger against the company to recover as for a tort, and not merely for breach of contract.

Pittsburg, etc., Ry. Co. v. Reynolds, 55 O. S. 370 (1896).

See Pennsylvania Co. v. Wentz, 37 O. S. 333 (1881).

Haskins v. Lake Shore, etc., Ry. Co., 4 W. L. B. 951 (1879).

Special conditions. Time limit. Where a railroad company sold a ticket, which entitled the purchaser to ride upon its cars a certain number of times within a given period, for a price below the usual rate of fare, which ticket specified upon its face that it was only good during such period, the purchaser, having failed to ride the specified number of times within the period named, is not entitled to ride upon such ticket after the expiration of the period.

Powell v. Pittsburg, etc., R. R. Co., 25 O. S. 70 (1874).

Pennsylvania Co. v. Hine, 41 O. S. 276 (1884).

— Continuous passage. A stipulation for continuous passage is reasonable.

Ellsworth v. Penna. Co., 2 C. C. n. s. 483; 15 C. D. 797 (1904); aff'd, 74 O. S. 443.

— Ticket nontransferable. Stipulations, in tickets sold at reduced rates, that the tickets were to be nontransferable, and requiring the original purchasers to identify themselves by subscribing their names whenever required, are valid.

Kinner v. Railway Co., 69 O. S. 339, 340, 345 (1904); affm'g, 3 C. C. n. s. 401; 13 C. D. 294.

A railroad company, having sold return tickets containing such stipulation, is entitled to an injunction against ticket brokers acquiring the return portions of such tickets and selling them to others to be used by them in violation of the terms of the contract. The fact that the railway company had agreed with other carriers respecting the reduction of rates and conditions of tickets is no defense to the ticket brokers.

Kinner v. Railway Co., 69 O. S. 339 (1904).

A railroad company has no right to confiscate a nontransferable mileage book, purchased by a ticket broker in a fictitious name, when found in the hands of another person. But the conductor may refuse to accept such ticket and collect the regular fare.

Morton v. Railway Co., 20 C. C. 666; 10 C. D. 812; 35 W. L. B. 359 (1898); affirming, 7 N. P. 605; 5 L. D. 580.

In the absence of a stipulation, restricting transfer, a ticket is transferable.

Penna. Co. v. O'Connell, 84 O. S. 218, 220, 221 (1911).

A ticket, with no limitation as to transfer on its face, is good in the hands of one who has purchased it from the original purchaser, or from a ticket broker or "scalper", when the purchase is made without knowledge of an undisclosed rule of the railroad company prohibiting such transfer.

Knecht v. Railway Co., 6 N. P. n. s. 13; 18 L. D. 202 (C. P. 1907).

— Exempting railroad company from liability for negligence.

A stipulation in a drover's ticket exempting the company from liability for negligence is void.

Cleveland, etc., R. R. Co. v. Curran, 19 O. S. 1 (1869).

The validity of a stipulation in a free pass exempting a carrier from liability for negligence must be determined by the law of the place where made.

Knowlton v. Erie Ry. Co., 19 O. S. 260 (1869).

An express messenger is not regarded as a passenger, and a contract, between the messenger and express company, exempting the railroad company from liability was held valid.

Railway v. Voight, 176 U. S. 498 (1900).

Lost tickets, rights of owner. The purchaser of a nontransferable commutation ticket, who has lost it, and refuses, on account of such loss, to pay his fare upon a train, can not maintain an action against the company for being ejected from the train.

Crawford v. Cincinnati, etc., R. R. Co., 26 O. S. 580 (1875).

Right of holder of fraudulently obtained ticket. When the possession of a railroad passenger ticket, which entitles the holder to a first-class passage between points named therein, has been fraudulently obtained from the company, a person purchasing such ticket from the holder thereof, although for value and without notice of equities, acquires no title thereto.

Frank v. Ingalls, 41 O. S. 560 (1885).

Passage on freight trains. A railroad company has the right to prescribe reasonable conditions for the admittance of way passengers upon its freight trains; and payment of fare to its office agents, or procuring a ticket prior to taking passage on such trains, is not an unreasonable condition.

Cleveland, etc., R. R. Co. v. Bartrain, 11 O. S. 457 (1860).

Expulsion from train on refusal to pay. A railway company has the right to require passengers to pay fare, and a rule directing its conductors to remove from the cars those who refuse to comply with the requirement is reasonable.

Shelton v. Lake Shore, etc., Ry. Co., 29 O. S. 214 (1876).

Traction Co. v. Rosnagle, 84 O. S. 310 (1911).

Crawford v. Cincinnati, etc., R. R. Co., 26 O. S. 580 (1875).

Railroad Co. v. Skillman, 39 O. S. 444 (1883).

Corry v. Cincinnati, etc., R. R. Co., 3 Gaz. 90 (1859).

See § 9157 and note.

A person having in charge a child of sufficient age to require payment of fare is liable for payment of the child's fare and both may be ejected for refusal to pay the same.

Railroad v. Orndorff, 55 O. S. 589 (1897).

When such person has paid fare, or purchased a ticket which has been taken up by the conductor, the unused value of the ticket or fare must be tendered back.

Railroad v. Orndorff, 55 O. S. 589 (1897).

A person refusing to pay fare acquires no right to remain on the train by offering to pay the usual fare after the train has been stopped for the purpose of ejecting him.

Railroad Co. v. Skillman, 39 O. S. 444 (1883).

An offer to pay the fare to an employe on the train unauthorized to receive the same is not an offer to the company, and does not entitle the person to passage.

Cleveland, etc., R. R. Co. v. Bartram, 11 O. S. 457 (1860).

A passenger failing to get a seat may refuse to ride, and bring suit, but if he rides he must give up his ticket and pay.

Close v. Cooper, 34 O. S. 98 (1877).

See Railway Co. v. McLean, 1 C. C. 112 (1885); 1 C. D. 67; 19 W. L. B. 217.

The fact that a ticket has been purchased by a passenger, which was afterward wrongfully taken up by a conductor of one of the defendant's trains, will not relieve the passenger from the duty of providing himself with a ticket or paying fare on another train of the defendant in which he may be a passenger. In such case the right of action of the passenger would be for the wrongful taking up of the ticket, and not for having been removed from a train by another conductor for refusing to pay fare.

Shelton v. Lake Shore, etc., Ry. Co., 29 O. S. 214 (1876).

See Railway v. Conner, 74 O. S. 225 (1906).

Wilt v. Railway Co., 21 C. C. 579; 11 C. D. 589.

A person is only entitled to compensatory damages where his object in taking passage on the train was to be ejected and to bring suit against the company.

Cincinnati, etc., R. R. Co. v. Cole, 29 O. S. 126 (1876).

Where a ticket is for passage over three lines, and calls for one exchange at the office of the intermediate line, and the agent in making the exchange negligently writes, in a coupon attached to the ticket, a wrong destination, but in the ticket itself inserts the proper destination, the passenger is entitled to be carried to the proper destination. On ejection from the train, he may recover substantial damages.

Ann Arbor Ry. v. Amos, 85 O. S. 300 (1912).

Where, by mistake of the ticket agent, the ticket is to a destination short of the proper destination, and the conductor informs the passenger that he will telegraph for instructions, which he does, it is the duty of the company to give proper instructions to the conductor.

Ann Arbor Ry. Co. v. Amos, 85 O. S. 300 (1912).

Where a conductor through an error of judgment expels a person who is entitled to ride, the company is liable.

Traction Co. v. Rosnagle, 84 O. S. 310 (1911).

Where a coin which is worn, bruised or cracked, but which is not appreciably diminished in weight, and retains evidence of genuine coinage, is tendered as fare, the passenger can not be expelled.

Traction Co. v. Rosnagle, 84 O. S. 310 (1911).

A person who was wrongfully ejected from a train between stations in the night time, and who was injured by falling into a cattle guard while making his way to the nearest highway crossing, may recover.

Railway Co. v. Willing, 5 C. C. n. s. 137; 14 C. D. 474 (1902).

A person who takes passage on a train which he knows does not stop at his destination may be ejected at any reasonably safe place between stations, upon his refusal to pay fare to the next stopping place.

Railway Co. v. Willing, 5 C. C. n. s. 137; 14 C. D. 474 (1902).

Section 8978. (Excess fare on trains.) Any company operating a railroad in whole or part within this state which has posted up proper notice to that effect in a conspicuous place in each waiting room and on the front of its depot building, may collect ten cents extra in addition to the fare allowed by law, when such fare is paid on the train, and if an office at the point at which the passenger boarded the train has been open for the sale of tickets at least thirty minutes next prior to the departure of such train. (R. S. Sec. 3374-a; April 7, 1908, 99 v. 65.)

A railroad company may charge a higher price for carrying passengers when the fare is paid on the train than it does at its ticket offices, provided the price thus charged is reasonable, and the fare charged on the train does not exceed the maximum allowed by law.

Railroad Co. v. Skillman, 39 O. S. 444 (1883).

See Smith v. Pittsburg, etc., Ry. Co., 23 O. S. 10 (1872).

If a railroad company fix two rates of passenger fare, to wit, a ticket rate and a car rate, the former within and the latter beyond the limits of its authority, and the conductor of the train, under the direction of the company, refuse to accept from the passenger less than the illegal and unauthorized rate, it is not necessary, to entitle the passenger to remain on the train, to tender more than the ticket rate, although the company might have fixed such ticket rate at a higher sum. Quaere, whether any tender is necessary in such case.

Smith v. Pittsburg, etc., Ry. Co., 23 O. S. 10 (1872).

Section 8979. (Bicycle as baggage.) For the purposes herein specified, bicycles, with or without lanterns or tool-boxes attached, are baggage, and shall be transported as such, for passengers, by all railroad companies, and be subject to the same charges and liabilities as other baggage. No passenger shall be required to crate, cover, or otherwise protect a bicycle. But such companies are not required to transport more than one bicycle for a single person. (R. S. Sec. 3378-2; March 3, 1898, 93 v. 24; April 27, 1896, 92 v. 372.)

A carrier can not limit the liability imposed by § 8994-1 to a specific sum, by a regulation filed with the public utilities commission and printed on the baggage check. Erie R. Co. v. Steinberg, 94 O. S. 189 (1916).

Nor may liability for loss of a parcel checked for safe keeping be so limited. Union Depot Co. v. Ulrich, 22 N. P. n. s. 141 (1918).

An initial carrier selling a ticket over its own and connecting lines, may be liable for baggage lost on a connecting line, regardless of printed statements on the ticket or check. Darlington v. Railway, 14 N. P. n. s. 427; 24 L. D. 37 (1913); Railroad v. Campbell, 36 O. S. 647 (1881); Penna. Co. v. Quimby, 7 Ohio App. 197; 27 O. C. A. 6 (1916); motion to certify record overruled, 14 O. L. R. 490.

Limitation of liability for baggage in interstate commerce is governed by the federal interstate commerce act, and amendments. Railroad v. Hooker, 233 U. S. 97 (1914).

The obligation of a carrier to carry the baggage of a passenger is limited to articles which are for his personal comfort and convenience.

Railway Co. v. Bowler & Burdick Co., 57 O. S. 38, 56 (1897).

It is under no obligation to carry merchandise as baggage, and is not liable for its loss if such merchandise is received by it as baggage without knowledge of its true character. But if a carrier receives merchandise as baggage, with actual knowledge on the part of its agents that it is merchandise, it is liable for the loss thereof.

Railway Co. v. Bowler & Burdick Co., 57 O. S. 38 (1897).

Smith v. Railroad Co., 2 N. P. 29; 3 L. D. 192 (1895).

Insurance Co. v. Packet Co., 1 N. P. 126; 4 L. D. 405 (1894).

See Bank v. Railroad Co., 20 O. S. 259 (1870).

Jones v. Voorhees, 10 Ohio 145 (1840).

FREIGHT CHARGES.

Section 8980. Repealed. (106 v. 333.)

Charges for less than thirty miles. Where a company is authorized to charge for the transportation of goods for less than thirty miles such reasonable rates as it may fix from time to time, it is unreasonable, as a matter of law, to fix a greater sum for a distance less than thirty miles than the maximum for full thirty miles.

Peters v. Railroad Co., 42 O. S. 275 (1884).

Campbell v. Marietta, etc., R. R. Co., 23 O. S. 168 (1872).

Whether a freight rate fixed by a company for distances less than thirty miles is reasonable or not is a question of fact for the jury, to be determined under such instructions by the court as the circumstances of the particular case may require.

Peters v. Railroad Co., 42 O. S. 275 (1884).

See Smith v. Pittsburg, etc., Ry. Co., 23 O. S. 10 (1872).

A municipality has no power to prescribe the rates to be charged by a belt line for hauls over its entire line, less than 30 miles long as a condition to granting a right of way over its streets for a part of its line. Such a provision in an ordinance is ultra vires and void. In an action by an individual claiming the benefit of such provision, the railroad company is not estopped from setting up its ultra vires character as a defense.

Brick Co. v. Trust Co., 187 Fed. 63 (C. C. A. 1911).

Recovery of overcharges. A shipper has the right to have his goods transported at legal rates over the usual line of a common carrier of such goods; and if, to procure the services of such carrier, the shipper is compelled to pay illegal rates, the payment is not such a voluntary payment as will preclude recovering back the illegal charge, nor will it preclude such recovery, if payments, by arrangement of parties, are made at the end of each month.

Peters v. Railroad Co., 42 O. S. 275 (1884).

See § 9002.

Filing of claims with public utilities commission. Award of reparation. Procedure. §§ 579, 580.

Contracts for freight. The board of directors of a railroad company may, within the limit of the maximum rate authorized by law, make contracts for transportation for a fixed future period. Such a contract, if otherwise valid, is not ultra vires and void, for the reason that it binds the company for a fixed time.

Railroad Co. v. Furnace Co., 37 O. S. 321 (1882).

Himrod Furnace Co. v. Cleveland, etc., R. R. Co., 22 O. S. 451 (1872).

See G. C. § 513.

What companies not bound by this act. The provision in the twelfth section of the act of Feb. 11, 1848, that no reduction shall be made in the rates of fare and charges for freight allowed to companies organized under said act, unless their net profits for the previous ten years amount to ten percent on their capital, is in the nature of a contract, and binding on the state, and companies which have not lost their rights under said act and have not realized ten percent profit, are not bound by later acts reducing freight rates.

Iron R. R. Co. v. Lawrence Furnace Co., 29 O. S. 208 (1876).

Railway Co. v. Furnace Co., 49 O. S. 102 (1892).

Rights under special charters.

Campbell v. Marietta, etc., R. R. Co., 23 O. S. 168 (1872).

Section 8981. (Points competing with public works.) Every company whose line of road extends to a place in the vicinity of, or to a point of intersection with, a navigable canal or other work of internal improvement belonging to the state, shall fix and establish a tariff of rates for the transportation of merchandise, produce, and other property consigned to or from such place or point of intersection, and not charge or receive a higher rate for transporting similar merchandise, produce, or property over a shorter distance of its road, than is charged or received according to such tariff for transportation to and from such place of intersection. (R. S. Sec. 3366; May 1, 1852, 50 v. 205, § 1.)

See §§ 564 to 568 and § 8982.

The intent of the statute was not to restrain companies subject to its provisions from charging the maximum rates allowed by their charters, but only to prevent them from fixing rates for longer distances below the maximum and below the rates fixed for shorter distances, either to the prejudice of the canals belonging to the state, or of the public whose shipments might be for the shorter distances.

Campbell v. Marietta, etc., R. R. Co., 23 O. S. 168, 191 (1872).

A railroad company whose line extends to a point of intersection with a canal of the state can not make a valid contract to repay to a shipper a portion of the freight paid by him, it being the regular rate posted by the company and received from other shippers, such contract being prohibited by this section. An action can not be maintained to enforce a promise of such repayment.

Baltimore, etc., R. R. Co. v. Diamond Coal Co., 61 O. S. 242 (1899).

Section 8982. (Tariff of rates published; how changed.) Every such company shall publish its tariff of rates so established on property consigned to and from such places or points of intersection, and keep it conspicuously posted at the several business stations on its road. Such company, its officers or agents, shall not charge or receive, directly or indirectly, for transporting property so consigned, a less rate than is designated on such printed card, until the rate is changed by an order of its board of directors, and at least ten days' notice of the change be given by bill or card to be posted as specified above. No such company, its officers or agents, shall evade, or attempt to evade, by drawback, free warehousing, or in any other manner, the payment of full freightage, according to its printed tariff of rates, as herein provided. (R. S. Sec. 3367; May 1, 1852, 50 v. 205, § 2.)

See § 505 et seq. and §§ 564 to 568.

This section is valid as an exercise of the police power of the state.

Railroad Co. v. Fuller, 17 Wall. (U. S.) 560 (1873).

Liability of consignee for freight charges. Where, by agreement, a railroad company delivered on side tracks all cars consigned to a manufacturer and rendered monthly bills for the freight, acceptance of the cars renders the consignee liable for the freight, although the consignor may also be liable. Duncan v. Union Steel Co., 244 Fed. 258; 16 O. L. R. 48 (D. C. Ohio 1917).

Where a railroad company, by mistake, collected less than its published rate, it may recover the deficiency from the consignee, although as between consignee and consignor the charges were to be paid by the consignor.

Railway Co. v. Magnus Co., 13 C. C. n. s. 305 (1910).

Railroad v. Peak, 6 Ohio App. 399, 28 O. C. A. 77 (1917).

Railway v. Tile Co., 19 N. P. n. s. 244 (1916).

Railroad v. Fink, 250 U. S. 577 (1919); reversing, 2 Ohio App. 235; 19 C. C. n. s. 103; 25 C. D. 494.

Rebates. A railroad company whose line extends to a point of intersection with a canal of the state can not make a valid contract to repay to a shipper a portion of the freight paid by him, it being the regular rate posted by the company and received from other shippers, such contract being prohibited by this section. An action can not be maintained to enforce a promise of such repayment.

Baltimore, etc., R. R. Co. v. Diamond Coal Co., 61 O. S. 242 (1899).

Where a lower rate is given by a common carrier to a favored shipper, which is intended to give and necessarily gives an exclusive monopoly to the favored shipper, affecting the business and destroying the trade of other shippers, the latter have the right to require an equal rate for all under like circumstances. An injunction may be obtained to prevent discrimination.

Scofield v. Railway Co., 43 O. S. 571 (1885).

A railroad company is not warranted in making a contract whereby it binds itself to carry for one shipper crude petroleum, or other article, at half the rate it agrees to charge all others for the same service, at the same time, and as part of the agreement, binding itself to charge all others double the amount as a fixed open rate, and to pay such favored shipper one-half of it when collected, in consideration of his agreeing to establish and maintain a system of pipe lines to its road. Money so paid by a shipper, in ignorance of the agreement, and received by the favored shipper, may be recovered back in an action for money had and received by the former against the latter.

Brundred v. Rice, 49 O. S. 640 (1892).

Where a railway company, as a common carrier, in consideration of the fact that a shipper furnished a greater quantity of freights than other shippers during a given term, agrees to make a rebate from the published tariff on such freights to the prejudice of the other shippers of like freights under the same circumstances, the contract so made is an unlawful discrimination in favor of the larger shipper, tending to create monopoly, destroy competition, injure, if not destroy, the business of smaller operators, contrary to public policy, and will be declared void at the instance of parties injured thereby.

And such a contract can not be upheld simply because the favored shipper may furnish for shipment during the year a larger freightage in the aggregate than any other shipper, or more than all others combined. A discrimination resting exclusively on such a basis will not be sustained. And such a contract will not be upheld simply because the business to be done under it is "largely profitable" to the company.

Scofield v. Railway Co., 43 O. S. 571 (1885).

A corporation created by this state, and engaged in carrying goods for hire as a common carrier, has no franchise, privilege, or right to discriminate in its freight rates in favor of one shipper, even when it is necessary to do so to secure his custom, if the discriminating rate will tend to create a monopoly by excluding from their proper markets the products of the competitors of the favored shipper.

State ex rel. v. Railway, 47 O. S. 130 (1890).

Rights of shipper when agent fraudulently overcharges.

Maple v. Railroad Co., 40 O. S. 313 (1883).

Section 8983. (Contracts prohibited.) A company whose road forms part of a line of railway between points common to another line, shall not contract or agree with any person, or other railroad company or companies, having a road or line of roads, or forming a part of a line of roads, between the same points, not to carry freight or passengers to or from such common points, nor shall it refuse to receive or carry freight or passengers brought to it to be so carried. (R. S. Sec. 3368; April 11, 1861, 58 v. 74, § 1.)

See Metropolitan Trust Co. v. Columbus, etc., Ry. Co., 95 Fed. 18 (1899).

This section does not apply where one company, under an agreement the object of which is to enable it to connect disconnected portions of its railroad and to form a continuous line to and from points on its railroad, is operating on the line of another company and in such agreement the owning company does not attempt to narrow its own obligations to the public, or to relieve itself of duties imposed by law. Railway v. Commission, 96 O. S. 414 (1917).

Section 8984. (Trunk roads not to discriminate between roads.) When a railroad is a trunk road, or in the nature of a trunk road, and at or near the same place connects with or is intersected by two or more other railroads tributary to or competing lines for business to or from such trunk road, or to or from points on or beyond the same, a company or person operating or using such trunk road shall transport passengers and freight going to or coming from such tributary or competing roads without discrimination in the charges therefor, directly or indirectly, for or against either of such roads. The company or person owning or controlling such trunk road shall not, by lease or otherwise, permit it to be used or operated in any manner contrary to the foregoing provision. (R. S. Sec. 3369; April 11, 1861, 58 v. 74, § 2.)

Cited: Central Trust Co. v. Railway, 211 Fed. 515, 527 (D. C. 1914).

Section 8985. (Must forward freight by line named by shipper.) Every company shall ship all freight that comes within its control by the railroads over which it is ordered to be conveyed by the shipper. A company whose agent knowingly diverts, or permits to be diverted, freight that comes under his control from the railroad over which it is ordered to be conveyed, shall forfeit and pay to the company from which such freight is diverted three times the amount received for transporting it. (R. S. Sec. 3370; April 11, 1861, 58 v. 74, § 3.)

Penalty for violation, § 13420.

Liability of initial carrier, § 8994-1.

Where the line named by the shipper refused to accept the freight, and the shipper was notified, the carrier was held not liable for forwarding it over another line, pursuant to a provision in the bill of lading giving the carrier the right to forward by any line in case of physical necessity. Frank v. Railway, 19 N. P. n. s. 574 (1917).

Section 8986. (Provisions may be enforced by injunction.) On complaint of the violation of any provision of the three next preceding sections by petition as in other actions, their observance may be enforced by injunction, and the party violating any of them, shall be liable in damages to the person or company injured, for the injury sustained in consequence thereof. (R. S. Sec. 3371; April 11, 1861, 58 v. 74, § 4.)

Section 8987. (No discrimination between way and through freight.) Every company whose line of road is wholly or partly within this state, shall so employ its rolling stock used for the transportation of freight as to afford as ample facilities for the transportation of local and way freight, delivered to or discharged by it along its line of road, as it affords for the transportation of through freight, in proportion to the amount of its rolling stock, and not give facilities for transportation to either class of freight in preference to the other. (R. S. Sec. 3372; April 14, 1863, 60 v. 93, § 1.)

Section 8988. Repealed. (107 v. 431.)

See § 504-1.

Section 8989. Repealed. (107 v. 431.)

Section 8990. (Must furnish equal facilities to same class of shippers.) Railroad companies and persons operating a railroad, shall secure and extend to all persons, companies and corporations, the same and equal opportunities and facilities for receiving and shipping freights of all kinds, of the same class, that such railroad company or person operating such railroad, extends to, has used or enjoys, of and concerning freights owned by such company, or the person operating such road or any officer or stockholder therein, or in which it, they or either of them have an interest. (R. S. Sec. 3373-1; April 29, 1891, 88 v. 429, § 2.)

See §§ 535, 567, 520, 8981, 8982 and notes.

Section cited. Ohio Dairy Co. v. Railway, 7 N. P. n. s. 451, 457 (1908).

Creamery Co. v. Railroad Co., 8 O. L. R. 10, 19 (1910).

Both under the common law and by this section it is the duty of a railroad company to extend to all persons, without favoritism or discrimination, equal opportunities and facilities for receiving and shipping freight of all kinds and of the same class.

Railway Co. v. Wren, 78 O. S. 137 (1908).

Railway v. Commission, 98 O. S. 218.

But the common law did not impose a duty to give equality in switching connections. Railway Co. v. Coal Co., 217 Fed. 727 (C. C. A. Ohio 1914).

Terminal facilities. An unloading machine, situated on a dock belonging to a railroad company, and necessarily operated in connection with its tracks and terminals, which was originally constructed and jointly owned by the railroad company and a coal company for the accommodation of patrons of the railway and at prices fixed by it, is devoted to public use and is a part of terminal facilities. A grant of its exclusive use to one patron is an unlawful discrimination and may be enjoined, although the railroad company has transferred its rights in the machine to such patron.

Coal Co. v. Railway, 1 C. C. n. s. 333; 14 C. D. 289 (1902); dismissed in supreme court by plaintiff in error, 2 O. L. R. 280.

Duty to connect private switch. Where a railroad company had connected with its main track switches built by several coal mining companies in the vicinity, a coal mining company having constructed a switch from its mine, similar to these of the other companies, was held entitled to compel the railroad company, by mandatory injunction, to permit the switch to be connected.

Johnson, etc., Co. v. H. V. R. R. Co., 1 N. P. n. s. 385; 14 L. D. 209 (1904).

Quinn Coal Co. v. Railway, 20 C. C. n. s. 420 (1905).

A shipper who is discriminated against in the matter of switch connections may sue under § 8991. Railway Co. v. Coal Co., 217 Fed. 727 (C. C. A. Ohio 1914).

Where a railroad company has made a practice of constructing and maintaining private sidings, without restrictions as to what cars may be placed thereon, it is unjust discrimination to require, as a condition precedent to connecting a private side track, that the owner make a written agreement not to ask the company to switch thereon the cars of other companies.

Gill v. Railway, 6 O. L. R. 140 (R. R. Com. 1908).

The public utilities commission, in granting an application by a shipper for a switch connection with a railroad siding, is not authorized to require the applicant to reimburse another shipper for expenses voluntarily incurred incident to a change in location of the siding and rearrangement of the track of the railroad. Stone Co. v. Commission, 96 O. S. 288 (1917).

For clause in side track contract held not to indemnify railroad against injuries to employe of shipper, see Lumber Co. v. Railroad, 102 O. S. 236 (1921).

Discrimination in switching service.

See Gill v. Railway Co., 6 O. L. R. 140 (R. R. Com. 1908).

Pierce, etc., Co. v. Railroad Co., 6 O. L. R. 147 (R. R. Com. 1908).

Reinstrom v. Railway Co., 4 O. L. R. 755; 52 B. 187 (R. R. Com.).

Railway Co. v. Seofield, 2 C. C. 305 (1887).

See § 8998.

Other discrimination.

See notes to §§ 535, 567.

Section 8991. (Damages.) A railroad company or person operating a railroad failing to comply with or observe the provisions or requirements of the next preceding section, shall be liable to the party injured for the damages sustained, but for any violation of such section the recovery in such action shall be at least five hundred dollars. (R. S. Sec. 3373-1; April 29, 1891, 88 v. 429, § 2.)

An action under this section is on a "liability created by statute" and is barred in six years by G. C. § 11222. Railroad Co. v. Coal Co., 217 Fed. 727 (C. C. A. Ohio 1914).

In an action for damages for discrimination in giving to other shippers preference in the distribution of cars, the plaintiff is entitled to recover as damages only such sum as will compensate him for the loss actually sustained as the result of the discrimination, except that, where discrimination be proved, the recovery shall not be less than $500.

Railway Co. v. Wren, 78 O. S. 137 (1908).

Where there is no allegation of special damages, the measure of damages is the difference between the market value of the property that would have been transported in the cars which plaintiff should have received, at destination, at the time when they would have reached such destination, and the value of said property at the place of shipment, at the same time, less the cost of transportation.

Railway Co. v. Wren, 78 O. S. 137 (1908).

This section does not take away the remedies at common law.

Johnson, etc., Co. v. Railroad Co., 1 N. P. n. s. 385, 390; 14 L. D. 209 (C. P. 1903).

Section 8992. (Passengers on freight trains.) Physicians in the discharge of professional duties, sheriffs, and deputy sheriffs, in performance of official duties, officers and guards of the penitentiary or state reformatory in pursuit of escaped prisoners or returning them to their respective institutions, shall be permitted to ride at their own risk, and take a prisoner or prisoners with them on freight trains, between stations where such trains stop, paying therefor the regular passenger fare. (R. S. Sec. 3375a; April 15, 1902, 95 v. 153; April 13, 1892, 89 v. 275; April 23, 1891, 88 v. 381.)

To give a sheriff the right to ride on freight trains in the performance of his official duties, "between stations where such trains stop," it is not necessary that such trains should regularly stop at such stations, or be scheduled to stop there; it is sufficient, if they are in fact stopping there at the time the sheriff gets aboard. It is not necessary to allege that the train stopped regularly at the point the sheriff came aboard.

Allen v. Lake Shore, etc., Ry. Co., 57 O. S. 79 (1897).

The right of a sheriff to ride upon a freight train is not confined to cases in which a prisoner is taken upon such train; but the right exists whenever the sheriff is in the performance of any official duty, and complies in other respects with the statute.

Allen v. Lake Shore, etc., Ry. Co., 57 O. S. 79 (1897).

A physician who has not filed his certificate under G. C. § 1278 is not entitled to take advantage of this section. Railway v. McTeague, 41 Bull. 331.

Section 8993. (To furnish bills of lading.) Railroad companies operating a line of railway, upon demand of a person or corporation desiring to ship goods or merchandise of any kind in car lots, at any railway station or shipping point in this state, shall count or check the packages composing each lot or car load, and furnish to the shipper of such goods a receipt or bill of lading, specifying the number of packages shipped in each car. Such receipt shall bind the company so executing it to deliver the number of packages so specified, at the place of destination named in such bill of lading. (R. S. Sec. 3378-3; May 8, 1894, 91 v. 207, § 1.)

See § 8993-22.

Prior to the enactment of this section it was held in an action by a shipper against the owners of a steamboat engaged in the business of common carrier, to recover for the nondelivery of goods as per bill of lading, the defendants were liable only for so much of the goods as was actually received on the boat or delivered to some one authorized to receive freight on her account.

Dean v. King, 22 O. S. 118 (1871).

See Little Miami, etc., R. R. Co. v. Dodds, 1 C. S. C. 47 (1870).

Adams v. Brig Pilgrim, 10 W. L. J. 141.

Section 8993-1. (Bills of lading must contain, what.) Bills of lading issued by any common carrier shall be governed by this act. Every bill must embody within its written or printed terms:

- (a) The date of its issue,
- (b) The name of the person from whom the goods have been received,
- (c) The place where the goods have been received,
- (d) The place to which the goods are to be transported,
- (e) A statement whether the goods received will be delivered to a specified person, or to the order of a specified person,
- (f) A description of the goods or of the packages containing them which may, however, be in such general terms as are referred to in section 8993-22, and
- (g) The signature of the carrier or his agent.

A negotiable bill shall have the words "order of" printed thereon immediately before the name of the person upon whose order the goods received are deliverable.

A carrier shall be liable to any person injured thereby for the damage caused by the omission from a negotiable bill of any of the provisions required in this section. (May 22, 1911, 102 v. 138.)

The uniform bills of lading act recommended by the Commissioners on Uniform Laws for general adoption is contained in §§ 8993-1 to 8993-54 inclusive and applies to bills of lading issued after January 1, 1912.

The act has been adopted in 22 states.

Prior to the adoption of this act a bill of lading was defined to be a contract, including a receipt. A receipt for goods with an agreement to carry them to destination.

Wood v. Perry, Wright 240 (1833).

Babcock v. May, 4 Ohio 335 (1831).

So far as it was a receipt, as well as in its recitals of fact, it could be contradicted by parol evidence.

Page v. Railroad Co., 4 West L. M. 644 (C. P. 1863).

Dean v. King, 22 O. S. 118 (1871).

Railroad Co. v. Pontius, 19 O. S. 221 (1869).

But parol evidence was inadmissible to contradict the terms of the contract.

Babcock v. May, 4 Ohio 335 (1831).

Section 8993-2. A carrier may insert in a bill, issued by him, any other terms and conditions, provided that such terms and conditions shall not

(a) Be contrary to law or public policy, or

(b) In any wise impair his obligation to exercise at least that degree of care in the transportation and safe-keeping of the goods entrusted to him which a reasonably careful man would exercise in regard to similar goods of his own. (May 22, 1911, 102 v. 138.)

A carrier may agree with the shipper limiting the amount of the liability of the carrier to the agreed value of the property.

Railroad v. Hubbard, 72 O. S. 302, 319, 320 (1905).

Cohn-Goodman Co. v. Wells Fargo & Co., 13 C. C. n. s. 467; 22 C. D. 190 (1910); aff'd, no rep., 87 O. S. 458.

Railway Co. v. Simon, 15 C. C. 123; 8 C. D. 540 (1897).

Unless the carrier knew at the time of making the contract that the property was of greater value than stipulated.

U. S. Express Co. v. Bachman, 28 O. S. 144 (1875).

But where the freight rate is not based on the value of the goods, and the limitation of liability is not in consideration of a reduced rate, the limitation of liability is invalid. Railway Co. v. Euclid Builders Supply Co., 11 Ohio App. 196; 30 O. C. A. 561 (1919).

A provision in a contract between shipper and carrier requiring the shipper to make verified claim for damages within a specified time, is valid providing the time is reasonable.

Penna. Co. v. Shearer, 75 O. S. 249 (1906).

See Railroad Co. v. Hubbard, 72 O. S. 302 (1905).

Express Co. v. Gordon, 5 C. C. n. s. 563; 17 C. D. 243.

Stevenson v. Wells Fargo & Co., 33 W. L. B. 247.

The time for bringing suit for damages may be limited, if the time is reasonable.

Gatton v. Express Co., 14 C. C. n. s. 125; 22 C. D. 532 (1911).

A provision authorizing the carrier "in case of physical necessity" to forward the freight by any line, was held valid and to protect the carrier, where the freight was refused by the line named by the shipper. Frank v. Railway, 19 N. P. n. s. 574 (1917).

A provision in a bill of lading exempting the express company from liability for money, which it received and carried only through its money department, is valid, and the company is not liable for money lost in transit, where the fact that the package contained money was not disclosed at the time of shipment. Adams Express Co. v. Starkey, 4 Ohio App. 121; 21 C. C. n. s. 326; 26 C. D. 332 (1915).

A carrier may, by contract, restrict its liability as an insurer against losses occurring through accident or mistake. But it can not, by contract, exempt itself from liability for negligence.

Davidson v. Graham, 2 O. S. 131 (1853).

Gaines v. Transportation Co., 28 O. S. 419 (1876).

A carrier may limit its liability for loss by fire, to loss by fires caused by its negligence.

C. H. & D. Ry. Co. v. Berdan, 22 C. C. 326; 12 C. D. 481 (1901); aff'd, no rep., 68 O. S. 683.

A bill of lading exempting a carrier from liability for loss "caused by the act of God" is valid, and vis major is a defense although but for negligent delay by the carrier, the goods would have been delivered to the consignee before the occurrence of the flood. Railroad v. Kohler, 26 C. C. n. s. 337; 30 C. D. 191 (1916); Railway v. Kibler, 97 O. S. 262 (1918); Urbana Co. v. Railroad, 16 N. P. n. s. 321 (1914). Contra, Railway v. Myers 4 Ohio App. 493, 25 C. C. n. s. 204 (1915).

The burden is on the carrier to prove non-liability for loss by fire, although the fire originated on the premises of the plaintiff. Huenefeld Co. v. Railway, 24 C. C. n. s. 92; 27 C. D. 227 (1915).

The burden of proof is on a carrier to show that loss was due to a cause specified in the provision for exemption.

Davidson v. Graham, 2 O. S. 131 (1853).

Union Express Co. v. Graham, 26 O. S. 595 (1875).

Section 8993-3. A bill in which it is stated that the goods are consigned or destined to a specified person, is a non-negotiable or straight bill. (May 22, 1911, 102 v. 138.)

Section 8993-4. (When negotiable.) A bill in which it is stated that the goods are consigned or destined to the order of any person named in such bill, is a negotiable or order bill.

Any provision in such a bill that it is non-negotiable shall not affect its negotiability within the meaning of this act. (May 22, 1911, 102 v. 138.)

Negotiability prior to passage of this act.

See Emery's Sons v. Bank, 25 O. S. 360 (1874).

Page v. Railroad Co., 4 West L. M. 644.

Section 8993-5. (Shall not be issued in sets; to what countries.) Negotiable bills issued in this state for the transportation of goods to any place in the United States on the continent of North America, except Alaska, shall not be issued in parts or sets.

If so issued the carrier issuing them shall be liable for failure to deliver the goods described therein to any one who purchases a part for value in good faith, even though the purchase be after the delivery of the goods by the carrier to a holder of one of the other parts. (May 22, 1911, 102 v. 138.)

Section 8993-6. (When "duplicate" should appear on the face of bill.) When more than one negotiable bill is issued in this state for the same goods to be transported to any place in the United States on the continent of North America, except Alaska, the word "duplicate" or some other word or words indicating that the document is not an original bill shall be placed plainly upon the face of every such bill, except the one first issued. A carrier shall be liable for the damage caused by his failure so to do to any one who has purchased the bill for value in good faith as an original, even though the purchase be after the delivery of the goods by the carrier to the holder of the original bill. (May 22, 1911, 102 v. 139.)

Section 8993-7. ("Non-negotiable".) A non-negotiable bill shall have placed plainly upon its face by the carrier issuing it "non-negotiable" or "not-negotiable."

This section shall not apply, however, to memoranda or acknowledgments of an informal character. (May 22, 1911, 102 v. 139.)

Section 8993-8. (When negotiability not limited.) The insertion in a negotiable bill of the name of a person to be notified of the arrival of the goods shall not limit the negotiability of the bill, or constitute notice to a purchaser thereof of any rights or equities of such person in the goods. (May 22, 1911, 102 v. 139.)

Section 8993-9. (When estopped from denial.) Except as otherwise provided in this act, where a consignor receives a bill and makes no objection to its terms or conditions at the time he receives it, neither the consignor nor any person who accepts delivery of the goods, nor any person who seeks to enforce any provision of the bill, shall be allowed to deny that he is bound by such terms and conditions, so far as they are not contrary to law or public policy. (May 22, 1911, 102 v. 139.)

A bill of lading signed by the agent of a carrier and acquiesced in by the shipper is binding on the latter although not signed by him.

Railroad Co. v. Pontius, 19 O. S. 221 (1869).

Railroad Co. v. Berdan, 22 C. C. 326 (1901); aff'd, 68 O. S. 683.

Railway v. La Tourette, 2 C. C. 279; 1 C. D. 48 (1887).

Assent may be implied from failure to dissent within a reasonable time.

Muller v. Railway, 2 C. S. C. R. 280 (1872).

Before the enactment of this section it was held that assent of the shipper is not presumed, but must be proved.

Railroad Co. v. Barrett, 36 O. S. 448 (1881).

Gaines v. Transportation Co., 28 O. S. 418 (1876).

Mack v. Gt. Western Dispatch, 3 C. C. 36; 2 C. D. 22 (1888).

Where conditions are stamped on the bill after its execution, the assent of the shipper must be shown.

American, etc., Co. v. Packet Co., 5 N. P. 146; 8 L. D. 490 (Super. Ct. Cin.).

A shipper who fills out his own bills of lading on blanks furnished by the carrier is bound by the provisions thereof.

Shaffer v. Railway, 14 C. C. 488; 8 C. D. 66 (1897).

Cohn-Goodman Co. v. Wells Fargo & Co., 13 C. C. n. s. 467; 22 C.

D. 190 (1910); aff'd, no rep., 87 O. S. 458.

See Railroad Co. v. Seiberling Co., 8 C. C. 593; 4 C. D. 210 (1894).

Where the transferee of a bill of lading presents it to the carrier and accepts the goods, he is bound by a provision in the bill of lading for demurrage charges, and may be liable to the carrier therefor.

Traction Co. v. Railway Co., 8 C. C. n. s. 134; 18 C. D. 543 (1906).

Section 8993-10. (Carrier bound to deliver goods; when.)

A carrier, in the absence of some lawful excuse, is bound to deliver goods upon a demand made either by the consignee named in the bill for the goods, or if the bill is negotiable, by the holder thereof, if such demand is accompanied by—

(a) An offer in good faith to satisfy the carrier's lawful lien upon the goods.

(b) An offer in good faith to surrender, properly indorsed, the bill which was issued for the goods, if the bill is negotiable, and

(c) A readiness and willingness to sign, when the goods are delivered, an acknowledgement that they have been delivered, if such signature is requested by the carrier.

In case the carrier refuses or fails to deliver the goods in compliance with a demand by the consignee or holder so accompanied, the burden shall be upon the carrier to establish the existence of a lawful excuse for such refusal or failure. (May 22, 1911, 102 v. 139.)

Mere delay in delivery is not conversion of the goods. Wyler v. Railway, 6 N. P. n. s. 589 (1907).

For mere delay, as distinguished from conversion, the measure of damages is ordinarily the difference between the value of the goods when delivered and when they should have been delivered, together with reasonable expense caused by the delay. But in case of conversion, if the consignee has not thereafter accepted the goods, the consignee may recover the value as of the time when the goods should have been delivered. Railroad v. O'Donnell, 49 O. S. 489 (1892).

Section 8993-11. A carrier is justified, subject to the provisions of the three following sections, in delivering goods to one who is

(a) A person lawfully entitled to the possession of the goods,

(b) The consignee named in a non-negotiable bill for the goods, or

(c) A person in possession of a negotiable bill for the goods by the terms of which the goods are deliverable to his order, or which has been indorsed to him or in blank by the consignee or by the mediate or immediate indorsee of the consignee. (May 22, 1911, 102 v. 140.)

Section 8993-12. (Carrier liable for wrongful delivery.)

Where a carrier delivers goods to one who is not lawfully entitled to the possession of them, the carrier shall be liable to any one having a right of property or possession in the goods, if he delivered the goods otherwise than as authorized by subdivision (b) or (c) of the preceding section; and, though he delivered the goods as authorized by either of said subdivisions, he shall be so liable if prior to such delivery he—

(a) Had been requested, by or on behalf of a person having a right of property or possession in the goods, not to make such delivery, or

(b) Had information at the time of the delivery that it was to a person not lawfully entitled to the possession of the goods.

A request or information to be effective within the meaning of this section must be given to an officer or agent of the carrier, the actual or apparent scope of whose duties includes action upon such a request or information, and must be given in time to enable the officer or agent to whom it is given, acting with reasonable diligence, to stop delivery of the goods. (May 22, 1911, 102 v. 140.)

Before the enactment of this section it was held that a carrier was bound to deliver the goods to the consignee. Delivery to a wrong person, not induced by some act or representation of the consignor, was not excused by any degree of care which the carrier might exercise.

Oskamp v. Southern Express Co., 61 O. S. 341 (1899).

Section 8993-13. (Delivery to purchaser of bill in good faith.) Except as provided in section 8993-26, and except when compelled by legal process, if a carrier delivers goods for which a negotiable bill had been issued, the negotiation of which would transfer the right to the possession of the goods, and fails to take up and cancel the bill, such carrier shall be liable for failure to deliver the goods to any one who for value and in good faith purchases such bill, whether such purchaser acquired title to the bill before or after the delivery of the goods by the carrier, and notwithstanding delivery was made to the person entitled thereto. (May 22, 1911, 102 v. 140.)

Section 8993-14. (Exceptions.) Except as provided in section 8993-26, and except when compelled by legal process, if a carrier delivers part of the goods for which a negotiable bill has been issued and fails either—

(a) To take up and cancel the bill, or

(b) To place plainly upon it a statement that a portion of the goods has been delivered, with a description, which may be in general terms, either of the goods or packages that have been so delivered, or of the goods or packages which still remain in the carrier's possession, he shall be liable for failure to deliver all the goods specified in the bill, to any one who for value and in good faith purchases it, whether such purchaser acquired title to it before or after the delivery of any portion of the goods by the carrier, and notwithstanding such delivery was made to the person entitled thereto. (May 22, 1911, 102 v. 140.)

An intermediate carrier, which is required by statute to carry freight offered, is bound to take notice of the fact that a bill of lading was issued, and is liable for delivery of the goods without production of the bill of lading.

Bank of Commerce v. Railroad Co., 2 N. P. n. s. 403; 15 L. D. 32 (C. P. 1904).

Section 8993-15. (Effect of alteration.) Any alteration, addition or erasure in a bill after its issue, without authority from the carrier issuing the same, either in writing or noted on the bill, shall be void, whatever be the nature and purpose of the change, and the bill shall be enforceable according to its original tenor. (May 22, 1911, 102 v. 141.)

Section 8993-16. (Lost or destroyed negotiable bill. Delivery under order of court does not relieve carrier from liability, without notice.) Where a negotiable bill has been lost or destroyed, a court of competent jurisdiction may order the delivery of the goods upon satisfactory proof of such loss or destruction, and upon the giving of a bond with sufficient surety to be approved by the court to protect the carrier or any person injured by such delivery from any liability or loss, incurred by reason of the original bill remaining outstanding. The court may also in its discretion order the payment of the carrier's reasonable costs and counsel fees.

The delivery of the goods under an order of the court, as provided in this section, shall not relieve the carrier from liability to a person to whom the negotiable bill has been or shall be negotiated for value without notice of the proceedings or of the delivery of the goods. (May 22, 1911, 102 v. 141.)

Section 8993-17. (Effect of "duplicate" on face of bill.) A bill upon the face of which the word "duplicate" or some other word or words indicating that the document is not an original bill is placed plainly shall impose upon the carrier issuing the same the liability of one who represents and warrants that such bill is an accurate copy of an original bill properly issued, but no other liability. (May 22, 1911, 102 v. 141.)

Section 8993-18. (When title no excuse from liability for refusal to deliver goods.) No title to goods or right to their possession asserted by a carrier for his own benefit, shall excuse him from liability for refusing to deliver the goods according to the terms of a bill issued for them, unless such title or right is derived directly or indirectly from a transfer made by the consignor or consignee after the shipment, or from the carrier's lien. (May 22, 1911, 102 v. 141.)

Section 8993-19. (Interpleader.) If more than one person claims the title or possession of goods, the carrier may require all known claimants to interplead, either as a defense to an action brought against him for non-delivery of the goods, or as an original suit, whichever is appropriate. (May 22, 1911, 102 v. 141.)

Section 8993-20. (Opposing claimants.) If some one other than the consignee or person in possession of the bill has a claim to the title or possession of the goods, and the carrier has information of such claim, the carrier shall be excused from liability for refusing to deliver the goods either to the consignee or person in possession of the bill, or to the adverse claimant, until the carrier has had a reasonable time to ascertain the validity of the adverse claim or to bring legal proceedings to compel all claimants to interplead. (May 22, 1911, 102 v. 141.)

Section 8993-21. (Defense.) Except as provided in the two preceding sections and in section 8993-11, no right or title of a third person, unless enforced by legal process, shall be a defense to an action brought by the consignee of a non-negotiable bill or by the holder of a negotiable bill against the carrier for failure to deliver the goods on demand. (May 22, 1911, 102 v. 142.)

Section 8993-22. (Liability of issuing carrier.) If a bill of lading has been issued by a carrier, or on his behalf by an agent or employe, the scope of whose actual or apparent authority includes the issuing of bills of lading, the carrier shall be liable to

- (a) The consignee named in a non-negotiable bill, or
- (b) The holder of a negotiable bill,

Who has given value in good faith relying upon the description therein of the goods, for damages caused by the non-receipt by the carrier or a connecting carrier of all or part of the goods or their failure to correspond with the description thereof in the bill at the time of its issue.

If, however, the goods are described in a bill merely by a statement of marks or labels upon them, or upon packages containing them, or by a statement that the goods are said to be goods of a certain kind or quantity, or in a certain condition, or it is stated in the bill that packages are said to contain goods of a certain kind or quantity or in a certain condition or that the contents or condition of the contents of packages are unknown, or words of like purport are contained in the bill, such statements, if true, shall not make liable the carrier issuing the bill, although the goods are not of the kind or quantity or in the condition which the marks or labels upon them indicate, or of the kind or quantity or in the condition they were said to be by the consignor. The carrier may, also, by inserting in the bills the words "shipper's load and count," or other words of like purport, indicate that the goods were loaded by the shipper and the description of them made by him; and if such statements be true, the carrier shall not be liable for damages caused by the improper loading or by the non-receipt or by the misdescription of the goods described in the bill. (May 22, 1911, 102 v. 142.)

See § 8993.

Custom of consignees to accept railway coal weight certificates.

See Nimishilling, etc., Co. v. Railway, 5 O. L. R. 455; 52 O. L. B. 569.

A carrier may refuse to receive an article not properly packed. But if received, due care must be exercised, and, if injured, the burden of proof rests on the carrier to show that the injury was due to defective packing.

Express Co. v. Graham, 26 O. S. 595 (1875).

Section 8993-23. (No attachment after delivery to carrier.) If goods are delivered to a carrier by the owner, or by a person whose act in conveying the title to them to a purchaser for value in good faith would bind the owner, and a negotiable bill is issued for them, they cannot thereafter, while in the possession of the carrier, be attached by garnishment or otherwise, or be levied upon under an execution, unless the bill be first surrendered to the carrier or its negotiation enjoined. The carrier shall in no such case be compelled to deliver the actual possession of the goods until the bill is surrendered to him or impounded by the court. (May 22, 1911, 102 v. 142.)

Section 8993-24. (Injunction.) A creditor whose debtor is the owner of a negotiable bill shall be entitled to such aid from courts of appropriate jurisdiction by injunction and otherwise in attaching such bill, or in satisfying the claim by means thereof, as is allowed at law or in equity in regard to property which cannot readily be attached or levied upon by ordinary legal process. (May 22, 1911, 102 v. 142.)

Section 8993-25. (No lien except for freight, etc.) If a negotiable bill is issued the carrier shall have no lien on the goods therein mentioned, except for charges on those goods for freight, storage, demurrage, terminal, and switching charges, and expenses necessary for the preservation of the goods or incident to their transportation subsequent to the date of the bill, unless the bill expressly enumerates other charges for which a lien is claimed. In such case there shall also be a lien for the charges enumerated so far as they are allowed by law and the contract between the consignor and the carrier. (May 22, 1911, 102 v. 143.)

Demurrage, see note to § 521.

A connecting carrier, which has paid to the initial carrier its freight charges and expenses of unloading and unloading, is subrogated to the lien of the former carrier therefor.

Bennett Bros. Lumber Co. v. Robinson, 159 Fed. 910; 16 O. F. D. 65 (C. C. A. 1908).

Section 8993-26. (Not liable for delivery, after selling for carrier's lien.) After goods have been lawfully sold to satisfy a carrier's lien, or because they have not been claimed, or because they are perishable or hazardous, the carrier shall not thereafter be liable for failure to deliver the goods to the consignee or owner of the goods, or to a holder of the bill given for the goods when they were shipped, even if such bill be negotiable. (May 22, 1911, 102 v. 143.)

Section 8993-27. (When bill negotiated by delivery.) A negotiable bill may be negotiated by delivery where, by the terms of the bill, the carrier undertakes to deliver the goods to the order of a specified person, and such person, or a subsequent indorsee of the bill, has indorsed it in blank. (May 22, 1911, 102 v. 143.)

Section 8993-28. (Negotiated by endorsement.) A negotiable bill may be negotiated by the indorsement of the person to whose order the goods are deliverable by the tenor of the bill. Such indorsement may be in blank or to a specified person. If indorsed to a specified person, it may be negotiated again by the indorsement of such person in blank or to another specified person. Subsequent negotiation may be made in like manner. (May 22, 1911, 102 v. 143.)

Former law. See Emery Sons v. Bank, 25 O. S. 360 (1874).
Jordan v. James, 5 Ohio 88 (1831).

Section 8993-29. (Transfer by delivery.) A bill may be transferred by the holder by delivery, accompanied with an agreement, express or implied, to transfer the title to the bill or to the goods represented thereby. A non-negotiable bill cannot be negotiated, and the indorsement of such a bill gives the transferee no additional right. (May 22, 1911, 102 v. 143.)

Section 8993-30. A negotiable bill may be negotiated by any person in possession of the same, however such possession may have been acquired if, by the terms of the bill, the carrier undertakes to deliver the goods to the order of such person, or if at the time of negotiation the bill is in such form that it may be negotiated by delivery. (May 22, 1911, 102 v. 143.)

Section 8993-31. (Title acquired by negotiated bill.) A person to whom a negotiable bill has been duly negotiated acquires thereby—

(a) Such title to the goods as the person negotiating the bill to him had or had ability to convey to a purchaser in good faith for value, and also such title to the goods as the consignee and consignor had or had power to convey to a purchaser in good faith for value, and

(b) The direct obligation of the carrier to hold possession of the goods for him according to the terms of the bill as fully as if the carrier had contracted directly with him. (May 22, 1911, 102 v. 143.)

Cases prior to the enactment of this section. See Peitch Co. v. Banking Co., 20 C. C. n. s. 246 (1912).

Emery Sons v. Bank, 25 O. S. 360 (1874).

Jordan v. James, 5 Ohio 88 (1831).

Section 8993-32. (Rights when bill transferred but not negotiated.) A person to whom a bill has been transferred, but not negotiated, acquires thereby as against the transferor, the title to the goods, subject to the terms of any agreement with the transferor. If the bill is non-negotiable, such person also acquires the right to notify the carrier of the transfer to him of such bill, and thereby to become the direct obligee of whatever obligations the carrier ow(n)ed to the transferor of the bill immediately before the notification.

Prior to the notification of the carrier by the transferor or transferee of a non-negotiable bill, the title of the transferee to the goods, and the right to acquire the obligation of the carrier may be defeated by garnishment or by attachment or execution upon the goods by a creditor of the transferor, or by a notification to the carrier by the transferor or a subsequent purchaser from the transferor of a subsequent sale of the goods by the transferor.

A carrier has not received notification within the meaning of this section unless an officer or agent of the carrier. the actual or apparent scope of whose duties includes action upon such a notification has been notified; and no notification shall be effective until the officer or agent to whom it is given has had time with the exercise of reasonable diligence to communicate with the agent or agents having actual possession or control of the goods. (May 22, 1911, 102 v. 144.)

The transferee of a non-negotiable bill acquires such title as the transferor can then pass, except that the parties to the transfer may agree that only a qualified title shall so pass. Commission Co. v. Bank, 17 C. C. n. s. 463 (1911); aff'd, no rep. 88 O. S. 606.

Section 8993-33. (Rights when transferred for value by delivery.) Where a negotiable bill is transferred for value by delivery, and the indorsement of the transferor is essential for negotiation, the transferee acquires a right against the transferor to compel him to indorse the bill, unless a contrary intention appears. The negotiation shall take effect as of the time when the indorsement is actually made. This obligation may be specifically enforced. (May 22, 1911, 102 v. 144.)

Section 8993-34. (Warranties; when transfer for value by endorsement or delivery.) A person who negotiates or transfers for value a bill by indorsement or delivery, including one who assigns for value a claim secured by a bill, unless a contrary intention appears, warrants—

- (a) That the bill is genuine,
- (b) That he has a legal right to transfer it;
- (c) That he has knowledge of no fact which would impair the validity or worth of the bill, and
- (d) That he has a right to transfer the title to the goods, and that the goods are merchantable or fit for a particular purpose whenever such warranties would have been implied, if the contract of the parties had been to transfer without a bill the goods represented thereby.

In the case of an assignment of a claim secured by a bill, the liability of the assignor shall not exceed the amount of the claim. (May 22, 1911, 102 v. 144.)

Section 8993-35. (Previous endorsers.) The indorsement of a bill shall not make the indorser liable for any failure on the part of the carrier or previous indorsers of the bill to fulfill their respective obligations. (May 22, 1911, 102 v. 144.)

Section 8993-36. (Payment to mortgagee no warrant as to quality or quantity.) A mortgagee or pledgee, or other holder of a bill for security, who in good faith demands or receives payment of the debt for which such bill is security, whether from a party to a draft drawn for such debt, or from any other person, shall not be deemed by so doing to represent or to warrant the genuineness of such bill or the quantity or quality of the goods therein described. (May 22, 1911, 102 v. 145.)

Section 8993-37. (Validity not impaired when negotiation was by fraud, etc.) The validity of the negotiation of a bill is not impaired by the fact that such negotiation was a breach of duty on the part of the person making the negotiation, or by the fact that the owner of the bill was deprived of the possession of the same by fraud, accident, mistake, duress or conversion, if the person to whom the bill was negotiated or a person to whom the bill was subsequently negotiated gave value therefore in good faith without notice of the breach of duty or fraud, accident, duress or conversion. (May 22, 1911, 102 v. 145.)

Section 8993-38. (Effect of sale to purchaser, in good faith and for value.) Where a person having sold, mortgaged, or pledged goods which are in a carrier's possession, and for which a negotiable bill has been issued, or having sold, mortgaged, or pledged the negotiable bill representing such goods, continues in possession of the negotiable bill, the subsequent negotiation thereof by that person under any sale, pledge, or other disposition thereof to any person receiving the same in good faith, for value and without notice of the previous sale, shall have the same effect as if the first purchaser of the goods or bill had expressly authorized the subsequent negotiation. (May 22, 1911, 102 v. 145.)

Section 8993-39. (Bill shall indicate, what.) Where goods are shipped by the consignor in accordance with a contract or order for their purchase, the form in which the bill is taken by the consignor shall indicate the transfer or retention of the property or right to the possession of the goods as follows:

(a) Where by the bill the goods are deliverable to the buyer or to his agent, or to the order of the buyer or of his agent, the consignor thereby transfers the property in the goods to the buyer.

(b) Where by the bill the goods are deliverable to the seller or to his agent, or to the order of the seller or of his agent, the seller thereby reserves the property in the goods. But if, except for the form of the bill, the property would have passed to the buyer on shipment of the goods, the seller's property in the goods shall be deemed to be only for the purpose of securing performance by the buyer of his obligations under the contract.

(c) Where by the bill the goods are deliverable to the order of the buyer or of his agent, but possession of the bill is retained by the seller or his agent, the seller thereby reserves a right to the possession of the goods, as against the buyer.

(d) Where the seller draws on the buyer for the price, and transmits the draft and bill together to the buyer to secure acceptance or payment of the draft, the buyer is bound to return the bill if he does not honor the draft; and if he wrongfully retains the bill he acquires no added right thereby. If, however, the bill provides that the goods are deliverable to the buyer, or to the order of the buyer, or is indorsed in blank or to the buyer by the consignee named therein, one who purchases in good faith, for value, the bill or goods from the buyer, shall obtain the title to the goods, although the draft has not been honored, if such purchaser has received delivery of the bill indorsed by the consignee named therein, or of the goods, without notice of the facts making the transfer wrongful. (May 22, 1911, 102 v. 145.)

Section 8993-40. (Draft with bill of lading attached; assumptions.) Where the seller of goods draws on the buyer for the price of the goods, and transmits the draft and a bill of lading for the goods, either directly to the buyer or through a bank or other agency, unless a different intention on the part of the seller appears, the buyer and all other parties interested shall be justified in assuming—

(a) If the draft is by its terms or legal effect payable on demand or presentation or at sight, or not more than three days thereafter (whether such three days be termed days of grace or not), that the seller intended to require payment of the draft before the buyer should be entitled to receive or retain the bill.

(b) If the draft is by its terms payable on time, extending beyond three days after demand, presentation or sight (whether such three days be termed days of grace or not), that the seller intended to require acceptance, but not payment of the draft before the buyer should be entitled to receive or retain the bill.

The provisions of this section are applicable, whether by the terms of the bill the goods are consigned to the seller, or to his order, or to the buyer, or to his order, or to a third person, or to his order. (May 22, 1911, 102 v. 146.)

Where an invoice for the price of the goods shipped is assigned by the consignor, together with the bill of lading, as security for a loan to the seller, the consignee can not set off against the assignee a claim against the consignor of which the assignee had no notice. Peitch Co. v. Banking Co., 20 C. C. n. s. 246 (1912).

Section 8993-41. (Seller's lien nor right of stoppage in transitu, shall defeat right of purchaser for value.) Where a negotiable bill has been issued for goods no seller's lien or right of stoppage in transitu shall defeat the rights of any purchaser for value in good faith to whom such bill has been negotiated, whether such negotiation be prior or subsequent to the notification to the carrier who issued such bill of the seller's claim to a lien or right of stoppage in tran-situ. Nor shall the carrier be obliged to deliver, or justified in delivering, the goods to an unpaid seller unless such bill is first surrendered for cancellation. (May 22, 1911, 102 v. 146.)

See Railroad Co. v. Koontz, 15 C. C. 288; 9 C. D. 102 (1897).

Page v. Railroad Co., 4 West L. M. 644 (C. P. 1863).

Where goods have been stopped in transit the carrier acts at his peril in delivering them to either the consignor or the consignee. It may bring the goods into court and require the claimants to determine the right of possession.

Howe v. Railway, 18 C. C. 333; 10 C. D. 182 (1899).

A carrier is bound to obey notice from the shipper to stop car-load shipments at a designated point, and hold for further instructions, if not an unreasonable interference with the carrier's business. Coal Co. v. Railway, 4 Ohio App. 459, 25 C. C. n. s. 276 (1915); motion to certify record overruled. 13 O. L. R. 515.

Section 8993-42. (Rights of mortgagee or lien-holder.)

Except as provided in section 8993-41, nothing in this shall limit the rights and remedies of a mortgagee or lien-holder whose mortgage or lien on goods would be valid, apart from this act as against one who for value and in good faith purchased from the owner, immediately prior to the time of their delivery to the carrier, the goods which are subject to the mortgage or lien and obtained possession of them. (May 22, 1911, 102 v. 146.)

Section 8993-43. (Fraud. Penalty.) Any officer, agent or servant of a carrier, who, with intent to defraud, issues or aids in issuing a bill of lading knowing that all or any part of the goods for which such bill is issued have not been received by such carrier, or by an agent of such carrier, or by a connecting carrier, or are not under the carrier's control at the time of issuing such bill, shall be guilty of a crime, and, upon conviction, shall be punished for each offense by imprisonment in the penitentiary not exceeding five years, or by a fine not exceeding five thousand dollars, or by both. (May 22, 1911, 102 v. 147.)

Section 8993-44. (False statement. Penalty.) Any officer, agent, or servant of a carrier, who, with intent to defraud, issues or aids in issuing a bill for goods, knowing that it contains any false statement, shall be guilty of a crime, and, upon conviction, shall be punished for each offense by imprisonment in the penitentiary not exceeding one year, or by a fine not exceeding one thousand dollars, or by both. (May 22, 1911, 102 v. 147.)

Section 8993-45. (Unauthorized duplicate bills. Penalty.)

Any officer, agent, or servant of a carrier, who, with intent to defraud, issues or aids in issuing a duplicate or additional negotiable bill for goods in violation of the provisions of section 8993-6, knowing that a former negotiable bill for the same goods, or any part of them, is outstanding and uncanceled, shall be guilty of a crime, and, upon conviction, shall be punished for each offense by imprisonment in the penitentiary not exceeding five years, or by a fine not exceeding five thousand dollars, or by both. (May 22, 1911, 102 v. 147.)

Section 8993-46. (Penalty for transfer of negotiable bill for value, without title or mortgaged.) Any person who ships goods to which he has not title, or upon which there is a lien or mortgage, and who takes for such goods a negotiable bill which he afterwards negotiates for value with intent to defraud, and without disclosing his want of title or the existence of the lien or mortgage, shall be guilty of a crime, and, upon conviction, shall be punished for each offense by imprisonment in the penitentiary not exceeding one year, or by a fine not exceeding one thousand dollars, or by both. (May 22, 1911, 102 v. 147.)

Section 8993-47. (Penalty for negotiating bill for value, for goods not in possession.) Any person who, with intent to defraud, negotiates or transfers for value a bill, knowing that any or all of the goods which, by the terms of such bill, appear to have been received for transportation by the carrier which issued the bill, are not in their possession or control of such carrier, or of a connecting carrier, without disclosing this fact, shall be guilty of a crime, and, upon conviction, shall be punished for each offense by imprisonment in the penitentiary not exceeding five years, or by a fine not exceeding five thousand dollars, or by both. (May 22, 1911, 102 v. 147.)

Section 8993-48. (Penalty for obtaining bill falsely, when goods not delivered to carrier.) Any person who, with intent to defraud, secures the issue by a carrier of a bill, knowing that at the time of such issue, any or all of the goods described in such bill, as received for transportation, have not been received by such carrier, or an agent of such carrier, or a connecting carrier; or are not under the carrier's control, by inducing an officer, agent, or servant of such carrier falsely to believe that such goods have been received by such carrier, or are under its control, shall be guilty of a crime, and, upon conviction, shall be punished for each offense by imprisonment in the penitentiary not exceeding five years, or by a fine not exceeding five thousand dollars, or by both. (May 22, 1911, 102 v. 147.)

Section 8993-49. (Aid in obtaining false bills. Penalty.)

Any person who, with intent to defraud, issues or aids in issuing a non-negotiable bill without the words "not-negotiable" placed plainly upon the face thereof, shall be guilty of a crime, and, upon conviction, shall be punished for each offense by imprisonment in the penitentiary not exceeding five years, or by a fine not exceeding five thousand dollars, or by both. (May 22, 1911, 102 v. 148.)

Section 8993-50. (Other laws applicable.) In any case not provided for in this act, the rules of law and equity, including the law merchant, and in particular the rules relating to the law of principal and agent, executors, administrators, and trustees, and to the effect of fraud, misrepresentation, duress, or coercion, accident, mistake, bankruptcy, or other invalidating cause, shall govern. (May 22, 1911, 102 v. 148.)

Section 8993-51. (Uniformity.) This act shall be so interpreted and construed as to effectuate its general purpose to make uniform the law of those states which enact it. (May 22, 1911, 102 v. 148.)

Section 8993-52. (Definitions.) (1) In this act, unless the context or subject matter otherwise requires—

"Action" includes counter-claim, set-off, and suit in equity.

"Bill" means bill of lading.

"Consignee" means the person named in the bill as the person to whom delivery of the goods is to be made.

"Consignor" means the person named in the bill as the person from whom the goods have been received for shipment.

"Goods" means merchandise or chattels in course of transportation, or which have been or about to be transported.

"Holder" of a bill means a person who has both actual possession of such bill and a right of property therein.

"Order" means an order by indorsement on the bill.

"Owner" does not include mortgagee or pledgee.

"Person" includes a corporation or partnership, or two or more persons having a joint or common interest.

To "purchase" includes to take as mortgagee and to take as pledgee.

"Purchaser" includes mortgagee and pledgee.

"Value" is any consideration sufficient to support a simple contract. An antecedent or pre-existing obligation, whether for money or not, constitutes value where a bill is taken either in satisfaction thereof or as security therefor.

(2) A thing is done "in good faith," within the meaning of this act, when it is in fact done honestly, whether it be done negligently or not. (May 22, 1911, 102 v. 148.)

Section 8993-53. The provisions of this act do not apply to bills made and delivered prior to the taking effect thereof. (May 22, 1911, 102 v. 150.)

Section 8993-54. This act shall take effect on the first day of January, one thousand nine hundred and twelve. (May 22, 1911, 102 v. 150.)

Section 8994. (Forfeiture.) A railroad company, or agent or officer thereof, refusing to comply with the provisions of the next preceding section (8993) shall be liable to a penalty of fifty dollars, to be recovered by civil action against the company by which such agent or officer is employed, or to which such goods are offered for shipment. (R. S. Sec. 3378-4; May 8, 1894, 91 v. 207, § 2.)

Section 8994-1. (Liability for loss or damage to freight regardless of contract or rule of common carrier.) That any common carrier, railroad or transportation company receiving property at a point within the state of Ohio for transportation to a point within the state of Ohio, shall issue a receipt or bill of lading therefor and shall be liable to the lawful holder thereof for any loss, damage, or injury to such property caused by it or by any common carrier, railroad, or transportation company to which such property may be delivered or over whose line or lines such property may pass, and no contract, receipt, rule or regulation shall exempt such common carrier, railroad, or transportation company from the liability hereby imposed: Provided, that nothing in this section shall deprive any holder of such receipt or bill of lading of any remedy or right of action which he has under existing law.

That the common carrier, railroad, or transportation company issuing such receipt or bill of lading shall be entitled to recover from the common carrier, railroad, or transportation company on whose line the loss, damage, or injury shall have been sustained the amount of such loss, damage or injury as it may be required to pay the owners of such property as may be evidenced by any receipt, judgment, or transcript thereof. (May 15, 1911, 102 v. 113.)

This section does not prohibit a contract limiting the liability of the carrier to the agreed value of the property.

Cohn-Goodman Co. v. Wells Fargo & Co., 13 C. C. n. s. 467, 471, 473 (1910); aff'd, no rep., 87 O. S. 458.

Greenwald v. Barrett, 199 N. Y. 170.

Travis v. Wells Fargo & Co., 79 N. J. L. 85.

Bernard v. Adams Express Co., 205 Mass. 254.

But where the freight rate is not based on the value of the goods, and the limitation of liability is not in consideration of a reduced rate, the limitation of liability is invalid. Railway Co. v. Euclid Builders Supply Co., 11 Ohio App. 196; 30 O. C. A. 561 (1919).

A valid limitation of liability, made by the initial carrier, inures to the benefit of succeeding carriers.

Kansas City So. Ry. v. Carl, 227 U. S. 639 (1913).

A carrier can not evade the liability imposed by this section by a rule or regulation filed with the public utilities commission. Railroad Co. v. Steinberg, 94 O. S. 189 (1916).

An action against the initial carrier under this section may be prosecuted only against the initial carrier, and connecting carriers are not necessary or proper parties. Railway v. Dresbach, 8 Ohio App. 333; 28 O. C. A. 471 (1917).

This section does not abrogate the common law rights of a shipper against subsequent carriers whose negligence caused the loss, but both remedies cannot be prosecuted under one cause of action. Railway v. Dresbach, 8 Ohio App. 333; 28 O. C. A. 471 (1917).

In an action against the initial carrier to recover the value of articles stolen from a trunk during interstate transportation over several connecting lines, it was held that the burden was on the initial carrier to show not only that the loss did not occur on its line but also that proper care was exercised to prevent the theft. Penna. Co. v. Quinby, 7 Ohio App. 197; 27 O. C. A. 6 (1916); motion to certify record overruled, 14 O. L. R. 490.

Excessive freight charges caused by misrouting by a connecting carrier is a "loss, damage or injury" under the Carmack amendment. Railway v. Lumber Co., 1 Ohio App. 164; 21 C. C. n. s. 337 (1913).

Liability of initial carrier. Before the enactment of this section a carrier was liable where it contracted to transport freight over connecting lines. But where the contract was to carry freight over the initial carrier's line, only, and deliver it to connecting carriers, a stipulation in the contract was valid which exempted the initial carrier from liability for loss beyond its own line.

Railroad Co. v. Pontius, 19 O. S. 221 (1869).

Where goods were returned to the initial carrier in a slightly damaged condition, but capable of being repaired at small cost, and were by the initial carrier placed in a warehouse and left without attention, until worthless, the shipper not having been notified, the initial carrier was held liable for the value of the goods, less the damage originally sustained.

John Church Co. v. Railway Co., 5 N. P. n. s. 585; 18 L. D. 205 (C. P. 1907).

Where goods carried over connecting lines were refused by the consignee, and the shipper, in writing, appointed the initial carrier his agent to procure return of the goods, agreeing to indemnify the company against liability in so doing, the initial carrier was held not liable for damage to the goods on the return, without its fault and not on its own line.

Erie Railroad Co. v. Cappell, 80 O. S. 128 (1909).

Where a consignee paid the entire freight charges to the railroad which delivered the goods, the goods having passed over several railroads and having been received in bad condition; and by agreement of the parties the consignee filed a claim for damages, the company was held to have recognized that there was but one contract for transportation, and was held liable.

Railway Co. v. Barron, Boyle & Co., 11 C. C. n. s. 602; 21 C. D. 142 (1908); aff'd, 80 O. S. 707; s. c., 8 N. P. n. s. 517; 19 L. D. 710.

Liability of connecting carrier. A carrier, receiving freight only by virtue of authority from a previous carrier, is bound to take notice of the authority of the latter at the time the goods are received. Coal Co. v. Railway, 4 Ohio App. 459, 25 C. C. n. s. 276 (1915); motion to certify record overruled, 13 O. L. R. 515.

Duty of carrier to trace goods not delivered. On demand of the shipper, it is the duty of a carrier to trace goods which have not reached the consignee. Where a carrier apparently acquiesces in such a demand but takes no action for a long period and the goods are finally destroyed through the burning of a warehouse, the carrier is liable.

Freiberg v. Railway Co., 11 C. C. n. s. 241; 20 C. D. 669 (1908); aff'd, 83 O. S. 482.

Section 8995. (Storage and warehouse certificate.) A railroad company, organized under the laws of this state, upon the receipt of iron ore or grain or other merchandise from any vessel, water-craft or other source for storage and deposit, duly consigned to such company, upon the request of the owner or owners of such ore, grain or other merchandise, with the written consent of the consignee, may issue to the owner or owners of such ore, grain or other merchandise, a certificate, receipt or voucher, which shall name the railway company by whom the ore or grain or other merchandise is held at the time such certificate, receipt or voucher is issued, to whom such ore, grain or other merchandise was consigned, the quantity held by such company, and so near as may be the quality or grade thereof, but not incurring any liability for the grade or quality, which certificate, receipt or voucher, shall be signed by the president or vice president of the company, and countersigned by the general agent thereof appointed for that purpose, or such other officer as may be appointed by such railroad company, and be transferable and negotiable by indorsement thereon, by the person or persons to whose order it is made payable. On the presentation of the certificate, receipt or voucher, so indorsed to such railway company at its general offices, by the holder or holders thereof and on demand, the company shall deliver to the holder or holders, the iron ore or grain or other merchandise described therein, on the payment by such person or persons to the railroad company of all proper charges thereon. (R. S. Sec. 3378-1; February 22, 1889, 86 v. 52, § 1.)

Whether a warehouse maintained by a railroad company should be taxed as real or personal property depends upon its use.

Cincinnati v. Hynicka, 9 N. P. n. s. 273 (C. P. 1909).

A railroad company having goods on storage is liable for damage caused by an unprecedented flood where its own negligence, commingling with the act of God, was an active and cooperative element in causing the damage. Railroad Co. v. Wuest, 28 O. C. A. 385 (1915).

Section 8996. (Rates of fare and freight on branch roads.) A company may demand and receive for the transportation of passengers on a branch road, whose length does not exceed ten miles, a fare not exceeding six cents per mile, and for transportation of property such reasonable rates as from time to time may be fixed by the company or prescribed by law. (R. S. Sec. 3378; April 29, 1872, 69 v. 203, § 4.)

Section 8997. (When connections may be made.) When the track of a company crosses, connects or intersects the track of the same gauge of another company, either company may connect the tracks of the two roads so crossing, connecting or intersecting so as to admit the passage of cars from one road to another with facility and avoid the necessity of transferring^a freights from such cars. (R. S. Sec. 3340; February 24, 1891, 88 v. 45; April 15, 1857, 54 v. 133, § 5.)

Section cited.

W. Jefferson Creamery Co. v. Railroad, 8 O. L. R. 19 (R. R. Com. 1910); s. c., 10 N. P. n. s. 665.

See § 9002.

Power of public utilities commission to order track connections. § 614-42.

Section 8998. (When companies must switch cars of other companies.) When the tracks of one company lie contiguous to coal mines, stone quarries, manufacturing establishments, elevators, warehouses, navigable waters or side tracks, suitable for loading or unloading, it shall switch the cars of other companies, at the request of such companies, or the shippers, over and upon the tracks so lying by such mines, quarries, manufacturing establishments, elevators, warehouses, navigable waters or side tracks, for the purpose of unloading or loading grain or other freight into or from such elevators, warehouses, boats upon such navigable waters, or side tracks without demurrage, for forty-eight hours. (R. S. Sec. 3340; February 24, 1891, 88 v. 45; April 15, 1857, 54 v. 133, § 5.)

Equal facilities to be furnished shippers. § 8990.

Penalty for violation of this section. § 9002.

A switching service within the meaning of §§ 8998 and 9000 is one which precedes or follows a transportation service, and applies only to a shipment upon which legal freight charges have been, or are to be, earned. Lumber Co. v. Railway, 92 O. S. 206 (1915); affirming, 4 Ohio App. 22; 21 C. C. n. s. 49; 25 C. D. 453; 16 N. P. n. s. 81; 14 N. P. n. s. 392.

A transportation service may be rendered within the terminal limits of a city, and where the carriage contract calls for a movement of a car from a point on one railroad to a point on another railroad, the companies are not limited in their charges by § 9000. Lumber Co. v. Railway, 92 O. S. 206 (1915).

This section does not require a railroad company to throw open its public or "team" tracks to other railroads.

Rheinstrom, etc., Co. v. Railway Co., 4 O. L. R. 755 (R. R. Com. 1907).

Pierce, etc., Co. v. Railroad Co., 6 O. L. R. 147 (R. R. Com. 1908).

Remedy of consignee or shipper. Mandatory injunction will lie to compel a railroad company to switch cars of other companies as required by this section.

Troy, etc., Co. v. Railway Co., 3 N. P. n. s. 412 (1903); aff'd, 72 O. S. 613.

See Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Suffren, 129 Ill. 274 (1889).

The public utilities commission is without authority to act on an informal complaint, but may act upon a formal one. Rep. Atty. Gen. 1912, p. 650.

"Contiguous" tracks. The word "contiguous" in this section is limited by the phrase "suitable for loading or unloading". To be contiguous the tracks of the railroad company must be so located that the shipper or consignee may load or unload directly from car into warehouse.

Rheinstrom, etc., Co. v. Railway Co., 4 O. L. R. 755 (R. R. Com. 1907).

A side track located wholly upon a public street, which can be reached from a grain elevator by means of a spout eighteen feet long extending over the sidewalk and over a part of the street, is not "contiguous" to the elevator.

Pierce, etc., Co. v. Railroad Co., 6 O. L. R. 147 (R. R. Com. 1908).

Railway v. Hurd, 20 N. P. n. s. 10 (1916).

Demurrage. After forty-eight hours a demurrage charge may be imposed for delay in unloading.

Phillips v. Erie R. Co., 6 C. C. n. s. 505; 17 C. D. 486 (1905); affirming, 14 L. D. 706.

See note to § 8980.

A railroad company may refuse to switch cars where the consignee has refused or failed to pay proper demurrage charges for delay in unloading former cars.

Troy, etc., Co. v. Railway Co., 3 N. P. n. s. 412 (1903); aff'd, 72 O. S. 613.

Phillips v. Erie R. Co., 6 C. C. n. s. 505; 17 C. D. 486 (1905); affirming, 14 L. D. 706.

But not where the delay in unloading such former cars was caused by acts of the railway company.

Troy, etc., Co. v. Railway Co., 3 N. P. n. s. 412 (1903); aff'd, 72 O. S. 613.

Car service rules established by Railroad Commission.

Ohio Shippers Assn. v. Ann Arbor R. Co., 52 Bull. 279 (1907).

Section 8999. (When companies must transport cars of other companies.) When the tracks of two companies are so connected, either, when required, shall transport over its road to its destination thereon, any freight offered, in cars in which it is offered, at its local rates per mile as set forth in its freight tariff for the distance most nearly corresponding, and return the cars, with or without freight or unnecessary delay. (R. S. Sec. 3341; April 18, 1892, 89 v. 369; February 24, 1891, 88 v. 45; April 15, 1857, 54 v. 133, § 7.)

A railroad company must receive freight, at its regular stations, for transportation to any station on its own or connecting lines regardless of distance.

W. Jefferson, etc., Co. v. Railroad Co., 8 O. L. R. 10, 19 (R. R. Com. 1910); s. c., 10 N. P. n. s. 665.

Sections 8998 to 9000 relate only to the switching charge which the railroad companies may make each other on freight which one company receives from the other, and create no right of action against either of the companies in favor of individual shippers, if the switching charge is in excess of that provided.

Brick Co. v. Trust Co., 187 Fed. 63 (C. C. A. 1911).

Section 9000. (Rates for switching cars of other companies.) A company owning a track or tracks lying contiguous to coal mines, stone quarries, manufacturing establishments, elevators, warehouses, navigable waters or side-tracks, and within the proper terminal limits of or about a city or village, shall be entitled to receive from the company whose cars are so switched, loaded and unloaded at such mines, quarries, manufacturing establishments, elevators, warehouses, navigable waters or side-tracks, no more than one dollar per car for switching one-half mile or less on such tracks; for distances over one-half mile, and not exceeding two and one-half miles, not to exceed one dollar and fifty cents per car; for distances over two and one-half miles and not exceeding five miles, not more than two dollars per car; and for all distances of more than five miles, not more than three dollars per car. When such service is on the roads of two or more companies, then such charges shall be divided between the companies in proportion to the distances of each road. But each company shall be entitled to at least one dollar for such service, regardless of distance, but there shall be no charge for returning empty cars from such mines, quarries, manufacturing establishments, elevators, warehouses, navigable waters or side-tracks. Such company may perform the service or do the switching work herein provided for, in the daytime. Whatever private side-tracks are or may be constructed, the company must switch cars thereon at the rates herein specified. (R. S. Sec. 3341; April 18, 1892, 89 v. 369; February 24, 1891, 88 v. 45; April 15, 1857, 54 v. 133, § 7.)

Sections 8998 to 9000 relate only to the switching charge which the railroad companies may make each other on freight which one company receives from the other, and create no right of action against either of the companies in favor of individual shippers, if the switching charge is in excess of that provided.

Brick Co. v. Trust Co., 187 Fed. 63 (C. C. A. 1911).

A switching service within the meaning of §§ 8998 and 9000 is one which precedes or follows a transportation service, and applies only to a shipment upon which legal freight charges have been, or are to be, earned. Lumber Co. v. Railway, 92 O. S. 206 (1915); affirming 4 Ohio App. 22; 21 C. C. n. s. 49; 25 C. D. 453; 16 N. P. n. s. 81; 14 N. P. n. s. 392.

A transportation service may be rendered within the terminal limits of a city, and where the carriage contract calls for a movement of a car from a point on one railroad to a point on another railroad, the companies are not limited in their charges by § 9000. Lumber Co. v. Railway, 92 O. S. 206 (1915).

Rates for transportation of cars from industry to team track, within same switching limits, or from one industry to another. Goodrich Co. v. Railway, 14 O. L. R. 337 (Pub. Ut. Com. 1914).

Private side tracks. A private side track is located on private property and not on a public street.

Pierce, etc., Co. v. Railroad Co., 6 O. L. R. 147 (R. R. Com. 1908).

See Troy, etc., Co. v. Railway Co., 3 N. P. n. s. 412, 413, 415 (1903); aff'd, 72 O. S. 613.

Johnson, etc., Co. v. Railroad Co., 1 N. P. n. s. 385; 14 L. D. 209 (C. P. 1904).

A shipper having a private side track is entitled to equal service, in the switching of cars arriving over connecting lines, that is accorded to others similarly situated.

Gill v. Railway, 6 O. L. R. 140 (R. R. Com. 1908).

But a shipper can not be given a lower rate because it owns the track on which cars are placed. Goodrich Co. v. Railway, 14 O. L. R. 337.

Car service associations. A car service association formed for the purpose of expediting the shipping business for the general public and of protecting the railroad companies composing it is legal.

Phillips v. Erie Ry., 14 L. D. 706 (C. P. 1904); aff'd, 6 C. C. n. s. 505; 17 C. D. 486 (1905).

Rules of a car service association imposing a reasonable demurrage charge for delay in unloading, and providing that the companies may refuse to switch other cars to a private siding until arrears of demurrage are paid by the owner of the siding, and that when cars are not unloaded within the time limit the charge must be paid before unloading, are reasonable and valid.

Phillips v. Erie Ry., 14 L. D. 706 (C. P. 1904); aff'd, 6 C. C. n. s. 505; 17 C. D. 486.

See Troy, etc., Co. v. Railway Co., 3 N. P. n. s. 412 (C. P. 1903); aff'd, 72 O. S. 613.

Section 9001. (How distance computed.) The distance provided for in the next preceding section shall be computed from the general freight warehouse in such city or village, and from the siding used for the storage of cars nearest to where they may be required, outside municipalities. Nothing herein contained shall require a railway or railroad company now in operation to furnish its terminals and facilities at the rates herein named, to any similar company for a railroad to be built by it hereafter which does not afford similar terminals and reciprocal facilities. (R. S. Sec. 3341; April 18, 1892, 89 v. 369; February 24, 1891, 88 v. 45; April 15, 1857, 54 v. 133, § 7.)

Section 9002. (Penalty for overcharge.) A company which violates or permits to be violated any provision of sections eighty-nine hundred and ninety-seven to ninety hundred and one both inclusive or of sections eighty-nine hundred and seventy-seven and eighty-nine hundred and eighty, or which demands or receives a greater sum of money for the transportation of passengers or property, or for the service provided for in such sections eighty-nine hundred and ninety-seven to ninety hundred and one both inclusive than the sum allowed by law, shall pay to the party aggrieved for every such overcharge a sum equal to double the amount of the overcharge; and any officer, employe, or agent of any such company who violates, or permits to be violated, any of such provisions, or demands or receives such sum of money, shall be subject to the like penalty to the party aggrieved. In no case shall the amount paid be less than one hundred and fifty dollars to any bona fide claimant using the road of such company or demanding or receiving any such service in due course of business. (R. S. Sec. 3376; April 14, 1900, 94 v. 220; March 17, 1892, 89 v. 117; April 6, 1876, 73 v. 102, § 13.)

This section is constitutional.

Railroad Co. v. Cook, 37 O. S. 265 (1881).

A plaintiff in a pending action for statutory penalties has no such vested right to the penalties as to render unconstitutional as to him the repeal and amendment of the statute, when it is provided that it shall apply to all actions pending. The amendment of this section (94 v. 220) is constitutional.

Railway Co. v. Wells, 65 O. S. 313 (1901).

This section is penal in its nature and should be strictly construed.

Railway Co. v. Wells, 65 O. S. 313 (1901).

"Bona fide claimant." A "bona fide claimant" is one claiming in good faith. It is not necessary that the purchaser of a ticket should use or ride upon the ticket, in order to maintain an action under this section.

Penna. Co. v. O'Connell, 84 O. S. 218 (1911).

Railroad Co. v. Cook, 37 O. S. 265 (1881).

Amount of recovery. Jury trial. Where the facts admitted by the pleadings show that the plaintiff is entitled to recover, it is not error to refuse a jury trial to assess the damages. The statute fixes the amount of the recovery.

Railroad Co. v. Cook, 37 O. S. 265 (1881).

Before judgment, the penalty does not bear interest.

Railway Co. v. Furnace Co., 49 O. S. 102 (1892).

Penalties charged in each case.

See Railway Co. v. Moore, 33 O. S. 384 (1878).

Involuntary payment. Where a shipper is compelled to pay illegal rates to procure the transportation of his property, the payment is not such a voluntary payment as will preclude a recovery of the illegal charge, although paid monthly.

Peters v. Railroad Company, 42 O. S. 275 (1884).

Section 9003. (Separate actions for each violation.) A separate action shall be brought for each overcharge mentioned in the next preceding section, unless the party aggrieved give notice in writing at the time of such overcharge, except the first one, to the officer, agent or employe, of such railroad making or receiving such overcharge, of his intention to bring such action; and no judgment shall be rendered in any action for the penalties above provided, for more than one overcharge unless such written notice shall have been given by the party aggrieved. (R. S. Sec. 3376; April 14, 1900, 94 v. 220; March 17, 1892, 89 v. 117; April 6, 1876, 73 v. 102, § 13.)

This section was substituted for a prior provision for exemplary damages.

Railway Co. v. Wells, 65 O. S. 314 (1901).

The judgment can be rendered in any action for more than one overcharge, unless written notice is given.

Railway Co. v. Wells, 65 O. S. 313, 315 (1901).

Prior to the enactment of this section several causes of action for penalties could be joined.

Railroad Co. v. Cook, 37 O. S. 265 (1881).

Venue. An action brought by a passenger to recover the penalty under § 9002 for overcharge in the sale of a ticket should, under G. C. § 11271, be brought in the county where the ticket was purchased. The court of common pleas of the county of the passenger's destination has no jurisdiction.

Penna. Co. v. O'Connell, 84 O. S. 218 (1911).

The objection to the jurisdiction of the court is not waived by failure to raise it by demurrer or answer. It may be raised for the first time in a proceeding in error.

Railroad Co. v. Hollenberger, 76 O. S. 177 (1907).

Section 9004. (When provisions do not apply.) The provisions of sections eighty-nine hundred and seventy-seven, eighty-nine hundred and eighty, ninety hundred and two, and ninety hundred and three shall not apply to a railroad in course of construction, the gross earnings of which are less than four thousand dollars per mile per annum, when such road is not owned or operated by companies operating another railroad. Such exemption shall not continue longer than five years after cars are run for the transportation of freight and passengers on such road. (R. S. Sec. 3377; April 6, 1876, 73 v. 102, § 13.)

See Ashley v. Railway Co., 5 O. L. R. 359, 362 (R. R. Com. 1907).
Railroad v. Furnace Co., 49 O. S. 102.

CHAPTER 6.

EMPLOYES.

- | | |
|--|---|
| § 9005. Engineers addicted to drink not to be employed. | § 9014. Agreements, etc., void; forfeiture. |
| § 9006. Forfeiture under preceding section. | § 9015. Defective machinery prima facie evidence of negligence. |
| § 9007. Hours of service of certain railroad employees. | § 9016. Superior officer and fellow servant defined. |
| § 9007-1. Seats for conductor and motorman. | § 9017. Presumptive evidence. |
| § 9007-2. Penalty for failure to provide seats. | § 9018. Slight contributory negligence no bar to recovery. |
| § 9007-3. Prosecution. | |
| § 9008. Forfeiture under preceding section. | |
| § 9009. Blocking frogs, etc. | |
| § 9010. Relief association prohibited. | |
| § 9011. Unlawful for railroad to limit liability as employer. | |
| § 9012. Unlawful for company to compel employe to join any company or association. | |
| § 9013. Companies prohibited from demanding or receiving waivers. | |

Scrap Metal.

- | |
|---|
| § 9019. How railroad scrap metal sold. |
| § 9020. Violation of preceding section. |
| § 9021. Evidence of title to scrap. |
| § 9022. When mixture deemed a confusion. |
| § 9023. Company may replevy scrap. |
| § 9024. Liability of company or receiver. |

Section 9005. (Engineers addicted to drink not to be employed.) No person, company or corporation operating a railroad in whole or in part in this state directly, or by or through a representative, shall knowingly suffer or permit a person to run or in any capacity to operate a railroad locomotive on any part of his, their or its road in this state, who is intoxicated or in the habit of becoming intoxicated, or knowingly to continue the employment of a person in such capacity after he becomes or is intoxicated, while in charge of such locomotive. (R. S. Sec. 3365-17; April 20, 1891, 88 v. 429, § 1.)

Intoxicated employees—personal injuries.

See Baltimore, etc., Ry. Co. v. Henthorne, 36 W. L. B. 62, 73 Fed. 634 (1896).

Section 9006. (Forfeiture under preceding section.) For every violation of the next preceding section, the company, person or corporation operating such road, shall forfeit and pay to the state two hundred dollars to be recovered in its name in an action to be prosecuted in any county through which the road runs, by the prosecuting attorney thereof, who shall be entitled to twenty-five per cent of the recovery, and the balance shall be paid into the county treasury. (R. S. Sec. 3365-17; April 20, 1891, 88 v. 429, § 1.)

Section 9007. (Hours of service of certain railroad employees.) A company operating a railroad over thirty miles in length, interurban or street railway, over four miles in length, shall not permit a conductor, engineer, fireman, brakeman, or trainman on a train, or a telegraph operator, a conductor, or motorman on a street railway, who has worked as such for fifteen consecutive hours, again to go on duty or perform work until he has had at least eight hours' rest, except in cases of detention of trains or cars caused by accident, unavoidable or otherwise. And such companies shall so regulate the hours of employment of their employees, that each employee shall have at least eight consecutive hours of rest in each period of twenty-four hours. (May 7, 1913, 103 v. 557; R. S. Sec. 3365-14; April 15, 1892, 89 v. 311, § 1; April 23, 1891, 88 v. 344; March 26, 1890, 87 v. 112.)

This section is constitutional.

Wheeling, etc., Co. v. Gilmore, 8 C. C. 658; 4 C. D. 366 (1894).

A part of original R. S. Sec. 3365-14 was held unconstitutional in Wheeling, etc., Co. v. Gilmore, 8 C. C. 658; 4 C. D. 366, and is omitted.

Under an earlier form of this section it was held that the fact that trainmen had been on duty for more than fifteen consecutive hours is not a violation of this section unless the company had permitted them to undertake the run without eight hours rest, subsequent to the next preceding run, and not then unless such preceding run occupied more than fifteen consecutive hours.

B. & O. Ry. v. Collins, 10 C. C. n. s. 486; 20 C. D. 110 (1907); aff'd, 79 O. S. 442.

Where a train is delayed by accident this section does not make it the duty of the company to provide other trainmen to relieve those on duty.

B. & O. Ry. v. Collins, 10 C. C. n. s. 486; 20 C. D. 110 (1907); aff'd, 79 O. S. 442.

Where an employe on the track was injured through his own negligence, the fact that the engineer of the locomotive which struck him had been on duty more than fifteen consecutive hours, in violation of this section, does not render the company liable. Hill v. Railway, 20 C. C. n. s. 236 (1912); aff'd, no rep. 88 O. S. 599.

Section 9007-1. (Seats for conductor and motorman.) That it shall be unlawful to operate in Ohio any electric, street or interurban railroad car unless it be provided at all times during operation with seats for the motorman and conductor. (107 v. 590, § 1.)

This section requires separate seats for motormen and conductors. But a street railway company may make reasonable regulations requiring motormen and conductors to stand while passing through congested districts. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1917, p. 970.

Section 9007-2. (Penalty for failure to provide seats.) A violation of section 1 hereof shall constitute a violation thereof by the president, general manager, general superintendent, or other officer in charge of operation, and shall be punishable by a fine of not less than fifty dollars nor more than one hundred dollars, or by imprisonment for not less than ten nor more than thirty days for each offense. An offense on any calendar day and as to any car shall be a separate and distinct offense from a violation on any other such day. (107 v. 590, § 2.)

Section 9007-3. (Prosecution.) It shall be the duty of the prosecuting attorneys of the various counties to prosecute violations of this act.

This act shall take effect from and after November 1, 1917. (107 v. 590, §§ 3, 4.)

Section 9008. (Forfeiture under preceding section.) A railroad company or corporation knowingly violating the provisions of the next preceding section shall be liable to a penalty of not less than five hundred nor more than one thousand dollars for the first offense, and for any subsequent offense, of not less than one thousand nor more than fifteen hundred dollars, to be recovered by civil action in the name of the state. (R. S. Sec. 3365-15; April 15, 1892, 89 v. 311, § 2; March 26, 1890, 87 v. 112.)

Section 9009. (Blocking of frogs.) Every railroad corporation operating a railroad or part of a railroad within this state, shall adjust, fill, or block all angles in frogs, switches and crossings on its roads and in its yards, divisional and terminal stations where trains are made up, with sheet steel, wrought or malleable iron, or other metallic appliances, which shall be so placed and be of such design as will prevent the wedging of the feet of employes and other persons in such angles; and all such appliances or devices shall before installations be approved by the state railroad commission. (May 20, 1910, 101 v. 325; R. S. Sec. 3365-18; April 25, 1898, 93 v. 342, § 1; March 23, 1888, 85 v. 105.)

Frogs need not be blocked in a new switch while it is being constructed.

See Hauss v. Lake Erie, etc., R. R. Co., 12 O. F. D. 613 (1901).

A person crossing a railroad track has the right to assume that the company has obeyed the law, unless, in the exercise of ordinary care, he learns or ought to learn that the contrary is true.

Pittsburg, etc., Ry. Co. v. Burroughs, 6 N. P. 37; 9 L. D. 324 (1899).

A manufacturing company, maintaining a number of tracks and a switch engine for its use in shifting cars in its yards, is not a "railroad corporation" within the meaning of this section. Taggart v. Republic Co., 141 Fed. 910 (C. C. A. 1905).

An employe injured by reason of a non-compliance with this section may recover damages.

Narramore v. Railway Co., 42 W. L. B. 246; 96 Fed. 298 (1899).

Railroad Co. v. Lambright, 5 C. C. 433; 3 C. D. 213 (1891); s. c., 29 W. L. B. 359.

Failure to comply with this section is negligence as a matter of law.

Railroad Co. v. Kountz, 168 Fed. 832 (C. C. A. 1909).

This section is intended to protect not only employes who may step into unblocked angles, but also employes who are dragged or pushed therein by an engine.

Railroad Co. v. Kountz, 168 Fed. 832 (C. C. A. 1909).

Before the amendment of this section (101 v. 325) it was held that this section was limited to frogs in yards, divisional and terminal stations where trains are made up.

Railroad Co. v. Kountz, 168 Fed. 832 (C. C. A. 1909).

Where two railway companies receive cars from each other over a delivery track at a certain point, a person employed by one of them to take the number of its cars and to inspect their seals, as trains were made up at such place by the other, is an employe of the latter within the meaning of this section.

Atkyn v. Wabash, etc., Ry. Co., 41 Fed. 193; 23 W. L. B. 151; 6 O. F. D. 395 (1890).

Defenses. Contributory negligence.

Railroad Co. v. Ullom, 20 C. C. 512; 11 C. D. 321 (1898); aff'd, no rep., 64 O. S. 582.

Railway v. Craig, 80 Fed. 488 (C. C. A. 1897); 10 O. F. D. 469; 73 Fed. 642; 9 O. F. D. 589 (C. C. A. 1896).

Assumption of risk was held to be a defense to the company.

Johns v. Railway Co., 3 C. C. n. s. 545; 13 C. D. 442 (1902); aff'd, 69 O. S. 532; s. c., 7 N. P. 592; 10 L. D. 358.

Contra. Railroad Co. v. Ullom, 20 C. C. 512 (1899).

Narramore v. Railway Co., 96 Fed. 298; 42 W. L. B. 246 (1899).

Railway Co. v. Winslow, 10 C. C. 193; 4 C. D. 242 (1894).

The employe of the company charged with the duty of blocking the guard-rails, frogs, and switches is not a fellow servant of the other employes of the company. In such a case the acts of the servant are those of the master.

New York, etc., R. R. Co. v. Lambright, 5 C. C. 433; 3 C. D. 213 (1891); aff'd, no rep., 29 W. L. B. 359.

Impracticability of blocking.

Railway Co. v. Winslow, 10 C. C. 193; 4 C. D. 242 (1894).

Evidence. Evidence that after an accident a sufficient block was placed in the guard-rail without endangering trains is admissible to show that such block could be used with safety.

Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Van Horne, 34 W. L. B. 183; 69 Fed. 139, 9 O. L. D. 28 (1895).

Proof of operation by company.

See Wheeling Ry. Co. v. Lewis, 33 W. L. B. 159 (1894).

Section 9009-1. (Penalty.) Whoever, owning, operating or controlling a railroad fails to comply with the provisions of the next preceding section shall be subject to a penalty of twenty-five dollars for each and every day of such failure, to be recovered in a civil action, in the name of the state, and paid into the state treasury. (May 20, 1910, 101 v. 326; see R. S. Sec. 3365-19, repealed 93 v. 343.)

Section 9010. (Relief association prohibited.) No company created, under and by virtue of the laws of this state or of any other state or country, having and operating a line or railway in this state, shall establish, maintain or assist in establishing or maintaining a relief association or society, the rules or by-laws of which require of a person or employe becoming a member thereof to enter into an agreement or stipulation, directly or indirectly, whereby he stipulates or agrees to surrender or waive a right of damages against any railroad company for personal injuries or death, or to surrender or waive, in case he asserts such claim for damages, any right whatever. (R. S. Sec. 3270; April 8, 1908, 99 v. 71; April 29, 1872, 69 v. 203, § 4.)

This section is constitutional.

State v. Railway, 13 C. C. n. s. 37 (1909).

This section does not apply to lines of railroad engaged in interstate commerce. State v. Penna. Co., 27 O. C. A. 172 (1911); aff'd, no rep. 88 O. S. 540.

A somewhat similar Iowa statute was held valid in C. B. & Q. Ry. v. McGuire, 219 U. S. 549 (1910).

See §§ 9012, 9013 and notes.

A relief department contract can not preclude an employe from maintaining an action for damages for personal injuries, but a suit for damages will preclude a recovery on the relief department contract, unless terminated as provided by the regulations of the relief department. Blaney v. Railroad Co., 7 Ohio App. 322; 28 O. C. A. 65 (1917).

The establishment of an employees' relief association is not ultra vires nor contrary to public policy. Such association is not an insurance company.

State v. Railway Co., 68 O. S. 9 (1903).

Quo warranto lies to oust a relief association organized and conducted in violation of this section.

State v. Railway, 13 C. C. n. s. 37 (1909).

In an action by an injured employe for benefits from a relief department payable under its regulations if the disablement "renders the member totally unable to labor, or, when of a permanent character, to earn a livelihood in any employment", it was held that evidence of the loss of the right hand, and subsequent inability to secure employment during the period for which benefits were claimed, was sufficient to submit the case to the jury. Hughes v. Railway, 15 N. P. n. s. 604 (1914).

Section 9011. (Unlawful for railroad to limit liability as employer.) No railroad corporation or company owning and operating, or operating a railroad shall adopt or promulgate a rule or regulation for the government of its servants or employes, or make or enter into an agreement with a person engaged in or about to engage in its service, wherein such employe in any manner, promises or agrees to hold such corporation or company harmless, on account of an injury he may receive by reason of accident to, breakage, defect or insufficiency in the cars or machinery and attachments thereto belonging on cars owned, operated, or run by such corporation, or company being defective. (R. S. Sec. 3365-20; April 2, 1890, 87 v. 149, § 1.)

A rule which requires car repairers or inspectors, when at work under a car or train, to see for themselves that a certain flag or light signal is displayed at each end of the cars on which they are working, is a reasonable rule, providing for the safety of employes and not limiting the master's liability for negligence. An agreement by the employe, at the time of his employment, that he understood such rule and would obey it, is binding upon him.

Railroad Co. v. Ropp, 76 O. S. 449 (1907).

Constitutionality, see notes to §§ 9012, 9013.

Section 9012. (Unlawful for company to compel employe to join any company or association.) No corporation directly or indirectly shall compel or require an employe to join any company or association whatsoever, or withhold any part of an employe's wages or his salary for the payment of dues or assessments in any society or organization, or demand or require either as a condition precedent to securing employment or being employed. Such railroad company shall not discharge an employe because he refuses or neglects to become a member of any society or organization. If an employe is discharged, at any time within ten days after receiving a notice thereof, he may demand the reason of such discharge, and the railroad company thereupon must give the reason to him in writing. (R. S. Sec. 3365-20; April 2, 1890, 87 v. 149, § 1.)

This section is constitutional. Railroad Co. v. Bailey, 99 O. S. 312 (1919); affirming, 25 C. C. n. s. 305.

Sections 9012, 9013 and 9014 do not conflict with the federal employers' liability act, nor impair its full effect and operation. Railroad Co. v. Bailey, 99 O. S. 312 (1919); affirming, 25 C. C. n. s. 305.

It has been held that this section does not apply where an employe voluntarily made application for membership in the company's relief department and agreed to be bound by its regulations.

Caldwell v. Railway Co., 14 L. D. 375 (C. P. 1904).

Dues, withheld from wages without consent of the employe, may be recovered. Railroad Co. v. Bailey, 99 O. S. 312 (1919).

Reason of discharge. That part of this section which requires a railroad company to furnish written reasons for the discharge of an employe is probably unconstitutional.

Railroad Co. v. Schaffer, 65 O. S. 414, 422-423 (1901); reversing 17 C. C. 77; 9 C. D. 158.

Wallace v. Railway Co., 94 Ga. 732; 34 W. L. B. 220.

See Coppage v. Kansas, 236 U. S. 1, 24 (1915).

Mattison v. Railway Co., 2 N. P. 276; 3 L. D. 526 (1895).

A discharged employe can not recover the penalty provided in § 9014 because of the failure of the company to give a written reason for his discharge.

Crall v. Railway Co., 7 C. C. 132; 3 C. D. 696 (1893).

Connell v. Railway Co., 14 L. D. 400 (C. P. 1902).

Where an employe leaves the service of a company of his own accord he is not entitled to a certificate to that effect under this section.

Editorial, 33 W. L. B. 109, 121

Section 9013. (Companies prohibited from demanding or receiving waivers.) No railroad company insurance society or association, or other person shall demand, accept, or enter into an agreement or stipulation with a person about to enter, or in the employ of a railroad company whereby he stipulates or agrees to surrender or waive any right to damages against a railroad company, thereafter arising for personal injury or death, or whereby he agrees to surrender or waive in case he asserts such right, any other right. (R. S. Sec. 3365-20; April 2, 1890, 87 v. 149, § 1.)

This section is constitutional. Railroad Co. v. Bailey, 99 O. S. 312 (1919).

In earlier cases in lower courts it was held unconstitutional in so far as it related to contracts voluntarily entered into by employes.

Caldwell v. Railway Co., 14 L. D. 375 (C. P. 1904).

Farrow v. Ry. Co., 7 N. P. 606; 5 L. D. 582 (C. P. 1895).

Shaver v. Penna. Co., 71 Fed. 931; 9 O. F. D. 221 (C. C. 1896).

See Pierce v. Van Dusen, 78 Fed. 693; 46 W. L. B. 102, 107; 9 O. F. D. 419 (C. C. A.).

Cox v. Railway, 1 N. P. 213; 2 L. D. 594; aff'd, 54 O. S. 497.

This section does not apply to a release of liability for injuries received prior to the release.

Bowers v. Railroad Co., 4 C. C. n. s. 479; 16 C. D. 518 (1904).

A contract between a sleeping car company and an employe by which the latter assumed all risks incident to her employment is void. Railway Co. v. Kinney, 95 O. S. 64 (1916); affirming, 7 Ohio App. 143; 26 C. C. n. s. 315.

Relief association contracts giving option to take benefits or damages. A relief department contract which does not stipulate that all claims for damages are waived, but requires the beneficiary to elect whether he will accept benefits from the relief fund, or rely on his right to sue the company for damages, is not interdicted by this section, nor is it against public policy.

Pittsburg, etc., Ry. Co. v. Cox, 55 O. S. 497 (1896).

State v. B. & O. Ry., 88 O. S. 539 (1913); s. c., 13 C. C. n. s. 37.

Shaver v. Pennsylvania Co., 71 Fed. 931; 9 O. F. D. 221 (1896).

Such a contract does not lack mutuality or consideration where the company as a part of the relief agreement, stipulates that it will make up deficiencies in the fund and assume the management of the fund, and do other things along that line.

Pittsburg, etc., Ry. Co. v. Cox, 55 O. S. 497 (1896).

Where the widow of a deceased member of a relief association, being the beneficiary named by him, accepts benefits from the association, she is not barred from bringing an action as administratrix for wrongful death, although the amount she should receive in the probate court on final distribution may be affected by her acceptance.

Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. McCamey, 12 C. C. 543; 5 C. D. 631 (1896).

See Cullison v. Baltimore, etc., R. R. Co., 4 N. P. 360; 7 L. D. 269 (1897).

Where a member of a relief department accepts benefits and signs a release of all damages, his right of action against the company will be defeated, if at the time he signed the release he was able to read and write and was in no manner prevented from reading the release, and was capable of understanding its effect.

Farrow v. Railway Co., 5 L. D. 582 (1895).

Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Bryant, 9 C. C. 332 (1895); 6 C. D. 418.

A rule of the relief department of a railroad company, providing for the submission of claims to the superintendent, and on appeal to a committee, the decision of which should be final, does not prevent the beneficiary from bringing an action at law after rejection of the claim by such committee.

Railroad Co. v. Stankard, 56 O. S. 224 (1897).

Railway engaged in interstate commerce. Membership by an employe in the voluntary relief department of a railway engaged in interstate commerce, and the receipt by him of benefits, is no defense to an action by the employe for injuries. The federal law controls.

Railway v. Sheets, 15 C. C. n. s. 305 (1912); aff'd, no rep. by divided court, 87 O. S. 476.

The act of Congress of 1908 was held to apply where the cause of action and receipt of benefits occurred after its enactment, although the membership contract was made prior to its enactment.

Railway v. Sheets, 15 C. C. n. s. 305 (1912); aff'd, no rep., 87 O. S. 476.

Section 9014. (Agreements, etc., void; forfeiture.) All rules, regulations, stipulations and agreements, declared unlawful by the next three preceding sections, are void. A corporation, association or person violating, or aiding or abetting the violation of either of such sections, for each offense shall forfeit and pay to the person thus wronged or deprived of his rights thereunder, not less than fifty nor over five hundred dollars, to be recovered by a civil action. R. S. Sec. 3365-20; April 2, 1890, 87 v. 149, § 1.)

See notes to §§ 9012 and 9013.

Section 9015. (Defective machinery prima facie evidence of negligence.) No railroad corporation knowingly or negligently shall use or operate a car or locomotive that is defective, or upon which the machinery or attachments thereto belonging are in any manner defective. If an employe of such corporation receives injury by reason of a defect in a car or locomotive, or the machinery or attachments thereto belonging, owned and operated, or being operated by such corporation, it shall be deemed to have had knowledge of such defect before and at the time such injury is so sustained. When such defect is made to appear in the trial of any action brought by such employe, or his legal representative, against a railroad corporation for damages on account of injuries so received, that fact shall be prima facie evidence of negligence on the part of such corporation. (R. S. Sec. 3365-21; April 2, 1890, 87 v. 149, § 2.)

This section is constitutional, and provides a rule of evidence applicable to all cases on trial in this state, and to all railroad companies any part of whose line of railway extends into this state, whether the injury complained of was received within or without the state.

Pennsylvania Co. v. McCann, 54 O. S. 10 (1896).

See Lumber Co. v. Pierce, 235 U. S. 380 (1914).

Sections 9015-9018 known as the Metzger Act are not exclusive of the Norris Act (G. C. §§ 8657-8665). Railroad v. Connors, 261 Fed. 303 (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1919); certiorari denied, 251 U. S. 557.

This section does not apply to a cause of action existing at the adoption of the act.

Railroad Co. v. Hedges, 63 O. S. 339 (1900); reversing 15 C. C. 254; 8 C. D. 265.

This section is a mere rule of evidence and applies to a cause of action, governed by federal law, which arose in another state, but on which suit is brought in Ohio.

Railway v. Sheets, 15 C. C. n. s. 305 (1912); aff'd, no rep. by a divided court, 87 O. S. 476.

Presumption and burden of proof of negligence. The burden of proving, by a preponderance of the evidence, the particular negligence alleged is at all times on the plaintiff. While proof of facts sufficient under this section to create a prima facie presumption of negligence casts upon the defendant the burden of producing evidence of equal weight or countervailing force to control or destroy such presumption, yet proof of such facts does not impose upon the defendant the burden of establishing affirmatively, by a preponderance of the evidence, that it was not negligent.

Klunk v. Railway, 74 O. S. 125 (1906).

Railway Co. v. Erick, 51 O. S. 146 (1894).

Railway v. Stewart, 2 Ohio App. 72; 21 C. C. n. s. 399; motion to certify record overruled, 11 O. L. R. 409.

See Railroad Co. v. Schomer, 171 Fed. 798 (C. C. A. 1909).

Shankweiler v. Railway, 148 Fed. 195; 15 O. F. D. 371 (C. C. A. 1906).

Railway v. Burris, 111 Fed. 882; 14 O. F. D. 182 (C. C. A. 1901).

Railway v. Stone, 2 C. C. n. s. 160; 14 C. D. 192 (1900); aff'd, no rep., 67 O. S. 528.

A company may overcome the presumption of negligence by showing that in fact it did not have such knowledge, and that it used due diligence to ascertain and remedy defects.

Railway Co. v. Erick, 51 O. S. 146 (1894).

Railway Co. v. Meyers, 12 C. C. 263 (1893); 4 C. D. 28.

Knighton v. Baltimore, etc., R. R. Co., 33 W. L. B. 216 (1894).

See Hill v. Lake Shore, etc., Ry. Co., 22 C. C. 291 (1901).

Inspection. The presumption of knowledge is removable by direct proof of inspection of such a character as a person of ordinary prudence would use under similar circumstances for the safety of himself or his employes.

Rawlins v. Railway Co., 4 O. L. R. 477; 17 L. D. 344 (C. P.).

Proof of the employment of careful and competent inspectors is not sufficient to overcome the presumption of negligence. Actual and proper inspection, or its equivalent, must be shown.

Felton v. Bullard, 94 Fed. 781; 42 W. L. B. 218 (C. C. A. 1899).

Railway Co. v. Erick, 51 O. S. 146 (1894).

Railway Co. v. Thompson, 82 Fed. 720 (1897).

Railroad Co. v. Johnson, 33 W. L. B. 248 (1895).

See Railway Co. v. Gilday, 16 C. C. 649; 9 C. D. 27 (1890).

Railroad Co. v. Schomer, 171 Fed. 798 (C. C. A. 1909).

Sufficiency of the inspection is, in general, a question for the jury.

Felton v. Bullard, 94 Fed. 781; 42 W. L. B. 248 (C. C. A. 1899).

Railroad Co. v. Schomer, 171 Fed. 798 (C. C. A. 1909).

See Railroad Co. v. Johnson, 33 W. L. B. 248 (1895).

This section makes no distinction between the cars owned by the company and foreign cars which it may operate, and the duty of inspection applies to both.

Felton v. Bullard, 42 W. L. B. 218 (1899).

See Pennsylvania Co. v. Meyers, 12 C. C. 263 (1893); 4 C. D. 28.

Pennsylvania Co. v. Snyder, 55 O. S. 342 (1896).

Hunt v. Caldwell, 22 C. C. 283 (1901).

Knowledge by employe of defect. This section does not dispense with the necessity of the plaintiff's alleging and proving want of knowledge of defects, or that, having such knowledge, he informed his superior and continued in the service, relying on a promise to remedy the defects.

Hesse v. Columbus, etc., R. R. Co., 58 O. S. 167 (1898).

Where a car is inspected and has the usual three X mark upon it indicating that it is defective and is to be repaired, a brakeman is not chargeable with notice if the mark can not be seen, as at night. If he should see the mark he is chargeable only with such defects as have been discovered by the inspectors.

Michigan Central Ry. Co. v. Butler, 3 C. C. n. s. 449; 13 C. D. 459 (1902); aff'd, no rep., 68 O. S. 662.

A contract which a railroad company required its brakemen to sign when employing them, making it their duty to inspect cars and appliances on which they were to work when in fact it would be impracticable for them to make such inspection, will not relieve the company.

Lake Shore, etc., Ry. Co. v. Gilday, 16 C. C. 649; 9 C. D. 27 (1890).

What constitutes a defective car or machinery. Where an accident occurs to an employe of a railroad company, as a result of the absence of an appliance upon the locomotive which it is customary to provide, the company is placed in the same position under this act as though the appliance had been furnished and was defective.

Crumley v. Cincinnati, etc., Ry. Co., 12 C. C. 164; 5 C. D. 353; s. c., 56 O. S. 781 (1897).

— Held to be defective.

Car with bent step.

O'Connell v. Penna. Co., 118 Fed. 989; 13 O. F. D. 786 (C. C. A. 1902).

Leaky valve in locomotive causing it to start.

Railway v. Raitz, 10 C. C. 70; 4 C. D. 18 (1894).

Broken tie rod, hanging over end of car in a situation likely to deceive a brakeman endeavoring to support himself on the grab iron.

Railroad Co. v. Schomer, 171 Fed. 798 (1909).

— Held not defective. Flat car without sides or ends.

Railway Co. v. Beard, 20 C. C. 681; 11 C. D. 406 (1898); aff'd, no rep. 56 O. S. 781.

Eyebolt in brake slightly longer than generally used. Brake chains longer than necessary.

Hunt v. Caldwell, 22 C. C. 283; 11 C. D. 562 (1901).

New coupling device proper in itself, although used without discarding older device.

Railway v. Henly, 48 O. S. 608 (1891).

Who is an employe. A person employed by one company to work in a yard shifting cars for it and another company under the usual arrangement between the companies for expenses is an employe of both companies.

Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Johnston, 33 W. L. B. 248 (1895).

See note to § 8808.

Where the injured employe entered into the contract of employment and was injured out of the state, does this section apply when it changes the effect of the contract?

See Pittsburg, etc., Ry. Co. v. Blair, 11 C. C. 579 (1896); 5 C. D. 366; s. c., 55 O. S. 639.

Section 9016. (Superior officer and fellow servant defined.) In actions against a railroad company for personal injury to a person while in its employ, or for death resulting from such injury, arising from the negligence of such company, or any of its officers or employes, in addition to other liability, it shall be held that every person in the employ of such company, with actual power or authority to direct or control another employe thereof is not the fellow servant, but superior of such other employe. Every person, also, in the employ of such company who has charge or control of employes in a separate branch or department, is to be held to be the superior and not fellow servant of employes in another branch or department, who have no power to direct or control in the branch or department in which they are employed. (R. S. Sec. 3365-22; April 2, 1890, 87 v. 150, § 3.)

This section is constitutional.

B. & O. R. Co. v. Hottman, 1 C. C. n. s. 17; 15 C. D. 140 (1903); aff'd, 70 O. S. 475.

Froelich v. Railway Co., 5 C. C. n. s. 6; 14 C. D. 359 (1903).

Pierce v. Van Dusen, 78 Fed. 693; 46 W. L. B. 102; 9 O. F. D. 419 (C. C. A. 1897).

Kane v. Erie R. Co., 133 Fed. 681; 2 O. L. R. 453; 14 O. F. D. 452 (C. C. A. 1904).

Erie R. Co. v. Kane, 155 Fed. 118.

Roe v. Railway, 13 L. D. 260 (C. P. 1902); aff'd, 4 C. C. n. s. 284.

See Erie R. Co. v. McCormick, 69 O. S. 45, 56 (1903).

Maltby v. Railway Co., 13 L. D. 280 (C. P. 1902).

This section applies to receivers.

Pierce v. Van Dusen, 78 Fed. 693; 46 W. L. B. 102 (C. C. A. 1897).

This section is in derogation of the common law and is not to be enlarged beyond its terms.

Railway Co. v. Shanower, 70 O. S. 166, 169 (1904).

A railroad company can not evade the liability imposed by this section by placing a dummy in nominal charge of every other employe on the train.

Kane v. Erie R. Co., 133 Fed. 681; 14 O. F. D. 452 (C. C. A. 1904).

"Authority to direct or control." Whether an employe of a company has authority to direct or control other employes of the same company is a question of fact to be determined in each case. This may be done, however, either by proof of express authority, or by showing the exercise of such authority to be customary, or according to the usual course of conducting the business of the particular company interested, or of railway companies generally.

Railroad Co. v. Margrat, 51 O. S. 130 (1894).

It seems this section would have no bearing on a case where the party alleged to have been negligent had no subordinates, and had no power to "direct or control any other employe." The existing law was not changed by this section except in so far as is specifically provided.

Felton v. Bullard, 42 W. L. B. 218 (1899).

Separate branch or department. The terms "branch" and "department" should not be limited so as to embrace merely those large divisions created for convenience in administering the affairs of the company. On the contrary, it is more reasonable to suppose that they relate to those minute ones which concern the daily duties of the employes.

Railroad Co. v. Margrat, 51 O. S. 130, 145 (1894).

An engineer in charge of a locomotive on one train of cars of a railroad company is in a branch or department of its service separate from that of a brakeman on another train of the same company, and therefore is his superior.

Railroad Co. v. Margrat, 51 O. S. 130 (1894).

See Pittsburg, etc., Ry. Co. v. Devinney, 17 O. S. 197 (1867).

But an engineer and a brakeman on the same train are in the same branch or department and are fellow servants, although by an accidental parting of the train the engineer and brakeman are left on one section of the train and the conductor on the other section.

Railway Co. v. Shanower, 70 O. S. 166 (1904).

Hill v. Railway, 22 C. C. 291; 12 C. D. 241 (1901).

Separate trains are separate branches or departments.

Kane v. Erie R. Co., 142 Fed. 682; 15 O. F. D. 188 (C. C. A. 1906); s. c., 118 Fed. 223 (C. C. A. 1902).

A station agent is in a separate branch or department from employes engaged in operating trains, and when he has no one in his department under his authority, he is not a fellow servant of an engineer.

Snyder v. Railway, 60 O. S. 487, 495 (1899).

The engineer in control of the machinery of a coal tippie and a "hooker" who hooks and unhooks the hoisting tackle are in the same department.

Froelich v. Railway Co., 5 C. C. n. s. 6; 14 C. D. 359 (1903).

It is not necessary that the superior, in the separate branch or department, should have control of all the employes in his department. A company is liable for the injury or death of a fireman through the negligence of the engineer of another train having authority over the fireman although such engineer is subject to the control of the conductor of the train.

Kane v. Erie R. Co., 142 Fed. 682; 15 O. F. D. 188 (C. C. A. 1906).

Held not to be fellow servants under this section. A "hostler," who takes charge of an engine when it arrives home, is the superior of a common laborer around the yard, assisting in caring for the engine.

Baltimore, etc., R. R. Co. v. Sutherland, 12 C. C. 309 (1894); 4 C. D. 115; s. c., 52 O. S. 676.

A yard brakeman is not the fellow servant of a conductor under whose control and direction he is placed.

Pierce v. Van Dusen, 46 W. L. B. 102 (1901).

A switchman in a yard whose duty it was to open such switches as he was notified to open by the different conductors and engineers in the yard, is acting in a separate branch or department from that of such conductors or engineers.

Lake Shore, etc., Ry. Co. v. Pero, 22 C. C. 130 (1901); aff'd, 65 O. S. 608.

A chief inspector of cars, having other inspectors under him, is not the fellow servant of a brakeman.

Railway Co. v. Erick, 51 O. S. 146 (1894); Pittsburg, etc., R. R. Co. v. Blair, 11 C. C. 579, 586 (1896); 5 C. D. 366.

See Felton v. Bullard, 94 Fed. 781 (1899); 42 W. L. B. 218.

A train dispatcher who has complete control of the movements of all trains on a division of a railroad is not a fellow servant of the engineer of a train running on such division.

Baltimore, etc., R. R. Co. v. Camp, 65 Fed. 952 (1895); 8 O. F. D. 391.

Crawford v. Railway, 12 L. D. 17; aff'd, 3 C. C. n. s. 144; 13 C. D. 207.

A yardmaster in charge of a railroad yard of the company, with full control over all its employes who have occasion to be in such yard in the discharge of their duties under their contract of employment with the company, with authority to select from the employes of such company the men who are to operate all trains sent out from such yard over the road of defendant, is by virtue of this section the "superior" and not the fellow servant of a brakeman.

McCann v. Pennsylvania Co., 10 C. C. 139 (1895); 6 C. D. 610; s. c., 54 O. S. 10.

See Pennsylvania Co. v. Fox, 10 C. C. 72 (1893); 4 C. D. 19.

A conductor of a train on which another conductor is riding on a free pass is not the fellow servant of such other conductor.

Lake Shore, etc., Ry. Co. v. Bycroft, 33 W. L. B. 160 (1895); s. c., 8 N. E. 588.

See Manville v. Cleveland, etc., R. R. Co., 11 O. S. 417 (1860).

An employe going home after a day's work stands in the same relation to the company as a person not an employe, and the defense of negligence of a fellow servant can not be interposed.

Columbus, etc., Ry. Co. v. O'Brien, 25 W. L. B. 90 (1891); s. c., 4 C. D. 515; 2 C. D. 681.

See Lake Shore, etc., Ry. Co. v. Mau, 9 C. C. 173 (1894); 4 C. D. 5.

An engineer with a fireman under him is not a fellow servant of a yard helper engaged in cleaning an ash pit.

Railway Co. v. Roe, 4 C. C. n. s. 284; 15 C. D. 628 (1903).

Nor of a brakeman on another train.

Railroad Co. v. Margrat, 51 O. S. 130 (1894).

Nor of a fireman on another train.

Kane v. Erie R. Co., 142 Fed. 682, 15 O. F. D. 188 (C. C. A. 1906).

Held to be fellow servants under this section. An engineer is the fellow servant of a brakeman on the same train.

Railway Co. v. Shanower, 70 O. S. 166 (1904).

Railway Co. v. Ranney, 37 O. S. 665 (1882).

Pittsburg, etc., Ry. Co. v. Lewis, 33 O. S. 196 (1877).

Hill v. Lake Shore, etc., Ry. Co., 22 C. C. 291 (1901).

See Railway v. Moore, 113 Fed. 269; 14 O. F. D. 35.

And of a telegraph operator at a station on the line.

Railroad Co. v. Camp, 65 Fed. 952; 8 O. F. D. 391 (1895).

See Crawford v. Railway, 12 L. D. 17; aff'd, 3 C. C. n. s. 144; 13 C. D. 207.

Snyder v. Railway, 60 O. S. 487 (1899).

The engineer in control of the machinery of a coal tippie and a hooker, who hooks and unhooks the hoisting tackle, are fellow servants where the engineer has no control over the hooker.

Froelich v. Railway Co., 5 C. C. n. s. 6; 14 C. D. 359 (1903).

Engineer and section foreman. Riter v. Railway, 17 C. C. n. s. 580 (1911); aff'd, no rep. 83 O. S. 515.

Two engineers on different locomotives. Railway v. Stark, 18 C. C. n. s. 226 (1908); aff'd, no rep. 81 O. S. 560.

OTHER LIABILITY. DECISIONS PRIOR TO ENACTMENT OF THIS SECTION.

From considerations of public policy, railroad companies are liable for injuries to their servants caused by the carelessness of those who are superior in authority and control over them.

Railway Co. v. Spangler, 44 O. S. 471, 478 (1886).

Little Miami R. R. Co. v. Stevens, 20 Ohio 415.

Cleveland, etc., R. R. Co. v. Keary, 3 O. S. 202.

Pittsburg, etc., Ry. Co. v. Lewis, 33 O. S. 196 (1877).

But for the negligence of a fellow servant a railway company was not liable, under the common law rule, where the company was free from negligence and had performed the duties imposed on it by law.

Railroad v. Fitzpatrick, 42 O. S. 318 (1884).

Railway v. Leech, 41 O. S. 388 (1884).

Railway v. Devinney, 17 O. S. 197 (1867).

Whaalen v. Railway, 8 O. S. 249 (1858).

It is against public policy for a railroad company to stipulate with its employes as a part of their contract of employment, that liability shall not attach to it for injuries caused to its servants by the carelessness of other employes who are placed in authority and control over them.

Railway Co. v. Spangler, 44 O. S. 471 (1866).

Whether or not one servant is placed by a common master under the control of another servant, thereby creating the relation of superior and subordinate between them, must be determined from the evidence in each particular case.

Pittsburg, etc., Ry. Co. v. Lewis, 33 O. S. 196 (1877).

Failure to obey rules. The failure of an employe to obey a reasonable rule providing for his own safety, which he agreed to obey, is not excused by the presence or consent of another employe, who is his superior, but is not authorized to make or change such rule or contract.

Railroad Co. v. Ropp, 76 O. S. 449 (1907).

Where an action is brought against a railroad company by one of its employes to recover damages for personal injuries sustained by the enforcement of an order, made by the superintendent of the company, as to the management of a particular tram, which order was unreasonable and the enforcement of the same was dangerous to such employe, the fact that the negligence of a fellow servant of the injured person, while executing such order, contributed in producing the injury, affords no defense to the action.

Railway Co. v. Henderson, 37 O. S. 549 (1882).

See Dick v. Railroad Co., 38 O. S. 389 (1882).

By what law governed. A contract of employment is governed by the laws of the state where made.

Alexander v. Pennsylvania Co., 48 O. S. 623 (1891).

Pittsburg, etc., Ry. Co. v. Bishop, 13 C. C. 380 (1896); 7 C. D. 73.

Ott v. Railway, 18 C. C. 395; 10 C. D. 85 (1899); aff'd, no rep., 62 O. S. 661.

Where the action is brought in Ohio the rules of evidence of this state control.

Penna. Co. v. McCann, 54 O. S. 10 (1896).

Held to be fellow servants. An engineer of a gravel train and an employe working on the same train.

Kumler v. Railroad Co., 33 O. S. 150 (1877).

A section hand and a fireman.

Whaalen v. Mad River, etc., R. R. Co., 8 O. S. 249 (1858).

Inspectors and brakeman.

Railroad Co. v. Fitzpatrick, 42 O. S. 318 (1884).

Columbus, etc., R. R. Co. v. Webb, 12 O. S. 475 (1861).

See Lake Shore, etc., Ry. Co. v. Gilday, 16 C. C. 649 (1890); 9 C. D. 27.

Felton v. Bullard, 94 Fed. 781.

Railway v. Lamphère, 9 C. C. 263; 4 C. D. 26.

Brakemen.

Hawks v. Lake Shore, etc., Ry. Co., 16 C. C. 377 (1896); 8 C. D. 414.

Conductor and car repairer.

Johnson v. Cleveland, etc., Ry. Co., 11 C. C. 553 (1896); 5 C. D. 290.

Company can not be held for failure of section boss to look up and have knowledge of time of trains so as to avoid collisions with section handcar.

Railway Co. v. Leech, 41 O. S. 388 (1884).

Held not to be fellow servants. An engineer is a superior of his fireman.

Jenkins v. Little Miami R. R. Co., 2 Dis. 49 (1858).

Railway v. Sutherland, 12 C. C. 309; 4 C. D. 115; aff'd, no rep., 52 O. S. 676.

A car repairer is not the fellow servant of the foreman of the repair gang as concerns giving notice of dangers to those working under cars.

Lake Shore, etc., Ry. Co. v. Lavalley, 36 O. S. 221 (1880).

A conductor is a superior of an engineer.

Little Miami R. R. Co. v. Stevens, 20 Oh. 415 (1851).

Lake Shore, etc., Ry. Co. v. Hunter, 13 C. C. 441 (1897); 7 C. D. 206.

Cleveland, etc., Ry. Co. v. Hudson, 22 C. C. 586 (1898).

But see Crawford v. Railway, 12 L. D. 17 (1901); aff'd, 3 C. C. n. s. 144; 13 C. D. 207.

A conductor is a superior of a brakeman.

Railway Co. v. Spangler, 44 O. S. 471 (1886).

Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Keary, 3 O. S. 201 (1854).

Cleveland, etc., Ry. Co. v. Hudson, 22 C. C. 586 (1898).

A yardmaster in charge of switch yards, subordinate to a general yard master, who in turn is subordinate to a trainmaster, and he to a superintendent, is not a vice-principal, but a fellow servant, in his relation to other employes engaged in switching in the yard.

Penna. Co. v. Fishack, 123 Fed. 465; 14 O. F. D. 86.

A railroad company is liable for the combined negligence of a superior and fellow servant of the plaintiff where the injury would not have resulted without the negligence of the superior.

Railway v. Mulcahy, 16 C. C. 204; 9 C. D. 82 (1898).

Assumed risk of negligence of superior. If an employe, with a full knowledge of an habitual and continued negligence of the company or his superior fellow employe in some particular matter, acquiesces therein, and continues in the service of the company, without any objection or effort toward a correction of the neglect, he thereby waives his right against the company and takes the risk upon himself.

Lake Shore, etc., Ry. Co. v. Knittal, 33 O. S. 468 (1878).

Section 9017. (Presumptive evidence.) Every railroad company operating a railroad which in whole or part is within this state shall be liable for all damages sustained by any of its employes by reason of personal injury or death of such employe:

1. When such injury or death is caused by a defect in any locomotive, engine, car, hand-car, rail, track, machinery or appliance required by such company to be used by its employes in and about the business of their employment, if such defect could have been discovered by reasonable and proper care, tests or inspection. Proof of such defect shall be presumptive evidence of knowledge thereof on the part of such company. An employe of such railroad company who is injured or killed as a result of such a defect, shall not be deemed to have assumed the risk occasioned thereby, although continuing in the employment of the company after knowledge of the defect; nor shall continuance in employment after such knowledge by an employe be deemed an act of contributory negligence.

2. While such employe is engaged in operating, running, riding upon or switching passenger, freight or other trains, engines or cars, and in the performance of his duties, and when such injury was caused by the carelessness or negligence of any other employe, officer or agent of such company, in the discharge of or for failure to discharge his duties as such. (February 28, 1908, 99 v. 25, § 1.)

See also note to § 9018.

This act is unconstitutional as to all roads which are located partly in Ohio and partly in another state; but its provisions are separable and the act is valid as to roads which are wholly within the state.

Flemm v. Railway Co., 10 N. P. n. s. 273; 21 L. D. 152 (1910).

See Warren v. Hannon, 15 C. C. n. s. 289; 34 C. D. 11 (1912); aff'd, no rep. 89 O. S. 459.

This section applies to a cause of action under §10770.

Railway Co. v. Francis, 13 C. C. n. s. 167; 22 C. D. 189 (1910); aff'd, 83 O. S. 520.

This section applies where death of an engineer was caused by a defective locomotive and defective track.

Railway Co. v. Francis, 13 C. C. n. s. 167; 22 C. D. 189 (1910); aff'd, 83 O. S. 520.

This act and the act of congress (35 Stat. at L. 65), one applying to intrastate and the other to interstate commerce, furnish a universal rule applying to all actions. These acts abrogate the defense of negligence of a fellow servant.

Warren v. Hannon, 15 C. C. n. s. 289; 34 C. D. 11 (1912); aff'd, no rep. 89 O. S. 459.

But the defense of assumed risk is open to the defendant under the federal employers' liability act. In actions brought in a state court based on the federal employers' liability act, the duty of the employer and its breach must be determined according to the federal statutes as interpreted by federal courts, but the procedure is in accordance with the rules and practice of the state courts. Jones v. Railroad, 106 O. S. 408 (1922).

An iron plate used as a runway between a car and loading platform, without cleats to prevent slipping, as was usual, held to entitle employe injured thereby to recover. Railway v. Marullo, 17 C. C. n. s. 472 (1911); aff'd, no rep. 88 O. S. 528.

Section 9018. (Slight contributory negligence no bar to recovery.) In all actions hereafter brought against a railroad company operating a railroad in whole or part within this state, for personal injury to an employe or where such injuries have resulted in his death, the fact that he was guilty of contributory negligence shall not bar a recovery when such negligence was slight and that of the employer greater, in comparison. But the damages must be diminished by the jury in proportion to the amount of negligence attributable to such employe. All questions of negligence and contributory negligence shall be for the jury. (February 28, 1908, 99 v. 25, § 2.)

Constitutionality. See note to § 9017.

This section and § 9017 should be applied in the federal courts. These sections entirely abolish the defense of assumption of risk, and of contributory negligence, as an absolute defense in bar, and substitute therefor the rule of comparative negligence. Heskett v. Penna. Co., 245 Fed.

326 (C. C. A. Ohio 1917); Railroad Co. v. White, 187 Fed. 556 (C. C. A. 1911).

But an action by an injured employe against an interstate railroad carrier is governed by the federal employers' liability act to the exclusion of any applicable state statutes, although the pleadings contain no reference to the federal act, but the evidence shows that the train on which the injured employe was riding was, at the time of injury, engaged in interstate commerce. Railroad Co. v. Slaven, 236 U. S. 454 (1915); reversing, 88 O. S. 536.

This section assumes that there must be evidence tending to establish negligence on the part of the defendant. Where there is no such evidence it is the duty of the court to direct a verdict for the defendant. Gutt v. Penna. Co., 20 C. C. n. s. 227.

But if there is any evidence of negligence on the part of the employer "no matter how slight or how strong", the question must be submitted to the jury. Lewis v. Railway, 89 O. S. 9, 13 (1913); Heskett v. Penna. Co., 245 Fed. 326 (C. C. A. Ohio 1917).

Where the jury find that each party was guilty of negligence directly contributing to the injury, it is their duty, under § 9018, to determine, under appropriate instructions from the court, whether the contributory negligence of the plaintiff was slight and that of the defendant greater in comparison, and, if they so find, to diminish the damages in proportion to the negligence attributed to the plaintiff, if they return a verdict for the plaintiff. Sherman v. Railway, 1 Ohio App. 279; 20 C. C. n. s. 464 (1913).

This section does not apply to a cause of action which arose prior to its enactment. Hill v. Railway, 20 C. C. n. s. 236 (1912); aff'd, no rep. 88 O. S. 599.

SCRAP METAL.

Section 9019. (How railroad scrap metal sold.) No officer, agent, or employe of a company operating a railroad, except the superintendent, general managing agent or a receiver of the company, may sell or dispose of worn or scrap metal, iron, brass, or other metal owned by it. All sales and barter of such scraps or other metals made by any other officer, agent, or employe shall be null and void. No such superintendent, managing agent, or receiver shall sell or dispose of such scrap or other metals in quantities less than one ton, nor without delivering to the purchaser a bill of sale thereof, a copy of which shall be retained and filed in the office of such superintendent, agent, or receiver. (R. S. Sec. 3357; April 12, 1876, 73 v. 227, § 1.)

Section 9020. (Violation of preceding section.) If a superintendent, managing agent, or receiver of a company sells or disposes of railroad scrap metal in quantities less than one ton, or without delivering a bill of sale thereof to the purchaser, the company which he represents shall not thereafter be entitled to the benefit of the next three succeeding sections. (R. S. Sec. 3358; April 12, 1876, 73 v. 227, § 2.)

Section 9021. (Evidence of title of scrap.) The person, company, or firm to whom is offered for sale, pledge, or trade, worn or used links, pins, journal-bearings, or other worn, used, detached appendages of railroad equipment, or scrap metal of iron, brass, or steel appertaining thereto, or to a railroad track, before purchasing or dealing in it shall ascertain whether the ownership thereof is lawfully derived, by bill of sale, or otherwise, from a company, or the superintendent, managing agent or receiver thereof. When the right or title to such article of metal is drawn in question, in any suit, the person, company or firm dealing therein, his or its assignee, party thereto, must make prima facie proof of title and ownership so derived. (R. S. Sec. 3359; April 12, 1876, 73 v. 227, § 3.)

Section 9022. (When mixture deemed a confusion.) If it appears prima facie, from the evidence on the trial, that any of the articles or metals in controversy were unlawfully obtained, and mixed or confused with other scrap metal, it shall be deemed a confusion of goods, unless the party claiming against the title of the company establishes, prima facie, a lawful title from or through a railroad company to the residue. (R. S. Sec. 3360; April 12, 1876, 73 v. 227, § 4.)

Section 9023. (Company may replevy scrap.) By its proper officer or agent, or the receiver thereof, a company may claim to be the general owner of, and replevy any of the metals or articles mentioned in section ninety hundred and twenty-one, and metals with which they may have been confused, found in the possession of a person, firm or company, when there is good reason to believe that such metals or articles were unlawfully taken from a railroad company or its receiver. Instead of the usual averment as to ownership, in the affidavit for a writ of replevin, it shall be sufficient for the officer or agent of such company or the receiver, to aver that he believes such metals or articles were unlawfully taken from such company or some other company. The person, firm or company claiming in such action, the right or title to such metals or articles, prima facie shall prove a right or title thereto, lawfully derived as herein-before provided. In the absence of such proof, the company or receiver claiming such metals or articles shall be held to be the general owner thereof; but any other company or receiver, upon showing that part of such metals or articles unlawfully were taken from it or him, shall be entitled to such part, upon payment of a proper share of the cost and expenses of replevying it. (R. S. Sec. 3361; April 12, 1876, 73 v. 227, § 5.)

Section 9024. (Liability of company or receiver.) If a company, or its receiver, replevies property under the next preceding section without reasonable cause to believe that it was unlawfully taken from some company or its receiver, such company or receiver shall be liable to the party entitled thereto, in any sum not exceeding double the value of the property so replevied, in addition to such damages as such party sustains thereby. (R. S. Sec. 3361; April 12, 1876, 73 v. 227, § 5.)

CHAPTER 7.

CONSOLIDATION.

- | | |
|---|--|
| § 9025. When companies may consolidate. | § 9039. Companies may dispose of stocks and bonds acquired by consolidation. |
| § 9026. Consolidation of domestic and foreign companies. | § 9040. Consolidated company may issue stock in lieu of purchase money. |
| § 9027. Consolidating of railroad companies. | § 9041. Property of company acquired by purchase vested in consolidated company. |
| § 9028. Proceedings to affect consolidation. | § 9042. Effect of consolidation. |
| § 9029. Effect of agreement to consolidate. | § 9043. To establish a principal office. |
| § 9030. Effect of agreement of consolidation as evidence. | § 9044. Actions against new company. |
| § 9031. Defects in consolidation agreements. | § 9045. Taxation of road partly in this state. |
| § 9032. How defects cured in certain consolidation agreements. | § 9046. Proof dispensed with. |
| § 9033. How defects cured in reference to stock. | § 9047. Two or more companies owning a road may divide and dispose of it. |
| § 9034. Stockholder refusing to consolidate. | § 9048. Proceedings when companies can not agree on a division. |
| § 9035. Provision applies only to stockholders of a domestic corporation. | § 9049. Cost of improvements. |
| § 9036. Notice of application of appointment. | § 9050. Who may purchase. |
| § 9037. Election of directors of consolidated company. | § 9051. Partition not compulsory. |
| § 9038. Property of old companies vests in new. | § 9052. Company selling interest may purchase or condemn land along route. |
| | § 9053. To what companies these provisions apply. |

Section 9025. (When companies may consolidate.) When the lines of road of railroad companies, in this state or any portion of such lines have been or are being so constructed as to admit the passage of burthen or passenger cars over any two or more of such roads continuously, without break or interruption, such companies may consolidate themselves into a single company. (R. S. Sec. 3379; March 30, 1877, 74 v. 71, § 1.)

When roads are connected.

See note to § 8807.

The lines of two railroad companies, which are in their general features parallel and competing, can not be connected for the carriage of freight and passengers over both "continuously" within the meaning of this section, and hence can not consolidate.

State v. Vanderbilt, 37 O. S. 590 (1881).

Burke v. Cleveland, etc., Ry. Co., 22 W. L. B. 11 (1889).

A state in granting a corporate privilege to its own citizens, or what is equivalent, in permitting a foreign corporation to become one of the constituent elements of a consolidated company, may impose such conditions as it seems proper, and that the acceptance of the franchise in either case implies a submission to the conditions without which the franchise could not have been obtained.

Ashley v. Ryan, 153 U. S. 436, 443 (1893); 8 O. F. D. 215; 49 O. S. 504, 527.

Consolidated railroad companies organized in pursuance of the consolidation act are corporations formed under a general law, within the meaning of the constitution, and as such subject to the limitations and reservations of the constitution; and the general assembly has power to alter and regulate rates of fare chargeable by such companies.

Shields v. State, 26 O. S. 86 (1875); s. c., 95 U. S. 319; 4 O. F. D. 471.

Powers of constituent companies pending consolidation. Corporations, which are parties to an agreement to consolidate, continue in the full enjoyment of their powers and franchises respectively, and may accept subscriptions to their capital stock at any time before consolidation is consummated by filing the agreement of consolidation with the secretary of state.

Mansfield, etc., R. R. Co. v. Brown, 26 O. S. 223 (1875).

Subscriptions to capital stock are to be construed with reference to consolidation statutes in force, and subscribers are bound thereby as if the statutes were a part of the contracts of subscription.

Mansfield, etc., R. R. Co. v. Brown, 26 O. S. 223 (1875).

Right of stockholders of constituent companies to enforce operation of roads.

See Port Clinton, etc., R. R. Co. v. Cleveland, etc., R. R. Co., 13 O. S. 544, 560 (1862).

Section 9026. (Consolidation of domestic and foreign companies.) A company organized in this state for the purpose of constructing, owning and operating a line of railway, or whose line of road is made or is in process of construction to the boundary line of this state, or to a point either in or out of the state, may consolidate its capital stock with that of a company in an adjoining state, organized for a like purpose, whose line of road has been projected, constructed or is in process of construction to the same point, when the roads so united and constructed will form a continuous line for the passage of cars. Roads running or to be constructed to the bank of a river which is not bridged, or to the tracks and property of a union depot company, the use of which is enjoyed by either of the companies so proposed to be consolidated, shall be held to be continuous under this section. (R. S. Sec. 3380; April 18, 1890, 87 v. 218; April 22, 1885, 82 v. 150; March 30, 1877, 74 v. 71. § 1.)

A corporation created by the consolidation of a domestic with a foreign corporation, under co-operative legislation of the two states, becomes a corporation in each state.

Ashley v. Ryan, 49 O. S. 504, 529 (1892); s. c., 153 U. S. 436 (1893).

By a consolidation, whether of domestic corporations, or of a domestic with a foreign corporation, a new corporation is formed by the extinguishment of the old corporations.

Ashley v. Ryan, 49 O. S. 504, 529 (1892).

The shares of stock of a railroad company formed by the consolidation of an Ohio company with a foreign company are exempt from taxation by § 192. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1917, p. 542.

Notwithstanding the consolidation of two railroad corporations of different states, each retains its identity as a corporation of the state in which it was originally created; and in a suit against the consolidated corporation brought in one of such states, it can not obtain a removal to the federal courts on the ground that it is a citizen of the other state, although the consolidation was had under the laws of the latter.

Paul v. Baltimore, etc., R. R. Co., 44 Fed. 513 (1890).

Ohio, etc., R. R. Co. v. Wheeler, 1 Black (U. S.) 286 (1861).

This act may as properly be construed to mean the state adjoining the state in which the first company has its line of road, as the state adjoining the state in which the first company is incorporated, so as to enable, for example, an Ohio company to consolidate with Indiana and Illinois companies.

Adelbert College v. Toledo, etc., Ry. Co., 3 N. P. 15; 5 L. D. 14 (1894); s. c., 74 O. S. 483; reversed, 208 U. S. 38, 609.

See Union Trust Co. v. New York, etc., R. R. Co., 17 W. L. B. 176, 177 (1887).

Continental Trust Co. v. Toledo, etc., R. R. Co., 82 Fed. 642 (1897); 9 O. F. D. 321.

Toledo, etc., R. R. Co. v. Continental Trust Co., 95 Fed. 497 (1899).

"Continuous line." Where two railway companies owning lines of railroad, seeking consolidation, are connected by the tracks of a "union" company organized by several railway companies to secure union depot and terminal facilities, and where by law the interest of each company in the union company, in its capital stock, and in its property and effects of every kind, are deemed an appurtenance to the railroad of such proprietary company, and are not alienable except with and as part of the railroad of such proprietary company it will be held that the companies do unite and form a continuous line within the meaning of this section.

Burke v. Cleveland, etc., Ry. Co., 22 W. L. B. 11 (1889).

See note to § 8807.

De facto consolidation. Where two roads not coming under this section attempt and apparently complete consolidation by colorable proceedings in a formal way to the approval of the proper state officers, the certificate of incorporation, duly certified, being admitted to record in the office of the secretary of state, and its rights as a corporation having never been challenged by the state, it will be entitled to be considered at least a corporation de facto with power to mortgage its property, after it has acquired and disposed of valuable property and incurred numerous obligations.

See Toledo, etc., R. R. Co. v. Continental Trust Co., 99 Fed. 497 (1899).

Union Trust Co. v. New York, etc., R. R. Co., 17 W. L. B. 176 (1887).

A railroad company having possession of and operating property obtained through consolidation and foreclosures in which the consolidation was recognized as valid, is estopped to question the validity of the consolidation.

Adelbert College v. Toledo, etc., Ry. Co., 3 N. P. 15 (1894); s. c., 5 Dec. 14; s. c., 74 O. S. 483; reversed, 208 U. S. 38, 609.

Farmers' Loan Co. v. Toledo, etc., Ry. Co., 67 Fed. 50 (1895); s. c., 8 O. F. D. 435; 9 O. F. D. 230.

Former acts. Under the former acts the road was required to be in process of construction.

See Mansfield, etc., R. R. Co. v. Stout, 26 O. S. 241 (1875).

Union Trust Co. v. New York, etc., R. R. Co., 17 W. L. B. 176 (1887).

Section 9027. (Consolidating of railroad companies.)

A railroad company formed by the consolidation of a company or companies of this state, with a company or companies of another state, or states, may make a further consolidation with a company or companies of another state or states owning continuous, connected, but not parallel or competing lines. The constituent companies may fix by the agreement for consolidation the terms and conditions upon which it is to be made, which terms and conditions may include the payment or retirement of the preferred stock of either or any of the constituent companies, if they have such. If the new company issue preferred stock, the par value of the shares thereof may be fixed by the agreement of consolidation, or by the resolution for the issue thereof without regard to the par value of shares of the common stock of such company. (R. S. Sec. 3380a; May 2, 1902, 95 v. 354.)

Cited. Mannington v. Railway Co., 8 O. L. R. 451, 467; 183 Fed. 133 (1910).

Section 9028. (Proceedings to affect consolidation.)

Consolidation shall be made under the conditions and restrictions following:

1. The directors of the several companies may enter into a joint agreement, under the corporate seal of each company, for the consolidation of the companies, prescribing the terms and conditions thereof, the mode of carrying it into effect, the name of the new company, the number of directors and other officers thereof, their places of residence, the amount of the capital stock of the new company agreed upon, the number of shares thereof, the amount of each share, and the manner of converting the capital stock of each constituent company into that of the new company, with such other details as they deem necessary to perfect the new organization and consolidation of the companies.

2. The agreement shall be submitted to the stockholders of each of the companies, at a meeting thereof called separately for the purpose of taking it into consideration. Due notice of the time and place of holding such meeting, and the object thereof, shall be given by written or printed notices addressed to each of the persons in whose names the capital stock of the companies stand on the books thereof, and by a like notice published in some newspaper in the city or village where such company has its principal office or place of business. But if all the stockholders are present at such meeting, in person or by proxy, such notice may be waived in writing. At the meeting of stockholders the agreement of the directors shall be considered, and a vote by ballot taken for its adoption or rejection. Each share of stock on which all the installments called for by the board of directors are paid, shall entitle the holder thereof to one vote. Ballots shall be cast in person or by proxy. If two-thirds of all the votes cast are for the adoption of the agreement, that fact shall be certified thereon by the secretary of each of the companies, and the agreement so adopted, or a certified copy thereof shall be filed in the office of the secretary of state. All consolidation agreements heretofore entered into and ratified by such companies substantially in manner as in this section prescribed, shall be as valid as if entered into and ratified by virtue of this section. (R. S. Sec. 3381; April 22, 1885, 82 v. 150; R. S. 1880; March 30, 1877, 74 v. 71, § 2.)

Consolidation of street railway companies. § 9127 et seq.

Mining, etc., companies, § 10139.

This section applies to the consolidation of a domestic corporation and a foreign corporation.

Ashley v. Ryan, 49 O. S. 504, 528 (1892).

Agreement for consolidation. The agreement of the directors of the consolidating companies is fatally defective if it does not state the number and residence of the new directors. This provision of the statute is mandatory.

State v. Vanderbilt, 37 O. S. 590, 654 (1882).

See Trester v. Mo. Pac. R. R. Co., 33 Neb. 171 (1891).

The agreement may require constituent companies to enter the consolidation free from debt.

Railway Co. v. Bank, 68 O. S. 582 (1903).

And may provide that of the stock apportioned to one of the constituent companies enough shall be sold to pay its floating debt, and the remainder distributed among the preferred and common stockholders in proportion to the relative value of each stock.

Railway Co. v. Bank, 68 O. S. 582 (1903).

A separate agreement between stockholders of the constituent companies may be incorporated by reference. A provision that all property matters, not specifically adjusted in the agreement of consolidation, should be adjusted pursuant to a separate agreement theretofore made by the holders of a majority of the stock of each constituent company, is within the powers of the directors, and such separate agreement constitutes a part of the agreement of consolidation.

Railway Co. v. Bank, 68 O. S. 582 (1903).

The directors are not only expressly empowered to agree upon the manner of converting the capital stock of each of the companies into that of the new company, but they are invested with the widest discretion as to the details of the consolidation, which may not be specifically included in the words of the statute.

Railway Co. v. Bank, 68 O. S. 582, 597 (1903).

The companies may agree upon the number and amount of shares of the proposed consolidated company, may classify such new stock into "common" and "preferred," and may issue a greater or less number of shares than that of the aggregate of the constituent companies to secure a just and equitable division of property between the shareholders of the companies.

Burke v. Cleveland, etc., Ry. Co., 22 W. L. B. 11 (1889).

Where bonds were issued by a company, which afterward was consolidated with another under a stipulation that said bonds should be protected by the new company, the holders of such bonds have a lien on the property of the company.

See Compton v. Railway Co., 45 O. S. 592 (1888).

Where a contract of consolidation provided: "The consolidated company shall not issue any evidences of funded debt, or execute any lease of railway property which may entail fixed charges, except by the consent of a majority in interest of the holders of the said preferred stock, to be expressed in writing under their signatures respectively," etc., it was held that it did not conflict with §§ 8660 or 8709.

Burke v. Cleveland, etc., Ry. Co., 22 W. L. B. 11, 15 (1889).

Where one clause of the contract of consolidation is illegal, and can be separated from the legal parts, the consolidation will not be enjoined, and the parties will be left to litigate the question as to legality of the clause when occasion requires it.

Burke v. Cleveland, etc., Ry. Co., 22 W. L. B. 11, 16 (1889).

The agreement should accurately describe the capital of the constituent companies. Bonds should not be designated as capital stock although § 8801 permits companies in process of consolidation to issue bonds instead of preferred stock. Rep. Atty. Gen. 1913, p. 80.

Stockholders' meeting. This section requires notice to be given to the persons "in whose name the capital stock of the companies stands on the books thereof." It does not provide for notice to, or require participation by, a person who has a concealed equity in stock. A pledgee who has not had the stock transferred to his name on the corporate books is not entitled to notice.

Railway Co. v. Bank, 68 O. S. 582, 599 (1903).

Liability of consolidated company to unregistered pledgee. Where the joint agreement provided that certain stock of the consolidated company should be distributed to one of the constituent companies, part of which should be sold to pay the floating indebtedness of that company, and the balance distributed among the stockholders of such company, which agreement was assented to by the registered owners of certain pledged stock of such constituent company, but without the knowledge of the pledgee of their stock, who held certificates assigned in blank, without a transfer; and the agreement was performed by the consolidated company by delivering the stock to "agents and proxies" designated by the constituent company and its stockholders, to carry out the joint agreement; the consolidated company is not liable for a conversion of the stock after delivering to the "agents and proxies." A provision in the certificates of the pledged shares that they are transferable on the books of that company only on surrender of the certificates is not violated by such a distribution of stock by the consolidated company.

Railway Co. v. Bank, 68 O. S. 582.

For cases involving similar facts.

See Robison v. Railway Co., 13 L. D. 1; s. c., 5 N. P. 293; 7 L. D. 312.

Fuller v. Railway Co., 8 N. P. 605; 11 L. D. 574 (C. P. 1901).

Powers of constituent companies. Under this section the parties to a consolidation agreement continue in the full exercise of their franchises and powers, and may accept subscriptions to their capital stock at any time before consolidation is consummated by filing the agreement of consolidation with the secretary of state.

Mansfield, etc., R. R. Co. v. Brown, 26 O. S. 223 (1875).

Stock issued by a constituent company after consummation of the consolidation is spurious.

Worthington v. C. C. Ry., 9 C. C. n. s. 433; 19 C. D. 321 (1904); aff'd, 75 O. S. 626.

Suit to enjoin consolidation. To a suit to enjoin a consolidation of two railroad companies, and incidentally to enjoin one corporation from voting, on the question of consolidation, stock which it owns in the other, and to enjoin the latter from permitting such stock to be voted, the former corporation is an indispensable party. But on the issue of consolidation, the former is not an indispensable party.

A suit to enjoin a consolidation because of alleged violation of the federal anti-trust laws cannot be entertained by a state court.

Where a stockholder in a corporation seeking consolidation having only 1/1000 of 1 percent of its stock, all of which was acquired after the consolidation agreement had been made, sought to enjoin the consolidation, it was held that "the court of equity will be strict in requiring the plaintiff to point out with precision and certainty in what respects the law is about to be violated and to show, clearly and positively, substantial and irreparable injury to its private rights." General Investment Co. v. Railway, — U. S. —; 67 L. Ed. 108 (1922); s. c., 250 Fed. 160; 269 Fed. 235.

Section 9029. (Effect of agreement to consolidate.)

When the agreement is made and perfected, as provided in the next preceding section, and it or a copy thereof filed with the secretary of state, the several companies parties thereto shall be deemed and taken to be one company, possessing within this state all the rights, privileges, and franchises, and subject to all the restrictions, disabilities, and duties, of a railroad company. (R. S. Sec. 3382; April 10, 1856, 53 v. 143, § 3.)

The consolidated company does not succeed to the rights, etc., of the constituent companies until the election of its first board of directors.
§ 9038.

Mansfield, etc., Co. v. Brown, 26 O. S. 223 (1875).

By the consolidation of companies, whether of Ohio companies, or Ohio and foreign companies, a new corporation is formed which succeeds to all the property of the original companies and assumes their liabilities.

Ashley v. Ryan, 49 O. S. 504, 529 (1892).

Wabash, etc., Ry. Co. v. Ham, 114 U. S. 587, 595 (1884).

Shields v. Ohio, 95 U. S. 319 (1880); s. c., 4 O. F. D. 471.

Lee v. Sturges, 46 O. S. 153, 169 (1889).

A railroad corporation formed by the consolidation of an Ohio Company with a company or companies of another state or states, under cooperative legislation in the different states, becomes one company with a status in each state, possessing in Ohio all the rights, privileges and franchises, and subject to the restrictions and disabilities of an Ohio company. Pollitz v. Commission, 96 O. S. 49 (1917).

"The nominal existence of the several constituent companies is terminated, but their substantial existence is perpetuated by being merged in the consolidated company." Trust Co. v. Traction Co., 106 O. S. 577 (1922); s. c., 20 N. P. n. s. 219.

So far as concerns unpaid dissenting stockholders, the old companies may be deemed in existence after the filing of the agreement.

Railway Co. v. Garrett, 50 O. S. 405, 417 (1893).

Boehmke v. Traction Co., 88 O. S. 156, 161 (1913).

It is only as to creditors that constituent companies remain alive. Stock issued by a constituent company, after consolidation, is spurious.

Worthington v. Railway Co., 9 C. C. n. s. 433; 19 C. D. 321 (1904); aff'd, 75 O. S. 626.

A decree against a company formed by the consolidation of companies of several states may be made against the whole road, and not merely against so much as is in the state.

Scofield v. Railway Co., 43 O. S. 571, 621 (1885).

Section 9030. (Effect of agreement of consolidation as evidence.) A copy of the agreement and act of consolidation, duly certified by the secretary of state, shall be received in the courts of this state as prima facie evidence of the existence of the several companies parties to it, prior to and at the time of the execution of the agreement, of the consolidation of the companies, as specified in the agreement, that such consolidation was authorized by the laws of the several states within which the several companies were chartered, and into which the consolidated road extends, and of all the facts, statements, and covenants set forth and recited in the agreement and act of consolidation, and in the certificate endorsed thereon. (R. S. Sec. 3391; February 19, 1858, 55 v. 8, § 1.)

Section 9031. (Defects in consolidation agreements.) If the agreement for the consolidation of railroad companies heretofore filed in the office of the secretary of state is defective by reason of the omission of a statement either of the number of the directors or other officers, or their places of residence, or the number of shares of capital stock as required in such agreement by the laws of this state, such defect may be cured by filing in the office of the secretary of state a certificate signed by the president and the secretary of the consolidated company named in such agreement under its corporate seal, setting forth the omitted statements, which shall thereupon be considered a part of the agreement of consolidation, the same as if originally incorporated therein, and such agreement and all rights, remedies, powers, duties, and acts thereunder be construed accordingly. Such agreement and certificate and copies thereof, duly certified by the secretary of state, shall be held and received in all courts and other places as constituting the agreement of the consolidation of such companies to all intents and purposes, as if no such omission or defect had ever existed in such agreement. (R. S. Sec. 3282-1; April 7, 1882, 79 v. 126, § 1.)

Section 9032. (Curing defects in railroad agreements. Certificate of consolidated company.) If the agreement or certified copy thereof for the consolidation of railroad companies, heretofore filed in the office of the secretary of state, is defective by reason of the omission of a statement of the place of residence of the directors, or the number and places of residence of the other officers, as required in such agreement by the laws of this state, but when in pursuance of such agreement an election of directors has been had, and other officers have been elected or appointed, all such defects in such agreement, and any defect in the certificates thereon, may be cured by filing in the office of the secretary of state a copy of the proceedings of the election duly certified by the secretary of the consolidated company, under its corporate seal, to be such copy, and the certificate signed by the president and secretary of the consolidated company under its corporate seal, setting out the respective places of residence of the directors first elected, and of the officers first elected or appointed at the time they were so elected or appointed, which shall thereupon be considered a part of the agreement of consolidation the same as if originally incorporated therein. Upon filing such certified copy of the proceedings and certificate, all such defects existing prior to the filing of such certified copy of the proceedings and certificate, shall be cured, and the several acts of such company shall be held valid, and the agreement and all rights, remedies, powers, duties, and acts thereunder be construed accordingly. The agreement, proceedings and certificate, and copies thereof, duly certified by the secretary of state, shall be held and received in all courts and other places as constituting the agreement of consolidation of such companies, to all intents and purposes as if no omission ever existed in such agreement or the certificate thereto. (May 20, 1910, 101 v. 326; R. S. Sec. 3382-2; January 20, 1887, 84 v. 3.)

Section 9033. (How defects cured in reference to stock.)

If the agreement or a certified copy thereof for the consolidation of railroad companies heretofore filed in the office of the secretary of state, states the number of shares of the capital stock of the new company, and the amount of each share, but is defective by reason of the omission of a statement of the amount of the capital stock of the new company agreed upon as required by the laws of this state in such agreement, such defect may be cured by filing in the office of the secretary of state a certificate signed by the secretary of such consolidated company, under its corporate seal, setting out the amount of the capital stock of the new company agreed upon, which shall be ascertained by multiplying the number of shares of capital stock named in the agreement by the amount of each share named in the agreement in dollars, as shown in the original agreement or the certified copy thereof filed in the office of the secretary of state, and which certificate shall thereupon be considered a part of the agreement of consolidation the same as if originally incorporated therein. Upon filing such certificate such defect shall be cured and such consolidation and the several acts of the company shall be held valid, and the agreement and all rights, remedies, powers, duties, and acts thereunder be construed accordingly. Certified copies of such certificate and the agreement of consolidation, duly certified by the secretary of state, shall be held and received in all courts and other places as constituting the agreement of consolidation of such companies, to all intents and purposes, as if no omission or defect had ever existed in such agreement. (R. S. Sec. 3382-3; February 18, 1887, 84 v. 29, § 1a.)

Section 9034. (Stockholder refusing to consolidate shall be paid market value; conditions. Disagreement as to value of stock or amount of damages; right of appeal to public utilities commission. Duties and powers of public utilities commission upon submission of question for arbitration. Dissatisfied stockholder may file suit in common pleas court. Defining "stockholder".) A stockholder who refuses to convert his stock into that of the consolidated company, shall be paid, in accordance with the provisions of this section, either the full market value thereof at the date of the making of the agreement of consolidation by the directors, without regard to any depreciation or appreciation in consequence of such consolidation, or damages, if any, to him because of the proposed consolidation, if he voted for the rejection of the agreement of consolidation and if, previous to such consolidation he so requires: Provided, however, that if the market price at the date of the making of the agreement of consolidation by the directors is abnormally enhanced or depressed by unfair combinations or by an illegal monopoly or by any other wrongful act, other evidence than the market sales at that time may be resorted to for the purpose of showing the fair value of the stock. If a stockholder so refusing to consolidate and the board of directors of the company desiring to consolidate cannot agree as to the value of such stock, or as to the amount of such damages, the parties, or either of them, may at any time within 30 days after the adoption of the agreement of consolidation by the stockholders as in section 9028 provided, or at any time before completion of consolidation if said completion be effected after said period of 30 days, apply by petition to the public utilities commission for a submission of the questions to arbitration by said commission. Upon reasonable notice to the parties, the public utilities commission shall thereupon proceed to arbitrate the questions and shall appraise said stock and ascertain the full market value thereof at the date of the making of the agreement of consolidation by the directors, and shall also estimate and determine the damage, if any, to such stockholder by the proposed consolidation if he be required to convert his stock. After notice, hearing and determination, the commission shall make an order directing the said company to pay such stockholder, on or before a day named, either the full market value of such stock as so appraised and ascertained, or the amount of damages, if any, so estimated and determined. Said company may, at its election either pay to the said stockholder the amount of damages so found and awarded, if any, or the value of the stock so ascertained and determined, or may deposit the amount with the common pleas court of the county in which it has its principal place of business. No right to payment for the value of his stock or for damages because of the proposed consolidation shall be claimed by or accrue to any stockholder who has not voted for the rejection of the agreement of consolidation at the meeting of stockholders held for that purpose pursuant to section 9028, and who does not in addition thereto, previous to such consolidation notify, in writing, the company of his refusal to convert his stock and of his demand for payment of the full market value thereof, or for damages, and who does not, in the event of failure to agree with the directors of the company in respect to the value of the stock or the amount of damages to be paid, apply, to the public utilities as herein provided, and no action affecting a railroad consolidation shall be brought by or on behalf of any private person except in accordance with the provisions of this section. After application or petition to the public utilities commission, as herein provided, the dissenting stockholder may not recant his action in this regard nor insist upon conversion of his stock or the payment of damages except pursuant to the order of the commission or to the judgment of the court as in this section provided. But if such conditions as to voting, notice and application to the public utilities commission are observed, the stockholder's rights shall not affect the completion of the consolidation, and shall not be affected by such completion, except that the right to payment for the value of the stock, or of damages, shall not accrue until the completion of the consolidation by filing the agreement or a certified copy thereof in the office of the secretary of state, as provided in section 9028, and such right, subject to the provisions of this section, shall continue after the completion of the consolidation as aforesaid and shall not be defeated by such event, and shall be enforceable either against the consolidated company or against the constituent company against which claim is made, and the existence of such constituent company shall be continued after consolidation so far as may be necessary to give effect to this law. Upon the payment or deposit of the value of the stock so appraised and ascertained, as aforesaid, the stockholder shall transfer the said stock to the company making the payment, to be disposed of by the directors of said company or of the consolidated company, or to be retained for the benefit of the remaining stockholders. Upon the payment or deposit of the amount of the damages so estimated and determined, the stockholders shall be required to convert his stock as provided in the agreement for consolidation approved by the stockholders. If said company does not comply with said order within the time limit in such order, or if any stockholder is dissatisfied with the order, said stockholder or any person for whose benefit such order was made, may at any time within thirty days after expiration of the time limit in such order, file in the common pleas court of the county in which the principal office of said company is located in this state, or in the common pleas court of Franklin county, a petition setting forth briefly the causes for which he claims damages, and the order of the commission in the premises. Such suit in the common pleas court shall proceed in all respects like other civil suits for damages, except that on the trial of such suit the findings and order of the commission shall be prima facie evidence of the facts therein stated. Due credit shall be allowed for all amounts paid or deposited by the company and the company shall have the right to recover back all amounts paid or deposited in excess of final judgment. The jurisdiction vested in the probate court in respect to the matters covered by this section is hereby abolished and repealed and all such jurisdiction is conferred upon, transferred to and vested in the common pleas courts as herein provided; all cases pending in the probate court shall be deemed pending in and be transferred forthwith to said common pleas court of Franklin county; and all matters covered by this section which have been submitted to arbitration and are now pending in the hands of arbitrators appointed by or under the authority of the probate court, shall be deemed pending before and shall forthwith be transferred to the public utilities commission.

The word "stockholder" as above used shall be limited to mean and construed as meaning a bona fide holder of record at the time of the agreement for the consolidation by the directors. (110 v. 228; R. S. Sec. 3388; March 15, 1892, 89 v. 88; April 4, 1890, 87 v. 159; April 10, 1856, 53 v. 143, § 10.)

See § 8713.

The remedy provided by this section does not bar a suit by a stockholder to enjoin an illegal combination. General Co. v. Railway, 250 Fed. 160 (C. C. A. Ohio 1918); s. c., 269 Fed. 235; — U. S. —, 67 L. Ed. 108.

"Market value." Market value under this section is properly ascertained by evidence of sales of stock. Value of the corporate property and earning power of the corporate business are not elements for consideration. Society v. Railway Co., 28 O. C. A. 454 (1918).

The right to consolidate on the vote of two-thirds of the stock is a part of the contract of each stockholder and the company and other stockholders, and if a stockholder does not assent he must sell his shares as provided by statute.

Burke v. Cleveland, etc., Ry. Co., 22 W. L. B. 11, 16 (1889).

Under the act of 87 v. 159 it was held that a dissenting stockholder could compel the submission to arbitration of the question of the value of his stock, and that an agreement to arbitrate was not required.

Railway Co. v. Garrett, 50 O. S. 405 (1893).

A failure to make a demand before the consolidation agreement is filed with the secretary of state (§§ 9028, 9029) or a failure to make an attempt to agree with the company does not defeat the right of a dissenting stockholder.

Railway Co. v. Garrett, 50 O. S. 405 (1893).

It is the duty of a company proposing to consolidate to ascertain who, if any, of its stockholders refuse to convert their stock and to cause the value of the stock of dissenting stockholders to be ascertained and paid.

Railway Co. v. Garrett, 50 O. S. 405 (1893).

Section 9035. (Provision applies only to stockholders of a domestic corporation.) In cases of the consolidation of railway corporations of this with those of another state, as by law provided for, the provisions of the next preceding section shall apply only to stockholders in Ohio companies, and not to those of a foreign corporation; it being the intent to have their rights determined by the law of the states creating them. (R. S. Sec. 3388a; March 15, 1892, 89 v. 88.)

Section 9036. (Notice of application of appointment.) In all such cases of arbitration the party desiring it must give the opposite party at least ten days' notice of his intention to apply to the judge for the appointment of arbitrators which notice shall be served in the manner provided for the service of a summons and shall specify the time and place for the hearing of the application. In cases of non-residents the notice shall be by publication, for four consecutive weeks, in some newspaper printed in the county. (R. S. Sec. 3390; April 10, 1856, 53 v. 143, § 11.)

Section 9037. (Election of directors of consolidated company.) The stockholders at the meeting called to consider the agreement, after its adoption, shall appoint a time and place for the election of the directors and other officers for the new company, notice of which must be given by the secretary of each of the companies in some newspaper printed, or of general circulation at the place of the principal office of each company, at least three weeks previous thereto. But if at each meeting all the stockholders of the constituent companies are present, either in person or by proxy, in writing or by resolution they may waive such notice, and consent to hold such meeting and election at any time. It shall be conducted in the manner prescribed by the stockholders at such meeting. (R. S. Sec. 3383; April 22, 1885, 82 v. 150; 53 v. 143, § 4.)

The election of directors under this section is unauthorized until the agreement has been filed with the secretary of state. The consolidating companies continue for the purpose of holding and controlling all rights and franchises until the election is had. The divesting of the old and the investing of the new corporations are simultaneous.

Mansfield, etc., R. R. Co. v. Brown, 26 O. S. 223 (1875).

At the meeting provided for by this section the stockholders have no corporate duty to perform; therefore, the fact that some of the stockholders have been enjoined from participating in such a meeting does not constitute a ground for the appointment of a receiver of either of the consolidating companies, for such persons could act only in the capacity of stockholders.

Railway Co. v. Jewett, 37 O. S. 649 (1882).

Section 9038. (Property of old companies vests in new.)

Upon the election of the first board of directors for the company created by the agreement of consolidation, all the rights, privileges, franchises of each company to the agreement, and all property, debts due on account of subscriptions for stock, or other things in action, are to be deemed transferred to and vested in such new company, without further act or deed. All property, rights of way, and other interests, shall be as effectually the property of the new company as they were of the companies parties to the agreement. Title to real estate either by deed, gift, grant, or by appropriation under the laws of this state, shall not revert or be impaired by reason of the consolidation. But rights of creditors, and liens upon the property of either company, shall be preserved unimpaired, and the respective companies deemed to be in existence to preserve them. Debts, liabilities, and duties of either company, thenceforth shall attach to the new company, and be enforced against it to the same extent as if such debts, liabilities, and duties had been contracted by it. (R. S. Sec. 3384; April 10, 1856, 53 v. 143, § 5.)

The property of the constituent companies does not vest in the consolidated company until the election of the first directors.

Mansfield, etc., R. Co. v. Brown, 26 O. S. 223 (1875).

Liability for debts of constituent companies. It is competent for the directors to agree that the constituent companies shall enter the consolidation free from debt, although if they do not do so the liabilities of such companies will attach to the new company under this section.

Railway Co. v. Bank, 68 O. S. 582, 597 (1903).

The new consolidated company is liable for the torts of the original company.

Boehmke v. Traction Co., 88 O. S. 156 (1913).

A dissenting stockholder may prosecute his claim against the new company which takes the property of the old company charged with the payment of its debts.

Railway Co. v. Garrett, 50 O. S. 405, 417 (1893).

An agreement by a constituent company to maintain a water course is binding on the consolidated company.

Bell v. Railway, 3 C. C. 31; 2 C. D. 19.

Under the former stockholders' double liability law, a creditor of a constituent company was entitled to subject the statutory liability of stockholders of the new corporation.

Marriott v. Railway, 16 L. D. 135 (1905); s. c., 8 C. C. n. s. 495; 10 C. C. n. s. 573; 20 C. D. 419.

For rights of creditors of a corporation on sale of its entire assets, see note to § 8710.

How liability enforced. General creditors have no lien upon the property of constituent companies before consolidation, nor afterward unless such lien is established by judgment and execution.

Greene v. Railroad Co., 62 O. S. 67, 79 (1900).

The consolidated company holds its property acquired by such consolidation in its own right, and not in trust for the constituent companies, and such property can not be reached by creditor's bill.

Greene v. Woodland, etc., R. R. Co., 62 O. S. 67 (1900).

But it has been held that an agent of the consolidated company may be guilty of contempt of court for forcibly preventing a levy on property transferred by a constituent company, under an execution issued on a judgment against such constituent company.

State v. Brimson, 46 W. L. B. 275 (Sup. Ct. without rep., 1901).

Where a suit was commenced against a constituent company, and an answer filed in its name by the attorneys for the consolidated company, the plaintiff was permitted to amend his petition and substitute the consolidated company as defendant. Boehmke v. Traction Co., 88 O. S. 156 (1913).

Equitable lien for debts of old company. On the consolidation of companies under this act the new company takes the property in its own right, subject only to the payment of the debts of the constituent companies. This liability is created by statute, and an equitable lien results as a consequence.

Compton v. Railway Co., 45 O. S. 592 (1888).

See Continental Trust Co. v. Toledo, etc., R. R. Co., 86 Fed. 929 (1898).

Contra, Wabash, etc., Co. v. Ham, 114 U. S. 595 (1884).

Wabash, etc., Co. v. Adelbert College, 208 U. S. 38 (1908).

This equitable lien is a result of the proceedings under which the new company acquired its title to the property, and of it the creditors of the new company have, in law, the same notice they have of prior mortgages on the same property.

Compton v. Railway Co., 45 O. S. 592 (1888).

Where the consolidation agreement undertakes to protect certain unsecured debts of one of the constituent companies an equitable lien is established on the property of the old company to the extent of the debt.

Compton v. Railway Co., 45 O. S. 592 (1888).

Contra, Wabash, etc., Co. v. Ham, 114 U. S. 595 (1884).

See Wabash, etc., Co. v. Adelbert College, 208 U. S. 38, 44 (1908).

Compton v. Jesup, 68 Fed. 263 (1895).

Tysen v. Wabash Ry. Co., 15 Fed. 763 (1883).

Bonds and mortgages of constituent companies. Consolidation does not discharge the lien of a mortgage on the property of a constituent company.

Railway Co. v. Lynde, 55 O. S. 23, 56 (1896); aff'd, 172 U. S. 493.

Bonds of a constituent company which are negotiated after such constituent company went out of existence, but before maturity of the bonds, are protected by this section.

Railway Co. v. Lynde, 55 O. S. 23, 56, 57 (1896); aff'd, 172 U. S. 493.

A mortgage by a constituent company covering after-acquired property, in the absence of countervailing reasons, will cover property acquired by the consolidated company, although the mortgage does not expressly cover property subsequently acquired by "successors" of the mortgagor. Property substituted by a lessee for mortgaged property removed may also come under the mortgage.

But the mortgage does not attach to property conveyed to the consolidated company by other constituent companies, on the consolidation, unless so agreed and expressed in the terms of consolidation. Trust Co. v. Traction Co., 106 O. S. 577 (1922); s. c., 20 N. P. n. s. 219.

Where mortgage creditors of a constituent company seek to set aside a transfer of its assets to the consolidated company, or to assert a first lien on such assets, on the ground that they were induced by fraud to surrender their lien, the trustee of a mortgage executed by the consolidated company, on all its assets, is a necessary party.

Union, etc., Co. v. Hess, 6 O. L. R. 372; 159 Fed. 889; 16 O. F. D. 73 (C. C. A. 1908).

An action to enforce a lien upon the property of a consolidated railroad company, based upon an amount alleged to be due on equipment bonds issued by a constituent company, is an action not upon a liability created by statute, nor upon a written agreement, but is solely for equitable relief and the period of limitation of such actions is ten years from the date when the cause of action accrues, and the cause of action accrues as to each installment when the same matures; the right to enforce the lien as to subsequently accruing installments of interest, or as to the principal of the bonds, can not be said to have accrued prior to the time when such installments and principal respectively matured.

Adelbert College v. Toledo, etc., Ry. Co., 3 N. P. 15 (1894); 5 Dec. 14; s. c., 74 O. S. 483; 208 U. S. 44, 642.

Miscellaneous. Subscriptions to the stock of constituent companies made after the enactment of this section pass to the consolidated company; and suits may be brought thereon by the consolidated company.

Mansfield, etc., R. R. Co. v. Brown, 26 O. S. 223 (1875).

Mansfield, etc., R. R. Co. v. Stout, 26 O. S. 241 (1875).

It is only as to creditors that constituent companies remain alive after a consolidation is consummated. Stock issued by a constituent company after the consolidation is spurious.

Worthington v. Railway Co., 9 C. C. n. s. 433; 19 C. D. 321 (1904); aff'd, 75 O. S. 626.

Where the transfer agent of a consolidated company transfers stock in a constituent company to secure his personal debt, and promises to exchange such stock for stock in the consolidated company, such promise is not admissible against the consolidated company in an action to compel the exchange.

Worthington v. Railway, 9 C. C. n. s. 433; 19 C. D. 321 (1904); aff'd, no rep., 75 O. S. 626.

Rescission of transfer to consolidated company. Where a consolidated company executed a mortgage to a trustee, to secure a bond issue, such trustee is a necessary party to an action brought by mortgage creditors of a constituent company who allege that they were induced by fraud to surrender their lien, and seek to set aside the transfer of assets to the consolidated company, or to assert a first lien on such assets.

Union, etc., Co. v. Hess, 6 O. L. R. 372 (U. S. C. C. A. 1908).

Appointment of receiver on rescission of sale of all the capital stock of a corporation.

See National Salt Co. v. United Salt Co., 8 N. P. 325; 11 L. D. 348 (C. P. 1901); s. c., 12 L. D. 386.

Section 9039. (Companies may dispose of stocks and bonds acquired by consolidation.) A consolidated railroad company formed by the consolidation of a railroad company or companies created by or existing under the laws of this state, and any other state or states, with a railroad company or companies of this state or of another state, may take, hold, pledge or otherwise dispose of under such terms and agreements as the board of directors of such consolidated railroad company prescribes, the stock and bonds of any other company acquired upon consolidation or received by virtue of any purchase or lease or operating contract heretofore or hereafter made or executed, and may maintain and operate a railroad purchased under authority of law, and lease or contract to operate a part or all of a railroad constructed or in the course of construction by another company of this state or of another state, if the line of road covered by such lease or operating contract is connected with a line of road of such consolidated railroad company, on such terms as the companies agree upon. (R. S. Sec. 3384a; April 11, 1890, 87 v. 183.)

Section 9040. (Consolidated company may issue stock in lieu of purchase money.) When a consolidated railroad company described in the next preceding section is in possession of or operating in connection with or extension of its own railroad line or lines, any other railroads or railroad in this state, or any other state or states under purchase, conveyance, lease, contract, or agreement, such consolidated railroad company may take a surrender or transfer of the whole or a part of the capital stock of the company, conveying, leasing, or owning such railroad, from one or more stockholders, and issue in exchange therefor the like additional amount of its own capital stock at par, or on such other terms and conditions as are agreed upon by the directors of the consolidated railroad company. (R. S. Sec. 3384b; April 11, 1890, 87 v. 183.)

Section 9041. (Property of company acquired by purchase vested in consolidated company.) When the whole of such capital stock is so surrendered or transferred, and a certificate thereof filed in the office of the secretary of state, under the common seal of the consolidated railroad company to which such surrender or transfer shall have been made, the estate, property, rights, privileges, and franchises of the company whose stock was so surrendered or transferred, thereupon shall vest in and be held and enjoyed by such consolidated company to whom the surrender or transfer was made, as fully and entirely, without change or diminution, as they before were held and enjoyed and be managed and controlled by the board of directors of such consolidated company to which such surrender or transfer shall have been made. The two companies thenceforth shall be consolidated and be one company under the corporate name of such consolidated company, without any other formalities or proceedings. (R. S. Sec. 3384b; April 11, 1890, 87 v. 183.)

Section 9042. (Effect of consolidation.) Nothing in the two next preceding sections shall relieve such consolidated company from paying the fee provided by law in case a corporation files a certificate for an increase of its capital stock. The rights of a stockholder not surrendering or transferring his stock, shall not be affected hereby, nor existing liabilities or the rights of creditors of the company whose stock has been so surrendered or transferred, be affected by this or such preceding sections. (R. S. Sec. 3384b; April 11, 1890, 87 v. 183.)

This section, in requiring the consolidated company to pay a percentage fee on the capital stock acquired, is constitutional.

Ashley v. Ryan, 153 U. S. 436; 8 O.F. D. 215; s. c., 49 O. S. 504 (1892).

Where the transfer agent of a consolidated company transfers stock in a constituent company to secure his personal debt, and promises to exchange such stock for stock in the consolidated company, such promise is not admissible against the consolidated company in an action to compel the exchange.

Worthington v. Railway, 9 C. C. n. s. 433; 19 C. D. 321 (1904); aff'd, no rep., 75 O. S. 626.

Section 9043. (To establish a principal office.) As soon as convenient after the consolidation, the new company shall establish a principal office at some point in this state on the line of its road, but may change it at pleasure. Public notice of such establishment or change shall be given in some newspaper. This section and other laws respecting the residence of directors or corporations, the keeping of a principal or general office, and the records of corporations, shall not apply to consolidated railroad companies formed by the consolidation of a company or companies created by or existing under the laws of this state and any other state or states, with a railroad company or companies of this state or of any other state. The election for directors of such consolidated companies may be held at the principal office of the company, whether located in this or any other state under the laws of which the consolidated company was created. But at least two directors of such consolidated company must be residents of this state, and a general office of the company maintained within this state, of which notice shall be given as above provided. (R. S. Sec. 3385; April 11, 1890, 87 v. 184; April 10, 1856, 53 v. 143, § 6.)

See § 8744.

Inheritance tax on stock in consolidated company; see note to § 5348-2, and Opins. Atty. Gen. 1920, p. 952; 12 Dept. Rep. 603.

Section 9044. (Actions against new company.) Suits may be brought and maintained against the new company in the courts of this state, for all causes of action, in the same manner as against other companies. (R. S. Sec. 3386; April 11, 1890, 87 v. 184; April 10, 1856, 53 v. 143, § 6.)

Section 9045. (Taxation of road partly in this state.) That part of the road of such consolidated company in this state, and all its real and personal property therein, shall be listed for taxation and taxed in the same manner as the road and property of other railroad companies in this state. To ascertain the proportion of the rolling machinery subject to taxation here, the officer listing it shall ascertain the value of all the rolling machinery of the company, and return a sum bearing such proportion to the value of the whole, as the length of the line of such road in this state bears to the length of the whole line. (R. S. Sec. 3387; April 10, 1856, 53 v. 143, § 8.)

Section 9046. (Proof dispensed with.) It shall not be necessary to produce or prove the charters of the companies, parties to such consolidation, the laws of the several states under and by virtue of which such consolidation was effected, or the original articles of consolidation, in any suit brought to charge such consolidated company with a liability of either of the companies, parties to the act of consolidation. (R. S. Sec. 3392; February 19, 1858, 55 v. 8, § 2.)

Section 9047. (Two or more companies owning a road may divide and dispose of it.) When two or more railroad companies, are owners in common of the whole or a part of a railroad situate within this state, and by reason of inequality in the amount of business done thereon by each company, require a different degree and extent of improvement and development, such companies may enter into any arrangement they agree upon, for enlarging, improving, developing or increasing the facilities of such road or any part thereof. In pursuance of such agreement, or otherwise, they may make such division of the railroad and appurtenances thereon, and execute and deliver each to the other, or to any other railroad company having authority to purchase it, such deed or deeds of conveyance for the whole or part of such railroad, as is agreed upon between such companies. Nothing herein shall impair the lawful lien of any creditor upon the railroad as conveyed. (R. S. Sec. 3392-1; April 11, 1883, 80 v. 111, § 1.)

Section 9048. (Proceedings when companies cannot agree on a division.) If such companies are unable to agree upon an equitable plan for improving and developing, or for the division and sale of the railroad and appurtenances or part thereof so owned in common, either company from time to time may file with the state railroad commission a statement, under its seal, of the character and estimated cost of any addition, or change in the nature of the roadbed, right of way, main or side track or tracks, bridges, culverts, buildings, structures, fixtures, or appurtenances or either or any part thereof of such railroad, or part thereof, desired by such company, and of its inability to agree with the other joint owner or owners in respect to making them. Upon receipt of such statement the commission within thirty days of its filing, shall appoint a time when the owners of such railroad or part thereof may be heard respecting the reasonableness and necessity of such proposed additions or improvements, and give due notice in writing of the time and place of such hearing to each of the owners. Such commission may make such order in respect to the reasonableness or necessity of the whole or any part of such additions or improvements, as well as the manner in which they are to be made, and the periods within which they shall be paid for, as to it seems proper, and its decision in the matter shall be final. (R. S. Sec. 3392-2; April 11, 1883, 80 v. 111, § 2.)

Section 9049. (Cost of improvements.) The cost of such additions or improvements, unless otherwise agreed between the joint owners, shall be paid by them in proportion to their ownership in the joint property, irrespective of the amount of traffic which each owner may then have passing over such railroad. If either owner fails or refuses to pay the share of cost due from it on the basis herein fixed, or within the period or periods fixed by such commission, suit may be entered and judgment taken against that party. Such judgment shall be a valid lien upon the interest in such railroad or part thereof owned jointly of such party in default, and may be sold at public sale as in other cases upon execution. (R. S. Sec. 3392-3; April 11, 1883, 80 v. 111, § 3.)

Cited, Stewart v. Railway, 53 O. S. 151.

Section 9050. (Who may purchase.) A railroad company having authority to own or operate a railroad in this state, may purchase such interest at such sale, and enjoy and exercise in respect thereto, all the rights, privileges and franchises which were exercised or enjoyed by the company owning it up to the time of sale. The compulsory power of enforcing additions or improvements provided for in this and the two preceding sections shall not extend to local or terminal depot or shop grounds or facilities, the joint use of which is not needed by all the joint owners. (R. S. Sec. 3392-3; April 11, 1883, 80 v. 111, § 3.)

Section 9051. (Partition not compulsory.) Nothing in the four preceding sections shall be held to imply or confer a right or power of compulsory partition of the joint property against the will of either of the joint owners; but it may be sold upon execution as therein provided. (R. S. Sec. 3392-4; April 11, 1883, 80 v. 112, § 4.)

Section 9052. (Company selling interest may purchase or condemn land along route.) If, pursuant to the agreement or to the proceedings above provided for, either company sells or conveys or suffers to be sold or conveyed, its interest in the railroad or part thereof so owned in common, such company may acquire by purchase or condemnation, such land as is needed to enable it to construct, maintain and operate, a railroad along and adjacent to such part of its chartered route as was so sold or conveyed, and it shall have and enjoy all rights and franchises in respect to such newly acquired railroad as were held and enjoyed in respect to the railroad sold or conveyed. (R. S. Sec. 3392-5; April 11, 1883, 80 v. 112, § 5.)

Section 9053. (To what companies these provisions apply.) Section ninety hundred and forty-seven to ninety hundred and fifty-two both inclusive, shall apply in case one or more companies or owners in common has leased its interest in the portion of railroad owned in common, and the lessee of such interest may unite with the lessor in the agreement provided for in such section ninety-hundred and forty-seven or with such lessor and owner be compelled to make or pay for the addition and improvements contemplated therein. (R. S. Sec. 3392-6; April 11, 1883, 80 v. 112, § 6.)

CHAPTER 8.

SALES AND RECEIVERS.

Private Sale.
§ 9054. Company may sell road-bed and right of way.	§ 9065. When action brought; service.
§ 9055. Transfer to be by deed.	§ 9066. Application of funds; lien.
§ 9056. Two-thirds in interest of stockholders must consent.	§ 9067. When receiver must deposit money.
§ 9057. What interest dissenting stockholder may retain.	§ 9068. Certain roads may be sold at judicial sale.
§ 9058. Title vests in grantee.	§ 9069. Receiver must petition therefor.
§ 9059. Certain rights of way forfeited.	§ 9070. Order for appraisement.
	§ 9071. Notice of sale to be published.
	§ 9072. Confirmation of sale and deed.
	§ 9073. How proceeds distributed.
Equipment Contracts.
§ 9060. Certain contracts of sale void unless recorded.	§ 9074. Who may purchase property.
§ 9061. Parties may provide for a conditional sale in a lease.	§ 9075. How purchaser may acquire franchise.
§ 9062. Secretary of state to file contracts.	§ 9076. Purchaser at judicial sale may sell road, grant to be recorded.
§ 9063. Construing application of preceding sections.	§ 9077. Any number of persons may purchase, and incorporate.
Receiver and Judicial Sales.
§ 9064. Receiver.	§ 9078. May issue stock and bonds to pay purchase price.

PRIVATE SALE.

Section 9054. (Company may sell roadbed and right of way.) A company, owning in whole or part a roadbed and right of way for a railroad within this state, including those acquired by purchase at judicial sale, which, from lack of means, or other cause is unable to complete the construction of the proposed line of road thereon, may sell, assign and transfer it, or a part thereof, to any other company incorporated under the laws of Ohio, with authority to construct and operate a railroad over the same route, or any part thereof, which transfer shall include all work done upon such line of road, with all material furnished therefor, not exempted by the terms of the grant, and all rights, privileges, and easements, as fully as they are or may be possessed by the company making the transfer, and to the same extent, vest the title of and the right to enjoy them in such grantee. (R. S. Sec. 3409; May 5, 1868, 65 v. 142, § 1; May 7, 1869, 66 v. 334, §§ 1, 2.)

A railroad company can not acquire a parallel and naturally competing railway, although under construction and not completed. § 8807.

State v. Railway Co., 13 C. C. n. s. 145; 22 C. D. 147 (1910).

This section is a part of every subscription to stock, and a sale by the company of a part of its road under this section does not release the subscriber except when, and as, provision is made therefor by statute.

Armstrong v. Karshner, 47 O. S. 276 (1890).

This section confers no authority on railway companies to sell subscriptions to their stock along with their roads when they find it impossible to complete the same, from lack of means. And if it were attempted to transfer a conditional subscription to the company purchasing the road, such company could not by performing the condition precedent fix the liability of the subscriber.

Railroad Co. v. Hinsdale, 45 O. S. 556 (1888).

A railroad company, having acquired title to lands for railroad purposes by grant or proceedings in appropriation, may sell to another corporation for like railroad purposes all or a part of the same. Such a sale is not an abandonment of the premises unless such was the intention.

Garlick v. Railway Co., 67 O. S. 223 (1902).

See Platt v. Penna. Co., 43 O. S. 228 (1885).

Penna. Co. v. Platt, 47 O. S. 366 (1890).

Power to sell property generally.

See Donner v. Dayton, etc., R. Co., 1 C. S. C. R. 130 (1871).

The purchaser of a railroad, whether at judicial sale or otherwise, has no right to operate it for his own private purposes to the exclusion of the public. State v. Black Diamond Co., 97 O. S. 24 (1917).

Section 9055. (Transfer to be by deed.) Such transfer shall be by deed, executed by the president of the company grantor, in the manner provided by law for the conveyance of real estate, and for such consideration as the parties agree upon. (R. S. Sec. 3410; May 5, 1868, 65 v. 142, § 2.)

See § 8761.

Section 9056. (Two-thirds in interest of stockholders must consent.) Before such transfer may be made, the president of the company shall call a meeting of its stockholders, at some convenient point on the line, or at a terminus of the road, of which he shall cause at least thirty days' notice to be published, in some newspaper printed or in general circulation in each county in which such roadbed and right of way are situated. By a concurrent vote of two-thirds in interest of the stock represented thereat by the owners thereof, in person, or by proxy, the meeting may declare by resolution the inability of the company to complete its line of road, prescribe the terms of the proposed transfer of its roadbed and right of way, and direct the president of the company to execute the deed. All such proceedings, resolutions, and directions shall be duly recorded in the proper record of the company, and a copy thereof delivered to the grantee. They also shall be recited in the deed. (R. S. Sec. 3411; May 5, 1868, 65 v. 142, § 3.)

Section 9057. (What interest dissenting stockholder may retain.) No transfer shall be made against the dissent of any stockholder, expressly declared and filed in writing at such meeting, without the guaranty of the company grantee that it will issue to him certificates of its capital stock, equal in amount to his pro rata interest as a stockholder of the grantor, in the amount for which the property is sold. (R. S. Sec. 3412; May 5, 1868, 65 v. 142, § 4.)

Conditional subscribers to stock do not acquire any rights under this section until the happening of the contingency upon which payments on the subscription are made dependent.

Railroad Co. v. Hinsdale, 45 O. S. 573 (1888).

Armstrong v. Karshner, 47 O. S. 276, 299 (1890); § 8791.

Section 9058. (Title vests in grantee.) The title to the property transferred, with the right to use, occupy and enjoy it for all purposes proper in the construction, maintenance, and operation of a railroad thereon, shall pass to and vest in the company grantee, by the execution of such deed, to the same extent as the granting company might or could use, occupy, and enjoy it. (R. S. Sec. 3413; May 5, 1868, 65 v. 142, § 5; May 3, 1873, 70 v. 245, § 1.)

Section 9059. (Certain rights of way forfeited.) Where upon an unfinished road, a right of way, or part thereof, remains for ten years unused for railroad purposes, it shall be held forfeited, and shall revert to the owner of the land, unless at least twenty miles of the road have been completed by the company during that period, or, unless an average of one thousand dollars per mile has been expended for construction before the expiration of such period. (R. S. Sec. 3414; May 5, 1868, 65 v. 142, § 6; April 22, 1898, 93 v. 207.)

Abandonment of easement. See note to § 8759:

EQUIPMENT CONTRACTS.

Section 9060. (Certain contracts of sale void unless recorded.) No contract of, or for the sale of railroad equipment, rolling stock, or other personal property to be used in or about the operation of a railroad, by the terms of which the purchase money, in whole or part, is to be paid in the future, and wherein it is stipulated or conditioned that the title to the property sold shall not vest in the vendee, but shall remain in the vendor until the purchase money has been fully paid, shall be valid against creditors or innocent purchasers for value, unless recorded, or a copy thereof filed, in the office of the secretary of state. When the contract is so recorded, or a copy thereof so filed, the title to the property sold, or contracted to be sold, shall not vest in the vendee, but remain in the vendor until the purchase money has been fully paid; and such stipulation or condition shall be and remain valid, notwithstanding the delivery of the property to, and its possession by the vendee. (R. S. Sec. 3378a; March 16, 1882, 79 v. 45.)

The general conditional sales statutes (G. C. §§ 8568-8570) do not apply to conditional sales of railroad equipment, which are specially provided for by § 9060 et seq.

Metropolitan Trust Co. v. Railroad Co., 93 Fed. 702 (C. C. 1899).

Metropolitan Trust Co. v. Equipment Co., 108 Fed. 913; 13 O. F. D. 643 (C. C. A. 1901).

The seller of equipment to a railroad company, retaining the title as security for the purchase price, is entitled, on a foreclosure of a mortgage covering all of the railroad property, to take back the property, or, in case the mortgagee elects to retain it, to a first lien thereon for the balance due, without deduction for expenditures for preservation or improvement, made by the railroad company or its receiver.

Metropolitan Trust Co. v. Equipment Co., 108 Fed. 913; 13 O. F. D. 643 (C. C. A. 1901); s. c., 93 Fed. 702 (C. C. A. 1899).

Where the agreement states that the property described is leased at a fixed rental, and that title to the property shall not vest in the railroad company, but shall remain in said trustees until the terms of the agreement shall be fully complied with, it comes within this section as a lease or a contract of sale, or a contract for the sale of railroad equipment.

Union Trust Co. v. New York, etc., R. R. Co., 17 W. L. B. 176, 180 (1887).

Where the court appoints receivers of the property of a railroad company, and directs them to join the company in the execution of a lease, consolidating former leases of rolling stock, the terms of which have not yet expired, the purpose and provisions of which consolidated lease are to provide a lower monthly rental and extend the period of the leases—but leaving the title to the rolling stock in the lessors, with conditions of forfeiture for nonpayment of the rentals and other breaches of the covenants, such consolidated lease is not a sale of the rolling stock to the receivers, and the lessors are entitled to a preference over the bonded indebtedness of the railroad company, only for the rentals which accrue after execution of such consolidated lease and during the existence of the receivership.

Central Trust Co. v. Ohio Southern R. R. Co., 17 C. C. 633 (1898); 9 C. D. 317.

Section 9061. (Parties may provide for a conditional sale in a lease.) In any written contract for the renting, leasing, or hiring of such property to be so used, it shall be lawful to stipulate or provide for a conditional sale of the property at the termination of such renting, leasing, or hiring, and to stipulate or provide that the rental reserved as paid, or when paid in full, shall be applied and treated as purchase money. In such contract it shall be lawful to stipulate or provide that the title to such property shall remain in the lessor or vendor until the purchase money has been fully paid, notwithstanding delivery to and possession by the other party; subject, however, to the requirement as to recording or filing contained in the next preceding section. (R. S. Sec. 3378b; March 16, 1882, 79 v. 45.)

A contract purporting to be a lease of equipment to a railroad company, which executes so-called "lease warrants", on the payment of which the railroad company is to become the owner, is in legal effect a conditional sale.

Metropolitan Trust Co. v. Equipment Co., 108 Fed. 913; 13 O. F. D. 643 (C. C. A. 1901); s. c., 93 Fed. 702.

Section 9062. (Secretary of state to file contracts.) The secretary of state, when so requested, and upon being paid the proper fees, shall record any such contract, and shall file in his office a copy of any such contract, when it is delivered to him for that purpose. For every such copy so filed he shall be entitled to receive one dollar. (R. S. Sec. 3378c; March 16, 1882, 79 v. 45.)

Section 9063. (Construing application of preceding sections.) The provisions of the sections ninety hundred sixty, ninety hundred sixty-one and ninety hundred sixty-two of the General Code shall extend and apply, not only to contracts made with a railroad company, as vendee or lessee, but also to all contracts which may be made with any interurban or street railroad company or corporation, or other company, corporation, or person as vendee or lessee, by which any such interurban or street railroad company, or corporation, or other corporation, company or person shall undertake to purchase, rent, lease or hire any railroad, interurban or street railroad equipment, cars, rolling stock, or other personal property, designed for use on, or in connection with, a railroad or railroads, interurban or street railroad or railroads, in this or other states. (May 20, 1910, 101 v. 323; R. S. Sec. 3378d; April 12, 1889, 86 v. 255.)

RECEIVER AND JUDICIAL SALES.

Section 9064. (Receiver.) When a line of railroad, the whole or part of which lies within this state, by order of court, has been placed in the hands of a receiver, who has taken charge of and is operating it for the purpose of carrying passengers, freight, and doing such other things as ordinarily belong to the running and management of railroads, in his official capacity, such receiver may sue or be sued in the courts of this state without leave previously granted. No person shall act as such receiver unless he is a resident citizen of this state. (R. S. Sec. 3415; March 12, 1872, 69 v. 31, § 1.)

Cited, Cleveland, etc., R. R. Co. v. Orme, 1 C. C. 511; 1 C. D. 285 (1885).

Suits by receivers. A receiver of a railroad company is a competent party plaintiff in a suit to restrain ditch proceedings against the company, commenced and prosecuted after his appointment as such receiver.

Caldwell v. Trustees, 2 C. C. 10 (1886); 1 C. D. 332.

A foreign receiver of a corporation, with no other title to its assets than that derived from his appointment in a suit brought in another state to adjudicate and enforce liens and subject its assets and property to the claims of creditors, can not maintain an action in Ohio for the collection of its assets, either in his own name or in that of the corporation.

Leman v. MacLennan, 7 C. C. n. s. 205; 18 C. D. 137 (1905); aff'd, 75 O. S. 643.

But where, in another state, trustees under a mortgage sought to enforce their rights on a railroad and its equipment and pending an application for a receiver, a creditor of the same state attached rolling stock temporarily in Ohio; a receiver subsequently appointed on such application, with authority to take possession of all property including that attached, was permitted to maintain an action to recover possession.

Bank v. McLeod, 38 O. S. 174 (1882).

Suits against receivers. This section authorizes suits to be brought against the receiver of a railroad, and the same prosecuted to final judgment without leave of court; in other words, such suits stand upon the same footing and entitle those bringing them to the same rights and privileges as if leave had been granted, and no more. But this section does not authorize a levy or sale of property in possession of the receiver without leave of court.

Croy v. Marshall, 3 C. C. 489 (1888); 2 C. D. 280.

Where property is improperly in the possession of a receiver the remedy of a creditor is by application to the court appointing such receiver for an order requiring the receiver to release it.

Croy v. Marshall, 3 C. C. 489; 2 C. D. 280 (1888).

Where a plaintiff in an action against a railroad company, whose property is then in the hands of a receiver (appointed by the same court) to which action such receiver is not a party, recovers against the company a money judgment, the same is not void or invalid on the ground that the court had no jurisdiction. Such judgment is valid as against the company, and operates as a lien on its lands, and may be enforced after the discharge of the receiver.

Mather v. Cincinnati, etc., Ry. Co., 3 C. C. 284 (1888); 2 C. D. 161.

This section can not affect the power of a federal court to pass on a motion for leave to sue a receiver appointed by it.

Hayes v. Columbus, etc., Ry. Co., 34 W. L. B. 2; 67 Fed. 630; 9 O. F. D. 85 (1895).

Suit by state against receiver for taxes.

See Treasurer v. Dale, 60 O. S. 180 (1899).

A receiver operating a railroad is liable, in his official capacity, for negligence.

Meara v. Receivers, 20 O. S. 137 (1870).

Potter v. Bunnell, 20 O. S. 150 (1870).

Where leave to sue a receiver is required, notice of the application for such leave need not be given the parties in the action in which the receiver was appointed. Notice to the receiver is sufficient.

Potter v. Bunnell, 20 O. S. 150 (1870).

Satisfaction of judgment against receiver.

See § 9066 and note.

Miscellaneous. Nonresident receivers.

See Caldwell v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 33 W. L. B. 134 (1894).

Bayne v. Brewer Pottery Co., 82 Fed. 390; 10 O. F. D. 538 (1897).

A receiver is not the agent of the corporation.

Consolidated Coal Co. v. Cincinnati, etc., R. R. Co., 10 W. L. B. 42 (1883).

Section 9065. (When action brought; service.) Actions may be brought against the receiver or receivers of a steam railroad or of any electric railway, whether such electric railway be a street railway or an interurban railway, in any county through or into which such railroad or railway is constructed. Service of summons may be made on the receiver, or superintendent of the road, or a ticket or freight agent in the employment of or acting for the receiver. No service made upon such agent shall be valid, unless his office or place of business is in the county where the suit is brought. (106 v. 135; R. S. Sec. 3416; March 12, 1872, 69 v. 31, § 2.)

Cited, Railroad Co. v. Orme, 1 C. C. 513; 1 C. D. 285 (1885).

Service on receiver, §§ 11231, 11233.

Section 9066. (Application of funds; lien.) The earnings of a railroad in the hands of a receiver, and all other money which comes into his hands as receiver, shall be applied first to pay costs and expenses of the suit in which he was appointed, and the expenses of operating and managing the road, including materials and supplies procured by him therefor, and liabilities incurred by him in such operation and management. Judgments recovered against a receiver for injuries to person or property, or for wages of employes or work done or materials furnished while he is operating or managing the road, shall be a lien on the funds in his hands as receiver, but shall affect him only in his trust capacity, and not individually. (R. S. Sec. 3417; March 12, 1872, 69 v. 31, § 3.)

Satisfaction of a judgment rendered against a receiver in an action for the recovery of damage for personal injuries can only be obtained out of the fund in his hands, as may be directed by the court appointing him.

Meara v. Receivers, 20 O. S. 137 (1870).

See Mining Co. v. Railway, 10 W. L. B. 42.

The state is not included in this section, and the superiority of its claim for taxes is not thereby affected.

Treasurer v. Dale, 60 O. S. 180 (1899).

Section 9067. (When receiver must deposit money.)

When the line of a railroad operated by a receiver is wholly within this state, all money which comes into his hands, whether from operating the road or otherwise, shall be kept and deposited in such place within this state as the court directs, until properly disbursed. If a part of the road lies in another state, the receiver shall be required to deposit in this state at least such share of the funds in his hands as is proportioned to the value of the property of the company within this state. (R. S. Sec. 3418; March 12, 1872, 69 v. 31, § 4.)

Section 9068. (Certain roads may be sold at judicial sale.) The real and personal property, road-bed, right of way, fixtures, and franchises of a railroad company in this state which has not completed, nor conveyed by deed of trust, or mortgage, any part of its road, and which is insolvent, and whose property is in the hands of a receiver appointed by a court of competent jurisdiction, may be sold at judicial sale; and the title thereto, with all the rights, liberties, faculties, and franchises, shall pass by such sale, and vest in the purchaser thereof, as fully as they had been possessed, exercised, and enjoyed by such company. (R. S. Sec. 3420; May 4, 1868, 65 v. 192, § 1.)

Section 9069. (Receiver must petition therefor.) Before such sale shall be ordered, the receiver shall file in such court his petition therefor, in which he shall set forth the names of the creditors of the company, with the sums due to each, as nearly as can be ascertained, a statement of its assets, exclusive of its road-bed, rights of way, and franchises, and a pertinent description, in general terms, of the road-bed, right of way, and property so sought to be sold, and cause notice thereof to be published, for six consecutive weeks, in some newspaper printed and of general circulation in each of the counties wherein any part of the road-bed is situated. Before the distribution of the proceeds of the sale, any creditor may appear and set up his claim by answer, and have it determined by the court, if it is omitted from or inaccurately stated in the petition. (R. S. Sec. 3421; May 14, 1868, 65 v. 192, § 2.)

Section 9070. (Order for appraisement.) On proof of the publication of such notice, and being satisfied that a sale is necessary to pay the indebtedness of the company, the court shall order the sale of such road, road-bed, rights of way, property, and franchises, on such terms of payment as it deems proper, and issue its order to the receiver, commanding him that he cause them to be appraised by commissioners, selected by the court, skilled in the construction and value of such road-beds as they may be called upon to appraise, having the qualifications of a freeholder, not less than three in number, and consisting of at least one from each county in which any part of the road-bed is situated. Such proceedings shall be had under the order as are provided by law in sales of real estate made by judicial order in other cases, so far as they are applicable. (R. S. Sec. 3422; May 14, 1868, 65 v. 192, § 3.)

Section 9071. (Notice of sale to be published.) Before such sale is made, notice thereof shall be given by publication, for six consecutive weeks in some newspaper published and of general circulation in each of the counties through or in which such road is located, and also in some newspaper published and of general circulation in each of the cities of New York and Cincinnati, for at least thirty days prior to the day of sale. The sale shall not be made for less than two-thirds of the appraised value of the property and rights, unless, upon their having been twice offered and not sold the court in its discretion orders a reappraisement. (R. S. Sec. 3423; May 14, 1868, 65 v. 192, § 4.)

Deposits filed with bids should be returned to the bidder in case he does not buy the property.

Feike v. Cincinnati, etc., Ry. Co., 3 C. C. 72; 2 C. D. 41; s. c., 27 W. L. B. 75 (1887).

Section 9072. (Confirmation of sale and deed.) When a sale is made and reported to the court, if satisfied that it was conducted according to law, and its order, the court shall confirm the sale, and order the receiver to execute and deliver to the purchaser a deed of conveyance for the road, road-bed, rights of way, real estate, fixtures, and franchises so sold. (R. S. Sec. 3424; May 14, 1868, 65 v. 192, § 5.)

Where a tract of land was not sold, or intended to be sold, and not paid for, but, by mistake, was included in the report of sale, such mistake may be corrected in equity against the purchaser or his heirs even after confirmation of the sale and the execution of the deed.

Stites v. Wiedner, 35 O. S. 555 (1880).

Section 9073. (How proceeds distributed.) The proceeds of the sale, after paying the costs and expenses thereof and the unpaid expenses of the trust against the company, shall be distributed pro rata among all its creditors. (R. S. Sec. 3425; May 14, 1868, 65 v. 192, § 6.)

Section 9074. (Who may purchase property.) A company organized under the laws of this state may purchase such property. Any number of persons not less than five may purchase such road, road-bed, rights of way, property, and franchises at such sale, and, on filing a transcript of the decree of confirmation in the office of secretary of state, they shall become a corporation of this state, amenable to its process and, with perpetual succession by such name as they assume, be subject to the law regulating such corporations, and shall hold the property, rights, and franchises so purchased free from liability for the debts of the original corporation. (R. S. Sec. 3426; May 14, 1868, 65 v. 192, § 7.)

Cited, Rice v. Norfolk, etc., Ry. Co., 153 Fed. 497, 501 (1907).

Section 9075. (How purchaser may acquire franchise.) The purchaser of a railroad, situated wholly or partly within this state, sold pursuant to judicial proceedings, may acquire the franchise to be a corporation originally vested in the company which held the road prior to such sale, by grant of such company, under such terms and conditions as are agreed upon by the directors of the company, with the consent of stockholders owning two-thirds of the stock. Such grant shall be in the form required by law to convey real estate, and shall pass such franchise to the persons or company becoming the owner, by the purchase of such railroad. No grant may be made unless provision is made for granting to the stockholders in the original company stock in the reorganized company, upon equal terms with the stockholders thereof, and it is acceptable to the directors making it. (R. S. Sec. 3419; April 13, 1865, 62 v. 169, § 1.)

This section is a general law within the meaning of article 1, section 2 of the constitution.

Ohio v. Sherman, 22 O. S. 411 (1872).

Where a special charter, not subject to repeal or amendment, is transferred under this section, the new charter granted by implication, being granted under the present constitution, would be subject to alteration and repeal.

Ohio v. Sherman, 22 O. S. 411 (1872).

The effect of a transfer under this section is a surrender or abandonment of the old charter by the corporators, and a grant de novo of a similar charter to the so-called transferees or purchasers.

Ohio v. Sherman, 22 O. S. 411, 428 (1872).

In an action brought to determine the priority of liens on, and for the sale of a railroad, neither lienholders nor general creditors can question the legality of the incorporation of the railway company, or the validity of mortgages of such company upon the ground of such illegality.

Hatry v. Painesville, etc., Ry. Co., 1 C. C. 426 (1886); 1 C. D. 238; aff'd, 23 W. L. B. 281.

A charter can not be sold in the absence of statutory authority.

Atkinson v. Marietta, etc., R. R. Co., 15 O. S. 21 (1864).

Stockholders' liability after transfer.

See Ohio v. Sherman, 22 O. S. 411 (1872).

An individual, who purchases a railroad at judicial sale, may organize a corporation to operate, or sell to another railroad company, or he may "junk" it, but he is not authorized to operate it himself or sell it to a mining company. Townsend v. Walters, 15 O. L. R. 382 (Pub. Ut. Com.); State v. Coal Co., 97 O. S. 24 (1917).

Section 9076. (Purchaser at judicial sale may sell road, grant to be recorded.) The purchaser or purchasers of the property, road-beds, rights of way, fixtures and franchises of a railroad company in this state, situated wholly or in part in this state, sold pursuant to judicial order, judgment, or decree, and which sale is confirmed by the court making the order of sale, may sell such property or any part thereof. The title thereto, with all the rights, liberties, faculties, and franchises shall pass by such sale and vest in the purchaser or purchasers thereof, as fully as if they had been possessed, exercised and enjoyed by such railroad company. The grant thereof in the form by law required to pass real estate, shall be recorded in the record of deeds of the county or counties in which such property is situated, and the rights and franchises are or may be exercised. (R. S. Sec. 3426a; March 11, 1880, 77 v. 60.)

Section 9077. (Any number of persons may purchase, and incorporate.) A railroad company organized or existing under the laws of this state may become the purchaser of such property, as provided in the preceding section. Any number of persons may purchase such road, roadbeds, rights of way, property and franchises, as provided herein, either directly at such judicial sale or by grant from the purchasers at such sale. On filing a copy of such deed or grant in the office of the secretary of state, with articles of incorporation executed in accordance with the law respecting the creation of corporations for profit, they, and such persons as associate with them, not less than five in number, shall become a corporation with perpetual succession by such name as they assume to themselves, with capacity to maintain and operate such railroads, whether located wholly within this state, or partly within this state and partly in another state or states. (R. S. Sec. 3426b; April 24, 1890, 87 v. 270; March 11, 1880, 77 v. 60.)

Section 9078. (May issue stock and bonds to pay purchase price.) Such corporation shall have authority to provide for the purchase price of the railroad and other property so bought by the issue of its capital stock, preferred or common, and bonds secured by mortgage or otherwise, bearing interest at a rate not exceeding seven per cent per annum. Stock and bonds heretofore or hereafter issued as such purchase price, in amounts the incorporators, in good faith, agreed on, shall be valid, and taken as fully paid for by the transfer to the corporation of such railroad and property, and also by such issue of stock or bonds, to raise the necessary means suitable to improve such railroad property and equipment for the uses and purposes for which it is employed. In the operation and maintenance of its railroad, such corporation shall be entitled to all the rights, and be subject to all the obligations and restrictions imposed upon railroad companies by the laws of this state. (R. S. Sec. 3426b; April 24, 1890, 87 v. 270; March 11, 1880, 77 v. 60.)

CHAPTER 9.

REORGANIZATION.

- | | |
|---|---|
| § 9079. When proceedings for reorganizations may be had. | § 9091. Mortgaged property may be sold without appraisal. |
| § 9080. Meeting of creditors and proceedings. | § 9092. Creditors may agree on capitalization. |
| § 9081. What to be certified to the secretary of state. | § 9093. Notice of agreement to be published. |
| § 9082. Property of new company. | § 9094. Other creditors may sign the agreement. |
| § 9083. Powers of new company. | § 9095. Rights of creditors who do not sign agreement. |
| § 9084. Issue of stock or securities. | § 9096. Court to make order as to costs. |
| § 9085. Lien of mortgages. | § 9097. Agreement may be with each interest. |
| § 9086. Lien for labor performed. | § 9098. When road used by two companies. |
| § 9087. How such lien enforced. | § 9099. Stocks or bonds held in a fiduciary capacity. |
| § 9088. Court to retain amount of lien. | |
| § 9089. In case judgment recovered. | |
| § 9090. Provisions applicable to certain other companies. | |

Section 9079. (When proceedings for reorganizations may be had.) When the proceedings are pending in any court for the sale of the road of a railroad company, under a mortgage or deed of trust, and two-thirds in interest of the creditors and two-thirds in interest of the stockholders of the company agree, in writing, upon a plan for the readjustment or capitalization of the debt and stock of the company, the court shall render judgment against the company for the amount due and in arrear upon such securities, which judgment, from its rendition, shall be a lien on all the property embraced in such securities, and all the franchises and powers of the company including its franchises to be and act as a corporation, conferred by the charter and the amendments to the charter of the company. Upon a sale had under such judgment, and a purchase at such sale by trustees, on behalf of the parties to such agreement, appointed by the agreement, all the property so bound by the judgment, including such franchises, shall vest in such trustees. But such agreement shall provide that the unsecured debts of the company incurred for repairs or running expenses, shall be paid in money, or bonds of the reorganized company, of the highest class issued, as hereinafter provided. A copy of the agreement shall be filed in such court before the rendition of the judgment. (R. S. Sec. 3393; April 11, 1861, 58 v. 70, § 1.)

The lien of a judgment recovered for injuries sustained by the misconduct of agents of the reorganized company is, under § 9085, superior to that of a mortgage executed by the company.

King v. Atlantic, etc., Co., 12 C. D. 551 (1886).

Powers of committee. Sharpe v. Oil Co., 232 Fed. 703 (C. C. A. Ohio, 1917).

Claims of unsecured creditors. Keetch v. Stowe, 205 Fed. 887 (C. C. A. Ohio, 1913).

Construction of agreement.

Hatry v. Painesville, etc., Ry. Co., 1 C. C. 426; 1 C. D. 238 (1886); aff'd, 23 W. L. B. 281.

Constitutionality of act of 1863.

Mather v. Cincinnati, etc., Ry. Co., 3 C. C. 284; 2 C. D. 161 (1888).

Section 9080. (Meeting of creditors and proceedings.)

As soon as practicable after the sale, the trustees shall call a meeting of the parties to the agreement by a notice signed by a majority of the trustees, or of their survivors, and published not less than once a week, for four consecutive weeks in a newspaper printed in the cities of New York and Philadelphia, and in a newspaper printed in each county on the line of the railroad, specifying the day, place, and object of such meeting—the place to be on the line of the road. At such meeting, each of the parties to the agreement shall be entitled to vote according to the provisions thereof, but not exceeding one vote for every fifty dollars of the par value of the debt or stock of such party, according to a list of voters and their respective interests, which shall be prepared by the majority of the trustees, who may act as judges of the election. By a majority in interest of the persons present, in person or by proxy, such meeting may retain or change the name of the company, decide, for the time being, the amount of its capital, the number of shares into which it is to be divided, fix the number of directors, their term of office, elect such directors, a majority of whom shall be residents of the state or states, in which such railroad is situated, and do all things necessary or proper to reorganize the company. But any creditors shall be entitled to become a party to the agreement, either at or before the meeting herein provided for. A stockholder shall be entitled to become a party thereto at any time within one year after such meeting. (R. S. Sec. 3394; April 11, 1861, 58 v. 70, § 2.)

Where a railroad corporation reorganizes under the act of April 11, 1861, and, in the agreement therefor, it is stipulated that certain bonds of the original company shall be assumed by the new company, and the holder thereof entitled to vote at all meetings of stockholders, upon conditions specified, which he performs, the new company becomes liable to pay the bonds, and the holders thereof entitled to vote, without further action on the part of the new company.

State v. McDaniel, 22 O. S. 354 (1872).

In a corporation reorganized under this act, it is not necessary that the directors should be stockholders. The statute only requires them to be residents of the state, and in the absence of a statute requiring it, the discretion of the stockholders in electing directors is not limited to stockholders.

State v. McDaniel, 22 O. S. 354 (1872).

See § 8661.

Section 9081. (What to be certified to the secretary of state.) A certificate, under the common seal of the company, specifying its name, and the railroad which it is to hold, maintain, and operate, shall be filed in the office of the secretary of state. A copy thereof duly certified, in all courts and places, shall be evidence of a compliance with all the conditions and provisions of the two preceding sections, and of the due reorganization and existence of the company. (R. S. Sec. 3395; April 11, 1861, 58 v. 70, § 3.)

Section 9082. (Property of new company.) Upon such reorganization, and a conveyance by the trustees, or of such of them as are vested with the legal title, or their survivors, the railroad and other property, franchises and things purchased, and the franchises, powers, faculties, privileges, and immunities which were possessed and enjoyed by the original company, or by any company with which it had been consolidated, shall pass to and be vested in the company as reorganized; and they, and all property and things which the reorganized company thereafter acquires, except as hereinafter provided, shall be taken, held, and disposed of for the use and benefit of the creditors and stockholders of the company, who become such upon and after the reorganization, according to their respective rights, but subject to the powers of the company, and in no wise chargeable in respect to any debt, liability, or claim of any creditor or stockholder which subsisted prior to the sale and reorganization. All property of the original company not embraced in the sale, upon the reorganization shall be vested in the company as reorganized, in trust for all parties interested therein as creditors, stockholders or otherwise. (R. S. Sec. 3396; April 11, 1861, 58 v. 70, § 4.)

Cited, Rice v. Norfolk, etc., Ry., 153 Fed. 501 (1907).
Constitutionality. See note to § 9075.

Section 9083. (Powers of new company.) Such company likewise shall have power, within six months after the organization, to assume such debts or liabilities of the original company, make such adjustments or exchanges with any bondholder of the original company, and, within one year, with any stockholder, as it may deem expedient. For such purpose, the company may use bonds or stock which it is authorized to issue or create. It may make and issue such bonds, payable at times and places, and bearing rates of interest not exceeding six per cent per annum, as it deems expedient, and secure the payment of bonds which it issues or assumes to pay, by mortgages or deeds of trust of its railroad, or other property, and may include therein with its road all its cars, other rolling stock, equipments, machinery, tools, implements, fuel, materials, and other things then held or thereafter acquired for constructing, operating, or repairing the road, or for repairing or replacing its equipment or appurtenances, as part and parcel of the road, and as constituting with the road one property. It also may include in such mortgage or deeds of trust all franchises held by the company, connected with or related to the road, and all its other corporate franchises, which franchises, including the franchise to be a corporation, in case of sale by virtue of such mortgage or deed of trust, or of any judgment specified in the following section, shall pass to the purchasers, so as to enable them to reorganize the company in the manner hereinbefore provided. Such company may issue capital stock to such amount it deems proper, not exceeding a limit fixed by agreement with the trustees purchasing, and may establish preferences in respect to dividends, in favor of any class of the stock, in such order and manner as it deems expedient, not exceeding the limits fixed by such agreement. If authorized by the agreement, it may confer on holders of bonds which it issues or assumes to pay, the right to vote at meetings of stockholders, not exceeding one vote for every fifty dollars of the par amount of the bonds, as was provided for in the agreement, which right, once fixed, shall attach to and pass with such bonds, under such regulations as the by-laws may prescribe, to the successive holders thereof, but shall not subject the holder to assessment by the company, or to liability for its debts, or entitle him to dividends. (R. S. Sec. 3397; April 11, 1861, 58 v. 70, § 5.)

Section 9084. (Issue of stock or securities.) In cases of railroad companies organized or reorganized under the laws of this state, wherein the organization or reorganization agreement provides and stipulates that any class of creditors, bondholders or stockholders of the original company, shall in any wise be restricted or limited, in participation in profits, dividends, or in respect to liens or the right to vote as the holders of stock or securities in the reorganized company, such reorganized company, its directors and officers, shall issue the certificate of stock or securities into which the original stock, securities or debts may be convertible, bearing upon the face of each plainly and distinctly set forth, such restrictions or limitations so that purchasers may be advised of the terms thereof, and holders of stock or securities created under such reorganization agreements, hereafter may have only such restricted or limited rights, liens, participation in profits, dividends, and right to vote thereon, as in such agreements, certificate of stock or securities are set forth. (R. S. Sec. 3397a; March 19, 1887, 84 v. 142.)

Section 9085. (Lien of mortgages.) The lien of the mortgages and deeds of trust authorized by section ninety hundred and eighty-three shall be postponed to the lien of judgments recovered against the company, after its reorganization, for labor thereafter performed for it, or materials or supplies thereafter furnished to it, or damages, losses, or injuries thereafter suffered or sustained by the misconduct of its agents, or in any action founded on its contracts or liability as a common carrier thereafter made or incurred. (R. S. Sec. 3398; April 11, 1861, 58 v. 70, § 6.)

Cited, Stewart v. Railway Co., 53 O. S. 151, 172 (1895).

This section is constitutional.

King v. Thompson, 110 Fed. 319; 13 O. F. D. 696; 46 W. L. B. 210 (C. C. A. 1901).

This section applies to foreign corporations.

King v. Thompson, 110 Fed. 319; 13 O. F. D. 696; 46 W. L. B. 210 (C. C. A. 1901).

A judgment for personal injuries is, under this section, prior to a previously recorded mortgage.

King v. Thompson, 110 Fed. 319; 13 O. F. D. 696; 46 W. L. B. 210 (C. C. A. 1901).

A claim for personal injuries is not a lien under this section until reduced to judgment. Where such a claim is not reduced to judgment until more than a year after the property had been sold in a foreclosure proceeding under a mortgage executed under this act, the judgment does not become a lien on the property.

Jeffrey v. Moran, 101 U. S. 285 (1879).

It was further held in the above case that the judgment was not a lien on the fund arising from the sale of the property.

The lien of a judgment recovered for injuries is not extinguished by the foreclosure of a mortgage, where the judgment creditor was not made a party to the suit.

King v. Railroad Co., 12 C. D. 551 (1886).

This section should be fairly construed so as to effect the purpose for which it was enacted.

Farmers' Loan, etc., Co. v. Cincinnati, etc., R. R. Co., 21 W. L. B. 275 (1889).

Where the holder of a judgment for materials and supplies claims a priority over mortgages existing before the supplies were furnished, the burden of proof is on such claimant to show that he has obtained a judgment and that the cause of action upon which it was obtained was such as to come within the terms of this section.

Farmers' Loan, etc., Co. v. Cincinnati, etc., R. R. Co., 21 W. L. B. 275 (1889).

In an original action to obtain a judgment for the value or price of the supplies furnished, other lienholders are not necessary or proper parties. The question of priority can be properly determined in a subsequent action to marshal liens.

Farmers' Loan, etc., Co. v. Cincinnati, etc., R. R. Co., 21 W. L. B. 275 (1889).

Claims for supplies furnished under this section may be assigned and judgment thereon taken by the assignee, who thereupon obtains all the rights of the original claimant.

Farmers' Loan, etc., Co. v. Cincinnati, etc., R. R. Co., 21 W. L. B. 275 (1889).

Section 9086. (Lien for labor performed.) In an action against a railroad company, domestic or foreign, operating a railroad in this state, when it is or was for the purpose of recovering judgment against the corporation for labor done for, or supplies furnished to it, or for damages or losses, or injuries suffered or sustained by the misconduct of its agents, or the suit is founded on the company's contract or liability as a common carrier; if, when reduced to judgment by virtue of statute or the principles of equity, it would become a lien upon the property of such company, prior to the lien of a mortgage or deed of trust, legally made under the laws of this state, such judgments shall be a prior lien upon such property, notwithstanding its sale or conveyance by virtue of a judgment or decree of foreclosure for breach of the terms and conditions of such mortgage or deed of trust. (R. S. Sec. 3398a; February 17, 1882, 79 v. 11.)

See §§ 8343, et seq. and 8376 et seq.

Section 9087. (How such lien enforced.) A party prosecuting such action in order to avail himself of the provisions of the preceding section, before the day fixed for the sale of the property of such railroad under judgment or decree of foreclosure and sale, shall file with the clerk of the court wherein the judgment or decree was rendered, a notice in writing, setting forth the title of his action, the court wherein pending, the amount of his claim, the date from which he claims interest thereon, the probable amount of costs, and that he claims that the judgment sought by him to be recovered would, when obtained, become a lien prior in law or equity to the lien of the judgment or decree of foreclosure and sale. Before the day of sale, or at the time thereof, he also shall serve a certified copy of such notice upon the officer or other person making such sale, who, prior to offering the property for sale, shall read such notice publicly at the time and place of sale, and with his return of sale, return the copy of notice with the endorsement of his proceedings thereunder upon it to the court. (R. S. Sec. 3398b; February 17, 1882, 79 v. 11.)

Section 9088. (Court to retain amount of lien.) On the return of the officer or other person making such sale, before confirming it and ordering distribution of the funds arising therefrom, the court shall retain in its custody or under its control, a sufficiency of such proceeds applicable to distribution to the claimants under the liens of the mortgage or deed of trust, to satisfy any judgment which may be recovered in the action provided for in section ninety hundred and eighty-six when ended and determined. (R. S. Sec. 3398c; February 17, 1882, 79 v. 11.)

Section 9089. (In case judgment recovered.) Within sixty days after the determination of the action referred to in section ninety hundred and eighty-six, the party claiming such priority of lien, if he has recovered judgment against such railroad company, shall file his answer and cross-petition in the action pending in the court holding the fund as above provided, setting forth his claim thereto, and such court shall make the proper orders necessary to the determination of the questions of priorities and distribution of the retained fund, as in the preceding section provided. (R. S. Sec. 3398d; February 17, 1882, 79 v. 11.)

Section 9090. (Provisions applicable to certain other companies.) The provisions of this chapter shall extend to and apply to companies whose railroads are partly within and partly without this state. A domestic company possessing such a railroad, may exercise without this state all its powers, privileges, faculties, and franchises. A foreign corporation possessing a railroad which is partly in another state and partly within this state, may here exercise and enjoy all its powers, privileges, faculties, and franchises, for the purposes of such road and its business, not inconsistent with the laws of this state. Mortgages and deeds of trust made by such corporation upon its railroad, equipments, or other property within this state, shall operate in the manner and with like effect as provided with respect to companies so reorganized. But such part of the railroad as is within this state is subject to taxation, and to all regulations of law, as are railroads of this state in like cases, and the corporation owning it shall be subject to all duties in respect thereto imposed by law, and may sue and be sued in all cases and in the manner that a company of this state might sue or be sued. (R. S. Sec. 3399; April 11, 1861, 58 v. 70, § 7.)

There is not only no law of Ohio prohibiting the ownership and use of railroads in the state by foreign corporations, and no public policy of the state to be contravened thereby, but there is abundant legislation directly to the contrary. Where the act incorporating a foreign corporation gives it the power to condemn and appropriate private property, if its road is partly in this state and partly in a foreign state, it may exercise and enjoy within this state all its powers, privileges, faculties, and franchises, for the purpose of said railroad and its business not inconsistent with the laws of this state. This section clearly gives the right to condemn and appropriate private property in Ohio to all railroad corporations of other states, which have the power of condemnation and appropriation given them in their charters of incorporation, where their roads lie partly within this state.

State v. Sherman, 22 O. S. 411, 434 (1872).

The legislature has power to attach the conditions of this section and § 9085 to the right of foreign corporations to mortgage railroad property within the state.

King v. Thompson, 110 Fed. 319; 13 O. F. D. 696; 46 W. L. B. 210 (C. C. A. 1901).

A foreign corporation is expressly authorized by § 8759 to appropriate property. Railway Co. v. Barger, 30 O. C. A. 65 (1919); s. c., 28 O. C. A. 92; affirming, 21 N. P. n. s. 97. See also Bogard v. Detroit, etc., Ry. Co., 45 W. L. B. 224 (1901).

Bogard v. Detroit, etc., Ry. Co., 45 W. L. B. 224 (1901).

A foreign railroad company which enters the state over a bridge owned by it, and forming a part of its line, is a railroad "partly in such other state and partly within this state" within the meaning of this section, although the bridge is used for other travel.

L. & N. Ry. v. Taylor, 50 Bull. 20 (Ins. Ct. 1904).

A foreign railroad company, by leasing and operating in this state the property of an Ohio corporation, does not thereby become an Ohio corporation.

Railroad Co. v. Cary, 28 O. S. 218 (1876).

Railroad v. Stringer, 32 O. S. 468 (1877).

Railroad Co. v. Koontz, 104 U. S. 5.

See note to § 194.

This section does not authorize a foreign telephone company to appropriate property.

Telephone Co. v. Columbus Grove, 8 C. C. n. s. 81; 18 C. D. 131 (1905).

Power of foreign railroad company to hold stock in Ohio corporations.

See Mannington v. Railway, 9 N. P. n. s. 641, 665 (1910); s. c., 183 Fed. 133; 8 O. L. R. 451; 16 O. F. D. 552.

Section 9091. (Mortgaged property may be sold without appraisement.) Railroads, and other property mortgaged therewith by such company, if the court deems it expedient, may be sold without appraisement, at judicial sales under judgments upon such mortgage. But in such case, to prevent sacrifices and protect the interests of all concerned, the court shall fix a minimum sum below which no sale shall be made. In order to fix that amount, if it deems it expedient to do so, the court may refer the subject to a master, with instructions to take testimony, and report the sum. (R. S. Sec. 3400; April 11, 1861, 58 v. 70, § 8.)

Section 9092. (Creditors may agree on capitalization.) When judicial proceedings are pending in a court for the sale of a railroad, and it is in the hands of a receiver appointed by such court, two-thirds in interest of each class of mortgagees, or holders of the bonds issued under a mortgage, and two-thirds in interest of all other classes of creditors of such company, and the owners of two-thirds of the shares of the stock thereof, may agree in writing upon a plan for the adjustment of such indebtedness, by capitalization or otherwise. (R. S. Sec. 3401; April 7, 1863, 60 v. 55, § 1.)

In so far as this section applies to debts created before its passage, it is unconstitutional.

Mather v. Cincinnati Ry. Co., 3 C. C. 284; 2 C. D. 161 (1888).

Section 9093. (Notice of agreement to be published.) When such agreement is made, and filed in the office of the secretary of state, he shall cause public notice thereof to be given in a newspaper of general circulation published in each of the cities of Columbus, Cincinnati and Cleveland, and also in a newspaper of general circulation published in each of the counties through or in which the road is located, which publication shall be made immediately after the agreement is filed, and be continued for six consecutive weeks. The cost thereof shall be paid by the company. (R. S. Sec. 3402; April 7, 1863, 60 v. 55, § 2.)

Section 9094. (Other creditors may sign the agreement.) A duplicate of such agreement shall be kept at the principal office of the company. All persons in interest, not parties thereto, shall be at liberty, for four months after the date of the first publication, to appear and become a party to such agreement, either in person or by proxy, by signing it, and thereby secure its benefits. (R. S. Sec. 3403; April 7, 1863, 60 v. 55, § 3.)

Section 9095. (Rights of creditors who do not sign agreement.) Persons in interest who fail to become parties to the agreement within such time thereafter shall be entitled to the same rights, interest, estate, remedy, liens, and action, and none other, which parties in interest of like class and amount who signed the agreement obtained by, and under it. But if a person in interest fails for six years after the publication of the notice mentioned in the second preceding section, to apply at the principal office of the company, either in person or by proxy, to become a party in interest in the agreement, such person, unless an infant, or insane, shall be barred of all interest, claim, right or action under the agreement, or otherwise. In case of such disability the rights above enumerated shall be extended for two years after the termination of the disability. (R. S. Sec. 3404; April 7, 1863, 60 v. 55, § 4.)

Section 9096. (Court to make order as to costs.) When such agreement is made, filed, notice of it given, and proof thereof made, or offered to be made, in the court in which the proceedings are pending, the court shall dismiss the proceedings. But it may make such order or decree touching the costs and expenses thereof as it deems just. (R. S. Sec. 3405; April 7, 1863, 60 v. 55, § 5.)

Section 9097. (Agreement may be with each interest.) Such agreement is not required to be between the several interests above specified, but may be between each interest separately, and the railroad company. (R. S. Sec. 3406; April 7, 1863, 60 v. 55, § 7.)

Section 9098. (When road used by two companies.) If the railroad involved in such judicial proceedings is used, in whole or part, by such company in common with another railroad company, on the same track, between points on the line common to both, and within the limits of the termini established by their charters, the company owning the railroad, if it can be done without impairing the usefulness thereof to it, for a period of years, for an annual rent, may lease or sell for a fixed sum, to the company to which the line of road, in whole or part, is common, an undivided interest in it upon such terms and conditions as they agree upon. Such lease or sale shall be reported to and approved by the court. When so made and approved, the lessee or vendee thereof shall hold such interest free from any previous lien thereon. (R. S. Sec. 3407; April 7, 1863, 60 v. 55, § 8.)

Where by the purchase of an undivided interest under this section, a tenancy in common becomes established, partition can not be compelled by either party under the statutes in relation to partition or in equity. Railway Co. v. Railroad Co., 38 O. S. 614 (1883).

Section 9099. (Stocks or bonds held in a fiduciary capacity.) When a portion of the stock or bonds of a company is held by the state, or a county, township, city or village, or by an executor, administrator, guardian, or otherwise in a fiduciary capacity, the governor, county commissioners, township trustees, council, or other authority of the municipal corporation, or person holding in fiduciary capacity, may become parties to an agreement for the reorganization of such company, and may control, exchange, or manage such stock or bonds according to the terms of the agreement and receive new stock or bonds to be issued in place of the original stock or bonds, which shall be held on the same terms, and subject to all liens, which attached to the original stock or bonds. (R. S. Sec. 3408; April 11, 1861, 58 v. 70, § 9; April 7, 1863, 60 v. 55, § 6.)

See Commissioners v. Nichols, 14 O. S. 260.

CHAPTER 10.

STREET AND INTERURBAN.

- | | |
|--|---|
| § 9100. Authority to construct a street railway. | § 9111. How compensation ascertained. |
| § 9101. Who to grant right to construct. | § 9112. Consent of authority controlling public road. |
| § 9102. Grantee not to be released from obligation. | § 9113. Terms and conditions of construction, etc. |
| § 9103. Right to occupy tracks of existing companies. | § 9114. Free transportation of police and firemen. |
| § 9104. Extensions to be constructed as new. | § 9115. Appropriation of property by directors. |
| § 9105. Consent of owners of abutting property. | § 9116. Change of location of any portion of railway. |
| § 9106. When written consent not required. | § 9117. Construction of street railroads outside of municipalities. |
| § 9107. When property owner can not withdraw consent. | § 9118. Occupancy and use of public highways. |
| § 9108. Appropriation of property. | § 9118-1. Crossings other than steam railway. |
| § 9109. Appropriation of property of turnpike or plank road. | § 9118-2. Appropriation of real estate. |
| § 9110. Oath in appropriation proceedings. | |

- § 9119. Eminent domain.
- § 9119-1. Street, interurban, light, heat or power companies authorized to appropriate trees.
- § 9120. Leases, purchases and traffic arrangements.
- § 9121. Consolidation.
- § 9122. Regulations and powers.
- § 9123. Watchmen.
- § 9124. Repairs at crossings; stopping of cars at crossings.
- § 9125. Full stop when approaching steam railway crossing.
- § 9126. Forfeiture under preceding sections.
- § 9127. Consolidation of street railway companies.
- § 9128. To what companies provisions do not apply.
- § 9129. Consolidation of electric road companies.
- 9130. Interurban road may contract for use of tracks in cities.
- § 9131. Privileges and obligations of the street railway apply.
- § 9132. Not necessary to obtain additional grant.
- § 9133. Fare charged within city.
- § 9134. Lease or purchase electric, or gas light, heat, power or fuel company.
- § 9135. Dissenting stockholder.
- § 9136. Liabilities of the company leased or purchased.
- § 9137. May acquire property of other companies.
- § 9138. Agreements with other companies.
- § 9139. Fare can not be increased.
- § 9140. Powers of inclined plane railway company.
- § 9141. How street crossings to be made.
- § 9142. Elevated railroads.
- § 9143. Manner of such construction.
- § 9143-1. Changes and removals. Filing of plans and specifications required. Approval, notice, hearing, bond. Director may modify or reject plans. Sewer, water-pipe, etc., may be located on subway without compensation. Cost, damage and expense.
- § 9143-2. When the grant of such right and privileges deemed valid.
- § 9143-3. Right to lease space in tunnel or subway.
- § 9144. Terms of grant.
- § 9145. Appropriation of property.
- § 9146. Damages to other property.
- § 9147. Purchase of road by city.
- § 9148. Company to notify authorities of acceptance or rejection of grant.
- § 9149. Submission of grant to electors.
- § 9149-1. Power brakes.
- § 9149-3. Electric railroads operating cars along third rail required to maintain fences, crossings and cattle guards; exception.
- § 9149-4. Abutting owner may construct and maintain fence, when.
- § 9149-5. Injury to domestic animal prima facie evidence of failure to comply with law.
- § 9149-6. Center aisle, length of car in street and interurban cars required.
- § 9149-7. Certain officers deemed violators.
- § 9149-8. Fine and imprisonment.
- § 9149-9. Prosecution.
- § 9149-10. When act shall take effect.

Section 9100. (Authority to construct a street railway.)

Street railways, with single or double tracks, side-tracks, and turn-outs, may be constructed or extended within or without, or partly within and partly without, any municipal corporation. Offices, depots, and other necessary buildings therefor, also may be constructed. (R. S. Sec. 3437; February 10, 1870, 67 v. 10, § 1.)

Sections § 9100 et seq. relate to street railways wherever located. Sections 3768 et seq. relate to street railway lines wholly within municipalities.

In case of conflict between the general provisions of this chapter and the provisions of § 3768 et seq. the more specific provisions of § 3768 et seq. will prevail.

C. C. C. & St. L. Ry. v. Urbana, etc., Ry., 5 C. C. n. s. 583; 16 C. D. 180 (1903); aff'd, no rep., 73 O. S. 364.

See also Reynolds v. Cleveland, 2 C. C. n. s. 139, 150; 14 C. D. 215 (1902); aff'd, no rep., 76 O. S. 619.

Hamilton v. Street Railroad, 5 N. P. 457; 8 L. D. 174.

A provision in a franchise, granted by a suburban village, that, in the event of its annexation to a neighboring city, the rate of fare should not exceed five cents, is binding. Interurban Co. v. Cincinnati, 93 O. S. 109 (1915).

What is a "street railway?" The difference between a "railroad" and a "street railway" consists in the use, not in the motive power.

Clement v. Cincinnati, 16 W. L. B. 355 (1886).

To constitute a "street railway" the rails should be laid to conform to the grade and surface of the street, the space between the rails being filled in, and so constructed that the public is not excluded from any part of the street.

McMaken v. C. & H., etc., Co., 5 N. P. 367; 5 L. D. 364.

Williams v. City Electric St. R. Co., 41 Fed. 556 (1890).

Schaaf v. Cleveland, etc., Co., 66 O. S. 215 (1902).

Dietz v. C. & M. Traction Co., 4 N. P. 399; 6 L. D. 513.

See also Street Ry. Co. v. Cumminsville, 14 O. S. 523, 545 (1863).

Cincinnati St. Ry. Co. v. Snell, 54 O. S. 197, 205-206.

State v. Dayton Traction Co., 18 C. C. 490; 10 C. D. 212 (1899); affirmed, 64 O. S. 272.

Columbus D. & N. Traction Co. v. Marriot, 47 O. L. B. 347.

G. C. § 3775.

Interurban railway as a street railway.

See note to § 9117.

Powers of street railway companies.

To furnish medical attendance. A street railway company can not make a valid contract to perform medical services; but may agree to furnish or pay for medical attention to persons injured on its line.

Youngstown, etc., Railway Co. v. Kessler, 84 O. S. 74 (1911)

To carry freight. An urban railway company may make a valid traffic agreement with an interurban railway company, under G. C. § 9120, for the transportation of freight over streets.

State v. Dayton Traction Co., 64 O. S. 272 (1901); affirming, 18 C. C. 490; 10 C. D. 212.

A franchise authorizing the transportation of freight over streets does not authorize the use of a street as a station for unloading freight.

Newark v. Ohio Electric Ry., 13 N. P. n. s. 487 (1912).

To make private agreement as to fare. An agreement with the proprietor of a resort, located beyond municipal limits, to carry passengers thereto for a specified fare, while other railways are excluded from the resort, is valid.

Humphrey Co. v. Cleveland Ry. Co., 9 N. P. n. s. 609; 20 L. D. (1910).

A contract between an interurban railroad and a landowner, for a specified rate of fare to a nearby city, in consideration of a right of way along a public highway in front of the landowner's property, was held valid and not abrogated by the subsequent enactment of the public utilities commission act. Taylor v. Niles, 2 Ohio App. 293; 21 C. C. n. s. 391 (1913). See § 614-19. Contra, King Powder Co. v. Thrasher, 20 N. P. n. s. 401.

To appropriate property.

§§ 9108, 9115, 9118-2.

Contracts with street railway as to operation are made in contemplation of existing laws and ordinances.

Cemetery v. Cincinnati St. Ry. Co., 11 C. C. n. s. 429; 21 C. D. 51.

Loop on private property under agreement construed to be a revocable license.

Cemetery v. Cincinnati St. Ry. Co., 11 C. C. n. s. 429; 21 C. D. 51 (1908).

Mueller v. Cincinnati Traction Co., 6 O. L. R. 596; 19 L. D. 504 (1909).

Conflicting franchise rights of telephone and street railway companies. The primary purpose of streets is travel and transportation. Where the franchise rights of a telephone company conflict with those of a street railway company, the latter are, in general, paramount.

Railway Co. v. Telephone Assn., 48 O. S. 390 (1891).

Route. The line may fork and be but one route.

Aydelott v. Cincinnati, 11 C. C. 11, 17; 4 C. D. 86 (1893).

Extensions may run at right angles with original track.

Belle v. Glenville, 5 C. C. n. s. 461; 17 C. D. 181 (1904); aff'd, no rep., 73 O. S. 392, 397; 75 O. S. 574.

An application for a franchise may be for two routes in the alternative, leaving it to the municipality to grant either one.

Simmons v. Toledo, 5 C. C. 124, 141; 3 C. D. 64 (1889).

See Somers v. Cincinnati, 8 Am. L. R. 612, 622.

See also note to § 3768.

Wires over private property. Ejectment will lie to compel the removal of high tension wires erected by an interurban railway over private property without consent of the owner. Saner v. Railway, 7 Ohio App. 238; 28 O. C. A. 255 (1916).

Section 9101. (Who to grant right to construct.) The right to construct or extend such railway within or beyond the limits of a municipal corporation, may be granted only by its council, by ordinance; the right to construct such railway without the limits of a municipal corporation may be granted only by the county commissioners, by an order entered on their journal. (October 22, 1902, 96 v. 31, § 29; Bates' Stats. § 1536-183.)

Franchises within municipalities, see § 3768 et seq.

Franchises generally, see note to § 3714.

Section 9120 is not intended as a limitation on this section.

Hamilton v. Railway, 5 N. P. 457; 8 L. D. 174.

Hamlets in existence when municipal code of 1902 took effect became villages. Consent of such a village necessary to construction of street railroad.

Railroad v. North Bend, 70 O. S. 46 (1904).

Where the trustees of a hamlet had granted a franchise on a street, which was also a state road, the county commissioners can not enjoin operation thereunder.

Commissioners v. A. B. & C. Ry., 21 C. C. 769; 11 C. D. 664 (1896).

See In re Newburgh Twp., 15 C. C. 78; 8 C. D. 24 (1897).

Over county bridge within municipality. The council may make a grant for extension over existing tracks which run over a bridge, within the municipality, but built by the county commissioners.

State v. Cincinnati, etc., Co., 19 C. C. 79; 10 C. D. 418 (1899).

Franchise in parks. A municipality has no power to grant a franchise for a street railway in a public park donated to the municipality for park purposes only, to revert to the donor, if used for other purposes.

Cleveland City Cable Ry. v. Barriss, 33 W. L. B. 314 (1895).

See Mathers v. Cincinnati, 3 W. L. B. 551, 709 (1878).

County commissioners may recover damages under G. C. § 2424 from street railway company occupying county road without permission.

Citizens, etc., Co. v. Commissioners, 56 O. S. 1 (1897); affirming, 9 C. C. 183; 6 C. D. 290.

Without municipalities a franchise must be granted by the county commissioners. A franchise from a municipality permitting an extension beyond the municipal limits does not dispense with the necessity of a grant from the commissioners.

Commissioners v. Railway, 9 C. C. 183; 6 C. D. 290 (1895); aff'd, 56 O. S. 1.

Dietz v. Traction Co., 4 N. P. 399; 6 L. D. 513.

A grant by the county commissioners, when accepted, is a contract.

State v. C. E. Ry. Co., 15 C. C. 200; 8 C. D. 474 (1897).

Traction Co. v. Ohio, 245 U. S. 574 (1918); reversing, 93 O. S. 466, and affirming, 2 Ohio App. 113; 15 C. C. n. s. 577; 24 C. D. 262.

A franchise by county commissioners, silent as to its duration, granted at a time when there were no provisions of the state constitution of statutes limiting its duration, and no prior adjudication by its courts to the contrary, is perpetual and can not be annulled by the commissioners. Traction Co. v. Ohio, 245 U. S. 574 (1918); reversing, 93 O. S. 466, and affirming, 2 Ohio App. 113; 15 C. C. n. s. 577; 24 C. D. 262.

A grant made by county commissioners is not affected by the subsequent annexation of the territory to a municipality.

Belle v. Glenville, 5 C. C. n. s. 461; 17 C. D. 181 (1904); aff'd, no rep., 73 O. S. 392; 75 O. S. 574.

Although the franchise from the municipality for that part of the street railway originally within municipal limits had by its terms included the street to the "corporation line". Railway v. Springfield, 15 N. P. n. s. 241, 249; 24 L. D. 277 (1913); aff'd, no rep. by court of appeals.

Under a franchise granted by county commissioners upon and along the side of a public highway, the interurban railway is not the owner in fee of the strip of land on which its tracks are laid. Dayton Co. v. Scott, 101 O. S. 13 (1920).

The grant of a franchise in a public highway does not confer the exclusive use of the portion of the highway on which the tracks are constructed. Fairchild v. Railway, 101 O. S. 261 (1920).

A franchise granted by county commissioners may be assigned by the grantee, although the word "assignee" or "assigns" is not used.

State v. Traction Co., 2 Ohio App. 113; 15 C. C. n. s. 577; 24 C. D. 262; reversed, no rep. 93 O. S. 460; judgment of reversal reversed and court of appeals affirmed, 245 U. S. 574.

Where municipal limits are extended over a street railway, built under a franchise from county commissioners, which required certain macadam paving, the municipality can not assess against the street railway, the cost of other paving, although the franchise from the municipality for the portion of the track within the municipal limits provided that the cost of paving ordered by the municipality should be so assessed. Railway v. Springfield, 15 N. P. n. s. 241; 24 L. D. 277 (1913); aff'd, no rep. by court of appeals.

But in such a case the municipality may compel the street railway company to relocate its line. Ib.

Miscellaneous.

Electrolysis. The operation of a single trolley electric system, contemplated by its franchise, causing injury to municipal water pipes, will not be enjoined, unless operation is negligent.

Dayton v. City Ry. Co., 6 C. C. n. s. 41; 16 C. D. 736 (1904); affirming, 12 L. D. 258.

Building moved across tracks. Rights and liabilities.

Traction Co. v. Sterling, 9 C. C. n. s. 200; 19 C. D. 227 (1906)."

Illegal contract by councilman with company. A member of a council can not recover under a contract with a street railway for services in procuring rights of way over streets.

Railroad Co. v. Morris, 10 C. C. 502; 6 C. D. 640 (1895).

Adverse possession of streets by company. Rights under.

Cincinnati v. Columbus, etc., Co., 17 W. L. B. 192 (1886).

INJUNCTIONS.

See also note to § 3714.

Solicitor or taxpayer may enjoin exercise of invalid franchise. The exercise of an invalid franchise may be enjoined, at the suit of the solicitor or a taxpayer, under G. C. § 4311 or § 4314.

Cincinnati St. R. Co. v. Smith, 29 O. S. 291 (1876).

Knorr v. Miller, 5 C. C. 609; 3 C. D. 297 (1891); affirmed, no rep., 27 W. L. B. 64.

Haskins v. Cincinnati, 4 W. L. B. 1126 (1880).

Rogers v. Railway Co., 12 L. D. 136 (1901).

See Buning v. Cincinnati St. Ry. Co., 1 C. C. 323; 1 C. D. 178 (1886).

The motive of a taxpayer in bringing such a suit is immaterial. It is no defense that he is acting for the benefit of competing railways.

Raynolds v. Cleveland, 2 C. C. n. s. 139; 14 C. D. 215 (1902); affirmed, no rep., 76 O. S. 619.

Traction Co. v. Parish, 67 O. S. 181, 189 (1902).

Isom v. Low Fare Ry. Co., 10 C. C. n. s. 89; 19 C. D. 583 (1907); affirmed, no rep., 77 O. S. 638.

Compare, Gallagher v. Johnson, 31 W. L. B. 24.

To render a grant invalid, the defects or irregularities must be in some matter which is jurisdictional, or of such a nature that equity and justice require interference by the courts.

Sloane v. Peoples, etc., Ry. Co., 7 C. C. 84; 3 C. D. 674 (1891).

Defects in a street railway franchise can not be cured by an amendment to the granting ordinance which merely sets forth the facts as to the publication of notice before bids were received, and declares that the publication was sufficient to meet the requirements of the granting ordinance.

Raynolds v. Cleveland, 8 C. C. n. s. 278; 18 C. D. 463 (1906); aff'd, on the ground of laches, 77 O. S. 631.

Failure to procure the consents required by §§ 9105 and 3770 is not such a defect as will render the grant invalid at the suit of a taxpayer, who is not an abutting owner. Only abutting owners may complain on that ground.

Sommers v. Cincinnati, 8 Am. L. R. 612.

Simmons v. Toledo, 5 C. C. 124; 3 C. D. 64 (1889).

Glidden v. Cincinnati, 30 W. L. B. 213.

Lima v. Cramer, 5 N. P. n. s. 113; 17 L. D. 245 (1906).

Harrison v. Mt. Auburn, etc., Co., 17 W. L. B. 265.

Hamilton v. C. & H., etc., Co., 5 N. P. 457; 8 L. D. 174.

Suit by abutting owner. An abutting owner, as such, can not complain of defects in a grant, other than failure to procure consents required by § 9105 and § 3770.

Glidden v. Cincinnati, 30 W. L. B. 213.

Barney v. Mt. Adams, etc., Ry. Co., 30 W. L. B. 286.

Raynolds v. Cleveland, 2 C. C. n. s. 139, 154; 14 C. D. 215 (1902).

Ireton Bros. v. Ft. Wayne, etc., Co., 2 N. P. n. s. 317; 15 L. D. 129 (1904).

Sloane v. Peoples, etc., Co., 7 C. C. 84, 89; 3 C. D. 674 (1891).

Dietz v. Traction Co., 4 N. P. 399; 5 L. D. 513.

See Sanfleet v. Toledo, 10 C. C. 460; 8 C. D. 711 (1893).

See note to § 9105.

Suit by railroad to prevent crossing of tracks. A steam railroad company may raise the question whether the notice required by § 3769 has been given, where the street railway proposes to cross its tracks.

C. C. & St. L. Ry. v. Urbana, etc., Ry., 5 C. C. n. s. 583; 16 C. D. 180 (1903); aff'd, no rep., 73 O. S. 364.

Unsuccessful bidder or competitor. An unsuccessful bidder, who does not sue as a taxpayer or an abutting owner, can not enjoin occupation of streets.

Johnson v. West Side St. Ry. Co., 10 W. L. B. 345.

Mathers v. Cincinnati, 3 W. L. B. 709 (1878).

Nor can a competing company enjoin the exercise of a franchise on the ground of interference with its franchise.

Circleville, etc., Co. v. Buckeye Gas Co., 69 O. S. 259 (1903); affirming, 1 C. C. n. s. 259; 14 C. D. 684.

Section 9102. (Grantee not to be released from obligation.) After such grant, or the renewal of any grant has been made, by general or special ordinance, or the order of county commissioners, neither the municipality nor commissioners shall release a grantee from any obligations or liabilities imposed by the terms of the grant, or renewal of any grant, during the term for which such grant or renewal was made. (October 22, 1902, 96 v. 31, § 29; Bates' Stats. § 1536-183.)

See § 3771.

A purchaser of a street railway at judicial sale assumes the obligation of the original grantee of the franchise to operate the road. Gress v. Fort Loramie, 100 O. S. 35 (1919); reversing, 21 N. P. n. s. 81.

Release of obligation or liability. A modification of the contract, made in good faith for the better accommodation of the public, is not void.

Clement v. Cincinnati, 16 W. L. B. 355 (1886).

Cleveland v. Cleveland City Ry. Co., 194 U. S. 517 (1904).

Cleveland v. Cleveland Electric Ry. Co., 201 U. S. 529 (1906).

A grant of a franchise in good faith by county commissioners to an interurban company, wherein certain obligations in a former franchise as to fare and service are relinquished is not void under § 9102 if the considerations are substantial and advantageous to the public. State ex rel. v. McClure, — O. S. — (Syl. 21 O. L. R. 76).

A sum due a municipality as car license fees can not be released except on payment of the full amount. The principles of account stated and accord and satisfaction, based on a less amount, do not apply.

Cincinnati St. Ry. Co. v. Cincinnati, 8 N. P. 80; 11 L. D. 15.

In the absence of legislative authority a street railway company can not relieve itself of franchise obligations by a lease or traffic arrangement granting the joint use of its tracks to another company. Quigley v. Toledo Co., 89 O. S. 68 (1913).

That operation of a railway is unprofitable is no excuse for failure to give adequate service. Columbus Co. v. Columbus, 249 U. S. 399; 17 O. R. R. 119 (1919); affirming, 253 Fed. 499; 16 O. R. R. 376; Cincinnati v. Railway, 14 N. P. n. s. 420 (1913). See also Ferguson v. Transit Co., 4 O. L. R. 750; 52 W. L. B. 197 (Railroad Commission, 1907).

Remedies to enforce franchise obligations.

See note to § 3714.

Forfeiture of bidder's deposit. A deposit by grantee of franchise, to secure performance of obligations, may be forfeited to municipality as liquidated damages.

Hattersly v. Waterville, 4 C. C. n. s. 242; 16 C. D. 226 (1904); aff'd, no rep., 74 O. S. 466.

In a bond given by the grantee of a franchise conditioned upon the construction of a railway within the time specified and to save the city harmless from claims for damages, the penal sum was held to be a penalty and not liquidated damages. Elyria v. Railway, 23 C. C. n. s. 578 (1912).

Section 9103. (Right to occupy tracks of existing companies.) No right shall be given by such municipal or county authorities to occupy the track, single or double, or other structure, of existing street railways for more than one-eighth of the distance between the termini of the route, as actually constructed, operated and run over, of the company or person to whom such grant is made. But in granting permission to extend existing routes in cities, the cities and companies owning such route shall have all the rights and powers which they possess under existing laws and contracts. (October 22, 1902, 96 v. 31, § 29; Bates' Stats. § 1536-183.)

Municipality may grant franchise over existing tracks. Subject to the limitations of this section a municipality may grant a franchise over existing tracks belonging to another company, but the grantee must appropriate the right to use such tracks before taking possession.

Street Ry. Co. v. Street Ry. Co., 50 O. S. 603 (1893).

Kinsman, etc., Co. v. Broadway, etc., Co., 36 O. S. 239 (1880).

Hamilton, etc., Co. v. Hamilton, etc., Co., 69 O. S. 402 (1903).

See note to § 3768.

For right to appropriate use of tracks, see § 9108.

Pleading compliance with this section. A petition in an appropriation proceeding which alleges that eight times the amount of track, sought to be appropriated, has been built and placed in operation, shows compliance with this section.

Toledo Cons., etc., Co. v. Toledo Elec., etc., Co., 12 C. C. 337; 5 C. D. 643 (1893).

Computation of one-eighth of trackage. The entire line, without as well as within the municipality, should be used as a basis for computation. State v. Cincinnati, etc., Co., 19 C. C. 79, 89; 10 C. D. 418 (1899).

Abutting owners can not complain of a grant over existing tracks on the ground that the length of new track is insufficient under this section. Sanfleet v. Toledo, 10 C. C. 460; 8 C. D. 711 (1893).

Consents of abutting owners are not necessary for a franchise to operate cars solely over existing tracks.

State v. Cincinnati, etc., Co., 19 C. C. 79; 10 C. D. 419 (1899).

Broadway, etc., Co. v. Brooklyn, etc., Co., 10 W. L. B. 72.

Mt. Auburn, etc., Co. v. Neare, 54 O. S. 153 (1896).

Lima v. Cramer, 5 N. P. n. s. 113; 17 L. D. 245 (1906).

Section 9104. (Extensions to be constructed as new.)

No extension of a street railway located wholly outside of a city, or of one wherever located, which is built in pursuance of a right obtained from authority other than that of a municipal corporation, shall be made within the limits of such city, except as a new route. (October 22, 1902, 96 v. 31, § 29; Bates' Stats. § 1536-183.)

See Cleveland, etc., Ry. v. Urbana, etc., Ry., 5 C. C. n. s. 583; 16 C. D. 180 (1903); aff'd, no rep., 73 O. S. 364.

The validity of a grant made by county commissioners, in territory outside of a municipality, is not affected by the subsequent annexation of such territory to a municipality.

Belle v. Glenville, 5 C. C. n. s. 461; 17 C. D. 181 (1904); aff'd, no rep., 73 O. S. 392, 397; 75 O. S. 574.

Railway v. Springfield, 15 N. P. n. s. 241, 249 (1913).

Extensions within municipalities, § 3777.

Section 9105. (Consent of owners of abutting property.)

No such grant shall be made until there is produced to council, or the commissioners, as the case may be, the written consent of the owners of more than one-half of the feet front of the lots and lands abutting on the street or public way, along which it is proposed to construct such railway or extension thereof; and the provisions of all ordinances of the council relating thereto, have in all respects been complied with, whether the railway proposed is an extension of an old or the granting of a new route. (R. S. Sec. 3439; April 15, 1908, 99 v. 103; April 18, 1883, 80 v. 173; R. S. 1880; April 29, 1868, 65 v. 112, § 3.)

Consents for extensions, see note to § 3777.

CONSENTS.

Statutes requiring, are constitutional. Sections 9105, 3770 and 3777, requiring the written consents of abutting owners, are constitutional and valid, unless nullified by the adoption of additional laws or a municipal charter under Art. XVIII, §§ 2 or 7 of the constitution. Carpenter v. Cincinnati, 92 O. S. 473 (1915); reversing, 22 C. C. n. s. 65.

Are jurisdictional to grant. A majority of consents by the feet front is a condition precedent to jurisdiction to pass a street railway ordinance.

Traction Co. v. Parish, 67 O. S. 181, 192 (1902).

Roberts v. Easton, 19 O. S. 78 (1869).

Sommers v. Cincinnati, 8 Am. L. R. 612.

Although tracks of another company are already in the street.

Sanfleet v. Toledo, 10 C. C. 460; 8 C. D. 711 (1893); aff'd, no rep., 54 O. S. 620.

Requisite for each street. Consents of the owners of a majority of the frontage on each street on which the railway is to be constructed are requisite.

Mt. Auburn, etc., Ry. Co. v. Neare, 54 O. S. 153 (1896); affirming, 29 W. L. B. 171.

Sommers v. Cincinnati, 8 Am. L. R. 612.

See Rapp v. Cincinnati, etc., Co., 12 W. L. B. 119.

This requirement can not be avoided by action of the council in changing the name of a street, along which consents could not be secured, to the name of another street, along which consents were secured.

Carpenter v. Traction Co., 13 N. P. n. s. 81 (1912).

The street contemplated by this section is an existing street. Promised consents of owners of property which will abut upon a proposed street, not yet established by ordinance, and the property for which has not been acquired by the municipality, are insufficient. Carpenter v. Traction Co., 18 N. P. n. s. 1 (1915).

Not required to operate over existing tracks. Consents need not be obtained where the grant is to operate solely over existing tracks.

State v. Cincinnati, etc., Co., 19 C. C. 79; 10 C. D. 418 (1899).

Broadway, etc., Co. v. Brooklyn, etc., Co., 10 W. L. B. 72.

Mt. Auburn, etc., Co. v. Neare, 54 O. S. 153 (1896).

Lima v. Cramer, 5 N. P. n. s. 113; 17 L. D. 245 (1906).

Railway v. Railway, 6 C. C. 362; 3 C. D. 493; aff'd, 50 O. S. 603.

See Sanfleet v. Toledo, 10 C. C. 460; 8 C. D. 711 (1893); affirmed, 54 O. S. 621.

G. C. §§ 9106, 3770.

Except where the existing tracks occupy the street without right.

Isom v. Low Fare Ry. Co., 10 C. C. n. s. 89; 19 C. D. 583 (1907).

Municipal charter dispensing with necessity for consents. Under Article XVIII of the constitution, a home rule municipal charter may authorize the grant of a street railway franchise without the consents of abutting owners. Billings v. Railway, 92 O. S. 478 (1915).

WHO ENTITLED TO BENEFIT OF CONSENTS.

New road. Consents inure to benefit of lowest bidder. Can not be limited to one bidder or person. The consents of abutting owners to the construction of a new line, by whomsoever obtained, inure to the benefit of the lowest bidder.

Forest City Ry. Co. v. Day, 73 O. S. 83 (1905); reversing 5 C. C. n. s. 393.

Isom v. Low Fare Ry. Co., 10 C. C. n. s. 89, 98; 19 C. D. 583 (1907); aff'd, no rep., 77 O. S. 638.

State ex rel. v. Bell, 34 O. S. 194, 197 (1877).

Knorr v. Miller, 5 C. C. 609; 3 C. D. 297 (1891); affirmed, 27 W. L. B. 64.

Mathers v. Cincinnati, 3 W. L. B. 551.

A consent can not, by its terms, be limited to the party to whom given. The limitation is void, and the consent good as a consent to the construction of the road by the lowest bidder.

Forest City Ry. Co. v. Day, 73 O. S. 83 (1905).

Extension of existing line. Consents for the extension of an existing line inure only to persons to whom given, and assigns.

Isom v. Low Fare Ry. Co., 10 C. C. n. s. 89, 99; 19 C. D. 583 (1907); aff'd, no rep., 77 O. S. 638.

NATURE OF CONSENTS. RIGHTS OF ABUTTING OWNERS.

Consents are not property rights, but rights personal to each abutting owner, who is free to give or withhold such consent.

Traction Co. v. Parish, 67 O. S. 181 (1902); reversing 13 C. D. 527.

Forest City Ry. Co. v. Day, 73 O. S. 83 (1905).

Can not be appropriated. Consents are not property rights which may be appropriated under the power of eminent domain.

Traction Co. v. Parish, 67 O. S. 181 (1902).

Purchased consents are valid.

Traction Co. v. Parish, 67 O. S. 181 (1902).

Cleveland v. Cleveland City Ry., 3 C. C. n. s. 563; 13 C. D. 373 (1902); reversing 12 L. D. 623.

See Transit Co. v. Traction Co., 12 L. D. 1; s. c., 69 O. S. 402.

May be withdrawn. Consents may be withdrawn, even when induced by a money consideration, at any time before the granting ordinance has been read the second time.

G. C. § 9107.

Cleveland v. Cleveland City Ry., 3 C. C. n. s. 563; 13 C. D. 373 (1902); reversing 12 L. D. 623.

Simmons v. Toledo, 8 C. C. 535; 4 C. D. 69; aff'd, no rep., 51 O. S. 626.

See Hume v. Traction Co., 13 L. D. 70 (1902).

BY WHOM CONSENTS MAY BE GIVEN.

Owner or authorized agent. The "owner" must hold at least a freehold estate. A consent signed by a tenant for years is insufficient.

Rapp v. Cincinnati, etc., Co., 12 W. L. B. 119.

Consents must be signed by the abutting owner, or in his name by his authorized agent. A consent signed by a husband, in his own name, where his wife owns the property and does not consent, is insufficient and should not be received or counted.

Simmons v. Toledo, 8 C. C. 535; 4 C. D. 69 (1890); aff'd, no rep., 51 O. S. 626.

Rapp v. Cincinnati, etc., Co., 12 W. L. B. 119.

See Day v. Railway, 5 C. C. n. s. 393; 17 C. D. 60; reversed, 73 O. S. 83.

A consent signed by an agent in his own name, without authority, is invalid and can not be counted, although ratified by the owner after passage of the granting ordinance.

Sommers v. Cincinnati, 8 Am. L. R. 612.

The authority of an agent may be given by parol.

Simmons v. Toledo, 8 C. C. 535; 4 C. D. 69 (1890); aff'd, no rep., 51 O. S. 626.

Life tenant and remainderman. A life estate is a freehold interest, and a consent signed by a life tenant is valid.

Ireton Bros. v. Ft. Wayne, etc., Co., 2 N. P. n. s. 317; 15 L. D. 129 (1904).

Rapp v. Cincinnati, etc., Co., 12 W. L. B. 119.

A consent signed by a remainderman in his own name was held valid when the remainderman had charge of the property for the life tenant.

Simmons v. Toledo, 8 C. C. 535; 4 C. D. 69 (1890).

See also Widow below.

Tenants in common. A tenant in common, who may desire to vote adversely to his cotenants, is entitled to vote the number of feet front which his undivided interest proportionately represents.

Simmons v. Toledo, 8 C. C. 535; 4 C. D. 69 (1890).

Day v. Railway, 5 C. C. n. s. 393; 17 C. D. 60; reversed, 73 O. S. 83.

But see Ronnebaum v. Mt. Auburn, etc., Ry., 29 W. L. B. 338.

Rapp v. Cincinnati, etc., Co., 12 W. L. B. 119.

Infants. A consent, signed by a minor is of no effect.

Schwab v. Hamilton, etc., Co., 13 L. D. 116 (1902).

Vendor and vendee. A consent given by a vendor, of which the vendee had knowledge at the time of purchase, and not withdrawn by the vendee, is valid.

Simmons v. Toledo, 8 C. C. 535; 4 C. D. 69; (1890); aff'd, 51 O. S. 626.

See Day v. Railway, 5 C. C. n. s. 393; 17 C. D. 60; reversed 73 O. S. 83.

A vendee in possession under a land contract may give a valid consent.

Day v. Railway, 5 C. C. n. s. 393; 17 C. D. 60 (1904); reversed on other grounds, 73 O. S. 83.

A consent given by a vendor with the consent of the vendee is valid.

Day v. Railway, 5 C. C. n. s. 393; 17 C. D. 60 (1904); reversed on other grounds, 73 O. S. 83.

Ancestor and heir. A consent signed by an ancestor, during his life, is valid where his heirs have knowledge of the consent, but do not withdraw it.

Day v. Railway, 5 C. C. n. s. 393; 17 C. D. 60 (1904); reversed on other grounds, 73 O. S. 83.

Executor. An executor with discretionary power to convey the property, can not sign a valid consent unless the legal title of the property has been devised to him.

Rapp v. Cincinnati, 12 W. L. B. 119.

Guardian. A consent signed by a guardian, without an order of the probate court, is invalid.

Rapp v. Cincinnati, 12 W. L. B. 119.

See Day v. Railway, 5 C. C. n. s. 393; 17 C. D. 60 (1904); reversed, 73 O. S. 83.

Trustees. A consent given by trustees under a will, having full control and management of the property, is valid.

Simmons v. Toledo, 8 C. C. 535, 556; 4 C. D. 69 (1890); aff'd, 51 O. S. 626.

The omission of the word "trustee" after the signature of the trustee does not invalidate the consent.

Rapp v. Cincinnati, 12 W. L. B. 119.

Widow. Dower interest.

See Schwab v. Hamilton, etc., Co., 13 L. D. 116 (1902).

Rapp v. Cincinnati, etc., Co., 12 W. L. B. 119.

Partnership. A consent signed by one partner in the firm name is valid, although the land is not used for partnership purposes.

Schwab v. Hamilton, etc., Co., 13 L. D. 116 (1902).

Simmons v. Toledo, 8 C. C. 535; 4 C. D. 69; aff'd, no rep., 51 O. S. 626.

Corporation. Authority from the board of directors is requisite.

Rapp v. Cincinnati, etc., Co., 12 W. L. B. 119.

See Day v. Railway, 5 C. C. n. s. 393; 17 C. D. 60; reversed, 73 O. S. 83.

County property. The county commissioners have authority to execute consents for county property.

Nearing v. Toledo, etc., Ry., 9 C. C. 596; 6 C. D. 664 (1893).

Property owned by the municipality. The council may give a valid consent for a municipality, for abutting property owned by it.

Emerson v. Forest City Ry. Co., 8 C. C. n. s. 560; 14 C. C. n. s. 478; 18 C. D. 683; 23 C. D. 34 (1906); affirmed, no rep., 77 O. S. 596.

Ireton Bros. v. Traction Co., 2 N. P. n. s. 317; 15 L. D. 129 (1904).

WHEN AND HOW PRODUCED. FOR HOW LONG VALID.

Time of filing. Consents need not be obtained prior to the publication of notice of the application.

Sloane v. Peoples, etc., Co., 7 C. C. 84; 3 C. D. 674 (1891).

Nor before the introduction of the ordinance. Cincinnati v. Hillenbrand, 103 O. S. 286, 299 (1921).

But they must be filed with the council before the granting ordinance is passed or becomes effective

Sommers v. Cincinnati, 8 Am. L. R. 612, 618.

Where a grant fails, as to a part of the route, for lack of proper consents, the municipality may make a new grant for that part, when proper consents are filed. Such grant is valid under the original application, notice and bids.

Sanfleet v. Toledo, 10 C. C. 460; 8 C. D. 711 (1893); affirmed, 54 O. S. 620.

How produced. Filing with the council is sufficient. The consents need not be entered on its records.

Sanfleet v. Toledo, 10 C. C. 460; 8 C. D. 711 (1893); affirmed, 54 O. S. 620.

Ireton Bros. v. Traction Co., 2 N. P. n. s. 317, 325; 15 L. D. 129.

Life of consents. When once acted upon by the council, in granting a valid franchise, consents lose their vitality and can not be used again as the basis of a second grant to another company. But if the franchise is invalid, the consents may, if not withdrawn, be used again for the purpose of making a valid grant.

Isom v. Low Fare Ry. Co., 10 C. C. n. s. 89, 99; 19 C. D. 583 (1907); affirmed, no rep., 77 O. S. 638.

Sanfleet v. Toledo, 10 C. C. 460; 8 C. D. 711 (1893); affirmed, 54 O. S. 620.

Smith v. Columbus, etc., Co., 8 N. P. 1, 6.

See Roberts v. Easton, 19 O. S. 78, 88 (1869).

Day v. Railway, 5 C. C. n. s. 393; 17 C. D. 60 (1904); reversed 73 O. S. 83.

TERMS AND CONDITIONS.

Form and contents. A consent must be in writing and signed by the owner or his authorized agent. A consent by telegram is valid.

Simmons v. Toledo, 8 C. C. 535; 4 C. D. 69; (1890); aff'd, 51 O. S. 626.

Schwab v. Traction Co., 13 L. D. 116.

It need not specify the mode and manner of construction and operation.

Sloane v. Peoples, etc., Ry., 7 C. C. 84; 3 C. D. 674 (1891).

Consent to single track not consent for double track railway. Consents for the construction of a single track railway can not be counted as consents for a double track.

Roberts v. Easton, 19 O. S. 78 (1869).

Motive power. Consents for a railway with animal power are not consents for an electric railway.

Sanfleet v. Toledo, 10 C. C. 460; 8 C. D. 711; aff'd, 54 O. S. 620.

Additional switch. Consents for the original construction of a street railway are not consents for the subsequent construction of additional switches. New consents are requisite.

Horner v. Columbus, etc., Ry., 29 W. L. B. 387 (1893).

Chestnut v. Railway, 15 L. D. 336; aff'd, 76 O. S. 567.

Chambers v. Cleveland, etc., Co., 5 C. C. n. s. 298; 17 C. D. 193 (1904); aff'd, no rep., 73 O. S. 348.

Change of route after consent given. A consent for one specified route is not a consent for another and different route.

Neare v. Mt. Auburn, etc., Co., 29 W. L. B. 171; 4 N. P. 475; aff'd, 54 O. S. 153.

Ireton Bros. v. Traction Co., 2 N. P. n. s. 317, 321; 15 L. D. 129 (1904).

See Day v. Railway, 5 C. C. n. s. 393; 17 C. D. 60; reversed 73 O. S. 83.

But a change by an interurban road, whereby, for one square, the street is abandoned for a private right of way to avoid sharp curves, is not fraudulent per se against abutting owners.

Ireton Bros. v. Traction Co., 2 N. P. n. s. 317; 15 L. D. 129 (1904).

Conditional consents. A consent given upon condition that construction be commenced and completed within a certain time is upon a condition subsequent and effective only between its signer and the grantee of the franchise. Such condition does not prevent the council from acting upon the consent.

Simmons v. Toledo, 8 C. C. 535; 4 C. D. 69 (1890); aff'd, no rep., 51 O. S. 626.

Only the persons giving conditional consents may take advantage of a violation of the conditions. Abutting owners who did not consent can not complain of such violations.

Barney v. Mt. Adams, etc., Co., 30 W. L. B. 286 (Cin. Super. Ct.).

RIGHT OF ACCESS.

In absence of statute requiring consents abutting owners in municipalities have right of access only. So long as his right of ingress and egress is not materially interfered with, an abutting owner in a municipality can not prevent the construction and operation of a street railway, if permission has been duly given by the municipal authorities.

Traction Co. v. Parish, 67 O. S. 181, 191 (1902).

Isom v. Low Fare Ry. Co., 10 C. C. n. s. 91; 19 C. D. 583 (1907); aff'd, no rep., 77 O. S. 638.

Street Ry. v. Cummins ville, 14 O. S. 523 (1863).

Interference with right of access.

See also § 8765 and notes.

Held not to constitute. Tracks which leave ten feet between the curb and the nearest track.

Barney v. Mt. Adams, etc., Co., 30 W. L. B. 286, 288.

Double tracks so located that wagons can not stand at right angles with the curb while being loaded and unloaded.

Miller v. Columbus Ry. Co., 13 L. D. 418 (1902).

Sells v. Columbus St. Ry. Co., 28 W. L. B. 172 (1892).

Oviatt v. Akron St. Ry. Co., 2 N. P. 84; 3 L. D. 252 (1895).

Trolley poles.

Mt. Adams, etc., Co. v. Winslow, 3 C. C. 425; 2 C. D. 240 (1888).

See Simmons v. Toledo, 8 C. C. 535; 4 C. D. 69 (1890).

Tracks laid close to sidewalk at corner so that, in turning the corner, the body of the car extends over the sidewalk.

Powell v. Columbus, etc., Co., 10 N. P. n. s. 266; 20 L. D. 313 (1910).

Held to constitute. Water thrown upon land by construction.

A. B. & C. Ry. v. Keck, 13 C. D. 57.

Tracks laid within two or three feet from the sidewalk in front of stores.

Street Ry. v. Cumminsville, 14 O. S. 523, 543 (1863).

See Schaaf v. Railway Co., 66 O. S. 215 (1902).

Tracks laid on one side of a highway without conforming to the grade, and without filling in between the rails.

McMacken v. C. & H., etc., Co., 5 N. P. 367; 5 L. D. 358.

Temporary interference incident to the construction of a street railway can not be complained of by abutting owner.

Glidden v. Cincinnati, 30 W. L. B. 213.

Estoppel by written consent. An abutting owner, who has given his written consent, can not complain of the additional burden, but if his easement of access is interfered with in the construction of the railway he is entitled to an injunction.

Powell v. Railway Co., 10 N. P. n. s. 266; 20 L. D. 313 (1910).

Transit Co. v. Traction Co., 12 L. D. 1, 4 (1901); s. c., 69 O. S. 402.

Liability to abutting owners, for injuries to trees in highway.

A. B. & C. Ry. v. Keck, 13 C. D. 57.

Keefe v. Cleveland City R. Co., 8 N. P. 466; 11 L. D. 568.

Rights of street railway and abutting owners in streets limited. A street railway can not lawfully occupy the track in front of business premises for an unreasonable time, nor can an abutting owner occupy the tracks for an unreasonable time so as to interfere with movement of cars.

Miller v. Columbus Ry. Co., 13 L. D. 418 (1902).

See Traction Co. v. Sterling, 9 C. C. n. s. 200; 19 C. D. 227 (1906).

STREET RAILWAY AS AN ADDITIONAL BURDEN.

In municipalities. The construction and operation of a street railway upon a street is a proper street use, and not a new or additional burden entitling abutting owners to compensation.

Billings v. Railway, 92 O. S. 478 (1915).

Trolley poles do not render the use a new or additional burden.

Simmons v. Toledo, 8 C. C. 535; 4 C. D. 69 (1890).

Sells v. Columbus St. Ry., 28 W. L. B. 172 (1892).

Akron, etc., Transit Co. v. Erie R., 7 C. C. n. s. 199, 202; 18 C. D. 36 (1905).

Railway v. Winslow, 3 C. C. 425; 2 C. D. 240 (1888).

Interurban railways outside of municipalities. An interurban railway, with T rails, built entirely on one side of a highway, between improved farms and the roadway, the company having authority to operate an unlimited number of cars for passengers, mail and freight, is an additional burden similar to that of a steam railroad.

Schaaf v. Cleveland, etc., Co., 66 O. S. 215 (1902).

Chestnut v. Columbus, etc., Ry., 15 L. D. 336 (1905); affirmed, 76 O. S. 567.

Miller v. Columbus Ry. Co., 13 L. D. 418 (1902).

A steam railroad is an additional burden.

Lawrence R. R. Co. v. Williams, 35 O. S. 168 (1878).

An additional switch laid in the highway subsequent to construction of road is an additional burden.

Chambers v. Cleveland, etc., Co., 5 C. C. n. s. 298; 17 C. D. 193 (1904); aff'd, no rep., 73 O. S. 348.

Chestnut v. Columbus, etc., Ry., 15 L. D. 336 (1905); aff'd, no rep., 76 O. S. 567.

Estoppel by consent. An abutting owner, who has signed a written consent, is estopped from complaining of the additional burden.

Powell v. Columbus, etc., Co., 10 N. P. n. s. 266; 20 L. D. 313 (1910).

INJUNCTION AGAINST CONSTRUCTION OF ROAD WITHOUT VALID CONSENTS.

Suit by abutting owner. Where a franchise is granted without the required number of valid consents, the construction of the railway may be enjoined at the suit of an abutting owner.

Roberts v. Easton, 19 O. S. 78 (1869).

Mt. Auburn, etc., Ry. Co. v. Neare, 54 O. S. 153 (1896).

Lack of valid consents is, as a general rule, the only ground upon which an abutting owner, as such, may complain. Other defects in a grant may be attacked only by the public.

Glidden v. Cincinnati, 30 W. L. B. 213.

Sloane v. Peoples, etc., Co., 7 C. C. 84, 89; 3 C. D. 674 (1893).

Barney v. Mt. Adams, etc., Ry. Co., 30 W. L. B. 286.

Raynolds v. Cleveland, 2 C. C. n. s. 139, 154; 14 C. D. 215 (1902).

Ireton Bros. v. Ft. Wayne, etc., Co., 2 N. P. n. s. 317; 15 L. D. 129 (1904).

Dietz v. C. & M. V. Traction Co., 4 N. P. 399.

An abutting owner on one street can not complain of lack of consents of owners of property on other streets.

Toledo Cons., etc., Co. v. Toledo Elec., etc., Ry., 6 C. C. 362, 387; 3 C. D. 493; aff'd, 50 O. S. 603.

Mathers v. Cincinnati, 3 W. L. B. 709.

An abutting owner may enjoin interference with his property right of ingress and egress.

Street Ry. v. Cummins, 14 O. S. 523 (1863).

Powell v. Columbus, etc., Ry., 10 N. P. n. s. 266; 20 L. D. 313 (1910).

The motive of an abutting owner in bringing suit is immaterial. It is no defense that he is acting for the benefit of competing railways.

Traction Co. v. Parish, 67 O. S. 181, 189 (1902).

Isom v. Low Fare Ry. Co., 10 C. C. n. s. 89; 19 C. D. 583 (1907); affirmed, no rep., 77 O. S. 638.

A plaintiff, not in possession of abutting property, and whose ownership is doubtful, is not entitled to an injunction. His ownership must first be established at law.

Swing v. Cincinnati, etc., Traction Co., 15 L. D. 70 (Cin. Super. Ct., Gen. Term, 1904).

An abutting owner can not object to the operation of cars over existing tracks, on the ground that the length of new track is insufficient under G. C. § 9103.

Sanfleet v. Toledo, 10 C. C. 460; 8 C. D. 711 (1893); affirmed, 54 O. S. 620.

Where an interurban road outside of municipalities constitutes an additional burden, abutting owners may enjoin its construction until compensation is made.

Schaaf v. Cleveland, etc., Co., 66 O. S. 215 (1902).

Burden of proof. The action of a council in granting a franchise is not conclusive as to the number of valid consents. An abutting owner may raise the question.

Roberts v. Easton, 19 O. S. 78 (1869).

Sommers v. Cincinnati, 8 Am. L. R. 612.

But the presumption is in favor of the action of the council. The burden of proof is upon the abutting owner to show lack of valid consents. Simmons v. Toledo, 8 C. C. 535; 4 C. D. 69 (1890); aff'd, 51 O. S. 626. Ireton Bros. v. Ft. Wayne, etc., Co., 2 N. P. n. s. 317; 15 L. D. 129 (1904).

Schwab v. Traction Co., 13 L. D. 116, 120 (1902).

Cincinnati College v. Nesmith, 2 C. S. C. R. 24 (1870).

Hamilton v. Railroad, 5 N. P. 457; 8 L. D. 174.

Joinder of parties. Owners of property abutting on the same street may join as plaintiffs, but they may not join with owners of property on other streets.

Glidden v. Cincinnati, 30 W. L. B. 213.

Suit by solicitor or taxpayer. An injunction suit by a solicitor or taxpayer can not be predicated upon a lack of valid consents. Abutting owners, only, may complain on that ground.

Glidden v. Cincinnati, 30 W. L. B. 213.

Simmons v. Toledo, 5 C. C. 124; 3 C. D. 64 (1889); aff'd, 30 W. L. B. 392.

Lima v. Cramer, 5 N. P. n. s. 113; 17 L. D. 245 (1906).

Sommers v. Cincinnati, 8 Am. L. Rec. 612.

Harrison v. Mt. Auburn, etc., Co., 17 W. L. B. 265.

Hamilton v. C. & H., etc., Co., 5 N. P. 457; 8 L. D. 174.

Nor can a solicitor base an action in quo warranto on such ground.

State v. Oakwood, etc., Ry., 11 C. C. n. s. 263; 20 C. D. 632 (1908); aff'd, no rep., 81 O. S. 502.

State v. Railway, 19 C. C. 79; 10 C. D. 418 (1899).

MISCELLANEOUS.

Right of abutting owners to prevent abandonment of part of line.

Bickerstaff v. Steubenville, etc., Co., 5 O. L. R. 539 (Railroad Commission 1907).

Cemetery v. Street Ry., 11 C. C. n. s. 429; 21 C. D. 51 (1908).

License for temporary tracks is not a grant and may be given by a municipality without consents.

Mathers v. Cincinnati, 3 W. L. B. 551, 709 (Cin. Super. Ct.).

PUBLICATION OF NOTICE.

Notice under § 3769 unnecessary for grant to construct extension.

Railway Co. v. Railway Co., 5 C. C. n. s. 583, 596, 597; 16 C. D. 180 (1903); aff'd, no rep., 73 O. S. 364.

State ex rel. v. Cincinnati, etc., Co., 19 C. C. 79 (1899).

Sommers v. Cincinnati, 8 Am. L. Rec. 612.

See § 3777.

Section 9106. (When written consent not required.) But when such grant is made by the council of a municipal corporation, either for a new route or as an extension of an existing route, in case the number of tracks thereon or part thereof is not increased beyond the number for which consents originally were obtained, on and along any part of a street or public way upon which a street railway has been operated within one year preceding under a grant or renewal of a grant which has expired or within two years will expire, or when such a grant is made by the council of a municipal corporation or the commissioners of a county on and along any part of a street or public way upon the order or finding of any court of competent jurisdiction, or a judge thereof, in a hearing upon or growing out of a grade crossing elimination proceedings, in which hearing such court or judge has determined that the reasonable and practical solution of the manner of eliminating a grade crossing requires that such a street or interurban railway shall be re-located or re-routed for a certain distance fixed by the court, it shall not be necessary to produce to the council or commissioners any written consents from the owners of the lots and land abutting on such part of a street or public way. (107 v. 533; R. S. Sec. 3439; April 15, 1908, 99 v. 103; April 18, 1883, 80 v. 173; R. S. 1880; April 29, 1868, 65 v. 112, § 3.)

Section 9107. (When property owner cannot withdraw consent.) Nothing contained in the preceding section shall permit a person owning property abutting on a street along, in or over which a street railway is about to be constructed, to withdraw his consent after an ordinance granting the right to construct and operate it has been read the second time, if at least thirty days elapsed since the first reading thereof, in the council or other body authorized to make the grant. (R. S. Sec. 3439a; May 10, 1902, 95 v. 475.)

Except as prohibited by this section, an abutting owner may withdraw his consent, even when induced by a money consideration.

Cleveland v. Cleveland City Ry. Co., 3 C. C. n. s. 563; 13 C. D. 373 (1902); reversing, 12 L. D. 623.

Simmons v. Toledo, 8 C. C. 535; 4 C. D. 69 (1890).

See Hume v. Hamilton, etc., Co., 13 L. D. 70 (1902).

Section 9108. (Appropriation of property.) When the council or commissioners make such grant, the company or person to whom it is made may appropriate property necessary therefor, if the owner fails expressly to waive his claim to damages by reason of the construction and operation of the railway. (R. S. Sec. 3440; April 16, 1892, 89 v.

349; April 11, 1890, 87 v. 178; March 27, 1866, 63 v. 55, § 4; March 24, 1864, 61 v. 53, § 1; S. & S. 136; S. & S. 137.)

Procedure in appropriation cases see § 11038 et seq.

What property may be appropriated. Use of existing tracks may be.

Street Ry. Co. v. Street Ry. Co., 50 O. S. 603 (1893).

Consents of abutting owners under §§ 9105 and 3770 can not be.

Traction Co. v. Parish, 67 O. S. 181 (1902).

See § 9109.

County road.

See Railroad Co. v. Commissioners, 56 O. S. 1, 8 (1897).

APPROPRIATION OF USE OF EXISTING TRACKS.

Right of. A street railway, having a franchise to use the existing tracks of another street railway, may, under this section, appropriate such tracks to its use.

Street Railway Co. v. Street Railway Co., 50 O. S. 603 (1893); aff'g, 6 C. C. 362; 3 C. D. 493.

See Traction Co. v. Traction Co., 47 W. L. B. 854.

Railway v. Railway, 26 W. L. B. 172.

Sections 9120 and 9130 conferring power to make traffic agreements do not interfere with the right to appropriate use of existing tracks.

State v. C. & H., etc., Ry., 19 C. C. 79; 10 C. D. 418 (1899).

Successive proceedings. The appropriation of a part of existing tracks is not a bar to a proceeding to appropriate other portions.

Toledo Consol., etc., Co. v. Toledo Elec., etc., Co., 12 C. C. 367; 5 C. D. 643 (1893).

Appropriating company not joint owner of tracks. The appropriating company does not acquire a joint ownership in the tracks, and is not entitled to compensation from another company subsequently acquiring right to use the same.

Toledo Electric, etc., Co. v. Toledo, etc., Co., 10 C. C. 168; 6 C. D. 578 (1895); reversing 7 N. P. 211; 1 L. D. 33.

Measure of compensation.

See Toledo Cons., etc., Co. v. Toledo Elec., etc., Co., 6 C. C. 362; 3 C. D. 493 (1892); (affirmed, 50 O. S. 603, except as to measure of compensation which was reserved for re-argument and afterwards dismissed by consent. 31 W. L. B. 348).

Toledo Cons., etc., Co. v. Toledo Elec., etc., Co., 12 C. C. 367; 5 C. D. 643 (1893).

Power of council to fix compensation. The council has no power to fix the compensation to be paid except when that right is reserved in the franchise of the owner of the tracks.

Kinsman, etc., Co. v. Broadway, etc., Co., 36 O. S. 239, 252 (1880).

Pleading and evidence.

Necessity for appropriation. The appropriating company need not show necessity for use of the tracks. The action of the council in granting the franchise is, in the absence of fraud, conclusive.

Toledo Cons., etc., Co. v. Toledo Elec., etc., Co., 6 C. C. 362; 3 C. D. 493 (1892); affirmed, 50 O. S. 603.

Compliance with § 9103. That eight times the amount of track sought to be appropriated has been constructed and placed in operation satisfies the requirements of § 9103.

Toledo Cons., etc., Co. v. Toledo Elec., etc., Co., 12 C. C. 361; 5 C. D. 643 (1893).

Toledo Cons., etc., Co. v. Toledo Elec., etc., Co., 6 C. C. 362; 3 C. D. 493 (1892); affirmed, 50 O. S. 603.

Miscellaneous. The petition need not set out the length of time the existing tracks will be used.

Toledo Cons., etc., Co. v. Toledo Elec., etc., Co., 12 C. C. 367; 5 C. D. 643 (1893).

The appropriating company need not prove proceedings preliminary to the grant of its franchise, such as the application, notice and consents.

Toledo Cons., etc., Co. v. Toledo, Elec., etc., Co., 6 C. C. 362, 387; 3 C. D. 493 (1892); affirmed, 50 O. S. 603.

But it must show the grant of a franchise from the municipality.

Railway Co. v. Stoneware Co., 51 W. L. B. 421.

Injunction against use without appropriation. The grantee of a franchise over existing tracks may be enjoined from taking possession without appropriating the right of use.

See Hamilton, etc., Co. v. Hamilton, etc., Co., 69 O. S. 402 (1903).

Kinsman, etc., Co. v. Broadway, etc., Co., 36 O. S. 239 (1880).

But a company which has parted with its interest in the tracks is not entitled to an injunction, where the right of use has been appropriated against the company in possession.

Metropolitan, etc., Co. v. Toledo, etc., Co., 9 C. C. 664; 6 C. D. 733 (1893).

RIGHT TO CROSS TRACKS OF STEAM OR STREET RAILROADS WITHOUT APPROPRIATION.

In municipalities. A street railway, authorized to lay tracks in a street which crosses a steam railroad, may, on such streets, cross the tracks of the steam railroad without compensation.

C. & H. Electric St. Ry. v. C. H. & I. R. Co., 21 C. C. 391, 396; 12 C. D. 113 (1898); aff'd, no rep., 64 O. S. 550.

Railway Co. v. Railway Co., 5 C. C. n. s. 583, 588; 16 C. D. 180 (1903); aff'd, no rep., 73 O. S. 364.

Akron, etc., Transit Co. v. Erie R. Co., 7 C. C. n. s. 199, 201; 18 C. D. 36 (1905).

Street tracks of another street railway may be crossed without compensation.

Metropolitan, etc., Co. v. Toledo, etc., Ry., 9 C. C. 664; 6 C. D. 733 (1893).

For railroad crossings not on streets, see § 8834.

Without municipalities the right to cross railway tracks must be acquired by agreement or court decree.

G. C. § 8834 et seq.

Dayton, etc., R. Co. v. Dayton, etc., Traction Co., 1 N. P. n. s. 296; 14 L. D. 143 (1903); affirmed, 4 C. C. n. s. 329; 16 C. D. 1; reversed on other grounds, 72 O. S. 429.

Section 9109. (Appropriation of property of turnpike or plank road.) Such power to appropriate may be exercised, for the purpose of constructing a street railway along a highway occupied by a turnpike or plank road company when the person, persons or company authorized to construct such railway cannot agree with the turnpike or plank road company on the terms and conditions upon which the highway may be occupied, and if such appropriation will not unnecessarily interfere with the reasonable use of the highway by the turnpike or plank road company. Nothing in the foregoing provisions shall affect the rights of property owners to give or withhold their consent concerning the right of way for street railways upon any street or road. (R. S. Sec. 3440; April 16, 1892, 89 v. 349; April 11, 1890, 87 v. 178; March 27, 1866, 63 v. 55, § 4; March 24, 1864, 61 v. 53, § 1.)

Consents of property owners can not be appropriated.
Traction Co. v. Parish, 67 O. S. 181 (1902).

Section 9110. (Oath in appropriation proceedings.) In case of appropriation of property for such purpose, the oath to be administered to the jury shall be as follows: "You and each of you do solemnly swear that you will justly and impartially assess, according to your best judgment, the amount of compensation which is due to (here name the owner or owners), by reason of the appropriation of the street or avenue (as in the statement described), irrespective of any benefit from any improvement proposed by such (here name the company, individual, or company of individuals), and that you will in assessing damages that may accrue to (here name the owner or owners), by reason of the appropriation, other than the compensation, further ascertain how much less valuable the lot or lots of such (here name the owner or owners), will be in consequence of such appropriation." (R. S. Sec. 3442; March 27, 1866, 63 v. 55, § 5.)

Section 9111. (How compensation ascertained.) The jury, in ascertaining such compensation or damages, shall determine the amount thereof without reference to the distinction between a public and a private nuisance, and the effect of such distinction upon the right of such owner or owners to claim compensation or damages, and, if requested, the court shall so direct the jury. (R. S. Sec. 3442; March 27, 1866, 63 v. 55, § 5.)

Measure of compensation.

(Land) Lorain St. Ry. Co. v. Sinning, 17 C. C. 649; 6 C. D. 753 (1895).

Use of existing tracks, see note to § 9108.

See also note to § 11053.

Section 9112. (Consent of authority controlling public road.) If the public road along which the railway is to be constructed is owned by a person or company, or is within the control or management of the board of public works or other public officer, such person, company, or officer may agree with the person or company constructing the railway as to the terms and conditions upon which the road may be occupied. (R. S. Sec. 3441; February 19, 1870, 67 v. 10, § 1.)

Cited, State ex rel. v. Taylor, 55 O. S. 61, 66 (1896).

This section applies to state and county roads under the control of county commissioners. The term "officer" includes a board of county commissioners.

Railroad Co. v. Commissioners, 56 O. S. 1, 7 (1897).

Where the trustees of a hamlet had, prior to 1902, granted a franchise on a street which was also a state road, the county commissioners can not enjoin operation thereunder.

Commissioners v. A. B. & C. Ry., 21 C. C. 769; 11 C. D. 664 (1896).

A turnpike company has no power to enter into a contract for a railway which interferes with the right of access of abutting owners.

McMacken v. C. & H., etc., Co., 5 N. P. 367; 5 L. D. 358.

The public utilities commission, in fixing a reasonable rate of fare between points on an interurban railroad, need not adopt a rate between other points fixed in a franchise to the same railroad. Stark County v. Traction Co., 102 O. S. 124 (1921).

Section 9113. (Terms and conditions of construction, etc.) Council, or the commissioners, as the case may be, may fix the terms and conditions upon which such railways may be constructed, operated, extended, and consolidated. (R. S. Sec. 3443; February 19, 1870, 67 v. 10, § 1; May 7, 1869, 66 v. 140, § 1.)

See § 3768 and 9101.

This section does not authorize a municipality, by penal ordinance, to prescribe the qualifications of motormen and conductors.

Columbus, etc., Co. v. Columbus, 10 N. P. n. s. 161; 20 L. D. 555 (1910).

The council may fix the rate of fare from the municipality to a point outside of its limits. Railway Co. v. Cincinnati, 93 O. S. 109 (1915).

A franchise may provide for annual payments to the municipality. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1918, p. 795.

Section 9114. (Free transportation of police and firemen.) Upon the granting of franchises to traction companies throughout this state for the use of streets, roads and highways for the transportation of passengers, it must be provided, as one of the considerations for such use of the public highways, that such traction companies shall carry free as passengers on any and all regular cars, policemen and firemen, when on duty and in uniform. (March 15, 1909, 100 v. 14, § 1.)

Section 9115. (Appropriation of property by directors.)

When it is deemed necessary by a majority of the directors of a domestic or foreign corporation owning or operating a street railway in a municipality to appropriate private property therein, in order to avoid dangerous or difficult curves or grades, or unsafe or unsubstantial grounds or foundations or to extend or shorten its railway line, or to provide land on which to extend its power plant, such corporation may appropriate so much private property as is necessary for the extension of such power plant, or the construction, operation, and maintenance of the tracks, poles, supports, wires, cables and necessary appliances of such railway other than power houses, machine shops, stations or substations in the manner and subject to the provisions of law for the appropriation of private property by corporations. (April 7, 1904, 97 v. 106, § 1.)

Section 9116. (Change of location of any portion of railway.)

For the purposes above provided such corporation may change the location of any part of its railway, and for the purpose of making such change, it shall have all the rights, powers, and privileges to enter upon private land and make surveys necessary to effect such change as fully as railroad companies are by law permitted to do. (April 7, 1904, 97 v. 106, § 2.)

Change of location.

Ireton Bros. v. Traction Co., 2 N. P. n. s. 317; 15 L. D. 129 (1904).

Bickerstaff v. Steubenville, etc., Traction Co., 5 O. L. R. 539; 53 W. L. B. 29 (Railroad Commission 1907).

Ashley v. Railway, 5 O. L. R. 359; 52 W. L. B. 496 (1907).

Spring Grove v. Railway, 11 C. C. n. s. 429; 21 C. D. 51 (1908).

Section 9117. (Construction of street railroads outside of municipalities.)

Companies incorporated under section eighty-six hundred and twenty-five, for such purpose, may construct, maintain and operate electric street railroads, or street railroads using other than animal power as a motive power, for the transportation of passengers, packages, express matter, United States mail, baggage and freight upon the highways in this state outside of municipalities, or upon private rights of ways. (R. S. Sec. 3443-8; May 10, 1902, 95 v. 539; May 17, 1894, 91 v. 285.)

Held constitutional.

Dietz v. C. & M. V. Traction Co., 4 N. P. 399; 6 L. D. 513.

This section does not modify, limit or repeal §§ 9100, 9101 and 9102, nor define a different kind of street railroad.

Hamilton v. C. & H., etc., Ry., 5 N. P. 457; 8 L. D. 174.

Sections 9117-9122 relate to electric railways outside of municipalities. Interurban Co. v. Cincinnati, 93 O. S. 108, 116 (1915).

Motive power should be clearly stated in articles of incorporation.
See Rep. Atty. Gen. (1909-1910) 99.

INTERURBAN RAILROAD. WHETHER A "RAILROAD" OR A "STREET RAILWAY."

The distinction between an interurban railway and a railroad is said to lie, not in its motive power, but in the frequency of service rendered, number of stops made and the character of its business. State v. Railway, 18 N. P. n. s. 393; 26 L. D. 264 (1916).

Statutory classification as a "street railway." Under certain statutes interurban railroads have been classed as street railways and provisions of such statutes relating to "railroads" held not applicable to interurbans. Under sections 9117 to 9122.

Ohio Electric Ry. Co. v. Ottawa, 85 O. S. 229 (1912); reversing, 13 C. C. n. s. 561; 22 C. D. 197.

State v. Traction Companies, 64 O. S. 272 (1901).

Statutes imposing excise taxes.

Electric St. R. Co. v. Lohe, 68 O. S. 101, 109, 110 (1903).

§ 5490 (101 v. 409, orig. G. C. § 5488; R. S. 2780-17).

See Railway v. Poland, 10 N. P. n. s. 617; 21 L. D. 630 (C. P. 1910); aff'd, no rep., 88 O. S. 596, 597.

Providing for mechanic's liens on railroads.

Bridge Co. v. Iron Co., 59 O. S. 179 (1898).

G. C. § 3245.

Providing for construction of railroad and highway crossings, prior to the amendment of §§ 8874 and 8897 in 1913.

Commissioners v. Traction Co., 75 O. S. 548 (1907).

In re Avon Beach, etc., R. Co., 3 N. P. n. s. 561; 16 L. D. 87 (C. P. 1905).

Providing for the crossing of one railroad by another.

C. & H., etc., Co. v. C. & H., etc., Co., 21 C. C. 391; 12 C. D. 113 (1898).

D. & U. Ry. v. D. & M. Traction Co., 4 C. C. n. s. 329; 16 C. D. 1 (1903); affirming, 1 N. P. n. s. 218, 296; 14 L. D. 17; reversed, on other grounds, 72 O. S. 429.

Rapid Ry. Co. v. Cincinnati, etc., Ry., 48 O. L. B. 245.

See also Cleveland, etc., Co. v. Urbana, etc., Co., 5 C. C. n. s. 597; 16 C. D. 180 (1903).

Columbus, etc., Traction Co. v. Marriott, 47 O. L. B. 357 (Probate Court).

Rep. Atty. Gen. (1909-10) 261.

Under § 3762 permitting municipalities to require a railroad to light a portion of its track.

Ohio Electric Railway v. Ottawa, 85 O. S. 229 (1912); reversing, 13 C. C. n. s. 561; 22 C. D. 197 (1910).

Under § 8806 authorizing railroad companies to give assistance to other like companies. Trust Co. v. Railway, 18 N. P. n. s. 298 (1915).

An interurban railway can not, by amendment of its articles, acquire authority to construct and operate a commercial railroad. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1917, p. 1756.

When a "railroad." The law of negligence governing the standing on a platform of a moving interurban car outside of a municipality is the same as in the case of steam cars.

Electric St. R. Co. v. Lohe, 68 O. S. 101, 109, 110 (1903).

The construction of an interurban railroad on one side of a highway, outside of a municipality, for the transportation of passengers, freight and mail, is an additional burden on the highway similar to that imposed by steam railroads.

Schaaf v. Railway Co., 66 O. S. 215 (1902).

See Railway v. Poland, 10 N. P. n. s. 617; 21 L. D. 617 (C. P. 1910).

Weber v. Stark Electric Co., 13 L. D. 194 (1902).

In the public utilities commission acts an interurban railroad is classed as a "railroad." §§ 501, 614-2.

Is a "railroad" under G. C. § 540. H. V. Ry. Co. v. Commission, 107 O. S. 43 (1923).

In the grade crossing acts the term "railroad" includes interurban railroads. §§ 8874, 8897.

A commercial railroad does not become an interurban railway, as to any part of its business, by installing electric cars for passengers with frequent stops, when the train service is no more frequent than prior to electrification. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1915, p. 865.

Section 9118. (Occupancy and use of public highways.)

Such companies may occupy and use for their tracks, cars, necessary fixtures and appliances, the public highways outside of cities and villages with the consent of the public authorities in charge of or controlling such highways, and with the written consent of the majority, measured by the front foot, of the property holders abutting on each of such highways. (May 17, 1894, 91 v. 285, § 2; R. S. § 3443-9.)

Grant of franchise in public highway does not confer exclusive use of the portion of highway on which tracks are constructed. Fairechild v. Railway, 101 O. S. 261 (1920).

When an additional burden. An interurban railway, with T rails, built entirely on one side of a highway, between improved farms and the roadway, the company having authority to run an unlimited number of cars, for passengers, mail and freight, is an additional burden similar to that of a steam railroad.

Schaaf v. Cleveland, etc., Co., 66 O. S. 215 (1902).

Chestnut v. Columbus, etc., Ry., 15 L. D. 336 (1905); aff'd, no rep., 76 O. S. 567.

Miller v. Columbus Ry. Co., 13 L. D. 418 (1902).

An additional switch laid in the highway subsequent to construction of road is an additional burden.

Chambers v. Cleveland, etc., Co., 5 C. C. n. s. 298; 17 C. D. 193 (1904); aff'd, no rep., 73 O. S. 348.

Chestnut v. Columbus, etc., Ry., 15 L. D. 336 (1905); aff'd, no rep., 76 O. S. 567.

Consents, rights and remedies of abutting owners.

See note to § 9105.

Must give adequate service. An interurban railway may be compelled to furnish adequate service, so long as its franchise is not abandoned.

Ferguson v. Dayton, etc., Transit Co., 4 O. L. R. 750 (Railroad Commission 1907).

Crossing tracks of street, interurban or steam railroads, outside of municipalities.

See § 8834.

Duration of franchise when no time stipulated therein. See note to § 3714.

Assessment for street improvements. An interurban railway operating upon a public highway under a franchise is not subject to assessments for improvement of such highway as an owner of property abutting thereon. Railway Co. v. Scott, 101 O. S. 13 (1920).

Section 9118-1. (Crossings, other than steam railway. Petition.) Whenever it is deemed necessary by a majority of the directors of any such railway company to cross the streets, avenues, alleys, ways, or any part thereof, of any municipality, or any public highway outside of a municipality, whether the same be under the control of public authorities or a private company, or a person or persons, the council of such municipality, or the public officers or authorities owning or having charge of such highways outside of municipalities, shall have power to agree with such company as to the manner and mode of such crossing and the compensation to be paid therefor; if the parties fail to agree, such company may file its petition in the common pleas court of the county in which the proposed crossing is situated, and in such cause if the crossing be within a municipality, such municipality, shall be defendant; if the crossing be outside a municipality, the public authorities owning or having charge of such highway, shall be defendants. Summons shall be served and the rule days and the rights of the defendant to plead shall be the same as in civil actions in such court. Such petition shall set forth the action of the company declaring the necessity for crossing the highway and the inability of the company to agree with the council or other public officers or authorities owning or having charge of said highway; and the court of common pleas thereupon shall have jurisdiction of the parties and of the subject matter of the petition and may proceed to examine the matter offered by evidence, by reference to a master commissioner or otherwise, and upon the final hearing of said cause the court shall enter its decree fixing the manner and mode of such crossing and the compensation, if any, to be paid therefor by the company, and upon compliance with the terms of said decree the company shall have the right to construct and maintain said crossing in accordance with the order in said cause. (May 10, 1910, 101 v. 375.)

This section is constitutional. Rocky River v. Railway, 18 C. C. n. s. 354 (1911).

Section 9118-2. (Appropriation of real estate.) Where the tracks of any such road extend into or through any municipality and it is deemed necessary by such company to enter upon and use any private property within such municipality for the construction and maintenance of either passenger stations or freight depots to be used in the operation of such road, such company shall have the right to appropriate private property within municipalities for such purposes. (May 10, 1910, 101 v. 376.)

Section 9119. (Appropriation of property.) Street, interurban or suburban railroads using other than steam as motive power, when necessary may enter upon and use private property in the construction, alteration and operation of its road or any part thereof and for such purposes shall have all of the rights and powers of appropriation, outside of municipalities, that steam railroad companies possess. (R. S. Sec. 3443-10; May 10, 1910, 101 v. 322; May 10, 1902, 95 v. 538; May 17, 1894, 91 v. 285.)

An interurban railway must obtain a franchise before appropriating property.

S. E. Ohio, etc., Co. v. Diamond, etc., Co., 51 O. L. B. 421 (Probate Court).

The word "construction" in this section is not limited to the original building of the line, but applies where the road is relocated and reconstructed in conformity to the general route prescribed in its articles of incorporation. Reusch v. Traction Co., 19 C. C. n. s. 1; 24 C. D. 540 (1912); aff'd, no rep. 89 O. S. 456.

"Alteration" in this section includes relocation of the road. Reusch v. Traction Co., 19 C. C. n. s. 1; 24 C. D. 540 (1912); aff'd, no rep. 89 O. S. 456.

Pleading and proof.

See S. E. Ohio, etc., Co. v. Diamond, etc., Co., 51 O. L. B. 421.

Columbus, etc., Co. v. Cole, 47 O. L. B. 66.

Prior to amendment of this section it was held in several probate courts that interurban railways could not appropriate private lands, except where it was impossible to use a highway.

Columbus, etc., Ry. Co. v. Cole, 47 W. L. B. 547 (1902).

Columbus, etc., Ry. Co. v. Marriott, 47 W. L. B. 357 (1902).

Power to appropriate use of urban tracks.

See §§ 3779, 9108.

State v. C. & H., etc., Ry., 19 C. C. 79; 10 C. D. 418 (1899).

Section 9119-1. (Street, interurban, light, heat or power companies authorized to appropriate trees.) Street, suburban or interurban railroads using other than steam as motive power, and companies furnishing electricity for light, heat or power purposes, whenever necessary, in the alteration, operation or maintenance of electric high potential transmission lines and wires outside of municipalities, to protect the same from interference or injury that might be caused by trees or branches that may be located so near thereto that said trees or branches might by falling or otherwise come in contact with said wires, shall have the power to appropriate such trees or the branches thereof, except that in case of shade trees now or hereafter located in front of residences or along the highway, said companies may appropriate only such portions of the branches thereof that fail to clear wires located fifty feet from the ground. The powers of appropriation herein granted shall be exercised in the same manner and according to the same procedure as that provided for the appropriation of property by corporations generally. (106 v. 337.)

Section 9120. (Leases, purchases and traffic arrangements.) Such companies may lease, purchase, or make traffic arrangements with any other street railway company as to so much of its tracks and other property as is necessary or desirable to enable them to enter or pass through a city or village, upon the terms and conditions applicable to other street railways. Any existing street railway company, owning or operating a road shall receive the cars, freight, packages or passengers of any other road, upon the same terms and conditions as they carry for the general public. (May 17, 1894, 91 v. 286, § 4; R. S. Sec. 3443-11.)

This section is not intended as a limitation on § 9101.

Hamilton v. Railway, 5 N. P. 457; 8 L. D. 174.

Neither this section nor §§ 9130 to 9133 require an exchange of transfers between the urban and interurban railways, in the absence of an ordinance imposing such obligation.

Railway Co. v. Cincinnati, 75 O. S. 196 (1906); reversing, 3 N. P. n. s. 489; 16 L. D. 220.

Where new transmission lines are built by the lessee partly on railroad rights of way and partly on separate property, such separate property becomes an appurtenance to the contiguous railroad property, and all such transmission lines become fixtures and covered by after-acquired property clauses in mortgages of the lessor. Trust Co. v. Traction Co., 106 O. S. 577 (1922); s. c., 20 N. P. n. s. 219.

A street railway company making an agreement as authorized by statute, for the joint use of its tracks, is liable for negligence of the lessee or licensee thereon. This section does not provide exemption from such liability. Quigley v. Toledo Co., 89 O. S. 68 (1913).

Stock control of urban by interurban railway company; unfair contract for new equipment at expense of urban company. See Mansfield Co., 3 Ohio App. 253; 21 C. C. n. s. 95 (1914).

Rentals paid by one company to another can not be deducted from gross earnings in making excise tax returns under § 5418. Traction Co. v. State, 94 O. S. 24 (1916).

Carriage of freight. This section authorizes an urban street railway company to make a traffic agreement with an interurban railway for the carriage of freight.

State v. Dayton Traction Co., 64 O. S. 272 (1901); affirming, 18 C. C. 490; 10 C. D. 212.

A franchise authorizing the transportation of freight over streets, does not authorize the use of a street as a station for unloading freight.

Newark v. Ohio Electric Ry., 13 N. P. n. s. 487 (1912).

Traffic agreements. Where a city street railway company takes cars of an interurban company, at the terminus of the city company, and operates them on its own tracks, the interurban company retaining no control over the cars and there being no contract under § 9130 et seq., the cars become those of the city company and are subject to regulation by the city council. Stafford v. Railway, 20 C. C. n. s. 129 (1912).

An agreement of the kind last mentioned differs from the contract involved in Traction Co. v. State, 94 O. S. 24, and payments made by the interurban company to the city company may be deducted from gross earnings under § 5418, Opins. Atty. Gen. 1916, p. 1371.

Where, after consolidation of urban and interurban railroads, a portion of the interurban tracks were abandoned, and the interurban cars were operated over the tracks of the urban company, a perpetual easement attaches to the tracks so jointly used in favor of the interurban utility, and upon dissolution, a decree should be entered providing for perpetual joint traffic upon terms and conditions usual and customary. Trust Co. v. Traction Co., 106 O. S. 577 (1922); s. c., 20 N. P. n. s. 219.

Other traffic agreements. See Toledo, etc., Co. v. Toledo Traction Co., 17 C. C. 22; 9 C. D. 828 (1898).

Toledo, etc., Co. v. Toledo Traction Co., 15 C. C. 190; 8 C. D. 204 (1897).

Cincinnati v. Railway, 3 N. P. n. s. 489; 16 L. D. 220 (1905); reversed, 75 O. S. 196.

Power to appropriate tracks.

See §§ 3779, 9108.

State v. C. & H., etc., Ry., 19 C. C. 79; 10 C. D. 418 (1899).

"Terms and conditions."

See Cincinnati v. Railway, 13 N. P. n. s. 265 (C. P. 1912).

Section 9121. (Consolidation.) Such street railway companies may consolidate on the terms and conditions applicable to the consolidation of railroad companies. But no increase of fare shall be allowed on any street railway route by reason of such consolidation. (R. S. Sec. 3443-12; May 17, 1894, 91 v. 286, § 5.)

For lien of after-acquired property clause of mortgages given by constituent companies on property of consolidated company, see Trust Co. v. Traction Co., 106 O. S. 577; s. c., 20 N. P. n. s. 219.

Section 9121-1. (Authority to secure loan by mortgage.) Corporations organized for the purpose of owning or operating street, interurban or electric railroads may borrow money without regard to the amount of their capital stock, and issue their notes or coupon or registered bonds therefor, bearing any rate of interest authorized by law, and may secure the payment of the same by a mortgage or other instrument in writing upon their real or personal property or both. It shall be sufficient record of such mortgage or instrument, if it be recorded in the office of the recorder of deeds in each county wherein the real or personal property therein described is situated or employed. So recorded, it shall be a good and substantial lien upon all of such property, from the date of its record in each of such counties. (May 31, 1911, 102 v. 467.)

See §§ 8705 to 8709.

A purchaser of a street railway at judicial sale assumes the obligation of the original grantee of the franchise to operate the road. Gress v. Fort Loramie, 100 O. S. 35 (1919); reversing, 21 N. P. n. s. 81.

A mortgage by a constituent company covering after-acquired property, in the absence of countervailing reasons, will cover property acquired by the consolidated company, although the mortgage does not expressly cover property subsequently acquired by "successors" of the mortgagor. Property substituted by a lessee for mortgaged property removed may also come under the mortgage.

But the mortgage does not attach to property conveyed to the consolidated company by other constituent companies, on the consolidation, unless so agreed and expressed in the terms of consolidation. Trust Co. v. Traction Co., 106 O. S. 577 (1922); s. c., 20 N. P. n. s. 219.

Section 9122. (Regulations and powers.) Such companies shall be subject to the regulations provided for street railways and have all the powers, in so far as they are applicable, that other street railway companies possess. (May 17, 1894, 91 v. 286, § 6; R. S. Sec. 3443-13.)

Construed as showing a legislative intention to classify interurban railroads as street railways.

Ottawa Elec. Ry. Co. v. Ottawa, 85 O. S. 229 (1912).

See also Interurban Co. v. Cincinnati, 93 O. S. 108, 117.

The term "such companies" apparently refers to the companies mentioned in §§ 9115 and 9117.

Ottawa v. Electric Ry., 13 C. C. n. s. 562; 22 C. D. 197; reversed, 85 O. S. 229.

An interurban railway may construct an extension or branch within municipality.

Railway Co. v. Railway Co., 5 C. C. n. s. 583, 597; 16 C. D. 180 (1903); aff'd, no rep., 73 O. S. 364.

Right to change location to avoid dangerous grades.

Bickerstaff v. Steubenville, etc., Traction Co., 5 O. L. R. 539 (Railroad Commission, 1907).

See § 9115.

Section 9123. (Watchmen.) When street railways are operated by electricity, cable, compressed air, or motive power other than horses or mules, in a municipality, the council thereof by ordinance may require the owners or operators of such railways to place watchmen at street crossings, intersections or corners which such council deem dangerous; and also provide for the enforcement of such ordinances by penalties in the way of fine or imprisonment, or both, to be imposed upon the owner, officer, or operator of such railways, or by a penalty of not exceeding one hundred dollars per day, which may be recovered by such municipalities in a civil suit against the owners or operators of any such railway failing to place such watchman as is required. (R. S. Sec. 3443a; April 16, 1892, 89 v. 346.)

Where a traction company agreed to pay all expenses which might be "lawfully required" by the municipality or state in maintaining a flagman at a crossing, it was held not liable where the railroad company by agreement with the municipality stationed a flagman at the crossing in consideration of the repeal of a speed ordinance.

Rapid Transit Co. v. Erie R. Co., 7 C. C. n. s. 199; 18 C. D. 36 (1905).

Section 9124. (Repairs at crossings; stopping of cars at crossings.) When the tracks of two street railways cross each other or in any way connect at a common grade, when one or both such railways use other than horse power for propelling their cars, the crossings shall be made and kept in repair at the joint expense of the companies owning the tracks. All cars used on such railways must come to a full stop, not nearer than ten feet nor further than fifty feet from the crossing, and not cross until the way is clear. When two or more cars approach the crossing at the same time the car or cars on the road first built shall have precedence. (May 4, 1891, 88 v. 581, § 1; R. S. Sec. 3443-5.)

Street railway crossings over railroads. § 3775.

Section 9125. (Full stop when approaching steam railway crossing; exception.) When the tracks of a street railway cross the tracks of a steam railroad at grade, the company operating the line of street cars shall cause its cars to stop not nearer than ten (10) nor farther than fifty (50) feet from the crossing, and before they start to cross the steam railroad tracks, also cause a person in its employ to go ahead of the car or cars and see that the way is clear for the passage thereof and free from danger. Such street railway cars shall not proceed to cross until signalled to do so by such person so employed, or the way is clear for their passage over the tracks; provided, however, that when the tracks of a street or interurban railway cross the tracks of an industrial railroad or a switch track or a spur track of a steam railroad over which passenger cars or trains are not operated, the public utilities commission of Ohio may, upon application of the company owning or operating such street or interurban railway and notice to the company owning or operating such industrial railroad or switch track or spur track of the hearing of such application, permit such street or interurban railway to operate its cars over and across such industrial railroad or switch track or spur track without first causing its cars to stop or an employee to go ahead of the same, and may prescribe such duties upon the company owning or operating such industrial railroad or switch track or spur track for the protection of the public as shall be just and reasonable under the circumstances. (106 v. 541; 88 v. 582, § 2; R. S. Sec. 3443-6.)

This section does not relieve the motorman from the duty of exercising care.

Cincinnati, etc., Co. v. Holbrook, 12 C. C. n. s. 234 (1909).

Nor does it relieve the steam railroad from operating its gates so as to indicate to the motorman whether the track is clear.

Kopp v. B. & O. S. W. Ry., 6 C. C. n. s. 103; 1 C. C. n. s. 596 (1903); aff'd, no rep., 71 O. S. 484.

The requirements of this section apply to crossings having gates and a watchman as well as other crossings.

Street Ry. Co. v. Murray, 53 O. S. 570 (1895); affirming, 9 C. C. 291; 6 C. D. 413.

Where car is not stopped and gates are not lowered, both street railway company and railroad company are liable.

Toledo Cons., etc., Ry. v. Fuller, 17 C. C. 562; 8 C. D. 134 (1894).

Duty when car operated by one man only.

Street Ry. Co. v. Murray, 53 O. S. 570 (1895).

Collision, prima facie case.

See Toledo Cons., etc., Ry. v. Fuller, 17 C. C. 562; 8 C. D. 134 (1894).

Street Ry. Co. v. Murray, 53 O. S. 570 (1895).

When not a regular stopping place, conductors and motormen are not required as a matter of law, before starting, to look for passengers getting on or off the car.

Packard v. Toledo Traction Co., 22 C. C. 578 (1901).

Requirement of crossing frogs at crossings of street railways over railroads.

§ 3775.

Railway Co. v. Railroad Co., 21 C. C. 391; 12 C. D. 113 (1898);
aff'd, no rep., 64 O. S. 550.

Section 9126. (Forfeiture under preceding sections.)

Every person in charge of a street car or cars who wilfully fails to comply with the provisions of the two preceding sections, or to bring the car or cars he has in charge to a stop, or before the way is clear, or signaled so to do, causes them to cross the steam railroad tracks, shall be personally liable to a person injured by reason of such failure to a penalty of one hundred dollars, to be recovered by civil action at the suit of the state, in the court of common pleas of a county wherein such crossing or connection is. The company in whose employ such person is, as well as the person himself shall be liable in damages to any person or persons so injured in person or property. (May 4, 1891, 88 v. 582, § 3; R. S. Sec. 3443-7.)

Section 9127. (Consolidation of street railway companies.) When the lines or authorized lines of road of street railway corporations or companies meet or intersect, or conveniently can be operated from one power house, or a power house or houses owned, under lease or operated by one of such corporations or companies, or when such line of a street railway corporation or company, and that of an inclined plane railway or railroad company or corporation, or any railway operated by electricity conveniently may be connected, to be operated to mutual advantage, or when such line of a street railway corporation or company and that of an inclined plane railway or railroad company or corporation or the railway of any company operated by electricity conveniently can be operated from one power house or a power house owned, under lease or operated by one of such street railway corporations or companies or inclined plane railway or railroad companies or corporations or by any company or corporation, the railway of which is operated by electricity, such corporation or companies, or any two or more of them, if they are not competing lines, may consolidate themselves into a single corporation. (May 10, 1902, 95 v. 510, § 2; April 22, 1896, 92 v. 277; April 18, 1892, 89 v. 406; May 1, 1891, 88 v. 493; R. S. Sec. 2505b; Bates' Stats. § 3443-16.)

Consolidation of railroad companies.

See § 9025 et seq.

This section is constitutional.

Cincinnati St. R. Co. v. Horstman, 72 O. S. 93 (1905).

Rights of creditor of constituent company.

Greene v. Woodland Ave., etc., Co., 62 O. S. 67 (1900).

Rights of pledgee of stock of constituent company.

Railway Co. v. Bank, 68 O. S. 582 (1903).

A corporation formed by the consolidation of two or more companies holds the property acquired by such consolidation in its own right and not in trust for the constituent companies.

Greene v. Woodland Ave., etc., Co., 62 O. S. 67 (1900).

Agreement of consolidation may require constituent companies to enter consolidated company free of debt.

Railway Co. v. Bank, 68 O. S. 582 (1903).

Stock of constituent company issued after consolidation has been completed is spurious.

Worthington v. Cleveland City Ry., 9 C. C. n. s. 433; 19 C. D. 321 (1904); affirmed, 75 O. S. 626.

Competing lines. See Mansfield Co., 3 Ohio App. 253; 21 C. C. n. s. 95 (1914).

Section 9128. (To what companies provisions do not apply.) The above provision as to competing lines shall not apply to such companies or corporations whose lines are nearby or wholly situated in a city of this state, or road of any street railway company or corporation organized in this state is made, or is in process of construction to the boundary line of the state, or to a point within or without the state. Such corporation or company may consolidate its capital stock with that of any corporation or company, or corporations and companies in an adjoining state, the line or lines of whose road or roads have been made or are in process of construction to the same point or points, in the manner and with the effect provided by law for the consolidation of railroad companies. (May 10, 1902, 95 v. 510; April 22, 1896, 92 v. 277; April 18, 1892, 89 v. 406; May 1, 1891, 88 v. 493; R. S. Sec. 2505b; Bates' Stats. Sec. 3443-16.)

This section is constitutional.

Cincinnati St. R. Co. v. Horstman, 72 O. S. 93 (1905).

Section 9129. (Consolidation of electric road companies.)

When the lines of a road of any street railway or railroad company, organized under the laws of this state are constructed or in process of construction, and are or will be operated by electricity, and connect, or will or can be made to connect with the lines of another street railway or railroad company formed by the consolidation of companies organized under the laws of this state, or by the consolidation of a company organized under the laws of this state and a company organized under the laws of an adjoining state, whose lines of road are constructed or in process of construction, and are or will be operated by electricity, so that cars may pass over such lines of roads continuously, without break or interruption, such street railway or railroad company and such consolidated street railway company or railroad company, may consolidate themselves into a single company in the same manner and with like effect as is provided by law for the consolidation of railroad companies. Companies owning and operating competing lines of road shall not consolidate under the foregoing provisions, but this limitation does not apply to companies whose lines of road are nearly or wholly situated in a municipal corporation of this state. (May 6, 1904, 97 v. 570, § 2; Bates' Stats. Sec. 3443-16a.)

Section 9130. (Interurban road may contract for use of tracks in cities.) When a railway company is incorporated and organized under the laws of this state for the purpose of building, acquiring, owning, leasing, operating and maintaining a railway or railways to be operated by electricity or other motive power from one municipal corporation or point in the state, to another municipal corporation, corporations, or point in this state, it may agree with a street railway company, or companies, owning or operating a street railway or railways in such municipal corporation or corporations, and the street railway company or companies may so agree with such railway company that its passenger cars may be run and propelled over and along the track or tracks of such street railway company or companies, on such terms as may be agreed upon, in the manner, upon the conditions and for the length of time that the cars owned or operated by such street railway company or companies are operated in such municipal corporation or corporations. (R. S. Sec. 2505c; Bates' Stats. Sec. 3443-17; May 21, 1894, 91 v. 379.)

See note to § 9133.

Municipal franchise to interurban railway companies.

See §§ 3778, 3780.

A street railway company making an agreement, as authorized by statute, for the joint use of its tracks, is liable for negligence of the lessee or licensee thereon. This section does not provide exemption from such liability. Quigley v. Toledo R. & L. Co., 89 O. S. 68 (1913).

A clause in a contract for the use of tracks, exempting the city company from liability for loss or damage incurred by the operation of the interurban cars over its tracks, does not relieve the city company from liability for damages caused by the negligence of the city company. Bridge & Railway Co. v. Traction Co., 7 Ohio App. 241; 29 O. C. A. 5 (1916).

Appropriation of right to use tracks of city street railway.

See § 3779.

Neither this section nor § 9120 requires an exchange of transfers between the urban and interurban railways, in the absence of an ordinance imposing such obligation.

Railway Co. v. Cincinnati, 75 O. S. 196 (1906); reversing, 3 N. P. n. s. 489; 16 L. D. 220.

An interurban road can not, under a traffic agreement to run its own cars over the tracks of an urban railway, run the cars of a third company over such tracks.

Toledo, etc., Co. v. Toledo Traction Co., 17 C. C. 22; 9 C. D. 828 (1898).

See Toledo, etc., Co. v. Toledo Traction Co., 15 C. C. 190; 8 C. D. 204 (1897).

A common carrier, owning its tracks, is liable to its passengers for an injury received in a collision between its car and the car of another company which it admits to the joint use of its track, though the collision may result wholly from the negligence of the latter company.

Light Co. v. Montgomery, 81 O. S. 426 (1910).

An interurban railway entering a municipality over the tracks of another company is bound by the rules of that company, as to speed at crossings.

Interurban, etc., Co. v. Hines, 13 C. C. n. s. 168 (1910).

Section 9131. (Privileges and obligations of the street railway apply.) While they are running and being operated over and along the track or tracks of such street railway company or companies in such municipal corporation, the cars of such railway company shall be entitled to the privileges and subject to the obligations enjoyed and imposed by and upon the cars of such street railway company or companies owning or operating its cars in such municipal corporation. They shall be operated only by the motive power which operates the cars of such street railway company or companies. When authorized by not less than two-thirds in amount of the stockholders of each company proposing to enter into such arrangement and agreement, ratified by a majority of the directors and executed by the proper officers thereof, such arrangement and agreement shall give to such railway company full authority to operate its cars on the tracks of such street railway company or companies in such municipal corporation or corporations. (R. S. Sec. 2505c; Bates' Stats. Sec. 3443-17; May 21, 1894, 91 v. 379.)

Section 9132. (Not necessary to obtain additional grant.)

It shall not be necessary for such railway company, in case it uses in such municipal corporation or corporations, only the tracks of a street railway company or companies owning or operating a street railway or railways therein, to obtain an additional grant, franchise or right, except by such agreement with such street railway company or companies. (R. S. Sec. 2505c; Bates' Stats. Sec. 3443-17; May 21, 1894, 91 v. 379.)

Section 9133. (Fare charged within city.) The fare charged by such railway company for transporting passengers within such municipal corporation or corporations, shall not be greater than that fixed in the franchise or franchises held or owned by such street railway company or companies. When there is a public park or cemetery on the line of such railway, within one mile of, and owned by, such municipal corporation, such company for such fare must so transport passengers to and from such park or cemetery the same as if either was within the limits of such corporation. (R. S. Sec. 2505c; Bates' Stats. Sec. 3443-17; May 21, 1894, 91 v. 379.)

Where interurban cars are turned over to a city company, at its terminus, and are operated by the latter company on its tracks as its own cars, the interurban company having no control over the cars and there being no contract under §§ 9130-9133, the limitation of this section does not apply. Stafford v. Railway Co., 20 C. C. n. s. 129 (1912).

This section does not require an exchange of transfers between urban and interurban railways, in the absence of an ordinance imposing such obligation.

Railway Co. v. Cincinnati, 75 O. S. 196 (1906); reversing, 3 N. P. n. s. 489; 16 L. D. 220.

The tender of a five dollar bill in payment of a five cent fare, change being requested, is unreasonable.

Anthony v. Cincinnati Traction Co., 3 O. L. R. 377 (1905).

Where a franchise granted by a village provided for a reduced rate of fare in the event of its annexation to a neighboring city, the street railway may be enjoined from charging a fare in excess of the stipulated rate. Interurban Co. v. Cincinnati, 93 O. S. 108 (1915).

A street railway company making an agreement, as authorized by statute, for the joint use of its tracks, is liable for negligence of the lessee or licensee thereon. This section does not provide exemption from such liability. Quigley v. Toledo Co., 89 O. S. 68 (1913).

Section 9134. (Lease or purchase electric, or gas light, heat, power or fuel company.) A corporation or company maintaining and operating a street railway, or a railroad operated by electricity, may lease or purchase all the property, and all the franchises, rights, and privileges of any company organized for the purpose of supplying electricity, or natural or artificial gas, or both electricity and natural or artificial gas, for power, light, heat or fuel purposes, or which has been engaged in such business in whole or part in any municipality within this state, the latter being hereby vested with corresponding power to let or sell, upon such terms and conditions as may be agreed upon between the corporation and company. No such lease or purchase may be perfected until a meeting of the stockholders of each of the companies has been called for that purpose by the directors thereof, on thirty days' notice to each stockholder, at such time and place and in such manner as is provided for the annual meetings of the companies and the holders of at least two-thirds of the stock of each company in person or by proxy, at such meeting, or at any properly adjourned meeting assent thereto. (R. S. Sec. 2505e; Bates' Stats. Sec. 3443-18; May 6, 1902, 95 v. 390; April 19, 1898, 93 v. 139.)

A corporation may be organized to operate an interurban railway and to furnish electric light and power.

Rep. Atty. Gen. 1910-1911, p. 261.

See also, State v. Taylor, 55 O. S. 61 (1896).

Section 9135. (Dissenting stockholder.) A stockholder who refuses to assent to such lease or sale and so signifies by notice in writing to the lessee or purchaser within ninety days thereafter shall be entitled to demand and receive compensation in the manner provided for the compensation of stockholders dissenting from the sale or lease of a steam railroad. (R. S. Sec. 2505e; Bates' Stats. Sec. 3443-18; May 6, 1902, 95 v. 390; April 19, 1898, 93 v. 139.)

See §§ 8810 to 8812 and 8713 to 8717.

Section 9136. (Liabilities of the company leased or purchased.) A company so leasing or purchasing the property, rights and franchises of an electric light and power company, or natural or artificial gas company, or electric light and power and natural or artificial gas company, shall have all the rights, power and authority of the company whose property rights and franchises are so leased or purchased. But the liability of an electric light and power company, or natural or artificial gas company, or electric light and power and natural or artificial gas company, shall in no manner be affected by such lease or sale. (R. S. Sec. 2505e; Bates' Stats. Sec. 3443-18; May 6, 1902, 95 v. 390; April 19, 1898, 93 v. 139.)

Section 9137. (May acquire property of other companies.) A corporation or company organized for street railway purposes, may lease or purchase any street railroad, or railroads, or railroad operated as such and by electric power inclined railroad or railroads, together with all the property, and the franchises, rights and privileges respecting the use and operation of such railroad or railroads, situated or existing in whole or part in this state, constructed and held by any other corporation or company, corporations or companies, the latter being hereby invested with corresponding power to let or sell on such terms and conditions as are agreed upon between the corporations or companies. (R. S. Sec. 2505a; Bates' Stats. Sec. 3443-15; April 23, 1898, 93 v. 214; April 22, 1896, 92 v. 277; May 1, 1891, 88 v. 493.)

This section is constitutional.

Cincinnati St. R. Co. v. Horstman, 72 O. S. 93 (1905).

A company operating a street railway, under a license from another company, may be liable for injuries caused by a horse becoming frightened by flashes of light from defective electric appliances, although installed by such other company. Kirkbride v. Railway, 22 C. C. n. s. 495 (1907); aff'd, no rep. 79 O. S. 448.

Liability of purchaser for debts, contracts and liabilities of vendor. Pfisterer v. Traction Co., 89 O. S. 172; Taylor v. Niles, 2 Ohio App. 293, 21 C. C. n. s. 391.

Section 9138. (Agreements with other companies.) Two or more of such corporations or companies may enter into any agreement for their common benefit consistent with and calculated to promote the objects for which they were created. No such lease or purchase shall be perfected until a meeting of the stockholders of each of the companies has been called for that purpose by the directors thereof, on thirty days' notice to each stockholder at such place and in such manner, as is provided for annual meetings of the companies, and the holders of at least two-thirds of the stock of each company, in person or by proxy, at such meeting, or at any properly adjourned meeting, assent thereto. Any stockholder who refuses to assent to such lease or sale and so signifies by notice in writing to the lessee or purchaser within ninety days thereafter, shall be entitled to demand and receive compensation in the same manner and by such proceedings as are provided for the sale of stock of a stockholder dissenting to a sale or lease of a steam railroad. (R. S. Sec. 2505a; Bates' Stats. Sec. 3443-15; April 23, 1898, 93 v. 214; April 22, 1896, 92 v. 277; May 1, 1891, 88 v. 493.)

This section is constitutional.

Cincinnati St. R. Co. v. Horstman, 72 O. S. 93 (1905).

An agreement with the proprietor of a resort, located beyond municipal limits, to carry passengers thereto for a specified fare, while other companies are excluded from the resort, is valid.

Humphrey Co. v. Cleveland Ry. Co., 9 N. P. n. s. 609; 20 L. D. 510 (1910).

Section 9139. (Fare can not be increased.) When a lease or purchase is made as above provided, there shall be no increase of the existing rates of fare by reason thereof, nor shall any fare be charged upon any of the separate routes so leased or purchased in excess of the fare charged over such separate routes prior to the lease or purchase thereof. When a lease or purchase is made as herein provided, the fare charged for one continuous route or ride in the same general direction over all such leased or purchased lines within any municipal corporation, shall not exceed the maximum fare charged over any one of such lines prior to such lease or purchase. (R. S. Sec. 2505a; Bates' Stats. Sec. 3443-15; April 23, 1898, 93 v. 214; April 22, 1896, 92 v. 277; May 1, 1891, 88 v. 493.)

This section is constitutional.

Cincinnati St. R. Co. v. Horstman, 72 O. S. 93 (1905).

Remedy when excessive fares charged.

See State v. Toledo Ry. & Lt. Co., 3 C. C. n. s. 285; 13 C. D. 603 (1904); reversed, 73 O. S. 356.

Section 9140. (Powers of inclined plane railway company.) An inclined plane railway company may construct, operate, and maintain an inclined plane railway, for the conveyance of passengers and freight, or either, with such offices, depots, and other buildings as it deems necessary, and also establish and maintain a park or pleasure grounds, and for such purpose acquire and hold real estate. (R. S. Sec. 3444; April 12, 1876, 73 v. 229, § 2.)

Construed.

Cincinnati v. Cincinnati Inc. Plane Ry., 30 W. L. B. 321.

Louisville Trust Co. v. Cincinnati, 73 Fed. 716.

Louisville Trust Co. v. Cincinnati, 76 Fed. 296.

Section 9141. (How street crossings to be made.) When the part of the railway of such company which is operated by steam power crosses a public street or highway, it must pass either over or under such street or highway, and shall be constructed in a manner and at such distance above or below it as not to obstruct the ordinary use of the street or highway. (R. S. Sec. 3445; April 12, 1876, 73 v. 229, § 10.)

Section 9142. (Elevated railroads.) A city owning or having charge of any public road, street, alley, way, or ground of any kind, or any part thereof, may grant to any railroad company, street railroad company, suburban railroad company or interurban railroad company the right to construct, maintain and operate by electricity, any elevated railroad along and over such public road, street, alley, way or ground, except a public landing, or across them subject to existing laws concerning crossings, so far as they are applicable, and to erect and maintain therein the necessary tracks, piers, stays, supports and stations, and the approaches therefor, which stations shall be on a level with the track, and when necessary to construct tunnels for such railroad under such roads, streets, alleys, ways or grounds or to construct, maintain and operate by electricity any underground railroad, along and under such public roads, streets, alleys, ways or grounds, and to erect and maintain stations, stairways and approaches therefor, and also to construct suitable terminals and way stations. (R. S. Sec. 3283b; March 23, 1909, 100 v. 70; May 9, 1908, 99 v. 452.)

Section 9143. (Elevated structures and crossings must not obstruct travel. Subways must not impair streets nor prevent use of sewers, etc.) Such elevated structures and crossings shall be of such height and construction as not to prevent substantially the ordinary use of, and traffic upon, such roads, streets, alleys, ways, or grounds, whether by pedestrians, vehicles, street cars or otherwise, except temporarily when necessary in the construction of the elevated structures and crossings. Such tunnels for elevated railroads or subways for underground railroads shall be constructed as not to impair the stability of the roads, streets, alleys, or public grounds, or prevent the use of any sewers, street railway tracks and appliances, pipes, wires, and conduits used for any purpose in the streets, alleys, ways or grounds except temporarily when necessary in the construction of the tunnels or subways, except as hereinafter provided. And such elevated structures and crossings and such tunnels and subways shall be constructed in accordance with general plans approved by the director of public service of the municipality. All such work of construction shall be subject to the supervision and control of the director of public service. (May 29, 1911, 102 v. 129; R. S. Sec. 3283b; March 23, 1909, 100 v. 70; May 9, 1908, 99 v. 452.)

Section 9143-1. (Changes and removals. Filing of plans and specifications required. Approval, notice, hearing, bond. Director may modify or reject plans. Sewer, water pipe, etc., may be located in subway without compensation. Cost, damage and expense.) The council may grant to the company the right to move, change, elevate, depress, relocate and reconstruct at its sole expense any sewer, sewer connection, catch-basin, water pipe, water connection, natural or artificial gas pipes or connections, hydrants, conduits, pipes, wires, street railway tracks and appliances, poles, whether for street railway, electric lighting, heating, power, telegraph, telephone, signal service, or any other purpose, or any other obstruction, which may be encountered in the construction of the underground railroad.

Any such company shall before proceeding to move, change, elevate, depress, relocate, or reconstruct any such sewer, sewer connection, catch basin, water pipe, water connection, natural or artificial gas pipes or connections, hydrants, pipes, wires, conduits, poles and street railway tracks or appliances, or other obstructions, file with the director of public service of the municipality detailed plans and specifications for all of said work. No such work shall be commenced unless such plans and specifications shall first be approved by the director of public service of such municipality, after notice and hearing, and unless such company shall file with the director of public service a bond in such amount and with such sureties as the director of public service may determine, conditioned to indemnify and save harmless the owners of any such sewer, sewer connection, catch basin, water pipe, water connection, natural or artificial gas pipes or connections, hydrants, pipes, wires, conduits, poles or street railway tracks or appliances, and the owners of any other property situated in, on, under, or near any such road, street, alley, way, or public ground, from all cost and expense of such work and damages resulting from injuries done thereby. Such director of public service may change, modify or reject any such plans or specifications, and such work of construction shall be performed under the supervision and control of the director of public service.

If such plans and specifications shall locate any such sewer, sewer connection, catch basin, water pipe, water connection, natural or artificial gas pipe or connection, hydrants, pipes, wires, conduits, or any other structures within the gallery, subway or tunnel of such underground railroad, the owners of the same shall be entitled to use such space within such gallery, subway, or tunnel, without compensation for such use and occupancy, except a reasonable charge to defray the actual cost of maintenance; provided, however, that if any such sewer, pipe, conduit or other conductor shall be of greater capacity than that existing prior to the construction of such underground railroad, the underground railroad shall be entitled to charge for the increased capacity of such conductor and not otherwise. All cost, damage, and expense, incidental to the work of removing, supporting, readjusting and reconstructing any such sewer, sewer connection, catch basin, water pipe, water connection, natural or artificial gas pipes or connections, hydrants, pipes, wires, conduits, poles, street railway tracks or appliances, or other structures, and all cost of supervision by the city shall be borne by and paid for by such elevated or underground railroad. Nothing contained in this act shall authorize the permanent removal or exclusion from any such road, street, alley, way or ground of any such sewer, sewer connection, catch basin, water pipe, water connection, natural or artificial gas pipe or connections, hydrants, pipes, wires, conduits, poles, street railway tracks or appliances, and other structures, authorized to be located therein, except when suitable facilities for such services have been otherwise provided for therein, or to prevent the practical construction, repair, operation and use of the same. (May 29, 1911, 102 v. 179.)

Section 9143-2. (When the grant of such right and privileges deemed valid.) Any ordinance of any city purporting to grant the rights or privileges, or any of them, contained in this act to any company, and which grant has been accepted and on account thereof money has been expended in good faith, is hereby declared to be as valid and effective as if the power in said city to so grant such rights and privileges had been expressly enumerated in the general municipal corporation act. (May 29, 1911, 102 v. 180.)

Section 9143-3. (Right to lease space in tunnel or subway.) The council may authorize the company to lease space in its tunnel or subway, for the purpose of placing pipes, conduits, tubes and wires for artificial or natural gas, water, sewer, heating, telegraph, telephone, signal service, United States mail, electricity for light, heat and power purposes, to any company which has been duly authorized by the municipality to engage in and which company is actually engaged in the business in connection with which the use of such space is to be made; provided that such lease shall be made and such space occupied in such manner and on such terms and conditions, as the council may determine and approve. And the council shall have the right to place, or cause to be placed in such tunnel or subway any pipes, lines and conduits for any of its service, including those above named, without charge, except for cost of construction, provided that such placing shall not interfere with the company's use of the subway. (May 29, 1911, 102 v. 180.)

Section 9144. (Terms of grant.) Such grant shall only be made upon such terms and conditions as are agreed upon by the council of the city, and the company; and every such grant shall provide for the rate of fare within the limits of such municipality. (110 v. 70; R. S. Sec. 3283b; March 23, 1909, 100 v. 71; May 9, 1908, 99 v. 452.)

Section 9145. (Appropriation of property.) After such grant has been made such company may appropriate private property necessary for the use and enjoyment of the grant, including terminals and way stations, for the purpose of constructing and operating its road in the manner and upon the terms provided by law for the appropriation of private property by corporations. (R. S. Sec. 3283b; March 23, 1909, 100 v. 71; May 9, 1908, 99 v. 452.)

Section 9146. (Damages to other property.) Every company which constructs an elevated track upon or a tunnel or an underground railroad below such roads, streets, alleys, ways or grounds, shall be responsible for injuries done thereby to private or public property, lying upon or near such streets, alleys, ways or grounds, which may be recovered by civil action brought by the owner before the proper court at any time within two years from the completion of the road. (R. S. Sec. 3283b; March 23, 1909, 100 v. 71; May 9, 1908, 99 v. 452.)

Section 9147. (Purchase of road by city.) Every city making a grant as provided in the five next preceding sections, may provide in such grant, upon such terms and conditions as are agreed upon by the council of the city, and the company, for the ultimate purchase and ownership by the city of such road or any part thereof. (R. S. Sec. 3283c; May 9, 1908, 99 v. 453.)

Section 9148. (Company to notify authorities of acceptance or rejection of grant.) Every railroad, street railroad company, suburban railroad company or interurban railroad company, to whom a grant has been made as above provided shall notify in writing the authorities making the grant of its rejection or acceptance of the grant at a time fixed by them at the time of making the grant. If after a grant has been made as above provided, and accepted by any railroad, street railroad company, suburban railroad company or interurban railroad company, within sixty days after such acceptance there is filed with the mayor of the city making the grant a petition protesting against it and signed by such a number of the electors of the city qualified to vote at the last preceding general election, as equals ten per cent of the number of votes cast for mayor at the last preceding election for mayor, he shall certify such fact to the proper election officials. (R. S. Sec. 3283d; March 23, 1909, 100 v. 71; May 9, 1908, 99 v. 453.)

Section 9149. (Submission of grant to electors.) The officials in charge of such general election, in accordance with the statutes relating to elections, shall arrange, provide for and conduct the submission of such question to such electors. The question whether the grant shall be made shall be submitted to the electors of such city at the next succeeding general election occurring more than thirty days after the expiration of such sixty days. The ballots at such election if the grant be for the construction of elevated tracks shall read "Elevated Railroad Grant—Yes". "Elevated Railroad Grant—No". If the grant be for the construction of underground tracks they shall read "Underground Railroad Grant—Yes". "Underground Railroad Grant—No". If the grant be for the construction of partly elevated and partly underground tracks, they shall read "Elevated and Underground Railroad Grant—Yes", "Elevated and Underground Railroad Grant—No". If at such election a majority of the votes cast on such question be against such grant, it shall be ineffective and void. (R. S. Sec. 3283d; March 23, 1909, 100 v. 71; May 9, 1908, 99 v. 453.)

Section 9149-1. (Air brakes required on urban and inter-urban cars.) That from and after January 1, 1924, it shall be unlawful in the state of Ohio, for any corporation, company, person or persons owning or controlling the same, to operate, use or run or permit to be run, used or operated for carrying passengers or freight on an urban or inter-urban railroad or street car line, any car propelled by electricity, or any car, cars or train of cars drawn by any car or cars propelled by electricity not equipped, in addition to the hand brake in use on such car, cars or train of cars with an air or electric power brake so that the same can be operated and controlled by the motorman in charge of and operating such car, cars or train of cars.

It shall be the duty of the public utilities commission of Ohio to enforce this act. (109 v. 142; 101 v. 209.)

See Uncapher v. West, 100 O. S. 202 (1919), for evidence held insufficient to show that compliance with this section was "impossible".

Section 9149-3. (Electric railroads operating cars along third rail required to maintain fences, crossings and cattle-guards. Exception.) That every company or person having the control or management of an electric, interurban, or street railroad, which operates its cars by electricity conducted through or along a third rail, shall construct, or cause to be constructed, and maintain in good repair on each side of its right of way through which such third rail extends, a fence sufficient to turn stock; and such company or person shall cause to be maintained at every point where any public road, street, lane, or highway crosses such railroad, safe and sufficient crossings, and on each side of such crossings cattle-guards sufficient to prevent domestic animals from going upon said railroads; and every such company or person shall be liable for all damages sustained in person or property in any manner by reason, of any neglect or carelessness in the construction or maintenance of any such fence, crossing or cattle-guard, whether such damage be sustained from the contact of said domestic animals with said cars or from contact with, or by reason of, electricity passing through or along such third rail. Provided, however, that the provisions of this act shall not require the building and maintenance of such fence between the right-of-way of such electric, interurban, or street railway, and the right-of-way of any steam or electric railway where said rights-of-way are parallel and abut upon each other, and such steam or electric railway maintains a fence on the opposite side of its right-of-way. (April 25, 1913, 103 v. 197, § 1.)

Section 9149-4. (Abutting owner may construct and maintain fence, when.) If any such company or person neglect or refuse to construct and maintain such fence as provided in the preceding section, the owner of any land abutting on the line of the right-of-way of such person or company may construct the fence thereon as herein provided for, so far as his lands abut on the right-of-way; and when he has completed the same, he may present for payment, to the ticket agent of the company at the station nearest the track so fenced, an itemized statement of the expenses thereof; and if such person or company neglect or refuse for thirty days to pay such account, such land owner may recover the reasonable cost of such fence from the owner of the road, in any court of competent jurisdiction. (April 25, 1913, 103 v. 198, § 2.)

Section 9149-5. (Injury to domestic animal prima facie evidence of failure to comply with law.) If any domestic animal shall receive any injury or be killed upon such right-of-way, either by coming in contact with a moving car, or by reason of the electricity contained in or passing through a third rail of such railroad, such injury or death shall be prima facie evidence that the person or company operating said railroad has failed to comply with the requirements of this act. (April 25, 1913, 103 v. 198, § 3.)

Section 9149-6. (Center aisle, length of car in street or interurban cars required.) That it shall be unlawful for each and every street or interurban railroad company in said state, or its president, general manager, general superintendent, or other officer in charge of operation, to permit or cause to be operated in the state of Ohio any car for the carriage of passengers, or upon which passengers are carried, not having parallel with the tracks upon which such car is being operated a center aisle running the length of the car and suitable for quick and easy passage to and fro on the part of the employees of such company and the traveling public. (107 v. 602, § 1.)

Section 9149-7. (Certain officers deemed violators.) A violation of this act [§§ 9149-6 to 9149-10] shall be deemed a violation hereof by the president, general manager, general superintendent, or other officer in charge of operation, of any such company. (107 v. 602, § 2.)

Section 9149-8. (Fine and imprisonment.) Any violation of this act [§§ 9149-6 to 9149-10] shall be punishable with a fine of fifty dollars, coupled with imprisonment for not less than 10 days, nor more than thirty days, and each day's violation shall constitute a separate and distinct offense apart from violation on any other day or days. (107 v. 602, § 3.)

Section 9149-9. (Prosecution.) It shall be the duty of the prosecuting attorneys of the various counties to prosecute violations of this act. (107 v. 602, § 4.)

Section 9149-10. (When act shall take effect.) This act [§§ 9149-6 to 9149-10] shall go into effect on and after April 1, 1920. Provided, however, that on and after ninety days after the filing of this act with the secretary of state, it shall be unlawful to put into the service of any street or interurban railroad, within the state, any car or cars other than those said railroad companies now have in service, unless they be constructed and equipped as provided in this act. And beginning with April 1, 1917, said companies shall reconstruct and equip each year thirty-three and one-third per cent. of such of their cars as do not meet the requirements set out in this act, so that they will be in conformity with the said requirements, thus having by April 1, 1920, no cars in service that do not meet the requirements of this act. (107 v. 602, § 5.)

CHAPTER 11.

POLICEMEN.

- | | |
|--|---|
| § 9150. Commission for special policemen; fee required. | § 9154. Compensation. |
| § 9151. Oath of office; certified copy filed with clerk of courts; powers and liabilities. | § 9155. When powers cease. |
| § 9152. Power of police to enforce regulations and make arrests. | § 9156. When conductor a policeman. |
| § 9153. When police to wear badges. | § 9157. When conductor may eject passenger. |
| | § 9158. When conductor may arrest passenger. |
| | § 9159. Forfeiture for violation of two preceding sections. |

Section 9150. (Commissions for special policemen; fee required.) Upon the application of any bank or building and loan association, or of a company owning or using a railroad, street railroad, suburban or interurban railroad in this state, the governor may appoint and commission such persons as the bank, building and loan association or railroad company designates or as many thereof as he may deem proper, to act as policemen for and on the premises of such bank, building and loan association or railroad, or elsewhere, when directly in the discharge of their duties. Policemen so appointed shall be citizens of this state and men of good character. They shall hold office for three years, unless for good cause shown, their commission is revoked by the governor, or by the bank, building and loan association or railroad company, as provided by law. Not more than one such policemen shall be appointed for each five miles of a street, suburban or interurban railroad. A fee of five dollars for each commission, shall be paid at the time the application is made, and this amount shall be returned if for any reason a commission is not issued. (109 v. 40; R. S. Sec. 3427; April 24, 1904, 97 v. 392; February 18, 1885, 82 v. 51; R. S. 1880; March 18, 1867, 64 v. 60, §§ 1, 2.)

Constitutionality.

See Railway Co. v. Railroad Co., 30 O. S. 604 (1877).

A railroad policeman is not entitled to compensation from the public treasury under G. C. § 12385 for transporting prisoners to the workhouse. Rep. Atty. Gen. 1913, p. 319.

The right of railroad police to carry concealed weapons is conditioned upon their giving bond under G. C. § 12819. Rep. Atty. Gen. 1913, p. 1547; Opins. Atty. Gen. 1915, p. 1517.

The bond should be filed in the county in which the policeman's duties are chiefly performed. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1915, p. 1517. Compare Rep. Atty. Gen. 1914, p. 1.

A railway policeman is entitled to a reward offered by county commissioners for an arrest and conviction, where the offense charged does not concern the employer railway and was not committed on its premises. Rep. Atty. Gen. 1914, p. 107.

Section 9151. (Oath of office; certified copy filed with clerk of courts; powers; liabilities.) Before entering upon the duties of his office, each policemen so appointed shall take and subscribe an oath of office, which shall be endorsed on his commission. A certified copy of such commission shall be issued by the governor upon the payment of a fee of fifty cents for each copy so furnished, and, with the oath, shall be recorded in the office of the clerk of the common pleas court in the county in which such bank or building and loan association is located and in each county through or into which the railroad runs for which such policeman is appointed, and intended to act. Policemen so appointed and commissioned severally shall possess and exercise the powers, and be subject to the liabilities of policemen of cities in the several counties in which they are authorized to act while discharging the duties for which they are appointed. (109 v. 40; R. S. Sec. 3428; February 18, 1885, 82 v. 51; R. S. 1880; March 18, 1867, 64 v. 60, § 3.)

A railway police officer may make an arrest, without a warrant, for intoxication in a public place or for disorderly conduct. Such an arrest is not illegal and does render the railway company liable for false imprisonment.

Erie Railroad Co. v. Reigherd, 7 O. L. R. 485 (U. S. C. C. A. 1909).

A policeman appointed and commissioned under §§ 9150 and 9151 is a public officer, deriving his authority from the state, although his salary is paid by the railroad company; and his acts will be presumed to have been performed in his capacity as such until such presumption is overcome by sufficient evidence.

Railway Co. v. Fieback, 87 O. S. 254 (1912); reversing, 13 C. C. n. s. 369; 22 C. D. 74.

A railroad company is not liable for the wrongful acts of an officer, appointed and commissioned under §§ 9150 and 9151, while acting by virtue of such office, unless such wrongful acts occurred in the performance of an act which was outside of the public duties of a policeman, and which was authorized or ratified by such company.

Railway Co. v. Fieback, 87 O. S. 254 (1912); reversing, 13 C. C. n. s. 369; 22 C. D. 74.

Sternberger v. Railway, 24 N. P. n. s. 97 (1922).

G. C. § 3024, prohibiting police officers from receiving witness fees, applies to railroad policemen. Rep. Atty. Gen. 1912, p. 262.

Section 9152. (Power of police to enforce regulations and make arrests.) A company which avails itself of the provisions of the two preceding sections may make needful regulations to promote the public convenience and safety in and about its depots, stations, and grounds, not inconsistent with law, and print and post them conspicuously upon its depots or station buildings. Such policemen shall enforce and compel obedience thereto. The keeper of jails, lockups, or station-houses in such counties shall receive persons arrested for the commission of an offense against such regulations or the laws of the state, upon or along the railroad or premises of such company to be dealt with according to law. (R. S. Sec. 3429; March 18, 1867, 64 v. 60, § 3.)

Section 9153. (When police to wear badges.) Except while acting in the discharge of duty as a detective for such railroad, every such policeman when on duty as heretofore specified, in plain view, shall wear a metallic shield with the word "police" and the name of the railroad for which he is appointed inscribed thereon. (R. S. Sec. 3430; February 18, 1885, 82 v. 51; R. S. 1880; March 18, 1867, 64 v. 60, § 4.)

Section 9154. (Compensation.) The compensation of such policemen shall be paid by the company for which they respectively are appointed, and at such rates as may be agreed upon by the parties. (R. S. Sec. 3431; March 18, 1867, 64 v. 60, § 5.)

Section 9155. (When powers cease.) When a company no longer requires the services of a policeman so appointed, it may file a notice to that effect, under its corporate seal, attested by its secretary, in the several offices where the commission of such policeman is recorded, which shall be noted by the clerk upon the margin of the record where the commission is recorded, and thereupon the power of such policeman shall cease. (R. S. Sec. 3432; March 18, 1867, 64 v. 60, § 6.)

Section 9156. (When conductor, ticket agent and special policeman are police officers.) The conductor of every train carrying passengers, and the ticket agent and special policemen employed in or about an interurban or steam railway station are hereby invested with the powers, duties and responsibilities of police officers while on duty on such train, or on such car or cars, or in or about such interurban or steam railway station, and may wear the badge of a special policeman. (108 (Pt. 1) v. 136; R. S. Sec. 3433; 97 v. 84; 73 v. 166, § 1.)

See note to § 9157.

Section 9157. (When conductor may eject passenger.) When a passenger is guilty of disorderly conduct, or uses obscene language, or plays a game of cards or chance for money or other thing of value, on a passenger train or the car or cars of an interurban railroad carrying passengers, the conductor of such train or car or cars shall stop his train, car or cars at the place where such offense is committed, or at the next stopping place therefor, and eject such passenger from the train or car or cars, using only such force as may be necessary. The conductor may command the assistance of employes of the company, person, firm or corporation owning or operating such road or roads and of the passengers on such train, car or cars, to assist in such removal. But before doing so he shall tender to the passenger such proportion of the fare he paid as the distance he then is from the place to which he paid fare bears to the whole distance for which his fare is paid. (R. S. Sec. 3434; 97 v. 84; 73 v. 166, § 2.)

Ejection from train for refusal to pay fare.

See note to § 8977.

The expulsion of a person may be at a place other than a railroad depot, or usual stopping place, provided care is taken not to expose him to serious injury or danger.

Railroad Co. v. Skillman, 39 O. S. 445 (1883).

Whether it is due and proper care to attempt to remove a person from a car, while the same is in motion, is a question of fact for the jury and not of law for the court.

Healey v. City, etc., R. R. Co., 28 O. S. 23 (1875).

Liability of company.

See § 9158.

The provisions of §§ 9156 and this section are for the purpose of enabling a railroad company to protect other passengers as well as to protect the property of the company.

B. & O. Ry. v. Reed, 12 C. C. n. s. 177; 21 C. D. 521 (1909).

A railroad company is liable for an assault by a conductor upon a passenger whose conduct is peaceable and who is not violating any of the rules of the company.

B. & O. Ry. v. Reed, 12 C. C. n. s. 177; 21 C. D. 521 (1909).

Traction Co. v. Graybill, 8 C. C. n. s. 469; 19 C. D. 95 (1906).

When the force used to eject amounts to wanton assault, the fact as to whether the plaintiff was rightfully or wrongfully upon the train is not an element in the question of mere recovery.

Toledo, etc., Ry. Co. v. Marsh, 17 C. C. 379 (1898); 9 C. D. 548.

Cincinnati, etc., R. R. Co. v. Boyer, 18 C. C. 327 (1897); 10 C. D. 199.

Where one is wrongfully ejected from a railway train, even in the absence of use of excessive force by the servants of the railroad company, and whether or not the relation of the parties originated in contract, he may seek his remedy as for tort.

Toledo, etc., Ry. Co. v. Marsh, 17 C. C. 379 (1898); 9 C. D. 548.

See Pittsburg, etc., Ry. Co. v. Reynolds, 55 O. S. 370 (1896).

Complaints from fellow passengers, made at the time, as to the conduct of the person ejected are admissible.

United Power Co. v. Matheny, 81 O. S. 204.

Damages. Where a person is wrongfully ejected, it is error to charge that he can only recover the price of the ticket, and for the labor of walking to the place of destination. The jury may in such a case take into consideration the place where the plaintiff was left, the circumstances under which it was done, the humiliation, disgrace, and injury to his feelings, in having the train stopped and being compelled to leave the coach and train in a public manner.

Lake Shore, etc., Ry. Co. v. Teed, 14 C. C. 356 (1895); 6 C. D. 339.

Fright and terror as elements of damage.

See Traction Co. v. Rosnagle, 84 O. S. 310.

Punitive damages may be recovered when the acts of the conductor are malicious or wanton.

B. & O. Ry. v. Reed, 12 C. C. n. s. 177; 21 C. D. 521 (1909).

Traction Co. v. Graybill, 8 C. C. n. s. 469; 19 C. D. 95 (1906).

But this doctrine being capable of great practical abuse, the giving it in charge to the jury in a case clearly not warranting its application, tends to mislead them; and where, in such a case, a verdict for damages is obviously exorbitant, it is error in the court to refuse to set it aside, and award a new trial.

Pittsburg, etc., R. R. Co. v. Slusser, 19 O. S. 157 (1869).

See Atlantic, etc., Ry. Co. v. Dunn, 19 O. S. 170 (1869).

United Power Co. v. Matheny, 81 O. S. 204.

Words of provocation may be considered in mitigation of punitive but not compensatory damages.

Railway Co. v. De Pascale, 70 O. S. 179 (1904).

Section 9158. (When conductor may arrest passengers.)

When a passenger is guilty of an offense on a passenger train or the car or cars of an interurban railroad carrying passengers, the conductor of such train, car or cars, may arrest and take him before a magistrate having cognizance of such offense, in any county in which such train, car or cars runs, and file an affidavit before such magistrate, charging him with the offense. But in no case shall the liability of a railroad company for damages caused by the conduct of its conductor be affected by the provisions of this and the next preceding section. (R. S. Sec. 3435; April 15, 1904, 97 v. 84; April 11, 1876, 73 v. 166, § 3.)

Section 9159. (Forfeiture for violation of two preceding sections.) A conductor having charge of a passenger train or of the car or cars of any interurban railroad carrying passengers within this state, who wilfully neglects his duty as required by the two preceding sections, or fails to use all the means in his power to carry out their requirements, shall be deemed guilty of negligence of official duty, and on conviction thereof, before any court of competent jurisdiction, shall be fined not less than five nor more than twenty-five dollars. (R. S. Sec. 3436; April 15, 1904, 97 v. 84; April 11, 1876, 73 v. 166, § 4.)

PART XVIII.

PUBLIC SERVICE CORPORATIONS OTHER THAN RAILROADS

- CHAPTER 1. Union Depot.
- CHAPTER 2. Telegraph and Telephone.
- CHAPTER 3. Ship-Canal.
- CHAPTER 4. Turnpike or Plankroad.
- CHAPTER 5. Bridge.
- CHAPTER 6. Gas and Water.

CHAPTER 1.

UNION DEPOT COMPANIES.

- | | |
|--|--|
| § 9160. Articles of incorporation. | § 9167. Liabilities. |
| § 9161. What articles shall specify. | § 9168. Certain laws applicable to company. |
| § 9162. Where filed and recorded; certified copy evidence of existence; powers and privileges. | § 9169. Power to borrow money and mortgage property. |
| § 9163. How stock owned and powers. | § 9169-1. Interurban depot and terminal companies. |
| § 9164. Directors. | § 9169-2. Powers. |
| § 9165. By-laws, rules and regulations. | § 9169-3. Powers. |
| § 9166. Authority to arrest. | § 9169-4. Charges. Maximum charge. |
| | § 9169-5. Power to borrow money. |

Section 9160. (Articles of incorporation; powers under.)

The presidents of two or more railroad companies running railroads to the same city, or village, by the consent and under the direction of their respective boards of directors, or any number of persons, not less than five, a majority of whom shall be residents of this state, may file articles of incorporation in the office of the secretary of state for the purpose of purchasing or leasing depot grounds, and locating, constructing and maintaining a common or union station house, passenger or freight depot, or both, and terminal and connecting tracks for the use of steam railroads, or of both steam and electric railroads. Such company may acquire such depot grounds, structures, terminal and connecting tracks, by lease or otherwise. Such company may also acquire, by lease, purchase or otherwise, and may construct, maintain and operate in connection with its terminals and station, a terminal railroad with two or more tracks connecting the railroads of one or more companies, and may also construct and maintain warehouses, stores, office buildings, hotels and other structures for the accommodation of the public, and may operate or lease said depot grounds, union station house, passenger or freight depot, tracks, terminal railroad, warehouses, stores, office buildings, hotels or other structures, or any part thereof. (108 (Pt. 2) v. 1141; 106 v. 317; 101 v. 171; R. S. Sec. 3446; 65 v. 63, § 1; S. & S. 122.)

A railroad company is authorized by G. C. § 9163 to acquire and hold stock in a union depot company and in a union railroad connecting the companies using the depot.

State v. Railway Co., 12 C. C. n. s. 49, 57; 21 C. D. 175 (1909).

Mannington v. Railway, 8 O. L. R. 451, 473; 183 Fed. 133; 16 O. F. D. 522 (U. S. C. C. 1910).

A union depot company, organized under this chapter may grant to a transfer company the exclusive right to use a designated portion of its depot grounds for the purpose of standing its vehicles and soliciting thereon the patronage of incoming passengers.

A rule of the depot company is reasonable which excludes therefrom others engaged in a like business, except for the purpose of delivering or receiving passengers who have previously employed them, so long as the transfer company furnishes adequate service and does not charge more than others.

State v. Depot Company, 71 O. S. 379 (1904).

Snyder v. Depot Company, 19 C. C. 369; 10 C. D. 645 (1899); reversing 7 N. P. 64; 9 L. D. 631 (1899).

State v. Brown, 7 N. P. 133; 10 L. D. 28.

Donovan v. Penna. Co., 199 U. S. 279 (1905).

Section 9161. (What articles shall specify.) The articles of incorporation shall specify:

1. The name assumed by such company;
2. The names of the companies, when the presidents of such companies incorporate under this act [§§ 9160 to 9169], and the city or village where such depot, terminals, connection tracks and structures to be operated in connection therewith are to be constructed;
3. The amount of capital stock necessary to obtain a site and construct, maintain and operate such depot, terminals, tracks and other structures;
4. When such company shall be incorporated by individuals as herein provided, the organization thereof shall be in the manner provided by law for the creation of corporations generally. (106 v. 317; 101 v. 171; R. S. § 3447; April 3, 1868, 65 v. 63, § 1; S. & S. 122.)

Section 9162. (Where filed and recorded; certified copy evidence of existence; powers and privileges.) Such articles, signed by the presidents in behalf of the railroad companies, with the corporate seals of the companies annexed thereto, or any number of persons, not less than five, a majority of whom shall be residents of this state, shall be forwarded to the secretary of state, who shall record and preserve them in his office. A copy thereof, duly certified by him, shall be evidence of the existence of such company; and thereafter it may contract and be contracted with, sue and be sued, locate and acquire rights of way and depot grounds and terminals, and appropriate so much land as is deemed necessary for such depot, tracks and terminals, and shall have all the powers given to railroads by the laws of this state, for the purpose of acquiring, constructing and operating its depot, tracks and terminals. Such company shall not be subject to the provisions of sections 9169-1 to 9169-4, both inclusive, of the General Code. (106 v. 318; 101 v. 171; R. S. § 3447; April 3, 1868, 65 v. 63, § 1; S. & S. 122.)

Section 9163. (Use of streets, alleys, etc. Filing of maps showing construction. Agreement and acceptance.) The companies whose boards of directors authorize the filing of the articles of incorporation, or assent thereto, shall each be held to own and be liable to pay an equal proportion of the capital stock, or when such union depot and terminal companies are organized by any number of persons, not less than five, the stock thereof may be acquired and held by such railroad companies as agree to use said union depot and terminals, in such proportions as said railroad companies may agree upon, and the provisions of the law authorizing railroad companies to enter upon and appropriate lands for depots, work shops, side tracks and materials therefor, shall be applicable to such union depot company, whether organized by the presidents of two or more railroad companies or by not less than five individuals, as provided in this chapter; and any municipality in which such company is located, owning or having charge of any public road, street, alley, way or ground of any kind, except a public landing, may grant to such union depot and terminal company the right to construct, maintain and operate by elevated, surface and underground tracks, so far as may be necessary to carry out the purpose of said union depot and terminal company, along, over and under said public roads, streets, alleys, ways or grounds, subject to existing laws concerning crossings so far as the same may be applicable, and to erect and maintain therein the necessary tracks, piers, stays, supports and stations, and the approaches for the same, and also to construct suitable terminals and way stations; provided that before making such grant said union depot and terminal company shall file with the city or village, maps showing the location and character of the construction, and said grant shall provide for such manner of construction so that the ordinary use of and traffic upon said roads, streets, alleys, ways or grounds, whether by pedestrians, vehicles, street cars or otherwise, except temporarily when necessary in the construction of such structure, shall not be interfered with; and said grant shall further provide that any tunnel construction shall not impair the stability of said roads, streets, alleys, ways or grounds, or prevent the use of any sewers, water pipes, gas pipes, and conduits used for such purposes, or for telephone or telegraph purposes in said streets, alleys, ways or grounds, except temporarily when necessary in the construction of said tunnels.

Said grant can only be made upon such terms and conditions as are agreed upon by the council of the city and the company; and said grants shall provide for its acceptance by such union depot and terminal company within the time to be fixed by the council of the municipality. (109 v. 78; 101 v. 171; R. S. § 3448; 65 v. 63, § 2; S. & S. 122.)

A railroad company may own stock in a union depot company.

State v. H. V. Railway Co., 12 C. C. n. s. 49, 57; 21 C. D. 175 (1909).

Section 9164. (By-laws, rules and regulations.) The president of each railroad company which enters into such arrangement shall, ex officio, be a director in the union company, unless the board of directors of such company appoints some other person as director; or when such union depot and terminal companies are organized by any number of persons, not less than five, the board of directors of such companies shall be elected by the stockholders. All questions which affect the pecuniary liabilities and expenditures, the election of officers, appointment of agents and employes, shall be regulated by the by-laws, rules and regulations of such companies, which shall not be inconsistent with the charter of the company and the general laws of the state. The board shall keep a record of its proceedings which shall be open to the inspection of the stockholders. (May 7, 1910, 101 v. 172; R. S. § 3449; April 3, 1868, 65 v. 63, § 3; S. & S. 122.)

Section 9165. (By-laws, rules and regulations.) The board may pass by-laws, rules, and regulations for its government, not inconsistent with the charters of the companies and for the regulation of the depot, depot grounds, and the business thereof. It shall appoint such officers and agents as are necessary; and adopt, and post conspicuously in the passenger depot, such rules and regulations as will control the conduct of all runners, solicitors, hackmen, and drivers of vehicles. (R. S. § 3450; April 3, 1868, 65 v. 63, § 3; S. & S. 122.)

A union depot company may grant to a transfer company the exclusive right to use a designated portion of its depot grounds for the purpose of standing its vehicles and soliciting thereon the patronage of incoming passengers. A rule of the depot company is reasonable which excludes therefrom others engaged in a like business, except for the purpose of delivering passengers or receiving passengers who have previously employed them, so long as the transfer company furnishes adequate service and does not charge more than others.

State v. Depot Co., 71 O. S. 379 (1904).

Snyder v. Depot Co., 19 C. C. 369; 10 C. D. 645 (1899).

Donovan v. Penna. Co., 199 U. S. 279 (1905).

A city ordinance prohibiting hackmen from soliciting patronage on any railroad platform or railroad ground is a reasonable and proper regulation.

Moerder v. Fremont, 19 C. C. 394 (1899); 10 C. D. 501.

See State v. Brown, 7 N. P. 133; 10 L. D. 28 (1899).

But a city ordinance making it unlawful for the driver of a vehicle to permit his vehicle to stand in front of a designated station "unless the permission to stand has been granted by the person having the supervision over said passenger station" is invalid. Cincinnati v. Cook, 107 O. S. 223 (1923).

Section 9166. (Authority to arrest.) The officers and agents of the company shall have the same authority to arrest and bring to justice pickpockets, thieves, and persons who violate the public peace, or who violate any rules and regulations so posted, and persons who commit crimes and misdemeanors on the depot grounds, as by law constables possess within their respective townships. (R. S. Sec. 3450; April 3, 1868, 65 v. 63, § 3; S. & S. 122.)

Section 9167. (Liability of company.) The company controlling and operating such union depot and terminal property shall be liable to the public and persons who contract with such company, for all contracts made and damages caused by it, and for all damages, costs, and expenses which arise from the fault or neglect of its officers and employees. (May 7, 1910, 101 v. 173; R. S. § 3451; April 3, 1868, 65 v. 63, § 4; S. & S. 123.)

Section 9168. (Certain laws applicable to company.) All laws for the protection of railroads and their property, and relating to or enforcing the duties and obligations of officers, agents, and employes of railroad companies to the public and to railroad companies, or to either, shall be applicable to the railroad tracks, property, officers, agents, and employes of such union company. (R. S. Sec. 3452; April 3, 1868, 65 v. 63, § 5; S. & S. 123.)

Section 9169. (Power to borrow money and mortgage property.) Any such company may borrow money for the purpose of raising means to carry out the powers conferred by the law authorizing the incorporation of union depots, without reference to the amount of stock of such company, and also issue coupons or other bonds payable to bearer, bearing interest not exceeding the highest contract rate of interest allowable in this state at the time, to be payable semi-annually; it also may mortgage its franchises, property and revenues of every kind, then owned or subsequently acquired, to secure the payment of such loan and interest, or of such bonds and interest; the stockholders thereof may jointly and severally guarantee the payment of any notes or bonds the company lawfully issues, and it may dispose of the same at such rate of premium or discount as the directors deem best for its interests, and it shall be sufficient to record any such mortgage securing such loan or bonds in the real estate records of the county where the depot and tracks are constructed. (109 v. 79; 101 v. 173, R. S. § 3453; 92 v. 118; 65 v. 191, § 1; S. & S. 123.)

UNION INTERURBAN TERMINALS.

Section 9169-1. (Depot company organization.) Any five or more persons, the majority of whom are citizens of the state of Ohio, may become a body corporate for the purpose of constructing, maintaining and operating union electric interurban terminals and depots and connecting tracks. Such companies may be organized in the manner provided by law for the creation of corporations generally. (May 7, 1910, 101 v. 168.)

Section 9169-2. (Powers.) Such companies shall have power to appropriate private lands for the purpose of connecting their main tracks, terminals and depots with their own and the tracks of any other interurban electric railway company; for acquiring depot sites; for the construction of main tracks to avoid dangerous or difficult curves or grades or unsafe or unsubstantial grounds or foundations, or to extend or shorten their railway lines. The power to appropriate property herein provided for, shall be exercised in the manner provided for the exercise of such power by railroad companies. (May 7, 1910, 101 v. 168.)

Section 9169-3. (Powers.) Such companies shall have power to receive grants from the council of a municipality for the use of its streets or alleys upon the same terms as street railways and said grant shall continue as long as the grants and renewal or reletting thereof to any interurban or street railway connecting with the same; to construct, maintain and operate railway lines upon the streets or alleys of a municipality to connect its depot with other street or interurban railways; to build, keep, maintain and operate union electric interurban terminals and depots for electric cars and trains; to contract for the use of their tracks for the operation of the cars of any interurban, street or other electric railway company and for furnishing them terminal depot facilities; and any interurban, street or other electric railway company shall have power to contract with such union interurban terminal and depot company for the use of their tracks and for terminal depot facilities. (May 7, 1910, 101 v. 168.)

Section 9169-4. (Maximum charge.) All charges made by such union interurban and depot companies for the use of their tracks and terminal depot facilities shall be on the same basis against each company and no preference in charges shall be given one company over another.

In no event shall such union interurban terminal and depot company charge any interurban street, or other electric railway company, for the use of the passenger terminal station to exceed one cent for each passenger hauled by such companies within the municipal limits. (May 7, 1910, 101 v. 168.)

Section 9169-5. (Power to borrow money.) Such company may borrow money for the purpose of raising means to carry out the powers conferred upon it by law without reference to its capital stock, and issue its notes or coupon or registered bonds therefor, bearing any rate of interest authorized by law, and secure the payment of the same by a mortgage of its real or personal property, or both. (May 7, 1910, 101 v. 168.)

CHAPTER 2.

TELEGRAPH AND TELEPHONE COMPANIES.

- | | |
|---|--|
| § 9170. Powers of companies. | § 9185. Transmitting and delivery of messages. |
| § 9170-1. Use of highway. | § 9186. Transmission of a forged dispatch. |
| § 9171. May acquire or construct other lines. | § 9187. Removal of telegraph structures. |
| § 9172. May appropriate land. | § 9188. Company may appropriate other land. |
| § 9173. Limitation of authority to appropriate. | § 9189. When another corporation may enforce repairs. |
| § 9174. Land held by another corporation. | § 9190. When companies may consolidate. |
| § 9175. Land held by a railroad company. | § 9191. Chapter applies to telephone companies. |
| § 9176. Limitation. | § 9192. Electric light, power and automatic package carrier companies. |
| § 9177. Land lying in more than one county. | § 9193. Must have consent of municipality. |
| § 9178. Appropriation proceedings by telegraph companies. | § 9194. Any penalty cumulative. |
| § 9179. Compensation only for damages. | § 9195. Powers of electric light and power companies. |
| § 9180. May construct lines any place that will not incommode the public. | § 9196. Prior contracts declared valid. |
| § 9181. Taxation. | § 9197. Ordinances, validity of. |
| § 9182. Must receive and transmit dispatches of other lines. | § 9198. Consent, by whom to be given. |
| § 9183. When company to forward dispatches. | |
| § 9184. When agent to indorse dispatch. | |

Section 9170. (Powers of companies.) A magnetic telegraph company may construct telegraph lines, from point to point, along and upon any public road by the erection of the necessary fixtures, including posts, piers and abutments necessary for the wires; but shall not incommode the public in the use thereof. (R. S. Sec. 3454; May 1, 1852, 50 v. 274, § 47; S. & S. 299.)

This chapter applies to telephone companies, § 9191.

Application of chapter (except §§ 9178 and 9179) to electric light, power and automatic package carriers, see § 9192.

Telegraph, telephone and electric light companies are public utilities (§§ 614-2, 614-3) and are subject to the jurisdiction of the public utilities commission (§ 614-3).

Powers of telegraph, telephone, etc., companies. A telegraph company is not authorized by U. S. Rev. Stats., §§ 5263-5268, to use the streets of a municipality for the installation of a district telegraph and messenger system.

Toledo v. Telegraph Co., 107 Fed. 10 (C. C. A. 1901).

A municipality has no power to fix rates to be charged by a telephone company for service. Nor has the probate court jurisdiction under § 9178 to fix such rates.

Farmer v. Telephone Co., 72 O. S. 526 (1905).

State v. Telephone Co., 72 O. S. 60 (1905).

Macklin v. Telephone Co., 1 C. C. n. s. 373; 14 C. D. 446 (1902), aff'd, 70 O. S. 507.

State v. Telephone Co., 14 C. C. 273; 7 C. D. 536 (1897).

Schedule of rates are required to be printed and filed with the public utilities commission, §§ 614-16 to 614-620.

Rates must be reasonable, §§ 614-12 to 614-14.

Power of public utilities commission to fix rates, see §§ 614-21 to 614-23.

Construction of lines in streets and highways.

Within municipalities. Power to occupy the streets of a municipality by a telephone or telegraph company is derived from the state by virtue of § 9170 et seq., and not from municipal authorities.

Farmer v. Telephone Co., 72 O. S. 526 (1905).

Telephone Co. v. Cincinnati, 73 O. S. 64, 81 (1905).

But such right to occupy streets is conditioned upon the company's agreeing with the municipality as to the mode of use; or, failing to agree, upon an order of the probate court under § 9178.

State v. Telephone Co., 11 C. C. 55; 5 C. D. 311 (1895). (For subsequent opinion in same case see 14 C. C. 273; 7 C. D. 536 (1897).)

Penalty for stringing wires without consent of municipality, see § 12644.

U. S. Rev. Stats., § 5263 et seq., do not authorize a telegraph company to construct its lines in streets without consent of the municipality.

Toledo v. Telegraph Co., 107 Fed. 10 (C. C. A. 1901); s. c., 121 Fed. 734 (C. C. A. 1903); 103 Fed. 746; 44 W. L. B. 238 (C. C. 1900).

See Telegraph Co. v. Railway, 94 Fed. 234; 10 O. F. D. 94 (C. C. 1899).

Telegraph Co. v. Penna. Railroad, 195 U. S. 540 (1904).

U. S. Rev. Stats., § 5263, is permissive only and is not intended to interfere with the proper control and regulation of highways by the states, counties or municipalities having them in charge.

Ganz v. Telegraph Co., 140 Fed. 692 (C. C. A. 1905).

Daily v. State, 51 O. S. 348 (1894).

The right of a telegraph or telephone company to construct its line in a street is subject to the limitation that such use of the street "shall not incommode the public in the use thereof."

Ganz v. Telegraph Co., 140 Fed. 692 (C. C. A. 1905).

Daily v. State, 51 O. S. 348 (1894).

Monahan v. Telephone Co., 7 N. P. 95; 9 L. D. 532 (C. P. 1898).

Underground conduits, see § 9198 and note.

A provision in an agreement between a municipality and a telephone company, fixing the rates for telephone service, is not binding on the telephone company, although the company thereby obtained a benefit which it would not have otherwise obtained in a mode of use of the streets.

Farmer v. Telephone Co., 72 O. S. 526 (1905).

Macklin v. Telephone Co., 1 C. C. n. s. 373; 14 C. D. 446 (1902); (affirmed, Findley v. Telephone Co., 70 O. S. 507).

But where the franchise includes a right to use underground conduits as well as an overhead system, telephone rates may be regulated in the franchise ordinance. Columbus v. Telephone Co., 13 Ohio App. 232, 28 O. C. A. 102 (1917); Columbus v. Commission, 103 O. S. 79 (1921).

Refusal of a telephone company to permit the municipality to fix its rentals is not a failure of the company to agree upon the mode of use of streets under § 9178.

State v. Telephone Co., 14 C. C. 273; 7 C. D. 536 (1897).

Rights on expiration of franchise.

See State v. Telephone Co., 14 C. C. 273; 7 C. D. 536 (1897); s. c., 11 C. C. 55; 5 C. D. 311 (1895).

Gas Co. v. Akron, 81 O. S. 33.

A franchise for telephone conduits, not accepted by the company, may be revoked by the council. State v. Norwood, 23 C. C. n. s. 145 (1915). See also Cincinnati v. Electric Co., 26 W. L. B. 104 (1890).

A franchise, illegally passed, may be valid as a license, and the construction of a line thereunder will not be enjoined at the suit of another telephone company. Telephone Co. v. Telephone Co., 16 N. P. n. s. 177 (1914).

An agreement in a franchise ordinance, providing for underground conduits, requiring the company to pay a percentage of its gross receipts to the municipality for the use of its general expense fund, to which the company assented, though under protest, is not invalid as an assessment for general revenue in the nature of a tax. Telephone Co. v. Columbus, 88 O. S. 466 (1913); affirming, 10 N. P. n. s. 433; 21 L. D. 273.

Certificate of necessity from public utilities commission, when essential, see § 614-52.

Outside of municipalities. County commissioners can not grant permission to construct lines along public roads, except subject to the limitation of this section and § 9180 that such use of the road "shall not incommode the public in the use thereof."

Ganz v. Telegraph Co., 140 Fed. 692 (C. C. A. 1905).

The statutes of Ohio grant to telegraph companies secondary and subordinate rather than co-ordinate rights, with travelers.

Daily v. State, 51 O. S. 348, 358 (1894).

Underground conduits outside of municipalities, see § 9170-1.

Lines on inter-county highways and market roads. See Opins. Atty. Gen. 1916, p. 691

Joint use of poles. An electric light company, which erected its pole lines in streets before municipalities were authorized by law to grant franchises therefor, and which occupies streets merely by license of the municipality, can not enjoin other companies from stringing wires on its poles, under an ordinance of the municipality granting such right to the other companies, upon payment of a fair proportion of the cost of erection thereof.

Brush, etc., Co. v. Jones, etc., Co., 5 C. C. 340; 3 C. D. 168 (1891); aff'd, no rep., 29 W. L. B. 72.

See Street Railway v. Light & Power Co., 10 C. C. 531; 4 C. D. 43 (1894); reversed without report, 51 O. S. 633.

An ordinance requiring companies, which by ordinance have acquired the right to erect poles, to permit other companies to string wires thereon, was held not to apply to a company which had acquired its right to erect poles by an order of the probate court.

Power Co. v. Electric Co., 23 W. L. B. 137 (Super. Ct. Cin.).

See Brush, etc., Co. v. Jones, etc., Co., 5 C. C. 340; 3 C. D. 168 (1891).

A municipality can not compel an electric light company to permit the municipality to string wires on its poles, in the absence of a franchise stipulation to that effect. 12 O. L. R. 554 (Atty. Gen. 1915); Rep. Atty. Gen. 1912, p. 1783; Rep. Atty. Gen. 1914, p. 1750.

Removal or change of location of lines. When may be compelled. Permission to use streets and highways can not be granted by public authorities to a telegraph company, except subject to the statutory limitation that such use "shall not incommode the public in the use thereof."

A grant of permission will not preclude the public authorities from ordering a change of location of the lines, when, through changed conditions, their location incommodes the public. Such order for a change of location will not be interfered with by the courts unless an abuse of discretion is shown.

Ganz v. Telegraph Co., 140 Fed. 692 (C. C. A. 1905).

Power of municipality to permit private company to string wires on poles owned by municipality.

See Columbus v. Columbus, etc., Co., 4 N. P. n. s. 329; 17 L. D. 291 (C. P. 1906); same case, 78 O. S. 392).

Whether the grantee of a franchise, to erect poles and string an unlimited number of wires thereon, may permit other persons to string wires on such poles is doubtful.

In Newman v. Avondale, 31 W. L. B. 123 (C. P.) it was held that the grantee had a right to license others to string wires on its poles, without the consent of the municipality.

But in Toledo v. Telegraph Co., 107 Fed. 10 (C. C. A. 1901), it was held that a telegraph company could not authorize others to use its poles, without the consent of the municipality.

(See 103 Fed. 746; 44 W. L. B. 238, for opinion of the lower court; and 121 Fed. 734, for a subsequent opinion of the court of appeals.)

When two companies engaged in enterprises calling for the use of wires to carry electricity arrange for the joint use of a pole to sustain them, each company is, with respect to such use, charged with the same duty toward employees of the other as to its own.

Gas Co. v. Arch Deacon, 80 O. S. 27 (1909).

Telephone Co. v. Parmenter, 8 N. P. n. s. 147, 152; 19 L. D. 471 (C. P. 1908).

Where lines are constructed in a highway, without consent of an abutting owner, and without compensation first being made, such abutting owner is entitled to an injunction against maintenance and an order of removal.

Callen v. Electric Light Co., 66 O. S. 166 (1902).

Smith v. Telegraph Co., 2 C. C. 259; 1 C. D. 457 (1886).

Removal when land required by a corporation owner for other purposes, see § 9187.

Temporary removal, to enable building to be moved along or across street.

See Telephone Co. v. Parmenter, 8 N. P. n. s. 147; 19 L. D. 471 (1908).

Telephone Co. v. Swartz, 15 C. C. n. s. 529 (1912).

Ouster of company from streets. Where an agreement between a municipality and telephone company for the use of streets, has expired by limitation, the municipality can not oust the company until it is made to appear that no agreement for further use can be made, and that the company, after such failure to agree, delays unreasonably to apply to the probate court under § 9178.

State v. Telephone Co., 14 C. C. 273; 7 C. D. 536 (1897). (For prior opinion in same case, see 11 C. C. 55; 5 C. D. 311.)

In a quo warranto proceeding to oust a telephone company from streets occupied under an order of the probate court (§ 9178) on the ground that the company has established rates exceeding those prescribed by the court, on application of the company, the company is not estopped from denying the jurisdiction of the court to prescribe rates.

State v. Telephone Co., 72 O. S. 60 (1905).

Conflicting rights of telephone companies, street railways and others. The dominant purpose for which streets in a municipality are dedicated is to facilitate public travel and transportation, and a franchise granted to a telephone company to operate its lines along such street is subordinate to the rights of the public for the purposes of travel and transportation.

Railway Co. v. Telegraph Ass'n, 48 O. S. 390 (1891).

The fact that a telephone company operated its lines upon certain streets, prior to the operation of an electric street railway thereon, will not give the telephone company a right paramount to that of the public to adopt and use the most approved mode of travel thereon; and if the operation of the electric railway disturbs the working of the telephone system, the remedy of the latter will be to readjust its methods so as to meet the conditions created by the operation of such electric railway.

Railway Co. v. Telegraph Ass'n, 48 O. S. 390 (1891).

A change in location of poles and wires, which "incommode the public," may be ordered by public authorities although the inconvenience to the public may be caused in part by the operation of a street railway, constructed subsequently to the poles and wires.

Ganz v. Telegraph Co., 140 Fed. 692 (C. C. A. 1905).

Where it is necessary to move a telephone line, temporarily, to enable a building to be moved across the street, the expense of moving the wires must be borne by the house mover.

Telephone Co. v. Parmenter, 8 N. P. n. s. 147; 19 L. D. 471 (C. P. 1908).

Competing telephone companies, see G. C. § 614-52.

Liability. Where a pole is located by a telephone company in a road in such a position as to incommode the public, and unreasonably obstruct public travel, the company may be liable for an injury caused by a vehicle striking against the pole, where the driver was in the exercise of due care.

Monahan v. Telephone Co., 7 N. P. 95; 9 L. D. 532 (C. P. 1898).

Rights and remedies of abutting owners.

Additional servitudes. Poles and wires in a street constitute an additional servitude for which abutting owners are entitled to compensation.

Callen v. Electric Light Co., 66 O. S. 166 (1902).

But abutting owners can not compel the removal of poles, although trunk lines are carried thereon. Smith v. Central Power Co., 103 O. S. 681 (1921).

Underground conduits constitute an additional servitude.

Burns v. Telephone Co., 10 C. C. n. s. 307; 20 C. D. 74 (1907); aff'd, no rep., 76 O. S. 589.

But see, Stone v. Light Co., 9 N. P. n. s. 545; 20 L. D. 130 (C. P. 1909).

§§ 9198, 12645.

Additional cross arms placed on existing poles are not an additional burden. Smith v. Central Power Co., 23 N. P. n. s. 55 (1920).

Moving lines, to a location nearer to the side of the road than before, pursuant to an order from the state, is an additional burden. Bowman v. Telegraph Co., 23 N. P. n. s. 118 (1920).

Consent of the municipal authorities, to the construction of lines, does not affect the rights of abutting owners.

Callen v. Electric Light Co., 66 O. S. 166 (1902).

McLean v. Electric Light Co., 9 W. L. B. 65 (C. P. 1883).

Mantell v. Telephone Co., 20 C. C. 345; 11 C. D. 274 (1900).

See Stone v. Light Co., 9 N. P. n. s. 545; 20 L. D. 130 (C. P. 1909).

U. S. Rev. Stats. § 5263 does not authorize the taking of property rights of abutting owners, without compensation being first made.

Daily v. State, 51 O. S. 348 (1894).

See Ganz v. Telegraph Co., 140 Fed. 692 (C. C. A. 1905).

Appropriation of rights of abutting owners.

See note to § 9172.

Injury to trees.

See § 9173 and note.

Remedies of abutting owners. An abutting owner may enjoin the construction of pole lines, until compensation and damages shall be assessed and paid or secured.

Schaaf v. Railway Co., 66 O. S. 215 (1902).

Where poles are placed in a street without the knowledge of an abutting owner, and to the injury of his property, appreciable in character and amount, the owner is entitled to an injunction against maintenance and an order for removal of the same.

Callen v. Electric Light Co., 66 O. S. 166 (1902).

Smith v. Telegraph Co., 2 C. C. 259; 1 C. D. 457 (1886).

Mantell v. Telephone Co., 20 C. C. 345; 11 C. D. 274 (1900).

But where poles are being erected in order to furnish street lighting, under a contract with the municipality, an abutting owner is not entitled to an injunction, although a portion of the current to be carried over the lines is for private use, provided the additional use does not impair the owner's property. Huss v. Toledo Co., 25 C. C. n. s. 44; 26 C. D. 181 (1915).

An abutting owner, who has submitted or consented to the maintenance of poles and wires, is not entitled to an injunction against the placing of the wires in underground conduits, which are being substituted for the overhead system.

Burns v. Telephone Co., 10 C. C. n. s. 307; 20 C. D. 74 (1907); aff'd, no rep., 76 O. S. 589.

An abutting owner can not enjoin the stringing of an additional wire on a pole which had been continuously used for nine years.

Wirth v. Telegraph Co., 7 C. C. 290; 4 C. D. 601 (1893).

Action for damages.

See Telegraph Co. v. Smith, 64 O. S. 106 (1901).

Action to compel appropriation.

See §§ 11084, 11085.

Railroad Co. v. Williams, 35 O. S. 168 (1878).

Kramer v. Railroad Co., 53 O. S. 436 (1895).

Railway v. Pouchot, 4 C. C. 187; 2 C. D. 492; aff'd, 51 O. S. 571.

Estoppel. An abutting owner is not estopped from asserting his property rights in the highway, by not resisting the erection of the lines at the time of construction. Mere acquiescence, for less than twenty-one years, does not work a transfer of such property rights to the telegraph company.

Daily v. State, 51 O. S. 348 (1894).

But acquiescence and failure to object may be a defense to a proceeding by the abutting owner to compel a removal of the line.

Daily v. State, 51 O. S. 348, 363, 364 (1894).

See Burns v. Telephone Co., 10 C. C. n. s. 307; 20 C. D. 74 (1907); aff'd, no rep., 76 O. S. 589.

Wirth v. Telegraph Co., 7 C. C. 290; 4 C. D. 601 (1893).

Consent of an abutting owner to the construction of a line, followed by the construction and maintenance of the line, may be binding on the grantee of such abutting owner.

Telephone Co. v. Hughes, 14 C. C. n. s. 468 (1911); aff'd, no rep., 88 O. S. —.

Wirth v. Telegraph Co., 7 C. C. 290; 4 C. D. 601 (1893).

Remedies of company. A telephone company having constructed a line in a highway, under an express agreement with the owner, may enjoy the destruction of such line by the grantee of such owner.

Telephone Co. v. Hughes, 14 C. C. n. s. 468; 23 C. D. 406 (1911).

Section 9170-1. (Use of highway.) A magnetic telegraph company may, subject to such reasonable regulations as the commissioners of the county may prescribe, construct telegraph lines and fixtures necessary for containing and protecting them beneath the surface of any public highway outside the limits of a municipal corporation, but shall not incommode the public in the use thereof. (May 31, 1911, 101 v. 432.).

Underground conduits within municipalities, see § 9198 and note.

Section 9171. (May acquire or construct other lines.) Such company may construct, own, use, and maintain a line or lines of magnetic telegraph, whether described in its original articles of incorporation or not, and whether such line or lines are wholly within or partly beyond the limits of this state. It also may join with another company or association in conducting, leasing, owning, using, or maintaining such line or lines, upon terms agreed upon between the directors or managers of the respective companies. Such companies may own and hold any interest in such line or lines, or become lessees thereof on such terms as they agree upon. But no such company or companies and the owner or owners of rights of way, shall contract for the exclusive use thereof for telegraphic purposes. (R. S. Sec. 3455; April 15, 1880, 77 v. 264; R. S. 1880; March 31, 1865, 62 v. 72, § 6; S. & S. 154.)

Right to permit other companies to string wires on poles, without consent of municipality, see note to § 9170, joint use of poles.

Contracts between local and long distance companies for exclusive interchange of business. A contract between a telephone company operating a local exchange, and a telephone company operating long distance lines, for the physical connection of lines and interchange of business for ninety-nine years, where partly performed, of material benefit to the party seeking its avoidance, and where the other party upon faith of, and in performance of, said contract, has made large expenditures, is held by state courts to be valid and binding.

U. S. Telephone Co. v. Middlepoint Home Tel. Co., 13 C. C. n. s. 337; 22 C. D. 17 (1910); affirming, 7 N. P. n. s. 425; 19 L. D. 202; affirmed, no report, 86 O. S. 319.

Such contracts, however, are held by federal courts to be invalid.

U. S. Telephone Co. v. Central, etc., Co., 202 Fed. 66 (C. C. A. 1913); affirming, 171 Fed. 130.

Such contract for exclusive interchange of business originating on the lines of one and destined to points reached by the other is within the purview of § 9171 and is not obnoxious to public policy, under the ruling of the state courts.

U. S. Telephone Co. v. Middlepoint, etc., Co., 13 C. C. n. s. 337; 22 C. D. 17 (1910); affirmed, no report, 86 O. S. 319; s. c., 7 N. P. n. s. 425; 19 L. D. 202.

Section 9182 requiring telegraph companies to receive and transmit dispatches from and for other lines, and made applicable to telephone companies by § 9191 does not apply to through verbal communication requiring physical connection of independent telephone lines.

U. S. Telephone Co. v. Middlepoint, etc., Co., 13 C. C. n. s. 337; 22 C. D. 17 (1910); aff'd, no rep., 86 O. S. 319.

Injunction is a proper remedy to restrain specific threatened acts in violation of such contract.

U. S. Telephone Co. v. Telephone Co., 13 C. C. n. s. 337; 22 C. D. 17 (1910); aff'd, 86 O. S. 319.

Power of public utilities commission to order connections, see § 614-63.

Contracts providing for discrimination in furnishing service. This section does not authorize a contract between two telephone companies providing that neither will operate in the territory of the other, or connect with each other's competitors. Such a contract is against public policy and illegal.

Telephone Co. v. Telephone Co., 12 N. P. n. s. 289 (C. P. 1911).

See also §§ 614-15.

A contract between a telephone company and the owner of telephone instruments providing that in the use of such instruments by the company discrimination shall be made as between telegraph companies is void as against public policy as declared by statute.

State v. Telephone Co., 36 O. S. 296 (1880).

Section 9172. (May appropriate land.) Such company may enter upon any land, held by an individual or a corporation, acquired by purchase or appropriation, or in virtue of any provision in its charter, for the purpose of making preliminary examinations and surveys, with a view to the location and erection of lines of magnetic telegraph, and appropriate so much thereof as is deemed necessary for the erection and maintenance of its telegraph poles, piers, abutments, wires, and other necessary fixtures, stations and the right of way over such lands and adjacent lands sufficient to enable it to construct and repair its lines. (R. S. Sec. 3456; March 31, 1865, 62 v. 72, § 1; S. & S. 153.)

The words "such company" in this section refers to an Ohio corporation and does not confer the right of appropriation upon a foreign corporation. A foreign telegraph company can not maintain a suit in federal court to appropriate a right of way for its lines in Ohio.

Telegraph Co. v. Railway Co., 94 Fed. 234; 10 O. F. D. 94 (C. C. 1899).

Telephone Co. v. Columbus Grove, 8 C. C. n. s. 81; 18 C. D. 131 (1905).

U. S. Rev. Stats. § 5268, does not authorize a telegraph company to appropriate a right of way. Such appropriation can only be made by virtue of a law of the state where the property is situated.

Telegraph Co. v. Railway Co., 94 Fed. 234; 10 O. F. D. 94 (C. C. 1899).

Telegraph Co. v. Railroad, 195 U. S. 540 (1904).

A telephone company seeking to appropriate property must prove its incorporation according to law, including the due and legal election of directors.

Telephone Co. v. Cincinnati, 73 O. S. 64 (1905).

What property may be appropriated.

Property of railroad company or other corporation, §§ 9174, 9175.
Use of streets, §§ 9178, 9179.

An abutting owner has a property interest in the street which can not be taken, against his will, without compensation being made in money or a deposit of money.

Callen v. Electric Light Co., 66 O. S. 166 (1902).

Tannian v. Telegraph Ass'n, 1 N. P. n. s. 81; 13 L. D. 730 (1903);
aff'd, no rep., 71 O. S. 478.

Smith v. Telegraph Co., 2 C. C. 259; 1 C. D. 457 (1886).

Mantell v. Telephone Co., 20 C. C. 345; 11 C. D. 274 (1900).

McLean v. Electric Light Co., 9 W. L. B. 65 (C. P. 1883).

Telephone Co. v. Cush, 14 L. D. 148 (C. P. 1903).

An abutting owner is entitled to compensation for injury to shade trees.
Daily v. State, 51 O. S. 348 (1894).

An abutting owner may enjoin the construction of poles and wires until compensation and damages shall be assessed and paid or secured.

Schaaf v. Railway Co., 66 O. S. 215 (1902).

See also, as to remedies of abutting owners, note to § 9170.

Compensation. For charge to jury prescribing method of fixing compensation for easement for poles, see Ohio Co. v. Guttridge, 59 Bull. 354.

A former statute (R. S. § 3461-2), providing for appraisers to assess the compensation, was held unconstitutional.

Telephone Co. v. Cush, 14 L. D. 148 (C. P. 1903).

Measure of compensation for railroad property, see note to § 9175.

Section 9173. (Limitation of authority to appropriate.)

Without the consent of the owner thereof, in writing, no such company shall enter a building or edifice, or use or appropriate any part thereof, or erect a telegraph pole, pier, or abutment in a yard or inclosure within which an edifice is situated, nor, in cases not hereinafter provided for, erect a telegraph pole, pier, abutment, wires, or other fixtures, so near to an edifice as to occasion injury thereto, or risk of injury, in case such pole, pier, or abutment be overthrown, nor injure or destroy any fruit or ornamental tree. (R. S. Sec. 3457; March 31, 1865, 62 v. 72, § 1; S. & S. 153.)

This section limits the right of occupation by the telegraph company, so that it may not interfere with buildings or enclosures of the owner.

Railway Co. v. Cable Co., 68 O. S. 306, 317 (1903).

This section does not authorize a competing telephone company to intervene in, or prosecute error to, a proceeding in probate court under § 9178 where it does not appear that its lines will be affected by the order.

Telephone Co. v. Telephone Co., 11 N. P. n. s. 424; 21 L. D. 241 (C. P. 1911).

Appropriation for the purpose of distributing wires.

See Telephone Co. v. Chagrin Falls, 1 N. P. n. s. 534, 539; 14 L. D. 449 (C. P. 1904).

Injury to trees. An abutting owner of property outside of a municipality, whose title extends to the center of the road, has a property interest in shade trees planted partly on his land, and partly in the line of the highway.

Daily v. State, 51 O. S. 348 (1894).

Such an abutting owner may enjoin the trimming of his trees, or the maintaining of the line in front of his premises, until compensation has been made. Reynard v. Telephone, 16 N. P. n. s. 191; 26 L. D. 313 (1913).

Employees of a telegraph company who heedlessly, recklessly and carelessly injure such trees may be criminally prosecuted under G. C. § 12490.

Daily v. State, 51 O. S. 348 (1894).

Where trees are trimmed to string wires for street lighting and for no other purpose whatever, it has been held that the abutting owner can not recover.

Ginsburg v. Union, etc., Co., 9 O. L. R. 18 (C. P. 1911).

In an action for damages for the wrongful cutting of shade trees, an oral license from a tenant not authorized to give it, and instructions from the company to its employees, if given in good faith, are competent to defeat exemplary damages, but not competent to prevent the recovery of full compensation.

Telegraph Co. v. Smith, 64 O. S. 106 (1901).

Section 9174. (Land held by another corporation.)

When lands sought to be appropriated for lines of magnetic telegraph are held by a corporation incorporated under a law of this state, whether by purchase or in virtue of an appropriation authorized by its charter or the law of this state, the right of the company to appropriate the lands is limited to such use of them as will not, in a material degree, interfere with the practical uses to which the company is authorized to put the lands under its charter. No company shall erect poles, piers, abutments, wires, or other necessary fixtures, in such close proximity to another line of magnetic telegraph authorized by law to be constructed as to interfere mechanically with its practical working. (R. S. Sec. 3458; March 31, 1865, 62 v. 72, § 2; S. & S. 153.)

In a proceeding to appropriate a part of the right of way of a railroad company, it is necessary for the probate court to determine and enter of record that the use will not, in any material degree, interfere with the practical uses to which the railroad company is authorized to put such right of way. The burden of proof of such fact is upon the telegraph company. Until such determination the probate court has no jurisdiction to order an appropriation and impanel a jury to assess the compensation.

Railway Co. v. Cable Co., 68 O. S. 306 (1903); reversing, 22 C. C. 555; 8 N. P. 121; 11 L. D. 52.

The measure of compensation to the railroad company is the amount of decrease in the value of the use of the right of way for railroad purposes, which will result from the easement appropriated and used by the telegraph company.

Railway Co. v. Cable Co., 68 O. S. 306 (1903).

This section does not authorize a competing telephone company to intervene in, or prosecute error to, a proceeding in probate court under § 9178, where it does not appear that its lines will be affected by the order.

Sidney Telephone Co. v. Farmers Telephone Co., 11 N. P. n. s. 424; 21 L. D. 241 (C. P. 1911).

Section 9175. (Land held by a railroad company.) The right of such company to use lands held by a railroad company, for the permanent structures of such telegraph, shall be limited to land which lies within five feet of the outer limits of the right of way thereof, if it is practicable to erect the line within those limits. When the company seeks to appropriate lands that lie beyond those limits, its petition shall set forth facts showing that it is impracticable to erect its line within such limits, and designate, either by a survey and map, or by reference to monuments, or by other means of easy identification, the place or places where the company seeks to establish the line. If it be controverted by the railroad company, the probate court shall determine whether the erection of the line at the place or places designated, in any material degree will interfere with the practical uses to which such railroad company is authorized to put the land. If satisfied that it will so interfere, the court shall reject the petition, or require the structure to be erected at such other place or places as it directs. (R. S. Sec. 3459; March 31, 1865, 62 v. 72, § 3; S. & S. 154.)

In a proceeding to appropriate a part of the right of way of a railroad company, it is necessary for the probate court to determine, and enter of record, that the use will not, in any material degree, interfere with the practical uses to which the railroad company is authorized to put such right of way. The burden of proof of such fact is upon the telegraph company. Until such determination the probate court has no jurisdiction to order an appropriation and impanel a jury to assess the compensation.

Railway Co. v. Cable Co., 68 O. S. 306 (1903); reversing 22 C. C. 555; 8 N. P. 121; 11 L. D. 52.

The measure of compensation to the railroad company is the amount of decrease in the value of the use of the right of way for railroad purposes, which will result from the easement appropriated and used by the telegraph company.

Railway Co. v. Cable Co., 68 O. S. 306 (1903); reversing, 22 C. C. 555; 8 N. P. 121; 11 L. D. 52.

Section 9176. (Limitation.) Nothing in this chapter shall be construed to authorize any company to appropriate the use of the track or rolling stock of a railroad company for transporting poles, materials, or the employes of such telegraph company, or for any other purpose. (R. S. Sec. 3459; March 31, 1865, 62 v. 72, § 3; S. & S. 154.)

Section 9177. (Land lying in more than one county.) Proceedings to appropriate lands to the use of such a company, against a defendant whose adjoining or continuous lands lie in more than one county, may be instituted in any county in which any part of the lands lie, and the damages shall be assessed, in one proceeding, in respect of all the lands of the defendant sought to be appropriated, whether lying in the county wherein the court is sitting, or in other counties. (R. S. Sec. 3460; March 31, 1865, 62 v. 72, § 4; S. & S. 154.)

Section 9178. (Appropriation proceedings by telegraph company.) When lands authorized to be appropriated to the use of such company are subject to the easement of a street, alley, public way, or other public use, within the limits of a city or village, the mode of use shall be such as is agreed upon between the municipal authorities of the city or village and the company. If they can not agree, or the municipal authorities unreasonably delay to enter into an agreement, in a proceeding instituted for the purpose, the probate court of the county shall, subject to the provisions of section eleven thousand forty-six of the General Code, direct in what mode the telegraph line shall be constructed along such street, alley, or public way, so as not to incommode the public in the use of it. (May 18, 1910. 101 v. 289; R. S. § 3461; March 31, 1865, 62 v. 72, § 5; S. & S. 154.)

This section should be read in connection with § 9172.

Zanesville, etc., Co. v. Zanesville, 20 C. C. 34, 38; 10 C. D. 783 (1900); affirmed, 64 O. S. 67.

This section does not apply to electric light companies, § 9192.

Electric Light Co. v. Electric Light Co., 5 C. C. 340, 345; 3 C. D. 168 (1891).

This section is constitutional.

Zanesville v. Telephone Co., 64 O. S. 67 (1901); affirming, 20 C. C. 34; 10 C. D. 783; overruling, 63 O. S. 442.

Agreement for use of streets.

See also note to § 9170, Construction of lines in streets and highways.

A municipality has no power to fix the rates for telephone service. A provision in an agreement for the occupation of streets, fixing the rates is not binding on the telephone company although the rates were fixed at the solicitation of the company and the company thereby obtained a benefit which it would not otherwise have obtained in a mode of use of the streets.

Farmer v. Telephone Co., 72 O. S. 526 (1905).

Macklin v. Telephone Co., 1 C. C. n. s. 373; 14 C. D. 446 (1902); (affirmed, Findley v. Telephone Co., 70 O. S. 507).

See Telephone Co. v. Los Angeles, 211 U. S. 264; 6 O. L. R. 610 (1908).

A stipulation in the ordinance requiring the company to pay a percentage of its gross receipts to the municipality, for the use of its general expense fund, to which the company assented, although under protest, is not an assessment for general revenue in the nature of a tax. Telephone Co. v. Columbus, 88 O. S. 466 (1912); affirming, 10 N. P. n. s. 433; 21 L. D. 273.

Failure to agree. Failure to agree must appear as a predicate to a proceeding under this section.

Telephone Co. v. Cincinnati, 73 O. S. 64, 77 (1905).

Where there has been no legal election of directors of a telephone company, it can not establish a failure to agree since a corporation can only act through its legally constituted officers.

Telephone Co. v. Cincinnati, 73 O. S. 64, 77 (1905).

A petition which does not show specific questions of difference between the company and the municipality, but merely alleges that they have failed to agree on the mode of use of the streets, and prays for a general judgment directing the mode of use, does not state facts justifying an order or judgment in its favor.

Telephone Co. v. Cincinnati, 73 O. S. 64 (1905).

Refusal of a telephone company to permit the municipality to fix its rates is not a failure of the company to agree upon the mode of use of streets under this section.

State v. Telephone Co., 14 C. C. 273; 7 C. D. 536 (1897).

Rejection by the municipality of an ordinance containing illegal provisions is not a failure to agree.

In re Co-operative Tel. Co., 41 W. L. B. 271; 9 L. D. 831 (Probate Court).

Where an agreement for the use of streets has expired by limitation, the municipality can not oust the company from such use until it appears that no agreement can be made, and that the company, after such failure to agree, delays unreasonably to apply to the probate court for an order under § 9178.

State v. Telephone Co., 14 C. C. 273; 7 C. D. 536 (1897).

(For former opinion in same case see 11 C. C. 55; 5 C. D. 311).

Delay for four months was held not unreasonable when it occurred during a period when acting bodies of the municipality were unconstitutional, and a new municipal code was about to become effective.

Telephone Co. v. Cincinnati, 48 Bull. 986 (Prob. Ct. 1901).

Proceeding in probate court. The proceeding authorized by this section is practically for an appropriation. It partakes of the character of an exercise of the right of eminent domain.

Telephone Co. v. Cincinnati, 73 O. S. 64, 77 (1905); affirming, 5 C.

C. n. s. 411; 17 C. D. 385; 2 N. P. n. s. 349; 15 L. D. 43.

The power of the probate court under this section is judicial in its character and not legislative, executive or administrative.

Zanesville v. Telephone Co., 64 O. S. 67 (1901).

Telephone Co. v. Cincinnati, 73 O. S. 64, 78 (1905).

An application for a franchise under this section is an adversary proceeding, in which, to obtain jurisdiction, the probate court must find affirmatively that application therefor has been made to the municipality and refused. This rule applies to the transfer of a franchise. The probate court can not transfer a franchise, previously granted, to another company by mere entry on its records.

Fitzsimmons v. Cincinnati, 47 Bull. 171 (Probate Ct. 1901).

Parties. A competing telephone company is not a proper or necessary party defendant. Nor can such competing company intervene in, or prosecute error to, the proceeding where it does not appear that its lines will be affected.

Sidney Telephone Co. v. Farmers Telephone Co., 11 N. P. n. s. 424; 21 L. D. 241 (C. P. 1911).

Pleading. The petition should show a defined plan for occupation of streets. The defendant is entitled to have the issue made as to each street, and as to the question of incommoding the public by the proposed use. Where the petition does not set out in detail the streets to be occupied, exact location of poles, character of poles, wires, etc., a motion to make definite should be sustained.

Telephone Co. v. Cincinnati, 73 O. S. 64, 66, 79 (1905).

Proof. It is incumbent on the company to prove its incorporation according to law, including the due and legal election of directors. Upon a plea of the general issue by the defendant, the burden is upon the company to establish such claim.

Telephone Co. v. Cincinnati, 73 O. S. 64 (1905).

Failure to agree must also appear. Ib.

Order. The probate court has no jurisdiction, as a part of its order, to prescribe the rates to be charged by the company for services. So much of the order as undertakes to determine the rates is void for want of jurisdiction.

State v. Telephone Co., 72 O. S. 60 (1905).

The probate court can not make an order granting the right to put wires and apparatus in underground conduits, in the absence of consent by the municipal authorities.

Telephone Co. v. Columbus, 88 O. S. 466 (1913); affirming, 10 N. P. n. s. 433, 437; 21 L. D. 273.

The probate court is not authorized to make any order that may be demanded. Unless issues showing specific questions of difference between the parties are presented, the court has no power other than to dismiss the petition.

Telephone Co. v. Cincinnati, 73 O. S. 64, 78 (1905).

The probate court has no power to make a general order prescribing the mode of use not only for the present, but providing for future necessities, and delegating to the board of public service power to make changes of location, etc.

Telephone Co. v. Cincinnati, 73 O. S. 64, 69 (1905).

See Cincinnati v. Electric Co., 26 W. L. B. 104 (1890).

The length of time during which the company shall use the streets can not be limited in the order.

Telephone Co. v. South Newburgh, 4 N. P. n. s. 624; 52 Bull. 173 (Probate Ct. 1907).

Nor can the moving of buildings across or through streets be provided for.

Telephone Co. v. South Newburgh, 4 N. P. n. s. 624; 52 Bull. 173 (1907).

Order granting right to erect poles subject to rights of other companies to string wires thereon.

See Power Co. v. Electric Co., 23 W. L. B. 137.

Error or appeal. Error, and not appeal, lies to the common pleas court from an order or decree of the probate court under § 9178.

Cincinnati v. Telephone Co., 2 N. P. n. s. 349; 15 L. D. 43 (C. P. 1904); aff'd, 73 O. S. 64.

Section 9179. (Compensation only for damages.) Nothing in the preceding section shall authorize a municipal corporation to demand or receive compensation for the use of a street, alley, or public way, beyond what may be necessary to restore the pavement to its former state of usefulness. (R. S. Sec. 3461; March 31, 1865, 62 v. 72, § 5; S. & S. 154.)

A municipal corporation has no private proprietary interest in its streets which entitles it to compensation for an authorized additional burden by the construction of a telephone line therein. But being charged with the duty of keeping the streets under its control in repair, it may be allowed compensation to an amount sufficient to make the repairs rendered necessary to such additional use. It is not essential that provision be made for the assessment of such compensation by a jury.

Zanesville v. Telephone Co., 64 O. S. 67 (1901).

An agreement requiring a telephone company to pay a percentage of its gross rentals to the municipality, in addition to restoring the streets to their former state of usefulness, is not invalid under this section where it provides for underground conduits as well as other construction.

Telephone Co. v. Columbus, 88 O. S. 466 (1913); affirming, 10 N. P. n. s. 433; 21 L. D. 273.

A municipality has no power to exact or receive compensation by way of free telephone service for itself or for citizens, or to fix rates for telephone charges.

Farmer v. Telephone Co., 72 O. S. 526 (1905).

Macklin v. Telephone Co., 1 C. C. n. s. 373; 14 C. D. 446 (1902); (aff'd, Findlay v. Telephone Co., 70 O. S. 507).

State v. Telephone Co., 14 C. C. 273; 7 C. D. 536 (1897).

Nor to require the company to permit the municipality to place police and fire alarm wires on the poles of the company.

In re Co-operative Telephone Co., 41 W. L. B. 271; 9 L. D. 831 (Probate Court).

Section 9180. (May construct lines any place that will not incommode the public.) Any person or persons may construct lines of electric telegraphs, from point to point, upon and along any of the public roads and highways, and across any waters within the limits of this state, by the erection of the necessary fixtures, including posts, piers, or abutments for sustaining the cords or wires of such lines. But they shall not be so constructed as to incommode the public in the use of the roads or highways, or endanger or injuriously interrupt the navigation of such waters. This provision shall not authorize the erection of a bridge across any waters of this state. (R. S. Sec. 3461-1; February 8, 1847, 45 v. 34.)

County commissioners can not grant permission to construct lines along public roads, except subject to the limitation of this section and § 9170 that such use of the road shall not "incommode the public in the use" thereof. Nor will a grant of permission by the board of commissioners preclude it, or a subsequent board, from ordering a change in location of the poles and wires if, at any time through changed conditions, their location should incommode the public in its use. Such order will not be interfered with by the courts unless an abuse of discretion is shown.

Ganz v. Telegraph Co., 140 Fed. 692 (C. C. A. 1905); reversing, 137 Fed. 947.

A former statute (R. S. §§ 3461-2, 3461-3) providing for the appointment of appraisers by county commissioners to assess damages was held unconstitutional.

Telephone Co. v. Cush, 14 L. D. 148 (C. P. 1903).

Section 9181. (Taxation.) The stock or value invested in lines of electric telegraph shall be subject to taxation, like other property in this state. (R. S. Sec. 3461-6; February 8, 1847, 45 v. 34, § 6.)

Taxation of telegraph and telephone companies.

Property tax, §§ 5449 to 5459.

Excise tax, §§ 5470 to 5492.

Section 9182. (Must receive and transmit dispatches of other lines.) Every company, incorporated or unincorporated, operating a telegraph line in this state, shall receive dispatches from and for other telegraph lines; and from or for any individual; and on payment of its usual charges for transmitting dispatches as established by the rules and regulations of the company, transmit them with impartiality and good faith, or forfeit one hundred dollars for each case of neglect or refusal so to do, to be recovered with costs of suit, by civil action in the name and for the benefit of the person or company sending or forwarding or desiring to send or forward the dispatch. (R. S. Sec. 3462; April 15, 1880, 77 v. 264; R. S. 1880; March 31, 1865, 62 v. 72, § 8; S. & S. 155.)

This section, although made applicable to telephone companies by § 9191, does not, when read in connection with § 9171, extend to through verbal communication requiring physical connection of independent telephone lines.

U. S. Telephone Co. v. Middlepoint, etc., Co., 13 C. C. n. s. 337; 22 C. D. (1910); aff'd, no report, 86 O. S. 319; s. c., 7 N. P. n. s. 425; 19 L. D. 202.

Compare Telephone Co. v. Telephone Co., 171 Fed. 130 (C. C. 1909); affirmed, 202 Fed. 66 (C. C. A. 1913).

This section and § 9183 are penal and should be strictly construed. A person on whose behalf a dispatch was sent, but who did not present it to the company and whose name was not signed thereto, is not a "person . . . sending" the dispatch under this section and can not recover the penalty. The sender is the person whose name is signed to the message; the one desiring to send is the one presenting the same for transmission; the one forwarding has reference to the telegraph company who forwards it upon its delivery from another company.

Kester v. Telegraph Co., 8 C. C. 236; 4 C. D. 410 (1894).

A recovery for mere delay is not authorized by this section or § 9185.

Hearn v. Western Union Tel. Co., 73 N. Y. Suppl. 1077; 34 Misc. 557 (1901).

Duty to furnish service without discrimination. This chapter requires telephone companies to receive dispatches from and for telegraph and other companies without discrimination.

State v. Telephone Co., 36 O. S. 296 (1880).

A contract between a telephone company and the owner of telephone instruments providing that in the use of such instruments by the company discrimination shall be made as between telegraph companies is void as against public policy as declared by statute.

State v. Telephone Co., 36 O. S. 296 (1880).

The use of patented property, like other species of property, when devoted to public use, is subject to control by state legislation, where the exigencies of the public welfare require it.

State v. Telephone Co., 36 O. S. 296 (1880).

Where two telephone companies agree to jointly serve the subscribers of both companies, equity will not enforce a contract which provides for any discrimination of service among those similarly situated.

Telephone Co. v. Telephone Co., 12 N. P. n. s. 289 (C. P. 1911).

Discrimination in rates.

See §§ 612-12 to 612-14.

State v. Union, etc., Co., 13 C. C. n. s. 12 (1910).

Liability.

Contracts limiting. While a telegraph company may, by special agreement or by reasonable rules and regulations, limit its liability to damages for errors or mistakes in the transmission and delivery of messages, it can not stipulate or provide for immunity from liability, where the error results from its own negligence; such a stipulation is contrary to public policy and void.

Telegraph Co. v. Griswold, 37 O. S. 301 (1881).

Hord v. Telegraph Co., 3 W. L. B. 147; 6 Am. L. R. 529 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1878).

A stipulation requiring a message to be repeated back, at an additional cost, in order to render the company liable for mistakes, is ineffective to relieve the company from liability for negligence.

Plaut & Isaac v. Telegraph Co., 8 N. P. n. s. 263 (C. P. 1909).

Telegraph Co. v. Griswold, 37 O. S. 301 (1881).

Hord v. Telegraph Co., 3 W. L. B. 147; 6 Am. L. R. 529 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1878).

But the validity of a limitation of liability on interstate messages is governed by federal law, and by that law a stipulation printed on the back of the blank, known to the sender, limiting the amount of recovery for mistake in an unrepeatable night letter to the amount received for sending the same, is reasonable and valid. The company is not liable for a larger amount in the absence of wilful misconduct or gross negligence. Telegraph Co. v. Jones, 7 Ohio App. 90; 28 O. C. A. 150 (1917); Postal Co. v. Warren Co., 251 U. S. 27 (1919).

A stipulation for non-liability for an unrepeatable message is valid in New York, and, where the message was transmitted from New York to Ohio, is a defense in Ohio.

Plaut & Isaac v. Telegraph Co., 8 N. P. n. s. 263 (C. P. 1909).

Where a stipulation provided that the company "assumed no liability for errors in cipher or obscure messages" it was held that the following message was not in cipher or obscure. "Will you give one fifty for twenty-five hundred at London. Answer it once as I have only till to-night."

Telegraph Co. v. Griswold, 37 O. S. 301 (1881).

For errors in transmission. A telegraph company is liable for errors in transmission of messages resulting from its negligence.

Telegraph Co. v. Griswold, 37 O. S. 301 (1881).

Telegraph Co. v. Cereal Co., 3 C. C. n. s. 259; 13 C. D. 516 (1902).

For non-delivery. See note to § 9185.

Parties. The addressee of a message may maintain an action for non-delivery.

Barrack v. Telegraph Co., 12 L. D. 78 (1899).

Damages. In case of failure to deliver a telegraphic message, the company is only liable for such damages as naturally flow from the breach of contract, or such as may fairly be supposed to have been within the contemplation of the parties at the time the contract was made.

Bank v. Telegraph Co., 30 O. S. 555 (1876).

Elden v. Tel. Co., 10 W. L. B. 28 (1883).

Special damages can not be recovered unless for injuries of such a nature as the terms of the message, or some circumstances attending its transmission, would suggest as likely to result from such failure.

Telegraph Co. v. Sullivan, 82 O. S. 14 (1910); reversing 11 C. C. n. s. 129.

See Hord v. Telegraph Co., 3 W. L. B. 147; 6 Am. L. R. 529 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1878).

Damages can not be recovered for mental pain and suffering, because of negligence in failing to transmit a message, unless accompanied with pecuniary loss or physical injury.

Morton v. Telegraph Co., 53 O. S. 431 (1895).

Kester v. Telegraph Co., 8 C. C. 236; 4 C. D. 410 (1894).

Kline v. Telegraph Co., 3 N. P. 143; 4 L. D. 224 (1896).

Kester v. Telegraph Co., 55 Fed. 603; 7 O. F. D. 545 (1893).

Where, because of a misunderstanding of the terms of a proposed contract between the parties, due to an error in the transmission of a telegram, the contract was not made, the measure of damages against the telegraph company is not the amount of loss sustained by the sender through failure to fix prices, as he had intended, but the amount of loss actually sustained in connection with the negotiation.

Telegraph Co. v. Akron Cereal Co., 3 C. C. n. s. 259; 13 C. D. 516 (1902).

See Barrack v. Telegraph Co., 12 L. D. 78 (1899).

Where no actual damages are proved, nominal damages may be recovered.

Bank v. Telegraph Co., 30 O. S. 555 (1876).

Burden of proof. Where, in an action against the company for damages resulting from an inaccurate transmission of a message, such inaccuracy is made to appear, the burden of proof is upon the company to show that the mistake resulted without fault or negligence on its part.

Telegraph Co. v. Griswold, 37 O. S. 301 (1881).

Barrack v. Telegraph Co., 12 L. D. 78 (1899).

But, in an action based on delay in delivery of a message, no presumption of such delay can be indulged where it does not appear that the addressee, or some one representing him, was at the place designated for delivery.

Telegraph Co. v. Sullivan, 82 O. S. 14 (1910); reversing 11 C. C. n. s. 129.

Section 9183. (When company to forward dispatches.)

When a person sending a dispatch desires to have it forwarded over the lines of other telegraph companies, whose termini are respectively within the limits of the usual delivery of such companies, to the place of final destination, tenders to the first company the usual charges for the dispatch to the place of final delivery, the company shall receive it, and, without delaying the dispatch, pay to the succeeding line the necessary charges for the remaining distance. The succeeding line shall accept it and forward the dispatch as if the sender had applied to it in person, and paid the usual charges. For the omission so to do it shall be liable to a like penalty, as provided in the next preceding section. (R. S. Sec. 3463; March 31, 1865, 62 v. 72, § 8; S. & S. 155.)

This section and § 9182 are penal and should be strictly construed. A person on whose behalf a dispatch was sent, but who did not present it to the telegraph company and whose name was not signed, is not the sender. Kester v. Telegraph Co., 8 C. C. 236; 4 C. D. 410 (1894).

Section 9184. (When agent to indorse dispatch.) When application is made to such company to send a dispatch, the officer, agent, clerk, or servant appointed by the company to receive dispatches at that station shall inform the applicant, and, if required by him, write upon the dispatch, that the line is not in working order, or that the dispatches on hand for transmission will occupy the time so that the dispatch offered can not be transmitted within the time required, if the facts are so. For an omission so to do, or for intentionally giving false information to the applicant as to the time within which the dispatch offered can be sent, the officer, agent, clerk or servant, and the company by which he is employed, shall incur the forfeiture provided in section ninety-one hundred and eighty-two. (R. S. Sec. 3464; March 31, 1865, 62 v. 72, § 8; S. & S. 155.)

Section 9185. (Transmitting and delivery of messages.) Every telegraph company, incorporated or unincorporated, operating a telegraph line in this state, shall transmit and deliver all dispatches in the order in which they are received for transmission or delivery, under the like forfeiture of one hundred dollars, as provided in section ninety-one hundred and eighty-two, except that arrangements may be made with the proprietors or publishers of newspapers for the transmission, for publication, of intelligence of general and public interest, out of its regular order, and dispatches by officers of the state or the United States, on public business, may have preference over all private business, when the public interest so requires. No company is required to deliver dispatches at a greater distance from the station at which they are received than is published in its regulations. If an applicant directs a dispatch to be mailed at the place of delivery, and offers to pay the necessary postage thereon, the company shall affix the proper postage stamp, and mail the dispatch in time for the first mail that departs after it is received at the office of delivery. For the omission so to do the company shall be liable to a forfeiture as provided in section ninety-one hundred and eighty-two. (R. S. Sec. 3465; March 31, 1865, 62 v. 72, § 9; S. & S. 155.)

Messages must be transmitted in the order of time they are received, and where messages are wilfully delayed, and preference given to another, liberal damages will be allowed.

Davis v. Telegraph Co., 1 C. S. C. R. 100 (1870).

A telegraph company is liable for failure to deliver a message. Where no actual damages are proved, nominal damages may be recovered.

Bank v. Telegraph Co., 30 O. S. 555 (1876).

The addressee of a message may sue for non-delivery.

Barrack v. Telegraph Co., 12 L. D. 78 (1899).

Where a message indicates on its face that prompt delivery is necessary, the company is charged with notice of such necessity and is liable for failure to make prompt delivery.

Telegraph Co. v. Porter, 33 W. L. B. 300 (1895).

See, also, 26 W. L. B. 138.

If the company is in default, but its default is made mischievous to a plaintiff only by the operation of some other intervening cause, such as the dishonesty of a third person, the rule, "causa proxima non remota spectatur," applies, and the company can not be made responsible for the loss occasioned by the act of such third party.

Bank v. Telegraph Co., 30 O. S. 555 (1876).

A recovery for mere delay is not authorized by this section.

Hearn v. Western Union Tel. Co., 73 N. Y. Suppl. 1077; 34 Misc. 557 (1901).

Liability generally, measure of damages, etc.

See note to § 9182.

Section 9186. (Transmission of a forged dispatch.) A person who knowingly transmits by a telegraph line any false communication or intelligence, with intent to injure a person, or to speculate in an article of merchandise, commerce, or trade, or with intent that another may do so, or knowingly sends or delivers a dispatch that is forged, or not authorized by the person whose name purports to be signed to it, shall be liable to the forfeiture provided in section ninety-one hundred and eighty-two. (R. S. Sec. 3467; March 31, 1865, 62 v. 72, § 11; S. & S. 156.)

Section 9187. (Removal of telegraph structures.) After the erection of a line of magnetic telegraph upon lands held by a corporation, if it has occasion to use the land upon which a telegraph pole, pier, abutment, or other fixture is erected, for a purpose authorized by its charter, the company shall remove the pole, pier, abutment, or fixture, to a convenient place designated by the corporation, upon reasonable notice, given in writing, and erect it in such new place, so as not to interfere with the practical uses to which the corporation is authorized to put the land. (R. S. Sec. 3468; March 31, 1865, 62 v. 72, § 12; S. & S. 156.)

Removal or change of lines in general.

See note to § 9170.

Section 9188. (Company may appropriate other land.)

If it is impracticable to erect a line of magnetic telegraph upon the lands of such corporation, in consequence of the uses to which it put the lands, the telegraph company may appropriate adjoining lands, by a separate proceeding for that purpose. (R. S. Sec. 3468; March 31, 1865, 62 v. 72, § 12; S. & S. 156.)

Section 9189. (When another corporation may enforce repairs.) After the erection of such telegraph line on the lands of a corporation, if it apprehends danger, or risk of danger, to its work or practical operations, in consequence of decay or defect in the mode of structure of any works of the telegraph company, upon five days' notice, in writing, it may require the company to repair such decayed or defective works. If the danger is imminent, so as not to admit of delay, the corporation without notice, may repair the defect, and recover the reasonable expense thereof, with costs of suit, before any court of competent jurisdiction. (R. S. Sec. 3469; March 31, 1865, 62 v. 72, § 13; S. & S. 157.)

Section 9190. (When companies may consolidate.) When two or more telegraph companies whose several lines are not parallel or in competition with each other, but which, united, will form a continuous line for receiving and transmitting dispatches, desire to consolidate into a single corporation, they may do so in the manner, and subject to the rules provided for the consolidation of railroad companies. (R. S. Sec. 3470; February 4, 1881, 78 v. 26; R. S. 1880: May 1, 1852, 50 v. 274, § 48; S. & C. 299.)

Telephone companies may consolidate in the manner prescribed by G. C. § 9028.

Rep. Atty. Gen. (1909-1910) 104.

The legislature having recognized, by the enactment of §§ 9190, 9191 and 9171, that combinations of telephone exchanges and lines are necessary in order to afford proper facilities for the public, a contract between a local and a long distance company for the physical connection of lines and exclusive interchange of business is not void as tending to create a monopoly.

Telephone Co. v. Telephone Co., 7 N. P. n. s. 425; 19 L. D. 202 (C. P. 1908); aff'd, 13 C. C. n. s. 337; 22 C. D. 17 (1910); 86 O. S. 319.

See, also, note to § 9171.

Approval of public utilities commission required for consolidation of telephone companies, § 614-61.

Section 9191. (Chapter applies to telephone companies.)

The provisions of this chapter apply also to a company organized to construct a line or lines of telephone; and every such company shall have the powers and be subject to the restrictions herein prescribed for magnetic telegraph companies. (R. S. Sec. 3471; R. S. 1880.)

Without this section the term "telegraph" as a mode of transmitting messages or other communications, is sufficiently comprehensive to embrace the telephone.

Railway Co. v. Telegraph Ass'n, 48 O. S. 390, 423 (1891).

Section 9170 is the foundation of the right of telephone companies to use the public roads of the state. The right is there given to telegraph companies, and, by this section, § 9170 is made to apply to telephone companies also, but subject to all the restrictions imposed by the chapter upon telegraph companies.

Telephone Co. v. Cincinnati, 73 O. S. 64, 79, 80 (1905).

Zanesville v. Telephone Co., 64 O. S. 67 (1901).

State v. Telephone Co., 36 O. S. 309.

Sections 9170 and 9180 apply only to telephone companies which are public utilities. Celina Tel. Co. v. Mutual Tel. Co., 102 O. S. 487, 493 (1921).

Construction of lines, rights of abutting owners, etc., see note to § 9170.

Section 9182, requiring dispatches to be received and transmitted from and for other telegraph lines, although made applicable to telephone companies by this section, does not, when read in connection with § 9171, extend to verbal communication requiring physical connection with independent telephone lines.

U. S. Telephone Co. v. Middlepoint, etc., Co., 13 C. C. n. s. 337; 22 C. D. 17 (1910); aff'd, no rep., 86 O. S. 319; s. c., 7 N. P. n. s. 425; 19 L. D. 202.

Compare, Telephone Co. v. Telephone Co., 171 Fed. 130 (C. C. 1909); affirmed, 202 Fed. 66 (C. C. A. 1913).

Certificate from public utilities commission required in certain competitive territory. See § 614-52.

Power to engage in telegraph or electric light business. One corporation may be formed for the purpose of building and operating both telegraph and telephone lines.

Rep. Atty. Gen. (1904-1905) p. 78.

Citing, Railway v. Telegraph Ass'n, 48 O. S. 390.

But a telephone company can not, by amendment to its articles of incorporation, acquire authority to furnish electric light and power.

Rep. Atty. Gen. (1908-1909) p. 102.

Consolidation. Telephone companies may consolidate in the manner prescribed by G. C. § 9028.

Rep. Atty. Gen. (1909-1910) 104.

Power to adopt regulations. A telephone company has power to adopt a regulation providing that service to a subscriber may be discontinued for the use of improper language. The printing of regulations on the contract for service, and in the telephone directory is a sufficient notice to subscribers.

Pugh v. Telephone Ass'n, 9 W. L. B. 104 (Dist. Ct. 1883).

Service may be discontinued under a rule prohibiting excessive use of a party line. Telephone Co. v. Hussey, 13 O. L. R. 77 (Municipal Court, 1915).

Whether a rule or regulation of a telephone company is reasonable is a question which must be raised before the public utilities commission, before it becomes a judicial question. Telephone Co. v. Hussey, 13 O. L. R. 77, 79 (Municipal Court, 1915).

Duty to furnish service without discrimination. A telephone company is required to receive dispatches without discrimination, and a contract favoring one telegraph company as against another is void on grounds of public policy.

State v. Telephone Co., 36 O. S. 296 (1880).

The use of patented property, when devoted to public use, is subject to state control, whenever the public welfare requires it.

State v. Telephone Co., 36 O. S. 296 (1880).

Mandamus is the proper remedy to compel a company to furnish the proper instruments and service.

State v. Telephone Co., 36 O. S. 296 (1880).

State v. Telephone Co., 13 W. L. B. (Neb.) 185 (1884).

Rates. A municipality has no power to fix the rates for telephone service. A provision in an agreement for the use of streets, fixing the rates, is not binding on the telephone company, although the rates were fixed at the solicitation of the company.

Farmer v. Telephone Co., 72 O. S. 526 (1905).

Macklin v. Telephone Co., 1 C. C. n. s. 373; 14 C. D. 446 (1902); affirmed, Findlay v. Telephone Co., 70 O. S. 507.

See Telephone Co. v. Los Angeles, 211 U. S. 264; 6 O. L. R. 610 (1908).

Except where the franchise includes the right to use the sub-surface of the street for a conduit system. In such a case a stipulation fixing the rates is valid. Columbus v. Telephone Co., 28 O. C. A. 102 (1917); aff'd, no rep. 98 O. S. 454.

Nor has the probate court jurisdiction, in making an order under § 9178, to fix rates. Where the court attempts to fix rates, that part of its order is void for want of jurisdiction.

State v. Telephone Co., 72 O. S. 60 (1905).

Refusal of a telephone company to permit the municipality to fix its rates is not a failure of the company to agree upon the mode of use of streets under § 9178.

State v. Telephone Co., 14 C. C. 273; 7 C. D. 536 (1897).

Schedules of rates are required to be printed and filed with the public utilities commission. §§ 614-16 to 614-20.

Rates must be reasonable. §§ 614-12 to 614-14.

Power of public utilities commission over rates. §§ 614-21 to 614-23.

The public utilities commission, is empowered to fix telephone rates to the exclusion of a municipality having a home rule charter. Telephone Co. v. Cleveland, 98 O. S. 358 (1918).

Section 9192. (Electric light, power and automatic package carrier companies.) Excepting sections ninety-one hundred and seventy-eight and ninety-one hundred and seventy-nine, so far as applicable, the provisions of this chapter shall apply to companies organized for the purpose of supplying public and private buildings, manufacturing establishments, streets, alleys, lanes, lands, squares and public places with electric light and power, or an automatic package carrier. Save what are given by such excepted sections, every such company shall have the powers and be subject to the restrictions herein prescribed for magnetic telegraph companies. (R. S. Sec. 3471a; April 21, 1896, 92 v. 204; January 26, 1887, 84 v. 7.)

A corporation may be formed to furnish both electricity and gas for lighting purposes.

Pickard v. Hughey, 58 O. S. 577.

Contracts with municipalities for public lighting, see § 3994, 9324 and notes.

Rates for lighting.

Power of municipality to regulate. § 3982.

Appeal to public utilities commission. §§ 614-44 to 614-46.

Contract with municipality as to. §§ 3983, 614-44 to 614-46.

Meter charges. § 3982.

Discrimination, rebates, etc., prohibited. §§ 614-14 to 614-15.

In the absence of an ordinance regulating the price of electric light (see § 3982), an electric light company may be compelled to furnish service at reasonable prices.

Railway v. Bowling Green, 57 O. S. 336 (1897); G. C. § 614-13.

Powers of electric light companies.

To require cash deposit from consumers. § 9334.

To manufacture and furnish artificial gas. § 9321.

To issue bonds, stocks, etc. §§ 614-53, 614-55.

Section 9193. (Municipal control of electricity. Exception.) In order to subject such companies to municipal control alone, no person or company shall place, string, construct or maintain a line, wire, fixture or appliance of any kind to conduct electricity for lighting, heating or power purposes through a street, alley, lane, square, place or land of a city or village without the consent of such municipality. This inhibition also extends to all levels above or below the surface of such public ways, grounds or places, as well as along their surfaces, but not to rights heretofore received through and exercised under, proceedings of a probate court. (February 26, 1910, 101 v. 14; R. S. Sec. 3471a; April 21, 1896, 92 v. 204; January 26, 1887, 84 v. 7.)

Penalty for violation of this section. § 12644.

Franchise not to be granted or transferred to foreign corporation. § 614-73.

Franchises generally, see §§ 3714, 9170. 9180 and notes.

Wires or conduits therefor can not be placed across streets, with the consents of abutting owners, but without the consent of the council of the municipality. Cincinnati v. Light Co., 4 Ohio App. 177; 21 C. C. n. s. 260 (1915); motion to certify record overruled, 12 O. L. R. 576.

Where an electric light company removes and dismantles a portion of its lines from streets, without consent of the municipality, and incapacitates itself from furnishing electricity for public lighting, it can not afterward resume occupation of the streets without consent of the municipality. Lighting Co. v. Upper Sandusky, 93 O. S. 428 (1916); aff'd, 251 U. S. 173.

A franchise to an electric light company which provides that it should not be binding on the grantee unless such grantee is granted the exclusive use of the streets for lighting purposes is invalid. A municipality has no power to grant an exclusive franchise, without clear legislative authority.

Illuminating Co. v. Mt. Gilead, 8 N. P. 669; 10 L. D. 235 (1900).

See Columbus v. Columbus Gas Co., 76 O. S. 309, 339.

Underground conduits can not be constructed without the consent of the municipality.

Telephone Co. v. Columbus, 88 O. S. 466 (1913); affirming, 10 N. P. n. s. 433, 441; 21 L. D. 273.

The construction of an electric plant, in connection with an interurban railroad, and on the same side of the traveled roadway, for supplying light, power and heat to consumers for profit is an additional burden, and may be enjoined until compensation is assessed, and paid or secured.

Schaaf v. Railway Co., 66 O. S. 215 (1902).

Section 9194. (Any penalty cumulative.) Any penalty provided by law for enforcing such inhibition shall be cumulative to other means open to the municipality by way of injunction or otherwise, and not exclusive. (R. S. Sec. 3471a; April 21, 1896, 92 v. 204; January 26, 1887, 84 v. 7.)

Penalty for violation of § 9193, see § 12644.

Section 9195. (Powers of electric light and power companies.) A company organized for the purpose of supplying electricity for power purposes, and for lighting the streets and public and private buildings of a city or village, may manufacture, sell and furnish the electric light and power required therein for such or other purposes, and with the consent of the municipality, under such reasonable regulations as it prescribes, also construct lines for conducting electricity for power and light purposes through the streets, alleys, lanes, lands, squares and public places of such city or village, by the erection of the necessary fixtures, including posts, piers and abutments necessary for the wires. All wires so erected and operated shall be covered with a water-proof insulation, and the poles, piers, abutments and wires so located and arranged as not to interfere with the successful operation of existing telegraph and telephone wires. (R. S. Sec. 3471-3; May 12, 1886, 83 v. 143.)

Franchise, see § 9193 and note.

Prior to the enactment of this section (May 12, 1886), there was no statute which expressly, or by fair implication, authorized municipalities to grant an electric light company the right to erect poles in streets. Such an ordinance passed prior to that date is invalid.

Brush, etc., Co. v. Jones, etc., Co., 5 C. C. 340; 3 C. D. 168 (1891); aff'd, no rep., 29 W. L. B. 72; (reversing 23 W. L. B. 329).

See Street Railway v. Light & Power Co., 10 C. C. 531; 4 C. D. 43 (1894); reversed without report, 51 O. S. 633.

Such an invalid grant, although accepted by the company and acted upon, did not prevent the municipality from revoking the privilege, or subsequently imposing other conditions.

Brush, etc., Co. v. Jones, etc., Co., 5 C. C. 340; 3 C. D. 168 (1891); aff'd, no rep., 29 W. L. B. 72.

Where a street franchise is sought for the purpose of selling electric current to a street railway at a point outside the municipality, and not for the purpose of distributing current to other consumers, the council may annex to the franchise a condition that no wires shall be attached to or connected with the wires of the company within the municipality or used under the grant without the consent of the council. Rep. Atty. Gen. 1912, p. 1924.

A requirement that other companies may string wires on the poles of the company to which a franchise is granted is probably a "reasonable regulation" under this section.

Brush, etc. Co. v. Jones, etc., Co., 5 C. C. 340, 346; 3 C. D. 168 (1891); aff'd, no rep., 29 W. L. B. 72.

See Street Ry. v. Light & Power Co., 10 C. C. 531; 4 C. D. 43 (1894); reversed 51 O. S. 633.

Where an electric light company occupies a street with poles under a franchise which does not provide for the joint use of such poles, the municipality can not compel the company to permit it to string wires of the municipal lighting plant thereon. Opins. Atty. Gen. 1915, p. 1750.

Power of municipality to permit private company to string wires on poles owned by municipality.

See Columbus v. Columbus, etc., Co., 4 N. P. n. s. 329; 17 L. D. 291; s. c., 78 O. S. 392.

Defective insulation. Liability. An electric light company is liable for injury to an employe of a telegraph company, caused by contact with wires of the telegraph company to which a powerful current of electricity had escaped from wires of the electric light company, if, in the exercise of ordinary foresight and the light of circumstances, such escape should have been anticipated by the light company as likely to occur.

Light Co. v. Rippon, 8 C. C. n. s. 334; 18 C. D. 561 (1906).

See Marsh v. Railway, 7 C. C. n. s. 405 (1905).

An electric light company is not liable for an injury to a lineman of a telephone company, who climbed a pole of the light company to adjust telephone wires strung above the wires of the light company, although the light company had failed to insulate its wires as required by § 9195, and although the lineman followed an established custom in climbing the pole.

Borck v. Gas & Electric Co., 5 N. P. n. s. 526; 18 L. D. 617 (Super. Ct. Cin. 1906).

Section 9196. (Prior contracts declared valid.) When contracts for electric lighting have been heretofore entered into in which there is an omission or error from want of conformity to the statutes of this state but which contracts have been made as herein required, and when by reason of the expenditure of money or labor in the performance of such contracts or on any other account, it is just and equitable fully to execute them, in such cases the courts are authorized to uphold such contracts as binding on all parties to them and to carry them into effect as though no such defect, omission or error existed, any law of this state to the contrary notwithstanding. (R. S. Sec. 3471-5; April 22, 1896, 92 v. 290, § 3.)

The legislature may, by subsequent law, validate acts or contracts made ultra vires by a municipality, if the act or contract might have been authorized by prior law.

Railway Co. v. Carthage, 18 C. C. 216; 9 C. D. 833; aff'd, no rep., 62 O. S. 636.

See Burgett v. Norris, 25 O. S. 308.

Kumler v. Silsbee, 38 O. S. 445.

State v. Hoffman, 35 O. S. 435.

Section 9197. (Ordinances, validity of.) Any company organized under the laws of this or of any other state, and owning and operating a telephone exchange, or doing a telegraph business, in any city or village in this state, may construct and maintain underground wires and pipes, or conduits and other fixtures for containing, protecting and operating such wires in the streets and public ways of such city or village in the state, when the consent of such city or village has been obtained therefor. Any ordinance of any village purporting to grant the right or privilege to any telephone or telegraph company to construct and maintain underground wires and pipes, or conduits and other underground fixtures for containing, protecting and operating such wires, in the streets and public ways of such village, and which grant has been accepted, or when money has been expended in good faith on account thereof, is hereby declared to be valid and effective, any law, or part of law, to the contrary notwithstanding. (March 23, 1909, 100 v. 85, §§ 1, 1a.)

This section and § 9198 authorize the fixing of telephone rates in a franchise which includes the right to use underground conduits as well as an overhead system. Columbus v. Commission, 103 O. S. 79 (1921); Columbus v. Telephone Co., 13 Ohio App. 232; 28 O. C. A. 102 (1917).

As underground conduits can not be constructed without consent of the municipality, the municipality may exact compensation for a franchise for the same; § 9179 does not apply to underground conduits.

Telephone Co. v. Columbus, 88 O. S. 466 (1913); affirming, 10 N. P. n. s. 433, 441; 21 L. D. 273.

Underground conduits constitute an additional servitude for which abutting owners are entitled to compensation.

Burns v. Telephone Co., 10 C. C. n. s. 308; 20 C. D. 74 (1907); aff'd, no rep., 76 O. S. 589.

Compare, Stone v. Light Co., 9 N. P. n. s. 545; 20 L. D. 130 (C. P. 1909).

Validity of curative acts. The legislature may by a subsequent law validate acts or contracts made ultra vires by a municipality, if the act could have been authorized by prior law.

Railway Co. v. Carthage, 18 C. C. 216; 9 C. D. 833; aff'd, no rep., 62 O. S. 636.

See Street Railway v. Horstman, 72 O. S. 93, 666.

Burgett v. Norris, 25 O. S. 308.

Kumler v. Silsbee, 38 O. S. 445.

State v. Hoffman, 35 O. S. 435.

Section 9198. (Consent, by whom to be given.) Consent of a city or village to the construction and maintenance of underground wires and pipes, or conduits and other fixtures therefor, by a company owning and operating a telephone exchange or doing a telegraph business, shall be given by the council in cities or villages. (R. S. Sec. 3471-2; March 23, 1909, 100 v. 85, 2; April 8, 1891, 88 v. 296.)

Underground conduits can not be constructed without the consent of the municipality. The probate court, in a proceeding under § 9178, is not authorized to grant such right to a telephone company.

Telephone Co. v. Cincinnati, 73 O. S. 64 (1905).

Penalty for erecting poles where subways are constructed, see § 12645.

Underground conduits, outside of municipalities, § 9170-1.

An agreement requiring a telephone company to pay a percentage of its gross rentals to the municipality is not invalid under § 9179, where it provides for underground conduits as well as other construction.

Telephone Co. v. Columbus, 88 O. S. 466 (1913); affirming, 10 N. P. n. s. 433; 21 L. D. 273 (C. P. 1910).

Underground conduits constitute an additional servitude, for which abutting owners are entitled to compensation.

Burns v. Telephone Co., 10 C. C. n. s. 307; 20 C. D. 74 (1907); aff'd, no rep., 76 O. S. 589.

Compare, Stone v. Light Co., 9 N. P. n. s. 545; 20 L. D. 130 (C. P. 1909).

CHAPTER 3.

SHIP CANAL COMPANIES.

§ 9199. Powers.	§ 9215. Compensation for land taken.
§ 9200. When a terminus is upon state line.	§ 9216. Issuing of bonds.
§ 9201. Change of line.	§ 9217. Borrowing money and securing loans.
§ 9202. Extensions.	§ 9218. Increase of capital stock.
§ 9203. May acquire lands.	§ 9219. Limit of stock and indebtedness.
§ 9204. May alter places or passages.	§ 9220. Principal office.
§ 9205. Power to make changes and relocate structures.	§ 9221. Where office of officers to be maintained.
§ 9206. May appropriate obstacles to use of canal.	§ 9222. Securities sold to directors under par, void.
§ 9207. Terminals, warehouses, etc.	§ 9223. When directors personally liable to stockholders.
§ 9208. May lease rights.	§ 9224. Consolidation.
§ 9209. May acquire vessels.	§ 9225. Consolidation of domestic and foreign companies.
§ 9210. May build, erect and operate dry-docks and machinery.	§ 9226. Provisions governing consolidations.
§ 9211. May acquire or build telegraph and telephone lines.	§ 9227. Protection of property; duties of officers, agents, etc.
§ 9212. When changes of public or private property made by company.	§ 9228. Company incorporated by another state or the United States.
§ 9213. Occupancy and use of stream.
§ 9214. Occupancy and use of highway or public ground.

Section 9199. (Powers.) A ship-canal company may lay out, construct, maintain and operate with any kind of motive power a ship-canal, together with all locks, dams, towpaths, branches, basins, tunnels, aqueducts, feeders to supply water from any lakes or rivers, reservoirs, cuttings, apparatus, appliances, and machinery it deems necessary, between the points named in the articles of incorporation. (R. S. § 3445-1; April 27, 1896, 92 v. 410, § 1.)

Section 9200. (When a terminus is upon state line.) When a terminus named in the articles of incorporation is upon the boundary line of the state, the directors of such company, on the location of the canal in the county where it so ends, shall make and file a certificate thereof, as by law is required of a railroad ending on such boundary line. (R. S. § 3445-1; April 27, 1896, 92 v. 410, § 1.)

Section 9201. (Change of line.) Such company may change the line or grade of its canal and branches thereof, and either of the proposed termini of such canal and branches, in the manner and subject to the provisions, conditions and limitations of law relating to changes of the termini, routes, lines, or grades of steam railroads. (R. S. § 3445-2; April 27, 1896, 92 v. 410, § 2.)

Section 9202. (Extensions.) Such company may extend its canal and branches thereof into and through an adjoining state, under the regulations by such state prescribed. The rights, powers and privileges of the company over such extension, in the construction and use of its canal and branches, in controlling the property and applying the money and assets thereof, shall be the same as if they were wholly in this state. (R. S. § 3445-2; April 27, 1896, 92 v. 410, § 2.)

Section 9203. (May acquire lands.) Such company may enter upon any land for the purpose of examining and surveying the lines of its canal and branches, and also, by purchase, appropriation or otherwise, acquire lands necessary for making, preserving, maintaining, operating or using its canals, other works and appliances. (R. S. § 3445-3; April 27, 1896, 92 v. 411, § 3.)

A company incorporated to construct a line of canal is engaged in making a public work, for which private property may be taken as in the case of other public uses.

Willyard v. Hamilton, 7 Ohio (2d part) 112 (1835).

A special act granting a special charter to a canal company and prescribing a rule of compensation and mode of ascertainment of the same, in appropriating property, was held to be abrogated by the constitution of 1851 and a new rule and mode prescribed.

Perrysburgh, etc., Co. v. Fitzgerald, 10 O. S. 513 (1860).

An appropriation of land by a canal company for the purpose of a canal, in the absence of any contract or statute to the contrary, will be presumed to have included land for a berme bank as well as for a tow path; and the exclusive power of the company over the land necessary for such bank is the same whether it consist of a natural or artificial deposit of earth.

Hatch v. Railroad Co., 18 O. S. 92 (1868).

Sale or abandonment of canal land.

See note to § 9208.

Where land appropriated for canal purposes is subsequently appropriated for railroad purposes the owner is entitled to compensation for the additional burden thereby imposed, and such damages as may result from the new use.

Vought v. Railway, 58 O. S. 123 (1898).

Hatch v. Railroad, 18 O. S. 92 (1868).

State canal lands. Title acquired under conveyances from the state.

See Railway Co. v. Nelson, 9 N. P. n. s. 56 (C. P. 1909).

State v. Fenn, 10 N. P. n. s. 325 (C. P. 1910).

Vought v. Railway, 58 O. S. 123 (1898); affirmed, 176 U. S. 469; 13 O. F. D. 234.

Section 9204. (May alter places or passages.) Such company may make, maintain, and alter places or passages over, under or through the canal, its branches and connections; relocate, alter, move, divert, rebuild or change the grade of a bridge, street, highway, turnpike, road, tramway, railroad, pipe line, conduit or other avenue of transportation, public or private, or of an electric telegraph or telephone line, electric wire, main, conduit, water, gas or steam pipe, sewer, drain, culvert or tunnel, the location of which lies in, on, across, under or contiguous to an intended canal or works, and which obstructs or interferes with their proper construction, maintenance or operation. (R. S. Sec. 3445-3; April 27, 1896, 92 v. 411, § 3.)

Section 9205. (Power to make changes and relocate structures.) By purchase, appropriation, or otherwise, such company may acquire all lands necessary for relocating and moving the aforesaid structures, and in like manner, obtain and use during the construction and operation of such canal and its branches, from rivers, streams, lakes, reservoirs and other sources of water supply adjacent thereto, water sufficient for the construction, maintenance and use of the canal, its branches and works, and also cause and keep up a current of three miles per hour in all the navigable channels of the canal; control the fluctuations of lakes, rivers, and creeks, by regulating and overflow dams and weirs; raise and lower the water surface in the lakes and rivers; control the flood waters of rivers and creeks adjacent to the canal or its branches, by directing or impounding them; divert or alter the course of a river, stream, or other water course, when necessary to their making, maintenance, or operation; and erect, maintain and operate dams, regulating dams, weirs, conduits, channels, diversion channels, cuttings, ditches, trenches, tunnels, reservoirs, basins, aqueducts, and other works necessary to the purposes of the company. (R. S. Sec. 3445-3, April 27, 1896, 92 v. 411, § 2.)

Section 9206. (May appropriate obstacles to use of canal.) Such company may condemn, appropriate, purchase or otherwise acquire and remove any dam, pier, wharf, bridge, causeway, trestle, wall, embankment, or other artificial work or natural obstacle which obstructs, interferes with, or threatens the free navigation or use and operation, and maintenance of its canal or branches, or the safe and easy entrance or exit of vessels to and from them. (R. S. § 3445-3, April 27, 1896, 92 v. 411, § 3.)

Section 9207. (Terminals, warehouses, etc.) Such company may construct, maintain and use, lease or otherwise dispose of terminals, harbors, wharfs, piers, docks, elevators and warehouses upon its canal, or on lakes adjoining or near to it, or connected therewith by waterways, natural or artificial. (R. S. § 3445-3, April 27, 1896, 92 v. 411, § 3.)

Section 9208. (May lease rights.) Such company may lay out and lease, or otherwise dispose of water-lots, and use, lease, sell or otherwise dispose of water brought by or for its canal, and produce, lease and supply, or otherwise dispose of hydraulic, electric, or other kinds of power in connection with its own works, and also erect, maintain and operate such structures, machinery or appliances, as are necessary to produce the power or force required to operate the canal and branches. (R. S. § 3445-3, April 27, 1896, 92 v. 411, § 3.)

Land acquired by a canal company, organized under a special charter, prior to the adoption of the constitution of 1851, authorizing it to acquire lands for its use by donation, grant or appropriation, without expressing the interest or estate to be acquired thereby, revert to the original owner, or his successor in title, upon the abandonment of the canal. The rule is the same where it afterwards disposes of its canal to the state.

Vought v. Railway, 58 O. S. 123 (1898); affirmed, 176 U. S. 469; 13 O. F. D. 234.

Where, however, the land is only abandoned by the state for canal purposes and is at the same time leased or conveyed to a railroad company for railroad purposes, the owner is only entitled to compensation for the additional burden thereby imposed, and such damages as may result from the new use.

Vought v. Railway, 58 O. S. 123 (1898); affirmed, 176 U. S. 469; 13 O. F. D. 234.

Where a canal company and a railroad company resort to the form of an appropriation merely for the purpose of consummating a purchase by the railroad company from the canal company of an easement in the land appropriated, and a railroad is constructed on the line and in place of the canal, this is not such an abandonment as will work a reversion to the original owner.

Hatch v. Railroad Co., 18 O. S. 92 (1868).

See Garlick v. Railway Co., 67 O. S. 223 (1902).

A special act authorizing a canal company to abandon a portion of its canal, is permission to surrender corporate power, not an attempt by special legislation to confer corporate power, and is therefore not in conflict with section 1, article 13, of the constitution.

Penna. Canal Co. v. Commissioners, 27 O. S. 14 (1875).

Vought v. Railway, 58 O. S. 123 (1898); affirmed, 176 U. S. 469; 13 O. F. D. 234.

Owners of lands abutting on a state canal, incidentally benefitted by its water or drainage facilities, can not, on such ground, enjoin the abandonment of the canal, or claim compensation therefor.

Vought v. Railway, 58 O. S. 123 (1898); affirmed, 176 U. S. 469; 13 O. F. D. 234.

Hatch v. Railroad Co., 18 O. S. 92 (1868).

Where a canal company organized under a special charter, which obligated it to repair bridges over the canal, was by a valid act permitted to abandon the canal and surrender its charter, it was thereby released from the obligation to repair bridges.

Penna. Canal Co. v. Commissioners, 27 O. S. 14 (1875).

But where such a company abandoned only part of its canal, it was not relieved from the obligation to keep in repair the parts of the canal not abandoned, nor from the consequences of failure to perform such duty imposed by its charter.

State v. Penna., etc., Co., 23 O. S. 121 (1872).

A canal company incorporated under the act of January 10, 1827 (25 O. L. 3) erected a dam, causing the water to flow back upon the lands of a proprietor above the dam. The company owned in fee simple, by purchase, the land upon which one half of the dam was built; and conveyed, in fee simple, to third persons, the land thus owned and granted to them the privilege of using surplus water of the dam not required for canal purposes.

Held, that the right to flow the lands of such proprietor, which the company acquired by appropriation, did not, by such conveyance, survive and vest in the grantees after dissolution of the canal company.

McCombs v. Stewart, 40 O. S. 647 (1884).

Section 9209. (May acquire vessels.) Such company may acquire, use, or dispose of steamers, tugs, boats, barges and other vessels for its canal purposes, and propel them in and through the canal by any kind of power or force, and also open, cut and make such ponds or basins for the laying up or turning of vessels, boats, or rafts using the canal, at such parts of it as the company deems expedient. (R. S. § 3445-3, April 27, 1896, 92 v. 411, § 3.)

Section 9210. (May build, erect and operate drydocks and machinery.) Such company may build and erect drydocks, slips and machinery therewith, for the hauling out and repairing of vessels, at its discretion; also, provide or make apparatus and appliances for the raising and clearing away of wrecked or sunken vessels, for the floating of sunken or grounded vessels, and lease or hire such instrumentalities on such terms as it sees fit, or operate them by its own servants and agents. (R. S. Sec. 3445-3, April 27, 1896, 92 v. 411, § 3.)

Section 9211. (May acquire or build telegraph and telephone lines.) Such company may construct, or acquire, maintain and operate electric telegraph and telephone lines, electric light poles, wires, machinery, and apparatus for the economic and convenient construction and operation of its canal and branches; also, by license, purchase, or otherwise, acquire the right to use any patented invention, proper for that purpose, and again dispose of them. The company further may do all such things as are necessary for the making, completing, maintaining or operating its canal and branches, and to the carrying out in other respects its objects. (R. S. § 3445-3, April 27, 1896, 92 v. 411, § 3.)

Section 9212. (When changes of public or private property made by company.) When such company finds it necessary to relocate, alter, move, divert, rebuild, or otherwise change a bridge, street, highway, turnpike, or other public or private avenue of transportation, or of an electric telegraph or telephone line, electric wire, main, conduit, water, gas or steam pipe, sewer, drain, culvert, or tunnel, it forthwith shall properly reconstruct whichever of these is moved or changed, on the most favorable location procurable, with the least possible interruption to its convenient use, and at the company's expense. (R. S. § 3445-3, April 27, 1896, 92 v. 412, § 3.)

Section 9213. (Occupancy and use of stream.) Such company may enter upon, occupy and use, a part or all of a river, creek or stream on and along the route of its canal and branches; enter upon lands on the route adjoining or in the neighborhood thereof, and appropriate so much as is deemed necessary therefor, including buildings and improvements mentioned in sections ninety-two hundred and three and ninety-two hundred and twelve both inclusive, and materials for construction, and rights of way to enable it to construct and repair its canal and branches. (R. S. § 3445-4, April 27, 1896, 92 v. 412, § 4.)

Section 9214. (Occupancy and use of highway or public ground.) If in the location of a canal, or branches thereof, it be necessary to occupy a public road, street, alley, way or public ground, or part thereof, the right to occupy and use it may be acquired in the manner, under the conditions and subject to the restrictions and obligations provided by law for railroads in like cases, which are hereby made applicable to ship-canal companies. (R. S. § 3445-5, April 27, 1896, 92 v. 413, § 5.)

Section 9215. (Compensation for land taken.) No appropriation of property to the use of such company shall be made until full compensation therefor is made in money, or secured by deposit of money, to the owner, to be assessed by a jury without deduction for benefits to any property owner, as prescribed by law. Such appropriation of property shall be made according to the provisions of law relating to the appropriation of private property by corporations. (R. S. Sec. 3445-6; April 27, 1896, 92 v. 413, § 6.)

Section 9216. (Issuing of bonds.) Such company may issue bonds, convertible or otherwise, bearing interest at not more than seven per cent per annum, to an amount not greater than the amount of its capital stock actually subscribed, for one or more of the following purposes: Completing or extending its canal, constructing branch canals, necessary buildings or improvements, enlarging or deepening its canal or branches, paying its unfunded debts, or redeeming its bonds. It may secure the bonds so issued by mortgage on its property, or otherwise, by complying with the provisions of the law authorizing railroad companies to issue bonds for similar purposes, which are hereby made applicable to ship-canal companies. (R. S. § 3445-7, April 27, 1896, 92 v. 413, § 7.)

Section 9217. (Borrowing money and securing loan.) Such company may borrow money on the terms, for the purposes, and subject to the conditions and restrictions, contained in the law governing the borrowing of money by railroad companies; and its mortgage or pledge to secure the payment of such loans shall be made, recorded, and the lien thereof attached as required and provided with respect to railroad companies. (R. S. §§ 3445-8, 3445-9; April 27, 1896, 92 v. 413, §§ 8, 9.)

Section 9218. (Increase of capital stock.) Such company may increase its capital stock whenever the directors think this necessary to the purposes of the company, by complying with the law which directs the steps to be taken by a railroad company in proceedings for increasing its capital stock; and such increased stock may be "common" or "preferred," on the conditions, and under the restrictions provided therefor, with respect to railroad companies. (R. S. § 3445-10; April 27, 1896, 92 v. 413, § 10.)

Section 9219. (Limit of stock and indebtedness.) But in no case shall the aggregate amount of the capital stock and bonded indebtedness of such company ever exceed the sum of six hundred thousand dollars per mile of its main and branch canals. (R. S. Sec. 3445-10; April 27, 1896, 92 v. 413, § 10.)

Section 9220. (Principal office.) As soon as convenient after its organization, such company shall establish a principal or general office at a point on the line of its canal, which it may change at pleasure, and give public notice of its establishment or change, in some newspaper published on its line, in this state. (R. S. Sec. 3445-11; April 27, 1896, 92 v. 414, § 11.)

Section 9221. (Where office of officers to be maintained.) The office of the president, secretary and treasurer of the company shall be kept at such principal or general office, or other point on the line of the canal in the state, and a record kept there of all the proceedings of the company, to be open at reasonable hours to the inspection of stockholders. (R. S. § 3445-11, April 27, 1896, 92 v. 414, § 11.)

Section 9222. (Securities sold to directors under par, void.) All capital stock, bonds, notes, or other securities of such company, purchased of it by a director thereof, either directly or indirectly, for less than par value, shall be null and void. (R. S. § 3445-12; April 27, 1896, 92 v. 414, § 12.)

See § 8798 and note.

Section 9223. (When directors personally liable to stockholders.) Such directors shall be liable in their individual capacity to the stockholders for any damage sustained by them by reason of negligence, mismanagement, or unfaithfulness in the discharge of their duties; but a director may exonerate himself by entering his protest upon the record against an act done without his concurrence from which injury is feared, and forthwith publishing it for three weeks in some newspaper printed and of general circulation in the county in which is the principal office of the company. (R. S. § 3445-12; April 27, 1896, 92 v. 414, § 12.)

See G. C. § 8788.

Section 9224. (Consolidation.) When the canals of ship-canal companies are so constructed as to permit the passage of ships, boats or vessels into and through any two or more of such canals continuously, without break or interruption, such companies may consolidate themselves into a single company. (R. S. § 3445-13; April 27, 1896, 92 v. 414, § 13.)

Section 9225. (Consolidation of domestic and foreign companies.) Any company organized in this state for the purpose of constructing, owning, maintaining and operating a ship-canal to the boundary line, or other point in or out of the state may consolidate its capital stock with the capital stock of a company in an adjoining state, organized for a like purpose, whose canal has been projected to the same point, if the several canals when constructed will be continuous. (R. S. Sec. 3445-13; April 27, 1896, 92 v. 414, § 13.)

Section 9226. (Provisions governing consolidations.) Such consolidation shall be made in accordance with the provisions of law authorizing and governing the consolidation of railroad companies and their roads. Such consolidated canal companies shall be entitled to the rights, benefits, and subject to the requirements and restrictions by law granted to or imposed upon railroad companies which have been consolidated, all provisions as to the latter, being hereby made applicable to the former. (R. S. Sec. 3445-14; April 27, 1896, 92 v. 414, § 14.)

Section 9227. (Protection of property, duties of officers, agents, etc.) Laws for the protection of railroads or their property, and relating to or enforcing the duties and obligations of officers, agents and employes of railroad companies, or to the appointment powers and duties of railroad police, shall be applicable to the canals, property, officers, agents and employes of ship-canal companies. (R. S. § 3445-15; April 27, 1896, 92 v. 414, § 15.)

Section 9228. (Company incorporated by another state or the United States.) Any company created under the laws of another state, or of the United States, for the purpose of constructing, maintaining and operating a ship-canal partly in such other state and partly in this state, with any kind of motive power, may exercise and enjoin herein all its powers, privileges, faculties and franchises for the purposes of such canal and its business, not inconsistent with the laws of this state. Such companies shall be entitled to the rights or privileges granted, and subject to the requirements or restrictions imposed by law on ship canal companies organized under the laws of Ohio. (R. S. Sec. 3445-16, March 31, 1906, 98 v. 151, § 15a.)

See Opins. Atty. Gen. 1915, p. 746.

CHAPTER 4.

TURNPIKE, OR PLANK ROAD.

- | | |
|---|--|
| § 9229. Powers. | § 9241. Rates of toll on limestone roads. |
| § 9230. Supplementary articles. | § 9242. Toll on certain roads from mines or quarries. |
| § 9231. Materials used in construction. | § 9243. Repair of roads in municipalities. |
| § 9232. May appropriate lands. | § 9244. Proceeding to enforce repairs. |
| § 9233. How right to use street or bridge acquired. | § 9245. Costs. |
| § 9234. Exceptions. | § 9246. Repair of roads outside of municipalities. |
| § 9235. Width and grade. | § 9247. Damages and forfeiture. |
| § 9236. Authority to collect toll. | § 9248. Costs. |
| § 9237. Extension to other improved road. | § 9249. Appeal by company from decision of justice of the peace. |
| § 9238. Forfeiture for evading gates. | |
| § 9239. Mile-stones. | |
| § 9240. Rates of toll. | |

- § 9250. Forfeiture for detaining travelers.
- § 9251. Fast riding or driving over bridges.
- § 9252. Obstructing roads.
- § 9253. How forfeiture recovered.
- § 9254. No toll-gate to be erected in city or village.
- § 9255. Compensation for removal of toll-gate and use of road.
- § 9256. May sell road or bridges to city or village.
- § 9257. Foreclosure of mortgage on road.
- § 9258. Appraisers; purchaser receives franchises.
- § 9259. How road surrendered to county.
- § 9260. How transfer evidenced.
- § 9261. Private sale of roads.
- § 9262. Sale to county commissioners.
- § 9263. When county commissioners may purchase toll-road.
- § 9264. How roads voted to be purchased, appraised.
- § 9265. The purchase and effect.
- § 9266. The issue of bonds for the purchase and their redemption.
- § 9267. Refunding of taxes and assessments to construct free turnpike.
- § 9268. Effect of accepting refund-er.
- § 9269. Bonds for purpose of re-funding.
- § 9270. Fees.
- § 9271. Effect of sale in one coun-ty on balance.
- § 9272. Transfer not to affect cred-itors.
- § 9273. Additional stock author-ized.
- § 9274. Companies may consoli-date.
- § 9275. May assist road which is an extension.
- § 9276. May assist intersecting free turnpike.
- § 9277. Accounts to be kept by county.
- § 9278. Books to be kept by com-pany.
- § 9279. Report of toll-gate keeper.
- § 9280. Directors' annual report.
- § 9281. Treasurer to hold no other office.
- § 9282. Toll-gate keeper agent of company.
- § 9283. How obstructing fences re-moved.
- § 9284. Company may assess stock-holders.
- § 9285. Notice of meeting for that purpose.
- § 9286. Proceedings at such meet-ing.
- § 9287. Collection of assessments.
- § 9288. Parties assessed for im-proved roads, may incor-porate.
- § 9289. Who to be stockholders.
- § 9290. Certificates of stock to be issued.
- § 9291. Powers of such companies.
- § 9292. May increase capital stock.
- § 9293. Proceedings for such pur-pose.
- § 9294. Company may divide road.
- § 9295. Proceedings to effect sub-division.
- § 9296. Reorganization of separate companies.
- § 9297. Names of new companies.
- § 9298. Roads may be sold on exe-cution.
- § 9299. Levy and appraisement.
- § 9300. When order for appraise-ment may be made.
- § 9301. Purchaser takes franchise.
- § 9302. Transcript to be filed with secretary of state.
- § 9303. Right to take toll may be sold on execution.
- § 9304. Certificate of sale and ef-fect.

Section 9229. (Powers.) A turnpike or plank-road company may construct a turnpike or plank-road, as named in its articles of incorporation, between the termini specified therein, and when it is so stated in the articles, may improve and hold more than one road, if such roads diverge from one point, or branch from each other in the course of their routes. (R. S. Sec. 3472; May 1, 1852, 50 v. 274, § 32; March 4, 1853, 51 v. 484, § 2; S. & C. 293; S. & C. 319.)

A turnpike company has no right to acquire and hold land in fee simple, when not necessary for the purposes of the company.

Turnpike Co. v. Railroad Co., 15 C. C. 268; 8 C. D. 269 (1898).

A municipality can not lay water or sewer pipe under the surface of a turnpike, without the consent of the turnpike company, until it acquires the right by appropriation.

Cincinnati Turn. Co. v. Avondale, 17 W. L. B. 294 (1887).

A turnpike company has no power by virtue of its easement to lay water pipes except to maintain its way or to benefit public travel. Such right rests in abutting owners, or their licensees.

Avenue Co. v. St. Bernard, 1 N. P. 85; 1 L. D. 99 (C. P. 1894).

A turnpike company can not grant a greater easement than it possesses. A street railway, laying tracks in a turnpike under a grant from the turnpike company, may be enjoined from impairing the right of access of an abutting owner.

McMaken v. Street Railroad, 5 N. P. 367; 5 L. D. 358 (C. P. 1897).

Voting rights of stock, formerly owned by the state, in turnpike company organized under a special charter.

See Harper v. Ampt, 32 O. S. 291 (1877).

Plank road companies organized under special charters prior to the constitution of 1851, which charters provided that the companies should be subject to all laws which might "thereafter be enacted, for the purpose of governing and regulating such companies generally in this state;" were held to be subject to general statutes providing for the repair of turnpikes.

Plank Road Co. v. Cotton, 12 O. S. 263 (1861).

See § 9246.

Turnpike or road a public highway. "While a turnpike may be owned and operated by a private corporation, it is still a public highway. A turnpike road can only be constructed and operated under authority of law, and when used by the public it becomes a public highway. The purpose and object of a turnpike is merely to provide a public highway of a better quality than would be furnished by an ordinary county road, and it is maintained by tolls instead of by public taxes. It is not in any sense a private road or way; it could not be closed by the stockholders or corporation against the public use; it is constructed under or by virtue of public authority for the use of every person who desires to pass over it, on the payment of the toll established by law, and its use is common to all who comply with the law. The easement enjoyed by the public in a turnpike road is vested in the public as much as that of a common highway. If for any reason the turnpike should be abandoned as such it would still remain a public highway." Cincinnati v. Leeds, 3 Ohio App. 123, 131; 20 C. C. n. s. 212 (1914).

Section 9230. (Supplementary articles.) Such company may file supplementary articles, for the specification and designation of an additional branch road connected with previous work constructed by it, and may unite with any other turnpike or plank-road company in maintaining and holding any road in common between them and divide the proceeds thereof in proportion to their respective interests. (R. S. Sec. 3473; March 4, 1853, 51 v. 484, § 3; S. & C. 319.)

Section 9231. (Materials used in construction.) In the construction or repair of its road, such company may make or construct a part thereof with stone, gravel, or plank, as one or the other material is most convenient for such part of the road. When plank are used they shall be two and one-half inches thick, cover enough of the road for the accommodation of teams, but may be placed in the center or on either side of the road. A change of material shall not impair the utility of the road, nor render it less valuable to the traveling public. (R. S. Sec. 3474; May 1, 1852, 50 v. 274, § 33; March 12, 1853, 51 v. 395; § 2; April 3, 1854, 52 v. 24, § 1; S. & C. 295; S. & C. 334; S. & C. 370.)

Section 9232. (May appropriate lands.) Such company, or its agents, may lay out, locate, survey and make its turnpike or plank road through improved or unimproved lands, on the best route between the points or places designated in the articles of incorporation, contracting for and paying the owners of the land over which the road passes the damage done thereto by laying out and making it, and for materials taken therefrom for constructing or repairing it. When the company and the owner can not agree as to the compensation, or if the owner is unknown or incapable of contracting, then such damages shall be assessed and paid in the manner prescribed by law. When any part of the road is rendered unsafe for travel by the current of a river, water-course, or other unavoidable cause, the company may change the location of the road at such place so far as necessary, and appropriate land therefor as above provided. (R. S. Sec. 3475; May 1, 1852, 50 v. 274, § 32; March 8, 1865, 62 v. 36, § 1; S. & C. 293; S. & S. 116.)

Where a company, incorporated for the purpose of constructing a plank road, was authorized by its charter to take possession of public roads for such purpose, and constructed its road, which was accepted by the proper public authority, and the company permitted to erect its gates, any part of a public road so taken was held to be withdrawn from the jurisdiction of the road supervisor, whatever liabilities the company may have incurred to individuals for failure to appropriate their interests in a legal manner.

Chagrin Falls, etc., Co. v. Cane, 2 O. S. 419 (1853).

See G. C. § 7300 (102 v. 117) and §§ 7298 to 7301.

The interest of the public in such roads, consisting in a perpetual easement for purposes of public travel, may, at the discretion of the general assembly, be transferred, without pecuniary equivalent, to a plank road company; such plank road still remaining a public highway. The company in such case becomes the assignee of the public and lawfully possessed of the same interest as the public had.

Chagrin Falls, etc., Co. v. Cane, 2 O. S. 419 (1853).

After a company has appropriated land sixty feet wide for the purposes of its road, and the resulting damages to the owners have been ascertained, it may, within the sixty feet, build a toll-house and dig a well for the accommodation of the toll gatherer.

Ward v. Turnpike Co., 6 O. S. 16 (1856).

Whether the freeholders, in assessing damages, formed erroneous conclusions as to the extent of injury by failing to estimate the detriment which a toll-house might occasion, can not, in the absence of any showing in the record of the basis of their award, be considered by the court. An action of trespass against the company will not lie for errors made in assessing damages.

Ward v. Turnpike Co., 6 O. S. 16 (1856).

Section 9233. (How right to use street or bridge acquired.) When, in laying out or building a turnpike or plank-road, such company deems it proper to enter upon and take possession of a road, street, alley, or bridge outside of a municipality, it shall present to the commissioners of the county in which the road, street, alley, or bridge is situated, a petition, signed by at least twelve citizens who live on or are interested in the road, street, alley, or bridge, and cause a notice to be published in some newspaper of general circulation in the county, for four consecutive weeks, of the object and prayer of such petition, that remonstrances may be made thereto. At their next meeting after the presentation of such petition, such notice having been given, the commissioners shall hear and determine it. If it appears to be for the interest of the community using the road, street, alley, or bridge, to have it used to construct such turnpike or plank-road thereon, the commissioners shall grant a permit, in writing, to the company to take and use it on such terms as they deem for the interest of the community; whereby the company shall acquire an exclusive right of way in such road, street, alley, or bridge. (R. S. Sec. 3476; March 29, 1866, 63 v. 61, § 4; S. & S. 141.)

A franchise for a specified term of years dates from the issuance of the permit by the commissioners and not from the subsequent action of that board granting the right to collect toll, under § 9236.

Commissioners v. State Road, etc., Co., 1 N. P. n. s. 143; 13 L. D. 747 (C. P. 1900); aff'd, no rep., 67 O. S. 554.

Planks placed in a road by a turnpike company under such a franchise can not be removed by the company after the expiration of its franchise.

Commissioners v. State Road, etc., Co., 1 N. P. n. s. 143; 13 L. D. 747 (C. P. 1900); aff'd, no rep., 67 O. S. 554.

See C. E. Ry. Co. v. Cleveland, 204 U. S. 116.

Forfeiture of franchise for failure to keep turnpike in repair.

See Turnpike Co. v. Waechter, 2 C. C. n. s. 21; 15 C. D. 605 (1903).

Section 9234. (Exceptions.) Nothing in the preceding section shall extend to roads, streets, alleys, or bridges within the limits of a city or village, nor to any macadamized road. (R. S. Sec. 3476 March 29, 1866, 63 v. 61, § 4; S. & S. 141.)

Section 9235. (Width and grade.) Turnpikes and plank-roads shall be opened not exceeding sixty feet wide, thirty feet of which must be cleared of brush and logs, and at least sixteen feet be made an artificial road, composed of stone, gravel, wood, or other convenient material, compacted together so as to secure a firm, even and substantial road. In no place shall the ascent in such a road be greater than five degrees. But when a company, licensed by the county commissioners as directed by law, has collected tolls on its road for ten years or upward, it may demand and receive such tolls thereon as are authorized by law, if the grade does not exceed seven degrees. (R. S. Sec. 3477; April 12, 1869, 66 v. 46, § 1; April 4, 1878, 75 v. 90, § 34; S. & C. 295).

Section 9236. (Authority to collect toll.) When a company has completed its road, or part thereof not less than three miles, and from time to time thereafter it has completed a further or continuous portion, it may apply to the commissioners of the county in which the finished road or part lies, or if it lies in two or more counties, to the commissioners of either of the counties, and they shall appoint three judicious, disinterested freeholders, who, on oath, shall examine it, and report their opinion to the commissioners, in writing. If they report that the road, or part thereof is completed, in accordance with this chapter, the commissioners, by license in writing, shall authorize the company to erect gates, at suitable distances, and demand and receive, of persons traveling the road, the tolls allowed by law. When any commissioner is a stockholder in the company making the application, the duties required of the commissioners shall devolve upon the probate judge of such county or counties. If such judge is a stockholder in the company, such duties shall devolve upon the common pleas judge of the district in which the road lies, or the judge of any of the districts within which it lies, in case it lies in two or more districts. (R. S. Sec. 3478; April 18, 1870, 67 v. 94, § 1; May 1, 1852, 50 v. 275, § 35; March 12, 1853, 51 v. 395, § 3; March 4, 1853, 51 v. 484, § 4; April 29, 1872, 69 v. 196, § 1; S. & C. 295; S. & C. 334; S. & C. 320.)

A franchise, granted by county commissioners under § 9233, for a specified term of years dates from the issuance of the permit by the commissioners and not from the subsequent action of that board granting the right to collect toll, under this section.

Commissioners v. State, etc., Co., 1 N. P. n. s. 143; 13 L. D. 747 (C. P. 1900); aff'd, no rep., 67 O. S. 554.

A demand for the toll is not necessary. The liability arises from passing the gate without payment.

State v. Neil, 7 Ohio (1 pt.) 132 (1823).

The right of taking toll is a franchise.

Seymour v. Turnpike Co., 10 Ohio 477, 480 (1841).

The right to take toll is property which can not be taken away without due process of law.

Turnpike Co. v. Waechter, 2 C. C. n. s. 21; 15 C. D. 605 (1903).

Turnpike Co. v. Parks, 50 O. S. 568 (1893).

The right to take toll can not be sold on execution in the absence of a statute authorizing such sale.

Seymour v. Turnpike Co., 10 Ohio 477 (1841).

See § 9303.

A reservation by the owner of land in granting a right of way for a toll road, that she and her descendants shall have the right to pass without payment of toll, does not create an estate running with the land.

Turpin v. Pike Co., 7 N. P. 12; 9 L. D. 668 (1899).

Toll gates within municipal limits prohibited. § 9254.

Section 9237. (Extension to other improved road.) A turnpike company, whose beginning point is in a turnpike road, and which has completed more than two and one-half miles, but less than three miles, thus connecting its road with an improved graveled road, or with another turnpike road, shall have all the privileges, and in all other respects conform to the requirements of the preceding section. But the county commissioners first shall authorize such privilege by a vote entered upon their journal. (R. S. Sec. 3478a; April 17, 1882, 79 v. 144.)

Section 9238. (Forfeiture for evading gates.) A person using such road, who, with intent to defraud the company, or to evade the payment of toll, passes through a private gate or bars, or along another ground near a turnpike or plank-road gate erected in pursuance of law, or practices any fraudulent or forcible means with intent to evade or lessen the payment of toll, for every such offense shall forfeit and pay five dollars, to be recovered with costs of suit and amount of toll due for passing through such a gate, before any justice of the peace of the county in which the offense was committed, without stay of execution. Such forfeitures when collected must be paid into the common school fund in the township in which the offense was committed. But nothing herein shall prevent persons using such roads between gates for common purpose. (R. S. Sec. 3479; March 22, 1881, 78 v. 77; Rev. Stat. 1880; May 1, 1862, 59 v. 101, § 37; S. & S. 149; S. & C. 296.)

Malicious injury to toll gates; evasion of toll; penalty. See § 12484.

Rights of abutting owners. An abutting owner may erect a bridge over ditch constructed by turnpike company for drainage purposes, in order to enter turnpike from his premises; but can not connect bridge with a private way and allow the public to use it as a "shunpike" to evade payment of toll.

Avenue Co. v. Bates, 2 C. C. 376; 1 C. D. 540 (1887).

An owner of land not abutting on turnpike, but on such private way, over which he has no right, has no right to erect such bridge.

Avenue Co. v. Bates, 2 C. C. 376; 1 C. D. 540 (1887).

An abutting owner has the right to lay water pipes under the surface of the turnpike. The turnpike company is entitled to compensation for injury to the surface, but is not entitled to an injunction to prevent the laying of such pipes, or under ordinary conditions to prevent a temporary disturbance of the surface.

Avenue Co. v. St. Bernard, 1 N. P. 85; 1 L. D. 99 (C. P. 1894).

The transfer of a public road to a turnpike company, duly made by law, can not be presumed to affect injuriously the rights of owners of the land over which it passes, and if such injury is claimed, it must be proved.

Chagrin Falls, etc., Co. v. Cane, 2 O. S. 419 (1853).

Miscellaneous. A municipality can not lay water or sewer pipe under the surface of a turnpike, without the consent of the turnpike company, until it acquires the right by appropriation.

Cincinnati Turnpike Co. v. Avondale, 17 W. L. B. 294 (1887).

Where a bridge company was organized under a special charter which required the rates of toll to be posted at each end of the bridge, it was held that the company could not compel payment of toll where the rates were not posted.

Bonham v. Taylor, 10 Ohio 108 (1840).

See § 9239.

Section 9239. (Mile-stones.) Each company shall put up a post or stone at the end of each mile, with the number of miles from some noted point or place, at one end of the road, fairly cut or painted thereon, and also place near each gate a board, with the rates of toll painted thereon. No toll shall be demanded unless such boards are kept. (R. S. Sec. 3480; May 1, 1852, 50 v. 274, § 38; S. & C. 296.)

Section 9240. (Rates of toll.) A company entitled to charge tolls may receive from persons traveling on or using its road, the following tolls, and no more, for every ten miles travel, and in the same proportion for any less distance, to-wit: For every four-wheeled carriage or other vehicle drawn by one horse or other animal, fifteen cents, and for each additional animal, five cents; for every sled or sleigh drawn by one horse or other animal, five cents, and for each additional animal, five cents; for every horse, or mule and rider, five cents; for every horse, mule or ass, six months old or upwards, three cents; for every head of neat cattle, six months old or upwards, one cent; for every head of sheep or hogs, one-half cent; for every stage-coach or omnibus, drawn by two horses or other animals, thirty cents, and for each additional animal, ten cents; for every two-wheeled carriage drawn by one horse or other animal, ten cents; and for each additional animal, five cents; and for every engine, wagon or other vehicle, drawn or propelled by steam or otherwise than herein provided, may charge and receive such rates of toll as their directors or boards of managers may from time to time direct, but not to exceed five cents per mile. (R. S. Sec. 3481; February 13, 1891, 88 v. 33; March 22, 1889, 86 v. 133; April 17, 1882, 79 v. 147; February 24, 1881, 78 v. 35; Rev. Stat. 1880; March 27, 1875, 72 v. 85, § 1; June 12, 1879, 76 v.

153, § 1; March 16, 1865, 62 v. 142, § 1; S. & S. 148; S. & C. 296.)

The classification of turnpike companies, made by this section and § 9241, is not unreasonable or arbitrary. These sections have a uniform operation upon all the members of each class and are constitutional.

State v. Turnpike Co., 37 O. S. 481 (1882).

Section 9241. (Rates of toll on limestone roads.) On all turnpike roads constructed of and kept in repair with two-thirds broken limestone the companies operating them may charge and receive for each ten miles travel thereon, and in the same proportion for any less distance, to-wit: For every four-wheeled carriage or other vehicle drawn by one horse or other animal, twenty cents, and for each additional animal, ten cents; for every sled or sleigh drawn by one horse or other animal, ten cents, and for each additional animal, five cents; for every horse or mule and rider, ten cents; for every horse, mule or ass, six months old or upwards, five cents; for every head of neat cattle, six months old or upwards, one and one-half cents; for every head of hogs, three-fourths of a cent; for every head of sheep, one-half cent, for every stage coach or omnibus, drawn by two horses or other animals, forty cents, and for each additional animal, ten cents; for every two-wheeled carriage drawn by one horse, fifteen cents; and for every engine, wagon or other vehicle, drawn or propelled by steam or otherwise than herein provided, may charge and receive such rates of toll as their directors or boards of managers from time to time direct, not to exceed five cents per mile. But persons going to and from their regular places of worship on the Sabbath, or to and from funerals, or elections, jurymen going to and returning from their attendance at court, and the troops and armies of the United States, and of this state, may pass on any road free of toll. (R. S. Sec. 3481; February 13, 1891, 88 v. 33; March 22, 1889, 86 v. 133, April 17, 1882, 79 v. 147; February 24, 1881, 78 v. 35; Rev. Stat. 1880; March 27, 1875, 72 v. 85, § 1; June 12, 1879, 76 v. 153, § 1; March 16, 1865, 62 v. 143, § 1; S. & S. 148; S. & C. 296.)

The classification of turnpike companies, made by § 9240 and this section, is not unreasonable or arbitrary. These sections have a uniform operation upon the members of each class and are constitutional.

State v. Turnpike Co., 37 O. S. 481 (1882).

Section 9242. (Toll on certain roads from mines or quarries.) A company incorporated for the purpose of constructing a turnpike or plank-road from a mine or quarto a railroad, canal, slack-water navigation or navigable water, macadamized road or place within or upon the borders of this state, when such road is completed, may charge and collect an amount of toll for teams, hauling the products of the mines or quarries on its road as its directors determine, not exceeding four cents per mile for two-horse teams, and an increase of two cents per mile for each additional horse. But such rates shall not be charged for teams hauling the products of mines or quarries for more than eight miles, nor shall other travelers on the roads be charged more than the ordinary rate of toll per mile as allowed by the two preceding sections. (R. S. Sec. 3481; 88 v. 33; 86 v. 133; 79 v. 147; 78 v. 35; Rev. Stat. 1880; 72 v. 85, § 1; 76 v. 153, § 1; 62 v. 143, § 1; [S. & S. 148; S. & C. 296].)

Section 9243. (Repair of roads in municipalities.) If such a company fails to keep any part of its road within the limits of a municipal corporation in repair for five days successively, the proper municipal authority may pass a resolution requiring it to repair the road within ten days after the service of a copy thereof on the gate-keeper nearest the municipality, and the company shall declare its intention to abandon or repair it. On failure or refusal so to do within thirty days, or failure or refusal to repair in ninety days, the municipal corporation may file a complaint in writing, with a copy of the resolution, in the common pleas court of the county, describing the portion of the road required to be repaired. The court, or a judge thereof then shall appoint two disinterested persons as inspectors, who shall view the portion of the road complained of, and return their finding thereon, under oath, to the court, within ten days. If they find the complaint to be true, the court shall declare that such portion of the road is abandoned by the company, and the municipality may improve or repair it and assess and collect the costs of the improvement or repairs in the way provided by law for the improvement of streets. (R. S. Sec. 3482; March 14, 1853, 51 v. 464, § 1; S. & C. 333.)

See Madisonville v. Turnpike Co., 17 W. L. B. 30 (1886).

Section 9244. (Proceeding to enforce repairs.) Notice of the complaint, and of the appointment and time of meeting of the inspectors, shall be served on the president or other officer of the company, or at its principal office, five days before the meeting. If such service be made by a person other than the sheriff, it shall be verified by the oath of the person making it. No toll shall be received at the gates for the portion of the road so declared abandoned, and if the keeper of any gate demands and receives such toll, he shall pay the sum of five dollars to the party injured, to be recovered by civil action before any justice of the peace having jurisdiction. (R. S. 3483; March 14, 1853, 51 v. 464, § 2; S. & C. 334.)

Section 9245. (Costs.) Costs of the proceeding on the complaint shall be paid by the company, if the action be sustained, but if not sustained by the municipal corporation, and execution shall issue therefor as in other cases. (R. S. Sec. 3483; March 14, 1853, 51 v. 464, § 2; S. & C. 334.)

Section 9246. (Repair of roads outside of municipalities.) If such company fails to keep its road in repair outside of a municipal corporation for five days successively, or fails to build or rebuild any of the bridges or culverts across the streams crossing its road for a period of six months, any person may file a complaint, in writing, before any justice of the peace of the county, setting forth the nature and extent of the defect complained of, and designating the place or places in the road where it exists. Upon at least three days' notice, to be given to the gate-keeper nearest the place complained of, the justice shall appoint two disinterested persons as inspectors, to meet at the place complained of within five days, and of the time and place of which meeting reasonable notice must be given to such gate-keeper. The inspectors shall then examine into the truth of the matter complained of, and if they find the complaint to be true, file with the justice a report of their finding, in writing, and send a certified copy of the complaint, and of their finding thereon, to the keeper of each of the gates between which the defective place or bridge is located. Thereafter no toll shall be received at such gates for the intermediate distance until the parts of the road found defective by the inspectors are fully repaired, or an appeal is taken as hereinafter provided. (R. S. Sec. 3484; April 9, 1878, 75 v. 106, § 1; March 11, 1867, 64 v. 51, § 1; [S. & S. 150, 151; S. & C. 335].)

County commissioners have no such interest as to entitle them to a writ of mandamus to compel a turnpike company to repair a bridge forming a part of such company's road.

State v. Turnpike Co., 16 O. S. 308 (1865).

A supervisor of highways has no power over plank roads, constructed by incorporated companies and placed by law under their control; nor could he justify interference with such roads, although directed by the township trustees.

Plankroad Co. v. Cane, 2 O. S. 419 (1853).

Revised Statutes, §§ 4914, 4916 and 4918, so far as they authorize probate courts to declare a turnpike road abandoned, without the right to a jury or the right of appeal, are unconstitutional.

Turnpike Co. v. Parks, 50 O. S. 568 (1893).

Turnpike Co. v. Gay, 50 O. S. 583 (1893).

A suspension of the right to take tolls, under §§ 9246 to 9249 is a taking of property.

Turnpike Co. v. Waechter, 2 C. C. n. s. 21; 15 C. D. 605 (1903).

Before the amendment of § 9249 (April 15, 1904, 97 v. 85) §§ 9246 to 9249 were held unconstitutional on the ground that no provision was made for a jury trial.

Turnpike Co. v. Waechter, 2 C. C. n. s. 21; 15 C. D. 605 (1903).

See Plank Road Co. v. Cotton, 12 O. S. 263 (1861).

The franchise of a turnpike company may be forfeited for failure to keep the turnpike in repair.

Turnpike Co. v. Waechter, 2 C. C. n. s. 21; 15 C. D. 604 (1903).

Section 9247. (Damages and forfeiture.) If the keeper of such gate demands and receives toll contrary to the preceding section he shall pay the sum of five dollars to the party injured, to be recovered by action before any justice of the peace having jurisdiction. The company shall be liable to any person injured, for the damages sustained by reason of such road or bridge being suffered to remain out of repair by its neglect. The justice shall record the complaint, and the report of the inspectors. (R. S. Sec. 3484; April 9, 1878, 75 v. 106, § 1; March 11, 1867, 64 v. 51, § 1; [S. & S. 150, 151, S. & C. 335].)

Cited, Turnpike Co. v. Parks, 50 O. S. 575.

Prior to the amendment of § 9249 (97 v. 85) this section was held unconstitutional on the ground that no provision was made for a jury.

Turnpike Co. v. Waechter, 2 C. C. n. s. 21; 15 C. D. 605 (1903).

Where the toll gate is closed at night, without lights or other warning, the company is liable for injury to a horse caused thereby.

Applegate v. Turnpike Co., 13 N. P. n. s. 486 (1912).

Section 9248. (Costs.) The inspectors and justice shall be entitled to one dollar per day for their services, which shall be paid by the company, if the complaint be sustained, but if it fails, then by the complainant. To the amount so taxed shall be added the expense of sending such notice to the gatekeepers, which shall be paid as herein provided, and for which the justice shall render judgment against the party liable for its payment. (R. S. Sec. 3484; 75 v. 106, § 1; 64 v. 51, § 1; [S. & S. 150, 151]; [S. & C. 335].)

Cited, Turnpike Co. v. Parks, 50 O. S. 575.

Prior to the amendment of § 9249 (97 v. 85) this section was held unconstitutional on the ground that no provision was made for a jury.

Turnpike Co. v. Waechter, 2 C. C. n. s. 21; 15 C. D. 605 (1903).

Section 9249. (Appeal by company from decision of justice of the peace.) If the sum necessary to make such repairs exceeds twenty dollars, the person or company owning the turnpike may appeal the proceeding, from the report and judgment as to costs, to the common pleas court of the county, on filing affidavit as to costs of repairs, and giving bond as in other cases of appeal, within ten days after service of a certified copy of the report of the inspectors. The condition of the appeal bond shall be to abide by and perform the order of the court of common pleas. If either party demands a jury to hear and determine the truth of the complaint, the court shall empanel one in the manner provided for empanelling juries in civil causes in such court, to hear and determine the truth of the complaint. If, upon hearing the evidence the jury find the complaint to be true and that the turnpike or portions thereof complained of are out of repair, the court thereupon shall make such order as to repairs as it deems just, or order that the collection of tolls be suspended pending the making and completion of the repairs. (R. S. Sec. 3485; April 15, 1904, 97 v. 85; April 9, 1878, 75 v. 106, § 1; March 11, 1867, 64 v. 51, § 2; S. & S. 151.)

Cited, Turnpike Co. v. Parks, 50 O. S. 575.

Prior to the amendment (April 15, 1904, 97 v. 85) this section was held unconstitutional on the ground that no provision was made for a jury trial.

Turnpike Co. v. Waechter, 2 C. C. n. s. 21; 15 C. D. 605 (1903).

Section 9250. (Forfeiture for detaining travelers.) If a toll-gatherer on a turnpike or plank-road unreasonably detains a passenger after the toll is paid or tendered, or demands or receives greater toll than is allowed by law on such road, he shall forfeit and pay a sum not exceeding twenty dollars, to be recovered, with costs of suit before any justice of the peace having jurisdiction thereof, without stay of execution. No suit shall be commenced against a toll-gatherer for a forfeiture incurred under this section, unless it be within twenty days from the time the penalty was incurred. (R. S. Sec. 3486; May 1, 1852, 50 v. 274, § 39; S. & C. 297.)

Section 9251. (Fast riding or driving over bridges.) No person shall carry fire across a wooden bridge, on a turnpike or plank-road, except in a lantern or close vessel, under a penalty of five dollars; nor shall he ride or drive a horse, or drive a stage coach or other vehicle, over such bridge, faster than a walk, under a penalty of two dollars.

But United States express mail shall not be subject to such penalty. (R. S. Sec. 3487; 39 v. 36, § 3; S. & C. 336.)

Section 9252. (Obstructing roads.) Whoever deposits wood, stone or other kind of material, on a turnpike or plank-road inside of the ditches thereof, or outside of the ditches, but so near thereto as to cause the banks to break into them, or causes the accumulation of rubbish, or any kind of obstruction, shall forfeit and pay the sum of five dollars. (R. S. Sec. 3488; 39 v. 36, § 5; S. & C. 336.)

Section 9253. (How forfeitures recovered.) All penalties and forfeitures incurred under the provisions of this chapter, are recoverable, with costs of suit, before a justice of the peace having jurisdiction thereof, and shall be paid into the treasury of the proper county, as in other cases. (R. S. Sec. 3489; 39 v. 36, § 6; S. & C. 336.)

Section 9254. (No toll-gate to be erected in city or village.) No such company shall erect a toll-gate, or collect tolls within a city or village, or within eighty rods thereof. When by the creation of a village, or extension of the limits of a city or village, a toll-gate is brought within the limits or within eighty rods thereof, the company shall remove the toll-gate to a point on its road not nearer to such limits than eighty rods. So much of its road as is included within the limits of such city or village shall thereby become a public street, to be kept in repair as other such streets. No toll shall be taken thereon. (R. S. Sec. 3491; March 23, 1869, 66 v. 36, § 1; April 4, 1878, 75 v. 90, § 34, S. & S. 841; S. & C. 339.)

